PREFACE

THE present volume contains the description of the Persian MSS. in the India Office Library exclusive of those dealt with in the Catalogue of Messrs. E. D. Ross and E. G. Browne (1902) and of the Delhi collection of MSS. The second volume, which is in a forward state of preparation, will consist of the following parts:

1. The description of a number of Additional Persian MSS., recently discovered in the Library.
2. A complete Index of the whole work in five distinct sections: (a) index of titles of books; (b) index of proper names of persons, authors, rulers, scribes, owners, &c.; (c) index of geographical names and ansâb; (d) general index of subjects; (e) index of dates or chronological register of historical and literary events.
3. A Conspectus of Manuscripts.
4. A concise statement on the various Collections of Persian MSS. in the Library and their origin.
5. A full List of Corrections and Additions.

As all the mistakes that have, inadvertently, crept into the text, will be rectified in the last-mentioned part, it will be sufficient to correct here only a few more serious errors or misleading statements, viz.:

No. 157: Imâm Mahdî, represented in the MS. as thirteenth Imâm, is, of course, identical with the twelfth, Abû-alḳâsim Muḥammad bin al-Ḥasan (see Safinat-alauliya, No. 647, 16).

No. 170 (and likewise Nos. 175 and 558): read جهانگشای for جهانکشای.

No. 190: read 'Abd-alsattâr bin Ḳâsim for 'Abd-alsattâr Ḳâsim, see No. 619.

No. 214: the Turkî Wâḳi'ât-i-Bâbarî, contained in this copy, and stated to be complete, is, as has been shown in Mrs. Beveridge's 'Notes on the MSS. of the Turkî Text of Bâbar's Memoirs' in J. R. A. S., 1900, pp. 439–475, rather defective, going down to p. 403 in Ilminski's edition and p. 352 in Leyden and Erskine's translation; this error has already been rectified in No. 2989 (col. 1625).

No. 216: the description of this MS. correctly applies to No. 217 (30 according to the original Press-mark); 2654, given as the original Press-mark of No. 216 in the Catalogue, contains a copy of the first volume of the Akbarnâma.

No. 287: the statement, that this collection was never met with before, is due to an oversight; it is found in Rieu ii. p. 838b.

No. 321: read 'Civil College' for 'Civil Collection.'

No. 400: A. H. 1137–1167, given as Shâhjahân's reign, must of course be 1037–1067 (or rather 1068).

No. 407: the names given in this MS. are very incorrect; they must be rectified by a collation with No. 449.

No. 409: read Mu'izz-aldîn Muḥammad bin Sâm Ghûrî for Mu'izz-aldîn bin Muḥammad Sâm Ghûrî.

No. 445: read دلگشا for دلکشا.

No. 506: read A. D. (1819–1849) for A. H.

No. 600: read Îltamish or rather Îltatmish for Altamish.

No. 605: read معارج النبوّة for معراج النبوّة.

No. 614: the author of the Arabic original is not Suhrawardî, who is mentioned himself as the last philosopher in the book, but Shahrazûrî, comp. H. Beveridge in J. R. A. S., 1900, pp. 550 and 551.

No. 619 (col. 251, l. 26): read بیواسطهٔ مرد for بواسطهٔ مرد.

No. 630, faṣl ix: read 'and was succeeded by the younger son of Câlabî Amîr 'Âbid, 'Âlim,' comp. ib. faṣl x, c. 2.

No. 647, 174: read Abû Turâb Nakhshabî for Abû Turâb Bakhshî; ib., 307, and No. 724, 1017: read Miyânaji for Miyânji.

No. 667 (col. 344, l. 7): read 'mystical love' for 'mystical lore.'

No. 724, 485: Al-'Âmir biaḥkâm-illâh reigned twenty-nine years, not nine; ib., 997: read Shâh Isma'îl II for Ibrâhîm II.

No. 828: read 'translated from Hindî' for 'translated from Hindûstânî.'

No. 1241 (col. 717, l. 10): read صفای for صفرای.

No. 1821 (col. 998, l. 3): read 1650 for 650.

No. 1850 (col. 1021, l. 35): read p. 17, No. 5, for p. 7, No. 5.

No. 2093: read Nos. 1574 and 1575 for Nos. 1074 and 1075.

No. 2792, VII, 9: read Harisah and هریسه for Ḥarisah and حریسه.

Incomplete or incorrect Press-marks are:

No. 275: 8. J. 6. = 3476. No. 276: 8. J. 3. = 3475. No. 279: 8. J. 5. = 2473. No. 283: 8. J. 8. = 3491. No. 286: 8. J. 9. = 2503. No. 357: 14. J. 11. = 3486. No. 511: 14. J. 23. = 3501. No. 848: 1481, read 481. No. 1000: 381, read 384. No. 1063: 2875, read 2815. No. 1236: 3124, read 3214. No. 1295: 3514, now 3535. No. 1462: 3514, read 3542. No. 1527: 3374, olim 13. J. 10, read 3474. No. 1730: 2148, now 3444. No. 2505: 10. J. 12. = 3305. Duplicate Press-marks are 3112 in Nos. 668 and 2833; 3520 in Nos. 942 and 2765.

The system of transliteration is the same as in my Bodleian Catalogue, viz.:

ا = ' (except at the beginning of words, where any distinctive mark appeared unnecessary).

ب = b	پ = p	ت = t	ث = th
ج = j	چ = ć	ح = ḥ	خ = kh
د = d	ذ = dh	ر = r	ز = z	ژ = zh
س = s	ش = sh	ص = ṣ	ض = ḍ	ط = ṭ	ظ = ẓ
ع = '	غ = gh	ف = f	ق = ḳ
ك = k	گ = g	ل = l	م = m	ن = n
و = w (occasionally v)		ه = h	ی = y

In transcribing Persian and Arabic words (also Turkish, Hindûstânî and Pushtû) the principle of representing Eastern orthography—not the pronunciation—has been followed.

In the following table of 'Contents' all single works or collected works of one and the same author, appearing in five or more copies in this Catalogue, as well as the larger collections of biographical accounts, and any other rare or particularly interesting and important book are specially mentioned under each chapter-heading, with the addition of those copies, found in the 'Additional MSS.' and the 'Appendix' at the end (columns 1524–1632). Only the contents of Chapter VIII (Poetry) of the 'Additional MSS.' (columns 1548–1580) have been given in full in their proper place, on account of their detailed subdivisions.

CENTRAL ARCHAEOLOGICAL LIBRARY New Delhi

CATALOGUE OF PERSIAN MSS.

A. HISTORY.

I. General History.

A succinct chronological list of all the rulers of the world, that is, in particular, of Îrân, Tûrân, and Hindûstân (تواریخ پادشاهان ایران و توران و هندوستان و غیره تمام جهان, see the colophon on fol. 19b), beginning with Gayûmarth (see fol. 6b, l. 1: اوّل تخت‌نشین جهان گیومرث از فرزندان بهلائیل بن قینان بود اورا سیاه نیز خوانند الخ), and concluding the list of the emperors of Dihlî with Muḥammadshâh (on fol. 14a). The remainder of this short tract contains the rulers of the Dakhan on fol. 14a, of Bijâpûr on fol. 15a, of Gujarât on fol. 15b, of Mâlwah on fol. 16a, of Bangâlah and Lakhnau on fol. 17b, of Jaunpûr, Multân, and Kashmîr on fol. 18b.

Dated in the month Âsin, in the year 1196 of the Bangâli era.

No. 3058, ff. 6–19, ll. 14–15; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 8½ in. by 6½ in.

Old copy of the Persian translation of Abû Ja'far Muḥammad bin Jarîr bin Yazîd al-Ṭabarî's general history, made at the request of the Sâmânide prince Abû Ṣâliḥ Manṣûr bin Nûḥ (A. H. 350–366 = A. D. 961–976) by Abû 'Alî Muḥammad bin Muḥammad al-Bal'amî in A. H. 352 (A. D. 963), comp. Bodleian Cat., Nos. 2–13; Rieu i. p. 68 sq.; W. Morley, p. 17 sq.; G. Flügel ii. p. 64, etc.; and Zotenberg's French translation in four volumes, Paris, 1867–1874. Beginning: سپاس و آفرین مر خدایرا که کامگار کامگاران و آفریننده زمین و آسمان وروزی دهندهٔ انس و جان آنکش نه همتا و نه انباز و نه دستور و نه یار و نه زن و نه فرزند است الخ.

Author's and translator's names on fol. 1b, ll. 8 and 9. A detailed index with the chronological tables on ff. 2a–4b. Creation of the world on fol. 4b, l. 5. This copy goes down to the reign of the Khalîf Almu'taṣim-billâh, who died A. H. 227 (A. D. 842), after which follows the usual abridged account of the succeeding Khalîfs down to Alnâṣir-billâh, with whose accession, A. H. 575 (A. D. 1180), the work concludes. There is no date, but the original portions of the MS., viz. ff. 13–129, 131–164, and 166–314, are very old, exhibiting all the common features of primitive Persian MSS., written in Naskhî. Ff. 294 and 311 greatly injured, portions of the leaves being torn away.

No. 2669, ff. 353, ll. 33; excellent Naskhî; ff. 1–12, 130, 165, and 315–353 supplied by a later hand; size, 11¼ in. by 8¼ in.

The same.

This excellent copy agrees upon the whole with the preceding one, beginning: سپاس و آفرین مر خدای را که کامگار کامگاران الخ.

The same chronological tables in the preface, but all except the first are left blank and not filled in. The first page is a little injured at the inner corner. The abridged continuation goes down, as in the preceding copy, to the accession of Alnâṣir-billâh, A. H. 575.

No. 738, ff. 401, ll. 29; very clear and equal Nasta'lîḳ; size, 15½ in. by 9½ in.

The same.

Beginning as in the preceding copies, but with some slight modifications, viz. سپاس و آفرین مر خدای را که (ا کامگار) کامگاران و آفریدهٔ زمان و زمین را آنکس کسی است که نه همتا بود و نه دستور الخ.

The names of author and translator in the preface on fol. 1b; also the full chronological tables. The copy goes down to the reign of Khalîf Almustaẓhir-billâh (who reigned A. H. 487–512 = A. D. 1094–1118).

Dated the 9th of Dhû-alḥijjah, A. H. 1025 (A. D. 1616, Dec. 18).

No. 125, ff. 617, ll. 21; written partly in Naskhî, partly in Nasta'lîḳ; illuminated frontispiece; size, 13½ in. by 9 in.

The same.

Beginning again slightly modified, viz. سپاس و آفرین مر خدای را که کامگار و بندهٔ پروراست و آفریدهٔ زمین و زمان الخ.

The preface contains, as in the preceding copies, the names both of author and translator, and the full chronological tables. The copy ends likewise with Almustaẓhir-billâh's reign. Between ff. 27 and 28 there is a lacuna, corresponding to No. 738 (3 in this Cat.), fol. 20b, l. 17–fol. 22a, l. 6. Fol. 411b is left blank.

Copied in the twenty-first year of (? probably 'Âlamgîr's reign = A.H. 1089 = A.D. 1678).

No. 318, ff. 608, ll. 21; unequal Nasta'lîḳ, written by several hands, as it seems; some lines here and there, especially Arabic quotations, in large Naskhî; many water-spots; size, 13 in. by 9½ in.

The same.

The beginning runs here thus: سپاس و آفرینش (read آفرین) مر خدای کامگار و کامرانرا و آفرینندهٔ زمین و آسمان را الخ.

The names both of author and translator appear on fol. 1b, ll. 6 and 7; but there are no chronological tables. The history of the creation begins on fol. 2b. The copy goes down to the death of Ma'mûn only, A.H. 218 (A.D. 833).

No date.

No. 2527, ff. 452, ll. 25 on ff. 1–333, ll. 26 on ff. 334–452; Nasta'lîḳ by two different hands, the second, resembling Shikasta, on ff. 334–452; all the Arabic quotations in Naskhî; illuminated frontispiece; size, 15½ in. by 10½ in.

The same.

This copy agrees upon the whole with the immediately preceding one, beginning: سپاس و ستایش مر خدای کامگار و کامرانرا و آفرینندهٔ زمین و سمان (read آسمان or زمان) الخ.

Author's and translator's names on fol. 1b, ll. 6 and 7. No chronological tables. The story of the creation begins on fol. 4a. This copy breaks off in the story of Bâbak (who first appeared A.H. 201 = A.D. 816); the rest is wanting. One of the missing leaves is represented by fol. 2, which has been by mistake inserted between ff. 1 and 3, the text of fol. 3 following immediately that of fol. 1. Small injuries throughout. Some English and French accounts of Ṭabarî's work on the fly-leaves. Among various entries on fol. 1a there is one from A.H. 1035 (A.D. 1625, 1626). Presented by Capt. J. Salmond, July 8, 1814.

No. 3310, olim 15. J. 8. ff. 672, ll. 21; careless and not seldom very incorrect Nasta'lîḳ; illuminated frontispiece; size, 10½ in. by 6½ in.

The same.

Another redaction of Bal'amî's version, agreeing with Morley's first copy, and beginning: الحمد لله العلی الاعلی الولی مر اولی الوفی ذی الاسماء الحسنی و الصفات الخ.

Comp. Ḥ. Khalfa ii. p. 136, and Bodleian Cat., No. 5. Ṭabarî's name occurs in the preface, prince Manṣûr's too, but not the translator's. It goes down to Almu'tasim's death in A.H. 227 (on fol. 703a), and is concluded by the same abridged continuation as most of the preceding copies.

Good old but undated copy. After fol. 651 a lacuna, as it seems.

No. 3315, olim 15. J. 9, ff. 725, ll. 21; Naskhî, the last twenty-four leaves supplied by another hand; injured in many places; size, 9½ in. by 6½ in.

The same.

Another, tolerably old, but undated copy of Ṭabarî's chronicle, completely agreeing with Morley's second copy and Fraser 131 in the Bodleian Library (Bodleian Cat., p. 5, No. 9). Like those two it consists of two portions, the first, on ff. 1b–309a (نصف اوّل), comprising the whole historia-anteislamica (including Muḥammad's birth, etc., on fol. 268a sq.), the second (on ff. 310b–718b) beginning with Muḥammad's genealogy and life and going down to the Khalîf Almustaẓhir-billâh. The names of the author, Ṭabarî, and of the Persian translator, Bal'amî, appear on fol. 1b, ll. 8–10, and in the subscription at the end on fol. 718a, l. 4 ab infra sq.

Beginning of the first portion, on fol. 1b: سپاس و آفرین مر خدای جهانیان و آفرینندهٔ زمین و زمان الخ.

Beginning of the second portion, on fol. 310b: الحمد لله ..... فصل در ذکر آغاز اخبار پیغامبر ما صلّی الله علیه و سلّم و یاران و (read او) رضی الله عنهم الخ.

On fol. 1a various entries from A.H. 1192 (A.D. 1778). Lacunas after ff. 15 and 21.

No. 1935, ff. 718, ll. 21; small but distinct Nasta'lîḳ; small and very effaced frontispiece on fol. 1b; worm-eaten; the first five and some of the last leaves considerably damaged; size, 10⅝ in. by 5¾ in.

The same.

This redaction is different again—it begins with a full index in four columns, on ff. 1b–3b (فهرست تأریخ طبری که بفارسی وزیر الخ). The work itself opens on fol. 4b in this manner: آفرینندهٔ زمین و آسمان را و آنچه بدو اندرست و پیدا کنندهٔ شب و روز را سپاس داریم برآن نیکوئیها که بندگان خویش را مخصوص فرمود الخ.

A few lines of a preface follow in which the names of the author, the translator, and the Sâmânide prince are quoted, and immediately on the same page the history itself, which is styled here تأریخ نامهٔ بزرگ, begins with the آغاز سخن. It is divided into two portions, the first of which, on ff. 4b–180a, contains the pre-Muḥammadan history. The second begins on fol. 181b with Muḥammad's birth: خبر ولادت پیغامبر ما محمّد مصطفی ..... قال النّبی صلّی الله علیه و سلّم وُلِدْتُ فی زمن الملك العادل انوشروان الخ, and goes down, as in most copies, to Almustaẓhir-billâh.

Fol. 1b is greatly damaged, especially the heading. Slight injuries throughout. The last leaf is partly torn out. Copied for the library of Nawwâbkhân Aminkhân bin 'Azizkhân, A.H. 1013 (A.D. 1604, 1605).

No. 747, ff. 467, ll. 27; Naskhî; size, 12 in. by 7⅞ in.

Three leaves are missing in the beginning; the copy opens abruptly thus (on fol. 8a): از آدم تا نوح واز ..... نوح تا ابراهیم واز ابراهیم الخ, corresponding to No. 2669 (2 in this Cat.), fol. 3b, last line.

Account of the creation on fol. 8b. The copy goes down to the reign of the Khalif Alḳâhir (A.H. 320–322 = A.D. 932–934). The proper order of ff. 1–9 is: 8, 7–2 (turned upside down), 1, 9; of ff. 195–202: 195, 200, 201, 198, 196, 197, 202; of ff. 610–613: 610, 613, 612, 611. In a few other places besides these the catchword does not agree with the beginning of the next page. Many corrections in the beginning. Worm-eaten throughout.

No. 2870, ff. 613, ll. 21; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 11½ in. by 7½ in.

A still more defective copy of the same.

This copy begins abruptly in the middle of the chronological tables, agreeing with No. 2669, fol. 2b middle, and breaks off towards the end of Bâbak's story; the last words on fol. 710b agree with No. 2669, fol. 351a, l. 4 ab infra. The account of the world's creation begins on fol. 17a, Muḥammad's life on fol. 331a. The proper order of the leaves is this: 1–678, 711–732, 757–762, 679–685, 733–756, 686–710.

No. 1888, ff. 762, ll. 21; clear and distinct Nasta'lîḳ; size, 12½ in. by 7½ in.

A large fragment of the same.

This copy contains only the second half of the work, from Muḥammad to the reign of Almustaẓhir-billâh, beginning abruptly thus: ... و حربهای او بسیاراست و اندر خلافت عمر گفته شد و تا بدان وقت الخ, corresponding to No. 738 (3 in this Cat.), fol. 178a, l. 11. The first heading which occurs here, in l. 4, is: آغاز پیغامبر ما محمّد مصطفی صلوات اللّه و سلامه علیه و الخلفاء و السلاطین و الملوك, agreeing with No. 738, fol. 178a, l. 14. The redaction of this as well as of the other two defective copies is the same as in Nos. 2669, 738, etc.

No date.

No. 340, ff. 396, ll. 25; distinct Nasta'lîḳ; size, 11¾ in. by 6½ in.

Ṭabaḳât-i-Nâṣirî (طبقات ناصری).

General history of the world, from the oldest times to A.H. 658 (A.D. 1259, 1260), beginning: الحمد للّه الاوّل الذی لا ابتداء لوجوده الآخر الذی لا انتهاء لجوده الخ.

The author's name is partly destroyed by worms; the remaining portion runs here thus: Abû 'Amr (عمرو, instead of the usual 'Umar) .... ân ('Uthmân) bin .... (Sirâj-aldîn) alminhâj aljûzjânî; comp. Bodleian Cat., No. 16; Rieu i. p. 72; W. Morley, p. 21 sq.; J. Aumer, p. 67; Elliot, History of India, ii. p. 259 sq., etc. The work was completed A.H. 658, see fol. 338a, ll. 11 and 12. The twenty-three ṭabaḳât are found here as follows:

I. The prophets, on fol. 3a.

II is not marked here; the first four Khalifs and the Imâms follow without interruption at the close of Muḥammad's life, on fol. 42b.

III. Here consequently styled الطبقة الثانية: the Banû Umayyah, on fol. 53a.

IV. Correctly styled الطبقة الرابع (number III is therefore left out altogether): the Banû 'Abbâs, on fol. 58b.

V. Not numbered as ṭabaḳah, but simply styled ذكر: the kings of Persia down to Yazdajird III, subdivided into five ṭabaḳât, on fol. 75a.

VI. The Tubba's and kings of Yaman, on fol. 100b.

VII. The Ṭâhirides, on fol. 110a.

VIII. The Ṣaffârides, on fol. 113b.

IX. The Sâmânides, on fol. 116a.

X. The Bûyides or Dailamîs, on fol. 127a.

XI. The Ghaznawides, on fol. 130b.

XII. The Saljûḳs, on fol. 141b.

XIII. The Sanjariyyah kings, on fol. 156a.

XIV. The kings of Nîmrûz and Sijistân, on fol. 160a.

XV. The Kurdish kings, on fol. 167a.

XVI. The Khwârizmshâhs, on fol. 174a.

XVII. The Shansabânîs and kings of Ghûr, on fol. 187b.

XVIII. The Shansabâniyyah kings of Ṭukhâristân, on fol. 225b.

XIX. The Shansabâniyyah Sulṭâns of Ghazna, on fol. 230b.

XX. The Mu'izzî Sulṭâns of Hindûstân, on fol. 243a.

XXI. The Shamsiyyah Sulṭâns of Hindûstân, on fol. 257a.

XXII. The Mulûk-alshamsiyyah, or the vassals and eminent men who served under the Shamsiyyah kings, on fol. 289a.

XXIII. On the inroads of the infidels, Cingizkhân and his descendants, on fol. 337b.

Dated at Sûrat the 8th of Sha'bân, A.H. 1113 (A.D. 1702, Jan. 8), by Ḥâjî Muḥammad Sharîf ibn Mullâ Muḥammad Sharîf ibn Mullâ Muḥammad Ṭâhir Ḥiṣârî. The middle part of the MS. contains a great number of pencil-notes in English and emendations to the Persian text. The first pages greatly injured. The main portions of the work, viz. ṭabaḳas XI, XVII–XXIII, have been edited by Capt. W. Nassau Lees, Calcutta, 1864 (Bibliotheca Indica, Series III). English translation by Major H. G. Raverty (in the same Bibliotheca Indica), London, 1873–1881.

No. 2553, ff. 402, ll. 19; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 9¾ in. by 5 in.

Another slightly defective copy of the same.

The beginning is missing. The author is called Abû 'Umar 'Uthmân bin Muḥammad bin Sirâj (in the text stood originally al-Minhâj, but this is struck out) aljûzjânî. His usual name, Minhâj bin Sirâj, is quoted here at the end.

The date, given in the last line of the last page, viz.

A. H. 650, is apparently a mistake for A. H. 658, comp. fol. 449a, l. 10: در تأريخ سنهٔ ثمان و خمسين و ستّمائه كه اتمام آن تأريخ و طبقات است.

The upper half of the first fourteen leaves is entirely torn away; in the following pages the damage is repaired by a later hand. Ff. 341–348 and 436 are also added by later hands. An entry from Rabí'-alawwal, A. H. 1157 (A. D. 1744, April–May), on fol. 1a.

No. 1952, ff. 450, ll. 19; Nasta'líḳ; size, 9½ in. by 5¼ in.

Niẓâm-altawârikh (نظام التواريخ).

An abridgment of general history from the beginning to A. H. 674 (see the date of the preface, viz. 21st of Muḥarram, 674 = A. D. 1275, July 17, on fol. 2b, last line but two), by the Ḳâḍî-alḳuḍât Nâṣir-almillah wa-aldîn Abû Sa'îd 'Abdallâh bin almaulâ ḳâḍî-alḳuḍât Abî-alḳâsim 'Umar bin al-Imâm al'allâmah Fakhr-alḥaḳḳ wa-aldîn Muḥammad bin 'Alî al-Baiḍâwi, the famous commentator of the Ḳurân (see fol. 2a, l. 8 sq.), and entitled نظام التواريخ (see fol. 2b, ll. 6 and 7). For further details we refer to the Bodleian Cat., Nos. 18–22; Rieu ii. p. 823; Notices et Extraits iv. pp. 672–699; G. Flügel ii. p. 60; Cat. Codd. Or. Lugd. Batav. iii. p. 1; Ḥ. Khalfa vi. p. 354; Elliot, History of India, ii. p. 252 sq., etc.

Beginning: حمد بی نهايت وشكر بی غايت مبدعی را كه بيك امر كن عالم ارواح و اشباح را پديد كرد الخ.

The work is divided into four ḳisms. Index on fol. 3a.

Ḳism I on fol. 3b: God's prophets and elects, from Âdam to Noah.

Ḳism II on fol. 6a: Old Persian kings, in four ṭabaḳât (Pîshdâdians, Kayânians, Ashkânians, and Sâsânians). This ḳism breaks off in the fourth ṭabaḳah with Nûshirwân bin Ḳubâd, on fol. 24b, in consequence of a large lacuna after fol. 24, which comprises not only the remainder of this ḳism, but also the greater portion of the first ṭabaḳah of Ḳism III (History of Muḥammad, the first four Khalífs, the Umayyades, and the 'Abbâsides, in three ṭabaḳât); it opens here on fol. 25a with the end of 'Alí's reign.

Ḳism IV on fol. 36b: Minor dynasties (read قسم چهارم instead of طبقهٔ چهارم), in nine ṭâ'ifas, viz. 1. Ṣaffârides, on fol. 37a; 2. Sâmânides, on fol. 38a; 3. Ghaznawides, on fol. 39b; 4. Dailamis, on fol. 42b; 5. Saljûḳs, on fol. 47b; 6. Ismá'îlis or kings of Ḳuhistân, on fol. 52b; 7. Salgharides, on fol. 54b; 8. Khwârizmshâhs, on fol. 60a; 9. Moghuls, on fol. 62b.

No date. On fol. 1a there are seals of former owners, with the dates A. H. 1051 (A. D. 1641, 1642), 1122 (A. D. 1710, 1711), and 1182 (A. D. 1768, 1769).

No. 1346, ff. 63, ll. 12; clear and distinct Nasta'líḳ; illuminated frontispiece; size, 7⅝ in. by 4½ in.

Jâmi'-altawârikh (جامع التواريخ).

The first volume of the general history of Rashíd-aldîn Faḍl-allâh bin 'Imâd-aldaulah Abû-alkhair bin Muwaffiḳ-aldaulah 'Alí, usually called Rashíd Ṭabîb, who was born at Hamadân, A. H. 645 (A. D. 1247), and executed A. H. 718 (A. D. 1318). The common title of the work is Jâmi'-altawârikh, but it is also styled Ta'rîkh-i-Mubârakghâzânî (see fol. 4b, l. 11), in honour of Sulṭân Maḥmûd Ghâzânkhân, at whose command the author began this work and finished it in Uljâitû's reign, A. H. 710 (A. D. 1310, 1311). The history is brought down to A. H. 703 (A. D. 1303, 1304); comp. Bodleian Cat., No. 23; W. Morley, p. 1 sq.; Rieu i. p. 74 sq.; G. Flügel ii. pp. 179–181; Elliot, Bibliogr. Index, pp. 1–47, and History of India, i. p. 42, and iii. p. 1 sq.; J. Aumer, p. 69; Journal of the Royal Asiatic Society, vi. pp. 11–41, and vii. pp. 267–272.

This first volume, a large portion of which has been published in text and French translation by Etienne Quatremère in his 'Histoire des Mongols de la Perse,' Paris, 1836, contains in two books the origin and history of the Turkish tribes and the history of Cingizkhân, his ancestors and descendants, to the end of Ghâzân-khân's reign. The preface begins here thus: حمد و ثناء فراوان وشكر و سپاس بی پايان مر آفريدگار بيچون و مبدع صنائع كن فيكون را جلّ جلاله الخ.

First book, on the Turkish tribes, on fol. 6a (باب اوّل از مجلّد اوّل از كتاب جامع التواريخ در بيان حكايات ظهور اقوام اتراك و كيفيّت انشعاب آيشان بقبائل مختلفه و شرح حال آبا واجداد هر قوم بر سبيل كلّی), subdivided into a dibâća and four chapters.

Second book, on the history of Cingizkhân, etc. (باب دوم از مجلّد اوّل از كتاب جامع التواريخ در بيان داستانهای اقوام مغول و اتراك و غيرهم), subdivided into two faṣls: 1. Cingizkhân's predecessors and ancestors, on fol. 56a; 2. History of Cingizkhân, on fol. 73a (heading is omitted). This book is interspersed with detailed accounts of contemporary dynasties in Îrân, Rûm, Syria, Egypt, Khwârizm, Khurâsân, 'Irâḳ, Ghazna, Transoxania, etc.; comp. ff. 85a, 100b, and 140a.

On fol. 157a begins the history of Cingizkhân's sons and successors, viz. Uktâikhân on fol. 157a, Jûjikhân on fol. 177a, Caghatâikhân on fol. 188b, Tûlûikhân on fol. 194a, Kuyûkkhân on fol. 198a, Munggâkhân on fol. 203a, Kûbilâikhân on fol. 215a, Tîmûrkhân on fol. 238a, Hûlâgûkhân on fol. 242b, Abâḳâkhân on fol. 265a, Sulṭân Aḥmad, i. e. Tâkûdâr bin Hûlâgûkhân, on fol. 283a, Arghûnkhân on fol. 289b, Kaikhâtûkhân on fol. 298b, Ghâzânkhân on fol. 302a. The history of each of these sovereigns is divided into three ḳisms; the third ḳism of Ghâzânkhân's history consists of the forty حكايات on the virtues and prominent qualities of that monarch, which are quoted by Rieu and Aumer, loc. cit., and begins on fol. 336a. An abridgment of this ḳism is found in Capt. W. Kirkpatrick's 'Institutes of Ghazan Khan' (New Asiatic Miscellany, pp. 171–226). The same W. Kirkpatrick presented this copy to the library, May 30, 1804.

No date. Many small blanks. On the fly-leaves indices, written in English.

No. 1784, ff. 394, ll. 21; clear and distinct Nasta'lîḳ; size, 11¾ in. by 7 in.

Ta'rîkh-i-Banâkitî (تأريخ بناكتى).

General history, abridged from the Jâmi'-altawârikh of Rashîd-aldîn, by Abû Sulaimân Dâ'ûd bin Abî-alfaḍl Muḥammad albanâkitî, with the surname of Fakhr, completed the 25th of Shawwal, A. H. 717 (A. D. 1317, Dec. 31), and dedicated to Sulṭân Abû Sa'îd bin Sulṭân Muḥammad Uljâitûkhân bin Arghûnkhân bin Abâḳâkhân bin Hûlâgûkhân bin Tûlûikhân bin Cingizkhân (see ff. 1b, ll. 4 and 5, and 2a, ll. 9–12). Its full title is given here as: روضة لاولى الالباب فى معرفة التواريخ و الانساب; see fol. 2a, ll. 13 and 14. It is divided into nine ḳisms (an index of which is given on ff. 2a–3a):

First ḳism: History of the prophets from Âdam to Abraham, on fol. 3a.

Second ḳism: Ancient history of Persia from Gayûmarth to Yazdajird III, on fol. 13b.

Third ḳism: History of the Arabs from Muḥammad to Almusta'ṣim-billâh, the last 'Abbâside Khalîf, on fol. 37b.

Fourth ḳism: History of the dynasties of Îrân, contemporary with the 'Abbâside Khalîfs, on fol. 116b.

Fifth ḳism: History of the Jews from Moses to Zedekiah, on fol. 232a.

Sixth ḳism: History of the Christians and Europeans from Christ to the author's time, on fol. 150a.

Seventh ḳism: History of the Hindûs to Sulṭân 'Alâ-aldîn Muḥammad Shâh Khiljî, on fol. 170b.

Eighth ḳism: History of the Chinese, on fol. 182a.

Ninth ḳism: History of the Moghuls from Cingizkhân to Abû Sa'îd, on fol. 193a.

For further details see Bodleian Cat., Nos. 24 and 25; W. Morley, pp. 25–28; Rieu i. p. 79 sq.; G. Flügel ii. p. 61; Elliot, Bibliographical Index, p. 70 sq., and History of India, iii. p. 55 sq., etc. The eighth ḳism was edited with a Latin translation by Andreas Müller, Berlin, 1677; 2nd ed., Jena, 1689.

Beginning: الحمد للّٰه حقّ حمده و الصلوٰة على خير خلقه محمّد و آله اجمعين اما بعد چون حقّ جلّ وعلا توفيق رفيق ابن ضعيف گردانيد الخ.

English marginal annotations throughout. No date.

Majma'-alansâb (مجمع الانساب).

An abridgment of general history down to the death of Sulṭân Abû Sa'îd, A. H. 736 (A. D. 1335), by Muḥammad bin 'Alî bin Shaikh Muḥammad bin-al-Ḥasan bin Abî Bakr (see this full name on fol. 7b, ll. 9 and 10), who began the first sketch of the work in A. H. 733 (A. D. 1332, 1333), see fol. 2b, l. 3, and re-wrote the whole after his MS. had been destroyed in the pillage of the house of the wazîr Ghiyâth-aldîn Muḥammad, comp. the two dibâcas at the beginning of this work, the second of which begins on fol. 6a. He completed it A. H. 743 (A. D. 1342, 1343). Comp. Bodleian Cat., No. 31; Rieu i. p. 83; and W. Morley, pp. 28–30.

Contents:

Muḳaddimah or introduction, containing a short outline of cosmography, anthropology, and geography, on fol. 13a.

Ḳism I: Âdam and the other prophets, on fol. 42b.

Kism II: The various dynasties of the world, on fol. 47a.

A detailed index of this second kism, the subdivisions of which are in great confusion, see in Rieu and Morley. It concludes with the death of Abû Sa'id, A. H. 736, after which there follows the same enumeration of the Atâbegs of Lûristân down to Nuṣrat-aldîn Pîr Aḥmad, as in Morley's copy.

Beginning: الحمد لله الذی جعل الحمد مفتاحًا لذکره سببًا للمزید من فضله الخ

A defective copy of the same.

Beginning the same as in the preceding copy.

Introduction on fol. 17a; kism I on fol. 55b, but only a short fragment of this part, down to Noah, is found here; kism II on fol. 61b, also incomplete, in consequence of a large lacuna between ff. 93 and 94; there is a sudden transition from the short review of the Persian, Arabian, Greek, etc. rulers to the history of Čingizkhân and his successors. The account of the Atâbegs of Lûristân begins on fol. 130a.

Dated the 14th of Rajab, A. H. 1127 (A. D. 1715, July 16).

No. 827, ff. 133, ll. 15–17; Nasta'lîḳ; small frontispiece; size, 8¾ in. by 5¾ in.

Manâhij-alṭâlibîn (مناهج الطالبين).

A general history down to Shâh Shujâ' Muẓaffarî (who reigned A. H. 760–786, A. D. 1359–1384), entitled مناهج الطالبين فی معارف الصادقين. The last date, which occurs on fol. 653a, is A. H. 777 (A. D. 1375, 1376). The author's name seems not to be mentioned anywhere. This منتخب, or abridged compendium as it is styled on fol. 3a sq., is chiefly devoted to the history of the prophets, Khalifs, and Imâms, which fills the second kism, or the greater portion of the whole work. It is divided into the following three kisms (dealing respectively with the creation, the ancient prophets, Muḥammad and the Umayyade and 'Abbâside Khalifs, and the dynasties contemporary with and posterior to the 'Abbâsides):

قسم اوّل در ابتدای آفرینش عالم و کیفیّت آن, in four bâbs: 1. در بدو فطرت و کیفیّت خلقت عالم, on fol. 4b; 2. در کیفیّت آفرینش آسمان و شمس و قمر و کواکب ثوابت و سیّارهٔ الخ, on fol. 7a; 3. در کیفیّت آفرینش زمین و طبقات آن واعداد بحار الخ, on fol. 18b; 4. در قصّهٔ جابلقا و جابلسا الخ, on fol. 28b.

قسم دوم در احوال انبیا و اولیا و خلفا و ملوك و وقایع وقضایاء ایشان, in twenty-two bâbs: 1. در کیفیّت آفرینش آدم, on fol. 31a; 2. در نبوّت واحوال ادریس, on fol. 47b; 3. در بعثت نوح, on fol. 52b; 4. در نبوّت و قضایاء هود و صالح, on fol. 61a; 5. در بعثت ابراهیم خلیل, on fol. 76a; 6. در نبوّت یعقوب و یوسف, on fol. 102a; 7. در نبوّت و صبر ایوب, on fol. 140b; 8. در نبوّت شعیب, on fol. 151b; 9. در بعثت کلیم اللّه موسی, on fol. 154a; 10. در نبوّت یوشع بن نون, on fol. 222a; 11. در نبوّت اشمویل, on fol. 232a; 12. در نبوّت داود, on fol. 241b; 13. در نبوّت و مملکت سلیمان, on fol. 254a; 14. در نبوّت الیاس و الیسع, on fol. 282b; 15. در نبوّت یونس بن متّی, on fol. 292b; 16. در نبوّت ارمیّا بن خلقیّا وعزیر بن شرخیّا, on fol. 298b; 17. در بعثت عیسی و حدیث زکریّا و یحیی و حکایت اصحاب الکهف, on fol. 311a; 18. در بعثت سیّد المرسلین الخ محمّد, on fol. 363a; 19. در خلافت خلفاء الراشدین, on fol. 447a; 20. در اسامیٔ خلفاء بنی امیّه و بنی مروان و بنی عبّاس, on fol. 517a; 21. در مقامات و مراتب اولیا الخ, on fol. 527a; 22. در فوائد و امثال و حکایات متفرّقه الخ, on fol. 589a.

قسم سیوم در ذکر ملوك و سلاطین, in four bâbs: 1. در ذکر ملوك فرس, on fol. 621a (down to Yazdajird III); 2. در ذکر ملوك ختای وافرنج, on fol. 632b; 3. در تواریخ ملوك و سلاطین که از عهد خلافت آل عبّاس الی یومنا هذا پادشاهی کرده اند, on fol. 633a (in seven ṭâ'ifas, the last of which contains Čingizkhân and his successors); 4. در سلطنت و خلافت و ایّام مملکت پادشاه اسلام (that is, ابو الفوارس شاه شجاع), on fol. 642a.

Rauḍat-alṣafâ (روضة الصفا).

A complete copy of all the eight volumes of Mirkhwând's (died A. H. 903 = A. D. 1497) famous universal history, written by many different hands and at very different times. For particulars about this work, which was composed at the request of Mir 'Alîshîr, we refer to Bodleian Cat., Nos. 36–69; Rieu i. p. 87 sq.; W. Morley, p. 30 sq.; J. Aumer, p. 72 sq.; Elliot, History of India, iv. p. 127 sq., etc. etc.; for Mirkhwând's (or Mirkhond's) life, to the Encyclopaedia Britannica, 9th ed., vol. xvi. p. 499.

Contents:

No. 1505, Vol. I. From the creation to Yazdajird III, beginning, on fol. 1b: زیب فهرست نسخهٔ مفاخر انبیاء عالی مکان الخ

No date. Various readings and additions on the margin. The first two pages richly embellished.

No. 1506, Vol. II. From Muḥammad to 'Alî, beginning, on fol. 5b: عنوان صحیفهٔ مرادات و فهرست الخ.

A full index of its contents, on ff. 1a–4b.

Modern copy, finished the first Jumâdâ-alawwal, A. H. 1189 (A. D. 1775, June 30), for Mîr Abû 'Alikhân Bahâdur, at Farrukhâbâd, by فقیر حقیر سراپا تقصیر جان عالم شیرین, who was engaged nine months in copying it, but wrote also some other works in the same time.

No. 1507, Vol. III. The Imâms and Khalîfs to Almusta'ṣim, beginning, on fol. 1b: حمد و ثنای که مسجّحان ملاء اعلی از ادای شمّهٔ الخ.

Written by the same hand as No. 1505. Notes and various readings on the margin. According to a notice at the end, this MS. was bought A. H. 1117, and collated A. H. 1118 (A. D. 1705 and 1706).

No. 1508, Vol. IV. Minor dynasties till Timûr, beginning, on fol. 1b: فهرست نسخهٔ سعادات ابدی الخ.

No date. A former owner of this MS. was Zain-al'âbidîn ibn Muḥammad 'Alî alḥusainî, who got it A. H. 1194 (A. D. 1780). Some leaves are misplaced, the right order of ff. 12–20 is: 12, 15, 14, 13, 18, 17, 16, 19, 20; of ff. 33–38: 33, 35, 34, 37, 36, 38; and of ff. 79–87: 79, 86, 80–85, 87.

No. 1509, Vol. V. Ćingizkhân and successors, beginning, on fol. 1b: آرایش دیباچهٔ مناقب و مآثر سلاطین رفیع مقدار الخ.

Vol. VIII. The geographical appendix, on fol. 195b. Title: خاتمه در بیان بدائع صنائع ملك صانع وآنچه نگاشتهٔ کلك قدرت حضرت است الخ.

Beginning: بر رای ارباب خبرت واصحاب بصیرت الخ.

Both volumes are copied by the same transcriber, Muḥammad 'Aziz Wâḥidbeg, at Shâhjahânâbâd. Vol. V was finished A. H. 1203 (A. D. 1788, 1789), vol. VIII the 7th of Sha'bân, A. H. 1204 (A. D. 1790, April 22). Many water-spots.

No. 1510, Vol. VI. Timûr and successors to the death of Abû Sa'îd and the accession of Sulṭân Ḥusain, A. H. 873 (A. D. 1468), beginning, on fol. 1b: جواهر حمد و سپاس و لآلیٔ شکر بی قیاس الخ.

No date. The first eight leaves are badly damaged. A great number of headings are wanting.

No. 1511, Vol. VII. History of Sulṭân Ḥusain, beginning, on fol. 1b (rather different from the usual beginning): ای یافته از منزل مه تا ماهی ـ ذرّات جهان از کرمت آگاهی الخ.

No date. The first leaves slightly injured, and the injuries repaired by another hand. Ff. 1b, 121–123, 128, 129, and 142–165 supplied later by different hands, partly in Nasta'lîḳ, partly in Shikasta.

Nos. 1505–1511. No. 1505, ff. 242, ll. 29; clear Nasta'lîḳ; size, 13¼ in. by 7¾ in. No. 1506, ff. 410, ll. 21; Nasta'lîḳ, sometimes like Shikasta; size, 12⅜ in. by 7¼ in. No. 1507, ff. 183, ll. 29; clear Nasta'lîḳ; size, 13¼ in. by 7¾ in. No. 1508, ff. 169, ll. 31; small Nasta'lîḳ; size, 12¾ in. by 8¼ in. No. 1509, ff. 256, ll. 25; large Nasta'lîḳ; size, 13¼ in. by 7¾ in. No. 1510, ff. 314, ll. 25; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 13¼ in. by 7¾ in. No. 1511, ff. 165, ll. 21–24; large Nasta'lîḳ; size, 12⅜ in. by 7¾ in. Illuminated frontispiece at the beginning of each volume, except the fourth.

The same.

The first six volumes and the eighth volume of the Raudat-alṣafâ; the seventh volume is missing here, as in the two following copies, and the geographical appendix must therefore be styled جلد هشتم instead of جلد هفتم (as it is called on fol. 632a).

Vol. I on fol. 1b, II on fol. 100b, III on fol. 241b, IV on fol. 318b, V on fol. 412b, VI on fol. 496b, VIII on fol. 632b. The copy is in a very bad state; many leaves are extremely damaged and spoiled. Fol. 209 is turned upside down.

At the end of the fourth volume there appears as date of transcription A. H. 976, end of Ramaḍân (A. D. 1569, middle of March); the transcriber's name is Kamâl-aldîn bin 'Alâ-aldîn. According to a statement at the end of the third volume, the collation of this copy with the original was completed the 24th of Rajab, A. H. 1024 (A. D. 1615, Aug. 19).

No. 3290, olim 15. J. 10, ff. 651, ll. 51; extremely small Naskhî; size 11½ in. by 6¼ in.

The same.

The same seven volumes (1–6 and 8), written by different hands in different sizes. The seventh volume is missing, just as in the preceding copy.

Contents:

No. 373, Vol. I. The first pages are very dirty and slightly injured. No date. Many later corrections by another hand.

No. 374, Vol. II. No date. A few corrections on the margin.

No. 375, Vol. III. A few additions on the margin. Copied A. H. 1007 (A. D. 1598, 1599).

No. 376, Vol. IV. The right order of ff. 16–49 is: 16, 41–48, 17–40, 49. No date.

No. 377, Vol. V on fol. 1b, Vol. VI on fol. 110b. Both written by the same 'Abd-allaṭîf bin Farîdûn Dâ'ûd bin Mu'în-aldîn of Shirâz, vol. V finished the 27th of Ṣafar, A. H. 1011 (A. D. 1602, August 16), vol. VI the first of Rajab in the same year (A. D. 1602, Dec. 25). Additions on the margin.

No. 378, Vol. VIII (geographical appendix). Copied in the month Ṣafar, A. H. 1212 (A. D. 1797, August). Various readings on the margin. This vol. is wrongly styled the seventh vol. on fol. 1a.

Nos. 373–378. No. 373, ff. 272, ll. 25; clear Nasta'lîḳ: No. 374, ff. 356, ll. 25, seems to be written by the same hand; size of both vols. the same, 11 in. by 6¼ in. No. 375, ff. 325, ll. 19; large and clear Nasta'lîḳ; size, 11 in. by 7¼ in. No. 376, ff. 269, ll. 17; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 9¼ in. by 5¼ in. No. 377, ff. 264, ll. 33; small and close Nasta'lîḳ; size, 11¼ in. by 8¼ in. No. 378, ff. 136, ll. 14–15; careless Nasta'lîḳ; size, 9¼ in. by 5¼ in. No ornaments anywhere.

The same.

The same seven volumes (1–6 and 8).

31

The same first volume.

Beginning: بسم اللّٰه الرحمٰن الرحیم و به نستعین و اعن یا کریم' زیب فهرست نسخهٔ مفاخر الخ.

Most pages of this copy are badly injured in the first, second, and sometimes also in the third line.

Dated the 13th of Shawwâl, A.H. 1087 (A.D. 1676, Dec. 19).

No. 1110, ff. 435, ll. 17; unequal Nasta'lîḳ by different hands; size, 11½ in. by 6¾ in.

The same first volume.

Well written; the first eleven and the last three pages supplied by other hands. Colophon: تمام شد دفتر اوّل از تواریخ جلد اوّل روضة الصفا تمام شد در ماه جمادی الاوّل سنهٔ الیه (?).

The last page a little injured.

No. 1111, ff. 481, ll. 17–21; unequal Nasta'lîḳ; size, 10⅝ in. by 6⅝ in.

An incomplete copy of the first volume.

There is wanting, both at the beginning and end, about one page; it begins with the words: را بکمال استغنا, agreeing with the preceding copy, fol. 1b, last line but two, and breaks off with the words: متعارف بقینیه فرماید, corresponding to the same copy, fol. 480b, last line but two. Ff. 11–18 are misplaced, the right order is: 11, 14, 12, 13, 16, 17, 15, 18. Some pages are worm-eaten. A few additions on the margin.

No. 1109, ff. 542, ll. 21; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 10½ in. by 5½ in.

Another incomplete copy of the first volume.

Many headings omitted. The copy breaks off in the middle of the reign of Ḍaḥḥâk with these words: ... بدرون برد و بگرفت ضحّاك تخت, agreeing with No. 306 (28 in this Cat.), fol. 125b, l. 3.

No. 1112, ff. 480, ll. 14; large and clear Nasta'lîḳ, written on paper of different colours; size, 11 in. by 6½ in.

A very defective copy of the first volume.

Nearly half of the whole first volume is missing in this copy, owing to a very large lacuna after fol. 68, comprising about 142 leaves of No. 3411 (30 in this Cat.), from fol. 92b, l. 5 down to fol. 234b, l. 6. The text begins in the first vignette on fol. 1b, thus تعلیل فهرست نسخهٔ سعادات ابدی و دیباچهٔ مجموعهٔ کرامات سرمدی, is continued in the second vignette on fol. 2a, and having been interrupted by an illuminated frontispiece on fol. 2b, bearing the title جلد اوّل روضة الصفا, goes on فهرمان ارادت الخ, agreeing with No. 3411, fol. 1b, l. 7 sq. No date.

No. 3272, olim 16. J. 1, ff. 135, ll. 25; clear and distinct Nasta'lîḳ; two splendidly gilded vignettes on ff. 1b and 2a, an illuminated frontispiece on fol. 2b; a little worm-eaten and slightly injured here and there; size, 11½ in. by 7⅞ in.

Another copy of the second volume.

Beginning as usual. Dated the middle of Muḥarram, A. H. 1031 (A. D. 1621, beginning of December), at Kurrah, by Manṣûr ibn Shaikh Ilahdâd. Collated. Haileybury MS.

No. 3412, olim 16. J. 9, ff. 508, ll. 23; Nasta'lîḳ; fol. 351 supplied by another hand; size, 11⅛ in. by 7⅛ in.

The same second volume.

This copy was finished the last of Rabî'-althânî, A. H. 1050 (A. D. 1640, Aug. 18). It belonged formerly to Mr. Richard Johnson. The first six leaves are misplaced, the right order is 1, 2, 5, 4, 3, 6.

No. 556, ff. 306, ll. 25; clear and large Nasta'lîḳ; illuminated frontispiece; occasionally various readings and additions on the margin; size, 14⅝ in. by 9½ in.

The same second volume.

Beginning: عنوان این صحیفهٔ مرادات و فهرست مجموعهٔ سعادات الخ.

This copy was finished in the month Ṣafar, A. H. 1075 (A. D. 1664, August–September).

No. 1785, ff. 387, ll. 19; very large Nasta'lîḳ; some parts at the end seem to be supplied by other hands; illuminated frontispiece on fol. 1a; size, 11⅞ in. by 7⅞ in.

The same second volume.

Various readings and additions on the margin. No date. Beginning as usual.

Another copy of the fifth and sixth volumes.

Fifth vol. on ff. 1ᵇ–251ᵇ, dated the 10th of Shawwâl, A. H. 1063 (A. D. 1653, Sept. 3), by 'Abd-alrasûl bin 'Abd-alraḥîm bin 'Abdallâh bin Mullâ Sayyidî.

Sixth vol. on ff. 252ᵇ–581ᵃ, dated by the same the 15th of Muḥarram, A. H. 1065 (A. D. 1654, Nov. 25).

A little worm-eaten and slightly injured throughout.

No. 1108, ff. 581, ll. 22; very careless Nasta'lîḳ; size, 12⅝ in. by 6⅝ in.

Another copy of the fifth volume.

Beginning: آرایش دیباچهٔ مآثر الخ. Ff. 309–311 a little injured. Dated the 24th of Jumâdâ-althânî, A. H. 1097 (A. D. 1686, May 18), by Muḥammad Badî' bin Muḥammad Kâẓim of Iṣfahân. Collated throughout.

No. 3276, olim 16. J. 5, ff. 313, ll. 21; clear and distinct Nasta'lîḳ; illuminated frontispiece; the first two pages richly adorned; size, 11 in. by 6½ in.

The same fifth volume.

Some pages, especially at the end, badly injured.

After fol. 31 must be read fol. 74. No date.

No. 1007, ff. 249, ll. 21; Nasta'lîḳ; many injuries mended and supplied by a later hand; size, 10½ in. by 6½ in.

The same fifth volume.

In this copy there are wanting a few lines at the end; it breaks off with the words: مگر امیر عادل مؤیّد, agreeing with the last page, l. 13, in No. 310 (28 in this Cat.). Well-written MS.

No. 1042, ff. 385, ll. 23; clear and distinct Nasta'lîḳ; no ornaments; size, 9½ in. by 5⅝ in.

The same fifth volume.

Beginning here: آرایش دیباچهٔ مناقب و مآثر سلاطین الخ.

No date. Some pages, severely damaged, have been carefully mended.

No. 3415, olim 16. J. 12, ff. 288, ll. 22–23; Nasta'lîḳ; some pages written by other hands; illuminated frontispiece; size, 10½ in. by 5⅝ in.

The same fifth volume.

Beginning as in the preceding copy: آرایش دیباچهٔ مناقب الخ.

Ff. 111 and 112, although written in a similar hand, are different in size and paper, quite brown and torn to pieces; they are lying loosely in this copy, but fit exactly in between ff. 110 and 113. No date. Modern copy.

No. 2412, ff. 1–179, ll. 25–41; Shikasta; collated; size, 12⅝ in. by 8½ in.

A greatly injured copy without date, formerly belonging to A. Welland (4th Feb., 1810).

Beginning: دیباچهٔ مناقب و مآثر (torn away) .... رفیع تعداد ونمایش وروزنامچهٔ خصائص و مفاخر الخ.

The author styles himself on fol. 1b, l. 11; محمّد بن خاوندشاه (see Rieu i. pp. 87 and 93).

In many pages pieces are torn away; there are besides all headings left blank from fol. 83 to the end.

No. 129, ff. 271, ll. 20; Naskhî; size, 9½ in. by 6⅝ in.

Another copy of the sixth volume.

Beginning: جواهر حمد و سپاس ولآلیٔ شکر بیقیاس الخ.

The proper order of ff. 126–131 is: 126, 128, 130, 127, 129, 131. Dated the 4th of Jumâdâ-alâkhar, A. H. 1074 (A. D. 1664, Jan. 3); the transcriber and owner of this copy was Mirzâ Ḳulîbeg Turkmân.

No. 3277, olim 16. J. 6, ff. 560, ll. 18–20; unequal Naskhî; size, 11⅛ in. by 6½ in.

The same sixth volume.

No date. Many slight injuries everywhere. The right order of ff. 112–134 is: 112, 120–133, 113–119, 134.

No. 989, ff. 559, ll. 19–24; written by at least three different hands in unequal Nasta'lîḳ; size, 9½ in. by 5½ in.

A defective copy of the sixth volume.

This copy is incomplete at the end, about two leaves being missing. The last words agree with No. 3277 (63 in this Cat.), fol. 559b, l. 12; besides the text of the last six pages is severely damaged and whole portions torn away. It is worm-eaten throughout, but carefully mended in most places.

No. 2854, ff. 384, ll. 22; careless Nasta'lîḳ; size, 13½ in. by 6⅝ in.

Another defective copy of the sixth volume.

This copy is an extraordinarily strange one; the beginning is that of 'Alî Yazdî's Ẓafarnâma: حمداً کثیراً مبارکاً لمن توتی الملك الخ, and the text of the Ẓafarnâma goes down without interruption to fol. 56b, last line but one, corresponding to No. 2597 (175 in this Cat.), fol. 65a, l. 4. In the same line begins quite suddenly, and without any separation, the text of the sixth volume of the Rauḍat-alṣafâ, opening with the chapter: ذکر فرستادن صاحب قران گردون توان علقه (علقمهٔ) تواچی و مولانا جلال الدین .... بجانب خوارزم و توجّه آن حضرت برعقب ایشان بعزم رزم, corresponding to No. 3277, fol. 60a, l. 10.

Ff. 52–65 are misplaced, the proper order is: 52, 57–64, 53–56, 65.

No date.

No. 985, ff. 478, ll. 20; Nasta'lîḳ; written by two different hands (the first of which is found on ff. 1–66); size, 11½ in. by 8 in.

Part of the sixth volume.

This copy goes down to the death of Timûr only, in A. H. 807, and the immediately following events (see fol. 233b sq.). The last words correspond to No. 3277, fol. 296b, l. 8. Bibliotheca Leydeniana.

No. 2627, ff. 236, ll. 21; small but clear Nasta'lîḳ; the first two pages illuminated; size, 9½ in. by 6½ in.

A fragment of the sixth volume.

This fragment goes down to the end of A. H. 790, and breaks off with the words: بارگاه سلطنت زانو, corresponding to No. 377 (26 in this Cat.), fol. 140a, l. 18. There seem to be lacunas after fol. 48 and fol. 56.

No. 1115, ff. 112, ll. 17; written by different hands, partly in Nasta'lîḳ, partly in Shikasta; many pages badly injured; size, 11½ in. by 7½ in.

Another copy of the sixth, seventh, and eighth volumes.
No date.

Sixth vol. on fol. 1b; seventh vol. on fol. 264b, beginning: حمد پروردگاریست که ابو البشر را از قبضهٔ خاك آفریده الخ.

Eighth vol. or geographical appendix on fol. 360b, styled: خاتمهٔ تأریخ روضة الصفا, and beginning: در بیان بدائع و صنائع ملك صانعی و آنچه الخ.

No. 552, ff. 404, ll. 27; careless and unequal Nasta'lîḳ, written by different hands; illuminated frontispiece at the beginning of each volume; size, 16½ in. by 9½ in.

Another copy of the sixth and eighth volumes.
The sixth vol. begins on fol. 1b, and is dated on fol. 300a the 2nd of Jumâdâ-althânî, A. H. 1007 (A. D. 1598, Dec. 31); the eighth or geographical appendix (here wrongly styled the seventh) begins on fol. 301b: خاتمه در بدائع صنائع و آنچه گماشته بکلك قدرت اوست الخ.

No date. The real seventh volume of the Raudat-alṣafâ is not found in this copy.

No. 1522, ff. 338, ll. 25; Nasta'lîḳ; partly collated; illuminated frontispiece at the beginning of each volume; size, 12½ in. by 7½ in.

Another copy of the seventh and eighth volumes.
Beginning of the seventh volume on fol. 1b: حصول سعادت دارین حمد پروردگاریست که ابو البشر را از قبضهٔ تیر خاك الخ.

Beginning of the eighth volume or the geographical appendix on fol. 121b: خاتمهٔ تأریخ روضة الصفا فی سیر الانبیاء در بیان بدائع و صنائع ممالك ملك صنائعی و آنچه نگاشتهٔ کلك قدوهٔ اوست الخ برای ارباب خبرت واصحاب بصیرت الخ.

No date. Richard Johnson, 1778. On fol. 121a is stated that this copy of the eighth vol. was once in the possession of Ḥâjî Muḥammad Riḍâ of Iṣfahân.

No. 3278, olim 16. J. 7, ff. 160, ll. 27; clear and distinct Nasta'lîḳ; size, 12 in. by 7 in.

Another copy of the eighth volume or the geographical appendix.
Beginning: بر رای ارباب خبرت الخ. Dated the 12th of Dhû-alḳa'dah, A. H. 1126 (A. D. 1714, Nov. 19). Slight injuries. On fol. 1a wrongly styled جلد هفتم.

No. 1125, ff. 48, ll. 24; clear Nasta'lîḳ; size, 12½ in. by 7⅞ in.

The same eighth volume.
No date. A little worm-eaten.

No. 1908, ff. 86, ll. 15; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 9⅝ in. by 5⅝ in.

The same eighth volume.
Beginning: خاتمهٔ تأریخ روضة الصفا در بیان بدائع و صنائع ملك صانع الخ. It is incorrectly styled جلد هفتم on fol. 1a.

No. 990, ff. 33, ll. 19; careless Nasta'lîḳ, alternating with Shikasta; the last two leaves added by another hand in clear Nasta'lîḳ; size, 10½ in. by 6½ in.

The same eighth volume.
Another excellent copy of the geographical appendix, beginning: برای ارباب خبرت و اصحاب بصیرت پوشیده نماند که بعضی از علمای تأریخ الخ. On the fly-leaf it is styled سیر البلاد.

No. 2540, ff. 48, ll. 25; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 13¾ in. by 8 in.

A slightly defective copy of the same third volume.

This copy is incomplete at the end. Beginning as in the preceding copy. Chapter I on fol. 1b, II on fol. 47a, III on fol. 79b (here called by mistake مجلّد چهارم), IV on fol. 209b. Biographical appendix, on fol. 249b. Conclusion, or geographical and cosmographical part (here entitled: جلد آخر تأریخ حبیب السیر که مشهور ومعروفست بعجائب المخلوقات), on fol. 253a. This part breaks off, on fol. 268a, with these words: وچون روز بآخر میرسد آن طیوران مرغان ضعیف را ...., corresponding to the preceding copy, fol. 535a, l. 2.

According to the colophon, on fol. 78a, the second chapter of this volume was finished by 'Abd-almalik ibn 'Imâd-aldîn of Kirmân, the 7th of Jumâdâ-althânî, A. H. 1012 (A. D. 1603, November 12).

No. 1384, ff. 268, ll. 35-38; small Nasta'lîḳ; a few pages supplied by another hand; size, 14 in. by 9½ in.

Another more defective copy of the same.

The whole conclusion on geography and cosmography is wanting in this copy. Chapter I on fol. 1b, II on fol. 69b, III on fol. 112b, IV on fol. 382b. Good old but undated copy.

No. 1892, ff. 387, ll. 35; small but distinct Nasta'lîḳ; size, 12 in. by 6½ in.

Another copy of the third chapter of the third volume.

Beginning: ای نام تو زیب نامه الخ.

No heading. No date. This copy is nicely written, but worm-eaten and slightly injured at many corners.

No. 3420, olim 16. J. 15, ff. 273, ll. 25; clear and distinct Nasta'lîḳ; size, 11 in. by 7 in.

A slightly defective copy of the same third chapter.

Heading: جزوٌ سیوم از مجلّد ثالث در ذکر صادرات افعال و واردات اقوال حضرت صاحب قران میر تیمور گورگان الخ. Beginning as usual. It breaks off with the words: .... ملاقات فرمود و ابواب انعام و احسان, corresponding to fol. 409b, first line, in No. 1788 (88 in this Cat.).

No. 590, ff. 564, ll. 19; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 10½ in. by 5¾ in.

A large fragment of the same third chapter.

This fragment, which does not contain the history of Timûr or of his immediate successors, begins with A. H. 855, the date of the accession of Mirzâ (or Sulṭân) Abû-alḳâsim Bâbar, the son of Mirzâ Baisunghar, and grandson of Shâhrukh. The first heading, with which the copy opens (corresponding to No. 1788, fol. 260b, l. 19), runs thus: ذکر توجّه میرزا ابو القاسم بابر بجانب بلخ و بدخشان و بیان عصیان اویس بیگ بدار الملك خراسان, 'account of Sulṭân Bâbar's conquest of Khurâsân and Badakhshân.' The date of completion, given on fol. 367a, l. 11, is exactly the same as in Ouseley 289 in the Bodleian Library (Bodleian Cat., No. 77), viz. Dhû-alḳa'dah, A. H. 929 (بماه ذی قعده سنهٔ تسع و عشرین و تسعمائة)=A. D. 1523, September–October.

This copy was finished the 8th of Rabî'-alawwal, A. H. 1026 (A. D. 1617, March 16). It is collated throughout, and bears numerous traces of correction and amplification. There are some blanks occasionally, and several leaves are misplaced; for instance, the proper order of ff. 55–60 is: 55, 59^{b}, 59^{a} (ff. 59 and 56 being turned upside down), 57, 58, 56^{b}, 56^{a}, 60; and of ff. 251–280: 251, 257, 258, 253–256, 252; 259, 261–268, 260, 269, 270, 278, 272–277, 271, 279, 280.

No. 3019, ff. 368, ll. 19–21; very careless and unequal Nasta'lîḳ; size, 9½ in. by 5¼ in.

Another copy of the fourth chapter of the third volume.

Beginning: جزو چهارم از مجلّد سیم در ذکر طلوع آفتاب دولت و اقبال شاهی و بیان اختصاص یافتن آنحضرت باصناف الطاف عنایت الهی حبیب السیر' ای یافت از منزل مه تا ماهی ـ ذرّات جهان از کرمت آگاهی الخ.

Biographical appendix, on fol. 192^{b}; conclusion, on fol. 208^{a}, first line.

No. 758, ff. 290, ll. 21; Nasta'lîḳ, unequally written by different hands; seriously damaged in many pages, especially by worms; size, 9¾ in. by 5⅝ in.

The same fourth chapter.

Biographical appendix, on fol. 100^{a}; the اختتام, or geographical conclusion, on fol. 108^{a} margin.

The copy, which is undated (11th–12th century of the Hijrah), was greatly injured, especially in the margin-columns, but has been carefully mended.

Bibliotheca Leydeniana.

No. 2591, ff. 154, ll. 15 in the centre, ll. 28 in the margin-column; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 8¼ in. by 5¼ in.

A slightly defective copy of the same fourth chapter.

The first page is wanting in this copy, which begins abruptly: پادشاه کشور عفیی ...., corresponding to No. 758 (95 in this Cat.), fol. 1^{b}, last line. Biographical appendix, on fol. 152^{a}; conclusion, on fol. 164^{b}. The last pages a little damaged.

The date, written distinctly 832, is impossible; it is probably A. H. 1032 (A. D. 1623).

No. 864, ff. 219, ll. 19; Nasta'lîḳ; ff. 7–9 and 206–211 supplied by another hand, ll. 35–42; size, 9⅞ in. by 6 in.

A more defective copy of the same fourth chapter.

Biographical appendix, on fol. 321^{b}; conclusion, on fol. 345^{a}. Of the latter there are only a few pages found in this copy, which breaks off, on fol. 349^{b}, with these words: که سنگ اسفل آن متحرّک است و سنگ اعلی ساکن و از زیر سنگ ...., corresponding to No. 1788 (88 in this Cat.), fol. 501^{b}, l. 8.

No. 2988, ff. 349, ll. 13; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 10½ in. by 6¼ in.

Extracts from the Ḥabîb-alsiyar.

Two large extracts from the second volume of Khwândamir's work; the first, on ff. 1^{b}–69^{b}, comprises a portion of the fourth chapter, or the history of the dynasties, contemporary with the 'Abbâside Khalifs, from the Ṭâhirides down to the kings of Ṭabaristân, beginning: بعد از تمهید قواعد محامد پادشاهی الخ; the second, on ff. 73^{a}–245^{a}, contains the whole third chapter of the same volume, or the history of the 'Abbâside Khalifs, beginning: اصناف حمد و سپاس بیقیاس مالك الملکی الخ; comp. J. Aumer, p. 76, No. 224, III and IV. An index of the 'Abbâside Khalifs (that is, of the second extract) is found on the fly-leaves.

Copied in the month Rabî'-alawwal, A. H. 1210 (A. D. 1795, September–October).

No. 414, ff. 245, ll. 15; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 9⅞ in. by 6½ in.

Khulâṣa-i-Ḥabîb-alsiyar (خلاصهٔ حبیب السیر).

The biographies of eminent Shaikhs, Amîrs, 'Ulamas, and poets, which are found in different parts of Khwândamir's Ḥabîb-alsiyar, collected into one volume and entitled: خلاصهٔ تأریخ حبیب السیر.

These are extracts, not from the second volume of that work (از جلد دویم), as is stated on fol. 1^{a} and in the first heading on fol. 1^{b}, but exclusively from the third. They begin with the time of Timûr, and go down to that of the Âḳ-ḳoyunlû dynasty.

1. خلاصهٔ تواریخ حبیب السیر از مجلّد دوم (!!) در ذکر بعضی از سادات و مشایخ و علما و اکابر که معاصر بودند با صاحب قران ستوده مآثر, on fol. 1^{b}.

Beginning: بر ضمائر ارباب اخبیر ظاهر و آشکار خواهد بود که الخ.

2. گفتار در ذکر بعضی از سادات و مشایخ و افاضل که معاصر بودند تا خاقان عابد عادل, on fol. 10^{b}.

3. ذکر شمّهٔ از حال مشایخ و افاضل که معاصر بودند بآن پادشاه عادل, on fol. 29^{b}.

4. ذکر بعضی از اعاظم سادات و مشایخ و علما که معاصر بودند با سلطان سعید, on fol. 34^{b}.

5. در ذکر بعضی از سادات و نقبا و مشایخ و علما که معاصر بودند با معزّ السلطنة و الخلافت سلطان حسین میرزا, on fol. 43^{a}.

6. ذکر طائفهٔ از سادات و علما و اشراف که بعضی از ایشان با سلاطین آق قویلوق (!) معاصر بوده و زمرهٔ در

ایّام دولت ابد پیوند شاهی اکتساب فضل و کمال بوده اند, on fol. 76b.

On fol. 91a–104 there is added as خاتمه the description of Harât (خاتمه در بیان شمّهٔ از صفات دار السلطنة هراة و عمارات و باغات آن بلدهٔ جنّت آیات و ذکر بعضی از اهل فضل دهر که در ایّام دولت جناب امیر علیشیر عالی گهر دربن دیار بوده اند و در ظلّ تربیت و عنایتش آسوده اند).

Beginning: بر رای عالم سالکان مسالك توفیق الخ.

No. 145, ff. 104, ll. 17; large and clear Nasta'lîḳ; size, 12½ in. by 6¾ in.

Lubb-altawârîkh (لبّ التواریخ).

General history, from the earliest times to A. H. 948 (A. D. 1541, 1542), by Yaḥyâ bin 'Abd-allaṭîf Ḳazwînî, who died A. H. 962 (A. D. 1555); see Bodleian Cat., Nos. 88–95; Rieu i. p. 104 sq.; G. Flügel ii. p. 71; Cat. Codd. Or. Lugd. Bat. iii. p. 6; Krafft, p. 87; Elliot, Bibliographical Index, p. 129 sq.; History of India, iv. p. 293 sq. Ḥ. Khalfa v. p. 307 fixes the author's death in A. H. 960 (A. D. 1553). A Latin translation, with the title 'Medulla Historiarum,' appeared in A. F. Büsching's 'Magazin für die neue Historie und Geographie,' vol. xvii, Halle, 1783. It is divided into four ḳisms.

Beginning: حمد و سپاس مر خدای را کد سلاطین جهان بر آستانهٔ عظمتش الخ.

Index on ff. 2a–3a, in which, on fol. 2a, l. 4 ab infra, قسم دویم must be read instead of قسم اوّل, and l. 3 ab infra, فصل اوّل instead of قسم دویم. The third ḳism has here as well as in the text only two maḳâlas instead of the usual three, corresponding to the second and third in Rieu i. p. 105, so that the first (Abû Bakr, 'Umar, and 'Uthmân) is omitted, probably because the copyist, being a Shî'ite, felt conscientious scruples about mentioning these enemies of 'Alî.

Ḳism I in two faṣls: faṣl I, Muḥammad, on fol. 3a; faṣl II, the twelve Imâms, on fol. 9a.

Ḳism II: The ante-Muḥammadan kings in four faṣls: 1. Pîshdâdians, on fol. 19b; 2. Kayânians, on fol. 23a; 3. Mulûk-alṭawâ'if, on fol. 29a; 4. Sâsânians, on fol. 30b.

Ḳism III: The post-Muḥammadan rulers in two maḳâlas: 1. Banû Umayyah, on fol. 40b; 2. Banû 'Abbâs, on fol. 44a; and six bâbs, viz. 1. Dynasties contemporary with the 'Abbâsides, in eleven faṣls, from the Ṭâhirides to the Ḳarâkhitâ'îs of Kirmân, on fol. 53a; 2. Moghuls, from Cingîzkhân to Abû Sa'îd, on fol. 92b (here باب دوم to be read instead of باب اوّل); 3. Successors of Abû Sa'îd in Îrân, in five faṣls, from the Cûpânians to the Sarbadârs, on fol. 106b (on fol. 109a, فصل دوم to be read instead of فصل چهارم, and فصل پنجم instead of فصل ششم on fol. 128a; the third faṣl, not marked, begins on fol. 111b); 4. Tîmûr and his successors in Îrân, on fol. 132b; 5. Ḳarâ-ḳoyunlû and Âḳ-ḳoyunlû Sulṭâns, on fol. 156a, without heading, in two faṣls; 6. Uzbegs of Transoxania and Khurâsân, on fol. 172a (باب ششم to be read instead of باب چهارم).

Ḳism IV: Ṣafawîs, on fol. 174a. Accession of Ṭahmâsp, on fol. 191a. A small lacuna after fol. 191.

Dated at Lâhûr, Ramaḍân, A. H. 1031 (A. D. 1622, July–August).

No. 1986, ff. 192, ll. 15; Nasta'lîḳ; worm-eaten and damaged, particularly on the last twenty-six leaves; size, 8⅝ in. by 4¾ in.

The same.

Beginning as in the preceding copy. Index on ff. 2b–3b.

Ḳism I in two faṣls, on ff. 3b and 10a.

Ḳism II in four faṣls, on ff. 22a, 25b, 31a, last line, and 33a.

Ḳism III, here in three maḳâlas, as in Rieu i. p. 105, on ff. 43b (Abû Bakr, 'Umar, 'Uthmân, and 'Alî), 44b (Banû Umayyah), and 49b (Banû 'Abbâs); and six bâbs, on ff. 57a (read here باب اوّل instead of فصل اوّل in l. 4), 90a, 101b, 125a, 145b, and 160b.

Ḳism IV on fol. 162a. Beginning of Ṭahmâsp's reign, on fol. 181a.

No date. Eleventh century of the Hijrah. The copy belonged formerly to Mr. Richard Johnson.

No. 526, ff. 184, ll. 15 on ff. 1–51, ll. 17 on ff. 52–184; Nasta'lîḳ by different hands, as it seems; worm-eaten throughout; size, 7 in. by 4¼ in.

The same.

The index is wanting in this copy; there appears besides a most peculiar date, viz. A. H. 977 (حالکه سنهٔ سبع و سبعین و تسعمائه است), on fol. 225b, l. 7, due no doubt to a later addition, as foreign to the original as the date 963 in the second copy of Rieu's Cat., p. 105.

Ḳism I on fol. 4b, II on fol. 26a, III on fol. 51b (where سوم must be read instead of دوم), IV on fol. 225b. Dated the 25th of Shawwâl, A. H. 1053 (سنهٔ ثلاث و خمسین)=A. D. 1644, Jan. 6, at Jahângîrnagar by Khwâjah Muḥammad bin 'Abd-alrasûl bin Khwâjah Ḥamîd-alkhâlidî. The last three leaves of this MS., from fol. 262b to 264b, are filled with a ḳaṣîdah on the bow and arrow, تیر و کمان, by Ṭâhir of Balkh (see the third bait), which begins:

ای برسر نشانه نشان کرد شانه را
وی شانه را بدِ تیر زده یا نشانه را

This copy was presented by J. H. Peile, Esq., and received 19th of September, 1818; transferred to Civil College 9th of August, 1819.

No. 3394, olim 14. J. 24, ff. 264, ll. 11; large and distinct Nasta'lîḳ; size, 8½ in. by 5½ in.

Ta'rikh-i-Ibrâhîmî (تأريخ ابراهيمى).

A general history of the world, of a rather desultory character, from Âdam to A.H. 956 (A.D. 1549), see this date on fol. 206b, l. 7 (compare the following copy, fol. 218b, l. 13), or even to A.H. 957 (A.D. 1550), see Bodleian Cat., No. 97 (identical with this work). In Elliot's History of India, iv. pp. 213–217, and Rieu iii. pp. 1013a and 1046a, A.H. 952 (A.D. 1545, 1546) is given as final date of the composition of this work, because the history of Humâyûn's reign is brought down to that year, see fol. 238b, l. 5. Another title of this history is تأريخ همايونى, because it was compiled in Humâyûn's reign. The author's name is given on fol. 1a of the following copy as Ibrâhîm bin Ḥarîr (probably Jarîr, since on fol. 1b the great Ṭabarî is likewise called Muḥammad bin Ḥarîr instead of Jarîr). In Beale's 'Oriental Biographical Dictionary,' Calcutta, 1881, p. 115, the author is styled Ibrâhîm bin Ḥarîrî, and the work is said to have been dedicated to Bâbar (?).

The preface, which begins on fol. 1b: بعد از حمد الهى و نعت حضرت رسالت پناهى نموده ميشود الخ contains only a few lines, and gives neither title, date, nor author's name. It starts at once with a discussion on ante-Muḥammadan chronology, the age of the world, etc.

History of the Israelites (old prophets, Jewish kings, etc.), beginning with Âdam, on fol. 3a; Jesus, on fol. 22b; Seven Sleepers, on fol. 25a.

Old philosophers (شمّة از احوال حكما), from Luḳmân to Buzurjmihr, on fol. 27b.

Old Persian kings, from Gayûmarth to Yazdajird III, on fol. 32a.

History of Muḥammad, his family, children, companions, the first four Khalifs and the twelve Imâms, on fol. 53b.

Umayyade Khalifs, on fol. 103b.

'Abbâside Khalifs, on fol. 118b (interspersed with short biographical accounts of contemporary shaikhs, poets, etc.; for instance, Abû-alḥasan Kharaḳânî, on fol. 135b; Abû Sa'îd bin Abû-alkhair, on fol. 138b).

Minor dynasties: Ṭâhirides and Ṣaffârides, on fol. 158b; Sâmânides, on fol. 159a; Ghaznawides, on fol. 162b; Khwârizmshâhs, on fol. 165b; Atâbegs, on fol. 167b; Ghûrides, on fol. 170a; Kurt kings, on fol. 174a; notices of renowned shaikhs, etc., on fol. 176b.

Cingizkhân, his ancestors, children, and successors, going down to A.H. 956, on fol. 178b; Ḳarâ-ḳoyunlû, on fol. 195a; Âḳ-ḳoyunlû, on fol. 199a; Ṣafawîs, on fol. 202b.

History of India, beginning with a general survey of the kings of Dihlî (ملوك هند) from the time of Ḳuṭb-aldîn Aibak, on fol. 206b. Kings of Gujarât, beginning with Muẓaffarshâh, and other minor dynasties, on fol. 211b.

History of Timûr and his successors, with notices of shaikhs and poets of the same time, on fol. 213a. Sulṭân Bâbar, on fol. 234b, last line. Birth of Humâyûn, and account of his reign to A.H. 952, on fol. 235b.

Dated the 4th of Ṣafar, A.H. 1096 (A.D. 1685, Jan. 10).

No. 1874, ff. 239, ll. 17; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 10½ in. by 6½ in.

Another defective copy of the same.

This copy is in a very precarious state, it is not only incomplete at the end (about three pages wanting here, the last words agreeing with fol. 238b, l. 14, in the preceding copy), but defective in many other places, and greatly damaged in the first 150 leaves. Fol. 79 is almost completely torn away; considerable lacunas after ff. 134 and 137 (the first corresponding to the preceding copy, fol. 122b, l. 1, to fol. 126a, l. 9; the second to fol. 129a, l. 3, to fol. 129b, last line, chiefly comprising the biographical account of Bâyazîd Bisṭâmî). A great number of leaves are like cinder, and almost fallen to pieces. Beginning the same as in the preceding copy.

History of the Israelites, etc., on fol. 3a.

Old philosophers, on fol. 31a.

Old Persian kings, on fol. 36a.

Muḥammad, etc., on fol. 60a.

Umayyade Khalifs, on fol. 114a.

'Abbâside Khalifs, on fol. 130b (Kharaḳânî, on fol. 144b; Abû Sa'îd bin Abû-alkhair, on fol. 147b).

Minor dynasties: Ṭâhirides and Ṣaffârides, on fol. 169a; Sâmânides, on fol. 170a; Ghaznawides, on fol. 173b; Khwârizmshâhs, on fol. 177a; Atâbegs, on fol. 178b, last line; Ghûrides, on fol. 181b; Kurt kings, on fol. 185b. Notices of renowned shaikhs, etc., on fol. 188b.

Cingizkhân, etc., on fol. 190b; Ḳarâ-ḳoyunlû, on fol. 207b, l. 3; Âḳ-ḳoyunlû, on fol. 211a, l. 2; Ṣafawîs, on fol. 215a, l. 4 (the latter three without headings).

History of India, etc., on fol. 218b; kings of Gujarât, etc., on fol. 223b.

Timûr, etc., on fol. 224b; Bâbar, on fol. 247b; Humâyûn, on fol. 248a.

No date. An entry from A.H. 1069 (A.D. 1658, 1659), on fol. 1a.

No. 428, ff. 251, ll. 19; Nasta'lîḳ; ff. 240–251 are written by another hand; size, 9 in. by 4½ in.

Nusakh-i-Jahânârâ (نسخ جهان آرا).

General history of the world from the oldest times to A.H. 972 (A.D. 1564, 1565), commenced A.H. 971 (A.D. 1563, 1564) by Ḳâḍî Aḥmad bin Muḥammad Alghaffârî of Rai (who died A.H. 975=A.D. 1567, 1568). The title of the book is a chronogram, see fol. 3a, l. 5; author's name on fol. 2a, l. 11. It is dedicated to Abû-almuẓaffar Shâh Ṭahmâsp Ṣafawî, and divided into one عنوان and three نسخ; comp. Bodleian Cat., No. 98; Rieu i. p. 111 sq.; Elliot, History of India, iv. p. 298 sq.; G. Flügel ii. p. 72; Ḥ. Khalfa ii. p. 658, etc.

Contents:

No date. Worm-eaten throughout.

No. 28, ff. 226, ll. 19; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 9¼ in. by 5¼ in.

An incomplete copy of the same.

This copy is extremely defective, not only in the beginning, but in many places in the text, where extensive lacunas are found. The first leaf is missing. The author's name appears on fol. 1b, l. 3: Aḥmad bin Muḥammad alḳâḍî Ghaffârî; the dedication to Abû-al-muẓaffar Shâh Ṭahmâsp Bahâdurkhân on fol. 2a, last line; and the title on fol. 2b, l. 6. Index on ff. 2b–4b.

'Unwân or introduction, on fol. 4b, in two ḥarfs.

First Nuskhah, in two âyas, on fol. 5a. The larger portion of the first âyah is missing, as well as the beginning of the first naṣṣ of the second (comprising the life of Muḥammad), in consequence of a large lacuna after fol. 7; see the preceding copy, ff. 5b–13b, and the following copy, No. 101, ff. 10–16. The second naṣṣ of the second âyah begins on fol. 8a.

Second Nuskhah: Ṣaḥîfah I, in two ṣafḥas, on ff. 14b and 18b. Ṣaḥîfah II, in twenty ṣafḥas: 1. on fol. 24a; 2. on fol. 27b; 3. on fol. 36b; 4. on fol. 65a; 5. on fol. 68a; 6. on fol. 75b; 7. on fol. 104b (read here هفتم instead of هفدهم); 8. on fol. 110a; the end of the first and the beginning of the second kalimah of the second ḥarf of the offshoots (A'âlî or Amirs) are missing in consequence of a lacuna after fol. 115, corresponding to the following copy, No. 101, fol. 110b, l. 8, to fol. 111b, last line; 9. on fol. 116b; 10. on fol. 119a; the larger portion of the third saṭar (Banû Asad) is missing, as there is again a lacuna after fol. 121, corresponding to No. 101, fol. 118b, l. 9, to fol. 120b, middle of l. 3 ab infra; 11. on fol. 122a; beginning missing in consequence of the same lacuna; 12. on fol. 124a; again a lacuna after fol. 127, which comprises the few concluding words of the second saṭar and the beginning of the thirteenth ṣafḥah, corresponding to No. 101, fol. 127a, l. 3 ab infra, to fol. 128a, lin. penult.; 13. on fol. 128a; beginning missing, second saṭar on fol. 128b; 14. on fol. 132b; again a lacuna after fol. 135, comprising a portion of the first saṭar, corresponding to No. 101, fol. 138a, l. 8, to fol. 139a, l. 7; the second saṭar begins on fol. 136a;

a lacuna after fol. 141, comprising the end of the second saṭar and the beginning of the fifteenth ṣafḥah, corresponding to No. 101, fol. 145a, l. 11, to fol. 147b, l. 8, middle; 15. beginning missing; 16. on fol. 145a; a very large lacuna after fol. 147, comprising almost the whole four saṭars and a portion of the seventeenth ṣafḥah, corresponding to No. 101, fol. 153a, l. 9, middle, to fol. 178b, first line; 17. opens abruptly in the history of Timûr's ancestors, on fol. 148a; the first saṭar of the descendants, which begins on fol. 153a, is defective owing to a lacuna after fol. 153, corresponding to No. 101, fol. 183b, l. 10, to fol. 184a, end of l. 9; the second saṭar is for the same reason defective in the beginning; 18. on fol. 168b; 19. on fol. 174a, breaking off on fol. 177b; a large lacuna after fol. 177, corresponding to No. 101, fol. 196b, l. 3, to fol. 210b, l. 3, comprises the end of the nineteenth ṣafḥah, the whole of the twentieth (the Âḳ-ḳoyunlû), and the beginning of the Third Nuskhah, which opens abruptly, on fol. 178a, in the reign of Shâh Isma'îl. The record of events from A. H. 906 to 972 begins here on fol. 179a. The copy breaks off on fol. 234b, in A. H. 972, after the first twelve lines, just as in Rieu i. p. 115.

The remainder of this copy, viz. ff. 235a–259b, contains a fragment of Amîr Yaḥyâ bin 'Abd-allaṭîf al-Ḥusainî al-Ḳazwînî's Lubb-altawârîkh (compiled A. H. 948, see above, 101–103 in this Cat.), beginning with the fifth bâb of the third ḳism (the Ḳarâ- and Âḳ-ḳoyunlû), and breaking off in the reign of Shâh Ismâ'îl Ṣafawî; the sixth and last bâb of the third ḳism (the Uzbegs) is found here on fol. 247a, the beginning of the fourth ḳism (the Ṣafawî dynasty) on fol. 248b.

This defective copy belonged formerly to Mr. Richard Johnson.

No. 61, ff. 259, ll. 19; clear and distinct Nasta'lîḳ; ff. 235–259 written by several other hands; size, 9 in. by 4¼ in.

Another equally defective copy of the same.

It begins abruptly on fol. 3a in the preface. First words: ملال زدودد و پایهٔ قدر الخ, corresponding to the preceding copy, fol. 1a, middle of l. 2.

Author's name on fol. 3b, l. 1; dedication to Ṭahmâsp on fol. 4b, l. 3 sq.; title on fol. 4b, ll. 7 and 8. Index on ff. 4b–7a, first line.

'Unwân on fol. 7a.

Nuskhah I, first âyah, on fol. 7b, last line; a lacuna after fol. 9, comprising one leaf (Yâfeth to Isḥâḳ). Second âyah, first naṣṣ, on fol. 14b; this part breaks off on fol. 16b, in consequence of a very extensive lacuna after fol. 16, which comprises the end of the first naṣṣ and almost the whole second naṣṣ, together with the first Ṣaḥîfah of Nuskhah II, except a short portion of the second naṣṣ, the beginning of the first Ṣaḥîfah of Nuskhah II (on ff. 1 and 2), and the portion from the end of the fourth saṭar of the second ṣafḥah to the end of the sixth saṭar of the same (on ff. 17a–20a). These small remnants, which are preserved here, correspond to the preceding copy, fol. 13b, l. 7, to fol. 15b, l. 3, and fol. 21a, l. 1, to fol. 24a, l. 14.

The second Ṣaḥîfah of Nuskhah II, in twenty ṣafḥas, is found here: 1. on fol. 20a; 2. on fol. 23b; 3. on fol. 33b; 4. on fol. 60b; 5. on fol. 63b, l. 6 (heading omitted); 6. on fol. 70b; 7. on fol. 98a; 8. on fol. 103b (read هشتم instead of ششم, and غوریه instead of قوریه); 9. on fol. 113a; 10. on fol. 115b, last line; 11. on fol. 119b, first line; 12. on fol. 123a; 13. on fol. 127a; 14. on fol. 133a; 15. on fol. 145b, first line; 16. on fol. 151a; 17. on ff. 177a–187b and 223–231a; 18. on ff. 231a, 231b, 188a–193a (read هژدهم instead of سیزدهم); 19. on fol. 193a; 20. on fol. 196b.

Nuskhah III, on ff. 204b–222b and 232a–244b. There is a lacuna after fol. 222, corresponding to the preceding copy (No. 61), fol. 190a, last line, to fol. 191b, l. 2. On fol. 244b this Nuskhah breaks off in A. H. 936, corresponding to No. 61, fol. 207b, l. 4 ab infra, so that the final portion of No. 61 (viz. ff. 208–234) is entirely missing here. But there is another lacuna on the last page, between ll. 1 and 2, where the copyist probably found a gap in the MS., from which he transcribed this, corresponding to No. 61, fol. 205a, lin. penult., to fol. 207a, lin. penult. A seal of A. H. 1188 (A. D. 1774, 1775) on the fly-leaf.

The proper order of the leaves is: 3–16, lacuna, 1, 2, lacuna, 17–187, 223–231, 188–222, lacuna, 232–244, lacuna.

No. 101, ff. 244, ll. 15; Nasta'lîḳ; greatly injured and part totally destroyed by the worms; size, 8⅝ in. by 4½ in.

Mirât-aladwâr (مرآت الادوار).

General history, from Âdam to A. H. 974 (A. D. 1566, 1567), by Muḥammad Muṣliḥ-aldîn al-Lârî al-Anṣârî, who died at Âmid in Diyârbakr, A. H. 979 (A. D. 1571, 1572); see Rieu i. pp. 116 and 117; Ḥ. Khalfa i. p. 241; G. Flügel ii. p. 74 (where it is wrongly styled مختصر تاریخ لاری), etc. As five leaves are missing at the beginning of this copy, the author's name does not appear. It is divided into ten bâbs, viz.

1. Âdam and the first prophets, imperfect at the beginning. 2. The Pishdâdians of Persia and the prophets and holy men of their time, on fol. 4b. 3. The Kayânians and their contemporaries, on fol. 27b. 4. The Sâsânians and their contemporaries, on fol. 47b. 5. Origin and rise of the Islâm, history of Muḥammad, the first four Khalîfs, the Imâms, the Umayyades, and the 'Abbâsides, on fol. 65b. 6. The other dynasties contemporary with and posterior to the 'Abbâsides, on fol. 216b, in eight ṭabaḳas, viz. (a) the Ṣaffârides, on fol. 216b; (b) the Sâmânides, on fol. 219a; (c) the Dailamîs, on fol. 223a; (d) the Ghaznawides, on fol. 230b; (e) the Saljûḳs, on fol. 246a; (f) the Khwârizmshâhs, on fol. 280b; (g and h) the Isma'îlîs of Maghrib and Îrân, on fol. 287b. 7. Çingizkhân and his successors, on fol. 300a. 8. Timûr and his successors in Îrân, on fol. 354b. 9. Ḥasanbeg and his successors (the Âḳ-ḳoyunlû), beginning not marked. The brief mention of the Ṣafawî rulers, Shâh Isma'îl and Shâh Ṭahmâsp, is found on ff. 426b and 427a. 10. The first 'Uthmânî or Turkish Sulṭâns from their origin to A. H. 974, the date of the death of Sulaimân I and the accession of Salîm II, on fol. 428b.

No date.

The abrupt beginning runs thus: قابیل رسم نکاح را ترك کردند و شقوق فجور و فسوق بظهور آوردند الخ.

No. 166, ff. 451, ll. 21; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 10¾ in. by 6½ in.

Ta'rîkh-i-Alfî (تأریخ الفی).

The first half, or about the first two volumes of the very rare and valuable general history, which is known as the Ta'rîkh-i-Alfî, and gives a detailed account of the millennium after Muḥammad's death to A. H. 997 (A. D. 1589). It was commenced, by order of the emperor Akbar, in A. H. 993 (A. D. 1585), by Mullâ Aḥmad Tatawî, and continued, after his assassination on the 15th of Ṣafar, A. H. 996 (A. D. 1588, January 15), see below, No. 3293 (112 in this Cat.), fol. 2a, l. 9 sq., by Âṣafkhân. The final revision of the first two volumes was undertaken by Badâ'ûnî in A. H. 1000 (A. D. 1591, 1592), that of the third by Âṣafkhân; comp. Bodleian Cat., No. 99; Rieu i. p. 117 sq.; Elliot, Bibliographical Index, p. 143 sq.; and History of India, v. pp. 150–176. This copy comprises the first five hundred years, and goes down to A. H. 510.

Beginning of the first volume, on fol. 1b: آغاز کتاب در بیان امور یکه واقع شده بود در سال اوّل از رحلت خاتم النّبیّین که چون خاتم النّبیّین رحلت فرمودند اهل بیت آغاز گریه و زاری کردند الخ.

The second volume begins here, on fol. 254b, with the 135th year of the Riḥlat or death of Muḥammad (=A. H. 145): و از جملهٔ وقائع این سال آنکه ابراهیم عبد اللّٰه الخ.

The copy is very badly written, and extremely incorrect in dates. There is the greatest confusion in the headings, but the text seems to be in proper order and uninterrupted.

Dated the 5th of Rajab, A. H. 1058 (A. D. 1648, July 26).

No. 836, ff. 602, ll. 27–32; very unequally written in different kinds of careless Nasta'lîḳ and Shikasta by many different hands; some pages seriously damaged; illuminated frontispiece; size, 13½ in. by 8 in.

The same.

Another copy of the second volume, beginning exactly like the preceding copy with the 135th year of the Riḥlat, but going down to the middle of the 506th year of the same era (A. H. 145–516), that is, six years further than No. 836. It comes to an abrupt end with the words: .... قرار بآن داد که روز نهم. The 500th year of the Riḥlat (the end of the second volume in the preceding copy) concludes here on fol. 253b, l. 3.

Most of the last thirty-eight leaves are severely damaged.

No. 10, ff. 262, ll. 30; clear and distinct Nasta'lîḳ; size, 14 in. by 8¾ in.

The same.

The second, third, and fourth volumes of the Ta'rîkh-i-Alfî.

Second volume (No. 3291) begins here (much later than in the two preceding copies) with the Khilâfat of Muḥammad Amîn bin Hârûn-alrashîd, in the year of the Riḥlat, 183 (=A. H. 193), and goes down to that of Al-Muḳtafî (Abû 'Abdallâh bin almustaẓhir) in the year of the Riḥlat, 520 (=A. H. 530), that is, twenty years further than No. 836.

Third volume (No. 3292) begins with the year of the Riḥlat, 521 (=A. H. 531), and breaks off in the year of the Riḥlat, 682 or 683 (=A. H. 692 or 693); there are besides two large lacunas in this volume, viz. between ff. 312 and 313 (eight blank leaves being inserted), and between ff. 409 and 410 (six blank leaves).

Fourth volume (No. 3293) begins, after the preface of the continuator Âṣafkhân, with the end of the year of the Riḥlat, 684 (=A. H. 694), and goes down to the year of the Riḥlat, 987 (=A. H. 997).

This excellent copy was finished the 14th of Rabî'-althânî, A. H. 1015 (A. D. 1606, August 19).

No. 3291, ff. 443; No. 3292, ff. 415; No. 3293, ff. 494, ll. 27; clear and distinct Nasta'lîḳ; size, 12–12½ in. by 8–8½ in.

The same.

The second half or the third and fourth volumes of the Ta'rîkh-i-Alfî, together with a small portion of the second volume, incomplete at the end. It begins in the midst of the 484th year of the Riḥlat (=A. H. 494): در آن سعی و اجتهاد نمودند اثری الخ, corresponding to No. 10 (111 in this Cat.), fol. 221a, first line, and goes down to the beginning of the 975th year of the Riḥlat (=A. H. 985). The second half (or the 501st year of the Riḥlat=A. H. 511) begins on fol. 33b, l. 4. There is a lacuna after fol. 59. Ff. 85 and 542–549 are severely damaged. The right order of ff. 141–149 is this: 141, 143–148, 142, 149; and of ff. 183–187 this: 183, 186, 184, 185, 187. Most of the headings and dates are missing.

No. 312, ff. 549, ll. 30; clear and distinct Nasta'lîḳ; size, 14½ in. by 8¾ in.

The same.

A large portion of the same second half, beginning in the midst of the 545th year of the Riḥlat (=A. H. 555): مابعد از چند روز زین الدین الخ, and going down to the end of the 974th year of the Riḥlat (=A. H. 984). It breaks off with these words: و یکهزار دویست کس ازیشان بقتل آوردند مجملا درین روز ...., corresponding to No. 3293 (112 in this Cat.), fol. 493a, l. 9.

Many headings are omitted.

No. 121, ff. 495, ll. 30; clear Nasta'lîḳ; size, 14½ in. by 8¾ in.

The same.

Another portion of the second half of the Ta'rîkh-i-Alfî, beginning in the midst of the 585th year of the Riḥlat (=A. H. 595): متروجّه قطع و قطع مادّهٔ ملاحدهٔ اسمعیلیّه الخ, corresponding to No. 312 (113 in this Cat.), fol. 127a, l. 26, and going down to the midst of the 974th year of the Riḥlat (=A. H. 984). It breaks off with the words: .... یازده کس از نسل شاه اسمعیل, corresponding to No. 312, fol. 548b, last line.

A full index of this copy's contents is found on the fly-leaves.

No. 316, ff. 476, ll. 29-30; written in good and distinct Nasta'lîḳ by at least three different hands; size, 13¾ in. by 8½ in.

The same.

Another portion of the same second half, beginning with the 553rd year of the Riḥlat (=A. H. 563): ذکر وقائع سال پانصد وپنجاه و سیوم از رحلت سیّد البشر علیه و آله التحیّة من الملك الخ, and going down to the end of the 932nd year of the Riḥlat (=A. H. 942). It breaks off with these words: محمّد سلطان و سلطان چنید برلاس ضبط خزائن دهلی مأمور شدند و آنحضرت ...., corresponding to No. 3293 (112 in this Cat.), fol. 388b, first line.

No. 152, ff. 211, ll. 31; small, but clear Nasta'lîḳ; illuminated frontispiece; slightly worm-eaten throughout; size, 12¾ in. by 7½ in.

The same.

A smaller portion of the second half, or the third volume of the Ta'rîkh-i-Alfî, beginning with the 501st year of the Riḥlat (=A. H. 511): ذکر وقائع سال پانصد و یکم از رحلت سیّد بشر.... در اوائل این سال سلطان سنجر الخ, and going down to the middle of the 679th year of the Riḥlat (=A. H. 689). It breaks off with the words: .... بجانب روم فرستادند و پادشاه, corresponding to No. 316 (115 in this Cat.), fol. 147b, l. 5. Blanks on ff. 186b, 196a, 196b, 199a, 199b (entirely blank), 200a, and 215a.

No. 835, ff. 320, ll. 29; clear and distinct Nasta'lîḳ; illuminated frontispiece; size, 13½ in. by 8½ in.

Majâmi'-alakhbâr (مجامع الاخبار).

A compendium of general history, from the beginning to A. H. 1000 (A. D. 1591, 1592), by Muḥammad Sharîf alḥusainî, known as Wuḳû'î, who entered a second time the service of the emperor Akbar in A. H. 998= A. D. 1590 (see fol. 3b, l. 3 ab infra). The title, written here incorrectly as مجامع لخبار, appears on fol. 4a, l. 5. On fol. 1a the work is simply called: تأریخ محمّد شریف وقوعی.

Beginning: ستایش سعادت اساس مالکی را سزد که ملك قدیمش بیزوالست الخ.

There is no proper subdivision to be found in this copy; we only learn from fol. 64b and other occasional headings, that it comprises two maḳâlas of very unequal proportion, the first comprising the ante-Muḥammadan, the second the post-Muḥammadan history.

First maḳâlah (not marked) begins with a short sketch of the usefulness of historiography (بیان فوائد علم تأریخ), on fol. 4a, after which follow:

Old prophets, kings of the Israelites, etc., on fol. 4b, beginning with Âdam and ending with Khâlid bin Sinân (Jesus on fol. 21a, Seven Sleepers on fol. 23a, St. George on fol. 23b, Simeon on fol. 24b).

Old philosophers and sages, on fol. 25a, ending with Buzurjmihr.

Old Persian kings, on fol. 29a, in four ṭabaḳât, from Gayûmarth to Yazdajird III.

Banû Lakhm in the Arabian 'Irâḳ, on fol. 56a.

The Ghassânians in Syria, on fol. 57b.

The Tubba's in Yaman, on fol. 58b.

Second maḳâlah, on fol. 64b, beginning with the history of Muḥammad's life, his genealogy, wives, children, etc.; the first four Khalifs, the twelve Imâms, the Aṣḥâb, etc. (Abû Bakr on fol. 74a, 'Umar on fol. 76a, 'Uthmân on fol. 78b, 'Alî on fol. 83a, the Imâms on fol. 90b).

The Umayyade Khalifs, on fol. 92b.

The 'Abbâside Khalifs, on fol. 114a.

Minor dynasties, contemporary with the 'Abbâsides: Ṭâhirides, on fol. 204a; Ṣaffârides, on fol. 205a; Sâmânides, on fol. 206a; Dailamîs, on fol. 209a; Ghaznawides, on fol. 214a; Ghûrides, on fol. 217a; Kurt kings, on fol. 219b; Saljûḳs, on fol. 221a (Saljûḳs of Kirmân, on fol. 229b; Saljûḳs of Rûm, on fol. 230a); Khwârizmshâhs, on fol. 230b; Isma'îlîs, on fol. 237b (this part is curiously styled باب از مقالهٔ اوّل); Ḥasan Ṣabâḥ, on fol. 240b; Ḳarâkhitâ'îs of Kirmân, on fol. 242b; Atâbegs of Fârs, Diyârbakr, and Adharbaijân, in three shu'bahs, on fol. 243a; Atâbegs of Lûristân, on fol. 246a.

Moghuls, on fol. 246b, to Ṭughâtimûrkhân.

(History of Cingizkhân begins on fol. 249a; a short chapter on the Sulṭâns of Egypt, on fol. 255[a]; reign of Sulṭân Abû Sa'îdkhân, on fol. 260[b].)

Sulṭâns who ruled after the Moghuls in some of the Bilâd-i-jibâl, that is, the local dynasties of the Cingiz-khânîs, in five ṭâ'ifas, of which however only four are distinctly marked, viz. Cûpânîs, on fol. 263[b]; Îlkânîs, on fol. 264[a]; Muẓaffaris, on fol. 266[a] (preceded on fol. 265[a] by the history of Amir Shaikh Abû Isḥâḳ, the last Înjûking, which is probably reckoned as third ṭâ'ifah); and Sarbadârs, on fol. 268[b].

The Timûrides in Îrân and Tûrân, beginning with Timûr himself, on fol. 271[a], and ending with a short sketch of the Caghatâikhâns of Tûrân, on fol. 304[b].

History of India, first part, beginning on fol. 306[a] with Sabuktagîn; Ḳuṭb-aldîn Aibak, and the following kings of Dihlî, on fol. 306[b], down to Sulṭân 'Alâ-aldîn Maḥmûdshâh bin Sulṭân Muḥammadshâh, the last of the Sayyids, and the rise of the house of Lûdî.

Kings of Gujarât, from the early Râjahs to A. H. 999, on fol. 334[b].

Bahmanî kings of the Dakhan, on fol. 336[b].

Kings of Baṅgâlah, on fol. 338[a].

Rulers of Mâlwah, on fol. 340[a].

Rulers of Jaunpûr, on fol. 342[b].

History of India, second part, from Bahlûl Lûdî to Ibrâhîm Lûdî, on fol. 343[b].

Sketch of the reign of the Ḳarâ-ḳoyunlû, on fol. 344[b]; of the Âḳ-ḳoyunlû, on fol. 352[a]; of the Uzbegs, on fol. 360[a]; of the Ṣafawîs, on fol. 364[b] (accession of Shâh 'Abbâs, on fol. 383[a]); and of the 'Uthmânî Sulṭâns, on fol. 385[a].

History of India, third part, beginning with Bâbar, on fol. 389[b] (a portion of his history has been told already in the chapter of the Ṣafawîs, on fol. 369[b] sq.); first reign of Humâyûn, on fol. 391[a]; Shîrkhân, etc., on fol. 393[a]; second reign of Humâyûn, on fol. 398[a]; Akbar, on fol. 398[b]. The history of this emperor is brought down to A. H. 1000.

No date. The oldest entry on fol. 1[a] is from A. H. 1027 (A. D. 1618), so that the copy of this rare work, not met with anywhere else, is comparatively old. Other seals from A. H. 1169, 1192, 1198, etc.

No. 1758, ff. 410, ll. 23; very small Nasta'lîḳ; worm-eaten and occasionally damaged besides, particularly on fol. 55; size, 10 in. by 5¼ in.

General history.

An anonymous universal history from the beginning of the world to A. H. 1001 = A. D. 1592, 1593 (the last date found here, on fol. 537[b]), and the conquest of the Dakhan by Akbar. The copy is defective, both at the beginning and in many parts of the context; in fact, it is impossible to state how many lacunas there may be, and how many leaves are misplaced by the binder, as there are no catchwords at all, and the contents of the book are in the most hopeless state of confusion imaginable. No strict subdivision is visible anywhere. To give an idea of the pell-mell character of this book, we subjoin the principal headings in the order in which they appear:

Fragments of a general index, on ff. 1 and 2, with a lacuna both after fol. 1 and fol. 2.

Part of the history of the Khalîf 'Uthmân, on fol. 3[a] (the story of his death appears on fol. 533[b]!). Again a lacuna after fol. 5.

Part of the history of 'Alî, on fol. 6[a] (the beginning of 'Alî's Khilâfat appears on fol. 532[b] in the middle of the page!).

History of Ḥasan, on fol. 15[b]; of Ḥusain, on fol. 18[a]; of 'Alî ibn Al-Ḥusain and the following Imâms, on fol. 19[b] sq.

Khilâfat of Mu'âwiyah, on fol. 27[a]; of Yazîd, on fol. 29[b]. History of the martyrs of Karbalâ, on fol. 32[a].

The other Umayyade Khalîfs, on fol. 32[b].

Abû Muslim, on fol. 56[b].

'Abbâside Khalîfs in Asia, on fol. 58[a] sq.

'Abbâsides in Egypt, on fol. 83[b].

Kings of Yaman, on fol. 90[a].

Ghassânians in Syria, on fol. 100[b].

Banû Umayyah in Maghrib, on fol. 103[a].

Banû Aghlab in Afrika, on fol. 103[b].

Mulaththamîn, on fol. 106[b].

The Ṭûlûnîs, on fol. 108[a].

The Ikhshîdîs, on fol. 108[b].

The Ḥamdânîs, on fol. 109[a].

The Ṭughtiginîs, on fol. 110[b].

The Dânishmandîs, on fol. 111[a].

The Urtuḳîs, on fol. 111[b].

The Saliḳîs, on fol. 112[a].

The Isma'îlîs in Afrika, Egypt, and Syria, on fol. 112[a].

Sharîfs of Makkah, on fol. 116[b].

The Banû Kilâb of Ḥalab, on fol. 118[a]; the Banû 'Uḳail, on fol. 118[b]; the Banû Asad, on fol. 119[b].

The Musha'sha' Sayyids, on fol. 120[a].

The Atâbegs, on fol. 121[a].

The Ayyûbites, on fol. 128[b]. History of Ṣalâḥ-aldîn Yûsuf and his successors, on fol. 129[a].

Mamlûk kings of Egypt, etc., on fol. 145[b].

Old Persian kings, on fol. 175[a] sq.

Mulûk-alṭawâ'if, on fol. 192[b].

Kings of Ṭabaristân, on fol. 205[b]; Ḥusâm-aldaulah and successors in Mâzandarân, on fol. 207[b]. Rulers of Gîlân, on fol. 211[b]; of Rustamdâr, on fol. 212[b]. Kings of Dailam or Bûwaihides, on fol. 216[a].

Washmgîr and his successors, on fol. 222[b].

The Ṭâhirides in Khurâsân, on fol. 224[a].

The Ṣaffârides, on fol. 226[a].

The Ghaznawides, on fol. 228[a] (the Sâmânides follow on fol. 382[b], between the Âl-i-Jûjî and the Âl-i-Afrâsiyâb!).

The Saljûḳs, on fol. 235[a].

Rulers of Khwârizm, on fol. 245[a].

The Ghûrides, on fol. 255[a].

Rulers of Kurdistân, on fol. 268[b]; of Lâr, on fol. 269[b]; of Hurmuz, on fol. 273[b]; of Shîrwân, on fol. 274[b].

Atâbegs of Adharbaijân, on fol. 275[b].

Salgharides, on fol. 276[a].

Rulers of Kirmân, on fol. 280[a].

Ḳarâkhitâ'î rulers in Kirmân, on fol. 281[b].

Muẓaffarides in Fârs, on fol. 283[a].

Sarbadârs in Khurâsân, on fol. 295[a].

Kurt kings in Harât, on fol. 297[a].

Shâhrukh, on fol. 300[a].

The Âḳ-ḳoyunlû, on fol. 314[a]; the Ḳarâ-ḳoyunlû, on fol. 315[b].

Shaikh Ṣafi-aldîn and successors, on fol. 318b.
Shâh Isma'îl, on fol. 320a.
Shâh Ṭahmâsp, on fol. 331b.
Rulers of Khatâ or China in thirty-six ṭabaḳât, but arranged in a very queer and incomprehensible manner; it begins with a ninth ṭabaḳah on fol. 339b; after the twenty-first suddenly a new series of ṭabaḳât sets in on fol. 346a, and a third series again on fol. 347b.
The descendants of Yâfeth bin Nûḥ, on fol. 352b (immediately after the thirty-sixth ṭabaḳah of the Chinese rulers).
The emperor Humâyûn, on fol. 354b.
Cingizkhân, on fol. 364a.
Sulṭâns of Transoxania after Muḥammadkhân, on fol. 369b.
Âl-i-Jûjî in Khwârizm, on fol. 372b.
The Sâmânides (see above), on fol. 382b.
Âl-i-Afrâsiyâb, on fol. 389a.
Sulṭâns of Transoxania before Timûr, on fol. 391b.
Timûr, on fol. 392a, last line sq.; his death, on fol. 410a; his successors in Transoxania, on fol. 410b sq.
The emperor Bâbar, on fol. 415a.
History of the Israelites after Joshua, on fol. 424b.
History of the Ptolemies in Egypt, on fol. 430a.
Âdam and the patriarchs (Âdam's history pretends to be the European version, according to the people of Frangistân; the author says, God created Âdam in Frangistân (sic!), and brought him then to the paradise), on fol. 431a.
Jesus' birth and life, on fol. 433a.
Roman emperors, on fol. 433b.
Saljûḳs in Rûm, on fol. 449b.
The 'Uthmânî dynasty, on fol. 452b.
Ante-Muḥammadan rulers of India, on fol. 470b.
Shâkmûnî, on fol. 473b.
Post-Muḥammadan rulers of India, on fol. 479b.
Khiljî dynasty, on fol. 482b; Tughluḳshâhs, on fol. 489b; the Sayyids, on fol. 496b; house of Lûdî, on fol. 502b; Shîrkhân Afghân and his successors, on fol. 506a.
Sulṭâns of Gujarât, beginning with Muẓaffarshâh, on fol. 509a.
After fol. 512 a large lacuna; rulers of Rûm appear again on fol. 513a, beginning with منجاتيل; on fol. 514a the history of Iskandar bin Ḳarâ Yûsuf begins; on fol. 415a the history of Gujarât continues, and goes down to the abdication of Muẓaffar III, A. H. 980.
Rulers of Mâlwah, on fol. 523a.
Lacuna after fol. 527. Portion of the history of the Râjahs of Kashmîr, on fol. 528a.
Again the emperor Bâbar, on fol. 530b.
On fol. 532b suddenly appears the Khilâfat of 'Alî (see above); on fol. 533b the death of 'Uthmân; on fol. 534a an account of Ṭalḥah and Zubair.
On fol. 535a continuation of Indian history. On fol. 537b the last date, A. H. 1001, and a short statement about the conquest of the Dakhan.
The following pages are more or less seriously injured: ff. 1, 21, 22, 175, 176, 184b, 185a, 190b, 191a, 192b, 193a, 257, 258, 282b, 283a, 323, 324a, 341, 342b, 343, 344a, 368, 370a, 380, 381, 386–388, 397b, 398, 399, 403, 404, 408b, 409, 446b, 447a, 513, and 537. The upper half of fol. 105 is glued together with fol. 106.

Ma'din-i-akhbâr-i-Aḥmadî (معدن اخبار احمدى).

Part of the second volume of the general history of the world by Aḥmad bin Bahbal bin Jamâl Kamgû, commonly known as Kanbû, who compiled it in Jahângîr's reign, about A. H. 1023 (A. D. 1614); see Rieu iii. p. 888, where a large portion of the first volume, going down to the reign of Ibrâhîm Lûdî, is described. This second volume comprises the history of the Caghatâi dynasty and the rulers of India from Timûr to Jahângîr, see the beginning of our copy, on fol. 1b: تأريخ معدن اخبار احمدى در بيان خلافت سلسلهٔ شريفهٔ چغتيّه و بعضى از سلاطين ديار هند تا عهد خلافت ظلّ اللّه نور الدين محمّد جهانگير بادشاه غازى الخ. It is divided into many ذكر, like the first volume (see Rieu, loc. cit.), but only four are properly numbered, viz. the fortieth on fol. 115b, the forty-first on fol. 127a, the forty-second on fol. 128a, and the forty-third on fol. 146b, where a new section begins.
Contents:
Reign of Timûr, on fol. 2a; Timûr's descendants, on fol. 27a; beginning, on fol. 27b, with 'Umar Shaikh Mirzâ; Bâbar, on fol. 31b; first reign of Humâyûn, on fol. 49a; Akbar's birth in A. H. 949, on fol. 63b; Shîr Shâh Sûr, on fol. 95a, Islâmshâh bin Shîrshâh, on fol. 115b; Fîrûzshâh bin Islâmshâh, on fol. 129a; Muḥammad 'Âdil Sûr, Ibrâhîm Sûr, and Sikandar Sûr, on fol. 128b; second reign of Humâyûn, on fol. 139a; Akbar, on fol. 146b.
This copy breaks off in the thirty-seventh year of Akbar's reign, A. H. 999 (A. D. 1590, 1591).
The copy belonged formerly to Sir Barry Close.

No. 814, ff. 343, ll. 14; large and very distinct Nasta'lîḳ; size, 12⅝ in. by 7¼ in.

Ṭirâz-alakhbâr (طراز الاخبار).

The first volume of a large and extensive general history of the world, composed by Najm-aldîn Aḥmad bin Faḍl-allâh of Khûzistân, called Aḥmadbegkhân alişfahânî, and dedicated to the emperor Aurangzîb (see fol. 2a, ll. 17 and 18, and fol. 2b, l. 3 ab infra). The title is a chronogram, and gives as date for the commencement of this work A. H. 1052 (A. D. 1642, 1643); see fol. 2b, l. 14, and comp. Rieu iii. p. 1056a.
This first volume contains:
1. A large cosmographical introduction, styled افتتاح, and beginning, on fol. 3b, last line: افتتاح در معرفت علم و بيان معنىٔ وجود و اثبات واجب الوجود و آگاهى دادن از اوّلين مخلوق در سلسلهٔ ممكن الوجود و تحقيق موجودات روحانى و جسمانى و تفصيل مراتب مخلوقات از جواهر و اعراض. This introduction comprises the whole range of astronomical, physical, geographical, philosophical, and psychological sciences in the same manner, as, for instance, Ḳazwînî's cosmography. Beginning, on fol. 1b: طراز کارنامهٔ اخبار عوالم ابداع بنام اقدس حیّ قدیم رواست که بقیومیّت ذات کاملهٔ قوام انتظام اجناس جواهر موجودات الخ.

2. The first bâb of the whole work, styled باب آغاز (see fol. 60a), and introduced by a preface, entitled مفتاح, on the Jinns and the creation of Âdam and Eve, on fol. 57b (ذکر خلق بنی جانّ و احوال ایشان و تخمیر طینت ابو البشر تاهبوط آنحضرت از روضات جنان). The first bâb itself is divided into two لخت, the first of which comprises the whole biblical history in four چمن: (1) from Âdam to Jacob, on fol. 60a; (2) from Joseph to Khiḍr, on fol. 81a; (3) from Joshua, the son of Nûn, to David, including an account of Luḳmân, on fol. 104b; (4) from Solomon to Jesus, St. George, the Seven Sleepers, etc., on fol. 113a. The second لخت comprises the old Persian dynasties, the Pishdâdians, the Kayânians, the Mulûk-alṭawâ'if, the Sâsânians, etc., together with short accounts of contemporary ante-Muḥammadan rulers; likewise in four چمن: (1) on fol. 142a, (2) on fol. 150a, (3) on fol. 157b, (4) on fol. 159a, introduced by an ethical chapter on the duties and qualities of a Pâdishâh. Beginning of this first bâb, on fol. 57b: سر آغاز هر نامهٔ نامی اسم سامی واجب الاعظامی زیبد که قولش از شائبهٔ صوت و حرف مبرّاست الخ.

No. 733, ff. 195, ll. 23; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 15½ in. by 9½ in.

Intikhâb-i-Muntakhab (انتخاب منتخب).

An abridgment of Muḥammad Yûsuf bin Shaikh Raḥmat-allâh al-Ataki al-Kan'ânî's general history, entitled منتخب التواریخ, and completed A. H. 1056, 15th of Dhû-alḥijjah (A. D. 1647, January 22), a detailed description of which is given in Rieu i. pp. 122–124. This extract, which is styled انتخاب منتخب تواریخ, or simply انتخاب منتخب (see fol. 2b, l. 9), was made, as far as the bad handwriting allows us to decipher, by 'Abd-alshakûr (see fol. 2a, l. 8), and finished under 'Âlamgir, A. H. 1084 (A. D. 1673, 1674). It goes down, like the original, to the accession of Shâhjahân, A. H. 1037, and is divided into the same five ḳisms.

Beginning: انتخاب منتخب کلام ابلغ النظام و خلاصهٔ مقاصد و مرام سلاطین ذی الاحترام الخ.

Dated the 25th of Rajab, in the twenty-fourth year of Muḥammadshâh's reign (=A. H. 1155, not 1149, as here is written, A. D. 1742, September 25).

No. 170, ff. 144, ll. 20; Shikasta; size, 10½ in. by 5½ in.

Mirât-al'âlam (مرآت العالم).

General history, from the oldest times to A. H. 1078 (A. D. 1667, 1668), usually ascribed to Bakhtâwarkhân (who died A. H. 1096=A. D. 1685), but composed in fact by Shaikh Muḥammad Bâḳâ; see below in the Mirât-i-Jahânnumâ. For further details we refer to Bodleian Cat., Nos. 114–116; Rieu i. pp. 125–127 and iii. pp. 890 and 1080a; W. Morley, p. 52 sq.; and Elliot, History of India, vii. p. 145 sq.

It is divided into a muḳaddimah and seven Ârâyish (see the index on ff. 3a–5a), viz.:

Muḳaddimah, on the creation, on fol. 5a.

Ârâyish I, on ante-Muḥammadan history, on fol. 35a, in four numâyish.

Ârâyish II, history of Muḥammad, the first four Khalîfs, etc., on fol. 54b, in twelve numâyish.

Ârâyish III, history of the Umayyade and 'Abbâside Khalîfs, as well as of the other contemporary and succeeding dynasties to Timûr, on fol. 141a, in eight numâyish.

Ârâyish IV, history of Timûr and his descendants, of the Turks in Asia Minor, and the Ṣafawî dynasty, on fol. 215a, in five numâyish.

Ârâyish V, history of India to the accession of Bâbar, on fol. 235b, in nine numâyish.

Ârâyish VI, history of Bâbar, Humâyûn, Akbar, Jahângîr, and Shâhjahân, on fol. 298a, in five numâyish.

Ârâyish VII, history of Aurangzîb and his contemporaries, probably beginning on fol. 459a (the heading is missing), in three pairâyish.

The conclusion, containing the biographies of poets in alphabetical order, which is usually in other copies, and likewise in the index of this copy, called the خاتمهٔ کتاب, forms here the fourth نمود of the third پیرایش of the seventh Ârâyish. At the end is a short addition by another author, fixing the death of Bakhtâwarkhân in A. H. 1096.

Beginning of this copy: الحمد للّٰه الذی منّ علی المؤمنین اذ بعث فیهم رسولاً منهم یتلو علیهم آیاته و اوضح لهم الخ.

Copied by Ghulâm Muḥammad, but not dated. Collated throughout. Ff. 130b, 151b, 152a, 156b, 380b, and 435b a little injured.

No. 986, ff. 613, ll. 21; Nasta'lîḳ; illuminated frontispiece; size, 11¼ in. by 7 in.

A fragment of the same Mirât-al'âlam.

Beginning: برتربن گوهری که تاجداران کشور فصاحت و تخت‌نشینان خطّهٔ بلاغت را پیرایهٔ افتخار باشد حمد و ثنای یگانه ایست الخ.

Detailed index, on ff. 4a–7a.

This fragment consists of two incoherent portions, written by two different hands, and contains:

The preface, on fol. 1b.

The index, on fol. 4a.

The muḳaddimah or introduction, on fol. 8a.

The beginning of the first Ârâyish, on fol. 9b, which breaks off already on fol. 11a.

An index of the 250 poets, whose short biographies are given in the khâtimah of this work, on ff. 12b–16b.

The greater portion of the seventh Ârâyish, containing the history of 'Âlamgîr's reign from A. H. 1068–1078 (A. D. 1658–1668), that of the contemporary rulers, amîrs, shaikhs, etc., together with a topographical and statistical account of Hindûstân, etc., on ff. 17ª–153ᵇ, defective both at the beginning (where two leaves are missing) and at the end (where a large lacuna of forty-seven leaves is found after fol. 153).

The last words of the khâtimah, on fol. 154ª.

Consequently there are missing in this copy: the greater portion of Ârâyish I, the entire five Ârâyish from II–VI inclusive, the beginning and end of Ârâyish VII, and the whole khâtimah or tadhkirah of Persian poets, except the last few lines.

The greater part of this copy, viz. ff. 17–154, was written by Muḥammad Manṣûr, A. H. 1131 (A. D. 1719). A marginal note on fol. 4ª tells us that the muḳaddimah and first six Ârâyish formed one volume, and the rest the second; therefore ff. 1–12 (or 1–16) belong to that first, the rest to the second volume.

Several leaves are greatly injured; many parts quite effaced and illegible.

No. 899, ff. 154, ll. 24-25; Nasta'lîḳ, by two different hands; size, 9¾ in. by 5¼ in.

Mirât-i-Jahânnumâ (مرآت جهانُنما).

An almost complete copy of the extremely rare Mirât-i-Jahânnumâ or general history of the world, an enlarged edition of the Mirât-al'âlam, which is due, like the shorter work, to the authorship of Shaikh Muḥammad Baḳâ (born A. H. 1037 = A. D. 1627, 1628, died A. H. 1094 = A. D. 1683), and not to Bakhtâwarkhân, as Rieu has proved in his Cat., iii. pp. 890 sq. and 1018ª; see also Elliot, History of India, vii. pp. 145–165. The usual edition of this work is that by the author's nephew Muḥammad Shafî', A. H. 1095 (A. D. 1684). Our copy wants a portion of the introduction (two leaves being missing in the beginning, and leaving the question who the editor was uncertain), all the rest is complete; but the division into Ârâyish differs considerably from that in Rieu's incomplete copy, especially as there are eleven instead of seven, although the contents are exactly the same. Minor differences appear in the subdivisions of the various Ârâyish, and it is not unlikely that we have got here the later edition of Muḥammad Baḳâ's younger brother Riḍâ, see Rieu iii. p. 1018. It opens in the elaborate index (on ff. 1ª–5ª) with the first Pairâyish of the first Ârâyish.

Contents:

Muḳaddimah, on fol. 5ª, on creation, in five Guftâr.

Ârâyish I, ante-Muḥammadan history, in three Pairâyish: 1. On fol. 11ª, old prophets, in forty-nine Numâyish, from Âdam to the Seven Sleepers, St. George, the monk Jarîḥ, and Khâlid bin Sinân. 2. On fol. 63ª, old philosophers, in sixteen Numâyish, from Luḳmân to Democritus and Buzurjmihr. 3. In two Numâyish: (a) on fol. 66ª, old Persian kings, from Gayûmarth to Yazdajird III; (b) on fol. 71ᵇ, kings of Yaman and Syria before the Islâm.

Ârâyish II, history of Muḥammad, the first four Khalifs, and the Imâms, in nine Pairâyish: 1. On fol. 72ᵇ, Muḥammad's life from his birth to the flight, in nine Numâyish. 2. On fol. 88ª, Muḥammad's life from the flight to his death, in thirteen Numâyish. 3. On fol. 133ᵇ, his wives, children, scribes, etc., in three Numâyish. 4. On fol. 138ᵇ, the first four Khalifs, in four Numâyish. 5. On fol. 161ª, the Imâms, in twelve Numâyish. 6. On fol. 166ᵇ, the Aṣḥâb, etc., alphabetically arranged in twenty-seven Numâyish. 7. On fol. 173ᵇ, the Tâbi'în and the four Mujtahidîn, beginning with Abû Ḥanîfah, in two Numâyish. 8. On fol. 176ª, the seven readers of the Ḳurân and the traditionists, in two Numâyish. 9. On fol. 178ª, renowned Shaikhs, Saints, Ḥakîms, etc., in four Numâyish.

Ârâyish III, the Umayyade and the 'Abbâside Khalifs, together with the contemporary minor dynasties, in eight Pairâyish: 1. On fol. 230ª, the Umayyades. 2. On fol. 234ª, the 'Abbâsides. 3. On fol. 239ᵇ, minor dynasties, from the Ṭâhirîdes to the Ḳarâkhitâ'îs of Kirmân, in eleven Numâyish. 4. On fol. 251ᵇ, kings of Rûm, from the Caesars to the Osmanlîs, in eight Numâyish. 5. On fol. 256ᵇ, Sharîfs of Makkah and Madînah. 6. On fol. 257ª, Khâns of the Turks, in four Numâyish. 7. On fol. 258ᵇ, Ćingizkhân and his descendants, in seven Numâyish. 8. On fol. 266ᵇ, Sulṭâns who ruled in Îrân after Abû Sa'îd Bahâdurkhân, from the Ćûpânîs to the Sarbadârs, in five Numâyish.

Ârâyish IV, Timûr and his successors in Îrân and Tûrân, the Ḳarâ-ḳoyunlû and Âḳ-ḳoyunlû, and the Ṣafawîs, down to Sulaimanshâh bin 'Abbâs II, on fol. 269ᵇ, in five Pairâyish.

Ârâyish V, history of India, in ten Pairâyish: 1. Early Râjahs, on fol. 277ᵇ. 2. Emperors of Dihlî from Shihâbaldîn Ghûrî to Ibrâhîm Lûdî, on fol. 282ª. 3. Sulṭâns of the Dakhan, on fol. 294ᵇ, in six Numâyish. 4. Kings of Gujarât, on fol. 299ᵇ. 5. Rulers of Sind, on fol. 302ª, in two Numâyish. 6. Kings of Bangâlah, on fol. 304ᵇ. 7. Sulṭâns of Mâlwah, on fol. 306ª; 8. Rulers of Khândîs, on fol. 309ª. 9. Rulers of Jaunpûr, on fol. 310ª. 10. Kings of Kashmîr, on fol. 310ᵇ.

Ârâyish VI, from Bâbar to Shâhjahân, in five Pairâyish: 1. Bâbar, on fol. 313ᵇ. 2. Humâyûn, on fol. 315ᵇ. 3. Akbar, on fol. 324ª. 4. Jahângîr, on fol. 327ᵇ. 5. Shâhjahân, on fol. 335ᵇ.

Ârâyish VII, Aurangzîb 'Âlamgîr, in five Pairâyish: 1. His early life and the first ten years of his reign, on fol. 345ᵇ. 2. His eminent qualities, on fol. 375ᵇ. 3. His children, on fol. 377ᵇ. 4. Extent of his empire, on fol. 378ª. 5. Contemporary Sulṭâns, on fol. 379ª.

This Ârâyish corresponds in its contents to the first Pairâyish, and the first four Numâyish of the second Pairâyish of the seventh Ârâyish in Rieu's copy, iii. p. 891.

Ârâyish VIII, in two Pairâyish: 1. Celebrated wazîrs from the first four Khalifs to the time of 'Âlamgîr, on fol. 379ᵇ, in fourteen Numâyish. 2. 'Ulamâs and other eminent men of 'Âlamgîr's time, on fol. 391ᵇ.

This Ârâyish corresponds to the fifth Numâyish of the second Pairâyish, and the first Numûd of the third Pairâyish of the seventh Ârâyish in Rieu's copy.

Ârâyish IX, in two Pairâyish: 1. Famous calligraphers, on fol. 395ª. 2. Strange occurrences, on fol. 399ᵇ.

This Ârâyish corresponds to the second and third Numûds of the third Pairâyish of the seventh Ârâyish in Rieu's copy.

Ârâyish X, on fol. 409a, account of the author's ancestors, beginning with Khwâjah Ḍiyâ-aldîn, who came from Harât to India A.H. 754 (A.D. 1353) and became governor of Multân, corresponding to the fourth Numûd of the third Pairâyish of the seventh Ârâyish in Rieu's copy.

Ârâyish XI, on fol. 414b, notices of Persian poets, arranged alphabetically in twenty-eight Pairâyish, beginning with Abû Sa'îd bin Abû-alkhair and Abû 'Alî Ibn Sinâ. This corresponds to the first section of the khâtimah in Rieu's copy.

Khâtimah, on fol. 515a, life of the author, Shaikh Muḥammad Baḳâ, corresponding to the second section of the khâtimah in Rieu's copy.

Dated the 19th of Dhû-alḳa'dah, A.H. 1148 (the seventeenth year of Muḥammadshâh's reign) = A.D. 1736, April 1. From the rather defective colophon we learn that it was written for Mirzâ Murshid Ḳulîbeg Khânṣâḥib Tabrîzî (or as he is styled on the fly-leaf, Murshid Ḳulîkhân Bahâdur Tabrîzî, governor of Oudh). One of the copyists (probably the last) was Muḥammad Ḥusainbeg Khwâjû Gîlânî, living in Bangâlah. This copy belonged formerly to Mr. A. Welland (February 4, 1810).

No. 1497, ff. 519, ll. 25; Naskhî on ff. 1–277, parts of 299 and 301, 304–331, and 340–348; the rest in Nasta'lîḳ by various other hands; worm-eaten; size, 14½ in. by 10½ in.

Tanḳîḥ-alakhbâr (تنقيح الاخبار).

The sifting of the chronicles, a concise general history of the world, based on the best authorities, down to A.H. 1125 (A.D. 1713) in Farrukhsiyar's reign (see fol. 409a, lin. penult., and the following copy, No. 1648, fol. 335b, l. 3), by Mullâ Muḥammad Mâh (so the name is written on the fly-leaf and on fol. 1a, in the text we have not succeeded in finding it), who began this work A.H. 1117 (A.D. 1705, 1706), see fol. 3b, ll. 10 and 11. The title occurs on fol. 4a, l. 7. It begins: سبحان ربّي الاعلى ابن چه استحقاق سجدهٔ مطلق وعبادت على الاطلاق است الخ, and contains a muḳaddimah on the origin of the world and mankind, on fol. 5b, seven taḥrîrs (تحرير), and a khâtimah.

The seven تحرير treat of the following subjects:

1. History of the old prophets and sages, the ante-Muḥammadan kings of Persia down to the last of the Sâsânians, the rulers of Yaman, the Greek emperors, and the Mulûk-alṭawâ'if, on fol. 8b.

2. History of Muḥammad, his companions and followers, the Imâms, the first four Khalifs, and other famous men of the same time, partly in alphabetical order, on fol. 51b.

3. History of the Umayyade and 'Abbâside Khalifs and all the contemporary and posterior dynasties down to the successors of Ċingizkhân, the Muẓaffarides, Sarbadârs, and Kurt kings, on fol. 115b.

4. History of Timûr and his successors, the Ḳarâ-ḳoyunlû and Âḳ-ḳoyunlû, and the Ṣafawîs, on fol. 207b.

5. The minor Indian dynasties of the Dakhan, Gujarât, Sind, Multân, Bangâlah, Mâlwah, Khândîs, Kashmîr, etc., and the kings of Dihlî down to Ibrâhîm Lûdî, on fol. 219b.

6. History of the five emperors, Bâbar, Humâyûn, Akbar, Jahângîr, and Shâhjahân, on fol. 258b.

7. First section, history of the first ten years of 'Âlamgîr's reign (taken from the 'Âlamgîrnâma), to which are added noteworthy dates of the later years of the same emperor's life, of Bahâdurshâh's reign, and the first year of Farrukhsiyar, on fol. 383b.

Second section, tadhkirah of the most famous Shaikhs (on fol. 410a), Ḥakîms (on fol. 434a), 'Ulamâs (on fol. 436b), and poets (on fol. 459a) of the Islâm, for the greater part in alphabetical order. This copy was made from the author's autograph by Muḥammad Afḍal, and finished the third of Jumâdâ-alâkhar, A.H. 1108 (so is here written, but as the work itself goes down to A.H. 1125, it is undoubtedly a clerical error for A.H. 1128, which is rightly styled the fourth year of Farrukhshâh's reign, that is, of Muḥammad Farrukhsiyar) = A.D. 1716, May 25. Sayyid Khair-allâh finished the perusal of this copy the 9th of Rabî'-alawwal, A.H. 1132 (A.D. 1720, January 20).

No. 579, ff. 516, ll. 15; collated; large and distinct Nasta'lîḳ; illuminated frontispiece; size, 11⅝ in. by 7¼ in.

A defective copy of the same.

This copy is incomplete both at the beginning and end. In the beginning there are missing thirty leaves. It opens abruptly in the first taḥrîr with these words: بنابر تصرّفش در ممالك الخ . . ., corresponding to the preceding copy, fol. 35a, l. 8. Taḥrîr II, on fol. 15b; III, on fol. 66b; IV, on fol. 151b; V, on fol. 163b; VI, on fol. 202a; VII, first section, on fol. 313b. The second section begins on fol. 336a and breaks off in the beginning of the short tadhkirah of poets (چهارم بيان احوال شعرا), corresponding to the preceding copy, fol. 459b, first line. Collated throughout.

No. 1648, ff. 376, ll. 17; Nasta'lîḳ; slightly damaged in many pages, especially towards the end; size, 12½ in. by 7 in.

Miḥakk-alsulûk u miṣḳalat-alnufûs (محكّ السلوك و مصقلة النفوس).

A curious work on general history, intermixed with theological and esoteric discussions, compiled by a former companion of prince Muḥammad Mu'aẓẓam, that is, the emperor Bahâdurshâh, A.H. 1133 (A.D. 1721), see fol. 6b. After the usual praises of the prophet, the معراج, the first four Khalifs, and the explanation of the reasons for this work's composition, a long exposition of mystical philosophy follows, dealing with the نفس, معرفت گروه, فضيلت خلفا, شكر, معرفت, توبه, امّارة, مبداء, اقسام گروه بدعتيان, امّت چون خوارج وروافض

معنیٔ قضا و قدر، خلقت, and similar topics. After this introductory part the real work begins, a compendium of general history in fifteen maḳâlas and a khâtimah, all interspersed with theological and philosophical aphorisms. The contents are as follows:

Maḳâlah I: The oldest prophets, from Âdam to Nûḥ, on fol. 72a.

Maḳâlah II: Old Persian kings down to Jamshîd (including the story of Hûd, Ṣâliḥ, etc.), on fol. 87a.

Maḳâlah III: From Ḍaḥḥâk to Faridûn (including Nimrûd, Ibrâhîm, Lût, Ya'ḳûb, and Yûsuf), on fol. 94a.

Maḳâlah IV: From Minûćihr to Alexander the Great (Shu'aib, Mûsâ, Khiḍr, Ilyâs, Samuel, David, Luḳmân, Solomon, Daniel), on fol. 102a.

Maḳâlah V: Mulûk-alṭawâ'if and contemporary prophets (Zechariah, Yaḥyâ, the Seven Sleepers, Jesus, Jonah), on fol. 142a.

Maḳâlah VI: The Sâsânian kings down to Nûshirwân, on fol. 162b.

Maḳâlah VII: History of Muḥammad and the first four Khalîfs, on fol. 189a.

Maḳâlah VIII: The Umayyade Khalîfs, on fol. 256a.

Maḳâlah IX: The 'Abbâside Khalîfs, on fol. 291a.

Maḳâlah X: Rise of Islâm in India, and first Muḥammadan rulers in that country (Maḥmûd of Ghazna, etc.), on fol. 360a.

Maḳâlah XI: Emperors of Dihlî down to Ibrâhîm Lûdî (slave kings, fol. 381a; house of Khiljî, fol. 390a; house of Tughluḳ, fol. 399a; Khiḍrkhân, fol. 405a; house of Lûdî, fol. 407b), on fol. 377b.

Maḳâlah XII: From Bâbar to Shâhjahân, on fol. 410a.

Maḳâlah XIII: 'Âlamgîr and Bahâdurshâh, on fol. 438a.

Maḳâlah XIV: Jahândârshâh and Farrukhsiyar, on fol. 496b.

Maḳâlah XV: Rites and duties of Islâm (واجبات اسلام), on fol. 542b.

Khâtimah: Conclusion of the history of Farrukhsiyar, Rafî'-aldarajât, Rafî'-aldaulah, and accession of Muḥammadshâh. At the end a series of miscellaneous matters, short review of the great poets of Persia, Jalâl-aldîn Rûmî, Sanâ'î, Farîd 'Aṭṭâr, Firdausî, Anwarî, Sa'dî, Khâḳânî, Niẓâmî, Amîr Ḥusainî, Ḥâfiẓ, Ni'matalláh Walî, Jâmî, etc., on fol. 649a. It is incomplete at the end; one or two leaves missing.

Beginning: منّت و سپاس حضرت بیچون لا یزالی راست اوجب که ایجاد موجودات بکن فیکون الخ.

An endless number of marginal and also interlinear glosses and additions. The MS. is in some portions very badly preserved; many lines effaced or partly torn away. A complete index on the fly-leaves. The proper order of ff. 624–649 is: 624, 641–648, 625–640, 649.

No. 1012, ff. 704, ll. 17; very careless and inelegant Nasta'lîḳ; size, 9½ in. by 5½ in.

Mirât-alṣafâ (مرآت الصفا).

The second volume (دفتر دویم) of Muḥammad 'Alî bin Muḥammad Ṣâdiḳ 'alḥusainî's work on general history, from the rise of Timûr to A. H. 1169 (A. D. 1755, 1756). The present copy is the author's autograph (see the colophon: محمّد علی الحسینی مؤلّف و کاتب کلام), finished in the same year 1169, the second of Ramaḍân (A. D. 1756, May 31), and represents undoubtedly the first sketch of this volume which was afterwards revised and continued to A. H. 1179 (A. D. 1765, 1766), as the copy in Rieu i. pp. 129–131 proves. The dedication therefore to Ṣamṣâm-aldaulah Shâhnawâzkhân Bahâdur Ṣamṣâmjang (the author of the Maâthir-alumarâ, who was put to death A. H. 1171 = A. D. 1758), which in Rieu's copy is only found in the preface, appears here a second time at the end, immediately before the colophon, as the patron was still alive in 1169. This second daftar is subdivided into two bâbs:

First bâb, on fol. 3b: Timûrides of Îrân and Tûrân, from Timûr to Muḥammad Zamân (A. H. 920).

Second bâb, on fol. 24a: Timûrides of India from Timûr and Mirzâ Mîrânshâh (born A. H. 769) to A. H. 1169, the third year of 'Âlamgîr II's reign. The latter part of this bâb is very detailed, and narrates the events in full from year to year. Bâbar, on fol. 25a; Humâyûn, on fol. 27a; Akbar, on fol. 32b; Jahângîr, on fol. 38b; Shâhjahân, on fol. 40b; 'Âlamgîr Aurangzîb, on fol. 44b; Bahâdurshâh, on fol. 50b; Mu'izz-aldîn Jahândârshâh, on fol. 56b; Muḥammad Farrukhsiyar, on fol. 60b; Rafî'-aldarajât, on fol. 66b; Rafî'-aldaulah, on fol. 67a; Muḥammadshâh, on fol. 67b; Aḥmadshâh, on fol. 136b; 'Âlamgîr II, on fol. 168b.

Undoubtedly for the sake of selling the MS. at a higher price, a clumsy forger's hand has effaced the proper title on fol. 3a, ll. 1 and 2, مرآت الصفا, by writing over it رقعات عالمگیری (Letters of 'Âlamgîr), and the same nonsensical description appears on fol. 1a.

Beginning: مبتدای هر شی حمد و ثنای یگانه ایست بی ابتدا و منتهای الخ.

No. 3038, ff. 175, ll. 14; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 8¾ in. by 5¼ in.

II. History of Muḥammad, the Khalîfs, and Imâms.

Kitâb-i-Futûḥ (کتاب فتوح).

Persian translation of the Arabic work ابن اعثم فتوح, or history of Islâm from Muḥammad's death to the death of Ḥasan and Husain and the accession of Yazîd in A. H. 60 and 61 (A. D. 680), by Khwâjah Abû Muḥammad Aḥmad bin A'tham al-Kûfî, who died about A. H. 314 (A. D. 926). The translation was undertaken in or soon after A. H. 596 (A. D. 1199, 1200) by Muḥammad bin Aḥmad al-Mustaufî al-Harawî, chiefly encouraged and supported by a nobleman of Khwârizm and Khurâsân, see ff. 1b, l. 6 and 2a, l. 12. As we learn from Ouseley 284 in the Bodleian Library, this first translator died when he had only finished a small portion of the work, viz. the greater part of Abû Bakr's Khilâfat, and was succeeded by Muḥammad bin Aḥmad bin Abî Bakr al-Kâtib al-Mâbarnâbâdî, who carried the translation to an end. Comp. for fuller details, Bodleian Cat., Nos. 124–126; Ricu i. p. 151 sq.; W. Morley, p. 16, etc.

Beginning: الحمد لله الملك القديم المنّان الكريم الرؤف الرحيم هو الاوّل و الآخر و الظاهر و الباطن الخ.

The right order of ff. 1–54 is: 1–44, 53, 45–52, 54. Dated the 16th of Rabí'-alawwal, A. H. 1013 (A. D. 1604, August 12), at Kol (كول), by one of the sons of Shaikh Jamál, called Shams-al'árifín, who was himself an offspring of Khwájah Abú 'Ubaidah ibn aljarráḥ Khalíl ibn Shaikh Rázi.

No. 1341, ff. 345, ll. 25; Naskhí; size, 10 in. by 5¾ in.

Beginning: الحمد لله الملك القديم المنّان الرؤف الرحيم هو الاوّل و الآخر الخ.

This copy was finished the 17th of Sha'bán, A. H. 1103 (thirty-fifth year of 'Álamgír's reign) = A. D. 1692, May 4.

No. 921, ff. 438, ll. 12–15; very careless and irregular Nasta'líḳ, written, as it seems, by different hands; illuminated frontispiece; size, 9 in. by 5¾ in.

Ta'rikh-i-Futúḥ-i-Shám (تأريخ فتوح شام).

Persian translation of an Arabic history of the conquest of Syria, perhaps—although no author's or translator's name appears in the text—of Muḥammad bin 'Umar al-Wáḳidí's (died about A. H. 207, A. D. 822) كتاب المغازى or rather Pseudo-Wáḳidí's فتوح الشام, a Turkish translation of which is described in G. Flügel ii. p. 134. It begins under Abú Bakr and ends under 'Umar, comprising altogether forty-two غزوات or battles. It is interspersed with many Arabic verses. As title appears, on fol. 1a, تأريخ فتح شام and تأريخ فتوح شام.

Beginning: بعد حمد مر خداى معطى جزيل بر غزا و صلوة مصطفى مستخلف خلفاى گويد بندهٔ اميدوار برحمت پروردگار چون حق تعالى خواست الخ.

Tarjuma-i-Siyar-alnabí (ترجمهٔ سيّر النبى).

A Persian translation of Muḥammad ibn Isḥáḳ Almuṭṭalibí's Arabic biography of the Prophet. The anonymous translator made the first acquaintance with this famous book in Egypt in the majlis of Ḳáḍí امام ركن الدين ابن حسّان (in the copy of the Bodleian Library, Walker 96: زكى الدين ابن حيّان, see Bodleian Cat., No. 127) and Ḳáḍí امام ابن محلى (see fol. 2b, ll. 9 and 10), and began after his return to Persia to put it into a Persian garb, at the request of the Atábeg Sa'd bin Zangí, Sa'dí's patron, A. H. 620 (در شهور سنهٔ عشرين و ستّمائة = A. D. 1223; the Bodleian copy has A. H. 612 = A. D. 1215). It is divided into the following thirty bábs:

1. در نسب پيغامبر ما عليه السلام تا آدم, on fol. 8b, l. 1.
2. در تفصيل نسب پيغمبر ما از اسمعيل تا عبد الله, in seven bábs, on fol. 8b.
3. در تعاقب ولايت بخانهٔ كعبه و ترتيب ولايت ايشان, on fol. 53b (in the Bodleian copy the first and second bábs are contracted into one; from that arises the apparent inconsistency in the numbering of the following chapters there).
4. در ظاهر شدن چاه زمزم ديگر بار بر دست عبد المطّلب, on fol. 59a.
5. در ذبح عبد الله پدر پيغمبر الخ, on fol. 62a.
6. در مولد پيغمبر ما, on fol. 64b.
7. در رضاع پيغامبر ما, on fol. 65a.
8. در كفالت ابو طالب سيّد را, on fol. 68a.
9. در اوصاف و اخلاق پيغامبر ما پيش از حدّ بلوغ, on fol. 69b.
10. در تقديم قريش پيغامبر ما پيش از مبعث, on fol. 72b.
11. در خبر دادن احبار يهود و رهبانيّهٔ عرب و نصارى از مبعث پيغامبر, on fol. 73b.
12. در مبعث پيغامبر ما, on fol. 81a.
13. در اسلام حمزه رضى الله عنه, on fol. 95a.
14. در ماجراها كه ميان پيغامبر و رؤساء قريش گذشته, on fol. 96b.
15. در هجرت صحابه رضى الله عنهم بجانب حبشه باذن سيّد, on fol. 107b.
16. در معراج پيغامبر ما, on fol. 123a.
17. در وفات خديجه رضى الله عنها و وفات ابو طالب الخ, on fol. 126b.
18. در رفتن پيغامبر بطرف طائف و نصرت طلبيدن از قوم, on fol. 128a.
19. در عرض دادن سيّد عليه السلام خود را در موسم حاجّ (الحجّ) بر قبائل عرب, on fol. 129b.
20. در بيعت انصار با پيغامبر و احوال آن, in three fasls, on fol. 130b.
21. در هجرت سيّد عليه السلام بمدينه, on fol. 135b.

22. در هجرت صحابه رضی الله عنهم اجمعین بمدینه, on fol. 136b (this bâb does not appear at all in the Bodleian copy).

23. در ظاهر کردن یهود عداوة سیّد علیه السلام, on fol. 144a.

24. در مناظرهٔ سیّد علیه السلام والتحیّة با یهود, on fol. 145b.

25. در مناظرهٔ نصاری نجران (read نجران) با سیّد علیه السلام, on fol. 147b.

26. در مغازیٔ پیغامبر ما علی التفصیل (twenty-seven battles according to the index, twenty-eight in the text), on fol. 149b (this is the twenty-fourth bâb in the Bodleian copy).

27. در ذکر وفود عرب که بطوع و رغبت باسلام آمدند بی دعوت, on fol. 216a.

28. در حجّ الوداع, on fol. 217b.

29. در فرستادن سیّد علیه السلام لشکر باطراف بلاد, on fol. 219a.

30. در وفات پیغامبر, on fol. 220b (this is the twenty-eighth bâb in the Bodleian copy; bâbs twenty-nine and thirty of that MS., which are to deal, according to the index, with the prophet's wives and Abú Bakr, are not found here).

Beginning: حمد و ستایش آفریدگاری را که کسوت وجود در تن عالم از آثار قدرت الخ.

Dated the twenty-second of Dhû-alḳa'dah, A. H. 1030 (A. D. 1621, October 8).

No. 1581, ff. 225, ll. 15; distinct Nasta'lîḳ; size, 9 in. by 4½ in.

Siyar-alnabi (سیر النبی).

A large portion of another detailed history of Muhammad's life, deeds, and exploits, no doubt translated from some Arabic original like the preceding work and divided into thirty fasls, but defective at the beginning and injured throughout, especially in the first leaves, which are moreover misplaced. The contents of the thirty fasls are as follows:

1. در سبب ایراد موجودات, on fol. 1a.

2. در بیان اسماء مبارک کرامیٔ رسول امّی و فضیلهٔ همه او (read نامی) نامی, on fol. 11b.

3. در ذکر بشارات رسل سالفه و اشارات کتب سابقه بوجود آنحضرت, on fol. 14b.

4. در ذکر اخبار متقدّمان و کاهنان و جنّیان و خوابهاء بعضی از مردمان بظهور سیّد عالمیان, on fol. 24b.

5. در بیان انتقال نور فائض السرور وجود مودود الخ, on fol. 30b.

6. در امارات حمل حبیب الله و وفات پدرش عبد الله, on fol. 46b.

7. در بیان کیفیّت ولادت آن صاحب هدایه, on fol. 49a.

8. در ذکر حوادثی که در شب ولادت آن افتخار برج سعادت ظاهر شده, on fol. 56b.

9. در بیان ارضاع و کیفیّت احوال مرضعهٔ او, on fol. 60a.

10. در بیان شقّ صدر شریف و شرح سینه با سکینهٔ آن الطف از هر لطیف, on fol. 67b.

11. در وفات آمنه و کفالهٔ عبد المطّلب آن حضرت الخ, on fol. 70b.

12. در وفات عبد المطّلب و کفاله کردن ابو طالب الخ, on fol. 74a.

13. در بیان تجارهٔ آن حضرت بضاعهٔ خدیجه و مزاوجهٔ او با خدیجه, on fol. 78a.

14. در بیان تعمیر کعبه و کیفیّت بناء آن, on fol. 83a.

15. در زمان بعث آنحضرت و کیفیّت بدایهٔ وحی بر آن صاحب دراید, on fol. 95b.

16. در بیان کیفیّت نزول وحی, on fol. 102a.

17. در بیان اخبار احبار اهل کتاب و هواتف و جنّیان و وحوش بیابان بظهور آن حضرت و طلوع نور نبوّت او, on fol. 103b.

18. در بیان حوادثی که در زمان بعثه وقوع یافته, on fol. 110b.

19. در اجهار دعوهٔ خیر البریّة الخ, on fol. 115a.

20. در بیان هجرهٔ عصابهٔ صحابه بحبشه, on fol. 125b.

21. در بیان محاورهٔ قریش با آنحضرت و اقتراحات ایشان ازو الخ, on fol. 129a.

22. در بیان وقائع سال هفتم از نبوّة و غالب آمدن فارس بر روم و معاهدهٔ قریشیان الخ, on fol. 135a.

23. در بیان وفات ابو طالب و خدیجه و توجّهٔ آن حضرت بطائف و دعوة جنّ و کیفیّت آن و مزاوجهٔ سوده و عائشه الخ, on fol. 139a.

Siyar-alnabî (سير النبى).

The last part of a very extensive history of the prophet's life and actions, with many traditions about his companions and successors. Since this MS. comprises fasls 32–45 and the khâtimah of the whole work and begins with the 5th year of the Hijrah, it is very likely that it forms the continuation and conclusion of the immediately preceding copy, the thirtieth or last fasl of which deals with A. H. 3. It goes down to Muḥammad's death.

Beginning: (!) الحمد للّٰه ربّ العالمين و الصلوٰة والسلم الاتمّان الاكملان الامجدان على خير خلق اللّٰه محمّد رسول اللّٰه اللهمّ صلّى و سلّم و بارك على سيّدنا محمّد صاحب النبوّة .... فصل سى دوم در ذكر وقائع سال پنجم از غزوات الخ. The 6th year of the Hijrah begins on fol. 18b, the 7th on fol. 35b, the 8th on fol. 40b, the 9th on fol. 54a, the 10th on fol. 68b, the 11th on fol. 103b. The story of Muḥammad's illness and death begins on fol. 123b, the chapter about his companions and successors on fol. 153a, the khâtimah on fol. 222a.

Dated A. H. 871 (A. D. 1466, 1467). This copy is injured at many places, especially in the last half, and worm-eaten.

No. 1337, ff. 226, ll. 21; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 9⅝ in. by 5⅝ in.

Ma'ârij-alnubuwwah (معارج النبوّة).

The detailed biography of the prophet, composed by Mu'în almiskîn, who died A. H. 907 (A. D. 1501, 1502), and divided into a muḳaddimah, four rukns, and a khâtimah; comp. Bodleian Cat., Nos. 128–130; Rieu i. p. 149 sq.; J. Aumer, p. 100; G. Flügel ii. p. 391; see also Ḥ. Khalfa iii. 20 and 513; v. 12, 251, and 608. According to Rieu the work was commenced A. H. 891 (A. D. 1486), but a note in Ouseley 364 in the Bodleian Library proves beyond doubt that already, A. H. 866 (A. D. 1461, 1462), a considerable portion of it existed in a copy, corrected and revised by the author himself.

Beginning: ربّنا آتنا من لدنك رحمة وهيّئ لنا من امرنا رشدا حمدى كه صحائف لطائف الخ.

Muḳaddimah, on the praise of God, invocations, prayers, etc., in five fasls (فصل اوّل در تحميدات فصل دوم در مناجات فصل سيوم در نعوت و مناقب ذات و صفات حضرت سيّد المرسلين فصل چهارم در فضائل خصائص حضرت رسالت پناهى فصل پنجم در فضيلت و ثواب صلوات و محامد و مناجات الخ), on ff. 6b, 16b, 29b, 44a, and 64b. Copied A. H. 1008 (A. D. 1599), by Khwâjah 'Alî Ibn Mîrkâ of Samarḳand.

Rukn I, on the former prophets, Âdam, Sheth, Idrîs, Nûḥ, Hûd, Ibrâhîm, on 'Abd-almuṭṭalib and 'Abdallâh, Muḥammad's father, through all of whom the prophetic light has transmigrated into Muḥammad himself, in eight bâbs, on ff. 77b, 83a, 104a, 111b, 113a, 121a, 124b, and 160a. Dated by the same the 5th of Jumâdâ-althânî, A. H. 1008 (in the text ١٠٠٧, 1007, which seems to be a mistake for ١٠٠٨)=A. D. 1599, December 23.

Rukn II, on Muḥammad's life, from his birth to his prophetic mission, i. e. to his fortieth year, in seven bâbs, on ff. 171b, 188b, 191a, 207a, 211a, 216b, and 222b. Dated by the same, end of Muḥarram, A. H. 1009 (A. D. 1600, August 11).

Rukn III, on Muḥammad's life, from his prophetic mission to his flight, in five bâbs, on ff. 227b, 244b, 257a, 272a, and 340a. Dated by the same the 1st of Rabî'-althânî, A. H. 1009 (A. D. 1600, October 10).

Rukn IV, on Muḥammad's life, from his flight to his death, in fourteen bâbs (here and in all the other copies there is stated at the beginning of the Rukn that it contains twelve bâbs only, but the internal arrangement in many copies is incompletely concealed by an arbitrary omission of numbers, or by the repetition of the same numbers in two places), on ff. 345b, 354a, 360b, 366b (correctly styled باب چهارم), 388a, 391b (correctly styled باب ششم), 407b, 414b, 433b, 448a, 458a (correctly styled باب يازدهم), 483a (correctly styled باب دوازدهم), 499a, and 507a (correctly styled باب چهاردهم). Dated by the same the 9th of Ṣafar, A. H. 1010 (A. D. 1601, August 9).

Khâtimah, on Muḥammad's miracles and marvellous deeds, on fol. 529b.

The whole copy was finished by the same at Samarḳand, the 18th of Jumâdâ-alawwal, A. H. 1011 (A. D. 1602, November 3). Printed in Lucknow, A. H. 1292. A Turkish translation has appeared in Constant. A. H. 1257, under the title: دلائل نبوّت محمّدى.

No. 122, ff. 564, ll. 27; excellent Nasta'lîḳ; many additions on the margin; illuminated frontispiece at the beginning of the muḳaddimah, the khâtimah, and each of the four rukns; a vignette on fol. 1a; ff. 1b and 2a splendidly adorned; size, 14½ in. by 8½ in.

Another complete copy of the same.

Beginning as in the preceding copy. It consists of two parts, the first comprising the muḳaddimah and the first two rukns, the second the last two rukns and the khâtimah.

Muḳaddimah, in five fasls, on ff. 10a, 27a, 49a, 71b, and 102b.

Rukn I, in eight bâbs, on ff. 120a, 129b, 165b, 178b, 181b, 195b, 201a, and 261a. Title: ركن اوّل در ذكر خلقت وجود باجود محمّدى صلى اللّٰه عليه و سلم از حين خلقت نور تا بوقت ولادت آنحضرت.

Rukn II, in seven bâbs, on ff. 278a, 306a, 309b, 333a, 338b, 346b, and 355a. Title: ركن دوم در ذكر ولادت حضرت صلّى اللّٰه عليه و سلّم و مقدّمات آن از دلائل و شواهد نبوّت و واقعاتى كه در حين ولادت حضرت رسالة بوقوع پيوسته و ارضاع و وقائعى (!) تا بحين نزول وحى.

Rukn III, in five bâbs, on ff. 361b, 389b, 411a, 438b, and 561a (the last bâb is not marked). Title: ركن سيوم در وقائعی که از سال چهلم از مولدت حضرت رسالت بظهور پیوسته تا بوقت هجرت آنحضرت بمدینه'.

Rukn IV, here only in twelve bâbs, on ff. 566ᵃ, 577ᵇ, 588ᵇ, 640ᵃ, 645ᵃ, 678ᵃ, 711ᵃ, 739ᵃ, 757ᵃ, 798ᵃ, 823ᵇ, and 835ᵃ. Title: رکن چهارم در ذکر هجرت آن حضرت از مکّه بمدینه و درین رکن واقعاتی که از هجرت تا وفات آنحضرت بوقوع پیوسته'.

Khâtimah, on fol. 864ᵃ. Title: خاتمة الکتاب فی المعجزات (!) النبی'.

Dated A. H. 1029 (A. D. 1620). A full index on the fly-leaves.

No. 1259, ff. 928, ll. 19–21; Nasta'lîḳ, written by many different hands; size, 11½ in. by 6½ in.

Another slightly defective copy of the same.

Beginning as usual.

Muḳaddimah, in five faṣls, on ff. 6ᵃ, 16ᵃ, 28ᵇ, 40ᵇ, and 59ᵃ.

Rukn I, in eight bâbs, on ff. 70ᵇ, 76ᵃ, 96ᵃ (heading of the bâb omitted), 101ᵇ (called by mistake فصل), 103ᵃ (again فصل instead of باب), 111ᵃ, 114ᵃ (on fol. 141ᵇ فصل هفدهم must be read instead of پنجم, and on fol. 142ᵃ فصل هژدهم instead of ششم, being the last two of the eighteen faṣls of the seventh bâb), and 145ᵇ. Title of this rukn here: رکن اوّل در بیان ایجاد نور حضرت محمّدیّه صلعم از حین خلقت الخ.

Rukn II, in seven bâbs, on ff. 154ᵇ, 169ᵇ, 171ᵃ, 184ᵃ, 187ᵃ, 191ᵇ, and 196ᵇ. Title here: رکن دویم این کتاب معارج النّبوّت در ذکر ولادت حضرت رسالت صلعم شواهد نبوّت و واقعاتی که در حین ولادت بوقوع پیوسته و ارضاع و وقائع دیگر تا حین نزول وحی'.

Rukn III, in five bâbs, on ff. 199ᵇ, 213ᵇ, 224ᵃ, 236ᵃ, and 294ᵃ (here the number of the bâb is omitted). Title here: رکن سیم در وقائعی که از سال چهلم از مولود حضرت رسالت صلعم بظهور پیوسته تا بوقت هجرت آنحضرت بمدینهٔ سکینه'.

Rukn IV, in fourteen bâbs, on ff. 297ᵇ, 304ᵇ, 310ᵇ, 315ᵇ (no number of the bâb), 322ᵇ, last line, 335ᵇ, 348ᵃ, 352ᵇ, 366ᵇ, 378ᵇ (no number), 386ᵇ (no number), 406ᵇ (here called دهم, the tenth, dealing with the 9th year of the Hijrah, so that the previous two bâbs, the 7th and 8th years of the Hijrah, have not been counted at all), 419ᵇ (10th year of the Hijrah, called the eleventh bâb), and 425ᵇ (11th year of the Hijrah, called the twelfth bâb). Title here: رکن چهارم درذکر هجرت آنحضرت صلعم از مکّهٔ متبرّکه بمدینهٔ سکینه و درین رکن واقعات که از هجرت تا ایّام وفات آنحضرت صلعم بوقوع رسید مبیّن گردد'. The fourth bâb of this rukn has here seven faṣls (in other copies only six, the first of which is split here into two).

Khâtimah, on fol. 442ᵇ. Title here: خاتم (!) الکتاب فی المعجزات (!) النبی صلعم'.

This copy is slightly incomplete at the end; although the lacuna is disguised, the last words of it agree with No. 3264 (143 in this Cat.), fol. 465ᵃ, l. 13.

Copied by Muḥammad Ṣâliḥ bin Bâbâ bin Ḥusain, A. H. 1025 (A. D. 1616), at Balkh.

No. 3262, ff. 471, ll. 25; Nasta'lîḳ; illuminated frontispieces on ff. 1ᵇ, 70ᵇ, 154ᵇ, 199ᵇ, 297ᵇ, and 442ᵇ; size, 15½ in. by 9½ in.

The same without the khâtimah.

This copy is very much injured on many pages, and contains only the muḳaddimah and the four rukns.

Muḳaddimah, on fol. 5ᵇ, in five faṣls, on ff. 6ᵃ, 16ᵃ, 28ᵃ, 41ᵃ, and 59ᵃ.

Rukn I, in eight bâbs, on ff. 70ᵃ, 76ᵃ, 98ᵃ, 106ᵇ, 108ᵇ, 117ᵃ, 120ᵇ, and 157ᵃ.

Rukn II, in seven bâbs, on ff. 167ᵃ, 177ᵃ, 181ᵃ, 186ᵃ, 188ᵃ, 191ᵇ, and 195ᵇ.

Rukn III, in five bâbs, on ff. 246ᵇ, 261ᵃ, 271ᵇ, 198ᵃ, and 243ᵃ (by mistake ff. 198–245 are placed before ff. 246–283).

Rukn IV, here for once in fifteen bâbs (in the heading as well as in the text), on ff. 284ᵇ, 290ᵃ, 295ᵇ, 301ᵃ, 320ᵃ, 323ᵃ, 337ᵃ, 342ᵇ, 358ᵇ, 372ᵃ, 375ᵇ, 377ᵇ, 393ᵇ, 408ᵇ, and 415ᵃ.

Copied A. H. 1022 (A. D. 1613) by Muḥammad Ḥusain bin Khâkrâh bin Khâkpâi bin Naurûz Muḥammad bin 'Abd Muḥammad bin Naẓar Muḥammad بقلانی.

No. 566, ff. 434, ll. 27; Nasta'lîḳ; illuminated frontispiece at the beginning of the preface and of every rukn; size, 14½ in. by 9 in.

The same without the muḳaddimah.

Rukn I, in eight bâbs, on ff. 1ᵇ, 7ᵃ, 26ᵇ, 33ᵇ, 35ᵇ, 43ᵃ, 46ᵇ, and 79ᵃ.

Rukn II, in seven bâbs, on ff. 89ᵇ, 103ᵇ, 105ᵇ, 118ᵃ, 120ᵃ, 125ᵃ, and 130ᵃ.

Rukn III, in five bâbs, on ff. 133ᵇ, 146ᵇ (no heading), 156ᵃ, 169ᵃ, and 217ᵃ.

Rukn IV, in fourteen bâbs (although there are mentioned in the heading of this rukn, as usually, only twelve), on ff. 220ᵇ, 227ᵃ, 232ᵇ, 237ᵇ, 254ᵇ (styled by mistake باب چهارم, instead of باب پنجم), 257ᵇ, 270ᵃ, 275ᵇ, 289ᵇ, 302ᵃ, 310ᵃ, 329ᵃ (comprising the events of the 9th year of the Hijrah, and wrongly styled باب دهم, although the immediately preceding bâb is rightly called باب یازدهم, and the immediately following باب سیزدهم), 341ᵇ, and 347ᵇ.

Khâtimah, without a heading, on fol. 363ᵇ, beginning: باب در بیان معجزات و واقعهٔ معجزات آنحضرت صلعم امّا در بیان معجزات حسّی الخ. From these introductory words it is apparent that the first portion of the khâtimah is entirely missing, viz. ff. 442ᵇ–445ᵇ,

l. 11, of No. 3262 (140 in this Cat.), altogether six and a half pages.

No date; probably 11th century of the Hijrah. Two seals of a former owner, 'Abd-alkhâliḳ, with the date A. H. 1162 (A. D. 1749), on fol. 1a.

No. 3258, olim 23. J. 4, ff. 384, ll. 27; large and distinct Nasta'lîḳ; illuminated frontispiece at the beginning of each rukn; size, 15 in. by 9 in.

Another copy without the muḳaddimah.

Rukn I, in eight bâbs, on ff. 1b, 6b, 26b, 34a, 35b, 43a (heading omitted), 46a, and 82b (heading omitted, but partly restored on the margin).

Rukn II, in seven bâbs, on ff. 93b, 110a, 112b (heading added on the margin), 127a, 130b, 136a, and 142a.

Rukn III, in five bâbs, on ff. 146b, 164a, 177a, 193a, and 268b.

Rukn IV, in twelve bâbs, on ff. 272b, 281a, 288a, 294b, 317a, 320b (with four faṣls only, although there are stated to be five in the beginning of the bâb; the fourth and last here corresponds to the usual fifth, so that the proper fourth faṣl is missing), 335a (wrongly called پنجم), 341a (wrongly called ششم), 359b (wrongly called هفتم), 405a (styled دهم, the tenth, and dealing with the 9th year of the Hijrah; consequently the 7th and 8th years of the Hijrah are, as in No. 3262, included in the previous ninth bâb), 415a (eleventh bâb), and 428a (twelfth bâb).

The khatîmah begins (without any heading), on fol. 439a, exactly in the same abrupt way as the preceding copy.

After the conclusion of the khâtimah there follow here, on ff. 467b–469a, eulogiums on the prophet, فی نعت النبی صلعم الخ, the first of which begins: بهترین نغمه‌نوائی که بلبلان گلستان فصاحت و عندلیبان بوستان بلاغت الخ.

No date. Dûst 'Alî ibn Maulânâ 'Alî Muḥammad is mentioned as scribe on fol. 467a, margin. Various seals of a former owner, Ḍiyâ-aldîn bin Ḳâḍî Khwâjah Kalân.

No. 3264, ff. 469, ll. 25; Nasta'lîḳ, Arabic quotations in Naskhî; size, 15½ in. by 9½ in.

The first half of the same.

This copy contains only the muḳaddimah and the first two rukns, preceded by a detailed index of the whole work, on ff. 1b–10b (without, however, any mention of the khâtimah). Beginning of the preface on fol. 11b.

Muḳaddimah, in five faṣls, on ff. 18a, 30a, 45a, 61b, and 87b. This part is dated the last of Muḥarram, A. H. 1015 (A. D. 1606, June 7).

Rukn I, in eight bâbs, on ff. 102b, 110b, 141a, 151a, 153b, 164a, 168b, and 216b.

Rukn II, in seven bâbs, on ff. 230b, 250b, 253a, 271a, 276a, 282a, and 289b.

No. 3266, ff. 293, ll. 25; clear and distinct Nasta'lîḳ; a splendid vignette on fol. 11a; ff. 11b and 12a are most luxuriously ornamented, all the lines being surrounded by a gorgeous framework of variegated colours, in the highest style of Eastern ornamental art; illuminated frontispieces besides on ff. 102b and 230b, and a similar illumination at the end of the first rukn, on fol. 230a; size, 15 in. by 9½ in.

Rauḍat-alaḥbâb (روضة الاحباب).

Amîr 'Aṭâ-allâh bin Faḍl-allâh Jamâl al-Ḥusainî's famous history of Muḥammad, his family, companions, followers, and successors, the first book of which was finished by the author already on the 11th of Dhû-alḥijjah, A. H. 888 (A. D. 1484, January 10), as we learn from a subscription at the end of the first maḳṣad on ff. 287a, last line, and 287b, first line, and from the colophon of No. 1674 (149 in this Cat.); comp. Rieu i. p. 148a, first line. The whole work was completed A. H. 900 (A. D. 1494, 1495), and dedicated to Mîr 'Alîshîr. The author died A. H. 926 (A. D. 1520); comp. Bodleian Cat., Nos. 131–133; Rieu i. p. 147 sq., and iii. p. 1081b; W. Morley, p. 15; Cat. des MSS. et Xyll. p. 298; G. Flügel ii. pp. 368 and 369; Dorn, Das Asiatische Museum, p. 348; Ḥ. Khalfa iii. p. 495, etc. It is divided into three books or maḳṣads.

Contents:

Maḳṣad I, beginning on fol. 1b: الحمد لله الذی منّ علی المؤمنین اذ بعث رسولا منهم یتلو علیهم آیاته و اوضح لهم مناهج الصدق الخ. It contains the history of Muḥammad's life and exploits, and is subdivided into a muḳaddimah (در بیان ابتداء آفرینش و آنکه اوّل مخلوقات نور نبوّت آن حضرت بود), on fol. 3a, and three bâbs, the first (در بیان نسب اطهر پیغمبر) on fol. 4a, the second (در ذکر تاریخ ولادت آن سرور و بیان مکان ولادت و کیفیّت آن و ذکر شمّهٔ از غرائب که در حین تولّد وی بظهور آمده و ذکر بعضی از حوادث که در شب ولادت آن سرور واقع شده و شرح نبذهٔ از احوال و وقائع که در مدّت حیوة آنحضرت روی نموده) on fol. 28a, the third (در متمّمات و مکمّلات فنّ سیرت) on fol. 230b, in eight faṣls. A part of fol. 271a, and the whole of fol. 271b, left blank. Dated by Abû-almafâkhir Nasîm-aldîn Muḥammad bin Jamâl-aldîn Ḥusainî, known as Mîrakshâh, in Jumâdâ-alâkhar, A. H. 954 (A. D. 1547, July–August).

Maḳṣad II, beginning on fol. 288b: لك الحمد یا مسبّب الاسباب و لك الشكر یا مفتّح الابواب علی التوفیق للشروع فی تألیف الدفتر الثانی الخ. It contains the history of the first three Khalifs, or the first three صحابه. According to the preface in the first maḳṣad, it is subdivided into two bâbs (باب اوّل در معرفت رجال صحابه and باب دوم در معرفت نساء صحابه); but here, as in fact in most copies extant, only the first bâb is found, beginning on fol. 293a and going down to the death of 'Uthmân, A. H. 35 (A. D. 655); the second bâb seems not to have been completed by the author.

Maḳṣad III contains the history of 'Ali, the twelve Imâms, and all the other famous followers of the prophet, and is subdivided, according to the preface in the first maḳṣad, into three bâbs (باب اوّل در ذكر تابعين باب دوم در ذكر تبع باب سيوم در ذكر جماعتى كه بعد از تبع بودند); but there is found, instead of this third maḳṣad, first a large fragment of another work, by the same author, on the virtues and eminent qualities of Muḥammad, 'Ali, Fâṭimah, etc., entitled: تحفة الاحبّا فى مناقب آل العبا', and beginning, on fol. 406b: الحمد للّٰه الذى جعل فوق فرق الفرقدين اقدار اهل البيت و اطلع من سماء السعادة الخ. It is divided into two maṭlabs (مطلب اوّل در ذكر فضائل و مناقب و احوال سيّد سادات عالم و منبع سعادات دمادم سرور اولاد آدم رهبر جميع طوائف امم الخ مطلب دوم در ذكر مناقب نساء الجنّة التى حرّها وحبّ اولادها من احسن وقاية و جُنّة الملقّبة بالزهراء البتول الخ), and the first maṭlab is subdivided again into a muḳaddimah (در بيان امتنان خداوند تعالى بر بن امّت بوجود بار جود پيغمبر خويش و بعث وى در ميان ايشان و برداشتن الخ) and two ḳisms (قسم اوّل در ذكر فضائل و مناقب و احوال سيّد المرسلين قسم دوم در ذكر فضائل و مناقب و احوال امير المؤمنين). This fragment contains only a part of the muḳaddimah, and breaks off on fol. 441b. Then follows, on ff. 444b–473a, a portion of the third book of the Rauḍat-alaḥbâb, beginning: كلام در بيعت انام با امير المؤمنين على بن ابى طالب, and corresponding to ff. 10b, l. 22–47a, l. 20, in No. 557 (157 in this Cat.), the only complete copy of this third maḳṣad. Many various readings and additions on the margin. An index of the whole contents of this copy on the four fly-leaves. A Turkish translation of the Rauḍat-alaḥbâb has been published in Constantinople, A. H. 1268.

No. 1703, ff. 473, ll. 29–30; Nasta'lîḳ; illuminated frontispieces on ff. 1b, 288b, and 406b; size, 9¾ in. by 6¼ in.

Another copy of the same.

Maḳṣad I:

Muḳaddimah on fol. 4b.

Bâb I on fol. 7b, II on fol. 56a, III on fol. 424b.

Maḳṣad II:

Muḳaddimah on fol. 586b.

Bâb I on fol. 592a.

The second bâb is wanting, see the preceding copy.

Maḳṣad III on fol. 728b. No subdivision.

Beginning of all the three maḳṣads the same as in the preceding copy. The third maḳṣad is nearly as incomplete here as there.

Dated the 19th of Jumâdâ-alâkhar, A. H. 1121 (A. D. 1709, August 26).

No. 1656, ff. 780, ll. 19; Naskhî, by different hands; size, 11¼ in. by 7 in.

Another copy of the first maḳṣad of the same work.

Good old copy, written A. H. 984 (A. D. 1576, 1577). Muḳaddimah on fol. 4b, first bâb on fol. 7b, second on fol. 51a, third on fol. 388b. Large waterspots; many pages slightly injured at the corners.

No. 1150, ff. 480, ll. 19; Naskhî; size, 9¾ in. by 6¼ in.

The same first maḳṣad.

Good copy, finished the 3rd of Sha'bân, A. H. 1044 (A. D. 1635, January 22), by 'Abd-alraḥmân bin almarḥûm Ṭayyib bin almaghfûr 'Abdallâh bin Ya'ḳûb bin 'Abd-alraḥmân.

Muḳaddimah on fol. 3b, first bâb on fol. 6a, second on fol. 42a, third on fol. 332a. The proper order of ff. 65–72 is: 65, 71, 67–70, 66, 72. A blank on fol. 388a. A few notes and additions on the margin.

No. 562, ff. 412, ll. 25; Naskhî; size, 11¼ in. by 7¼ in.

The same.

Muḳaddimah on fol. 5a, first bâb on fol. 8a, second on fol. 56b, third on fol. 397b. It has no date of its own, but reproduces in the colophon the date of the original composition of this maḳṣad, viz. the 11th of Dhû-alḥijjah, A. H. 888; see No. 1703 (145 in this Cat.).

No. 1674, ff. 496, ll. 24–25; written in Nasta'lîḳ by three or four different hands; illuminated frontispiece; size, 10¾ in. by 5¼ in.

The same.

Muḳaddimah on fol. 3a, first bâb on fol. 5a, second on fol. 37b, third on fol. 234b. An index on the fly-leaves, written very carelessly by another hand.

No date.

No. 1390, ff. 293, ll. 25; large, unequal Nasta'lîḳ; size, 13¾ in. by 7¾ in.

A defective copy of the same.

The greater part of fol. 247a and the whole of fol. 247b are left blank; there are also blanks on ff. 249b and 250a. At the end about half a page is wanting; the last words here, ترا دريای رحمت پيش از آنست, agree with No. 1703 (145 in this Cat.), fol. 287a, l. 7.

Muḳaddimah on fol. 3a, first bâb on fol. 4b, second on fol. 26b, third on fol. 210b.

No. 1513, ff. 261, ll. 23; excellent Nasta'lîḳ; size, 13¼ in. by 8¼ in.

152

A still more defective copy of the same.

There are two lacunas in this copy, a larger one after fol. 195, corresponding to No. 1703, fol. 200a, last line, to fol. 236b, l. 16; and a smaller one, comprising about half a page, in the middle of the text on fol. 31b, l. 6, between the words الواحد and جمهور, corresponding to No. 1703, fol. 27b, l. 23, to fol. 28a, l. 15. Fol. 181a is left blank, but the text is uninterrupted; ff. 227b, 228a, and a part of fol. 227a are also left blank.

Muḳaddimah on fol. 3b, first line; the first bâb on fol. 5a; the headings of the second and third bâbs are not to be found, because they just fall into the smaller and larger lacunas.

No date.

No. 866, ff. 243, ll. 25; clear Nasta'lîḳ; slight injuries in many places; illuminated frontispiece; size, 10½ in. by 6½ in.

Another copy of the second maḳṣad of the same work.

Beginning as in No. 1703; the second bâb is missing here, as in all the other copies. Muḳaddimah on fol. 1b; first bâb on fol. 7b.

Dated the 4th of Rabî'-alawwal, A. H. 1094 (A. D. 1683, March 3).

No. 1266, ff. 264, ll. 24; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 11½ in. by 7½ in.

154

The same second maḳṣad.

Quite agreeing with No. 1703 and the preceding copy. The right order of ff. 313–319 is: 313, 318, 314–317, 319. The first bâb begins on fol. 13a.

No date.

No. 1462, ff. 323, ll. 15; ff. 168–175 supplied later; clear and distinct Nasta'lîḳ; illuminated frontispiece; size, 10½ in. by 5½ in.

The same.

The right order of ff. 1–7 is: 1, 2, 4–6, 3, 7; and after fol. 2 there is a lacuna, corresponding to No. 1703, fol. 289b, l. 11, to fol. 290a, last line but two. Ff. 49–54 are also misplaced, and must be read in this order: 49, 51, 50, 53, 52, 54.

No date. The last pages injured.

No. 1275, ff. 141, ll. 25: clear Nasta'lîḳ; illuminated frontispiece; size, 10½ in. by 6½ in.

The same.

At the beginning there is wanting one leaf, containing the first ten or eleven lines of the second maḳṣad. It begins abruptly: من الصلوة اتمّها و من التسليمات اعمّها, agreeing with No. 1703, fol. 288b, l. 11. The first bâb begins on fol. 8b. It concludes on fol. 211b in the usual manner, and then follows immediately a part of the third maḳṣad, beginning like No. 1703, fol. 444b, with كلام در بيعت انام, and breaking off, on fol. 246b, with these words: گفتند كه ما ازين اتّفاق. This fragment of the third maḳṣad corresponds to the following copy, No. 557, fol. 10b, l. 22, to fol. 36a, l. 20. Fol. 247 does not belong at all to the preceding or following pages, ff. 248 and 249a are left blank, and ff. 249b–273b contain again a fragment of the first maḳṣad of this work, with the usual beginning: الحمد لله الذى منّ الخ; it comprises the muḳaddimah (on fol. 252a), and the greater part of the first bâb (on fol. 254b).

No. 385, ff. 273, ll. 19; very careless and unequal Nasta'lîḳ, sometimes quite like Shikasta; size, 10½ in. by 6½ in.

Another copy of the third maḳṣad of the same work.

This copy, the only complete one of the third maḳṣad, begins, without any heading or introduction, immediately with the history of 'Alî's life and exploits: ارباب سير رحمهم الله آورده اند كه حضرت امام المتّقين و امير المؤمنين اسد الله الغالب على ابن ابيطالب عليه التحيّة و الثنا امام اوّل است الخ. After 'Alî, who represents the first Imâm, follow the other eleven: Abû Muḥammad al-Ḥasan (on fol. 100b), Abû 'Abd-allâh Ḥusain (on fol. 108b), Abû-alḥasan 'Alî Zain-al'âbidîn (on fol. 197a), Abû Ja'far Muḥammad albâḳir (on fol. 200b), Ja'far bin Muḥammad bin 'Alî bin alḥusain (on fol. 202a), Abû-alḥasan Mûsâ al-Kâẓim (on fol. 205a), 'Alî ibn Mûsâ al-Riḍâ (on fol. 207a), Muḥammad ibn 'Alî al-Riḍâ (on fol. 212a), 'Alî ibn Muḥammad bin al-Riḍâ (on fol. 213b), Ḥasan ibn al'askarî (on fol. 215b), and Abû-alḳâsim Muḥammad bin al-Ḥasan (on fol. 216b). To these is added as thirteenth, Imâm Mahdî, who is styled آخر الزمان (on fol. 222b). This maḳṣad is concluded by an alphabetical list of famous companions and followers of Muḥammad, beginning on fol. 224a with Ḥamzah ibn 'Abd-almuṭṭalib, the prophet's uncle. The subdivisions, which are quoted in the general preface of the first maḳṣad, are not found.

Dated the 5th of Muḥarram, A. H. 1107 (A. D. 1695, August 16).

No. 557, ff. 245, ll. 25; Nasta'lîḳ; ff. 80–88 supplied by another hand in Shikasta, ll. 24–26; size, 13½ in. by 7½ in.

Raudat-alshuhadâ (روضة الشهدا).

A detailed history of the martyrdom of 'Alî and his family, especially of Ḥasan and Ḥusain, composed by Ḥusain bin 'Alî alwâ'iẓ alkâshifî, the author of the Anwâr-i-Suhailî, who died A. H. 910 (A. D. 1505); comp. Bodleian Cat., Nos. 134–137; Rieu i. p. 152, etc. It has been printed in Lahore, A. H. 1287.

Beginning: ای شربت درد تو دوای دل ما ـ آشوب بلای تو عطای دل ما ـ از نامهٔ حمد تو شفای دل ما ـ وزنام حبيب تو صفای دل ما الخ. It is divided into ten bâbs and a khâtimah, but the last part of the tenth bâb and the whole khâtimah are missing in this copy. The contents of the ten bâbs are as follows:

باب اوّل در ابتلای جمعی از انبيا, on fol. 8b.

باب دوم در جفای قريش با سيّد ابرار و افضل ملك الجبّار و شهادت حمزه و جعفر طيّار, on fol. 62b.

باب سیوم در وفات حضرت سرور کائنات, on fol. 92a.

باب چهارم در مناقب حضرت فاطمهٔ زهرا از وقت ولادت تا زمان وفات, on fol. 115b.

باب پنجم در اخبارات قاتل کفّار شیر الملك الجبّار صاحب دلدار ذو الفقار اسد اللّٰه الغالب علی ابن ابیطالب از ولادت تا وقت شهادت, on fol. 143b.

باب ششم در احوال امیر المؤمنین امام حسن بن علی ابن ابیطالب از ابتدای ولادت تا وقت شهادت, on fol. 172b.

باب هفتم در احوال امیر المؤمنین امام حسین از ابتدای ولادت و بعضی از احوالش بعد از وفات برادرش, on fol. 188a.

باب هشتم در شهادت مسلم بن عقیل بن ابیطالب و قتل بعضی از فرزندان او, on fol. 207a.

باب نهم در عزیمت امیر المؤمنین امام حسین بجانب کوفه و رسیدن بدشت کربلا, on fol. 236b.

باب دهم از آنچه بعد از شهادت امام مظلوم بر اهل بیت واقع شده, on fol. 345a.

This last bâb contains two faṣls, and in the middle of the second the copy breaks off. This work was translated into Turkish by Muḥammad bin Sulaimân albaghdâdi with the takhalluṣ Fuḍûli, and entitled, حدیقة السعدا; comp. H. Khalfa iii. p. 500, No. 6648, and p. 41, No. 4456; Flügel ii. p. 378, etc.

No. 482, ff. 391, ll. 15; Nasta'lîḳ, unequally written; size, 8¾ in. by 5¼ in.

Another copy of the same.

Beginning as in the preceding copy. Of the ten bâbs there are marked here only the sixth: باب ششم در شهادت امام حسن, on fol. 77b; the seventh (corresponding to the eighth in the preceding copy): باب هفتم در شهادت مسلم بن عقیل و فرزندان, on fol. 88b; and the tenth: باب دهم در وقائعی که اهل بیت را بعد از واقعهٔ کربلا واقع شد, on fol. 201a. Of all the other bâbs we have only a few indications in form of chapter-headings marked on the margin, viz.: قصّهٔ حضرت آدم, on fol. 4a; قصّهٔ نوح پیغمبر, on fol. 10a; قصّهٔ خلیل پیغمبر, on fol. 13b; قصّهٔ ذبح اسمعیل, on fol. 14b; قصّهٔ یوسف, on fol. 21a; قصّهٔ ایّوب, on fol. 33a; قصّهٔ زکریّا و یحیی, on fol. 34b; وفات سرور حضرت, on fol. 43a; وفات حضرت فاطمه, on fol. 58b; قصّهٔ حضرت علی, on fol. 63b; and حکایت عبّاس بن علی ابن ابی طالب, on fol. 184b.

The khâtimah, in two مقصد, begins on fol. 238b (مقصد ثانی on fol. 245b).

No date. College of Fort William, 1825.

No. 2240, ff. 256, ll. 19; distinct Nasta'lîḳ; the last page supplied by another hand; large waterspots throughout; many pages slightly damaged by the worms; size, 10¼ in. by 6¼ in.

Muntakhab-i-Rauḍat-alshuhadâ (منتخب روضة الشهدا).

An extract from the Rauḍat-alshuhadâ, or history of the martyrdom of 'Alî's family, similar to, but not at all identical with, the Dah Majlis (see Bodleian Cat., Nos. 136 and 137, and Rieu i. p. 155). Beginning the same as in the original work, viz.: بسم اللّٰه الرحمٰن الرحیم و علیك الاعتماد یا کریم رباعی ای شربت دردی (!) تو دوای دل ما - اندوه بلایتو عطای دل ما الخ.

It is probably divided into ten majlis, like the مجلس, but only seven of these are indicated in our copy. The first is not marked at all (identical in its contents with the first in Rieu's copy of the مجلس, and the first three in the Bodleian copy); the second deals with Fâṭimah: در وفات حضرت خیر النّسا فاطمهٔ زهرا, on fol. 19b; the third with 'Alî: در بعضی از اخبار امیر المؤمنین و امام المتّقین ... علی بن ابی طالب, on fol. 31b; the fourth with Ḥasan: در وفات حضرت امام حسن, on fol. 46a; the fifth and sixth with Ḥusain and Muslim bin 'Aḳîl: در مناقب امام حسین و بعضی از احوالش و شهادت مسلم بن عقیل, on fol. 58b, and سر قصّهٔ مسلم بن عقیل و حضرت امام حسین, on fol. 70a; the seventh with the children of Muslim bin 'Aḳîl: در فضیلت فرزندان مسلم بن عقیل و شهادت ایشان, on fol. 83b; and the eighth with some other martyrs of Karbalâ: در بعضی احوال شهدای کربلا که بعد از قتل خرد برادر و پسرش و غلام (غلمان!) واقع شده, on fol. 111b. No further subdivision appears.

This copy was written in A. H. 996 (A. D. 1588). College of Fort William, 1809.

No. 2267, ff. 158, ll. 12–17; clear Nasta'lîḳ; size, 8¼ in. by 4¾ in.

The same.

The same Muntakhab or abridgment of the Rauḍat-alshuhadâ, arranged in a far greater accordance with the مجلس of Rieu's Cat. (i. p. 155) than the preceding copy, but defective at the end, and injured more or less seriously by worms, from fol. 130 down to the end. Beginning the same as in No. 2267.

Majlis I: Muḥammad (در ذکر وفات حضرت سیّد الانام علیه التحیّة و السلام), on fol. 1b (there is no preface whatever).

Majlis II: Fâṭimah (در ذکر حضرت فاطمه علیه (!) السلام), on fol. 23b.

Majlis III: 'Alî (در بعضی اخبار از شهادت حضرت امیر المؤمنین و امام المتّقین ... علی ابن ابی طالب الخ), on fol. 38a.

Majlis IV: Ḥasan and his children (در ذکر شهادت حضرت امام حسن و احوال اولادش), on fol. 56a.

Majlis V: Ḥusain's noble qualities and Muslim bin 'Aḳîl's martyrdom (در مناقب سبط بنی الثقلین ابی عبد اللّٰه الحسين و بعضى از شرح حالات آن حضرت و شهادت (مسلم بن عقيل بعد از وفات برادر), on fol. 72a.

Majlis VI: Muslim bin 'Aḳîl's children (در شهادت فرزندان مسلم بن عقيل), on fol. 103a.

Majlis VII: Ḥusain's history (شمّه از قصّهٔ پرغصّهٔ امير المؤمنين حسين الخ), on fol. 117b.

Majlis VIII: The martyrs of Karbalâ (در بعضى احوال شهداى كربلا), on fol. 143b.

Majlis IX: Continuation of the same, and death of Ḥusain (در تتمّهٔ اخبار اولاد حضرت امام حسين و سائر شهدا و شهادت امام حسين), on fol. 164a.

Majlis X: Events subsequent to Ḥusain's martyrdom (آنچه بعدا از قتل امام شهيد مظلوم واقع شد...), on fol. 187b. This chapter breaks off on fol. 195b, corresponding to the preceding copy, fol. 152b, l. 2; consequently 6–7 leaves are missing.

Bibliotheca Leydeniana.

No. 2812, ff. 195, ll. 13; Nasta'lîḳ, mixed in some pages with Shikasta; size, 7⅝ in. by 4½ in.

Rauḍat-alshuhadâ (روضة الشهدا).

A poetical paraphrase of the same in Dakhnî verses, by a poet with the takhalluṣ Walî, as it appears, beginning:

كروں نا ميكون بسم اللّٰه سون آغاز
اجيون تا ميں فصاحت مين سر فراز

The subdivisions are called majlis, as in the Persian original, but their number is rather uncertain; there seem to be eleven. The arrangement of the subjects less resembles that in the Rauḍat-alshuhadâ than that in the Muntakhab-i-Rauḍat-alshuhadâ; see the two preceding copies, or Rieu's Dah Majlis (i. p. 155). The eight majlis, which are indicated in the text itself, deal with the following members of Muḥammad's and 'Alî's families: I, on fol. 2b, Muḥammad; II, on fol. 10b, Fâṭimah; III, on fol. 19a, 'Alî; IV, on fol. 30a (not numbered), Ḥasan; V, on fol. 38b, and VI, on fol. 58b, Ḥusain and Muslim bin 'Aḳîl; VII, on fol. 67b, and VIII, on fol. 88b, Muslim's children and other martyrs of Karbalâ. After these eight, there follow at least three chapters without heading and number, viz. on ff. 111b, 150b, and 165b, comprising the materials of the last two majlis and the khâtimah of the Rauḍat-alshuhadâ, together with a great number of marthiyyas and similar lyrical poetry, in mournful remembrance of 'Alî's family and the later Imâms. Part of fol. 183b and the whole of fol. 184 are left blank. A lacuna after fol. 176. Bibliotheca Leydeniana.

Dated by Sayyid Ja'far, known as Miyân-Ṣâḥib, the 25th of Sha'bân, A.H. 1216 (A.D. 1801, December 31).

No. 2380, ff. 1–186, two columns, each ll. 13 (on ff. 1–8), ll. 15 (on ff. 9–114 and 177–186). ll. 11 (on ff. 115–176); written by various hands in Nasta'lîḳ and Shikasta; size, 8¾ in. by 5¼ in.

Maṭâli'-alanwâr (مطالع الانوار).

A history of Muḥammad and his four immediate successors, together with a short sketch of the Umayyade Khilâfat, and a long dogmatic treatise on eschatology, by 'Afîf Nûr-i-Kâshânî (see fol. 7b, l. 3; Rieu iii. p. 1037a, calls him 'Afîf Nawâ Kâshânî, and Ouseley 260 in the Bodleian Library, 'Afîfah Nûr-i-Kâshânî), who became a Ḥanafite lawyer in his twenty-first year, and applied himself to the study of the history of Muḥammad; comp. Bodleian Cat., Nos. 141 and 142. The work is divided into twenty-one faṣls, nineteen of which belong to the historical, and two to the dogmatical part, viz.: 1. در ولادت سيّد المرسلين, on fol. 10a; 2. از (در) ابتداى نزول وحى وبعثت ياران, on fol. 13b; 3. در اظهار دعوت و جفاى اهل قريش, on fol. 22b; 4. در ذكر هجرت حبشى, on fol. 28b; 5. در معراج, on fol. 35b; 6. در باز آمدن ياران از حبشه در مدينه (the index on fol. 9a adds: ونكاح امّ حبيبه), on fol. 40b; 7. در بيان معجزات سيّد عليه السلام, on fol. 41b; 8. در جنگ بدر, on fol. 48b; 9. در جنگ احد, on fol. 52b; 10. در جنگ احزاب, on fol. 54b; 11. در هرب (read حرب) بنى قريظه, on fol. 56a; 12. در حرب تبوك, on fol. 56b; 13. در فتح خيبر, on fol. 58b; 14. در فتح مكّه, on fol. 60a; 15. در فتح حنين, on fol. 66a; 16. در فتح طائف, on fol. 67b; 17. در كيفيّت حجّ و وفات سيّد المرسلين, on fol. 69a; 18. در خلافت خلفاء الراشدين, on fol. 73a; 19. در خلافت معاويه و خلفاء ديگر, on fol. 79a (down to the beginning of the 'Abbâside dynasty); 20. در بناء خانهٔ كعبه, on fol. 81a; 21. در احوال آخرت, on fol. 86b. The chief subdivisions of this last and longest chapter are: ذكر نزول مهتر عيسى, on fol. 90b; ذكر دجّال و خروج او, on fol. 93b; ذكر خروج ياجوج, on fol. 94a; ذكر قيام قيامت, on fol. 95a; وفات مهتر عيسى, on fol. 95b; ذكر معاتبة و مجادلة و امتياز مؤمنان از كافران الخ, on fol. 100a; ذكر دوزخ و پُل صراط الخ, on fol. 104b; ذكر تعذيب عرصات (؟ عرضات) مؤمنان الخ, on fol. 109a; ذكر دخول جنّت الخ, on fol. 116a; khâtimah, on fol. 124b.

Beginning, on fol. 7b: الحمد للّٰه ربّ العالمين ... امّا بعد ضعيف‌ترين بندگان حضرت ربّانى عفيف نوركاشانى بلّغه اللّٰه الخ.

The book ends on fol. 126a, and is dated the 6th of Jumâdâ-althânî, A.H. 1088 (A.D. 1677, August 6), by Ḳulîbeg.

Ff. 1–6 are filled with Arabic prayers and invocations, beginning with the كلمهٔ طيّب, كلمهٔ شهادت, كلمهٔ توحيد, etc. Ff. 127–131 contain some traditions of the prophet, and short extracts from Persian poetry, ghazals, and rubá'is; on fol. 131a there is found a longer ḳiṭ'ah, styled مناجات کاکی.

College of Fort William, 1809.

No. 2315, ff. 131, ll. 17; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 8½ in. by 5 in.

164

Another copy of the same.

The same Maṭâli'-alanwâr, slightly differing sometimes in the wording of the chapter-headings.

Contents:

1. در بیان ولادت حضرت سیّد المرسلین, on fol. 2a. 2. ابتدای وحی و بیعت یاران, on fol. 7a. 3. در اظهار دعوت و جفاء اهل قریش, on fol. 13b. 4. در ذکر هجرت حبشه, on fol. 17b. 5. در معراج و هجرت مدینه, on fol. 22b. 6. در بیان باز آمدن یاران از حبشه و نکاح امّ حبیبه, on fol. 26a. 7. در بیان معجزات, on fol. 27a. 8. در جنگ بدر, on fol. 32a. 9. در جنگ اعدا (instead of اعدا the index has the more correct reading احد), on fol. 34b; this chapter is moreover wrongly called فصل هشتم instead of فصل نهم. 10. در جنگ احزاب, on fol. 36a. 11. در حرب بنی قریظه, on fol. 37a. 12. در حرب تبوک, on fol. 37b. 13. در جنگ خیبر, on fol. 38b. 14. در فتح مکّه, on fol. 39b. 15. در فتح حنین, on fol. 43b. 16. در جنگ طائف, on fol. 44b. 17. در کیفیّت حجّ و ذکر وفات سیّد المرسلین, on fol. 45b. 18. در خلافت خلفای راشدین, on fol. 48b. 19. در خلافت معاویه و خلفای دیگر, on fol. 52b. 20. در بیان خانهٔ کعبه, on fol. 53b. 21. در بیان آخرت, on fol. 57a.

Siyar-i-'afifi (سیر عفیفی).

A detailed biography of the prophet Muḥammad, translated from the Arabic work of Sa'id-aldin Muḥammad bin Mas'ûd Kâzarûnî, divided into four ḳisms and a khâtimah; see the index on fol. 8a sq.

قسم اوّل در بیان آنچه از اوّل خلق آفریده نور نبوّت تا زمان ولادت حضرت رسالت بوده, in eight bâbs, on fol. 9b, last line.

قسم دوم در بیان آنچه از اوّل ولادت تا زمان نبوّت او جاری شده, in nine bâbs, on fol. 60b.

قسم سیوم در بیان آنچه در زمان نبوّت و مدّت اقامت او در مکّه بوده, in nine bâbs, on fol. 92b.

قسم چهارم در بیان آنچه در مدّت سالهای هجرت حضرت رسالت جاری شده, in eleven bâbs, on fol. 144a. In the sixth bâb of this ḳism our copy breaks off, all the rest is wanting.

Beginning: حمد و سپاس بی قیاس خدای را که نور محمّد علیه الصلوة و السلام الخ.

Ff. 32 and 33 a little injured. In Rieu iii. p. 1026a this work is styled تاریخ حسینی, and even منتخب الاخبار like the following history, which is, however, quite distinct from this.

No. 67, ff. 268, ll. 15; clear Nasta'lîḳ; size, 8½ in. by 4¾ in.

Muntakhab-alakhbâr (منتخب الاخبار).

An abridged history of the prophets, especially of Muḥammad and his companions, the first four Khalifs, and the martyrdom of 'Alî, his sons, and his whole family, compiled from many sources, which are not specified, by Bahâ-aldin bin Sa'd-aldin, beginning: الحمد للّه علی آلائه والصلوة والسلام علی سیّد انبیائه و علی آله الهدات و اصحاب الثقات امّا بعد میگوید فقیر مسکین بهاء الدین بن سعد الدین الخ. It opens with the creation of the world, the creation of the Jinns and Âdam, and goes through all the biblical prophets down to Jesus and the Seven Sleepers; the story of Muḥammad begins on fol. 58a, of Abû Bakr on fol. 132a, of 'Umar on fol. 135b, of 'Uthmân on fol. 139b, of 'Alî on fol. 140b, of Ḥasan on fol. 153b, of Ḥusain, his family, and companions on fol. 159b, of the Imâms on fol. 214b. At the end a complement and continuation of Jewish and Christian history.

This copy is dated the 12th of Sha'bân, in the seventeenth year of Muḥammadshâh's reign = A.H. 1148 (A.D. 1735, December 28).

No. 783, ff. 234, ll. 15; large inelegant Nasta'lîḳ; size, 9½ in. by 5¾ in.

The same.

Another copy of the same, beginning like the preceding one. The story of Muḥammad begins here on fol. 80b, of Abû Bakr on fol. 182a, of 'Umar on fol. 189a, of 'Uthmân on fol. 195a, of 'Alî on fol. 196a, of Ḥasan on fol. 212b, of Ḥusain, etc., on fol. 225a, of the Imâms on fol. 310a, etc. Quite modern copy.

No. 99, ff. 340, ll. 11; modern and inelegant Nasta'lîḳ, on European paper; size, 7½ in. by 6¼ in.

Kitâb dar bayân-i-ansâb-i-Ṭâlibîn (کتاب در بیان انساب طالبیین).

A detailed genealogical account of the descendants of Abû Ṭâlib through his three sons, 'Alî (the fourth Khalîf), Ja'far Ṭayyâr, and 'Aḳîl, translated into Persian from an Arabic work, styled بحر الانساب (see fol. 4b, last line). There are two Arabic works with this title, containing genealogies of the prophets, of Muḥammad, 'Alî and his descendants, viz. one by Alfakhr-alrâzî (see H. Khalfa ii. p. 17, No. 1653), the other by Muḥammad bin Muḥammad (see W. Pertsch, Arab. Cat. of Gotha, iii. p. 335). The translator's name is Khwâjah Mîr bin 'Imâd-aldîn Muḥammad bin Amîr Sayyid 'Alî alḥusainî (see fol. 5a, ll. 5 and 6).

Beginning: الحمد لله الذى نسب المتّقين الى نبيّه صلّى الله عليه و آله و سلّم اشرف الانساب و شرف اهل بيت الخ.

On the back of the binding the work is simply styled Kitâb-alansâb. There are no dates given anywhere, not even with regard to the author's own time. The work is divided into three bâbs, according to the three sons of Abû Ṭâlib, viz.:

Bâb I, on fol. 5b, 'Alî's offspring (در بيان نسب اولاد امير المؤمنين على بن ابى طالب), in five faṣls: 1. Ḥasan and his descendants, on fol. 6b; 2. Ḥusain and his descendants, on fol. 54b; 3. Abû-alḳâsim Muḥammad Akbar Shujâ' (that is, Muḥammad Ḥanîf or Ḥanîfah, styled on fol. 141b, l. 7, also 'Ibn Ḥanîfah!') and his descendants, on fol. 141b; 4. Abû-alfaḍl al-'Abbâs, called سقّاء اكبر, and his descendants, on fol. 144a; 5. Abû Ṭâlib 'Umar al-aṭraf and his descendants, on fol. 148b.

Bâb II, on fol. 157b, Ja'far Ṭayyâr's offspring (در بيان نسب اولاد جعفر الطيّار بن ابى طالب رضى الله عنه).

Bâb III, on fol. 165a, Abû Zaid 'Aḳîl's offspring (در بيان نسب اولاد عقيل بن ابى طالب).

This genealogy ends on fol. 165a, and is dated Dhû-alḳa'dah, A. H. 1081 (A. D. 1671, March–April), by Ibn Ṣafî-aldîn Muḥammad alḥusainî alkhwârizmî Muḥammad Sa'îd alḥusainî. The few remaining pages are filled by another hand with some مكتوبات by 'Abdallâh, that is, Muḥammad Marwârîd (who had the takhallus Bayânî, and died A. H. 922=A. D. 1516).

This copy was presented to the Library by Sir W. Muir, K.C.S.I., March 7, 1877.

No. 3201, ff. 167, ll. 15; distinct Nasta'lîḳ; the MS. is carefully mended; size, 9¼ in. by 5¼ in.

Three documents of historical interest, in Arabic with Persian paraphrase, viz.:

1. A deed or 'Ahdnâma of the prophet, addressed to Mahdî Farûḥ bin Shakhsân, the brother of the well-known Salmân the Persian (مهدى فروح بن شخسان اخى سلمان الفارس), written by 'Alî bin Abû Ṭâlib, on a red skin, headed: نسخة منثورة بخطّ امير المؤمنين على ابن ابى طالب الخ, and beginning, on fol. 404a: تناسلو من اسلم منهم او قام على دينه الخ.

2. A letter of the Amîr-almu'minîn 'Alî to the Parsee high-priest Bahrâmshâh (بهرامشاه بن خير ادراس المجوسى والمتولّى امر دينهم), written by 'Alî's son Ḥusain, A. H. 39 (A. D. 659, 660), and beginning, on fol. 413b: انّى قد امنتكم على دمائكم و اموالكم الخ.

3. The letter of emancipation by which the prophet Muḥammad declared Salmân the Persian, whom he had bought from a Jew with the name 'Uthmân bin Ashhal (عثمان بن اشهل), to be free. This letter again was written by 'Alî, in the very year of the Hijrah. Beginning, on fol. 420b: هذا ما اقرّ محمّد بن عبد الله الخ.

On ff. 418a–419b is an interesting account of the discovery of these documents according to the تأريخ بر گزيده, in a library at Sûrat, A. H. 1064 (A. D. 1654), by the Persian (Parsee) نانا بها ولد پونجيا ولد پيان.

Dated the 18th of Rajab, A. H. 1217 (A. D. 1802, November 14). Bibliotheca Leydeniana.

No. 2556, ff. 403–428, ll. 9; Nasta'lîḳ, the Arabic text in Naskhî; size, 9¾ in. by 6¾ in.

III. History of the Moghuls, C'ingîzkhân, Tîmûr, and their descendants.

Ta'rîkh-i-Jahânkushâî (تأريخ جهانكشاى).

History of the Moghul emperor C'ingizkhân and his successors, beginning with C'ingizkhân's accession to the throne, A. H. 599 (A. D. 1202, 1203), and going down to A. H. 655 (A. D. 1257); see this date on fol. 234b, l. 14. It was completed A. H. 658 (A. D. 1260) by 'Alâ-aldîn 'Aṭâmalik bin Bahâ-aldîn Muḥammad al-Juwainî, who died A. H. 681, the 4th of Dhû-alḥijjah (A. D. 1283, 5th of March). H. Khalfa fixes his death in A. H. 683. Comp. Bodleian Cat., Nos. 145 and 146; Rieu i. p. 160 sq.; G. Flügel ii. p. 178; H. Khalfa ii. p. 685, No. 4353; Cat. Codd. Or. Lugd. Bat. iii. p. 7; Elliot, History of India, ii. p. 384 sq.; Nott. et Extr. ii. p. 383 sq., and iv. p. 698; Quatremère, Histoire des Mongols, pp. lxvii and 169, note 39; etc. etc. The usual division into three books (مجلّد) is not found in this copy, the text of which is uninterrupted.

Beginning: سپاس وثنا معبودى را كه واجب الوديت مسجودى را كه وجود او الخ (read الوجودست).

Dated the 15th of Shawwâl, A. H. 1076 (A. D. 1666, April 20). The right order of ff. 229–233 is: 229, 231, 230, 232, 233.

No. 1914, ff. 236, ll. 19; many slight injuries; the first page seems to be supplied later; size, 12 in. by 6¾ in.

Ta'rîkh-i-Shâhrukh (تأريخ شاهرخ).

Portion of the history of Sulṭân Shâhrukh's reign, who succeeded his father Tîmûr in A. H. 807 (A. D.

1405), down to A. H. 816 (A. D. 1413), see fol. 182a, with a short introduction on Timûr himself, by Nûr-aldîn Luṭf-allâh bin 'Abdallâh (as he is correctly styled on fol. 1a, whereas in the text itself, fol. 2b, ll. 4 and 5, his name is given in this peculiar form: Nûr-allâh Kâtib al'abd 'Abd Luṭf-allâh), better known as Hâfiẓ-i-Abrû, the great historian, who died at Zanjân in Shawwâl, A. H. 834 (A. D. 1431, June–July); see Rosen, Persian MSS., p. 52 sq.; Rieu i. p. 421 sq.; Bodleian Cat., No. 33; G. Flügel ii. p. 174; Cat. des MSS. et Xyll., p. 265 sq.; Dorn, Das Asiatische Museum, p. 374; Elliot, History of India, iv. p. 3 sq.; etc. etc.

Beginning of the preface, on fol. 1b: حمد و سپاس مبدعی را که بیك اشارت کن ایداع موجودات و اختراع مصنوعات کرد الخ, and of the history itself, on fol. 10b: آغاز کتاب بسم اللّٰه الرحمٰن الرحیم' پیش از ذکر واقعات وحالات الخ.

Whether this history is a portion of the rare زبدة التواریخ, or rather of the geographical work described by Rieu, loc. cit. (see especially i. p. 424b), and Bodleian Cat., No. 33, is difficult to say; but it is more likely to belong to the latter, since it is dedicated to Shâhrukh, and not to prince Baisunghar, and a similar treatise on chronology (تعریف تأریخ و فوائد آن) is found here, on ff. 4a–10b, as in the geographical work (Bodleian copy, Elliott 357, fol. 15b sq.).

No date.

No. 173, ff. 183, ll. 19; clear and distinct Nasta'lîḳ; size, 10¼ in. by 6¼ in.

Ulus-i-arba'ah-i-Čingizi (الوس اربعهٔ چنگیزی).

A history of the Moghul race, Čingizkhân, his ancestors from the time of Yâfeth, son of Nûḥ, and his descendants down to the time of Timûr, styled الوس اربعهٔ چنگیزی, and taken from the ذکر خانان الوس اربعه of Sulṭân alsa'îd Ulughbeg Mirzâ (see fol. 226b); comp. Rieu i. p. 164. The last date, mentioned on fol. 226a, before the short epilogue, is A. H. 805 (A. D. 1402, 1403), but a later date, viz. A. H. 831 (A. D. 1427, 1428), appears on fol. 160b, the year of the accession of the thirty-ninth and last successor of Jûjikhân, Muḥammadkhân bin Timûrkhân bin Timûr Ḳutlûkhân bin Timûrbeg Oghlan (comp. the marginal note on fol. 160a). The year 851, which is mentioned in Rieu's copy, is not found here anywhere.

An abridged translation of this work has been published by Col. Wm. Miles, entitled: 'Shajrat ul Atrak, or genealogical tree of the Turks and Tartars,' London, 1838. The same title is found on the binding of this MS. too: کتاب شجرت الاتراك, without any justification in the text itself.

Beginning: الحمد للّٰه خبیر و هو علی کلّ شیٍ قدیر و الصلوٰة و السلام علی خیر خلقه الخ.

Contents:

History of the old patriarchs from Âdam to Nûḥ and his three sons, Sâm (on fol. 13a), Ḥâm (on fol. 14a), and Yâfeth (on fol. 14b). The eldest of Yâfeth's sons was Turk, the ancestor of the Turks and Tâtars. Reign of Turk, on fol. 17a. Line of the Tâtars, on fol. 20a (ذکر طبقهٔ تاتار); line of the Moghuls, on fol. 20b (ذکر طبقهٔ مغول), beginning with Moghulkhân, Ḳarâkhân, Aghûz-khân, Ruknkhân, etc.; line of the 'Uthmânî Sulṭâns, on fol. 31b.

Birth of Čingizkhân (or as he is called here, Timûčin Ḳâ'ân) on the 9th of Dhû-alḥijjah, A. H. 549, on fol. 46a. Čingizkhân's reign begins on fol. 52b.

Ûktâi Ḳâ'ân and his line, on fol. 138a.

Jûjikhân and his line, on fol. 148a.

Hulâgûkhân, son of Tûlikhân, and the Îlkânis, on fol. 161a.

Čaghataikhân and his line, on fol. 205a.

Copied A. H. 1204 (A. D. 1789, 1790); presented by Lieut.-Col. Wm. Kirkpatrick, the 30th of May, 1804. On the margin throughout there are both Persian glosses, various readings, and short English notes, probably by Wm. Kirkpatrick.

No. 167, ff. 226, ll. 19; clear and distinct Nasta'lîḳ; size, 10¾ in. by 6¼ in.

Ẓafarnâma (ظفرنامه).

The only copy of Sharaf-aldîn 'Alî Yazdî's (died A. H. 858 = A. D. 1454) history of Timûr from his birth to his death (A. H. 736–807 = A. D. 1336–1405) in this collection, which contains the rare Introduction or Iftitâḥ on the genealogy of the Turkish Khâns (to the death of Amîr Turâghâ, Timûr's father, in A. H. 762), and on the history of Čingizkhân and his descendants; see a full description of its contents in Rieu i. p. 175, and G. Flügel ii. p. 189. It was written before the Ẓafarnâma, and commenced A. H. 822 (A. D. 1419). The Ẓafarnâma itself was completed A. H. 828 (A. D. 1424, 1425); comp. Bodleian Cat., Nos. 153–159; Rieu i. p. 173 sq.; W. Morley, pp. 94 and 95; Elliot, History of India, iii. p. 478; J. Aumer, p. 86; etc. It was translated into French by Petis de la Croix, 'Histoire de Timur-Bec,' Paris, 1722; English version by J. Darby, London, 1723. An extract in text and translation is given by C. Stewart, Descriptive Catalogue, pp. 234–247.

Beginning of the Introduction, on fol. 1b: افتتاح تأریخ جهانداری و ابتداء نامهٔ ظفر و بختیاری حمد و سپاس حضرت پادشاهی تواند بود الخ.

Beginning of the Ẓafarnâma itself, on fol. 73b: حمداً کثیراً مبارکاً لمن یوتی الملك من یشاء الخ.

The Introduction is dated A. H. 1054 (A. D. 1644, 1645); the Ẓafarnâma by the same hand three years before, A. H. 1051, the 20th of Ramaḍân (A. D. 1641, December 23). The copyist's name is Naṣr-allâh the Kâtib of Tattah, son of Shaikh Ṭâhir Muḥammad. An entry of a former owner, bearing the date A. H. 1138 (A. D. 1725, 1726), on fol. 1a.

No. 984, ff. 470, ll. 21; splendid Nasta'lîḳ; large illuminated frontispieces of the most gorgeous kind on ff. 1b and 73b; arabesques in gold and other colours on the margin of ff. 1b, 2a, 73b, and 74a; size, 12¾ in. by 7½ in.

The same without the Iftitâḥ.

The oldest of all the copies of the Żafarnâma in this collection without the Introduction, dated the 18th of Ramaḍân, A. H. 901 (A. D. 1496, May 31), by Sayyidî 'Alî bin Kamâl الكربالى. It is incorrectly styled in the frontispiece: كتاب تأريخ تيموري شرفى.

Beginning: حمداً كثيراً طيّباً مباركاً فيه توفى الملك من تشاء و تنزع الملك ممّن تشاء الخ.

No. 31, ff. 307, ll. 23; good Nasta'lîḳ; illuminated frontispiece; size, 9¾ in. by 6½ in.

175

The same.

Another excellent and richly illustrated copy, dated the 5th of Ramaḍân, A. H. 939 (A. D. 1533, March 31), by Murshid, the Kâtib of Shîrâz.

Beginning: حمداً كثيراً مباركاً لمن توفى الخ. A complete index, comprising three pages, written by a different hand, on the fly-leaves, styled: فهرست ظفرنامهٔ حضرت تيمور. The work is styled on the first page: تأريخ جهان كشاى تيمور كه ظفرنامه هم خوانند.

No. 137, ff. 474, ll. 19; small, neat, and very distinct Nasta'lîḳ; large illuminated frontispiece; thirty fine pictures on ff. 6ᵃ, 20ᵃ, 34ᵇ, 50ᵃ, 71ᵇ, 86ᵃ, 102ᵇ, 120ᵃ, 139ᵇ, 161ᵃ, 176ᵇ, 190ᵃ, 199ᵇ, 217ᵃ, 230ᵇ, 248ᵃ, 254ᵇ, 268ᵃ, 284ᵇ, 298ᵃ, 307ᵇ, 326ᵃ, 351ᵇ, 358ᵃ, 368ᵇ, 380ᵃ, 404ᵇ, 418ᵃ, 435ᵇ, and 450ᵃ; some pages rather effaced, a few others damaged; size, 12 in. by 7½ in.

The same.

Excellent copy, collated and with occasional notes on the margin, dated the 25th of Ramaḍân, A. H. 970 (A. D. 1563, May 18), by Pîr Muḥammad bin Ḥasan. Bibliotheca Leydeniana.

No. 2597, ff. 359, ll. 23; splendid Naskhî; illuminated frontispiece; small illuminated headings throughout; size, 9¾ in. by 7 in.

The same.

This fine copy is dated the 8th of Rajab, A. H. 982 (A. D. 1574, October 24), by Ḥâjî Khiḍr bin Sulaimân bin Ḥâjî Khiḍr Ḳuraishî. Bibliotheca Leydeniana.

Beginning, as in No. 31 (174 in this Cat.): حمداً كثيراً طيّباً الخ.

No. 2432, ff. 375, ll. 23; clear Naskhî; ff. 1–9, 13, and 352–375 are put into a modern margin; size, 11¾ in. by 7¾ in.

The same.

Dated Jumâdâ-alâkhar, A. H. 997 (A. D. 1589, April–May).

Beginning: حمداً كثيراً مباركاً لمن توفى الملك من تشاء الخ.

No. 60, ff. 490, ll. 21; small illuminated frontispiece; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 9¾ in. by 7 in.

The same.

Finished in the month Jumâdâ-alâkhar, A. H. 1007 (A. D. 1599, January), by Muḥammad alkâtib, in the province of Bâkharz, in the village of ;;. Many leaves injured by damp; many of the last pages almost entirely effaced.

No. 1104, ff. 349, ll. 19; Nasta'lîḳ; illuminated frontispiece; size, 12¾ in. by 8½ in.

The same.

This copy of the Żafarnâma, complete, with all the poetical specimens, as usual, opens with two additional portions: 1. A detailed index, on ff. 1ᵇ–10ᵇ, dated the 24th of Sha'bân, A. H. 1145 (A. D. 1733, February 9). 2. The introductory chapters of the abridgment of the Żafarnâma, noticed below in Nos. 190 and 191, and styled فتح نامهٔ صاحبقرانى, on ff. 11ᵇ–16ᵇ. The latter portion goes down (see fol. 16ᵃ, last line but two) to the گفتار در فهرست كتاب. Both pieces are written by another and more modern hand than the Żafarnâma itself, which begins here, on fol. 17ᵇ: حمداً كثيراً طيّباً مباركاً الخ.

No date. Excellent and tolerably old copy, collated throughout.

No. 1315, olim 14. J. 4, ff. 334, ll. 23; small and clear Nasta'lîḳ; ff. 17ᵇ and 18ᵃ splendidly adorned; size, 9¾ in. by 6½ in.

The same.

Another very clear and correct copy, beginning as usual. No date.

No. 2859, ff. 617, ll. 16–17; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 11¾ in. by 7¾ in.

182

The same.

Another splendid copy, not dated.

No. 1106, ff. 254, ll. 27; clear and distinct Nasta'lîḳ; illuminated frontispiece; splendid binding in red, gold, and other colours; size, 13¾ in. by 7 in.

183

The same.

No date.

No. 3153, ff. 538, ll. 19–21; Nasta'lîḳ, written by different hands; splendid binding; size, 8½ in. by 5½ in.

184

The same.

This copy is considerably old, and being collated would be of intrinsic value, if it were not greatly damaged throughout; a number of pages are entirely spoilt by these injuries. The last leaf (fol. 428), of which unfortunately only a fragment is left, must, as it seems, be inserted between ff. 272 and 273, where a lacuna is found. The copy breaks off on fol. 427ᵇ, towards the end of the mathnawí, in praise of Ibráhím Sulṭán (see Rieu i. p. 174ᵃ), with the bait:

سعادت مغنّی بشارت سرود ـ صدایش گذشته زچرخ کبود corresponding to No. 1315 (180 in this Cat.), last page, ll. 15 and 16. This mathnawí is wanting in several of the other copies, for instance in No. 3153, the immediately preceding MS.

No date; but on fol. 1ᵃ we find an entry from A. H. 999 (A. D. 1590, 1591).

No. 3309, olim 15. J. 7. ff. 428, ll. 21; Naskhí; size, 10¾ in. by 5¾ in.

A defective copy of the same.

This copy opens, on fol. 1ᵃ, with the following chapter: ذکر غدر علی بیك جوزی قربانی با امیر حسین و حضرت صاحب قرانی, corresponding to the preceding copy, fol. 21ᵃ, l. 4 ab infra, where جانی appears instead of جوزی.

No. 3318, olim 14. J. 5, ff. 318, ll. 25; written by different hands in Nasta'líḳ and Naskhí; size 10 in. by 5¾ in.

Another defective copy of the same.

Beginning as usual. The copy, which was finished the 7th of Rabí'-alâkhar, A. H. 1007 (A. D. 1598, November 7; chronogram: درج درهای شرف), has been collated by Sir Barry Close with another copy of his (probably No. 984, 173 in this Cat.), and some omissions and lacunas are pointed out to the reader, for instance on fol. 173ᵃ, l. 12 (where sixty-three and a half pages are said to be missing), and on fol. 386ᵃ, last line (where three and a half pages are left out).

No. 851, ff. 458, ll. 21; clear Nasta'líḳ; size, 11¾ in. by 6¾ in.

Iftitáḥ-i-Ẓafarnáma (افتتاح ظفرنامه).

Another copy of the rare introduction to the Ẓafarnáma (see No. 173 in this Cat.). Beginning as in No. 984, fol. 1ᵇ. Interlinear and marginal glosses on the first eight leaves.

No date; but an entry on fol. 85ᵃ, in another handwriting, bears the date A. H. 1012, 5th of Jumádá-althání (A. D. 1603, November 10); another entry, dated A. H. 1139 (A. D. 1726, 1727), on fol. 1ᵃ.

No. 1955, ff. 85, ll. 25; Nasta'líḳ; worm-eaten; size, 8¾ in. by 4¾ in.

The same.

Dated by Malik Muḥammad bin Ḥájí . . . . Jumádá-althání, A. H. 1024 (A. D. 1615, July). The similarity between this introduction to the Ẓafarnáma and the ninth maḳálah of Khwándamír's Khulâṣat-alakhbár (see Nos. 76–78 in this Cat., and Rieu i. pp. 164 and 175) has probably caused the wrong inscription on fol. 1ᵃ, which states that this MS. contains the third volume of the Ḥabíb-alsiyar.

No. 3033, ff. 1–112, ll. 20; Nasta'líḳ; size, 10 in. by 5¾ in.

The same.

Dated the 10th of Jumádá-alawwal, A. H. 1182 (A. D. 1768, September 22).

No. 712, ff. 91, ll. 24; Nasta'líḳ; size, 8¾ in. by 5¼ in.

Fatḥnáma-i-Ṣáḥibḳirání (فتح نامهٔ صاحبقرانی).

A more plain and simplified edition of 'Alí Yazdí's Ẓafarnáma, compiled, like the original, for Abú-alfatḥ Ibráhím Sulṭán (see ff. 4ᵇ, l. 19, and 5ᵇ, l. 7), and differing from it only in so far as it omits the poetical pieces and the less important passages of the prose-narrative. Beginning of the (anonymous) abbreviator's preface, on fol. 1ᵇ: ربّ کما افضیت نعمة الشروع فتمّمها بتوفیق التیمیم حمد و سپاس بیقیاس که از فتح نامه الخ. Comp. Bodleian Cat., No. 160, and Elliot, Bibliogr. Index, p. 4, No. CXXI. This abridgment is, of course, not identical with that of 'Abd-alsattár Ḳásim (made A. H. 1024=A. D. 1615); see Bodleian Cat., No. 159, and Rieu i. p. 177; comp. also No. 180 in this Cat.

The Ẓafarnáma itself begins, on fol. 5ᵇ, in the same words as usual: حمداً کثیراً مبارکاً لمن توّی الملك الخ. On fol. 1ᵃ both فتح نامه and ظفر نامه are given as title to this work.

Dated the 6th of Dhú-alḥijjah, A. H. 982 (A. D. 1575, March 19).

No. 1141, ff. 335, ll. 20; Naskhí; size, 9¾ in. by 6¼ in.

Another copy of the same.

A defective and rather confused copy of the same simplified edition of the Ẓafarnáma, beginning: حمد و سپاس بی قیاس که از فتح نامه الخ. The preface of the abbreviator goes down to fol. 8ᵇ, last line; ff. 9ᵃ–26ᵇ, which are included here in the introductory part, contain a portion of the Ẓafarnáma, beginning abruptly, on fol. 9ᵃ, l. 1: ارجمند مجید بمعذرت برکشادند که للحمد لله تعالی الخ.

The first heading of this portion, which ought to be inserted at the end of the volume, runs thus on fol. 10ᵇ: گفتار در لشکر کشیدن حضرت صاحبقرانی بجانب بغداد و فتح آنملك; the last, on fol. 25ᵃ: گفتار در بیان رسیدن امیر زاده سلطان حسین و سیّد خواجه شیخ علی بهادر. On fol. 21ᵃ the capture of the fortress of Fírúzkúh is narrated (comp. Petis de la Croix, iv. p. 153).

The Ẓafarnáma itself begins, in the usual way, on fol. 27ᵃ, and breaks off with the death of prince 'Umar Shaikh, on fol. 318a, and the end of the campaign against Mârdîn, on fol. 320a. The last words of this chapter are written by quite a different and altogether modern hand the 19th of Dhû-alḳa'dah, A. H. 1211 (A. D. 1797, May 16).

No. 2940, ff. 321, ll. 17; clear and distinct Nasta'lîḳ; size, 11 in. by 8½ in.

Maṭla'-alsa'dain wa majma'-albaḥrain (مطلع السعدين و مجمع البحرين).

The first volume of 'Abd-alrazzâḳ bin Isḥâḳ al-Samarḳandî's history of the Timûrides, from A. H. 704 to A. H. 875 (A. D. 1304–1470). The author was born at Harât, A. H. 816 (A. D. 1413), and died there A. H. 887 (A. D. 1482); see the full account of his life and work given by Quatremère in the Notices et Extraits, vol. xiv. pp. 1–514; comp. also Bodleian Cat., Nos. 163 and 164; Rieu i. p. 181 sq.; Elliot, History of India, iv. p. 89 sq.; W. Morley, pp. 96–98 (where a complete list of the various editions of fragments of this work is found); Cat. des MSS. et Xylogr., pp. 286–288; G. Flügel ii. p. 190; J. Aumer, pp. 87 and 88, etc. Extracts are edited by B. Dorn in Muhammadanische Quellen, iv, Auszüge, pp. ١٥٣–٢٣٧. This first volume or first half of the work goes from A. H. 704 (the date of Abû Sa'îd Bahâdurkhân's birth) to A. H. 807 (the year of Timûr's death and Khalîl Sulṭân's accession); see the beginning of the last chapter here on fol. 440b. The death of Sulṭân Abû Sa'îd in A. H. 736 (A. D. 1335) is related here on fol. 38b, Timûr's birth on fol. 39b.

Beginning, without the usual preface: ... الحمد لله داستان سلطان سعيد علاء الدنيا والدين سلطان ابو سعيد الخ.

Dated the 10th of Jumâdâ-alawwal, A. H. 1000 or 1024 (الف, but above in figures ٢٤)=A. D. 1592, February 23, or 1615, June 7. Bibliotheca Leydeniana.

No. 2704, ff. 449, ll. 19; small, but clear Nasta'lîḳ; collated; size, 10½ in. by 5½ in.

Maṭla'-alsa'dain wa majma'-albaḥrain.

The second volume or latter half of the same work, containing the history of Timûr's successors from A. H. 807 to A. H. 875. Beginning: فاتحهٔ كلام حمد و ثنای ملك علّامی باید كه ثنای ستایش از ضمیر منیر خورشید جهانگیر الخ.

Dated the 4th of Dhû-alḥijjah, A. H. 992 (A. D. 1584, December 7). Fol. 268b and part of fol. 269a left blank.

No. 1580, ff. 463, ll. 19; clear and distinct Nasta'lîḳ; size, 9 in. by 6½ in.

Another copy of the same second volume.

Beginning as in the preceding copy. This copy, written A. H. 1010 (A. D. 1601, 1602), about four years before Akbar's death, was presented to the Library by Lieut.-Col. W. Kirkpatrick the 30th of May, 1804. A note from the 11th of November, 1868, on fol. 1a, runs thus: 'The leaves of this book have been cut out and mounted on different paper, and whoever did it has misplaced the pages and leaves in numerous places, and some leaves are wanting likewise—a great pity, for the work is well and elegantly written. Its value as history is sufficiently well known. This is the second volume only.' By the same hand which has written this note, all the misplacings and lacunas are carefully marked on the margin. Evident lacunas are after ff. 39 and 313. The greater portion of fol. 208b is left blank.

No. 297, ff. 353, ll. 21; large and distinct Nasta'lîḳ; the first two pages richly illuminated; full-page pictures on ff. 20a, 49a, 56a, 88a, 118a, 147a, 177b, 226a, 258a, and 353b; size, 15 in. by 9½ in.

The same.

Beginning as in the preceding copies. No date. It belonged formerly to Mr. Richard Johnson.

No. 1135, ff. 376, ll. 23; written by different hands, partly in Naskhî, partly in Nasta'lîḳ; size, 10½ in. by 6½ in.

Malfûẓât-i-Timûrî (ملفوظات تيموری).

Timûr's alleged autobiographical memoirs, in the Persian translation of Abû Ṭâlib alḥusainî al'aridî, beginning with a preface of the translator, on ff. 1b–2b; comp. Bodleian Cat., No. 150; Rieu i. p. 177 sq.; W. Morley, pp. 95 and 96; Elliot, History of India, iii. p. 389 sq.; and iv. p. 559 sq.; etc. This version was presented to the emperor Shâhjahân probably a short time before A. H. 1047 (A. D. 1637). The full title given here to these memoirs runs thus: واقعات السلطان بن السلطان والخاقان بن الخاقان پادشاه جم جاه خلائق پناه قطب السلاطين عالی جاه امير تيمور گورگان صاحب قران خلّد الله تعالی ملكه و سلطانه, after which the preface opens with these words: حمد بليغ سبحانی را كه بمقتضای آيهٔ كريمه إنّا جعلناك خليفة فی الأرض الخ.

The memoirs begin, on fol. 4b, with the usual account of Timûr's omens of a great future: فرزندان سعادتليغ و امرای دولتليغ و وزرای كفايتليغ معلوم نمايند كه تكری تعالی مرا بسبب دوازده چيز كه شعار خود ساختم بزرگی داد الخ, and go down here to A. H. 783 (A. D. 1381), the twelfth year of his reign, which year begins on fol. 226b. They conclude, on fol. 236b, with these words: چنانچه جميع راههای كه گرفتن قلعه از آن طرفها ممكن بود مسدود ساخت. The transcriber adds: معلوم باد كه ازين مجلس تا مجلس وصيّت و وصايا كه امير در دست انداز صحرای خطا نموده اند تا برليغ توزوك قريب بچهل هزار بيت (!) ديگر خواهد بود كه از سواد به بياض رفته انشاء الله تعالی اگر دل و دماغ يارى دهد باتمام خواهد رسيد والسلام.

On ff. 237b–320a there are added the تزوکات تیمور, or 'Institutes, designs, and enterprises' of Timûr (comp. Institutes, political and military, written originally in the Moghul language, etc., first translated into Persian by Abu Taulib Alhusseini, and thence into English by Major Davy. The original Persian transcribed, etc., by Joseph White, D.D., Oxford, 1783), but, as a comparison with that edition shows, in a rather different version. They are entitled in the colophon at the end: سوانح نصاب کہ آئینۂ احوال ملوک پیشین و گلدستۂ محافل هوشمندان خبرت گزین است (mirror of the lives and deeds of ancient kings, and a handful of roses from the assemblies of wise men), headed at the top of fol. 237b: راستی رستی تیمور ابو المنصور تیمور سوزومیز, and beginning with a few Turkish words: فرزندان ملك گیر کامگار و نیاثر ذوی القدر ملك دارہ معلوم اولسون کیم یتمش الخ.

The transcriber was Muḥammad Ashraf. According to a note on fol. 1a this copy was finished the 4th of Shawwâl, A. H. 1196 (A. D. 1782, September 12).

No. 1943, ff. 320, ll. 15; clear Nasta'lîḳ; size, 9½ in. by 5½ in.

The same.

Another copy of the Malfûẓât, in a somewhat shorter redaction, as it seems. Preface, on fol. 1b; beginning of the memoirs, on fol. 3b; end of the memoirs, on fol. 214b; beginning of the Institutes, designs, and enterprises, on fol. 215a.

Dated Jumâdâ-althânî, A. H. 1077 (A. D. 1666, December), by Mullâ Muḥammad 'Alî Khûshânî.

No. 722, ff. 277, ll. 14; Nasta'lîḳ; worm-eaten; size, 7 in. by 3½ in.

The same.

The same Malfûẓât, in the shorter redaction, as in the preceding copy. Preface, on fol. 1b; beginning of the memoirs, on fol. 3a; beginning of the Institutes, designs, and enterprises, on fol. 224a.

Dated the 15th of Jumâdâ-althânî, in the twenty-fourth year of (Âlamgîr probably, =A. H. 1092, A. D. 1681, July 2). This copy was made at the request of Nawwâb Ḥaidar Ḳulikhân.

No. 1714, ff. 299, ll. 11; large and distinct Nasta'lîḳ; illuminated frontispiece; size, 8¾ in. by 5½ in.

Another copy of the Tuzûkât-i-Timûr.

The Institutes, designs, and enterprises, in the shorter redaction, beginning: فرزندان ملك گیر کامگار و نیاثر ذوی القدر جهاندارا معلوم باد کہ چون از درگاہ تینکری تعالی امیدوارم الخ. It is styled in the colophon: تزوك تیموری.

Dated the 7th of Ṣafar, A. H. 1229 (A. D. 1814, January 29). Bibliotheca Leydeniana.

No. 2435, ff. 50, ll. 15; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 10½ in. by 7½ in.

The same.

No. 1538, ff. 1–64, ll. 9; large Nasta'lîḳ; size, 10½ in. by 7½ in.

201

The same.

A still shorter redaction of the Institutes, designs, and enterprises, styled in the colophon تزوك تیموریّہ, and dated the 15th of the month Aghan, in the year 1196 of the Bangâlî era. Beginning as usual.

No. 3058, ff. 20–46, ll. 13–15; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 8½ in. by 6½ in.

The same.

This copy, containing the fuller redaction, is defective both at the beginning and end. It opens thus: درین وقت پیر من بمن گفت کہ بو المنصور تیمور آمدہ الله تعالی را معلوم باد الخ, corresponding to fol. 248b, l. 10, in No. 1943 (196 in this Cat.), and breaks off on fol. 55b. As far as fol. 55a, l. 6, it agrees upon the whole with the wording in No. 1943 (down to fol. 307a, l. 10). The remainder of the copy contains the introductory portion of the Malfûẓât-i-Ṣâḥibḳirân (see the following copy), the preface of which begins here on fol. 56a, l. 3 sq.

On fol. 1a the following note: این چند جزء از کتاب تیمور نامہ در شهر دار الخلافت شاهجهان‌آباد گرفت و در این کتاب داخل نمود, 'these few pieces from the Timûrnâma (!) he (the owner) found in the town of Shâhjahânâbâd, and inserted them in this volume.'

No date.

No. 1606, ff. 1–69, ll. 15; clear and distinct Nasta'lîḳ; size, 8½ in. by 4¾ in.

Malfûẓât-i-Ṣâḥibḳirân (ملفوظات صاحبقران).

The revised and enlarged edition of the same Malfûẓât or autobiographical memoirs of Timûr, made at the request of the emperor Shâhjahân, A. H. 1047, by Muḥammad Afḍal of Bukhârâ (see fol. 3b, ll. 1, 9, and 10; the title occurs on fol. 2a, last line but one); comp. Bodleian Cat., Nos. 151 and 152; Rieu i. p. 179; Elliot, History of India, iii. p. 392. It comprises the whole life of Timûr from his seventh year to his death.

Beginning: حمد افزون از شمار نثار بارگاہ علی الاطلاقی سزد کہ سر رشتۂ امور عالم و عالمیان را بعدالت و سیاست الخ.

Ff. 565, 566, and 567a are left blank.

No date. English references occasionally on the margin. A portion of these memoirs, down to A. H. 777, has been translated by Major C. Stewart, Oriental Translation Fund, London, 1830.

No. 455, ff. 587, ll. 15; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 8¾ in. by 7¾ in.

IV. History of India.

a. History of the early Râjahs and the Emperors of Dihlî, and general history of India.

Aḥwâl-i-Râjahâi-Hindûstân (احوال راجهای هندوستان).

A short tract, dealing with the early Râjahs of India down to Shihâb-aldîn Ghûrî, who, A. H. 588=A. D. 1192 (see fol. 414ᵃ, ll. 1–3), defeated and killed رای پتهورا (otherwise called پرتهی), that is, Râjah Pithaurâ, or Prithwî, as he is called by Elphinstone, History of India, 5th ed., p. 364. This short account is stated in the colophon to have been taken from the روضة الطاهرين.

Beginning: مجملی از احوال راجهای هندوستان، راجهای هندوستان دو طبقه اند طبقهٔ اوّل سورج بنش پوشیده نماند که الخ.

Bibliotheca Leydeniana.

No. 2484, ff. 399–414, ll. 13; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 7¾ in. by 5¼ in.

Risâla-i-Râjâwalî (رسالهٔ راجاولی).

Another short account of the rulers of India, from the early Râjahs down to 'Âlamgîr II (پادشاه عالمگیر ثانی پسر معزّ الدین جهاندارشاه ابن بهادرشاه), who reigned from A. H. 1167 to A. H. 1173 (A. D. 1754–1759). It consists chiefly of lists and tables with a succinct text, originally drawn up by Râjâ Walî, whose real name, according to Rieu ii. p. 855, and iii. p. 916, was Banwâlîdâs, a munshî of prince Dârâ Shukûh, and continued by a later editor, but see the following copy.

Beginning:

بشنو زولی وفای دنیا ای شاه
مغرور مشو بدولت و حشمت و جاه

No date. Another copy in the Bodleian Library, Bodley 695 (Bodleian Cat., No. 170).

No. 1019, ff. 38, ll. 11; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 9½ in. by 5¾ in.

Another copy of the Râjâwalî.

Beginning as in the preceding copy. This copy goes down as far as the beginning of Muḥammadshâh's reign, and ends on fol. 23ᵃ middle. The remainder of this copy is filled with miscellaneous writings, chiefly epistles on mystic topics, other letters, for instance, to Fâdil-khân (see fol. 47ᵃ), and pieces of ornate prose (see, for instance, fol. 48ᵃ, در مبارکباد طوی; fol. 55ᵇ, رقعهٔ جواب و سؤال; fol. 57ᵇ, انتخاب نسخهٔ عشقیّه, etc.), compiled or collected A. H. 1103=A. D. 1691, 1692 (see this date twice on ff. 28ᵃ and 28ᵇ) in 'Âlamgîr's reign. This collection begins: شرح غم دل در غم جانان سوخت الخ.

The author's name does not appear, as far as we can see; but as there is scarcely any separation between the راجاولی and this portion, we suppose that both are due to the same, viz. to Râjâ Walî. According to an English note, by C. Mackenzie (dated May 6, 1807), on the fly-leaf, the real name of Râjâ Walî would be (contrary to Rieu's statement, loc. cit.) Ranjît Singh, munshî to the celebrated Âṣafjâh, Ṣûbadâr of the Dakhan, Ranjît Singh had sometime a jâgîr in the country of Adone from Âṣafjâh, by whose order he collected this book from different authors and authorities.

This copy was transcribed in the second half of the eighteenth century from a MS. brought from Savanore.

No. 3105, ff. 61, written in diagonal lines; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 7½ in. by 3½ in.

Tables, giving the names of all the Hindû Râjahs and Muḥammadan rulers of Dihlî, with a short remark about the duration of their respective reigns, beginning with Râjah Judishtir (راجه جدشتر), who reigned 122 years and 8 months, and ending with Shâh 'Âlam (who ascended the throne in A. H. 1173=A. D. 1759).

Title: نام راجههای هنود و پادشاهان اسلام که از شروع اوان و زمان کلجاه تا این زمان سریر آرای سلطنت دار الخلافت دهلی بودند و آنچه از روی کتب هندوی و تواریخ فارسی بنظر در آمده و بگوش رسیده همگی نوشته میشود که از راجه جدشتر تا راجه پرتهی یکصد و بیست نفر راجه بودند و از سلطان شهاب الدین غوری تا شاه عالم که اکنون در دهلی اند شصت و یك کس پادشاه شدند.

No. 3058, ff. 1–5, 4 coll.; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 8½ in. by 6½ in.

Râja Sohâwalî (راج سوهاولی).

A history of the Hindû Râjahs and the Muḥammadan rulers of India, together with statistical tables of the Ṣûbahs of Hindûstân, compiled from various Sanskrit (for instance, the Mahâbhârata) and Persian sources, by Munshî Hirâm (or Hanirâm), son of Dhanirâm, son of Dhanrâja, the Registrar of the Pargana of Aunâm in the Sarkâr of Lakhnau in the Ṣûbah of Aḥmadnagar Oudh (منشی هیرام (هنیرام) ولد دهنی رام ابن دهنراج قانونگوی پرگنهٔ اونام سرکار لکهنو بمضاف صوبهٔ احمدنگر اودة), after A. H. 1207=A. D. 1192 (see fol. 7ᵃ, ll. 8 and 9), for Colonel Robert Frith (? فریط) (see fol. 2ᵃ, l. 6, and fol. 6ᵇ, l. 10), and entitled راج سوهاولی, in five ṭabaḳât (see fol. 8ᵃ, l. 1 sq.), the first three of which deal with the Hindû Râjahs, the fourth with the Muḥammadan rulers down to Shâh 'Âlam (the last date mentioned in that chapter is A. H. 1194=A. D. 1780, the time of the occupation of Aḥmadâbâd in Gujarât by the English), and the fifth with the statistics of India. This copy, which seems to be the only one extant, is unfortunately without any headings, all being left blank except those of the first and second ṭabaḳah, viz.

(1) در بیان احوال بزرگان و آبادئ وطن مصنّف کتاب, on fol. 8a, with interesting details about the author's ancestors and the history of his native town, and (2) در بیان احوال آفرینش راجها از ابتدای ستجك بغایت دوابر (from the Sati Yuga to the Dwâpara), on fol. 15b. The only other subdivision, marked, is on the ten Avatârs, on fol. 19b: احوال ظهور یافتن ده اوتار. The rise of Islâm is narrated about fol. 231 sq. The statistical tables of the Ṣûbahs of India, with descriptive text, begin on fol. 462a.

Beginning: حمد وافر و سپاس متکاثر شهنشاهی را سزد که هفت طبق زمین را بموالید ثلاث الخ.

This copy belonged formerly to E. S. Montague.

No. 2938, ff. 492, ll. 14–15; written by various hands in different kinds of Nasta'lîḳ and Shikasta; size, 10 in. by 7¾ in.

Tâj-almaâthir (تاج المآثر).

A tolerably old copy of the history of the empire of Dihlî from A. H. 587 to 614 (A. D. 1191–1217), by Ḥasan Niżâmî, or al-Ḥasan al-Niżâmî alnîshâpûrî (see the author's name on ff. 8b, l. 14, and 305b, l. 5). A fuller name of the author is given in the Raudat-alṣafâ, viz. Ṣadr-aldîn Muḥammad bin Ḥasan al-Niżâmî; see Ḥ. Khalfa ii. p. 92, and Rieu i. p. 239 sq. The history comprises part of the reign of Mu'izz-aldîn (who was assassinated A. H. 602), the whole reign of Ḳuṭb-aldîn Aibak (A. H. 602 to 607), and the first seven years of that of Shams-aldîn Iltatmish.

Beginning of the very long and tedious preface, on fol. 1b: حمد و سپاس بی قیاس که قدم شهسوار عقل دو اسپه بسر حدّ عدّ و احصاء آن نرسد الخ.

Beginning of the history itself, on fol. 33a, with the conquest of Ajmîr in A. H. 587. Last chapter, on fol. 248a, account of the appointment of prince Nâṣir-aldîn Maḥmûd as governor of Lâhûr in A. H. 614. The work apparently ends on fol. 260a. Compare for further details Elliot, History of India, ii. p. 204 sq.; see also G. Flügel ii. p. 173; Cat. des MSS. et Xylogr. p. 296; W. Pertsch, p. 53, etc.

The remaining portion of this MS. contains:

1. On ff. 261a–301b, repetitions of certain parts of the Tâj-almaâthir, viz. ff. 261a–271b correspond to ff. 105a, l. 5 ab infra, to 115a, last line; and ff. 280a, l. 6 ab infra–301b to ff. 125b, l. 11–146b, l. 11. The intervening piece, ff. 272a–280a, l. 6 ab infra, we have not been able to trace.

2. On ff. 302a–304b, part of an epilogue to the Tâj-almaâthir, chiefly consisting of a فصل فی محاسن هذا الکتاب (see fol. 302b).

3. On ff. 305a–307b, a panegyric of Ḥasan Niżâmî, written by the transcriber of the original copy of this work, Muḥammad bin Muḥammad, at the end of his MS.

No date.

No. 1486, ff. 307, ll. 23; very small Nasta'lîḳ; small illuminated frontispiece; ff. 209–216 and 289–298 turned upside down; size, 6⅝ in. by 3½ in.

210

Another copy of the same.

Beginning as in the preceding copy. A detailed index on the fly-leaves. Collated; many glosses on the margin. No date. Some pages a little damaged. Ff. 272 supplied by another hand.

No. 15, ff. 278, ll. 21; clear Nasta'lîḳ; size, 11¼ in. by 7 in.

Tawârîkh-i-Fîrûzshâhî (تواریخ فیروزشاهی).

History of Fîrûzshâh, king of Dihlî's reign, compiled by Shams-i-Sirâj 'Afîf (see fol. 11b, last line but one), from his accession to the throne, A. H. 752, to his death, A. H. 790 (A. D. 1351–1388), with a short account of his previous life. It is an amplification, continuation, and completion of the preceding تاریخ فیروزشاهی by Ḍiyâ-aldîn Baranî. Shams-i-Sirâj resumed the interrupted and incomplete task, and gave a complete history of the whole reign of Fîrûzshâh; comp. Rieu i. p. 241 sq.; Elliot, History of India, iii. pp. 267–373; Nassau Lees, Materials, pp. 441–446.

It is divided into five ḳisms, each subdivided into eighteen مقدّمه. Ḳism I (containing Fîrûzshâh's life from his birth to his accession) begins on fol. 21a, II on fol. 59a, III on fol. 103a, IV on fol. 141b, V on fol. 203b. The last ḳism is not complete, it breaks off in the fifteenth muḳaddimah.

Copied in the twenty-fourth year of (? probably 'Âlam-gîr's reign, A.H. 1092=A.D. 1681), by Shaikh Fâḍil. Index on ff. 18a–21a.

Beginning: قال الله تعالى و ما يعلم تأويله الّا الله والراسخون فى العلم الآية قال النبى صلّى الله عليه و سلّم قلوب الملوك ملهمون الخ

After fol. 109 one leaf is missing, corresponding to the following copy, fol. 57a, l. 14, to fol. 58a, l. 5; in the middle of fol. 162a two lines are wanting in l. 7 (corresponding to the following copy, fol. 97b, ll. 14–16).

This copy was acquired A.D. 1786, at Lucknow, by Mr. Mulock, and presented by W. Kirkpatrick, May 30, 1804.

No. 1002, ff. 278, ll. 15; illuminated frontispiece; large and clear Nasta'lîḳ; many small damages throughout; size, 9¾ in. by 5¾ in.

Another copy of the same.

This copy is still more defective than the preceding one, but fortunately sufficient to supply the lacunas of No. 1002. There are missing after fol. 26 about forty-five pages (corresponding to the preceding copy, fol. 37a, l. 3, to fol. 69b, l. 8), from the middle of the eighth muḳaddimah in ḳism I to the middle of the fifth in ḳism II. Another lacuna after fol. 97 (one leaf missing, corresponding to the preceding copy, fol. 162a, l. 9, to fol. 163b, l. 8), and a third large one on fol. 166b in the third line (comprising the whole of the rest of the preceding copy, fol. 251a, l. 13, down to the end). The real conclusion of the work, however, is found in this copy.

No date. Index on ff. 13a–14b. Ḳism I, on fol. 14b (heading of II missing); III, on fol. 52a; IV, on fol. 82a, first line; V, on fol. 128b.

No. 1002 A, ff. 167, ll. 17; clear and distinct Nasta'lîḳ; size, 10¾ in. by 5¾ in.

Wâḳi'ât-i-Bâbarî (واقعات بابرى).

A complete copy of the rare Caghatâi or Turkî original of the Bâbarnama, or autobiography of the emperor Bâbar, from his accession in Ramaḍân, A.H. 899 (A.D. 1494, June), to Muḥarram, A.H. 936 (A.D. 1529, September); see the edition of this work by N. Ilminski, Kasan, 1857, French translation by Pavet de Courteille, Paris, 1871.

Beginning: رمضان اى بتأريخ سيكيز يوز توقسان توقوز دا فرغانه ولايتنكدە اون ايكى الخ

Some marginal notes and corrections on the first pages by a European hand. Bibliotheca Leydeniana.

No date.

No. 2538, ff. 234, ll. 13; large Naskhî; size, 10¾ in. by 8¼ in.

Wâḳi'ât-i-Bâbarî.

The older Persian translation of the foregoing autobiographical memoirs of Bâbar, commenced A.H. 994 (A.D. 1586), at the request of Bihrûzkhân, by Mirzâ Pâyanda Ḥasan Ghaznawî, and continued by Muḥammad Ḳulî Moghul Ḥiṣârî; see the preface of the latter on fol. 74b sq.; comp. Rieu ii. p. 799, and Bodleian Cat., No. 179.

Beginning: بر ضمائر ارباب بصائر مخفى و مستور نماند كه حضرت پادشاه فردوس مكان جنّت آشيان المغفور بعنايت الملك الـه ظهير الدين محمّد بابر پادشاه انار الله برهانه بزبان معجز بيان چنين فرموده اند كه بتأريخ شهر رمضان هشتصد الخ

The usual blanks are marked here distinctly after ff. 72b, 177b, in the middle of fol. 199b, and on fol. 207a. This copy ends with A.H. 935, so that the concluding portion of the history is missing (see the Brit. Mus. copy in Rieu, loc. cit.). No date. The title given to this work, on fol. 1a, is توزك بابرى. Many English annotations and useful hints on the margin throughout, probably written by Col. W. Kirkpatrick, who presented this copy to the Library the 30th of May, 1804. A still older translation of Bâbar's memoirs is that of Shaikh Zain-aldîn Khwâfî (who died A.H. 940=A.D. 1533, 1534); see Rieu iii. p. 926.

No. 913, ff. 236, ll. 15; clear and distinct Nasta'lîḳ; size, 8¾ in. by 7⅛ in.

Wâḳi'ât-i-Bâbarî.

The later Persian translation of the same autobiographical memoirs of Bâbar, made at the emperor Akbar's request, A.H. 998 (A.D. 1590), by Mirzâ Khân 'Abd-alraḥîm bin Bairâmkhân, who died under Jahângir, A.H. 1036 (A.D. 1626, 1627); see Bodleian Cat., Nos. 180–183; Rieu i. p. 244 sq.; Elliot, History of India, iv. pp. 218–287, etc.; English translations by J. Leyden and W. Erskine, 'Memoirs of Zehir-ed-din Muhammed Baber,' London, 1826, 2nd edit. 1844; and by M. Caldecott, 'Life of Baber, abridged from the memoirs of Zehir-ed-din Muhammed Baber,' London, 1844.

The present version agrees upon the whole—save those gaps which are found in all copies of this work—with the Caghatâi original, and begins in the same abrupt manner as that: در ماه رمضان سنهٔ هشتصد ونود و نه در ولايت فرغانه در دوازده سالگى پادشاه شدم الخ. It goes down, like the original, to the 3rd of Muḥarram, A.H. 936, and breaks off with the words: فرستاده شد كه گواليار را بايشان سپرده ....

Not dated.

No. 2654, ff. 184, ll. 21; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 12¼ in. by 8¼ in.

217

Another copy of the same.

Beginning: در ماه مبارك رمضان سنهٔ هشتصد الخ.

Last words: كه گواليار را بايشان سپرده شده بود.

No date.

No. 30, ff. 263, ll. 19; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 9¾ in. by 5¾ in.

218

The same.

Beginning as in the preceding copy. End: بايشان سپرده بيايد. Many pages slightly injured. Additions and short remarks on the margin. Two entries at the end from A. H. 1051 and 1054 (A. D. 1641 and 1644), the first of which runs thus: چهارم شهر صفر سنهٔ ۱۰۵۱ خوانده آمده شد.

No. 29, ff. 331, ll. 17; unequal Nasta'lîk, written, as it seems, by different hands; size, 10½ in. by 6½ in.

Ta'rîkh-i-Shîrshâhî (تأريخ شيرشاهى).

The same slightly abridged redaction of 'Abbâs Khân bin Shaikh 'Alî Sarwânî's history of the life and reign of Sulṭân Shîrshâh Sûr of Dihlî (who assumed the title of king about A. H. 946, and died A. H. 952, A. D. 1539–1545) and his immediate successors, which is noticed in Rieu ii. p. 827[b], and iii. p. 921. The original title of 'Abbâs Sarwânî's work was تحفهٔ اكبرشاهى, composed at the emperor Akbar's request soon after A. H. 987 (A. D. 1579); see Bodleian Cat., Nos. 176–178; Rieu i. pp. 242 and 243; Elliot, History of India, iv. pp. 301–433, etc.

The present redaction is called, just as in two copies of the British Museum, the third book (طبقهٔ سيوم در ذكر احوال سلطنت قبيلهٔ سور از قوم لودئ افغان), so that there must have been two previous ṭabaḳas, and begins in a similar way: جنس حمد و ثنيّه خالق بريّه را سزد كه سرسبزئ رياض ممالك در ميغ تيغ آبدار سلاطين الخ.

It is divided into the following three bâbs:

باب اوّل در ذكر احوال سلطنت شيرخان سور'

باب دوم در ذكر احوال سلطنت اسلامخان بن شيرخان سور'

باب سيوم در ذكر احوال ملوكى كه از خويشان و متعلّقان شيرخان بودند و بعد از اسلامخان دعوئ سلطنت نمودند و سكّه و خطبه بنام خود فرمودند'

This copy was finished the 20th of Ṣafar, A. H. 1030 (A. D. 1621, January 14), by Mullâ Ṣâliḥ Badakhshî.

No. 218, ff. 121, ll. 15; clear and distinct Nasta'lîk; size, 9½ in. by 5½ in.

Ta'rîkh-i-Shîrshâhî.

A Hindûstânî translation of 'Abbâs Sarwânî's history of Shîrshâh's life and reign, which was completed the 5th of Jumâdâ-alawwal, A. H. 1220=A. D. 1805, August 1 (see fol. 122[a], last two lines), and dedicated to the Governor-General of India, Marquis Wellesley (see fol. 2[a], last line, and fol. 2[b], first line). A lacuna after fol. 12.

Beginning of the translator's preface, on fol. 1[b]: شكر هى اُس شاهنشاه برتركا كه وه واجب الوجود الخ.

Beginning of the history itself, on fol. 3[a]: حمد و ثنا اُس خالق خلق كى لئى لائق هى الخ.

This copy, a little worm-eaten, belonged formerly to Mr. Roebuck.

No. 2936, ff. 122, ll. 13; Naskhî; size, 10½ in. by 7½ in.

Tadhkirat-alwâḳi'ât (تذكرة الواقعات).

Private memoirs of the emperor Humâyûn (who reigned A. H. 937–963=A. D. 1530–1556), compiled by the ewer-bearer Jauhar, who commenced this work A. H. 995 (A. D. 1587), and styled both تذكرة الواقعات, تأريخات همايون, and even جواهرشاهى (as, for instance, here on the top of fol. 1[a], and in the colophon). For further particulars, see Rieu i. p. 246, and Elliot, History of India, v. pp. 136–149. An English translation, severely criticised by W. Erskine, was published by Major C. Stewart for the Oriental Translation Fund, London, 1832.

The first leaf is a little damaged in the corners, so that the beginning cannot be given. Part of fol. 40[a], the whole of fol. 40[b], and fol. 41[a] are left blank.

Dated the last of Ṣafar, in the forty-first year (no doubt of 'Âlamgîr's reign)=A. H. 1109 (A. D. 1697, September 16).

No. 220, ff. 55, ll. 25 (some of the first pages written in diagonal lines); Shikasta; size, 9 in. by 5 in.

Ta'rîkh-i-Humâyûnshâhî (تأريخ همايونشاهى).

The revised edition of Jauhar's memoirs, made in a flowery court-style by Ilâhdâd Faiḍî Sirhindî, the author of a Persian dictionary مدار الافاضل (compiled A. H. 1001 =A. D. 1592, 1593), and of a history of Akbar to A. H. 1010 (A. D. 1601, 1602), styled اكبرنامه تواريخ; see below, No. 289 in this Cat., and Rieu iii. p. 927, and i. p. 253. It begins: همايون گوهرى كه در سلك تحرير و عقد تقرير منسلك و معتقد گردد' حمد و ثناى شاهنشاهى است كه نوع انسانرا الخ, and is divided into five bâbs, viz.

1. Humâyûn's accession, and history of his reign to the year of Akbar's birth, A. H. 949=A. D. 1542 (در جلوس فرمودن بر سرير سلطنت نصير الدين محمّد همايون بادشاه غازى الخ), on fol. 3[b].

2. Humâyûn's journey to Khurâsân (متوجّه شدن آن شاه جهانيان بقصد ملاقات شاه طهماسپ بولايت خراسان), on fol. 49[a].

3. Humâyûn's return from 'Irâḳ to Ḳandahâr (مراجعت نمودن آن شاه عالم از ولايت عراق بجانب ديار قندهار), on fol. 63[a].

4. Humâyûn's war-council and invasion of India, to his death (مجلس آراستن شاه عالميان بد سپهداران كشور ستان بجهيت عزيمت مملكه هندوستان الخ), on fol. 96[b].

5. Akbar's accession (جلوس فرمودن جلال الدين محمّد اكبر) and editor's epilogue.

Many remarks in English on the margin throughout. No date.

No. 768, ff. 114, ll. 15; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 8½ in. by 7½ in.

Ta'rîkh-i-Humâyûn (تأريخ همايون).

Another history of the emperor Humâyûn, and all the persons who were closely connected with him, and the affairs of his and his successor Akbar's reign, compiled by an old servant of the empire, and an eye-witness of most of its affairs, with the name of Bâyazîd, who was chosen for this task, at Akbar's request, by his wazîr Abû-alfaḍl bin Mubârak, beginning: چون جم جاه جلال الدين محمّد اكبر پادشاه فرمودند بودند كه از بندهای درگاه هريك الخ.

Bâyazîd begins his story with A. H. 949=A. D. 1542 (when Humâyûn was forced to leave India), and brings it down to A. H. 999 (A. D. 1591), the year of the beginning of this work's composition at Lâhûr. It is divided into four faṣls: 1. from A. H. 949 to A. H. 953, on fol. 1b; 2. from A. H. 953 to A. H. 959, on fol. 22a; 3. from A. H. 959 to A. H. 961, on fol. 50a; 4. from A. H. 961 to A. H. 999, with an account of Akbar's affairs as well as of all the high functionaries and servants of both emperors. He adds at the end that nine copies of this work were made, two of which went into Abû-alfaḍl's own library.

It was finished, so far as we can guess from the ta'rîkh at the end, A. H. 1000 (A. D. 1591, 1592). The right order of ff. 80–105 is: 80, 97–104, 89–96, 81–88, 105.

No. 210, ff. 160, ll. 17; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 9½ in. by 6½ in.

Historical extracts dealing with Humâyûn's flight to Persia and the recapture of Ḳandahâr.

1. Firmân of Shâh Ṭahmâsp ibn Shâh Isma'îl Ṣafawî to the governor of Harât, Muḥammadkhân ibn Sharaf-aldîn Tuklû, fixing the ceremonies and observances for the reception of the Indian emperor Humâyûn, who had fled to Persia and asked for an interview with the Persian Shâh (A. D. 1544), on fol. 1b.

2. Account of Humâyûn's reception in Khurâsân, and his interviews with Ṭahmâsp, on fol. 6b.

3. Names of all the royal Amîrs and the other distinguished attendants who accompanied prince Muḥammad Murâd, third son of Ṭahmâsp, in his march against and his capture of Ḳandahâr (A. D. 1545), on fol. 11a.

Comp. for the historical facts referred to in these extracts, Elphinstone, History of India, 5th edit., pp. 463–466.

This copy (dated the first of Dhû-alḳa'dah, A. H. 1194 =A. D. 1780, October 29) was made for Mr. Richard Johnson by Muḥammad Bakhsh, with the takhalluṣ Âshûb.

No. 1846, ff. 16, ll. 15; Shikasta; size, 8¼ in. by 4½ in.

Ṭabaḳât-i-Akbarî (طبقات اكبرى).

A complete copy of the general history of India from the time of Sabuktagîn of Ghazna, A. H. 367 (A. D. 977), to the end of the thirty-eighth year of Akbar's reign, A. H. 1002 (A. D. 1593), composed by Niẓâm-aldîn Aḥmad bin Muḥammad Muḳîm of Harât, who died A. H. 1003 (A. D. 1594), and entitled both طبقات اكبرى or طبقات اكبرشاهى and تأريخ نظامى; comp. Bodleian Cat., Nos. 184–191; Rieu i. p. 220 sq.; W. Morley, pp. 58–61; Elliot, Bibliogr. Index, p. 178 sq.; History of India, v. pp. 177–476; J. Aumer, p. 83, etc.

Beginning: سپاس رفعت اساس پادشاه حقيقى كه حلّ و عقد نظام عالم الخ (in other copies راست (را سزد).

It is divided into a muḳaddimah, nine ṭabaḳât, and a khâtimah, viz.

Muḳaddimah, on fol. 3a: History of the Ghaznawides (در ذكر غزنويان).

Ṭabaḳah I, on fol. 16a: Sulṭâns of Dihlî (طبقهٔ سلاطين دهلى) from Mu'izz-aldîn Ghûrî to A. H. 1002.

Ṭabaḳah II, on fol. 365b: Kings of the Dakhan (طبقهٔ دكنيّه) to A. H. 1002.

Ṭabaḳah III, on fol. 398a: Kings of Gujarât (طبقهٔ سلاطين گجرات) to A. H. 980 (A. D. 1572).

Ṭabaḳah IV, on fol. 466b: Kings of Mâlwah (طبقهٔ مالوه) to A. H. 977 (A. D. 1569).

Ṭabaḳah V, on fol. 523b: Kings of Bangâlah (طبقهٔ بنگاله) to A. H. 984 (A. D. 1576).

Ṭabaḳah VI, on fol. 527b: Sharḳî kings of Jaunpûr, etc. (طبقهٔ سلاطين شرقيّه كه در جونپور و آنحدود فرمان روائى كرده اند), to A. H. 881 (A. D. 1476).

Ṭabaḳah VII, on fol. 533a: Rulers of Kashmîr (طبقهٔ حكّام كشمير) to A. H. 995 (A. D. 1587).

Ṭabaḳah VIII, on fol. 565b: Rulers of Sind (طبقهٔ حكّام سند) to A. H. 1001 (A. D. 1592).

Ṭabaḳah IX, on fol. 571a: Rulers of Multân (طبقهٔ حكّام ملتان) to A. H. 932 (A. D. 1526).

Khâtimah, on fol. 579b: Short geographical sketch of the Indian empire (در بيان حدود و ممالك هندوستان).

Dated the 11th of Rabî'-alawwal, A. H. 1031 (A. D. 1622, January 24), by حولى بيك كابلى. Many of the first and last leaves are worm-eaten; slight injuries here and there. A detailed index on the fly-leaves. The right order of ff. 38–41 is: 38, 40, 39, 41.

No. 3320, olim 15. J. 6, ff. 579, ll. 21; large, but unequal Nasta'lîḳ; size, 10½ in. by 6 in.

Another complete copy of the Ṭabaḳât-i-Akbarî.

Beginning as usual. The arrangement of the Ṭabaḳât the same as in the preceding copy.

Muḳaddimah, on fol. 3a.

Ṭabaḳah I, on fol. 15b, first line; II, on fol. 320a, first line; III, on fol. 352b; IV, on fol. 422b; V, on fol. 476a; VI, on fol. 480b; VII, on fol. 485b; VIII, on fol. 516a; IX, on fol. 521a.

Khâtimah (not marked), on fol. 530a.

Copied in Dhû-alḥijjah, A. H. 1069 (A. D. 1659, August–September). The right order of ff. 215–225 is: 215, 224, 216–223, 225.

No. 2943, ff. 530, ll. 19; clear Nasta'lîḳ; illuminated frontispiece; size, 10¼ in. by 6½ in.

The same.

The arrangement of the Ṭabaḳât in this copy, which is complete in two volumes, differs in so far from that of the two preceding copies, that the history of the kings of Mâlwah forms here the sixth ṭabaḳah instead of the fourth, and consequently the kings of Bangâlah and Jaunpûr represent the fourth and fifth ṭabaḳât respectively. The usual ninth ṭabaḳah is styled here خاتمه, and the real خاتمه is not marked.

Muḳaddimah, on fol. 3a, in No. 997.

Ṭabaḳah I, on fol. 14a, in No. 997; II, on fol. 1b, in No. 998; III, on fol. 27b, in No. 998; IV (kings of Bangâlah), on fol. 81a, in No. 998; V (Sharḳî kings of Jaunpûr), on fol. 83b, last line, in No. 998; VI (kings of Mâlwah), on fol. 87b, in No. 998; VII, on fol. 126b, last line, in No. 998; VIII, on fol. 150b, last line, in No. 998.

Khâtimah (rulers of Multân), on fol. 154b, in No. 998.

Copied in Muḥammadshâh's reign (A. H. 1131–1161). Occasional English notes, both in ink and pencil, on the margin, probably by Lieut.-Col. W. Kirkpatrick, who presented this copy to the Library, 1804.

No. 997, ff. 280; No. 998, ff. 162, ll. 19; good and clear Nasta'lîḳ; size, 10¼ in. by 6½ in.

The same.

Another copy with the same arrangement of the Ṭabaḳât as in the preceding one, viz.

Muḳaddimah, on fol. 2a.

Ṭabaḳah I, on fol. 8a; II, on fol. 151a; III, on fol. 164a; IV (Bangâlah), on fol. 192a; V (Jaunpûr), on fol. 194a; VI (Mâlwah), on fol. 196a; VII, on fol. 218b; VIII, on fol. 230b; IX, on fol. 233a.

Collated. Many marginal additions by a later hand. No date.

No. 731, ff. 236, ll. 25; careless Nasta'lîḳ; some leaves injured; size, 15½ in. by 9½ in.

229

The same.

This copy of the Ṭabaḳât-i-Akbarî is incomplete at the end, the ninth ṭabaḳah and the khâtimah being wanting, in spite of the usual words at the end: تمت تمام شد.

Muḳaddimah, on fol. 2b.

Ṭabaḳah I, on fol. 12b; II, on fol. 260a; III, on fol. 283b, last line; IV, on fol. 335a; V, on fol. 338a; VI, on fol. 342a; VII, on fol. 383a; VIII, on fol. 406a.

No date; but a note in a different handwriting, on the last page, states that this copy was collated at Lâhûr in Sha'bân, A. H. 1079 (A. D. 1669, January). It belonged formerly to Mr. Richard Johnson.

Ff. 83 and 88 are turned upside down, but fol. 88 must be put in the place of fol. 83, and vice versa.

No. 967, ff. 409, ll. 25; Nasta'lîḳ; illuminated frontispiece; size, 14 in. by 6½ in.

A part of the same work.

This copy contains only the muḳaddimah, on fol. 3b, and the first ṭabaḳah (the history of the kings of Dihlî down to A. H. 1002), on fol. 19a.

Dated the 9th of Jumâdâ-alawwal, A. H. 1066 (A. D. 1656, March 5), by 'Abdallâh ibn 'Azîz Muḥammad. Fol. 37b is left blank; fol. 253 is turned upside down.

No. 3289, olim 15. J. 5, ff. 415, ll. 21; unequally written in careless Nasta'lîḳ and Shikasta; size, 12¼ in. by 6½ in.

An incomplete copy of the same part.

Muḳaddimah, on fol. 3a, last line; first ṭabaḳah, on fol. 20b. It goes down only to the sixteenth year of Akbar's reign; all the rest is wanting.

Dated the 15th of Muḥarram in the thirty-fifth year of 'Âlamgîr's reign = A. H. 1103 (A. D. 1691, October 8).

No. 3419, olim 16. J. 16, ff. 282, ll. 16; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 11 in. by 6½ in.

A still smaller portion of the same.

This copy bears, on fol. 1a, the titles of تواريخ نامهٔ ذكر احوال شيرخان كه بشيرشاه مشهور شيرشاه and of تأريخ شيرشاهى, whilst on the fly-leaf it is styled simply: است; but—as a note in pencil on the same fly-leaf informs us—it is only a fragment of the Ṭabaḳât-i-Akbarî, containing that portion of the first ṭabaḳah which relates the history of Shîrkhân Sûr, commonly called Shîrshâh, who assumed the title of king about A. H. 946, and died A. H. 952 (A. D. 1539–1545); see above, Nos. 219 and 220. The history of Dihlî is brought down moreover in this fragment to A. H. 963 = A. D. 1556, the year of Humâyûn's death and Akbar's accession (see fol. 104b).

Beginning: ذكر احوال شيرخان كه در السنه وافواه بشيرشاه مذكور است الخ.

Dated the 21st of Rabî'-alâkbar, A. H. 1046 (A. D. 1636, September 22). Entries of readers from A. H. 1051 and 1074 (A. D. 1641, 1642 and 1663, 1664).

No. 1585, ff. 105, ll. 19; Nasta'lîḳ; worm-eaten throughout; size, 9 in. by 5¼ in.

Muntakhab-altawârîkh (منتخب التواريخ).

A complete copy of 'Abd-alḳâdir bin Mulûkshâh Badâ'ûnî's general history of India, from the time of the Ghaznawides down to the fortieth year of Akbar's reign, completed A. H. 1004, the 23rd of Jumâdâ-althânî (A. D. 1596, February 23); see Bodleian Cat., Nos. 192–194; Rieu i. pp. 222 and 223; Nassau Lees, Materials, p. 455; Elliot, History of India, v. p. 477 sq., etc. Edited in the Bibl. Indica by Maulawî Aḥmad 'Alî, 3 vols., Calcutta, 1868–1869.

The first part, from Nâṣir-aldîn Sabuktagîn to Humâyûn's death, begins on fol. 9b: ای یافته نامها زنام تو رواج ـ شاهان بدرت چو ما بدیشان محتاج الخ.

The second part (comprising the first forty years of Akbar's reign, and a tadhkirah of all the contemporary Amîrs, Mullâs, Ḳâḍîs, Shaikhs, and poets) begins here on fol. 208b. The biographies of Shaikhs, Ḳâḍîs, etc., on fol. 388a sq.; those of the poets, in alphabetical order, on fol. 454b sq. Comp. A. Sprenger, Cat. Oudh, pp. 55–65. An alphabetical index of all the biographies contained in this work, is added on ff. 1b–7a. Fol. 8 is blank.

No date. The copy was presented by Lieut.-Col. W. Kirkpatrick, May 30, 1804.

No. 1139, ff. 540, ll. 17; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 10½ in. by 6½ in.

The first part of the Muntakhab-altawârîkh.

This copy contains only the first part of Badâ'ûnî's work, from Sabuktagîn to Akbar's accession. Beginning as in the preceding copy, on fol. 19b. The first sixteen leaves are filled with a detailed index, dated the 14th of Ṣafar, A. H. 1159 (A. D. 1746, March 8); the copy itself was finished the 11th of Muḥarram in the same year (A. D. 1746, February 3), by Miyân Maḥbûb-i-'âlam at Shâhjahânâbâd. Collated.

No. 3140, ff. 160, ll. 21; clear Nasta'lîḳ; splendid binding in green and gold; size, 11½ in. by 6½ in.

Akbarnâma (اکبر نامه).

The famous history of the emperor Akbar, by Abû-alfaḍl bin Mubârak, who was assassinated A. H. 1011 (A. D. 1602). It was completed in Sha'bân, A. H. 1004 (A. D. 1596, April), and continued till A. H. 1010 (A. D. 1601, 1602); comp. Bodleian Cat., Nos. 200–212; Rieu i. p. 247 sq.; W. Morley, p. 108 sq.; J. Aumer, pp. 89–91; Sacy, Notices et Extraits, x. p. 199 sq.; Cat. Codd. Or. Lugd. Batav. iii. p. 9; A. F. Mehren, p. 20, etc. Large extracts are given in Elliot, History of India, vi. pp. 1–102. The text was lithographed at Lucknow, A. H. 1284.

Contents:

A preface, containing a short index of the first book of the Akbarnâma, down to the end of the seventeenth year of the emperor's reign, on fol. 1b. Beginning: ذکر بعضی بشارات غیبی و اشارات قدسی که پیش از سعادت ولادت الخ.

First part of the first book, on fol. 5b, containing the preface and the history of Akbar's ancestors to the death of Humâyûn, A. H. 963 (A. D. 1556). Beginning: الله اکبر این چه دریائی است ژرف و شناختی الخ.

Second part of the first book, on fol. 201a, the history of Akbar's reign from his accession to the end of the seventeenth year of his reign. Beginning: سلسلهٔ انتظام کارگاه آفرینش که مظاهر حقیقت الخ.

Khâtimah of the first book, on fol. 392a, beginning: المنّة لله الخ.

Second book, on fol. 401b, the history of Akbar's reign from the eighteenth to the end of the forty-sixth and the beginning of the forty-seventh year of his reign. Beginning: سخن تازه سازم بنام خدای الخ.

Muḥammad Ṣâliḥ's continuation of the history to the fiftieth year of Akbar's reign is wanting here, and in all the following copies except two (Nos. 260 and 261 further below). A very curious feature of this MS. is, that between the end of the thirtieth and the beginning of the thirty-first year (fol. 632b, first line, to fol. 640b, l. 13) the whole khâtimah of the first book, together with the beginning of the second book, is repeated, so that these leaves are identical with fol. 392a, last line but one, to fol. 402b, l. 12.

The first book is dated the 27th of Rabî'-alawwal, A. H. 1065 (A. D. 1655, February 4), by Shâh Muḥammad bin Fatḥ Muḥammad of Lâhûr; the second the 24th of Jumâdâ-alâkhar, A. H. 1106 (A. D. 1695, February 9), by Muḥammad Ḳuraish Ḳuraishî.

Various readings on the margin.

No. 4, ff. 765, ll. 21–23; Nasta'lîḳ, written by two different hands; illuminated frontispieces on ff. 1b, 5b, and 401b; size, 13¾ in. by 6½ in.

236

Another copy of the same.

Contents:

First part of the first book, on fol. 1b, beginning: سبحان الله این چه دریائی است الخ.

Second part of the first book, on fol. 118b, beginning as in the preceding copy.

Khâtimah, on fol. 212b.

Some of the last leaves of this part, from fol. 211 to fol. 220, are misplaced, their right order is: 211, 219, 218, 214–217, 213, 212, 220.

Second book, on fol. 226b, beginning as in the preceding copy, and going down to the beginning of the forty-seventh year of Akbar's reign. It is concluded by a khâtimah, which begins (on fol. 497a): ای بشامیزد فکرت تیز رو الخ.

Various readings and annotations on the margin, especially of the first part of the first book.

No. 564, ff. 500, ll. 25; Nasta'lîḳ; illuminated frontispieces on ff. 1b, 118b, and 226b; size, 13½ in. by 8½ in.

237

A slightly defective copy of the same, in two volumes.

Contents:

First volume (No. 1):

First part of the first book, on fol. 1b, beginning: الله اکبر این چه دریائیست الخ.

Second part of the first book, on fol. 235b. This part is rather incomplete at the end. It breaks off on fol. 531a in the khâtimah (which begins on fol. 527a) with the words: مرا زندگي, corresponding to fol. 222b, l. 7, in the preceding copy.

Second volume (No. 2):

Second book, on fol. 1b, concluding like the preceding copies with the beginning of the forty-seventh year of Akbar's reign (khâtimah, on fol. 555a). Some small blanks on the last leaves.

The handwriting in both volumes seems to be the same (except ff. 527–531 in No. 1, which are later supplied); but the first part of the first book is dated A. H. 1111 (A. D. 1699, 1700), and the second book A. H. 1132 (A. D. 1719, 1720)!

Nos. 1, 2, first vol., ff. 531; second vol., ff. 561, ll. 19; large and clear Nasta'lîḳ; size, 14½ in. by 7½ in.

A very incomplete copy of the same.

This copy contains:

The first part of the first book, on fol. 1b, beginning: الله اكبر اين الخ.

The second part of the first book, on fol. 250b. It concludes, on fol. 520a, last line, with the end of the seventeenth year of Akbar's reign, but the horoscope and the khâtimah of the first book, as well as the introduction of the second book, are entirely missing in this copy.

The second book (without any heading) begins, on fol. 520b, l. 3, immediately with the words: و ازسوانحى كه دريں هنگام الخ, corresponding to No. 564 (236 in this Cat.), fol. 227b, l. 5, and goes down to the nineteenth year of Akbar's reign. It breaks off, on fol. 589b, last line, with these words: بآن باديه ادبار گشت, corresponding to No. 564, fol. 263b, l. 6. All the rest is wanting.

Small blanks on ff. 17b, 20a, 23a, 277a, 277b, and 284b (entirely blank). Occasionally various readings on the margin. Presented by J. Wombmell, Esq., April 10, 1804.

No. 849, ff. 589, ll. 19; careless Nasta'lîḳ; ff. 250b–330b written by another hand in Shikasta; illuminated frontispieces on ff. 1b and 250b; size, 12 in. by 7½ in.

Another copy of the first book of the same.

First part, on fol. 1b, beginning: الله اكبر الخ.

Second part, on fol. 206b, beginning: سلسلهٔ انتظام الخ.

The first part is dated the 3rd of Rajab, A. H. 1073 (A. D. 1663, February 11), by ادنمل بن پراكداس بن سامیداس عرف سونی كهتری, at Lâhûr; the second, the 13th of Rabî'-alawwal, A. H. 1074 (A. D. 1663, October 15), by the same.

The khâtimah begins here, on fol. 418b, last line: المنّة لله الخ.

College of Fort William, 1825.

No. 2238, ff. 427, ll. 19; Nasta'lîḳ; the old and original part of this MS. is greatly damaged, but most of the injured places have been carefully mended by a later hand; quite new are ff. 64–85, 142–146, and one half in each page of ff. 172–195, supplied in Shikasta by the same who filled in the missing portions in the rest of the MS.; several blanks on ff. 390b, 394a, and 404a; size, 10¾ in. by 6¾ in.

240

The same first book.

First part, on fol. 1b, beginning: الله اكبر اين چه دريافتنيست الخ.

Second part, on fol. 170b, beginning: سلسلهٔ انتظام الخ.

It is complete: the khâtimah begins, on fol. 371b, l. 4: المنّة لله الخ.

Many tables in the last part of this copy are missing; the place for them is left blank; see ff. 344a, 347b, and 357a.

Dated the 29th of Muḥarram, A. H. 1101 (A. D. 1689, November 12).

No. 3287, olim 15. J. 2, ff. 380, ll. 23; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 11¾ in. by 6¾ in.

The same.

First part, on fol. 1b, beginning: الله اكبر الخ. Dated the 21st of Muḥarram, A. H. 1111 (forty-third year of 'Âlamgîr's reign)=A. D. 1699, July 19.

Second part, on fol. 159b, beginning: سلسلهٔ انتظام الخ.

Khâtimah (here styled انجام اين اقبال نامه), on fol. 342a. Dated the 24th of Muḥarram in the same year (only three days after the completion of the first).

No. 2667, ff. 350, ll. 20–27; very unequally written, partly in Nasta'lîḳ, partly in Shikasta, partly even in Naskhî, see ff. 199 and 200; size, 11¾ in. by 7 in.

The same.

Index, on ff. 1b–5a (فهرست جلد اوّل اكبر نامه).

First part, on fol. 6b.

Second part, on fol. 144b.

Khâtimah, on fol. 307a.

No date. A considerable number of the first and last leaves of the text severely damaged by worms.

No. 2404, ff. 314, ll. 25; Nasta'lîḳ by various hands, all equally clear and distinct; collated throughout; size, 14 in. by 8¾ in.

The same.

First part, on fol. 1b.

Second part (not separated from the first), on fol. 187b, beginning in the sixth line.

The khâtimah begins on fol. 367b, l. 3.

The last three lines of this book are missing; it breaks off with: که خدمت او پسند شاهنشاه اوفتد و, agreeing with No. 564 (236 in this Cat.), fol. 225b, last line but three. Various readings and short additions on the margin. Many leaves injured at the bottom.

No. 134, ff. 375, ll. 17; clear Nasta'lîḳ; size, 13¾ in. by 10½ in.

A slightly defective copy of the same.

First part, on fol. 1b; second, on fol. 136b. At the end a leaf or two missing; the seventeenth year of Akbar's reign begins here on fol. 271b. The first part is dated the 12th of Ṣafar, A. H. 1098 (A. D. 1686, December 28).

No. 3295, olim 17. J. 6, ff. 273, ll. 23; Nasta'lîḳ; illuminated frontispiece at the beginning of each part; size, 13 in. by 8¾ in.

Another copy of the first part of the first book.

Beginning as usual. Dated the 5th of Dhû-alḳa'dah, A. H. 1094 (A. D. 1683, October 26). All the horoscopes are left blank.

No. 3297, olim 17. J. 8, ff. 236, ll. 23–25; Nasta'lîḳ; illuminated frontispiece; size, 13½ in. by 7⅞ in.

The same first part of the first book.

Beginning as usual. The horoscopes on ff. 25b, 29b, 33b, and 41a are omitted.

No date. Modern copy, presented by J. Wombmell, Esq., April 10, 1804.

No. 232, ff. 446, ll. 15; written by two different hands in Nasta'lîḳ, the first on ff. 1–104, the second on ff. 105–446; size, 8½ in. by 5¼ in.

The same.

No date. Presented by Lieut.-Col. W. Kirkpatrick, May 30, 1804. Annotations and various readings, both interlinear and marginal, besides many English notes, written probably by Kirkpatrick himself.

No. 3330, olim 14. J. 2, ff. 289, ll. 17; Nasta'lîḳ, written by at least three different hands; size, 10½ in. by 6 in.

The same.

Dated by Sayyid Bahâdur 'Alî the 22nd of Rajab, A. H. 1223 (A. D. 1808, September 13). Collated.

No. 2853, ff. 1–174, ll. 21; clear Nasta'lîḳ; large illuminated frontispiece; size, 12¾ in. by 8¼ in.

The same.

Good copy, but without any headings throughout. No date. The right order of ff. 256–259 is: 256, 258, 257, 259. Partly collated.

No. 3308, olim 14. J. 3, ff. 260, ll. 19; clear and distinct Nasta'lîḳ; size, 10¾ in. by 6½ in.

A defective copy of the same first part.

The original handwriting breaks off, on fol. 174b, with the words: ....از دیگر جمعی و جلایر محمّد خان, corresponding to No. 3330 (247 in this Cat.), fol. 228b, l. 6. On the following and last page, fol. 175a, there are added by another hand a few lines about Humâyûn's death. All the horoscopes in the beginning are left blank.

No. 3329, olim 14. J. 1, ff. 175, ll. 19; Shikasta; the last page added in Nasta'lîḳ; size, 10½ in. by 5¾ in.

Another copy of the first part, and a small portion of the second part.

The second part begins here on fol. 425a. Some pages are injured and worm-eaten. Several lacunas, for instance, after ff. 16, 102, and 438. No date.

No. 3335, olim 17. J. 10, ff. 447, ll. 16; very unequally written, for the greater part in Shikasta; size, 10¾ in. by 6 in.

Another copy of the second part of the first book.

Beginning: سلسلهٔ انتظام الخ.

This copy was finished the 29th of Muḥarram, A. H. 1098, that is, the thirtieth year of 'Âlamgîr's reign (=A. D. 1686, December 15).

The khâtimah begins on fol. 281b, l. 9.

No. 168, ff. 294, ll. 19; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 10½ in. by 5½ in.

253

The same second part.

No date. The khâtimah begins on fol. 125a, l. 12. Presented by Lieut.-Col. W. Kirkpatrick, May 30, 1804.

No. 8, ff. 1–129, ll. 31–32; Nasta'lîḳ; slightly injured at many places; size, 13¾ in. by 7½ in.

The same.

Beginning: جلوس مقدّس حضرت شاهنشاهی بر اورنگ فرماندهی و جهانبانی سلسلهٔ انتظام الخ.

It ends with the beginning of the seventeenth year. The horoscope and the khâtimah are entirely wanting. No date.

No. 169, ff. 168, ll. 19; Nasta'lîḳ; some slight injuries; size, 10¾ in. by 6¾ in.

Another copy of the second part of the first book, and the whole second book.

The second book is not separated from the first, and the usual beginning of the latter, سخن تازه سازم الخ, is quite missing in this copy; the seventeenth year of Akbar's reign begins here on fol. 167a, the eighteenth on fol. 170ᵃ, and it seems as if by mistake of the transcriber a good portion of text between both is omitted. It goes down to the beginning of the forty-seventh year, and is concluded by the same khâtimah, as, for instance, in No. 564 (236 in this Cat.), beginning, on fol. 494ᵇ, l. 18: بنامیزد ای فکرت الخ.

The date is incomplete (the 11th of the second Jumâdâ, in the thirty-third year of, probably, 'Âlamgîr's reign = A. H. 1101, A. D. 1690, March 22).

No. 3298, olim 17. J. 9, ff. 498, ll. 25; large and distinct Nasta'lîḳ; ff. 58, 59, and 64 supplied by other hands; large illuminated frontispiece; size, 13⅝ in. by 8¾ in.

Another copy of the second book of the same.

The second book of the Akbarnâma, without Muḥammad Ṣâliḥ's continuation. The forty-seventh year of the emperor's reign is noted on fol. 339ᵇ, lin. penult. The khâtimah begins, on fol. 340ᵃ, l. 3: بنامیزد ای فکرت الخ.

Beginning of this second book, on fol. 1ᵇ: سخن تازه سازم بنام خدای الخ.

Dated the 24th of Ramaḍân, A. H. 1048 (A. D. 1639, January 29). The proper order of the leaves is: ff. 1–144, 153–160, 145–152, 161–343.

No. 2403, ff. 343, ll. 21; distinct Nasta'lîḳ; collated throughout; illuminated frontispiece; worm-eaten in some places; size, 13½ in. by 9⅝ in.

The same second book.

It begins, on fol. 8ᵇ: سخن تازه سازم الخ. Ff. 1ᵃ–3ᵇ are filled with letters of Mullâ Ṭughrâ and others; ff. 4ᵇ–7ᵃ contain a فهرست or complete index of this second book. It concludes with the forty-seventh year of Akbar's reign on fol. 443ᵇ, and the last five pages, on ff. 444ᵃ–446ᵃ, contain a prose-essay, intermixed with verse, entitled: تعریف آئینه, and beginning: دل صاحبدلان آئینهٔ معنی‌نما باشد الخ.

This copy is dated the 29th of Dhû-alḥijjah, A. H. 1159 (the twenty-ninth year of Muḥammadshâh's reign) = A. D. 1747, January 12, by اودوت رای, who is at the same time the author of the تعریف آئینه.

No. 3288, olim 15. J. 3, ff. 446, ll. 19; careless Nasta'lîḳ; size, 12½ in. by 6½ in.

The same.

All the horoscopes are left blank; see, for instance, ff. 267ᵃ, 290, and 309ᵃ. The copy ends with the beginning of the forty-seventh year of the emperor's reign. No date.

No. 3257, olim 17. J. 5, ff. 405, ll. 21; large and clear Nasta'lîḳ; a few pages a little effaced; size, 14⅝ in. by 9½ in.

The same.

This copy contains the same long introduction about the conquest of Sûrat as Aumer's No. 251 (p. 90); the eighteenth year of Akbar's reign begins here on fol. 19ᵃ. The copy concludes, like the preceding ones, with the beginning of the forty-seventh year. The horoscopes are likewise left blank.

Copied by Abû-alkhair ibn Muḥammad Sâḳi at Lâhûr; date incomplete.

No. 3236, olim 17. J. 7, ff. 419, ll. 19; very careless Nasta'lîḳ; size, 13½ in. by 8½ in.

260

The same.

The second book, with the complete continuation of Muḥammad Ṣâliḥ, beginning, on fol. 502ᵇ: حکم اشرف اعلی حضرت الخ.

Beginning of the khâtimah, on fol. 532ᵇ, l. 9 (headed: خاتمهٔ دفتر دوم تصنیف شیخ ابو الفضل).

Collated. Dated by Sayyid Bahâdur 'Alî the 2nd of Rabî'-althânî, A. H. 1225 (A. D. 1810, May 7).

No. 2853, ff. 175–336, ll. 21; clear Nasta'lîḳ; illuminated frontispieces on ff. 175ᵇ and 502ᵇ; size, 12½ in. by 8½ in.

The same.

The same second book, with Muḥammad Ṣâliḥ's continuation, incomplete at the end. The continuation begins, on fol. 259ᵃ, as in the preceding copy: حکم اشرف اعلی حضرت الخ; the forty-ninth year of Akbar's reign on fol. 266ᵃ (heading omitted), the fiftieth on fol. 269ᵃ (here headed by mistake آغاز سال چهل و نهم); but on fol. 270ᵃ, l. 3, the continuation breaks off (corresponding to the preceding copy, fol. 530ᵃ, l. 5 ab infra), and is immediately followed by the khâtimah, beginning as usual: بنام ایزدی الخ (corresponding to the preceding copy, fol. 532ᵇ, l. 9), so that fol. 530ᵃ, l. 4 ab infra, to fol. 532ᵇ, l. 8, of No. 2853 are missing here.

No date. The colophon gives the 12th of Ṣafar, but no year. Ff. 114–132 are misplaced, their proper order is: 114, 131, 115, 116, 130, 117–129, 132.

No. 2867, ff. 274, ll. 23; large Nasta'lîḳ; size, 12½ in. by 8 in.

A large fragment of the second book.

This copy breaks off in the middle of the thirty-first year of Akbar's reign, with these words: و گران ارزی آزوق باز گردیدن, corresponding to No. 564 (236 in this Cat.), fol. 400ᵃ, l. 10.

No. 1324, ff. 279, ll. 15–22; very unequally written by different hands, partly in Nasta'lîḳ, partly in Shikasta; the first leaf is supplied later; size, 9½ in. by 5 in.

A smaller fragment of the same.

This copy goes down to the twenty-third year of Akbar's reign only. The last words on fol. 271b, last line, correspond to No. 564, fol. 322a, l. 2.

No. 8, ff. 130b–272, ll. 21; Nasta'lîḳ, written by two different hands, the first on ff. 130–177, the second on ff. 178–272; size, 13¾ in. by 7½ in.

Â'în-i-Akbarî (آئین اکبری).

The third book or supplement of the Akbarnâma, containing the detailed statistical description of the Indian empire and the Institutes of Akbar, by the same Abû-alfaḍl bin Mubârak; comp. Bodleian Cat., Nos. 213–216; Rieu i. p. 251 sq.; W. Morley, p. 112; J. Aumer, p. 91, etc. etc.

Beginning, on fol. 13b: ای همه در پرده نهان راز تو الخ.

Ff. 1b–12b contain a full index of the contents of this work. It has been edited by H. Blochmann in the Bibliotheca Indica, Calcutta, 1877; English translation by the same in the same collection, vol. i, Calcutta, 1873. An abridged and insufficient paraphrase of this work was published by Gladwin in three volumes, Calcutta, 1783–1786; reprinted in two volumes, London, 1800.

Ff. 51b, 52a, 241b, 332a, and 332b are left blank.

Copied by Muḥammad Ḥusain Kâshî, and finished the 17th of Dhû-alḳa'dah (the year is missing).

No. 6, ff. 365, ll. 21; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 13¾ in. by 9 in.

Another copy of the same.

This copy is the only one among those of the Â'în-i-Akbarî in this collection which is dated, viz. 14th of Ṣafar, A. H. 1119 (A. D. 1707, May 17); but there is only a very short fragment of the index found here on fol. 1b. The text of the work itself begins already on fol. 2a in the usual manner.

No. 316*, ff. 379, ll. 23; clear Nasta'lîḳ; ff. 2, 3, and 101–107 supplied by another hand in Shikasta; ll. 24–27; fol. 104a left blank; size, 13¼ in. by 8¾ in.

The same.

No date. Well-written copy. Bought A. H. 1196 (A. D. 1782); belonged formerly to Mr. Rich. Johnson.

No. 1114, ff. 463, ll. 19; large Nasta'lîḳ; illuminated frontispiece; size, 11¾ in. by 6½ in.

267

The same.

No date.

No. 3142, ff. 482, ll. 19; careless and unequal Nasta'lîḳ; illuminated frontispiece; splendid binding; size, 11 in. by 6¾ in.

268

The same.

Some tables are left blank, for instance, on ff. 20b, 21a, 116a, 116b, 231a, 232a, and 243a. No date. College of Fort William, 1825.

No. 2120, ff. 342, ll. 25; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 12¾ in. by 6¾ in.

269

The same.

No date. Worm-eaten. The tables on ff. 97b, 98a, 124b, 155b, 170b, 171a, 198a, and 294b are not filled in.

No. 2407, ff. 394, ll. 23; Nasta'lîḳ, by two different hands; ff. 388–391 are later added on different (white) paper; illuminated frontispiece; size, 13¾ in. by 8¾ in.

Muntakhab-i-Â'în-i-Akbarî (منتخب آئین اکبری).

An abridgment of the Â'în-i-Akbarî, in which especially all the larger statistical tables are omitted. Beginning the same as in the preceding copies. A short index at the end, on ff. 451b–454b. A portrait as title-page. No date.

No. 1609, ff. 454, ll. 11; Shikasta; illuminated frontispiece, and small illuminations throughout the whole copy; occasionally marginal glosses and interpretations; size, 8¼ in. by 4½ in.

Mukâtabât-i-'allâmî (مکاتبات علّامی).

The official letters and refined prose-writings of the same Abû-alfaḍl, which were collected between A. H. 1011 and 1015 (A. D. 1602–1606, 1607), by 'Abd-alṣamad bin Afḍal Muḥammad; comp. Bodleian Cat., Nos. 1378–1383; Rieu i. p. 396; W. Morley, p. 109; A. F. Mehren, p. 26; J. Aumer, pp. 18 and 124, etc.

This collection is sometimes called مکاتبات ابو الفضل or انشاء ابو الفضل, and has been printed under the latter title in Calcutta, 1810, in Lucknow, A. H. 1262 and 1280. It was originally divided into three books (دفتر), which are, however, marked in very few copies only.

First daftar (letters, written in Akbar's name), on fol. 1a, beginning: گوناگون نیایش مر داورا را کہ وجود بشر را از کارخانهٔ عنایت کسوت حیات الخ.

Second daftar (letters, written by Abû-alfaḍl himself to Akbar and to Amîrs), beginning here on ff. 96b, last line, and 97a, first line, a little before the usual beginning in most other copies, thus: آغاز دفتر دوم از نسخهٔ علّامی، بموقف عرض حضرت مخدومی قبلہ گاهی الخ. The usual beginning of the second book, viz. بحضرت شاهنشاهی عرضہ داشت الخ, is found here on fol. 99a, last line.

Third daftar (miscellaneous letters and prose-pieces) is not marked here, but a comparison with other copies shows that it must begin on fol. 233b. Beginning: خطبهٔ تفسیر بعضی از آیات سورهٔ فتح بسم الله الخ.

At the end of the first book is given as date the 4th of Ṣafar, A. H. 1211 (A. D. 1796, August 9).

No. 2985, ff. 334, ll. 12; very careless Nasta'lîḳ, often like Shikasta; size, 9¾ in. by 6 in.

Another complete copy of the same.

Beginning as in the preceding copy. The second daftar (without a special heading) opens on fol. 70b; the third (also without a heading), on fol. 191b.

Collated in some parts. No date. A little injured here and there.

No. 1456, ff. 329, ll. 15; large, but rather rude Nasta'lîḳ; size, 9½ in. by 5¼ in.

273

The same.

Beginning of the first daftar as usual. The second and third daftars are not marked in this copy.

No date.

No. 2444, ff. 199, ll. 12–16; written by different hands, partly in Shikasta, partly in Nasta'lîḳ; size, 9¾ in. by 5¼ in.

274

A slightly defective copy of the same.

Beginning of the first daftar as usual. Second daftar on fol. 40a, l. 9; third daftar on fol. 126b, l. 3. The last page is missing; the copy breaks off with the words: .... دو سه حرفی رقم کنم, corresponding to the following copy, fol. 189a, l. 1.

No. 3334, olim 8. J. 4, ff. 228, ll. 17; unequal Nasta'lîḳ, written by three different hands, the first on ff. 1–39, the second on ff. 40–95, the third on ff. 96–228; size, 10⅝ in. by 6 in.

275

A somewhat more defective copy of the same.

Beginning as usual; second daftar, on fol. 50a, l. 10: بحضرت شاهنشاهی الخ; third daftar, on fol. 116b, l. 13: خطبهٔ تفسیر بعضی الخ.

No date. After fol. 40 a lacuna, corresponding to the following copy, fol. 53b, l. 1, to fol. 54b, l. 15. Another lacuna in the midst of the text, on fol. 43a, last line but one, corresponding to the following copy, fol. 58b, l. 13, to fol. 61a, l. 1. Collated throughout. Many interlinear English translations, written in pencil.

No. 8. J. 6, ff. 189, ll. 17; small, careless Nasta'lîḳ; some pages in a much larger handwriting; size, 10 in. by 4¾ in.

Another copy of the first two daftars of the same.

The second begins here on fol. 71b. Dated the 17th of Rabî'-alawwal, A. H. 1186 (A. D. 1772, June 18).

No. 8. J. 3, ff. 198, ll. 17; large and clear Nasta'lîḳ; size, 10 in. by 6¼ in.

277

The same.

Another copy of the first and second daftars, dated the 27th of Jumâdâ-althânî, A. H. 1204 (=March 15, A. D. 1790), at Dânâpûr, by Bâbar 'Alî. Collated throughout.

The second daftar begins here on fol. 68a.

No. 435, ff. 187, ll. 15; large and distinct Nasta'lîḳ; size, 9¾ in. by 6 in.

278

The same.

The same first and second daftars, not dated.

Many interlinear glosses. The second begins on fol. 57b.

No. 807, ff. 165, ll. 15; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 8¾ in. by 5½ in.

The same.

A defective copy of the first two daftars, the second of which begins on fol. 49a. It breaks off, on fol. 110b, with the words: ... نمی باشد زیادت, corresponding to No. 8. J. 6 (275 in this Cat.), fol. 107b, l. 4. Many interlinear and marginal glosses on the first sixty-three leaves.

No. 8. J. 5, ff. 110, ll. 17–19; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 9¾ in. by 6 in.

Another copy of the first daftar.

It is styled in the colophon قسم اوّل از مکتوبات علّامی ابو الفضل, and dated the first of Jumâdâ-althânî, A. H. 1161 (A. D. 1748, May 29).

No. 2327, ff. 52; written by different hands in Shikasta; partly in diagonal lines; size, 7¾ in. by 4¾ in.

The same.

Dated in the month Rabî'-alâkhar, in the third year of (probably Shâh 'Âlam's) reign=A. H. 1176 (A. D. 1762, October–November). Interlinear glosses on the first pages.

No. 3269, olim 9. J. 2, ff. 67, ll. 12–17; very unequal and careless Nasta'lîḳ; size, 11¾ in. by 7 in.

The same.

A modern transcript of the first daftar by Muḥammad Kâẓim. No date.

No. 3382, olim 43. J. 15, ff. 104, ll. 13; large Nasta'lîḳ; size, 8¾ in. by 6¾ in.

The same.

Another complete, but very bad and soiled copy of the first daftar, dated the 21st of Rabî'-alawwal, A. H. 1204 (۱۲۰۴)=Samvat, 1846 (A. D. 1789, December 9). Interlinear glosses throughout. Between the fly-leaves and the first page of the text there are inserted seven smaller leaves, containing a فرهنگ انشاء ابو الفضل or glossary to Abû-alfaḍl's letters.

No. 8. J. 8, ff. 73, ll. 13–23; Shikasta; ff. 1, 2, 9–14, and 73 supplied by other hands; size, 8¾ in. by 4¾ in.

A defective copy of the same.

This incomplete copy of the first daftar breaks off with the words: . . . . عنایات گوناگون باشد, corresponding to No. 8. J. 3 (276 in this Cat.), fol. 69ᵃ, l. 8, and 8. J. 6 (275 in this Cat.), fol. 48ᵃ, l. 12. Various readings and interlinear glosses occasionally.

No. 3361, olim 8. J. 7, ff. 60, ll. 15; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 8½ in. by 4½ in.

A still more defective copy of the same.

It breaks off, on fol. 48ᵇ, with the words: غبار آلودہ گردید اگرچہ معراج . . . . , corresponding to No. 1456 (272 in this Cat.), fol. 40ᵃ, l. 4 ab infra.

No. 1898, ff. 48, ll. 13; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 9¼ in. by 6½ in.

Another copy of the second and third daftars.

Beginning of the second daftar, on fol. 1ᵇ: عرضہ داشت الخ; beginning of the third, on fol. 108ᵃ, last line: خطبۂ تفسیر بعضی از آیات الخ. The second daftar concludes on fol. 104ᵇ, and is dated the 26th of Dhû-alḥijjah, A. H. 1097 (A. D. 1686, November 13); ff. 105ᵃ–108ᵃ, last line, contain repetitions of some parts of the second daftar, viz. ff. 105ᵃ–107ᵇ are identical with ff. 100ᵇ, l. 10 to 102ᵇ, l. 12, and fol. 108ᵃ, ll. 1–15 with fol. 104ᵃ, l. 8 to 104ᵇ, l. 3. The third daftar is dated the 1st of Muḥarram, A. H. 1089 (A. D. 1678, February 23). Interlinear glosses occasionally here and there.

No. 8. J. 9, ff. 238, ll. 15–18; ff. 1–104 and 207–238 are written in Shikasta, ff. 105–206 in Naskhî; size, 9½ in. by 5 in.

Ruḳa'ât-i-Shaikh Abû-alfaḍl (رقعات شیخ ابو الفضل).

Private letters, addressed by Abû-alfaḍl to his friends and contemporaries, and collected by Nûr Muḥammad (see fol. 1ᵇ, ll. 6 and 7); this collection, never met with before and quite distinct from the usual Mukâtabât-i-'Allâmî, is perhaps that fourth book, of which the Sawâniḥ-i-Akbarî speak; comp. Rieu i. p. 396.

Beginning: بعد از انشای و ثنای حضرت خداوند واهب العطایا کہ بخشندۂ روزیٔ انسان و حیوان الخ.

There appear scarcely any names of the persons addressed. Some letters are obviously written to Faiḍî (برادر عزیز). Copied in the reign of Muḥammad-shâh by 'Aṭâ-allâh; first owner, Sayyid Ni'mat-allâh; last owner, Sir Charles Wilkins.

No. 2357, ff. 34, ll. 12, towards the end ll. 14; Nasta'lîḳ, slightly mixed with Shikasta; size, 8½ in. by 6 in.

Gulshan-i-Balâghat (گلشن بلاغت).

Official letters and documents, collected by 'Abd-alwahhâb bin Muḥammad Ma'mûrî alḥusainî alḥasanî, with the takhalluṣ Fanâ'î, a contemporary of Abû-alfaḍl, and beginning: فرخندہ انشای کہ مترسّلان بلاغت آئین دیباچۂ هر مقصود رساند الخ.

The first letter is addressed to Ibrâhîm Khân, the governor of Lâr; several letters to Abû-alfaḍl are found on ff. 41ᵃ and 43ᵃ. The date, A. H. 996 (A. D. 1588), appears on fol. 37ᵃ; the date, A. H. 1019 (A. D. 1610, 1611), on fol. 73ᵃ.

The copy is not dated.

No. 1895, ff. 77, ll. 15; large and distinct Nasta'lîḳ; small illuminated frontispiece; size, 10 in. by 5½ in.

Tawârîkh-i-Akbarnâma (تواریخ اکبرنامہ).

A short and abridged history of the first forty-eight years of the emperor Akbar's reign, from his accession, A. H. 963=A. D. 1556 (see fol. 3ᵇ), to A. H. 1010=A. D. 1601, 1602 (see fol. 250ᵃ sq.), composed by Shaikh Ilâh-dâd Faiḍî Sirhindî (see the author's name on fol. 3ᵃ, l. 13: فقیر حقیر الهداد فیضی سرهندی, and comp. No. 222 in this Cat.). Beginning: بنام حضرت دادار اکبر — کہ کند او زفهم ماست برتر — کنم آغاز در ذکر کرامی — کہ از نامش شود این نامہ نامی' سپاس بیقیاس شاهنشاهی را کہ صیت بسیط توتی الملك من تشاء الخ; comp. Rieu i. p. 253; Elliot, History of India, vi. pp. 116–146.

Copied by Muḥammad Ḥusain, and finished the 14th of Dhû-alḳa'dah, A. H. 1104 (A. D. 1693, July 17). Presented by Lieut.-Col. W. Kirkpatrick, May 30, 1804.

No. 192, ff. 252, ll. 15; clear Nasta'lîḳ; illuminated frontispiece; size, 9¼ in. by 5 in.

Zubdat-altawârîkh (زبدۃ التواریخ).

General history of India from Mu'izz-aldîn bin Sâm to the accession of Jahângîr, A. H. 1014 (A. D. 1605), being a revised and greatly enlarged edition of the Ta'rîkh-i-Ḥaḳḳî by 'Abd-alḥaḳḳ (see fol. 2ᵇ, last line, sq.), made by the son of that author, Nûr-alḥaḳḳ almashriḳi aldihlawî albukhârî (see fol. 3ᵇ, lin. penult.), who died A. H. 1073 (A. D. 1662, 1663); see Rieu i. p. 224, and Elliot, History of India, vi. p. 182 sq. On the Ta'rîkh-i-Ḥaḳḳî, comp. Rieu i. p. 223, and Bodleian Cat., Nos. 195–198.

Beginning of this work: خطبۂ کبریا و جلال بنام پادشاهی سزد کہ عالم و هر چہ در عالم است الخ.

The title appears on fol. 4ᵃ, l. 13.

The arrangement of the subdivisions agrees with that in Rieu iii. p. 906.

Muḳaddimah, on the meaning of 'Pâdishâh' and the usefulness of historiography (در بیان معنیٔ لفظ پادشاه و فائدۂ علم تاریخ), on fol. 4ᵃ.

Kings of Dihlî, on fol. 5b, beginning with Mu'izz-aldîn bin Sâm, on fol. 6a.

Bâbar, on fol. 61b; Humâyûn, on fol. 68a; Shîrshâh (or as he is called here, Shîrkhân), on fol. 81a. On fol. 94a, l. 12, there is a considerable but carefully concealed lacuna (as an English note on the margin points out), comprising part of the history of Shîrshâh and his successors as well as of the second reign of Humâyûn.

Akbar, on fol. 95b.

Accession of Jahângîr, on fol. 203a.

Kings of Mâlwah, on fol. 203b.

Kings of Gujarât, on fol. 235a.

Kings of the Dakhan, on fol. 261a (the Nizâm-almulkîs, on fol. 271a; the 'Âdilshâhîs, on fol. 275a; the Ḳuṭb-almulkîs, on fol. 275a).

Rulers of Kashmîr, on fol. 276b; of Tattah and Sind, on fol. 290a; of Multân, on fol. 295b; of Bangâlah, on fol. 296a; of Jaunpûr, on fol. 307a.

No date. Twelfth century of the Hijrah. Former owners: Mr. Richard Johnson and Mr. C. Stewart.

No. 1805, ff. 310, ll. 17–19; unequal Nasta'lîḳ; worm-eaten; size, 10¾ in. by 6½ in.

Gulshan-i-Ibrâhîmî (گلشن ابراهيمى).

General history of India, from the oldest times to A. H. 1015 (A. D. 1606, 1607), composed by Muḥammad Ḳâsim Hindûshâh of Astarâbâd, commonly called Firishta, and dedicated by him to his patron Nasîr-aldîn Ibrâhîm 'Âdilshâh, who ruled over Bijâpûr from A. H. 988 to A. H. 1037 (A. D. 1580–1627); see Rieu i. p. 225 sq.; Bodleian Cat., No. 217; W. Morley, pp. 63–68; Elliot, Bibliogr. Index, p. 310 sq.; History of India, vi. pp. 207–236 and 532–569. The work is also styled تأريخ نورس نامهٔ فرشته, and commonly تأريخ فرشته. It has been lithographed at Bombay and Poona, 1831 and 1832; 2nd edition, Lucknow, A. H. 1281. The whole has been translated into English by J. Briggs in his 'History of the rise of the Mahomedan power in India,' 4 vols., London, 1829. Former translations of select portions of the same work were Alexander Dow's 'History of Hindostan,' London, 1768; Jonathan Scott's 'History of Dekkan,' Shrewsbury, 1794; and Anderson's 'Account of Malabar,' Asiatic Miscellany, 1786. It is divided into a muḳaddimah, twelve maḳâlas, and a khâtimah. Beginning: پيش وجود همه آيندگان پيش بقاى همه پايندگان الخ.

Muḳaddimah, on fol. 5a, first line: Tenets of the Hindûs and early Râjahs of Hindûstân down to the rise of Islâm.

Maḳâlah I, on fol. 24a: Ghaznawide Sulṭâns of Lâhûr.

Maḳâlah II, on fol. 68a: Sulṭâns of Dihlî.

Maḳâlah III, on fol. 288b: Sulṭâns of the Dakhan in six raudas, viz.

1. Bahmanî kings of Gulbargah; 2. 'Âdilshâhs of Bijâpûr; 3. Nizâmshâhs of Aḥmadnagar; 4. Ḳuṭbshâhs of Tiling; 5. 'Imâdshâhs of Barâr; 6. Barîdiyyah Shâhs of Bîdar.

Maḳâlah IV, on fol. 541b: Sulṭâns of Gujarât.

Maḳâlah V, on fol. 592b: Rulers of Mâlwah and Mandû.

Maḳâlah VI, on fol. 626a: Fârûḳî Sulṭâns of Burhânpûr.

Maḳâlah VII, on fol. 636a: Sulṭâns of Bangâlah and Sharḳî rulers of Jaunpûr.

Maḳâlah VIII, on fol. 643b: Rulers of Sind, Tattah, and Multân.

Maḳâlah IX, on fol. 649a: Sulṭâns of Multân.

Maḳâlah X, on fol. 663a: Kings of Kashmîr.

Maḳâlah XI, on fol. 693b: Kings of Malabar (heading is here forgotten).

Maḳâlah XII, on fol. 699b: Saints of India.

Khâtimah, on fol. 742b: Description of India, etc.

This copy, which is badly written in many places, is dated the 22nd of Shawwâl, A. H. 1058 (A. D. 1648, November 9).

No. 1251, ff. 743, ll. 15–26; very unequally written, partly in Nasta'lîḳ, partly in Shikasta; size, 18¼ in. by 10 in.

Another complete copy of the same.

Beginning as in the preceding copy.

The order of the twelve maḳâlas in the index (on fol. 3b) is the usual one, but in the book itself the seventh maḳâlah of the original is split into two, the Sharḳî kings of Jaunpûr forming a special maḳâlah, viz. the eighth; therefore the twelfth maḳâlah here corresponds to the eleventh of the usual copies, and the chapter on the Shaikhs of India has consequently no heading whatever.

Vol. I (comprising the muḳaddimah, the first two maḳâlas, and the first rauḍah of the third):

Muḳaddimah, on fol. 3b.

Maḳâlah I, on fol. 19b.

Maḳâlah II, on fol. 64a.

Maḳâlah III, on fol. 250a (first rauḍah).

Vol. II (comprising the rest):

Second rauḍah of the third maḳâlah, on fol. 1b.

Third rauḍah of the third maḳâlah, on fol. 108b.

Fourth rauḍah of the third maḳâlah, on fol. 172b.

Fifth rauḍah of the third maḳâlah, on fol. 180a.

Sixth rauḍah of the third maḳâlah, on fol. 181b.

Maḳâlah IV, on fol. 182b.

Maḳâlah V, on fol. 238b.

Maḳâlah VI, on fol. 278a.

Maḳâlah VII, on fol. 291b.

Maḳâlah VIII (Sharḳî Sulṭâns of Jaunpûr), on fol. 296a.

Maḳâlah IX (Rulers of Sind and Tattah), on fol. 302a.

Maḳâlah X (Sulṭâns of Multân), on fol. 312b.

Maḳâlah XI (Rulers of Kashmîr), on fol. 319a.

Maḳâlah XII (Rulers of Malabar), on fol. 347a.

The Shaikhs of India, on fol. 351b.

Khâtimah, on fol. 401a.

The first volume is dated A. H. 1141 (tenth year of Muḥammadshâh's reign) = A. D. 1728, 1729; the second the 27th of Ramaḍân, A. H. 1163 (third year of Aḥmad-shâh's reign = Samvat, 1807) = A. D. 1750, August 30, at Shâhjahânâbâd.

No. 2425, ff. 336, ll. 24; careless and unequal Nasta'lîḳ; illuminated frontispiece; large waterspots; size, 11¼ in. by 7¼ in. No. 2426, ff. 402, ll. 17; written for the greater part in legible Shikasta; illuminated frontispiece; size, 11¼ in. by 7¼ in.

The same.

A third complete copy of the Gulshan-i-Ibrâhîmî in three volumes.

Vol. I: Muḳaddimah, on fol. 4b; Maḳâlah I (Lâhûr), on fol. 7a; II (Dihlî), on fol. 50a.

Vol. II: Maḳâlah III (Dakhan): first raudah, on fol. 1a; second, on fol. 129b; third, on fol. 265b; fourth, on fol. 348a; fifth, on fol. 357b; sixth, on fol. 359b.

Vol. III: Maḳâlah IV (Gujarât), on fol. 1b; V (Mâlwah and Mandû), on fol. 79a; VI (Burhânpûr), on fol. 127b; VII (Bangâlah), on fol. 143a; VIII (Sind and Tattah), on fol. 157b; IX (Multân), on fol. 170a; X (Kashmîr), on fol. 180a; XI (Malabar), on fol. 219b; XII (Shaikhs, etc.), on fol. 226a. Khâtimah, on fol. 273b.

Khâtimah begins on fol. 734a (no heading).

No date.

No. 2647, ff. 736, ll. 21; large and distinct Nasta'lîḳ; size, 13 in. by 7¼ in.

296

An incomplete copy of the same.

This copy is defective in the middle part; between ff. 522 and 523 some pages are missing; besides, many leaves are injured and most of the headings omitted. Beginning, on fol. 1b: نورس بستان کلام قدیم پیش وجود همه الخ.

Muḳaddimah, on fol. 4b.

Maḳâlah I, on fol. 11b; II, on fol. 49a; III, on fol. 243a; IV, not marked; V, on fol. 571b; VI, on fol. 610b; VII, on fol. 622b; VIII, on fol. 641a; IX, on fol. 651b; X, on fol. 658a; XI, not marked; XII, on fol. 694a.

Khâtimah, not marked, seems to begin on fol. 740b.

Dated A. H. 1042, 20th of Dhû-alḥijjah (= A. D. 1633, June 28), by Mîr Fakhrâ, commonly called Shâh Pasandkhân. An index on the fly-leaves. Blanks on ff. 361a, 395b, and 467a. Many English notes in pencil on the margin.

No. 3250, olim 15. J. 1, ff. 741, ll. 25; Nasta'lîḳ, by different hands; size, 12¾ in. by 5¼ in.

Another incomplete copy of the same.

A large portion of the Gulshan-i-Ibrâhîmî, defective both at the beginning and end, with a large lacuna besides after fol. 1. Many headings are entirely or partly missing. According to the date of completion, given on fol. 322b, viz. A. H. 1018 (A. D. 1609, 1610), this copy belongs to the second recension of the work, which was finished in that year; see Rieu i. p. 226a. It opens in the second raudah of the third maḳâlah, the history of the 'Âdilshâhs of Bijâpûr, with an account of Yûsuf 'Âdilshâh, whose death is fixed on fol. 13b, l. 7, in A. H. 916 (ta'rîkh: شهنشاه عادل (نماند); the third raudah of the same maḳâlah begins on fol. 130b, the fourth on fol. 199a, the fifth on fol. 207b, the sixth on fol. 209a.

Maḳâlah IV, on fol. 211a, without any heading; V, on fol. 275a; VI, on fol. 322b; VII, on fol. 337a, without any heading; VIII, on fol. 351b; IX, on fol. 364b, without a heading; X, on fol. 373b; XI, on fol. 410b; XII, on fol. 416b, breaking off in the biography of Sayyid Jalâl-aldîn Ḥusain. The last two pages are partly torn away.

Beginning: سلطان مراد شخصی ظهور کرده دعوی .... نمود که مصطفی الخ.

Bibliotheca Leydeniana.

No. 2431, ff. 462, ll. 16–20; many pages in diagonal lines; Nasta'lîḳ and Shikasta, by different hands; size, 12 in. by 7¾ in.

298

A third incomplete copy of the same.

This copy begins with the fourth raudah of the third maḳâlah, the Ḳuṭbshâhs of Tiling, on fol. 14b; fifth raudah, on fol. 26b; sixth raudah, on fol. 29b.

Maḳâlah IV, on fol. 31b; V, on fol. 126b; VI, on fol. 192b; VII, on fol. 214a; VIII, on fol. 233b; IX, on fol. 250a; X, on fol. 262a; XI, on fol. 310a; XII, on fol. 318a. Khâtimah, on fol. 388b.

A detailed index of this volume on ff. 1b–13b, dated the 2nd of Sha'bân, A. H. 1155 (A. D. 1742, October 2), at Aurangâbâd. No date at the end.

No. 136, ff. 392, ll. 17; large and clear Nasta'lîḳ; size, 13½ in. by 6¾ in.

The first volume of the same.

This copy, called the first volume of the Gulshan-i-Ibrâhîmî, comprises the muḳaddimah, the first and second maḳâlas, and the first raudah of the third maḳâlah.

Muḳaddimah, on fol. 5a.

Maḳâlah I, on fol. 8a; II, on fol. 61a; III, on fol. 338a; first raudah, on fol. 338b. With the heading of the second raudah of the same maḳâlah the copy concludes on fol. 461a: روضهٔ دویم در ذکر سلاطین بیجاپور.

Beginning: بسم الله الرحمٰن الرحیم' نورس بستان کلام قدیم' پیش وجود الخ.

No. 1128, ff. 461, ll. 21; very legible Shikasta; size, 10¾ in. by 5¾ in.

The same.

This copy is a little larger than the preceding one, since it goes about three pages beyond the beginning of the second raudah of the third maḳâlah, breaking off with the words: .... جنازهٔ شاهزاده کرده بی تحسین.

Beginning as usual.

Muḳaddimah, on fol. 6a. Maḳâlah I, on fol. 10a; II, on fol. 72a; III, on fol. 400b; first raudah, on fol. 401b; second, on fol. 569a.

No. 3294, olim 16. J. 14, ff. 570, ll. 19; large Nasta'lîḳ; written by two hands (the second on ff. 440–570); size, 12 in. by 6¾ in.

The same.

This copy contains only the muḳaddimah, on fol. 8a, and the first two maḳâlas, on ff. 25a and 72b respectively. A full index of this volume on ff. 1b–3a. Beginning the same as in No. 1128 (299 in this Cat.), on fol. 4b. As date is given only the 15th of Rabî'-althânî, without a year. The last twenty-seven leaves are more or less damaged.

No. 135, ff. 348, ll. 17 (ff. 1–3, ll. 18); large Nasta'lîḳ; size, 11⅝ in. by 7 in.

A fragment of the same.

This copy breaks off in the first half of the second maḳâlah with the words: چون شنیده بود که رامدیوارچه ....; corresponding to No. 3294 (300 in this Cat.), fol. 123b, l. 16. After fol. 3 a lacuna. About half of the first five pages is torn away. Beginning the same as in No. 1128 (299 in this Cat.).

No. 244, ff. 126, ll. 15–23; very unequal Nasta'lîḳ, from a large and distinct one to a small and very careless one; size, 8¼ in. by 4¼ in.

Ta'rîkh-i-Râjahâi-hindî (تاریخ راجهای هندی).

A short abridgment of the history of India, made from Firishta's work and other standard histories, A. H. 1018 (see fol. 36b, l. 6: تا حال که ثمان عشر و الف است) = A. D. 1609, 1610, by an anonymous author, and beginning: در معتقدات اهل هند و ذکر رایان و بیان کیفیّت ظهور اسلام در آن بلاد' ذکر فرزندان سام بن نوح علیه السلام الخ.

The preface gives a short account of the ante-muḥammadan Râjahs of India; the book itself is divided, like Firishta's, into twelve maḳâlas, viz. 1. سلاطین لاهور, on fol. 4a; 2. سلاطین دهلی, on fol. 7a; 3. سلاطین دکن, on fol. 23b; 4. سلاطین گجرات, on fol. 36b; 5. حکّام مملکت مالوه الخ, on fol. 41a; 6. سلاطین فاروقیّهٔ برهانپور, on fol. 44a; 7. سلاطین بنگاله, on fol. 46a; 8. حکّام مملکت سند الخ, on fol. 49b; 9. سلاطین ملتان, on fol. 50b; 10. حکّام کشمیر, on fol. 51a; 11. احوال حالات مشایخ هندوستان, on fol. 53b; 12. ملیبار, on fol. 54a.

Dated the 19th of Rabî'-althânî, A. H. 1149 (A. D. 1736, August 27).

No. 2983, ff. 59, ll. 14–15; careless Nasta'lîḳ; size, 9¾ in. by 5½ in.

Another copy of the same abridgment.

Beginning the same. It is styled here, on fol. 1b, تاریخ حاکمان هند. Maḳâlah I, on fol. 3a; II, on fol. 6b (down to Akbar's death, A. H. 1014); III, on fol. 21a, in six raudas; IV, on fol. 32a; V, on fol. 36a; VI, on fol. 38b; VII, on fol. 41a; VIII, on fol. 44a; IX, on fol. 45a; X, on fol. 45b; XI, on fol. 47b; XII (Saints of India), on fol. 48b, in two sections: a. Chishtî order, on fol. 48b; b. Suhrawardî order of Multân, on fol. 50b. No date.

No. 3006, ff. 1–53, ll. 15; large Nasta'lîḳ; size, 10 in. by 5½ in.

Jahângirnâma (جهانگيرنامه).

The complete first or original edition of the authentic autobiographical memoirs of the emperor Jahângir (who reigned A. H. 1014–1037 = A. D. 1605–1627), beginning: از عنايات بيغايات الهى يكساعت نجومى از روز پنجشنبه هشتم جمادى الثانى هزار و چهارده هجرى گذشته الخ.

These memoirs go down to the beginning of the nineteenth year of the emperor's reign; comp. Rieu i. p. 253 sq.; Bodleian Cat., Nos. 219–220; W. Morley, p. 112 sq.; Elliot, History of India, vi. p. 276 sq.; J. Aumer, p. 93 sq.; etc. A second or revised edition by Mîr Muḥammad Hâdî, who brought the history down to the end of Jahângir's reign, is described in the Bodleian Cat., No. 221, and has been edited by Sayyid Aḥmad, 1864, at Ally Gurh, under the title توزك جهانگيرى, which is frequently given to these memoirs.

No date.

No. 154, ff. 311, ll. 15–21; written by many different hands in very unequal Nasta'lîḳ and in Shikasta (so on ff. 265–272); size, 10½ in. by 6½ in.

306

Another copy of the same.

This copy is likewise complete, going down to the beginning of the nineteenth year of Jahângir's reign (see fol. 215ᵃ, last line but two). Beginning the same. Notes and remarks, both in Persian and English, on the margin. Presented by Lieut.-Col. William Kirkpatrick, May 30, 1804.

No. 181, ff. 216, ll. 23; good Nasta'lîḳ; illuminated frontispiece, size, 10½ in. by 6½ in.

The same.

This copy is incomplete, and goes down only to A. H. 1024, the tenth year of the emperor's reign. Muḥarram, A. H. 1024, appears on fol. 168ᵃ, ll. 9 and 10. The last words agree with the preceding copy, fol. 86ᵃ, l. 10. Beginning the same. No date.

No. 1603, ff. 170, ll. 17; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 8½ in. by 5 in.

The same.

This copy is incomplete, like the preceding one, and ends exactly in the same manner. Beginning as usual.

Copied at Banâras, and finished the 25th of October, 1835 = 2nd Rajab, A. H. 1251 = Samvat, 1892, 4th of the month Kâtik or Kârtik. In the colophon these memoirs are styled واقعات جهانگيرى. Purchased of General Cunningham, July, 1870.

No. 3181ᵇ, ff. 227, ll. 11; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 9 in. by 5½ in.

Tûzuk-i-Jahângirî (توزك جهانگيرى).

The shorter redaction of the spurious memoirs of Jahângir, agreeing completely with No. 259 in J. Aumer, p. 94; see also Bodleian Cat., No. 222. The short preface begins, on fol. 1ᵇ, thus: حمد بى غايت و شكر بى نهايت مبدعى را الخ.

In the last line of the first page the memoirs themselves begin: امّا بعد يادگار سرگذشت احوال خود را الخ.

Jahângir's accession is fixed here (as in the Bodleian copy and partly in Aumer too) on the 20th (بيستم, probably a mistake for هشتم, the 8th) of Jumâdâ-alawwal (!), A. H. 1014.

Dated the 25th of Jumâdâ-alawwal, A. H. 1194 (A. D. 1780, May 29).

No. 546, ff. 56, ll. 15; Shikasta; size, 7½ in. by 4½ in.

The same.

The amplified redaction of the same spurious memoirs of Jahângir, on which Major D. Price's English translation, 'Memoirs of the emperor Jahangueir, written by himself' (London, 1829, Oriental Translation Fund), is based, styled in the colophon on fol. 80ᵃ, on the fly-leaves, and on the top of fol. 1ᵃ: جهانگير نامه; in the various later entries on the margin of fol. 80ᵃ and on fol. 1ᵃ: مقالات جهانگيرى. Beginning: اى نام تو سر دفتر اسرار وجود الخ.

In the second line the usual beginning appears: حمد بى غايت و شكر بى نهايت الخ; see Rieu i. p. 254. With the exception of a number of verses and other embellishments the text agrees with that of the preceding copy.

This copy was written for Mirzâ Muḥammad by 'Aṭâ-allâh bin Isma'îl Ḳâdirî and finished the 17th (هفدهم, but above is written ۱۱, 19th) of Dhû-alḥijjah, in the twenty-fourth year of Muḥammadshâh's reign, A. H. 1154 = A. D. 1742, February 23.

Collated throughout. Various later entries on fol. 1ᵃ, and on the margin of fol. 80ᵃ. On the fly-leaf some ḥadîth with Persian translation, taken from the سراج الهداية (من كتاب سراج الهداية بعضى احاديث و ترجمهٔ آن).

No. 3393, ff. 80, ll. 17; careless Nasta'lîḳ, very near Shikasta; size, 8½ in. by 6 in.

The same.

Beginning as in the preceding copy. In the colophon it is styled تأريخ جهانگيرنامه.

No date. Beginning of the present century (about 1802 or 1803).

No. 2383, ff. 127–370, ll. 11; large Nasta'lîḳ; size, 8½ in. by 5½ in.

Iḳbâlnâma-i-Jahângîrî (اقبالنامهٔ جهانگیری).

The first two volumes of the history of Sulṭân Akbar and Sulṭân Jahângîr, composed A. H. 1029 = A. D. 1620 (see fol. 4b, last line but two), by Muḥammad Sharîf, called Mu'tamadkhân (see fol. 4a, l. 9), who died A. H. 1049 = A. D. 1639, 1640; comp. Rieu iii. p. 922 and i. p. 255; W. Morley, p. 120; Elliot, History of India, vi. p. 400 sq.; J. Aumer, p. 92, etc.

The first volume, on ff. 1b–154b, comprises the history of Akbar's ancestors;

The second volume, on ff. 155b–592b, the history of Sulṭân Akbar's reign, from his accession to his death.

The third volume (containing Jahângîr's reign down to his death and later added by the same author) is wanting here (see copies of this volume further below in Nos. 314–323); therefore this copy is styled both on fol. 1a and in the colophon: اکبرنامهٔ معتمد خان.

Beginning of the first volume here: تعالی الله این چه ارتفاع شان و اعتلای مکان واجب است که ممکن را تصوّر آن در امکان نگنجد الخ.

Beginning of the second volume (agreeing verbatim with the beginning of the second part of the first book of the Akbarnâma, of which it is an abridgment, see No. 235 sq. in this Cat. and J. Aumer, loc. cit.): سلسلهٔ انتظام کارگاه آفرینش که مظاهر حقیقت نمای شهود و شواهد الخ.

The first volume is dated the 10th of Rabî'-alawwal, in the nineteenth year (probably of 'Âlamgîr's reign, A. H. 1087 = A. D. 1676, May 23). Ff. 17–23 are misplaced, the right order is 17, 22, 18–21, 23. Some pages a little injured at the corners.

No. 161, ff. 592, ll. 13–19; very unequally written, partly in Shikasta, partly in Nasta'lîḳ; size, 10½ in. by 6½ in.

Another copy of the second part of the second volume of the same.

This part of the Iḳbâlnâma-i-Jahângîrî, styled دفتر دویم از جلد دویم, begins in the middle of the twenty-eighth year of Akbar's reign with the chapter: رزم آرائی میرزا خان با سلطان مظفر گجراتی و ارتفاع رایات فتح و ظفر بعون ملک دادگر الخ, corresponding to fol. 442a in the preceding copy, and goes down to the death of Akbar. It contains about one page more than No. 161, for the end of the preceding copy, انجامید روز نهم الخ, is found here on fol. 232a, l. 9.

Dated the 19th of Rajab, A. H. 1064 (A. D. 1654, June 5), at Aḥmadâbâd.

No. 1325, ff. 233, ll. 14–15; Shikasta, ff. 1, 4, and 5 supplied by another hand in Nasta'lîḳ; size, 9¾ in. by 5⅝ in.

Iḳbâlnâma-i-Jahângîrî.

The third volume of the same work, containing the history of Jahângîr's reign from his accession to his death; comp. Bodleian Cat., Nos. 224–230, and Rieu i. p. 255. Beginning: شایستهٔ سریر سلطنت و فرمانروائی و زیبندهٔ افسر خلافت و کشور کشائی الخ.

It has been edited in the Bibliotheca Indica, Calcutta, 1865, and in Lucknow, A. H. 1286.

A little worm-eaten. Dated the first of Ṣafar, A. H. 1071 (A. D. 1660, October 6).

No. 247, ff. 177, ll. 15; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 9½ in. by 5½ in.

315

The same third volume of the Iḳbâlnâma-i-Jahângîrî.

Beginning as in the preceding copy. Lacunas after ff. 7 and 60. Dated the 10th of Ṣafar, in the third year of Bahâdurshâh's reign, A. H. 1122 (A. D. 1710, April 10), by Muḥammad 'Alî.

No. 2007, ff. 192, ll. 15; large Nasta'lîḳ; size, 9¾ in. by 5 in.

The same.

This copy is dated the 12th of Jumâdâ-alawwal, in the eleventh year of Muḥammadshâh's reign, A. H. 1142 (A. D. 1729, December 3).

No. 3148, ff. 158; written by two different hands, the first a large and distinct Nasta'lîḳ, on ff. 1–115a, ll. 16–17; the second Shikasta, on ff. 115a–158, ll. 23; splendid binding in brown and gold; size, 9¾ in. by 5½ in.

The same.

A very inelegant copy, the last ten leaves of which are greatly injured, whole portions being torn away. Beginning as usual. Written in Muḥammadshâh's reign, A. H. 1153 (A. D. 1740, 1741), as it seems (the date being partly destroyed).

No. 2045, ff. 186, ll. 11–14; mostly written in Shikasta; ff. 74–108 by another hand in diagonal lines in Nasta'lîḳ; size, 10¾ in. by 6¼ in.

The same.

The chapter on contemporary poets, which is found in some copies, is wanting here; it closes with Jahângîr's death.

Dated the 9th of Jumâdâ-alawwal, in the twenty-fifth year of Muḥammadshâh's reign, A. H. 1156 (A. D. 1743, July 1).

No. 3285, olim 14. J. 21, ff. 159, ll. 17; Nasta'lîḳ, mixed with Shikasta; collated; rather worm-eaten in the latter half; size, 10¾ in. by 6½ in.

The same.

This copy, like the preceding one, has no chapter on contemporary poets; it just breaks off with the heading: ذکر شعرا که معاصر آنحضرت بودند; the last words being ملّا حیاتی گیلانی (Mullâ Ḥayâtî of Gîlân, the first of the contemporary poets).

No date. The proper order of ff. 26–31 is: 26, 28, 27, 30, 29, 31.

No. 2937, ff. 120, ll. 17; the older part, in clear Nasta'lîḳ, comprises ff. 4–34 and 43–120; the remaining portion is added by a modern hand, which has also repaired many injured corners in the other pages; size, 10⅞ in. by 6¾ in.

The same.

Dated by Aḥsan-allâh ibn Shaikh Hidâyat-allâh the 20th of Rajab, in the twenty-ninth year of Shâh 'Âlam's reign, A. H. 1201 (A. D. 1787, May 8). The right order of ff. 61–68 is: 61, 62, 64, 63, 66, 65, 67, 68.

No. 1965, ff. 200, ll. 13; large and distinct Nasta'lîḳ; size, 9¼ in. by 5¾ in.

The same.

No date. This copy was purchased at Seringapatam, A. D. 1802, presented by J. H. Peile, Esq., and received the 19th of September, 1818; transferred to Civil Collection, August 9, 1819.

No. 3389, olim 14. J. 25, ff. 185; the first seventy-nine leaves written in Nasta'lîḳ, 13–14 diagonal lines; the last 106 leaves are added by a European hand, as it seems, ll. 12–13; size, 8¼ in. by 6 in.

The same.

Dated the 25th of Rabî'-alawwal, A. H. 1231 (A. D. 1816, February 24). Occasionally various readings on the margin.

No. 3147, ff. 175, ll. 15; illuminated frontispiece; splendid binding in green and gold; size, 10¼ in. by 6 in.

A defective copy of the same.

This copy breaks off on fol. 141b in the middle of the nineteenth year of Jahângîr's reign, A. H. 1033, which begins on fol. 139a. Last words: تا سر راه برآن فوج گرفته نگذارند کہ از آب . . . . , corresponding to fol. 117b, l. 4 in No. 3285 (318 in this Cat.).

No. 3322, ff. 141, ll. 12; modern Nasta'lîḳ; size, 9¼ in. by 6¼ in.

Maâthir-i-Jahângîrî (مآثر جهانگیری).

A large fragment of Kâmgâr Ḥusaini's (died A. H. 1050=A. D. 1640, 1641) history of the early life and reign of the emperor Jahângîr, which was completed A. H. 1040 (A. D. 1630, 1631); comp. Rieu i. p. 256 sq.; Bodleian Cat., No. 223; Elliot, History of India, vi. p. 439 sq. This copy opens abruptly, on fol. 16a, with the death of Akbar and Jahângîr's accession: رشك هشت بهشت شود و بدستیاری الخ. The events are narrated from year to year, viz.: first year of his reign, on fol. 19b; second, on fol. 28b; third, on fol. 36a; fourth, on fol. 38b; fifth, on fol. 41a; sixth, on fol. 48b; seventh, on fol. 55a; eighth, on fol. 59b; ninth, on fol. 63a; tenth, on fol. 67b; eleventh, on fol. 73b; twelfth, on fol. 82b; thirteenth, on fol. 90a; fourteenth, on fol. 100a; fifteenth, on fol. 108b; sixteenth, on fol. 136a; seventeenth, on fol. 145b; eighteenth, on fol. 153b; nineteenth, on fol. 165a; twentieth, on fol. 183b; twenty-first, on fol. 191a; twenty-second, on fol. 218a. In the middle of this year, the last but one of Jahângîr's reign, the copy breaks off on fol. 222b. A later portion of the MS., viz. the events between Jahângîr's death and Shâhjahân's accession, going from the 19th of Rabî'-alawwal, A. H. 1037, to the 26th of Jumâdâ-alawwal in the same year (Shâhjahân's accession took place on the 7th of Jumâdâ II), on ff. 10a–15b, likewise incomplete both at beginning and end.

Besides the main portion, the Maâthir-i-Jahângîrî, or as it is styled on the back of the binding, the 'Jâhângîrnâma,' by which more general term it is, for instance, designated by Khâfikhân too, this copy contains two other fragmentary pieces, viz.

1. Ff. 1–9b, the first part of the third book of the Maktûbât-i-Abû-alfaḍl or Mukâtabât-i-'allâmî, the collection of Abû-alfaḍl's letters (comp. Nos. 271–286 in this Cat.), beginning: یا فاتح ابواب علوم و حکم الخ. Abû-alfaḍl's name appears on fol. 2a, l. 2.

2. Ff. 223a–229b, the last portion of the Ma'dan-aljawâhir, by Mullâ Ṭarzî (composed A. H. 1025=A. D. 1616), comprising part of the sixteenth bâb, the whole of the seventeenth bâb, and the khâtimah of the shorter redaction (comp. Bodleian Cat., Nos. 464 and 465; Rieu iii. p. 1038b). Bâb XVII begins on fol. 224b: در پاداش اندیشهٔ نباد الخ. This portion is dated the 11th of Jumâdâ II, A. H. 1180 (A. D. 1766, November 14).

No. 3098, ff. 229, ll. 10–15; Shîkasta, by at least three different hands; size, 8⅝ in. by 4¾ in. (the last seven leaves 4½ in.).

Pâdishâhnâma (پادشاهنامه).

The first volume of 'Abd-alḥamîd Lâhûrî's (died A. H. 1065=A. D. 1655) history of the emperor Shâhjahân, comprising the first ten years of his reign, A. H. 1037–1047 (A. D. 1627–1638), beginning: نگارین کلامی کہ گذارش آن دامن سامعه را جواهر آگین کند الخ; comp. Bodleian Cat., Nos. 232–235; Rieu i. p. 260 sq.; W. Morley, p. 122; J. Aumer, p. 95; Elliot, History of India, vii. p. 3 sq., etc. The introduction, on the emperor's ancestors, begins with Timûr, on fol. 23b; Bâbar, on fol. 25a; Humâyûn, on fol. 25b; Akbar, on fol. 26a; Jahângîr, on fol. 27a.

The first year of Shâhjahân's reign, on fol. 33b; the second, on fol. 123b; the third, on fol. 145b; the fourth, on fol. 170a; the fifth, on fol. 208b; the sixth, on fol. 230a; the seventh, on fol. 284b; the eighth, on fol. 316b; the ninth, on fol. 348a; the tenth, on fol. 402b. The appendix, containing an account of the contemporary Shaikhs, Mullâs, Ḥakims, and poets, on fol. 440ᵃ.

No date. An index on the fly-leaves.

No. 317, ff. 454, ll. 15; excellent, large, and clear Nasta'lîḳ; all the pages sprinkled with gold; illuminated frontispiece; size, 12¾ in. by 8 in.

Another copy of the first volume of the Pâdishâhnâma.

Beginning as in the preceding copy. Timûr, on fol. 22ᵇ; Bâbar, on fol. 24ᵇ; Humâyûn, on fol. 32ᵃ; Akbar, on fol. 33ᵇ; Jahângîr, on fol. 34ᵇ; the history of Shâhjahân's reign begins on fol. 41ᵇ. The appendix on the contemporary learned men and poets is wanting here; ff. 10 and 102 are left blank.

No date. An index on the fly-leaves.

No. 125, ff. 384, ll. 16–17; large Nasta'lîḳ; size, 12½ in. by 6½ in.

The same.

This copy which begins, on fol. 5ᵇ, thus: رنگین کلامی که گذارش الخ, contains, on ff. 1ᵇ–4ᵇ, a short introductory chapter on Shâhjahân's life before his accession, styled ذکر احوال خجسته مآل ایام شاهزادگی, and beginning: در شناختن جلوس اشرف الخ. See the same account at the end of Elliott 368 in the Bodleian Library (Cat. No. 232). The sketch of the emperor's ancestors begins with Timûr, on fol. 15ᵃ; the history of Shâhjahân's reign, on fol. 24ᵃ.

Dated the 24th of Rabî'-althânî, A. H. 1162 (A. D. 1749, April 13). The appendix on the learned men, etc., begins somewhere about fol. 166ᵃ, but there is no heading marked.

No. 1495, ff. 171, ll. 27; inelegant and careless Nasta'lîḳ; size, 15¾ in. by 8¾ in.

The second volume of the Pâdishâhnâma, comprising the years A. H. 1047–1057 (A. D. 1638–1647).

Beginning, on fol. 4ᵇ: سپاس والا اساس دادار کارساز و کردگار بی انباز را که الخ.

A complete index, on ff. 1ᵇ–3ᵇ, beginning: آغاز سال اوّل از دویم دور.

These first two volumes of the Pâdishâhnâma have been edited in the Bibliotheca Indica, Calcutta, vol. i, 1867; vol. ii, 1868.

Copied by Maulânâ Shaikh Naṣr-allâh of Sûdhân in the month Rajab, A. H. 1109, that is, the forty-first year of 'Âlamgîr's reign (A. D. 1698, January, February).

No. 1388, ff. 370, ll. 19; large and distinct Nasta'lîḳ; size, 13¾ in. by 6¾ in.

Pâdishâhnâma.

The third volume of the Pâdishâhnâma, supplied, after 'Abd-alḥamîd's death, by Muḥammad Wârith (killed A. H. 1091 = A. D. 1680), and comprising the history of Shâhjahân's reign from the twentieth to the thirtieth year, A. H. 1057–1067 (A. D. 1647–1657).

It begins, on fol. 7ᵇ:

بر سر هر نامه دبیر قلم ـ آنچه کند بهر تیمّن رقم

An index, on ff. 3ᵇ–4ᵇ, beginning: افتتاح بخشیش سال سیوم دور غرّهٔ جمادی الثانی سنهٔ هزار پنجاه هفت. آغاز سال اوّل دور سیوم الخ. Short statistical reports on ff. 1ᵇ, 2ᵃ, and 275ᵃ–276ᵇ.

The third volume itself concludes on fol. 273ᵇ, and is copied by the same Shaikh Naṣr-allâh of Sûdhân as the second volume, in the same year 1109, in the month Ṣafar. It is incorrectly styled شاهجهان نامه in the colophon.

No. 324, ff. 276, ll. 19; large and distinct Nasta'lîḳ; size, 13¾ in. by 6¾ in.

An incomplete copy of the second and third volumes of the Pâdishâhnâma.

There are seven leaves missing in the beginning of the second volume, which opens abruptly thus, on fol. 1ᵃ: . . . مبلغ رایان عمدة الملك برساند, corresponding to No. 1388 (328 in this Cat.), fol. 23ᵇ, l. 9.

The twelfth year of Shâhjahân's reign (the second of the second decade) begins on fol. 11ᵇ. A short appendix on Shaikhs, learned men, etc., on fol. 90ᵃ.

Third volume, on fol. 91ᵇ, beginning: بر سر هر نامه دبیر قلم الخ. The literary appendix to this volume is found on fol. 178ᵃ. On fol. 178ᵇ the work concludes.

Ff. 179ᵇ–186ᵇ are filled with an interesting piece of Ṣûfic debate between a devout monk (زاهد) and a false anachoret (رند), beginning: ای بر تو سجود زاهدان وقت نماز الخ.

No date.

No. 1494, ff. 186, ll. 32–38, different Nasta'lîḳ, in many parts nearly equal to Shikasta, by various hands; size, 16 in. by 8¾ in.

Shâhjahânnâma (شاهجهاننامه).

Another history of the emperor Shâhjahân's reign to the close of the thirtieth year, by Muḥammad Ṭâhir, with the takhalluṣ Âshnâ, commonly called 'Ināyatkhan bin Żafarkhân bin Khwâjah Abû-alḥasan (who died A. H. 1077 = A. D. 1666, 1667). It was composed A. H. 1068 (A. D. 1658), and is a kind of abridgment of the preceding Pâdishâhnâma; comp. Bodleian Cat., No. 237; Rieu i. p. 261, and iii. p. 1083ᵇ; W. Morley, p. 123; Elliot, History of India, vii. p. 73 sq. According to Rieu, the proper title of the work is مُلخّص.

Beginning:

بنام پادشاه پادشاهان
سر افرازی ده صاحب کلاهان
حمدی که در خورشان الخ

At the end, on fol. 235b sq., an account of the revenues of Hindûstân and other statistics are found.

Dated the 14th of Rajab, in the twenty-fourth year of Muḥammadshâh's reign (=A. H. 1155, A. D. 1742, September 14).

No. 981, ff. 240, ll. 21; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 11¾ in. by 6¼ in.

'Amal-i-Ṣâliḥ (عمل صالح).

A very large and detailed history of Shâhjahân's reign, together with a full account of his forefathers and predecessors, especially of Akbar and Jahângir, and of the first three years of 'Âlamgir's reign, completed by Muḥammad Ṣâliḥ Kanbû, A. H. 1070 (A. D. 1659, 1660; see the chronogram, لطیفهٔ فیض الهی); comp. Rieu i. p. 263 sq.; A. F. Mehren, p. 21; Elliot, History of India, vii. p. 123 sq.; etc. It consists here of two volumes, the first comprising the introduction and the first seven years of Shâhjahân's reign (which begins here on fol. 99b), the second the remaining portion of his reign and the beginning of that of 'Âlamgîr. The biographical appendix on famous Shaikhs, Mullâs, Ḥakîms, poets, etc., begins on fol. 271a in No. 857.

Beginning of the whole work: شگفته روئی چمن بیان و خنده ریزی گلبن سخن از حمد بهار پیرای الخ.

An index on the fly-leaves of the first volume (No. 856), which is dated the 11th of Rajab, A. H. 1112 (A. D. 1700, December 22).

The second volume was finished the 25th of Dhû-alḥijjah, A. H. 1113 (A. D. 1702, May 23).

No. 856, ff. 247; No. 857, ff. 301, ll. 23; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 12¾ in. by 8¼ in.

Another copy of the same.

The first year of Shâhjahân's reign, on fol. 103a; the second, on fol. 119b; the third, on fol. 133b; the fourth, on fol. 151b; the fifth, on fol. 167a; the sixth, on fol. 190b; the seventh, on fol. 218a; the eighth, on fol. 248a; the ninth, on fol. 270a; the tenth, on fol. 291a; the eleventh, on fol. 305b; the twelfth, on fol. 316a; the thirteenth, on fol. 320b; the fourteenth, on fol. 327b; the fifteenth, on fol. 331b; the sixteenth, on fol. 340a; the seventeenth, on fol. 345b; the eighteenth, on fol. 352a; the nineteenth, on fol. 359a; the twentieth, on fol. 375a; the twenty-first, on fol. 395b; the twenty-second, on fol. 415b; the twenty-third, on fol. 426a; the twenty-fourth, on fol. 430b; the twenty-fifth, on fol. 434b; the twenty-sixth, on fol. 442a; the twenty-seventh, on fol. 446b; the twenty-eighth, on fol. 454b; the twenty-ninth, on fol. 459a; the thirtieth, on fol. 462a; the thirty-first, on fol. 469a.

The first year of 'Âlamgir's reign, on fol. 493b.

Biographical appendix, on ff. 505b–530.

Copied A. H. 1157 (A. D. 1744, 1745). On fol. 1a this work is incorrectly styled شاهجهاننامه.

No. 44, ff. 530, ll. 23–25, a few pages with less lines; very careless and unequal Nasta'lîḳ, written by different hands; size, 11 in. by 6¼ in.

The same.

A third copy of the same, in three volumes. Beginning quite different from that in the preceding copies: ذکری که حسن آغاز یابد و بیانی که پیرایهٔ انجام الخ.

The history of Shâhjahân's ancestors appears to be much shorter here. The story of Shâhjahân's accession begins here already, in No. 3132, on fol. 28b; the second year of his reign, on fol. 107a; the third, on fol. 129b; the fourth, on fol. 154a; the fifth, on fol. 190b; the sixth, on fol. 211b; the seventh, on fol. 262b; the eighth, on fol. 293a; the ninth, on fol. 323a; the tenth, on fol. 378b; the eleventh, in No. 3133, on fol. 1b; the twelfth, on fol. 24a; the thirteenth, on fol. 33b; the fourteenth, on fol. 48a; the fifteenth, on fol. 57b; the sixteenth, on fol. 76b; the seventeenth, on fol. 89b; the eighteenth, on fol. 106a; the nineteenth, on fol. 122b; the twentieth, on fol. 161b; the twenty-first, on fol. 216b; the twenty-second, in No. 3134, on fol. 1b; the twenty-third, on fol. 29a; the twenty-fourth, on fol. 40a; the twenty-fifth, on fol. 50a; the twenty-sixth, on fol. 66b; the twenty-seventh, on fol. 78b; the twenty-eighth, on fol. 100b; the twenty-ninth, on fol. 113b; the thirtieth, on fol. 121b; the thirty-first, on fol. 141b.

The biographical index, on fol. 235a, in No. 3134.

An index of the contents of the second volume is found on ff. 269a–271b, in No. 3133.

The first volume is dated the 1st of Sha'bân, A. H. 1213 (A. D. 1799, January 8); the second and third, A. H. 1225 (A. D. 1810). On the first leaves, as well as in the colophons, this work is again styled شاهجهاننامه. The author's name does not occur here in the preface; only in the colophon Muḥammad Ṣâliḥ is mentioned.

No. 3132, ff. 434; No. 3133, ff. 271; No. 3134, ff. 308, ll. 17; large and distinct Nasta'lîḳ; illuminated frontispiece at the beginning of each volume; the first two pages of each volume splendidly adorned; size of No. 3132, 12½ in. by 6½ in.; of Nos. 3133 and 3134, 10¾ in. by 6½ in.

The same.

A fourth complete, but very badly written, copy of the 'Amal-i-Ṣâliḥ, without any date. The main work ends on fol. 697b (the biographical appendix beginning on fol. 663b). There are added:

1. On the margin, frequent quotations from the پادشاهنامه (see above, Nos. 325–330 in this Cat.) in red ink.

2. On ff. 699a–711a, genealogical lists and a general index of famous personages appearing in the book: تفصیل مناصب پادشاهزادهای والا مقدار و سلاطین عالی تبار و امرایان عظام اخلاص شعار و دیگر بندهای عقیدت آثار تا پانصدی.

3. On ff. 712a–736, some other historical documents, especially letters, relating to Shâhjahân's time, probably taken from the پادشاهنامه too, if not belonging to the عمل صالح itself.

The first heading is: نقل نامهٔ اعلیحضرت از منشآت

علّامی سعد الله خان که بسلطان محمّد خان فرمانروای روم ممحوب حاجی احمد سعید در سال بیست و پنجم از جلوس اقدس ارسال یافت.

No. 1410, ff. 736, ll. 19; Shikasta; size, 11¼ in. by 6¼ in.

Extracts from the 'Amal-i-Ṣâliḥ.

Short extracts from the second book of Muḥammad Ṣâliḥ Kanbû's 'Amal-i-Ṣâliḥ, or Pâdishâhnâma (as it is styled here), entitled: بعضی از فوائد منقول از جلد دویم پادشاهنامه که مشتمل بر احوال حضرت صاحبقران ثانی ابو المظفّر شهاب الدین محمّد شاهجهان پادشاه غازی انار الله برهانه است تألیف محمّد صالح کنبوی دهلوی الخ.

It begins with ذکر طول و عرض مملکت روز افزون هندوستان بهشت نشان, in this way: طول این مملکت الخ.

These extracts were made by Muḥammad Bakhshkhân, with the takhallus Âshûb, the author of a history of the reign of Muḥammadshâh and other works (died A. H. 1199=A. D. 1785),—see Rieu iii. p. 944; Elliot, History of India, viii. p. 232,—for Mr. Richard Johnson, A. H. 1194 (A. D. 1780).

No. 667, ff. 24, ll. 15; Shikasta; size, 8 in. by 4¼ in.

Tuḥfat-i-Shâhjahânî (تحفهٔ شاهجهانی).

A concise history of the life and reign of the emperor Shâhjahân, from his birth in A. H. 1000=A. D. 1592 (fol. 3ᵃ, l. 6) to his death in A. H. 1076=A. D. 1666 (fol. 31ᵇ, first line), based on the best authorities, a list of which is given in the preface, particularly on the عمل صالح (see the preceding copies, and fol. 2ᵇ, ll. 6–10 in this work), by Sudhârî La'l (سدهاری لعل); see fol. 1ᵇ, l. 6.

Beginning: از آنجا که تحریر مآثر جلیله و مفاخر نبیله اقبال الخ.

No date. C. M. K. 43.

No. 2935, ff. 32, ll. 11–13; Shikasta; size, 9½ in. by 8¼ in.

Laṭâ'if-alakhbâr (لطائف الاخبار).

Journal of the expedition of Shâhjahân's eldest son, prince Dârâ Shukûh (born A. H. 1024=A. D. 1615, murdered A. H. 1069=A. D. 1659), to Ḳandahâr, A. H. 1063 (A. D. 1653), composed under his auspices by somebody who accompanied him (probably Badî'-alzamân Rashidkhân, who died A. H. 1107=A. D. 1695, 1696; comp. Rieu i. p. 264, and iii. p. 1083ᵇ).

Beginning: حمد بیحدّی که ابواب فتح را بر روی پادشاهان تواند کشاد مر آن خدایرا سزاست الخ; see also Bodleian Cat., Nos. 238 and 239; Elphinstone, History of India, 5th ed., p. 587, etc.

After the preface follows an introductory chapter on the previous expeditions under Murâd and Aurangzîb, and the army's outset from Lâhûr the 24th of the first Rabî', A. H. 1063. The journal itself begins with the 10th of Jumâdâ-althânî, A. H. 1063 (A. D. 1653, May 8), and goes down to the 9th of Dhû-alḥijjah of the same year (A. D. 1653, October 31).

Dated the 25th of Muḥarram, in the twenty-sixth year (probably of 'Âlamgîr's reign, A. H. 1094=A. D. 1683, January 24), at Shâhjahânâbâd, by Mîr Ghulâm 'Alî bin Mîr 'Abd-alraḥîm, an inhabitant of Dihlî.

No. 2461, ff. 282, ll. 11; clear Nasta'lîḳ, written by two hands, the first of which goes down from fol. 1 to fol. 203, the second from fol. 204 to the end; size, 9½ in. by 6¼ in.

Another copy of the same.

Beginning as in the preceding copy. The appendix, on the march back from Ḳandahâr to Multân, and the general conclusion (see the Bodleian copies loc. cit.) are not distinctly marked here. No date.

No. 42, ff. 151, ll. 19; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 10¼ in. by 5½ in.

Ta'rîkh-i-Shâh Shujâ'î (تأریخ شاه شجاعی).

A history of the life and exploits of Shâhjahân's second son, prince Muḥammad Shâh Shujâ', who was born A. H. 1025 (A. D. 1616), and put to death A. H. 1070 (A. D. 1660), composed by Muḥammad Ma'ṣûm bin Ḥasan bin Ṣâliḥ, A. H. 1070 (A. D. 1659, 1660); see this date twice, on fol. 2ᵃ, l. 7, and fol. 5ᵃ, l. 10. The author was himself, as he states on fol. 5ᵇ, l. 5, twenty-five years in the prince's service. This work may be a part of the same author's فتوحات عالمگیری, or history of the early part of 'Âlamgîr's reign, which was also completed A. H. 1070; see Rieu i. p. 270ᵃ, and iii. p. 1049ᵃ; Elliot, History of India, vii. p. 198.

Beginning: حمدیکه زبان همچو ما قاصدان را بآن دسترس است نثار کبریای مقدّس خداوند الخ.

No date.

No. 533, ff. 162, ll. 11; Shikasta; size, 6½ in. by 3½ in.

'Ajîba-i-gharîbah (عجیبهٔ غریبه).

Special history of the conquest of Kûchbahâr and Âshâm (or Assam, a rich country along the river Brahmaputra), by the Khânkhânân Mîr Muḥammad Sa'îd Ardastânî, otherwise styled Mîr Jumlah, under the emperor 'Âlamgîr, A. H. 1072 and 1073 (A. D. 1662 and 1663). It is written by an eye-witness of, and co-operator in, this campaign, Ibn Muḥammad Walî Aḥmad, commonly called Shihâb-aldîn Tâlish; see fol. 2ᵇ, l. 5, and fol. 4ᵇ, l. 7. Another and more common title of this book is فتحیّهٔ عبریّه, or فتحیّهٔ عبرتیّه; comp. Bodleian Cat., Nos. 240 and 241; Rieu i. p. 266; Elphinstone, History of India, 5th ed., p. 610 sq.; Elliot, History of India, vii. pp. 265–269; Blochmann, Journal of the Asiatic Society of Bengal, vol. xli. p. 51 sq.

The book is divided into a muḳaddimah and two maḳâlas, viz.:

مقدّمه در بیان سبب توجّه اعلام ظفر فرجام به تسخیر کوچ بهار و آشام, on fol. 4b.

مقالهٔ اوّل در ذکر توجّه نوّاب مستغنی القاب باستیصال بیم نرایں راجهٔ کوچ بهار و فتح آن سرزمین بتایید آفریدگار, on fol. 7a.

مقالهٔ دوم در ذکر موکب عالی بجانب آشام و فتح آن ملك بعون ملك علّام, on fol. 12a.

The continuation, relating the immediately following events down to the month Sha'bân, A.H. 1076, is missing here. As date of composition is given, at the end, the 20th of Shawwâl, A.H. 1076, but that seems to be a mistake of the transcriber, since in the Bodleian copies the 20th of Shawwâl, A.H. 1073 (A.D. 1663, May 28), appears. Probably the date of the missing continuation is confounded with that of the original report, just as the title عجیبهٔ غریبه seems to be a mere mistake for فتحیّهٔ عبریّه.

Beginning: جنود نا معدود حمد ملازم حضرت مالك الملك علی الاطلاقیست کہ صف آرایان معرکهٔ الخ

A Hindûstânî translation of this work, entitled تأریخ آشام, by Mîr Bahâdur 'Alî Ḥusainî, was published at Calcutta, 1805, and a French version of the same by T. Pavie, Paris, 1845.

This copy belonged formerly to Robert Ireland, Fort William in Bengal, June 1, 1780.

No. 1724, ff. 108, ll. 15; clear and distinct Nasta'lîḳ; size, 9 in. by 5¾ in.

Another copy of the same.

Most of the headings are omitted in this copy; beginning the same as in the preceding one. In the colophon this history is styled تواریخ آشام.

Copied at Murshidâbâd in the dominion of Nawwâb Mu'taman-almulk Mubârak-aldaulah Sayyid Mubâruk 'Alîkhân Bahâdur Firúzjang; the date is the 19th of Dhû-alḳa'dah, in the twenty-second year (of whose reign is not stated).

No. 1453, ff. 92, ll. 17; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 9½ in. by 5½ in.

The same.

Muḳaddimah, on fol. 5a. Maḳâlah I, on fol. 8a; II, on fol. 14a. The last chapter, relating the death of the Khânkhânân, begins on fol. 122a. Date of composition: 20th of Shawwâl, A.H. 1073.

The copy is not dated. Bibliotheca Leydeniana.

No. 2493, ff. 129, ll. 15; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 8¾ in. by 6¼ in.

Historical extracts.

1. Extract from Firishta's Gulshan-i-Ibrâhîmî (see Nos. 291–304 in this Cat.), seventh maḳâlah, on the Sharḳî rulers of Jaunpûr (از منتخب تأریخ فرشته مقالهٔ هفتم در بیان سلطنت حکّام شرقی الخ), on fol. 1b.

2. Extracts from the preceding history of the conquest of Kûćbahâr and Âshâm (گفتار در فتح ولایت کوچ بهار..... و توجّه عساکر گیتی کشا ازآنجا بآهنگ تسخیر ملك آشام و کشایش آن ناحیت الخ), on fol. 10b.

A short sketch of the capture of the fortress of جانکام is added on fol. 72a.

No date.

No. 1572, ff. 79, ll. 17–18; careless and irregular Nasta'lîḳ, mixed with Shikasta, by different hands; size, 9½ in. by 5½ in.

Wâḳi'ât-i-'Âlamgîrî (واقعات عالمگیری).

A history of the first five years of the reign of the emperor 'Âlamgîr (A.H. 1068–1118=A.D. 1658–1707), to A.H. 1073, Ṣafar (A.D. 1662, September, October), identical with the ظفرنامهٔ عالمگیری, described in Rieu i. p. 265; comp. ii. p. 699a, and iii. p. 1083b. It concludes with a short notice on Shâhjahân's death, Rajab, A.H. 1076 (A.D. 1666, January).

The above title appears in the colophon, where (on fol. 141a) the work is wrongly ascribed, just as in Rieu's first copy, to Mîrkhân (i. e. Sayyid Mîr, brother of Shaikh Mîr Khwâfî, died A.H. 1080=A.D. 1669, 1670). The real author was 'Âḳilkhân Râzî, better known by his dîwân and several romantic mathnawîs (died A.H. 1108=A.D. 1696; see Rieu ii. loc. cit., and Bodleian Cat., Nos. 1148 and 1149). He is correctly mentioned in the colophon of the following copy.

Beginning: ابو الظفر محیی الدین محمّد اورنگ زیب بهادر عالمگیر پادشاه غازی آن قطب فلك سلطنت و جهانداری مرکز دائرهٔ عظمت و بختیاری الخ.

Dated the 9th of Jumâdâ-althânî, A.H. 1124 (first year of Jahândârshâh's reign=A.D. 1712, July 14), at Allahâbâd.

No. 212, ff. 87–141, ll. 13–18; written by different hands, partly in careless Nasta'lîḳ, partly in Shikasta; size, 9½ in. by 6 in.

Another copy of the same.

Beginning: آن قطب فلك سلطنت و جهانداری مرکز دائرهٔ عظمت الخ.

The title given to it in the colophon is the same as in the preceding copy: واقعات عالمگیری; on the fly-leaf it is styled وقائع عالمگیری. The author 'Âḳilkhân is mentioned on the last page, last line but two.

Written by Tabir 'Ali for Mir Muḥammadshâh, and finished the 7th of Jumâdâ-alawwal, A. H. 1204 (A. D. 1790, January 23).

No. 1562, ff. 80, ll. 15; large and distinct Nasta'lîḳ; size, 9⅝ in. by 6 in.

'Âlamgirnâma (عالمگيرنامه).

A history of the first ten years of the emperor 'Âlamgir's reign, to the end of Rajab, A. H. 1078 (A. D. 1668, middle of January), by Muḥammad Kâẓim bin Muḥammad Amir Munshi, who died, according to Rieu iii. p. 1083b, A. H. 1092 (A. D. 1681). The statement therefore in Morley's Cat. and elsewhere, that this work was completed in the thirty-second year of the emperor's reign, i. e. A. H. 1100, must needs be wrong. See other copies of the same work in Bodleian Cat., Nos. 243 and 244; Rieu i. p. 267; W. Morley, p. 125; J. Aumer, p. 97, etc.; comp. also Elliot, History of India, vii. p. 174 sq. It has been edited in the Bibliotheca Indica, Calcutta, 1865–1868.

Beginning:

ای داده بعقل پرتو آگاهی
شاهان زتو کامیاب شاهنشاهی
آنرا که ز کائنات برتر خواهی الخ

Copied A. H. 1131 (A. D. 1719). Collated.

No. 615, ff. 316, ll. 21; Nasta'lîḳ; illuminated frontispiece; size, 9⅝ in. by 5¼ in.

348

Another copy of the same.

This copy is about a year older than the preceding one, dated the 10th of Shawwâl, A. H. 1130 (A. D. 1718, September 6), but it is very badly written. Collated and annotated A. H. 1138 (A. D. 1725, 1726), at Shâhjahânâbâd. Beginning the same as in the preceding copy.

No. 1795, ff. 402, ll. 13–26; written for the greater part in bad Shikasta, a few leaves in Nasta'lîḳ, by different hands; size varying from 8⅞ in. by 4⅝ in. to 10½ in. by 5¾ in.

The same.

Another old, but undated copy, a little worm-eaten. The first ten leaves are later supplied, and from the Arabic paging, which begins on fol. 11a with ٢, it appears that the original copy opened immediately with 'Âlamgir's accession, and that the missing introduction was added by another hand afterwards. Collated.

No. 853, ff. 527, ll. 16–22; large and clear, but very unequal Nasta'lîḳ, by different hands; size, 12¼ in. by 7 in.

The same.

This copy is dated the 20th of Sha'bân, in the seventh year of Muḥammadshâh's reign (=A. H. 1138, A. D. 1726, April 23), by Muḥkam Singh. It is styled here, on fol. 1a: تأريخ عالمگيرى, and in the colophon: تواريخ عالمگير بادشاه.

A blank on fol. 274a.

No. 1611, ff. 334, mostly written in diagonal lines of different number; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 8¾ in. by 5 in.

351

The same.

Dated by Muḥammad Ḥusain Darwish the 8th of Rajab, in the first year of Aḥmadshâh's reign (=A. H. 1161, A. D. 1748, July 4). The proper order of ff. 384–389 is: 384, 386, 385, 388, 387, 389. No headings.

No. 3328, olim 14. J. 10, ff. 422, ll. 17; very careless Nasta'lîḳ; size, 9½ in. by 5¼ in.

The same.

A very good copy, dated the 19th of Jumâdâ-alûlâ, A. H. 1184 (Samvat, 1827=A. D. 1770, September 10).

No. 359, ff. 321, ll. 21; Nasta'lîḳ; illuminated frontispiece; size, 9⅞ in. by 5⅝ in.

The same.

No date.

No. 171, ff. 332, ll. 18–21; small, but clear Nasta'lîḳ; ff. 241–248 and 321–332 supplied by other hands; size, 10¾ in. by 5¾ in.

354

A slightly defective copy of the same.

Ff. 547, 550, 554, and 559 are very severely damaged, considerable portions of the text being torn away.

Dated in the more modern part the 10th of Rajab, in the forty-fifth year of Shâh 'Âlam's reign (=A. H. 1217, A. D. 1802, November 6). Bibliotheca Leydeniana.

No. 2600, ff. 577, ll. 17; consisting of two portions, an older and a more modern one, the latter on ff. 1–8, 16, 22, 34–37, 40, 56–175, 234–237, 513–536, 545, 546, 551, and 577; Nasta'lîḳ; illuminated frontispiece; size, 9½ in. by 5¾ in.

An incomplete copy of the same.

This copy breaks off in the middle of the sixth year of the emperor's reign with the words غسلخانه جهت دولتخانه, corresponding to No. 359 (352 in this Cat.), fol. 236a, l. 3. Besides fol. 557 is torn away. The right order of ff. 46–56 is: 46, 54, 55, 47–53, 56.

No. 881, ff. 611, ll. 15; large and distinct Nasta'lîḳ, written on white and brown paper; size, 9¾ in. by 5¾ in.

Another incomplete copy of the same.

This copy, dated A. D. 1811, is very defective at the beginning; it opens abruptly in the third year of 'Âlamgir's reign, fol. 4a, l. 3 ab infra, corresponding to No. 2600 (354 in this Cat.), fol. 276a, l. 9. It is besides rather incorrect in many places.

The fourth year of 'Âlamgîr's reign begins on fol. 56b; the fifth, on fol. 151b; the sixth, on fol. 213b; the seventh, on fol. 245b; the eighth, on fol. 265a; the ninth, on fol. 329a; and the tenth, on fol. 387b.

Bibliotheca Leydeniana.

No. 2545, ff. 444, ll. 13; very neat and distinct Nasta'lîḳ; size, 10¾ in. by 7¾ in.

A fragment of the same.

This copy contains only a small portion of the 'Âlamgîrnâma, but many headings being omitted, and no dates being found at all, it is impossible to state how far it extends; it seems to comprise only the first two or three years of the emperor's reign. Beginning as usual on fol. 4b. The first three leaves, fol. 4a, and the margin of ff. 4b–45b, as well as of ff. 143–147, and the whole of fol. 148 are filled by fragments from Muḥammad Mahdî Astarâbâdî's تاريخ جهانكشاى, or تاريخ نادرى, the history of Nâdirshâh (see Rieu i. p. 192 sq., and Bodleian Cat., Nos. 302–306), beginning: بر دانايان رموز الخ.

No. 14. J. 11, ff. 148, ll. 19; careless Nasta'lîḳ; the fragments of Nâdirshâh's history written by another still more careless hand; size, 9¾ in. by 6 in.

Lubb-altawârîkh-i-Hind (لبّ التواريخ هند).

General history of India, abridged from Firishta's famous work (see Nos. 291–304 in this Catalogue), but enlarged from other sources, and brought down to A. H. 1101 (A. D. 1689, 1690), by Râe Bindrâban, son of Râe Bhârâmal (see author's name and title, on fol. 1a, l. 4, and fol. 2a, l. 3). It begins with the reign of Shihâb-aldîn Ghûrî (A. H. 572), and goes down to the thirty-third year of that of 'Âlamgîr, to whom the work is dedicated; see Rieu i. p. 228 sq.; Bodleian Cat., No. 245; A. F. Mehren, p. 18; Elliot, History of India, vii. p. 168 sq.

The chronogram for the date of composition, viz. حالات ملك هندوستان (=A. H. 1106, A. D. 1694, 1695), is not found in this copy (see below, No. 360).

It is divided into the following ten faṣls:

1. Kings of Dihlî, on fol. 2b, beginning with Shihâb-aldîn Ghûrî.

2. Sulṭâns of the Dakhan, on fol. 129b, in six shu'bas: (a) Bahmanîs of Gulbargah, on fol. 129b; (b) 'Âdil-shâhs of Bijâpûr, on fol. 139a; (c) Niẓâmshâhs of Aḥmadnagar and Daulatâbâd, on fol. 147b; (d) Ḳuṭb-shâhs of Tiling, on fol. 158b; (e) 'Imâdshâhs of Barâr, on fol. 161b; (f) Barîdshâhs of Bidar, on fol. 162a.

3. Sulṭâns of Gujarât, on fol. 163a.

4. Rulers of Mâlwah and Mandû, on fol. 173a.

5. Fârûḳî-Sulṭâns of Burhânpûr and Âsîr, or Khândîs, on fol. 180b.

6. Sulṭâns of Bangâlah, on fol. 184b.

7. Sharḳî-rulers of Jaunpûr, on fol. 188b.

8. Rulers of Sind, on fol. 190b.

9. Rulers of Multân, on fol. 192a.

10. Rulers of Kashmîr, on fol. 192b.

Beginning: بادشاهى بيزوال مر خدايراست جلّ جلاله و عمّ نواله الخ.

Dated the 24th of Muḥarram, in the forty-second year of 'Âlamgîr's reign, =A. H. 1110 (A. D. 1698, August 2), only four years after the completion of the work.

No. 3050, ff. 193, ll. 14–17; Shikasta; size, 9¾ in. by 5¾ in.

Another copy of the same.

Beginning as in the preceding copy. Author's name on fol. 1b, l. 4; date (A. H. 1101) on fol. 1b, l. 5; title on fol. 2a, l. 9. The chronogram at the end (fol. 160b) appears here in a mutilated and consequently useless form, as حالات هندوستان.

Faṣl I, on fol. 2b; II, in six shu'bas: (a) on fol. 100a; (b) on fol. 107b, last line; (c) on fol. 114b; (d) on fol. 124a; (e) on fol. 126b; (f) on fol. 127a; III, on fol. 128a; IV, on fol. 137a; V, on fol. 145a; VI, on fol. 149b; VII, on fol. 155a; VIII, on fol. 157a; IX, on fol. 158b, last line; X, on fol. 159b.

Dated by Muḥammad Jalâl-aldîn, the 4th of Dhû-alḥijjah, A. H. 1131 (the first year of Muḥammadshâh's reign)=A. D. 1719, October 18.

This copy belonged formerly to Mr. Richard Johnson.

No. 1127, ff. 160, ll. 20; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 10¾ in. by 6¾ in.

360

The same.

This copy is dated the 17th of Muḥarram, A. H. 1156 (twenty-fifth year of Muḥammadshâh's reign=A. D. 1743, March 13), at Shâhjahânâbâd. Collated the 24th of Ṣafar in the same year. Another collation was completed the 17th of Dhû-alḳa'dah, A. H. 1195 (A. D. 1781, November 4), at Ḥaidarâbâd in the Dakhan.

The ten faṣls are found here: 1. on fol. 71b; 2. in six shu'bas, on fol. 192a; 3. on fol. 226b; 4. on fol. 236a; 5. on fol. 243a; 6. on fol. 247b; 7. on fol. 251b; 8. on fol. 253a; 9. on fol. 255a; 10. on fol. 255b.

Author's name and title on fol. 70b, ll. 3 and 4, and fol. 71a, l. 7. The full chronogram, حالات ملك هندوستان, on the last page. As title to this work is given here, on fol. 70a: تواريخ لبّ اللباب, and in the colophon: لبّ اللباب.

No. 1606, ff. 70–257, ll. 14–18, many pages written in diagonal lines; Shikasta; size, 8½ in. by 4¾ in.

An extract from the same.

A select portion of the first faṣl of the Lubb-altawârîkh-i-Hind, comprising the history of the emperors of Dihlî from Bâbar's birth in A. H. 888=A. D. 1483 (so to be read instead of 988 on fol. 2a, l. 9) to A. H. 1096=A. D. 1685 (see fol. 80a, last line), with a fragment of the history of Siwâi or Siwâjî, the famous Marattah prince of the Bhoslah family, beginning on fol. 81a.

Beginning of this extract, on fol. 1b: از منتخب رای بندرابن این رای بهارو مل که از مفصّل تاریخ فرشته مجمل بر داشته مجملی از آن مجمل بطریق الخ.

Bâbar's accession in A. H. 899 (A. D. 1494) is related on fol. 2b, l. 2.

No. 2966, ff. 83, ll. 13; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 8¾ in. by 4¾ in.

Khulâṣat-altawârikh (خلاصة التواريخ).

General history of India, from the earliest times to the death of Dârâ Shukûh and the accession of 'Âlamgîr, completed in the fortieth year of that emperor's reign, A. H. 1107 (A. D. 1695), by the Hindû Sujân Singh Munshî (or, as his usual name runs, Sujân Râi Munshî); comp. Rieu i. p. 230; Bodleian Cat., No. 246; W. Morley, pp. 69–71; Elliot, History of India, viii. p. 5 sq.; Garcin de Tassy, Hist. de la littérat. hind. etc. i. 31; Journal Asiat., 1854, tom. 3, p. 366; J. Aumer, p. 84.

Beginning: نقّاش نگارخانهٔ کائنات و مصوّر کارگاه ممکنات چون اقتضای آن کرد الخ.

After the preface and an enumeration of the authorities on which this history is based, an account of the Hindûs begins on fol. 6a; after that follows a description of the different Ṣûbas or provinces of India on fol. 16b, and a history of the Hindû Râjahs on fol. 57a.

The history of the Muḥammadan dynasties begins, on fol. 102b, with Nâṣir-aldîn Sabuktagîn of Ghazna, and goes down to 'Âlamgîr. A short account of the emperor's death in A. H. 1118 (A. D. 1707) was added by the author many years afterwards.

On ff. 328a–342b there appears the further addition of a short compendium of local Indian history, consisting mostly of lists of rulers from the early Râjahs to the forty-second year of 'Âlamgîr's reign, A. H. 1109 (A. D. 1697, 1698), in which year this appendix appears to have been drawn up.

The whole work is dated the 10th of Dhû-alḥijjah, A. H. 1216 (A. D. 1802, April 13).

No. 1657, ff. 342, ll. 19; different handwriting, partly in Nasta'lîḳ, partly in Shikasta; size, 11¾ in. by 6¾ in.

The same.

A still more modern copy of the Khulâṣat-altawârikh, by Munshî Sujân Râi (so distinctly written here in the colophon), made by Nadhar Muḥammad, A. H. 1271 = Samvat, 1911 = A. D. 1854. An English note prefixed to this MS. and signed by C. Raikes, Commissioner and Superintendent, states that it was sent to the Imperial Exhibition at Paris for works of art and industry by the Punjab Committee at Lahore. The copy was received into the library from Dr. Royle, July, 1856.

Contents:

Preface, on fol. 1b, beginning as in the preceding copy.

Title, on fol. 4b, l. 4.

Account of the Hindûs, on fol. 7b.

Description of the Ṣûbas of Hindûstân, on fol. 18a.

Hindû Râjahs, on fol. 61a.

Muḥammadan dynasties, beginning with Sabuktagîn, on fol. 117b; 'Âlamgîr, on fol. 335a.

Both the short account of 'Âlamgîr's death, and the compendium of the local histories of India, are wanting here.

No. 3242, ff. 369, ll. 17; clear and distinct Nasta'lîḳ; large illuminated frontispiece; the first two pages prettily adorned with gold borders round each line; size, 12¾ in. by 8¼ in.

A fragment of the same.

The first part of the Khulâṣat-altawârikh, comprising about a third of the whole, that is, the introduction, the account of the Hindûs (on fol. 55b), the description of the Ṣûbas of India (on fol. 71b), and the history of the Hindû Râjahs (on fol. 129a). At the end a list of the Muḥammadan dynasties down to 'Âlamgîr. Beginning as in the preceding copies.

No date.

No. 3051, ff. 47–186, ll. 10–13; Shikasta; size, 8¾ in. by 5¾ in.

Maâthir-i-'Âlamgirî (مآثر عالمگيری).

A history of the full reign of the emperor 'Âlamgîr, from A. H. 1067 to his death in A. H. 1118, completed by Muḥammad Sâḳî Musta'iddkhân (who died A. H. 1136 = A. D. 1724), A. H. 1122 (A. D. 1710); comp. Bodleian Cat., No. 247; Rieu i. p. 270, and iii. p. 1083b; W. Morley, p. 127; A. F. Mehren, p. 22; Elliot, History of India, vii. p. 181 sq., etc.

It consists of two unequal parts, the first of which, on ff. 1b–25a, comprises the first ten years of the emperor's reign, and is a mere abridgment of Muḥammad Kâẓim's 'Âlamgîrnâma (see Nos. 347–357 in this Cat.). The second part is Muḥammad Sâḳî's own work, and contains the history of the last forty years of 'Âlamgîr's reign. The work has been edited in the Bibliotheca Indica, Calcutta, 1870–1871.

Beginning of the first part, on fol. 1b: انتخاب صحائف ایجاد انس وجان والتقاط لطائف انشاء کون و مکان الخ.

Beginning of the second part, on fol. 25b: لله الحمد فی الاولی والاخرة خامه بد بیرایش حمد جهان آفرینی الخ.

This copy was finished the 25th of Rabî'-althânî, in the twenty-third year of Muḥammadshâh's reign, A. H. 1154 (A. D. 1741, July 10). Purchased from the executors of the Marquess of Hastings.

No. 3152, ff. 169, ll. 18; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 9½ in. by 5½ in.

Another copy of the same.

Beginning the same. The second part commences here on fol. 39b. No date. Fol. 5 and many of the following leaves, especially in the second half, slightly damaged. On fol. 1a this work is styled تاريخ عالمگيری.

No. 217, ff. 325, ll. 15; careless Nasta'lîḳ; size, 9½ in. by 5¼ in.

The same.

Another quite modern copy of the same work, dated the 20th of Jumâdâ-alawwal, A. H. 1211 (A. D. 1796, November 21).

Beginning of the first part, on fol. 1b: انتخاب صحائف ایجاد انس و جان الخ.

Beginning of the second part, on fol. 31a: لله الحمد فی الاوّل و الآخر خامه بد پیرایش الخ.

Bibliotheca Leydeniana.

No. 2434, ff. 251, ll. 17; very clear and distinct Nasta'lîḳ; size, 11¼ in. by 7⅝ in.

368

A defective copy of the same.

Beginning of the first part, on fol. 1b; of the second, on fol. 32b: لله الحمد فی الاولی و الآخرة الخ.

It breaks off in the middle of the forty-fifth year of 'Âlamgîr's reign, A. H. 1113.

No. 1455, ff. 197, ll. 17; Nasta'lîḳ, by different hands on various paper; size, 9 in. by 4⅝ in.

Extracts from the same.

These extracts from the Maâthir-i-'Âlamgîri contain the history of the proceedings in the Dakhan during the emperor's reign, styled in the colophon: وقائع دکهن عهد عالمگیری, and beginning: جهت اندائی بر آستان سپاس اندائی الخ.

Dated the 12th of Rabî'-alawwal, in the seventeenth year of Muḥammadshâh's reign, A. H. 1148 (A. D. 1735, August 2), at Aḥmadâbâd.

No. 1981, ff. 62, ll. 15–18; Shikasta; size, 8¼ in. by 4⅝ in.

Letters.

Copies of official letters, all written in the thirty-ninth and fortieth years of 'Âlamgîr's reign (A. H. 1107 and 1108=A. D. 1695–1697), and received from Sûrat, A. D. 1698. The library received them from the Register Office, August 24, 1821. After fol. 7 one leaf appears to be torn out. Ff. 24b–27a and 35b–38b are left blank.

No. 150, ff. 65, ll. 15; Shikasta; size, 12¼ in. by 7⅝ in.

Âdâb-i-'Âlamgîri (آداب عالمگیری).

State papers, documents, and letters written in 'Âlamgîr's name by the Munshi-almamâlik Shaikh Abû-alfatḥ, with the honourable title of Ḳâbilkhân, and collected by Ṣâdiḳ Muṭṭalibi (died the first day of A. H. 1129=A. D. 1716, December 16) at the request of his son, Muḥammad Zamân. The date of this collection is A. H. 1115 (chronogram: گل از باغ جان)=A. D. 1703, 1704; comp. the fuller description of the contents of this work in Rieu i. p. 399 sq., and Elliot, History of India, vii. p. 205. The majority of these letters belong to the time of Aurangzîb's minority.

Beginning: خداوند علیم حکیم خرد بخش سخن آفرین را بکدام مرتبه سخن‌وری ستایش کنم الخ.

Dated the 17th of Jumâdâ-alawwal, A. H. 1151 (A. D. 1738, September 2), in Muḥammadshâh's reign, at Shâhjahânâbâd.

No. 1675, ff. 408, ll. 21–23; written by many different hands in Nasta'lîḳ and Shikasta; size, 11 in. by 6½ in.

Another copy of the same.

Beginning the same.

Dated the 12th of Rajab, A. H. 1184 (A. D. 1770, November 1), by رام کول, at Lucknow, in Shâh 'Âlam's reign.

No. 2942, ff. 188, ll. 16–22, written in a very rough and unequal way by many different hands in Nasta'lîḳ and Shikasta; size, 11¼ in. by 7 in.

Kalimât-i-ṭayyibât (کلمات طیّبات).

Another collection of notes and orders, issued by the emperor 'Âlamgîr and edited A. H. 1131 (A. D. 1719) by his favourite secretary 'Inâyat-allâh, who died A. H. 1139 (A. D. 1726, 1727); see Bodleian Cat., Nos. 248–251; Rieu i. p. 401, and iii. p. 1087b; Elliot, History of India, vii. p. 203.

Beginning: الهی از قلم شکسته و زبان خسته چه آید کہ سپاس و ستایش جناب کبریا الخ.

No date. According to Rieu i. p. 401b this collection is contained in the رقعات عالمگیر, or رقعات عالمگیری, edited Lucknow, A. H. 1260, and Lahore, A. H. 1281; but it must be noticed that there exist also two special collections of letters with the same particular title of 'Ruḳa'ât-i-'Âlamgîri,' different from the Kalimât-i-ṭayyibât; see Bodleian Cat., No. 252; Rieu ii. p. 801 (comp. i. p. 401, where a very similar collection is noticed under the title of رمز و اشارهای عالمگیری); J. Aumer, p. 96; and No. 379 in this Cat.

No. 1594, ff. 51–160, ll. 11; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 8¼ in. by 5¼ in.

Another, but much shorter copy of the same.

Beginning as in the preceding copy. No date.

No. 1761, ff. 39–87, 10 diagonal lines in a page; Shikasta; size, 8¼ in. by 4 in.

Raḳâ'im-i-karâ'im (رقائم کرائم).

A third collection of letters by 'Âlamgîr, mostly written to Amirkhân (who died soon after A. H. 1131=A. D. 1719), and collected after Amirkhân's death by his son Sayyid Ashrafkhân Mîr Muḥammad al-Ḥusainî; see Bodleian Cat., No. 253; Rieu i. p. 400; Elliot, History of India, vii. p. 204.

Beginning: سخن جان است و دیگر گفتگو جانا زمن بشنو الخ.

The names both of the collector Ashrafkhân and of his father Amirkhân appear on fol. 1b, last three lines.

This copy, which is the most extensive among those of the رقائم كرائم in the India Office Library, is not dated; it belongs to the twelfth century of the Hijrah. The title on the inside of the binding, 'Rukat Alemgiri,' is incorrect.

No. 3021, ff. 53, ll. 15; large and distinct Nasta'lîḳ; size, 8½ in. by 6½ in.

Another copy of the same.

Beginning as in the preceding copy. No date.

No. 1594, ff. 1–50b, ll. 11; large and distinct Nasta'lîḳ; size, 8½ in. by 5¼ in.

A much shorter copy of the same.

Beginning as usual. Dated the 24th of Shawwâl, A. H. 1154 (Samvat, 1798)=A. D. 1742, January 2. The copy belonged formerly to Mr. Richard Johnson.

No. 3388, olim 14. J. 14, ff. 41b–68, ll. 15–16; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 8 in. by 4¾ in.

The same.

The beginning of this copy is quite different from that in all the preceding copies, viz.:

برتر از خورشید شد کار سخن ـ شب ندارد روز بازار سخن

The name of the collector, Sayyid Ashrafkhân Mîr Muḥammad alḥusainî, appears on fol. 1b, first line. The notes are called ارشاد.

No date.

No. 1761, ff. 1–38, 10 diagonal lines in a page; Shikasta; size, 8½ in. by 4 in.

Ruḳa'ât-i-'Âlamgîrî (رقعات عالمگیری).

A fourth collection of short notes and orders of 'Âlamgîr, different from those in J. Aumer, p. 96, and the Bodleian Cat., No. 252, which bear the same title; comp. also Rieu ii. p. 801.

Beginning: الحمد لله و الصلوة على عباده الذين اصطفى ورضا چند وصیّت دارد اوّل آنکه این عاصی الخ.

The copy belonged formerly to Mr. Richard Johnson.

No. 3389, olim 14. J. 14, ff. 1–40, ll. 12; large Nasta'lîḳ; size, 8 in. by 4¾ in.

Dastûr-al'amal-i-Âgâhî (دستور العمل آگاهی).

A fifth collection of notes and letters of 'Âlamgîr to his father Shâhjahân, his sons, officials, and servants, collected A. H. 1156 (here wrongly called the twenty-ninth year of Muḥammadshâh's reign)=A. D. 1743; see another copy in Rieu i. p. 402.

Beginning: بعد حمد ربّ العالمين و نعت خاتم المرسلين ..... بر ضمير صيرفيان سخن و جوهر شناسان اين فنّ الخ.

The last of the collection is the well-known 'last will' (وصیّت نامه) of the emperor.

No date.

No. 1344, ff. 51, ll. 15; Shikasta; size, 7¾ in. by 5¾ in.

381

The same.

Part of the same collection, as it seems, styled in the colophon رسالهٔ دستور العمل, or مجموعهٔ رقعات عالمگير اورنگزيب, and beginning: بفرزند زادهٔ حافظ قرآن عظيم قرين عريضه كند بعضي كارهاى ملكى الخ.

No date.

No. 3301, olim 14. J. 12, ff. 1–32, ll. 11–18; Shikasta; size, 10 in. by 5¼ in.

382

The same.

Another part of the same collection, as it seems, styled in the colophon كلمات اورنگزيب, and beginning abruptly thus: درينصورت تجلّى عظيم در كار جهانداری راه ميبابد وروز قيامت الخ.

No. 3301, olim 14. J. 12, ff. 33–60, ll. 12–16; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 10 in. by 5¼ in.

Letters of 'Âlamgîr to his second son, prince Muḥammad A'żamshâh, probably selected from the foregoing collections, in all of which he comes in for the largest share of notes, beginning: فرزند سعادت توأم شاه اعظم حفظ الله الخ; comp. Bodleian Cat., No. 254.

This collection is incomplete, and breaks off in the middle of a letter on fol. 32b.

No. 3337, olim 14. J. 13, ff. 1–32, ll. 13; unequal Nasta'lîḳ; size, 9¾ in. by 5¾ in.

The main portion of this very uncouth and often illegible MS. contains a series of notes and letters of the emperor 'Âlamgîr, chiefly to his son, prince A'żamshâh (see the preceding collection), to Dhû-alfaḳârkhân, and others, beginning, on fol. 4a: شقّههای دستخطّ خاصّ پادشاه عالم گير به ذو الفقارخان الخ.

This portion comprises ff. 4–10, 3, and 11–56a, and is dated the 23rd of Ṣafar, A. H. 1193 (A. D. 1779, March 12). It is followed, on ff. 56a–68b, by a short historical piece (from Mîr Ghulâm Ḥusainkhân's سير المتأخّرين, as it seems; see below, Nos. 416–421 in this Cat.), entitled: حقيقت نادرشاهی از غلام حسين خان, dated likewise A. H. 1193, the 5th of Rabí'-alawwal (A. D. 1779, March 23).

On ff. 1 and 2 are fragments from the نامهٔ عمدة الملك بهادر بنام حسين دوست خان, in mathnawí-baits ('Umdat-almulk Anwar-aldínkhán Muḥammad 'Alí was Nawwáb of the Carnatic A. H. 1162–1210 = A. D. 1749–1795); on ff. 69a–84a various miscellanies: 1. extracts from Amír Khusrau's poetry; 2. a Hindústání mathnawí, styled نادرنامه (Nádirnáma), on ff. 71a–78b, with the date of composition A. H. 1152 (A. D. 1739, 1740); 3. a few ghazals by Dhaukí (see A. Sprenger, Catal., p. 389), fragmentary letters, and other pieces in prose and verse, and on ff. 82b–84a a نامهٔ حسين دوست خان بنوّاب عمدة الملك بهادر, again in mathnawí-baits; a reply to the poetical letter on ff. 1 and 2.

No. 3108, ff. 84, ll. 9–13, at the beginning and end in diagonal lines, written by different hands in Shikasta; size, 6¼ in. by 3¼ in.

Bahádurshâhnáma (بهادرشاهنامه).

A detailed history of the first two years of the reign of Bahádurshâh, the second son of 'Álamgír (who reigned A. H. 1119–1124 = A. D. 1707–1712), by Mirzá Núr-aldín Muḥammad, generally known as Ní'matkhán, with the takhallus 'Álí, and the honorary titles of Muḳarrabkhán and Dánishmandkhán, who died A. H. 1122 (A. D. 1710); see Bodleian Cat., No. 256; Rieu i. pp. 268 and 272; iii. p. 1049b; Elliot, History of India, vii. p. 568; J. Aumer, p. 97.

Beginning: بسم الله الرّحمٰن الرّحيم' دست برآورد بجود كريم' ناز و نعيم دو جهان در كفش' خلق ازل تا بابد مصرفش' افسر سلطان سخن حمد مالك المملكت كه سرير الخ.

No date. Entries of A. H. 1196 and 1197 (A. D. 1782 and 1783) on fol. 1a. Most headings throughout the text are left blank.

No. 1942, ff. 196, ll. 17; Nasta'líḳ, written by different hands; size, 10½ in. by 5¾ in.

The same.

The same history in a rather abridged form, beginning: افسر سلطان سخن حمد ملك الملكيست كه سرير شهنشاهش بجواهر كلمات الخ.

Copied A. H. 1195 (A. D. 1781), by Muḥammad Ja'far Rif'atí, in the army of the Nawwáb Bahádur.

No. 3391, olim 14. J. 19, ff. 54–107, ll. 15; Nasta'líḳ; size, 7¼ in. by 4¾ in.

The same.

The same abridged edition of the Bahádurshâhnáma as the previous copy, but beginning like No. 1942:

بسم الله الرّحمٰن الرّحيم - دست برآورد بجود كريم - ناز و نعيم دو جهان در كفش - خلق ازل تا بابد مصرفش - افسر سلطان سخن حمد الخ

Dated the 10th of Shawwál, A. H. 1217 (A. D. 1803, February 3), at Sarírangpatan. Presented by J. H. Peile, Esq., and received September 19, 1818; transferred to Civil Coll., August 9, 1819.

No. 3392, olim 14. J. 20, ff. 69, ll. 11; Nasta'líḳ; size, 7¼ in. by 5¼ in.

Farrukhnáma (فرّخ نامه).

A special history of A. H. 1124 and 1125 (A. D. 1712 and 1713), that is, from Bahádurshâh's death to the successful establishment of Farrukhsiyar's reign, in the form of eighteen stories (داستان) dealing with the struggles of Bahádurshâh's sons, by Shaikh Muḥammad Mun'im Ja'farábádí, who published this book at the special request of the Ḳuṭb-alaḳṭáb Shâh Shukr-alláh; see fol. 1b, last line but one, and fol. 2a, last line.

Beginning: سپاس بيقياس قادری را كه از آب سيوف شاهان كرام الخ.

Occasionally explanatory notes on the margin. There is a great want of correctness in the dates, for instance, in the very beginning of the first dástán Bahádurshâh's death is fixed in A. H. 1123 (!), 20th of Muḥarram.

Dated by Shaikh Khair-alláh 'Abbásí, the 24th of Rabí'-alawwal, in the fourth year of Farrukhshâh's reign (A. H. 1128 = A. D. 1716, March 18). A special history of the same eventful years, similar to, but not identical with this work, is described by Rieu i. p. 273, under the title of Farrukhsiyarnáma, and ascribed to Mír Muḥammad Aḥsan Íjád.

No. 1876, ff. 114, ll. 13–14; irregularly written in careless Nasta'líḳ and Shikasta; some of the last pages in diagonal lines; worm-eaten; size, 8¾ in. by 4¾ in.

Ta'rikh-i-Irádatkhán (تأريخ ارادتخان).

The memoirs of Mirzá Mubárak-alláh, with the takhalluṣ Wáḍiḥ, and the honorary title of Irádatkhán, son of Kifáyatkhán Shikasta Nawís (مبارك الله متخلّص بواضح ولد مغفرت نشان كفايتخان شكسته نويس), who also bore the title of Irádatkhán (Irádatkhán-i-Shâhjahání, to distinguish him from his son Irádatkhán-i-'Álamgírí), on the principal events during the seven years from 'Álamgír's death, A. H. 1118, to the entrance of Farrukhsiyar into Dihlí in Muḥarram, A. H. 1125 (A. D. 1713, February), completed A. H. 1126 (A. D. 1714), when the author was sixty-seven years old; see fol. 1b, ll. 7 and 8, fol. 2b, l. 6, and fol. 90a, lin. penult.; comp. Rieu iii. p. 938, and Elliot, History of India, vii. p. 534 sq. An abridged English translation was published by J. Scott, London, 1780.

Beginning: تمهيد نگارش يافتن اين سوانح و وقائع كه جامع آن ميرزا مبارك الله واضح تخلّص مخاطب بارادتخان ولد كفايتخان شكسته نويس مشهوراست و آنچه ديده در تحرير كشيد' الحمد لمن يقول فی حقّ كلامه فأتوا بسورة من مثله و الصلوة والسلام على من نطق بالنطق انا افصح الخ.

This work is wrongly styled, on fol. 1a: واقعات عالمگیری من تصنیف مبارك الله الخ.

No date. It was presented to the library by Lieut.-Col. W. Kirkpatrick, May 30, 1804.

No. 50, ff. 1–90, ll. 16; clear Nasta'lîḳ; illuminated frontispiece; size, 9¼ in. by 5½ in.

Another copy of the same.

Beginning: الحمد لمن یقول فی حق کلامه الخ.

After the preface there follows here, on ff. 3b–4b, an index of the work, and on fol. 6a the real beginning of the history: ابتدای تحریر کلمات چون بهنگام تغیّر صوده داری الخ, corresponding to fol. 3a, l. 4 ab infra, in the preceding copy. The title given to it here is تواریخ بهادرشاه.

This copy (not dated) was transcribed from the original in the possession of the king of Dihlî.

No. 3139, ff. 163, ll. 17; large Nasta'lîḳ; two illuminated frontispieces on ff. 1b and 6a; binding red with gold; size, 11¼ in. by 6¼ in.

'Ibratnâma (عبرتنامه).

The first volume (دفتر اوّل), or at least portions of the first volume, of the 'Ibratnâma, by Kâmrâj, son of Nain Singh of the Kâyath tribe, who, like his father and forefathers, was in the Imperial service, and personally attached to the unfortunate emperor A'ẓamshâh, of whose short-lived reign he wrote, as tribute of his gratitude, a detailed and circumstantial history, the اعظم الحرب (described in Rieu iii. p. 937). The present work is of a later date, and of a wider import. It gives the history of India from A.H. 1118 to 1131 (A.D. 1707–1719), that is, from the accession of the same A'ẓamshâh, who was defeated by Bahâdurshâh the 18th of Rabî'-alawwal, A.H. 1119 (A.D. 1707, June 19), to the elevation of prince Rûshan Akhtar to the Imperial throne, under the title of Muḥammadshâh. There is no introduction; the book begins, on fol. 9a, immediately with the story of A'ẓamshâh and his accession, the 18th of Dhû-alḥijjah, A.H. 1118 (A.D. 1707, March 23).

First heading, on fol. 9a: گفتار میمنت آثار سریر آرائی پادشاه سلیمان جاه آفتاب عالمتاب همای ظفر طرازی رونق افزای افسر سری وسر افرازی ابو النصر قطب الدین شاه عالم پادشاه غازی بر ممالك موروثیٔ هندوستان جنّت نشان بکرم و فضل ایزد متّان.

A complete index, styled فهرست مطالب عبرتنامه, on ff. 1b–8b.

Dated the 24th of Muḥarram, A.H. 1183 (A.D. 1769, May 30), the ninth year (sic! correctly the tenth year) of Shâh 'Âlam's reign, by Sayyid Fikr-allâh, who copied it by order of Maulawîṣâḥib Muḥammad Aslamṣâḥib.

No. 1534, ff. 71, ll. 19: Nasta'lîḳ; size, 9¼ in. by 5½ in.

392

'Ibratnâma (عبرتنامه).

Another history with the same title, dealing like the preceding one with the first successors of 'Âlamgîr from A.H. 1118 down to the death of Farrukhsiyar, A.H. 1131, by Mirzâ Muḥammad bin Mu'tamadkhân bin Diyânatkhân, who was born, according to the preface on fol. 92a, ll. 5 and 6, in Jalâlâbâd, the 21st of Jumâdâ I, in the thirtieth year of 'Âlamgîr's reign, which is A.H. 1098 (A.D. 1687, April 4) and not 1070, as it is called by mistake here; comp. Rieu iii. p. 895, where a larger work of his, the تأریخ محمّدی, is described (completed A.H. 1190=A.D. 1776). He entered the emperor's service A.H. 1115, the 25th of Jumâdâ II (A.D. 1703, November 5), and lost his father Mu'tamadkhân, sixty-nine years old, the 18th of Jumâdâ II, A.H. 1117 (A.D. 1705, October 7). In the preface the author speaks of his former life and of the last three years of 'Âlamgîr's reign. On fol. 93a he gives an account of the emperor's death, and on fol. 94a he begins the history of Bahâdurshâh. A title does not occur, but the author calls himself very often راقم این عبرتنامه.

Beginning: الحمد لله علی الطافه و افضاله و صلّی الله علی محمّد و علی آله و اصحابه اجمعین' امّا بعد چنین گوید بندهٔ امیدوار رحمت پروردگار میرزا محمّد الخ.

No date.

No. 50, ff. 91–224, ll. 16; Nasta'lîḳ; illuminated frontispiece; size, 9¼ in. by 5½ in.

393

A third history of the reigns of Bahâdurshâh and Farrukhsiyar, A.H. 1118–1131, with an account of subsequent events, from Muḥammadshâh's accession to the overthrow of the Sayyids in A.H. 1133 (A.D. 1721), by a native of Lâhûr, who in consequence of bad luck was obliged to leave his home and his business and to go to Dihlî. But the affairs of the realm under Farrukhsiyar being in great confusion he struggled very long to get employment, until at last he gained the favour of the Wazîr Nawwâb Ḥusain 'Alî Khân's dîwân, Ṣûrat Singh and his son. At their request, supported by their friends, he wrote this history, which is styled, on fol. 1a, rather incorrectly, تأریخ فرّخ سیر (no title appearing in the work itself), and dedicated it to his patron. It begins, on fol. 10b, with the death of the emperor 'Âlamgîr. The author does not disclose his name.

Beginning: حمد بیعدّ و ثنای خداوند کارساز حقیقی را که سلطان روح انسان را از کتم عدم الخ.

A short account of the contents of this work in English is given on the margin, particularly of the first thirty-two leaves, together with some explanations and paraphrases of Persian words, probably by William

Chambers, to whom this copy formerly belonged. Another copy of the same work is described in Rieu i. p. 273. No date.

No. 252, ff. 189, ll. 13; Nasta'lîk, by two different hands, the second beginning on fol. 145a; size, 8¼ in. by 6½ in.

Haft Gulshan (هفت گلشن).

An autograph of Muḥammad Hâdî Kâmwarkhân's compendium of Indian history, especially of the minor dynasties, whilst the later portions of the history of Dihlî and the Moghul emperors are very short, written by the author in A.H. 1136, and finished in the month Muḥarram of that year = A.D. 1723, October. In Rieu iii. p. 908 and in Elliot's History of India, viii. pp. 13–16 (in both of which the fuller title, هفت گلشن محمّد شاهی, is given), the date of this book's composition is fixed in A.H. 1132 (A.D. 1720), and to that year the history of Dihlî is really brought down (not to Bâbar only, as in Rieu's and Elliot's MSS.), our copy obviously being a somewhat later and revised edition, for the author enumerates in the preface the three works which he had undertaken to write, viz. گلدستهٔ سعادت, a history of Muḥammad, the first Khalîfs, Imâms, Saints, and Shaikhs, compiled A.H. 1133 = A.D. 1720, 1721 (chronogram: گلدستهٔ سعادت لایزال; هفت گلشن, which we have got here; and تذکرهٔ السلاطین چغتا, a more detailed history of the Moghul emperors down to Muḥammadshâh, see the immediately following copy; this last work the author states here to have commenced in A.H. 1135 (A.D. 1722, 1723).

Contents:

First Gulshan, in three gulbuns: 1. Kings of Dihlî, on fol. 12b; 2. Sharḳî-kings of Jaunpûr, on fol. 164a; 3. Kings of Mâlwah, on fol. 170b.

Second Gulshan, in two gulbuns: 1. Kings of Gujarât, on fol. 193a; 2. Kings of Khândîsh, on fol. 223b.

Third Gulshan, in one gulbun: Kings of Bangâlah, on fol. 231b.

Fourth Gulshan, in six gulbuns: 1. Bahmanî Sulṭâns in the Dakhan, on fol. 238b; 2. 'Âdilshâhs of Bijâpûr, on fol. 277b; 3. Niẓâmshâhs of Aḥmadnagar, on fol. 306a; 4. Kuṭbshâhs of Ḥaidarâbâd, on fol. 322a; 5. 'Imâdshâhs of Barâr, on fol. 327b; 6. Barîdshâhs of Bîdar, on fol. 329b.

Fifth Gulshan, in two gulbuns: 1. Jâmîs of Sind, on fol. 332b; 2. Rulers of Multân, on fol. 335a.

Sixth Gulshan, in one gulbun: Rulers of Kashmîr, on fol. 339a.

Seventh Gulshan, in one gulbun: History of Muḥammad, the first Khalîfs, Imâms, and holy persons, on fol. 358b. This part is only indicated by its heading—the history itself is found, as the author repeats, in his other work: گلدستهٔ سعادت. The Gulshan on the saints and holy personages of Hindûstân, which is described as the seventh in Rieu and Elliot, is not found anywhere in this copy.

Written in Shâhjahânâbâd by the author, A.H. 1136.

Beginning: آیات توحید و بیّنات تمجید او سبحانه و تعالی و تقدّس از غایت وضوح محتاج الخ.

No. 1548, ff. 359, ll. 15; clear Nasta'lîḳ; size, 9¾ in. by 6 in.

Tadhkirat-alsalâṭîn-i-Caghatâ (تذکرهٔ السلاطین چغتا).

A large portion of the very scarce second volume of the same Muḥammad Hâdî Kâmwarkhân's later work, the general history of the Indian branch of the Timûrides down to the seventh year of Muḥammadshâh's reign (A.H. 1137, 1138 = A.D. 1724, 1725); comp. Rieu i. p. 274, and iii. pp. 924 and 1084a; W. Morley, p. 99; Elliot, History of India, viii. pp. 17–20; Nassau Lees, Materials, p. 469. This fragment begins with the third year of Shâhjahân's reign, A.H. 1039 (A.D. 1630), and breaks off with the second year of Muḥammadshâh's reign, A.H. 1132. As there is no preface or conclusion, there is consequently no author's name or title found anywhere, but a comparison of the extract on Bahâdurshâh's death, given in English translation in the History of India, viii. p. 19, with fol. 316a, lin. penult. sq. of this MS., proves beyond doubt its identity with the تذکرهٔ السلاطین چغتا (commenced, according to the preceding copy, A.H. 1135).

Beginning, on fol. 1b: سال سیوم از جلوس علیحضرت چون در ابتدای این سال فرخنده فال الخ.

'Âlamgîr's reign begins on fol. 79b, but is incomplete; it breaks off in the twenty-first year (A.H. 1088, 1089 = A.D. 1678), and is immediately followed (on fol. 154b) by the account of A'ẓamshâh's accession (ذکر جلوس پادشاهزادهٔ عالیجاه محمّد اعظمشاه بر سریر سلطنت). The first year of Bahâdurshâh's reign begins on fol. 162b; the first year of Muḥammadshâh's reign, on fol. 238b. The right order of ff. 166–327 is: 166, 247–326, 167–246, and 327. This copy came from Farrukhâbâd, A.H. 1197 (A.D. 1783). On the back appears the title: 'Ma'âsir-i-Jahangirî,' by a very peculiar mistake, which finds its explanation on the fly-leaf in this note: کتاب تأریخ کامگارخان حسینی. The author's name Kâmwar had been confounded with Kâmgâr, and since the latter, viz. Kâmgâr Ḥusainî (who died A.H. 1050 = A.D. 1640, 1641), is the author of the مآثر جهانگیری (see No. 324 above), the latter title has been wrongly assigned to this MS. It was purchased from the executors of the Marquess of Hastings.

No. 3151, ff. 328, ll. 15; excellent Nasta'lîḳ; splendid binding in red and gold; size, 9¼ in. by 6 in.

Muntakhab-i-Lubâb (منتخب لباب).

A complete copy of the second volume of Muḥammad Hâshim 'Alîkhân, commonly called Khâfîkhân or rather Khwâfîkhân's Muntakhab-i-Lubâb, containing the history of the Timûrides in India from Bâbar to Muḥammadshâh, and completely agreeing with the copy described in Rieu i. pp. 232 and 233; see also Bodleian Cat., Nos. 259–261; W. Morley, p. 100 sq.; Nassau Lees, Materials, p. 465; Elliot, History of India, vii. pp. 211–533. It was not completed before A. H. 1143 or 1144 (A. D. 1731), and the author died probably in the same year, 1144. Edited in the Bibliotheca Indica, Calcutta, 1868–1874.

Contents:

Complete index, on ff. 4b–11b. Beginning of the preface, on fol. 12b: جهان جهان شکر و سپاس افزون از قیاس الخ.

Introduction (مقدّمه) on the origin of the Timûrides, and the life of Timûr and his descendants, on fol. 12b, l. 4 ab infra.

Bâbar, on fol. 15b; Humâyûn, on fol. 25b; Shîrshâh, on fol. 29a; Salîmshâh, on fol. 32a; Fîrûzkhân, on fol. 32b; Sikandarshâh, on fol. 34a; Akbar, on fol. 38a; Jahângîr, on fol. 56a; Shâhjahân, on fol. 83a; 'Âlamgîr, on fol. 157b; Saints of the time of 'Âlamgîr, on fol. 271b; A'żamshâh, on fol. 274b; Bahâdurshâh, on fol. 281b; Jahândârshâh, on fol. 299a, last line; Farrukhsiyar, on fol. 305a; Rafî'-aldarajât, on fol. 339a; Rafî'-aldaulah, on fol. 344a; Muḥammadshâh, on fol. 346b. Last chapter (seventh to thirteenth year of Muḥammadshâh's reign), on fol. 390a.

No date. End of the twelfth century of the Hijrah. The larger portion of this MS. (ff. 4–298) is written by Ḥâjî Darwîsh 'Alî, who also wrote ff. 1b–3b of this copy, containing a short introduction into Persian lexicography, which deals with the deficiencies in the فرهنگ جهانگیری, فرهنگ رشیدی, برهان قاطع, فرهنگ ابراهیمی and others, and gives valuable remarks as to the interchange of letters, etc. This short tract may perhaps be due to the authorship of Khwâfîkhân himself, as there are enumerated at the end, on fol. 3b, a few other early works of the composer of this tract, which have been lost, viz. شرح اخلاق هاشمی در علم اخلاق, شرح مدخل نیلاوتی (read لیلاوتی) در علم حساب, and منظوم در علم نجوم (compare on the مدخل منظوم, Rieu ii. p. 801a). Part of fol. 94a and the whole of fol. 94b left blank, but the text is uninterrupted. This MS. belonged formerly to Mr. Richard Johnson.

No. 323, ff. 392, ll. 25; large Nasta'lîḳ, written by two different hands, the second on ff. 299–392; size, 14⅝ in. by 9 in.

Another copy of the same.

The same second volume of the Muntakhab-i-Lubâb, beginning as in the preceding copy.

Contents:

Bâbar, on fol. 9b; Humâyûn, on fol. 30b; Akbar, on fol. 57a; Jahângîr, on fol. 94b; Shâhjahân, on fol. 151a; 'Âlamgîr, on fol. 318a; A'żamshâh, on fol. 574b; Bahâdurshâh, probably on fol. 588b (the headings are missing throughout the latter portion of the MS.); Jahândârshâh, on fol. 628a; Farrukhsiyar, on fol. 647a; Rafî'-aldarajât and Rafî'-aldaulah, on fol. 688a; Muḥammadshâh, on fol. 698b.

Dated the 23rd of Jumâdâ-alawwal, A. H. 1225 (A. D. 1810, June 26), by Kamar-aldîn Bahra, an inhabitant of Ḥaidarâbâd. Collated. Many marginal notes in English. The beginning of an 'Index of Reference to Khafîkhân's History of Aurengzeb' on the fly-leaf of No. 2402. Purchased by Madden, July 18, 1843.

No. 2402, ff. 1–400, No. 2401, ff. 401–752, ll. 19; large and distinct Nasta'lîḳ; size, 12⅝ in. by 7⅝ in.

The same.

A third complete copy of the second volume of the Muntakhab-i-Lubâb, in four books (چهار جلد), as the colophon states; what is meant by these four books is not clear, as only three distinct parts are marked in the text, viz. on ff. 1b, 95a, and 329a.

Contents:

Bâbar, on fol. 5a; Humâyûn, on fol. 17a; Akbar, on fol. 37a; Jahângîr, on fol. 63a; Shâhjahân, on fol. 95a (here a new part begins); 'Âlamgîr, on fol. 189a; A'żamshâh, on fol. 324b (this portion, viz. fol. 324b, l. 10, to fol. 328b, l. 3, where it breaks off, is repeated on fol. 329a, where a new part begins, to fol. 333a, l. 3); Bahâdurshâh, on fol. 339a; Jahândârshâh, on fol. 359a; Farrukhsiyar, on fol. 364b; Rafî'-aldarajât, on fol. 391a; Rafî'-aldaulah, on fol. 395a; Muḥammadshâh, on fol. 397a.

Beginning as usual. Dated the 7th of Rabî'-althânî, A. H. 1239 (A. D. 1823, December 11). Purchased for the library by Messrs. W. H. Allen and Co., April 7, 1859.

No. 3246, ff. 1–221, No. 3247, ff. 222–429, ll. 21; large and distinct Nasta'lîḳ; size, 15⅝ in. by 10¼ in.

The same.

A fourth complete copy of the same second volume.

Contents:

Bâbar, on fol. 5a; Humâyûn, on fol. 17a; Akbar, on fol. 30a; Jahângîr, on fol. 59a; Shâhjahân, on fol. 95b; 'Âlamgîr, on fol. 189b; A'żamshâh, on fol. 332a; Bahâdurshâh (second year of his reign), on fol. 342a; Jahândârshâh, on fol. 361b; Farrukhsiyar, on fol. 367a; Rafî'-aldarajât, on fol. 394a; Rafî'-aldaulah, on fol. 397b; Muḥammadshâh, on fol. 399b.

No date. Modern copy.

No. 3256, ff. 435, ll. 26–27; mostly in Shikasta, written by different hands; a few portions in Nasta'lîḳ; size, 14⅝ in. by 8⅝ in.

400

The same.

The first half of the same second volume, from Bâbar's conquest, A. H. 932, to the end of Shâhjahân's reign, A. H. 1067 (A. D. 1526–1657), divided into two sections, viz.

First section, on ff. 1b–139b, beginning in the usual way: جهان جهان شکر الخ.

Bâbar, on fol. 6b; Humâyûn, on fol. 22b; Shîrshâh, on fol. 28a; Salîmshâh, on fol. 34a; Fîrûzshâh, on fol. 35a; Sikandarshâh, on fol. 37a; Akbar, on fol. 41a; Jahângîr, on fol. 84a.

Second section, on ff. 140b–276a, beginning: از چمن

اخبار سلاطین کامگار و گلشن آثار خواقین نامدار الخ, corresponding to the preceding copy, fol. 95b, l. 16.

Shâhjahân's reign (A. H. 1137–1167). The end of this copy corresponds to fol. 189b, l. 14, in the preceding one.

No date. Very valuable marginal glosses. Fol. 56 turned upside down.

No. 2530, ff. 276, ll. 21; large and distinct Nasta'lîḳ; size, 13½ in. by 8¾ in.

The same.

The second half of the same volume, from the accession of 'Âlamgîr to the fourteenth year of Muḥammadshâh's reign. It consists of two sections; the first, on ff. 1b–223a, contains the history of 'Âlamgîr, headed: ذکر سوانح ایّام فرمان‌روائیٔ خلد آرامگاه حضرت عالمگیر پادشاه, and beginning: ذکر خلاصهٔ دودمان سلاطین خلد مکان وزبدهٔ ثمر شجر گلشن سلطنت امیر تیمور الخ, corresponding to No. 3256 (399 in this Cat.), fol. 189b, l. 15; the second, on ff. 224b–378a, contains the history of Muḥammad A'żamshâh (on fol. 224b), Bahâdurshâh (heading of his accession omitted), Jahândârshâh (on fol. 267b), Farrukhsiyar (on fol. 279a), Rafi'-aldarajât (on fol. 319a), Rafi'-aldaulah (on fol. 323b), and Muḥammadshâh (on fol. 326b). The fourteenth year of Muḥammadshâh's reign begins on fol. 376a. This section is headed ذکر سکّه و خطبهٔ محمّد اعظم شاه, and begins محمّد اعظم‌شاه که بصوبداریٔ مالوه از پادشاه رخصت حاصل نموده الخ, corresponding to No. 3256 (399 in this Cat.), fol. 332a, l. 15.

No date. From a comparison of the contents of this MS. with those of the immediately preceding one it becomes evident that both formed originally one copy, the fifth complete one in the India Office Collection. Various readings and English annotations on the margin.

No. 2400, ff. 378, ll. 21; large and distinct Nasta'lîḳ; parts of ff. 240 and 302 supplied by another hand; size, 13¾ in. by 8¼ in.

A portion of the same.

A large portion of the second half of the second volume of the Muntakhab-i-Lubâb, beginning abruptly in the fourth year of 'Âlamgîr's reign (A. H. 1071, 1072 = A. D. 1661) and going down to the accession of Farrukhsiyar (A. H. 1124 = A. D. 1713). The first heading that appears in this copy runs thus (on fol. 2b, last line): ذکر مهمّ آشام بدانجام بسرداریٔ عمدهٔ امرای خجسته فرجام خانخانان عرف معظّم خان, corresponding to No. 3256, fol. 223a, l. 20. The initial words of this defective copy, ملازمت مرحمت فرمودند الخ, correspond to No. 3256, fol. 222b, l. 6; the last, در جهان جمله ... گذردیدم, to fol. 368a, l. 16, in the same copy.

No date. Beginning of the thirteenth century of the Hijrah.

Bibliotheca Leydeniana.

No. 2544, ff. 361, ll. 15; small, distinct, and very neat Nasta'lîḳ; size, 10½ in. by 7¾ in.

403

Another portion of the same.

This portion begins exactly where the preceding copy breaks off, i. e. with Farrukhsiyar's accession: بر طالبان اخبار لیل و نهار روزگار مخفی نماند الخ, corresponding to No. 3256, fol. 368a, l. 17, and goes down to Muḥammadshâh's reign. According to the Arabic pagination 382 leaves are wanting in the beginning; it is slightly incomplete at the end also.

No. 305, ff. 79, ll. 21; Nasta'lîḳ; part of fol. 79a and the whole of fol. 79b written by another hand in Shikasta; size, 12 in. by 6¾ in.

A third portion of the same.

A very small portion of or rather extracts from the first half of the second volume of Khwâfikhân's history (مُنْتَخَب انتخاب لباب, as it is styled in the colophon), beginning in the usual way, on fol. 1a: جهان جهان شکر و سپاس افزون از قیاس الخ, and going down to A. H. 952, Rabi'-alawwal 12th (A. D. 1545, May 24), the date of Shîrshâh's death, see No. 3256 (399 in this Cat.), fol. 24b, last two lines. It is divided into eleven small parts or جُزء (on ff. 1a, 11a, 25a, 37a, 45a, 53a, 67a, 79a, 89a, 101a, and 111a).

Dated the 29th of August, A. D. 1806.

No. 3054, ff. 116, ll. 6–8; Shikasta; size, 8¼ in. by 6¼ in.

Selections from the second volume of the Muntakhab-i-Lubâb.

This copy contains select portions:

1. From what is called here, erroneously, the first volume (جلد اوّل), that is, the first half of the second volume, on ff. 1b–99a, beginning with Akbar's reign, A. H. 963, and going down to the end of Shâhjahân's reign, A. H. 1068 (A. D. 1556–1658).

2. From what is called here جلد دوم, that is, the second half of the second volume, on ff. 100b–216a, beginning with Aurangzîb's accession in A. H. 1068 and going down to A. H. 1131, the first year of Muḥammadshâh's reign (A. D. 1658–1719).

No. 2992, ff. 216, ll. 8–9; large Nasta'lîḳ; size, 9¾ in. by 6¼ in.

Other selections from the same volume.

A few short extracts, all taken from 'Âlamgîr's reign.

Beginning: گویند در برهانپور زیب اقطاب حضرت شیخ برهان الخ.

Muntakhab-i-Lubâb.

A small portion of the extremely rare third volume (جلد ثالث) of Khwâfikhân's work, devoted to the minor dynasties of India; see Rieu i. p. 235.

Beginning: حمد بیحدّ و ثنای لاتعدّ پادشاهی را سزاوارست که فرمان فرمایان هفت اقلیم الخ.

This fragment contains only the principal part of the history of the Bahmanî dynasty in the Dakhan; it begins, after a historical introduction, with Sulṭân 'Alâ-aldîn Gângûî Bahmanî, called Ḥasan, who died A.H. 759 (A.D. 1358), on ff. 8a–21b; then follow:

Sulṭân Muḥammadshâh Bahmanî, died A.H. 777 (A.D. 1375), on fol. 21b, last line.

Sulṭân Mujâhid bin Sulṭân Muḥammadshâh, died A.H. 779 (A.D. 1378), on fol. 34b.

Sulṭân Dâ'ûdshâh bin 'Alâ-aldîn, on fol. 37b.

Sulṭân Maḥmûdshâh bin 'Alâ-aldîn, died A.H. 799 (A.D. 1397), on fol. 38b.

Sulṭân Ghiyâth-aldîn bin Sulṭân Maḥmûd, on fol. 40a.

Sulṭân Shams-aldîn bin Sulṭân Maḥmûd, on fol. 42b, last line.

Sulṭân Fîrûzshâh bin Dâ'ûdshâh, died A.H. 825 (A.D. 1422), on fol. 46b, last line.

Sulṭân Aḥmadshâh, on fol. 63a.

Sulṭân 'Alâ-aldîn Aḥmad II, on fol. 69b.

Sulṭân Humâyûn bin 'Alâ-aldîn, on fol. 79a.

Sulṭân Niẓâm-aldînshâh bin Humâyûn, on fol. 84a.

Here the copy breaks off.

No. 84, ff. 86, ll. 9; careless Nasta'lîḳ; size, 8¾ in. by 5¾ in.

408

Extracts from historical works.

A collection of specimens of historical writings, taken from the following histories and Inshâs:

Tadhkirat-almulûk (تذكرة الملوك).

A general history of India, from the Arab conquest to A.H. 1149=A.D. 1736, 1737 (see fol. 139b, l. 8, and fol. 172a, first line: حال که سنهٔ یکهزار و یکصد و چهل و نهم است), written, chiefly on the basis of the Ṭabaḳât-i-Akbarî (see Nos. 225–232 in this Cat.), at the request of some friends, by Yaḥyâkhân, who had been Mîr Munshî of the emperor Farrukhsiyar (see fol. 1b, last three lines), and entitled: Tadhkirat-almulûk (see fol. 2a, l. 1).

Beginning: کشور کشائیٔ اقالیم سخن بستایید محامد شاهنشاهی است که جوهر فتح و ظفر الخ.

A short introductory part deals with Nûshirwân and his successors, Muḥammad and the first four Khalîfs on fol. 2a, the Umayyades on fol. 2b, and the 'Abbâsides on fol. 4a. The history of India begins, on fol. 9a, with the Ghaznawides (Nâṣir-aldîn Sabuktagîn on fol. 9a, Sulṭân Maḥmûd on fol. 9b, Mas'ûd and his successors to Khusrau Malik bin Khusrau Shâh, A.H. 555–583=A.D. 1160–1187, on ff. 13b–17a).

Sulṭâns of Dihlî, from Mu'izz-aldîn bin Muḥammad Sâm Ghûrî to the nineteenth year of Muḥammadshâh's reign, A.H. 1149, on fol. 17a (Bâbar on fol. 60a, Shîr-khân on fol. 61a, Salîmkhân bin Shîrkhân on fol. 64a, Humâyûn on fol. 67a, Akbar on fol. 69b, Jahângîr on fol. 89b, Shâhjahân on fol. 99a, 'Âlamgîr on fol. 105a, Bahâdurshâh on fol. 112a, Jahândârshâh on fol. 112a, Farrukhsiyar on fol. 122a, Rafî'-aldarajât and Rafî'-aldaulah on fol. 125b, Muḥammadshâh on fol. 130b).

Sulṭâns of the Dakhan, from A.H. 748 (A.D. 1347) to the imprisonment of Abû al-Ḥasan by 'Âlamgîr, on fol. 140a (beginning with the Bahmanis; Niẓâm-almulkîs on fol. 147a, 'Âdilkhâns on fol. 149a, Ḳuṭb-almulkîs on fol. 150a).

Sulṭâns of Gujarât, from A.H. 793 to 983 (the usual date is 980 or 981)=A.D. 1391–1575, on fol. 150b.

Sulṭâns of Mâlwah, from A.H. 809 to 970 (sic! the usual date is 977)=A.D. 1406–1563, that is, to Bâz Bahâdur's submission to Akbar after a reign of sixteen years, on fol. 160a.

Sulṭâns of Bangâlah, from Fakhr-aldîn (A.H. 741=A.D. 1340, the date is omitted here) to A.H. 982=A.D. 1574, on fol. 169b.

Sharḳî Sulṭâns of Jaunpûr, from A.H. 784 to 881 (A.D. 1382–1476), on fol. 172a.

Rulers of Sind, from the Arab conquest, A.H. 86 (A.D. 705), to the annexation by Akbar (here given as A.H. 993!), on fol. 173b.

Rulers of Multân, to the annexation by the Moghul emperors, on fol. 175b.

Sulṭâns of Kashmîr, from A.H. 747 to 995 (A.D. 1346–1587), on fol. 178a.

Dated by Iḥsân-allâh the 12th of Jumâdâ-alawwal, A.H. 1212 (fortieth year of Shâh 'Âlam's reign)=A.D. 1797, November 2. On fol. 1a this work is incorrectly styled: تاریخ هند.

No. 1147, ff. 187, ll. 19; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 10½ in. by 6½ in.

An anonymous history (or part of a history) of the last few years of Muḥammadshâh's reign, from the 18th of Dhû-alḳa'dah, A.H. 1159 (A.D. 1746, December 2), to the 11th of Jumâdâ-althânî, A.H. 1161 (A.D. 1748, June 8). The account of Aḥmadshâh's accession begins on fol. 94b. It is in form of a diary and evidently by an eye-witness, who noted down the events immediately after their occurrence.

Beginning: چون از بوقلمونهای روزگار الخ.

No. 549, ff. 1–171, ll. 11; Shikasta; size, 8¾ in. by 5 in.

A sort of a diary or note-book, containing military statistics, especially relating to Indian cities and fortresses, interspersed with historical notes, tables, genealogies, itineraries, etc., all referring to modern Indian history and topography.

A تفصیل سلاطین دهلی or a series of short notes on the emperors of Dihlî, from A.H. 602 to A.H. 968 (A.D. 1206–1561), begins on fol. 63a.

A مجموعهٔ میرزا مهدی خان or rather مجموعهٔ میرزا مهدی خانی (as the following copy reads more correctly), that is, a short outline of the history of the Timûrides in India, by Niẓâm-aldîn Muḥammad Hâdî alḥusainî alṣafawî, commonly called Shâh Mirzâ, with the honorary epithet Mirzâ Mahdikhân Ṣafawî (the author of the تأریخ نادری or history of Nâdirshâh, completed A.H. 1171=A.D. 1757, 1758; comp. Bodleian Cat., Nos. 302–306 and 1971; Rieu i. p. 192 sq., etc.), begins on fol. 67b. The main portion of this little historical outline was completed A.H. 1142 (the title in its correct form is a chronogram)=A.D. 1729, 1730, and the more recent dates added later on. The last date, found here on fol. 70b, is A.H. 1173 (A.D. 1759, 1760).

Beginning of the مجموعه: سپاس بیقیاس سزاوار ملك الملکیست که انتظام جهان الخ.

No. 1727, ff. 72; mostly written in Shikasta; size, 17 in. by 6 in.

Majmû'a-i-Mîrzâ Mahdikhânî (مجموعهٔ میرزا مهدی خانی).

Another copy of the same historical outline by Mirzâ Mahdikhân Ṣafawî, beginning as in the preceding copy. The tables go down to Bahâdurshâh's death only; all the later dates are wanting.

No. 339, ff. 1–7; careless Nasta'lîḳ; size, 11½ in. by 7 in.

The same.

A third copy of the same, also ending with Bahâdurshâh's death, A.H. 1124=A.D. 1712. The date of composition appears on fol. 2a, ll. 3 and 2 ab infra. According to the wording of the title here, مجموعهٔ مرزا مهدی خان, it would be A.H. 1122, but that must be corrected into 1142 according to the preceding copy, by adding one ی in میرزا and another ی in خانی. College of Fort William, 1809.

No. 2304, ff. 10, ll. 13; careless Nasta'lîḳ; size, 9 in. by 5 in.

Miscellaneous tracts.

These tracts contain historical and statistical accounts of different kinds, viz.:

1. Dates of birth and death of the Moghul emperors from Timûr to Shâh 'Âlam (ولادت و وفات پادشاهان), on fol. 1b; the last date is A.H. 1185 (A.D. 1771, 1772).

2. Dates of the demise of holy and learned Shaikhs (رحلت بعضی اولیا), on fol. 6b; beginning with Shaikh 'Abd-alḳâdir of Gîlân (born A.H. 471, died A.H. 561=A.D. 1078–1166).

3. On the fourteen sciences (چهارده علوم که مشهورست), on fol. 9b, with the subdivisions علم هندی که علّامی شیخ ابو الفضل در کتاب اکبرنامه بقلم آورده, on fol. 11a, and علوم بموجب کتب عربی و فارسی, on fol. 12a.

4. Statistical accounts (دستور العمل), on fol. 12b: (a) Statistics of India, especially under 'Âlamgîr and his successors, beginning with Dihlî or Shâhjahânâbâd, on fol. 15b; after which follow Âgra (Akbarâbâd), Lâhûr, Kâbul, Kashmîr, Multân, Gujarât, Ajmîr, Mâlwah, the Dakhan, Bangâlah, Allahâbâd, etc.; (b) Statistics of Persia (جمع ممالك ايران), on fol. 45a.

5. Names and titles of 'Âlamgîr's family, relations, and chief officials (القاب و منصب عهد عالمگير پادشاه), on fol. 49b.

6. A portion of 'Âlamgîr's writings, orders, and letters, beginning with the 'admonitions' of Shâhjahân, related by 'Âlamgîr, on fol. 56b (نصائح و پند عليحضرت شاهجهان پادشاه كه اورنگ زيب عالمگير پادشاه غازی نقل فرموده و بعضی شُقّهٔ عالمگير پادشاه).

7. Another statistical account, written on different paper and by a different hand, entitled: تفريق كاربخشيان عظام, that is, on the great military officials of the Moghul empire, on fol. 82a.

No. 370, ff. 103; written in large Nasta'lîk as far as fol. 81, and throughout interleaved with many English notes and translations; ff. 82–103 in smaller, careless Nasta'lîk, by another hand; size, 10¼ in. by 6¼ in.

Siyar-almuta'akhkhirîn (سير المتأخرين).

History of the Indian empire, from A.H. 1118 (A.D. 1707), the year of 'Âlamgîr's death, to A.H. 1195 (A.D. 1781), by Ghulâm Ḥusain bin Hidâyat 'Alîkhân bin al-Sayyid 'Alîm-allâh bin al-Sayyid Faiḍ-allâh alḥusainî alṭabâṭabâ'î, completed in Ramaḍân, A.H. 1195 (A.D. 1781, August, September); comp. Bodleian Cat., No. 265; Rieu i. pp. 280 and 281; W. Morley, p. 105 sq.; J. Aumer, p. 85; Cat. Codd. Or. Lugd. Bat. iii. p. 14; Elliot, History of India, viii. pp. 194–198, etc. It is divided into two volumes, the first going down to A.H. 1152 (A.D. 1739, 1740), and beginning, on fol. 1b: سپاس بيقياس و ستايش سرمدی اساس نثار بارگاه عظمت و جلال دادار الخ; the second, beginning on fol. 269b: حمد و ثنای پادشاه علی الاطلاق و شكر و سپاس خالق انفس و آفاق الخ, with A.H. 1153 and closing with A.H. 1195.

An English translation of this work (without the muḳaddimah) by Muṣṭafâ, a French renegade, in three volumes, Calcutta, 1789; the first portion of the same, re-edited by J. Briggs, for the Oriental Translation Fund, London, 1832; see also Jonathan Scott's 'History of the Deccan,' ii. p. 313 sq. Complete edition, Calcutta, 1833, in fol. (Seear-ool Mutakhreen), and Lucknow, A.H. 1283; the muḳaddimah was printed, Calcutta, 1836; an abridgment of the whole work under the title of 'Moolukhus-ool-Tuwareekh' appeared already, 1827.

This copy was made in the month Sha'bân, A.H. 1205 (A.D. 1791, April), by Nâṣir 'Alî bin Sayyid Ḥusain 'Alî. It formerly belonged to Mr. A. Welland, whose name, with the date of February 4, 1810, is written on the top of fol. 1b.

No. 1117, ff. 336, ll. 25; Nasta'lîk, several leaves supplied by other hands; large waterspots and slight injuries throughout; ff. 119 and 192 are more severely damaged; size, 12¾ in. by 9½ in.

Another copy of the same.

This copy is older than the preceding one, but slightly defective, as there is a lacuna of eight leaves after fol. 336 (corresponding to No. 2931, 419 in this Cat., fol. 175a, l. 10 to fol. 187a, l. 6). First volume on fol. 1b, second on fol. 357b; beginning of both the same as in the preceding copy. No date, but on the fly-leaves (three pages) there is added by another hand in Shikasta a complete index of the work (فهرست كتاب), dated the 27th of Shawwâl, A.H. 1201=A.D. 1787, August 12. This copy belonged formerly to Sir Barry Close.

No. 3319, olim 15. J. 4, ff. 476, ll. 23; Nasta'lîḳ, by different hands; size, 10 in. by 6¾ in.

The same.

First volume on fol. 1b, second on fol. 383b.

No date.

No. 1916, ff. 526, ll. 21; Nasta'lîḳ, by at least three different hands (the first on ff. 1–224 and 252b–380, the second on ff. 225–252a, the third on ff. 383b–526); size, 11¾ in. by 6½ in.

A fragment of the same.

A large portion of the first volume of the Siyar-almuta'akhkhirîn, beginning abruptly: ... نمی گذشت عند التكليف الخ; corresponding to No. 3319 (417 in this Cat.), fol. 169b, l. 6, and going down to the end of the first volume, which was completed according to the colophon the 26th of Muḥarram, A.H. 1195 (A.D. 1781, January 22), corresponding to No. 3319, fol. 354b. The proper order of the leaves is: ff. 1–176, 180–203, 177–179.

No. 2931, ff. 203, ll. 21; clear and distinct Nasta'lîḳ, written in the most regular style; size, 10¾ in. by 7¾ in.

A smaller fragment of the same.

This portion of the first volume begins with ذكر رحلت نمودن نصير الملك مهامّ الدولة سعيد احمدخان بهادر مولتجنگ مرحوم از دار هستی (Sa'îd Aḥmadkhân Bahâdur Ṣaulatjang's death in A.H. 1169=A.D. 1756); corresponding to the preceding copy, fol. 19a, l. 13, and goes down to Mîr Muḥammad Ḳâsimkhân's occupation of 'Aẓîmâbâd (i. e. Patna), A.H. 1174=A.D. 1760, 1761. The last words, with which this copy breaks off, on fol. 108a, correspond to the preceding copy, fol. 94a, l. 4 ab infra. Ff. 109a–110b (ll. 13 in large Nasta'lîḳ) contain two short fragments of questions and answers on Hindûstânî grammar, from questions 91 to 98 and 165 to 176.

No. 2594, ff. 110, ll. 17–19; Shikasta; size, 9¼ in. by 6¾ in.

Fihrist - i - Siyar - almuta'akhkhirîn (فهرست سير المتأخّرين).

An index to the Siyar-almuta'akhkhirîn, with references to a special copy of that work (which is not stated) and corrections by a former English owner.

No. 1825, ff. 17; Shikasta; size, 9¾ in. by 5¾ in.

A detailed history of Muḥammadshâh's reign (A. H. 1131–1161 = A. D. 1719–1748), composed at Mr. Jonathan Scott's request, A. H. 1196 (A. D. 1782), see No. 250, fol. 18a, l. 10, by Mirzâ Muḥammadbakhsh, with the takhallus Âshûb, see fol. 17a, l. 8, and fol. 23a, l. 12, in two volumes. The history is styled at the end of the second volume: تأريخ فرّخ سير و جلوس محمّد شاه; and a little more correctly on ff. 1a and 175a: تأريخ شهادت فرّخ سير و جلوس محمّد شاه بادشاه; see Rieu iii. p. 944, and Elliot, History of India, viii. p. 232, where a fuller description of this work is given.

Beginning: الحمد لله ..... امّا بعد بر متجسّسان (so to be read instead of متجسّان) و متفحّصان ملوك و سلاطين اقاليم جهان خصوصًا ملوك و خواقين عالي شان الخ.

The preface gives a complete list of all the historical works written on the dynasty of the Moghul emperors from Bâbar to Muḥammadshâh; the history itself begins with Muḥammadshâh's birth, on fol. 26b. In the first part the author often refers among other works (see Rieu, loc. cit.) to a history تأريخ محمّد شاهي, otherwise styled رسالهٔ محمّد شاه نامه, the author of which is unknown. The history only goes down to the death of Zakariyyâkhân, A. H. 1158 (A. D. 1745), and of Nâdirshâh, A. H. 1160 (A. D. 1747); see ff. 330a and 327a respectively.

Dated the 3rd of Rabî'-alawwal, A. H. 1200=A. D. 1786, January 4.

Nos. 250, 251, ff. 332, ll. 15; Nasta'lîḳ, by two different hands; size of No. 250, 8½ in. by 7¾ in.; of No. 251, 8½ in. by 7¾ in.

Ta'rikh-i-Aḥmadshâhî (تأريخ احمدشاهي).

A short history of the reign of the emperor Abû-alnaṣr Mujâhid-aldîn Aḥmadshâh, the son of the emperor Muḥammadshâh, composed by Muḥammad 'Alikhân Anṣârî bin Hidâyat-allâhkhân (who began six years later, A. H. 1202, a very large general history of the Timûrides, styled تأريخ مظفّري; see Rieu i. pp. 282 and 283, and Elliot, History of India, viii. p. 316 sq.) in A. H. 1196 (see ff. 1b, l. 6, and 2a, l. 8)=A. D. 1782. Aḥmadshâh ruled A. H. 1161–1167 (A. D. 1748–1754), six years and three months, and after having been deposed and blinded he lived twenty-one years more, and died A. H. 1188 (A. D. 1775), in the sixteenth year of Shâh 'Âlam's reign.

Beginning: سپاس بی قیاس لائق صانعی که جسم انسان را از حضیض ماء و طین بعلوّ مراتب ظهور آورده الخ.

No date. Probably the author's autograph.

No. 194, ff. 32, ll. 15; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 9¾ in. by 5¾ in.

Â'în-i-'Âlamshâhî (آئين عالمشاهي).

The first volume of a history of Prince 'Alî Gauhar, who ascended the throne of Dihlî under the title of Shâh 'Âlam, A. H. 1173 (A. D. 1759), from Aḥmadshâh's deposition, A. H. 1167 (A. D. 1754), to about A. H. 1203 (A. D. 1788), by Ghulâm 'Alîkhân bin Raushan-aldaulah Bhakhârikhân Rustamjang; see Bodleian Cat., No. 266; Rieu i. pp. 278 sq. and 281 sq.; Elliot, History of India, viii. p. 393. It is also styled sometimes شاه عالمنامه, تأريخ عالمنامه, and on fol. 1a of this copy (see also fol. 1b of the following copy) تأريخ عالمشاهي and (in the colophon) شرفنامه. This first volume corresponds to the second book of the Bodleian copy (the first book there is the مقدّمه or history of 'Âlamgîr's successors down to the accession of 'Âlamgîr II, which is wanting here altogether), and goes down to about A. H. 1185 (A. D. 1771).

Beginning: حمد بيحدّ احدی را رسد که ميزان ادراك هيچ فردی حقيقت ذاتش الخ.

Dated in the month Rajab, A. H. 1207 (A. D. 1793, February, March).

No. 398, ff. 290, ll. 15; large Nasta'lîḳ; size, 9¾ in. by 6 in.

The same.

The second volume of the Â'în-i-'Âlamshâhî (styled here تأريخ عالمشاهي جلد ثاني), comprising the next seventeen or eighteen years of Shâh 'Âlam's reign from A. H. 1185 to A. H. 1203, from Ḍâbiṭakhân's defeat to the dethroning and blinding of Shâh 'Âlam, by Ghulâm Ḳâdirkhân, and corresponding to the third and fourth books in the Bodleian copy.

Beginning: الحمد لله الذی جعل السلاطين الاعظم (العظام in the Bodleian copy) و لخواقين المكرّم الخ.

This volume is divided here into two maḳâlas, viz.:

1. در تمهيد رو گردانی و نافرمانی نمودن سران دكهن الخ, on fol. 2a.

2. لحال بآغاز مقالهٔ ثانی پرداخته چهرهٔ عرائس افكار از استار نقاب الخ, on fol. 31b.

Dated in the month Jumâdâ-alûlâ, A. H. 1206 (A. D. 1792, January).

No. 243, ff. 139, ll. 15; Nasta'lîḳ, written by different hands; size, 9 in. by 5¾ in.

Ḥaḳîḳathâi-Hindûstân (حقیقتهای هندوستان).

History and topography of the Ṣûbahs of Hindûstân and the Dakhan, compiled A. H. 1204 = A. D. 1790 (the title is a chronogram, see fol. 3b, l. 2; the date appears besides on fol. 1b, l. 5 and at the end of the book) by Lachmî Narâyan, with the takhallus Shafîḳ (see fol. 1b, l. 3), the author of the Tanmîḳ-i-Shigarf, a history of the Dakhan, composed A. H. 1200 (see Nos. 447 and 448 below), the Bisâṭ-alghanâ'im or history of the Marattahs, A. H. 1214, and several other works, for which see No. 468 (further below) in this Catal., and Rieu i. pp. 238 and 327 sq.

Beginning: بعد حمد جهاندار جان آفرین خداوند زمان و زمین جلّ جلاله و عمّ نواله و نعوت سیّد کائنات خلاصهٔ موجودات الخ.

The book contains four maḳâlas:

Maḳâlah I (not marked here by special heading) begins on fol. 3b, and deals with the old revenue returns, drawn up by his grandfather and signed by Nizâm-almulk, extending as far as the Faṣlî year, 1139 (see fol. 2a, l. 5), with further additions and supplements.

Maḳâlah II (beginning on fol. 35b) gives an account of the following Ṣûbahs of Hindûstân: Shâhjahânâbâd (Dihlî), on fol. 36a; Akbarâbâd (Âgra), on fol. 41b; Allahâbâd, on fol. 43a; Oudh, on fol. 44b; Bahâr, on fol. 46a; Bangâlah, on fol. 47b; Orissa (here wrongly spelt اودیسه), on fol. 49b; Mâlwah, on fol. 50b; Ajmîr, on fol. 51a; Aḥmadâbâd-i-Gujarât, on fol. 52a; Tattah, on fol. 55b; Multân, on fol. 57b; Lâhûr, on fol. 59a; Kâbul, on fol. 72a (Kashmîr, which ought to be between the last two, is not marked at all in this copy).

Maḳâlah III (beginning on fol. 76b) deals with the following Ṣûbahs of the Dakhan: Khândîs, on fol. 81b; Barâr, on fol. 93b; Aurangâbâd, on fol. 107b; Bidar, on fol. 120b; Bîjâpûr, on fol. 127b; Ḥaidarâbâd, on fol. 143a.

Maḳâlah IV (beginning on fol. 163a) contains a short chronicle of the Muḥammadan rulers of India, from Sulṭân Mu'izz-aldîn Sâm down to A. H. 1204 in the reign of Shâh 'Âlam. No date.

No. 3055, ff. 213, ll. 14 on ff. 1–84, ll. 16 on ff. 85–213; Shikasta; size, 8¾ in. by 4¼ in.

Notes and other official documents of the last Moghul emperors of Dihlî, especially of Muḥammadshâh, Aḥmadshâh, 'Âlamgîr II, and Shâh 'Âlam. The latest date that appears is A. H. 1213 = A. D. 1798, 1799 (on fol. 28a); one of the earliest, even before the accession of Muḥammadshâh, A. H. 1127 = A. D. 1715 (on fol. 78a). Even a few of 'Âlamgîr Aurangzîb's are found here and there.

IND. OFF.

Ff. 1–13 are turned upside down. Fol. 14 sq. begin with orders of Muḥammadshâh, dated A. H. 1155, 1156, 1158, and 1153 (A. D. 1742, 1743, 1745, and 1740).

No. 2975, ff. 89; Shikasta, by various hands; size, 9 in. by 6¾ in.

Ta'rîkh-alsalâṭîn (تأریخ السلاطین).

A short chronicle of the successors of Timûr and of the Moghul emperors of India down to Shâh 'Âlam, by Ṣûfî Ṣan'ân bin Mirzâ Bâbâ, beginning: الحمد لله ربّ العالمین والعاقبة للمتّقین و الصلوة والسلام علی رسوله محمّد و آله واصحابه وازواجه و ذرّیّته واهلیّته اجمعین؛ امّا بوشیده نماند فقیر حقیر سرایا الخ.

It is scarcely any more than a mere list of the rulers with very short dates and notices, full of errors, and of very little consequence in any respect. Dated in the month Dhû-alḳa'dah, A. H. 1220 (the forty-eighth year of Shâh 'Âlam's reign) = A. D. 1806, January, February. It seems to be the author's autograph.

No. 3160, ff. 34, ll. 11; large Nasta'lîḳ; splendid binding in green and gold; size, 6½ in. by 4¼ in.

Dhikr-alsiyar (ذکر السیر).

A history of the last times of the Moghul empire in India from A. H. 1151 (A. D. 1738, 1739), and the massacre of the people of Dihlî by order of Nâdirshâh, down to the end of Shâh 'Âlam's reign, completed by Ghulâm Ḥusainkhân, the son of Muḥammad Himmatkhân of Shâhjahânâbâd, A. H. 1221 = A. D. 1806, 1807 (the title is a chronogram, see fol. 387a, l. 2 sq.). All his ancestors were in the service of the Moghul emperors; his own father, who died A. H. 1168 (A. D. 1754, 1755), from Muḥammad Farrukhsiyar's reign down to that of 'Âlamgîr II (see fol. 3a, l. 10 sq.).

Beginning: حمد خالقی که از خاک تیره آدم صلوات الله علی نبیّنا و علیه السلام را آفریده بنفخت فیه من روحی کسوت حیات پوشانیده الخ.

The title سیر متأخّرین, given to it on the back of the binding and on fol. 1a, is caused by a confusion of the name of the present author with the similar one of Ghulâm Ḥusain bin Hidâyat 'Alîkhân; see Nos. 416–421 above.

No. 1501, ff. 388, ll. 16; large Nasta'lîḳ; size, 13¾ in. by 8 in.

Two portions of a great work on the political and natural history of his own country and of India in general, projected by the ruler of the Carnatic, Nawwâb Wâlâjâh 'Azîmjâh Bahâdur, with the epithet of Sirâj-alumarâ (see fol. 2b, l. 8 sq.), or as he is styled with his full name on fol. 219b, l. 10: Muḥammad 'Alikhân Bahâdur Dhû-alfaḳârjang Sirâj-alumarâ, who was installed by the British Government as Nawwâb the 3rd of February, 1820, and died the 12th of November, 1825. Both from the prefixes of these two portions and from an English notice on the fly-leaf we learn that the superintendence over this vast enterprise was entrusted to Maulânâ Muḥammad Ṣibghat-allâh (صبغة الله), with the epithet Maḥmadat-al'ulamâ Badr-aldaulah Muftî (see fol. 3a, ll. 2 and 3), or as he is called on fol. 220a, ll. 3 and 4: 'Aẓîm Nawâzkhân Bahâdur Mu'tamadjang 'Umdat-al'ulamâ Muftî Badr-aldaulah, who selected proper collaborators for the various parts, the most prominent of whom was Riḍâ Ṣâḥib, known as Ḥakîm Bâḳir Ḥusainkhân Bahâdur (see fol. 4a, l. 1, and fol. 220a, last line). He applied himself particularly to the history of the rulers of the Carnatic, from Sa'd-allâhkhân to Nawwâb Muḥammad 'Alikhân Bahâdur Wâlâjâh. After his death Sayyid Murtaḍâ (see fol. 4b, l. 1) took the work in hand in order to supply other necessary portions of the political history (according to the English notice, on the basis of a previous work by Sayyid Muḥammad Badakhshânî, with whose style the Nawwâb was not altogether pleased—a statement which we cannot find in the Persian introduction!). The Nawwâb's death interrupted this work, and thus it was left for ever unfinished. Both the superintendent, Ṣibghat-allâh, and the principal compiler, Sayyid Murtaḍâ, were still alive in 1859, the latter as teacher in the Madrasah.

First portion: Political history on ff. 1–217, styled, according to fol. 4b, l. 3: عظيم التواريخ (for the general title, given in the English notice, viz. Sirâj-altawârîkh, no corroboration is found in the text), beginning: باعث ترتيب اورنگ ظهور عالم و انتظام مسند جلوهٔ آدم حمد مر حضرت آفريدگار الخ.

According to the index on fol. 4b the original work was to contain seven maḳâlas and five muḳaddimas, the last three of which were to follow after the maḳâlas, viz.:

Maḳâlah I: The Ghaznawides.

Maḳâlah II: Rulers of Dihlî, from the Ghûrides to the end of the Timûride Sulṭâns.

Maḳâlah III: Sulṭâns of the Dakhan, from the Bahmanshâhîs to the Barîdshâhîs.

Maḳâlah IV: Sulṭâns of Lâhûr, etc.

Maḳâlah V: Islamitic rulers, from the Arabian Khalîfs, beginning with Mu'âwiyah, to the end of Timûr's reign.

Maḳâlah VI: Persian kings, from Gayûmarth to Yazdajird III.

Maḳâlah VII: Rulers of the Carnatic, history of Nawwâb Ḥaidar 'Alikhân and Tîpû Sulṭân, and the English conquest.

Muḳaddimas I and II: The Indian Râjahs and the Hindû religion, together with a short account of the creation, etc.

Muḳaddimah III: Idol and sun worship in India.

Muḳaddimah IV: The wonders of the seven climates, and the springs, wells, rivers, places of worship of the Hindû and other religious creeds, etc., in India. Of these twelve subdivisions there are found in our text only six, viz.:

1. On fol. 5a, a general introduction on the value of historiography, the sources of Hindû history (Mahâbhârata, etc.), and a general outline of the pre-Islamitic history of India.

2. On fol. 11a, history of the creation, of the first patriarchs and the Hindû Râjahs in detail, with a concluding portion on the first rise of Islâm in India (on fol. 53b). These two parts correspond upon the whole to the first and second muḳaddimas of the original plan.

3. On fol. 56a, the Ghaznawides from Nâṣir-aldîn Sabuktagîn to Khusrau Malik bin Khusraushâh (here styled مقالهٔ سیم, corresponding to the first maḳâlah of the original plan).

4. On fol. 78b, the Sulṭâns of Dihlî, from the Ghûrides to Sulṭân 'Alâ-aldîn (here styled مقالهٔ چهارم).

5. On fol. 106b, continuation of the Sulṭâns of Dihlî, from Bahlûl Afghân Lûdî to Timûr and Shâhrukh (here styled مقالهٔ پنجم).

6. On fol. 140a, the Timûrides of India: Bâbar, on fol. 143a; Humâyûn, on fol. 149b; Shîrshâh and his successors, on fol. 154b; second reign of Humâyûn, on fol. 158b; Akbar, on fol. 161a; conquest of Mâlwah and short history of that country, on fol. 163a; conquest of Gujarât and condensed history of it, on fol. 164b; Jahângîr's birth, on fol. 171a; conquest of Patna and Bangâlah and history of both, on fol. 172a; conquest of Kashmîr and history of that country, on fol. 176a; conquest of Tattah and Sind and history of Sind, on fol. 180b; Jahângîr, on fol. 183b; Shâhjahân, on fol. 191b; 'Âlamgîr, on fol. 204b, first line; Bahâdurshâh and Jahândârshâh, on fol. 215b; Farrukhsiyar, on fol. 216a; Rafî'-aldarajât and Muḥammadshâh, on fol. 216b (here styled مقالهٔ ششم).

The last three parts correspond to the second maḳâlah and to portions of the fourth and fifth maḳâlas of the original plan.

Second portion: Natural history, on ff. 218b–337b, styled, according to fol. 220b, last line: جامع الاشيا, with the additional title of هشت چمن, beginning:

بنام آنکه در بالا و پستی
زند اسم عظیمش کوس هستی

It is divided into the following eight bâbs:

1. Roses and other flowers (در ذکر اقسام گلهای خوشبو و خوشرنگ), on fol. 221a.

2. Tobacco and other kinds of trees and fruits (در شرح حال بهمرسی تنباکو وغیره بعضی ادویات هر درختی و ذکر اقسام اشجار و میوها), on fol. 233b.

3. Vegetables (در بیان بقولات), on fol. 273b.

4. Cereals (در بیان انواع حبوبات), on fol. 281a.

5. Birds and poultry in the Ghauts (در ذکر اقسام طیور و مرغان که در ملک پایان گهات وبالا گهات پیدا میشوند), on fol. 284b.

6. Beasts of prey, beginning with the lion (در حیوانات مفترس), on fol. 299b.

7. Waterfowls and fishes (در بیان مرغان و حیوانات آبی), on fol. 303b.

8. Domestic animals, principally the horse (در بیان حیوانات انعام), on fol. 313a.

The Nawwâb's zeal for the compilation of this work seems to have been particularly stimulated by the establishment of the Asiatic Society in London in 1822, if we understand the allusion on fol. 3b, first line sq., correctly.

No. 3216, ff. 337, ll. 19; Nasta'lîḳ, by four different hands, the oldest (probably that of Sayyid Murtaḍâ himself) on ff. 1–10, another (the neatest and most distinct of the four) on ff. 11–217, a third on ff. 218–319 and 324–337, a fourth on ff. 320–323; size, 11⅝ in. by 7⅝ in.

Żafarnâma-i-waḳâ'i'-i-ghadr (ظفرنامهٔ وقائع غدر).

A succinct history of the Indian Mutiny in 1857 and 1858, extending from the beginning of July, 1857, to February, 1859, and completed in the same year (A. H. 1276), the title ظفرنامه being a chronogram for that year. It was written by a Muḥammadan who conceals his name, but is upon the whole friendly to the English, for the immediate information of the Secretary of State for India and Members of Council.

Beginning: بسم الله الرّحمٰن الرّحیم ـ هست کلید در گنج حکیم، حبّذا حکمت بالغهٔ خداوند عزّ وجلّ که آبادان کند عالم را از عهد ابو البشر الخ

This copy was completed the 21st of Dhû-alḥijjah, A. H. 1285 (A. D. 1869, 4th of April), and presented to the Library, 1870, March 23. A short English statement about the contents of the book (with the mistaken date of composition, A. H. 1289 instead of 1276), dated February 16, 1870, is inserted before the first page.

No. 3403, ff. 57, ll. 16; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 8½ in. by 5 in.

Dastûr-al'amal (دستور العمل).

The revenue system under the emperor Akbar, said to have been compiled by Râjah Todar Mal (see the colophon and compare Elphinstone, History of India, 5th ed., pp. 510 and 519), Akbar's famous minister of finance; but several portions of the book do not admit of his authorship, for instance, fol. 51a, where Shâhjahânâbâd is mentioned, the new town of Dihlî built in Shâhjahân's reign, long after Todar Mal's death, and on fol. 74b (see the remark on the margin). If the book is really Todar Mal's Dastûr-al'amal, several portions must have been added later by some one else. It was badly copied by a Hindû, ignorant of the Persian language, A. H. 1195 (A. D. 1781), for Mr. Richard Johnson, and is therefore full of the biggest blunders. It is also imperfect. Another note, on fol. 1a, states, that it was copied by 'Rajah Anundarain from a copy belonging to the Nabob Vizier.'

Beginning: فهرست دستور العمل جمع ممالك محروسه بر ورق سیوم) مسافت راه ممالك محروسه الخ).

The first chapter, جمع ممالك, begins on fol. 3b.

No. 1387, ff. 184; large and distinct Nasta'lîḳ; size, 12½ in. by 7⅝ in.

Fihrist-i-Ṣûbajât-i-Hindûstân (فهرست صوبجات هندوستان).

Statistical tables and revenue accounts of the single provinces and districts of Hindûstân, copied from those drawn up by Mr. James Grant (مستر جمس گرانت), beginning with Shâhjahânâbâd. The first page contains an index of the whole.

No date.

No. 1131, ff. 131; Shikasta; size, 10½ in. by 5½ in.

434

Jam'-i-kâmil baḳaid-i-gûshwâra-i-ṣûbajât-i-Hindû Dakhan u tafṣîl-i-parganât-i-ṣûbajât-i-Dakhan (جمع کامل بقید گوشوارهٔ صوبجات هندو دکن وتفصیل پرگنات صوبجات دکن).

Statistical account of the various provinces and districts of Hindûstân and the Dakhan in general and of the latter in particular, made by جکجیون داس, sent from Ḥaidarâbâd in A. H. 1200 (A. D. 1786).

It begins with the district of Shâhjahânâbâd.

No. 1799, ff. 51; Shikasta; size, 10½ in. by 6½ in.

Sind.

435

Ćaćnâma (چچنامه).

The legendary history of the usurpation of Brahman Ćaċ, the Râjah of Alor, and the Arab conquest of Sind, by Muḥammad bin Ḳâsim, A. H. 92 (A. D. 710), translated from an Arabic original by Muḥammad 'Alî bin Ḥâmid bin Abîbakr Kûfî (see fol. 7a, l. 3), who in the reign of Nâṣir-aldîn Ḳabâċa (or Ḳubâċa)-alsalâtîn (A. H. 607–625=A. D. 1210–1228), after having retired from the public service in the 58th year of his life, A. H. 613 (A. D. 1216), devoted himself to reading and studying. This work is also styled تأريخ هند و سند (here on fol. 1a); منهاج الدين (here in the heading of fol. 1b); منهاج الدين والملك (see Rieu iii. p. 949a); فتح نامه (as frequently in the text itself); and منهاج المسالك (as in the Zubdat-altawârîkh and the Ṭabaḳât-i-Akbarî), comp. Rieu i. p. 290 and iii. p. 948; Elliot, History of India, i. pp. 131–211. It is dedicated to Nâṣir-aldîn's wazîr, Ḥusain bin Abîbakr bin Muḥammad al-Ash'arî, the same, to whom 'Aufî presented his لباب الالباب, see A. Sprenger, Catal., p. 1.

Beginning (as in Rieu iii. p. 948): سپاس وستایش مر آن خداوندی را که ذکرکرم او خلاصهٔ ایمانست وشکر نعم او مقدّم امان آن صانعی الخ.

The first pages and some of the last ones too are injured; in several places the damages are repaired by another hand. The same hand has added on eight leaves, attached to this copy, a portion of the work from another MS. (چنانکه از نسخهٔ دیگر). It begins with: خریدن محمّد قاسم مر زن داهر لادی را الخ. Comp. Elliot, History of India, i. p. 192 sq.

No date.

No. 73, ff. 156, ll. 13; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 8¾ in. by 4¾ in.

Ta'rîkh-i-Sind (تأريخ سند).

History of Sind, from the Muḥammadan conquest to the annexation by the emperor Akbar, composed by Muḥammad Ma'ṣûm bin Sayyid Ṣafâ'î alḥusainî alzandî (الزندی instead of the usual altirmidhî) albhakarî, with the takhallus Nâmî (see fol. 2b, ll. 8 and 9), who died shortly after A.H. 1015 (A.D. 1607), comp. Rieu i. p. 291 and iii. p. 949; Elliot, History of India, i. pp. 212–252; W. Morley, p. 72 sq. It is divided into four Juz' or chapters, viz.:

1. History of the early kings of Sind, its conquest by Muḥammad bin Kâsim and its history under the Umayyade and 'Abbâside Khalifs (partly abridged from the preceding Ćaćnâma), on fol. 3a.

2. History of Sind under the Ghaznawides and their successors on the throne of Dihlî to A.H. 801 (A.D. 1399), and history of the Sûmarah and Sammah dynasties, to A.H. 916 (A.D. 1510), on fol. 20a (the heading is here omitted).

3. History of the Arghûnî dynasty to the death of Sulṭân Maḥmûdkhân, A.H. 982 (A.D. 1574), and of some rulers of Tattah till A.H. 993 (A.D. 1585), on fol. 51b.

4. History of Sind from A.H. 982 to the complete subjugation of the country by Akbar in A.H. 1001 (A.D. 1592, 1593), on fol. 164a. The work ends here with the capitulation of Jânîbeg, whose death is recorded in a few lines.

Beginning: بر ضمائر صافیهٔ کارآگهان عالم بی اساس و خواطر زکیهٔ هوشمندان سخن شناس مخفی و مستور نخواهد بود الخ.

Dated the 8th of Jumâdâ-alawwal, A.H. 1186 (A.D. 1772, Aug. 7), by Mażhar-allâh بازیدپوری.

No. 43, ff. 174, ll. 17; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 10¼ in. by 7¼ in.

437

Another copy of the same.

Beginning as in the preceding copy. Juz' I, on fol. 3a; II (heading not marked), on fol. 22b; III, on fol. 53a; IV, on fol. 153a. Copied by 'Abd-al'azîz for Colonel Mackenzie, and finished the 26th of Dhû-alḥijjah, A.H. 1216 (A.D. 1802, April 29).

No. 2952, ff. 163, ll. 15; Shikasta; size, 10¼ in. by 6¼ in.

Gujarât.

Mirât-i-Sikandarî (مرآت سکندری).

History of Gujarât, from the foundation of the monarchy to the suicide of Sulṭân Muẓaffar III, the last king of Gujarât, A.H. 1000 (A.D. 1591, 1592), by Sikandar bin Muḥammad, surnamed Manjhû (or Manjhû Akbar, as in other copies), who completed this work in A.H. 1020, or (according to one copy in the Bodleian Library, Hunt. 230) A.H. 1022, 9th of Rabî'-alawwal (A.D. 1611 or 1613, April 29); comp. Bodleian Cat., Nos. 272–275; Rieu i. p. 287 sq.; W. Morley, p. 83; W. Pertsch, Berlin Cat. p. 488 sq.; and Sir Edward Clive Bayley, 'The Local Muhammadan Dynasties. Gujarât,' London, 1886 (a sequel to Elliot's History of India), which contains an almost complete translation of this work, with numerous annotations. The text has been lithographed, A.H. 1246 (A.D. 1831), and printed at Bombay, 1851.

The present copy, although not dated, is perhaps the best and most correct in the India Office collection, and at least as old as the following ones, if not older. A seal with the date A.H. 1056 (A.D. 1646) on fol. 1a. It belonged formerly to Mr. Richard Johnson, whose escutcheon, with the date A.H. 1194 (A.D. 1780), is found on the inner side of the binding.

Beginning: الحمد لله الذی جعل فردًا من افراد البشر سلطانا بین الانام الخ.

The work contains the reigns of the following twelve Shâhs, with the dates of their accession:

1. Żafarkhân, afterwards Muẓaffar Shâh I, A.H. 810 (A.D. 1407), on fol. 3a (the date on fol. 12b).

2. Sulṭân Aḥmad I, A.H. 813, 14th of Ramaḍân (A.D. 1411, Jan. 10), on fol. 14b.

3. Sulṭân Muḥammad bin Aḥmad, A.H. 845 (A.D. 1441), on fol. 31b.

4. Sulṭân Ḳuṭb-aldîn bin Muḥammadshâh, known as Jalâlkhân, A.H. 855, 11th of Muḥarram (A.D. 1451, Febr. 13), on fol. 34b.

5. Sulṭân Dâ'ûd bin Aḥmadshâh, A.H. 863, 23rd of Rajab (A.D. 1459, May 26).

6. Sulṭân Maḥmûd I, A.H. 863, first of Sha'bân (A.D. 1459, June 3), on fol. 50a.

7. Sulṭân Muẓaffar II, A.H. 917, the 7th of Ramaḍân (A.H. 1511, Nov. 28), on fol. 103a.

8. Sulṭân Sikandar bin Muẓaffar, A.H. 932, 22nd of Jumâdâ-alâkhar (A.D. 1526, April 5, but see the suggestion in Bayley, p. 307, note 3), on fol. 146b.

9. Sulṭân Bahâdurshâh, A.H. 932, 26th of Ramaḍân (A.D. 1526, July 6), on fol. 155b (Bayley inserts between 8 and 9 the short reign of a certain Maḥmûdshâh II, see p. 318 sq.).

10. Sulṭân Maḥmûd II (styled Maḥmûd III by Bayley, but called here distinctly سلطان محمود ثانی; there is moreover in Bayley another reign inserted between 9 and 10, that of Muḥammadshâh Fârûḳî, see ib., p. 399), A.H. 943 (A.D. 1537), on fol. 203b.

11. Sulṭân Aḥmadshâh II bin Laṭîfkhân, A.H. 961, 15th of Rabî'-alawwal (A.D. 1554, Febr. 18), on fol. 239b.

12. Sulṭân Muẓaffar III, A. H. 968, Ramaḍân (A. D. 1561, May, June), on fol. 268a (the last two reigns are entirely omitted in Bayley's work).

No. 1038, ff. 299, ll. 19; good Nasta'lîḳ; illuminated frontispiece, the first two pages neatly embellished; size, 9¾ in. by 5 in.

Another copy of the same.

Beginning as usual. Dated in the month Dhû-alḳa'dah, A. H. 1046 (A. D. 1637, end of March to end of April).

No. 970, ff. 166, ll. 21–24; written by different hands, partly in Nasta'lîḳ, partly in Shikasta; some portions collated; size, 14½ in. by 8 in.

440

The same.

This copy, which is in a very bad condition, owing to the destructive work of the worms, was completed the 5th of Shawwâl, A. H. 1072 (A. D. 1662, May 24).

Beginning: فردًا (here جعل is omitted) الحمد لله الذى من افراد الخ.

No. 3002, ff. 397, ll. 17–20; Naskhî, mixed with Shikasta; size, 9¾ in. by 5¼ in.

441

The same.

Dated the 12th of Shawwâl, A. H. 1190 (1183 of the Bangâlî era = A. D. 1776, Nov. 24).

No. 404, ff. 312, ll. 15; written by different hands, partly in Nasta'lîḳ, partly in Shikasta; size, 9¾ in. by 6¾ in.

A defective copy of the same.

This copy is worm-eaten and more or less injured throughout; there is a large lacuna after fol. 2, comprising according to the Arabic pagination twenty-three leaves, and corresponding to No. 1038 (438 in this Cat.), fol. 2b, l. 12, to fol. 25a, l. 13.

Dated the 27th of Rajab, A. H. 1049 (A. D. 1639, November 23), by 'Abd-al'azîz al-ḳuraishî. The author's name appears here on fol. 1b, l. 6, in full: Sikandar bin Muḥammad Manjhû Akbar. Haileybury MS.

No. 3378, olim 14. J. 17, ff. 241, ll. 19 in the older part on ff. 3–16, 18–79, and 85–97; ll. 17 in the more modern part on ff. 1, 2, 17, 80–84, and 98–241; Nasta'lîḳ, by two hands; size, 8½ in. by 4½ in.

Another, still more defective, copy of the same.

This copy, greatly damaged, begins: الحمد لله الذى جعل افراد (read: فردًا) من افراد البشر سلطانًا الخ.

The author's name, on fol. 1b, l. 5, is given simply as: Sikandar bin Manjhû. A large lacuna after fol. 5, comprising the end of Muẓaffarshâh's reign and the reigns of Aḥmadshâh and Muḥammadshâh, corresponding to No. 1038, fol. 6a, l. 13, to fol. 42b, l. 11. Fol. 6 opens in A. H. 855, the year of Ḳuṭb-aldîn Shâh's accession. Another lacuna after fol. 201 (in the reign of Aḥmadshâh II), corresponding to No. 1038, fol. 254a, l. 9, to fol. 256a, l. 14. The copy breaks off on fol. 240b, corresponding to No. 1038, fol. 297b, l. 14. On fol. 1a there appears in the same handwriting the end of a condensed prose-narrative of Firdausî's Shâhnâma, entitled مضمون شاهنامهٔ فردوسى (argument of Firdausî's Shâhnâma). Bibliotheca Leydeniana.

No. 1821, ff. 240, ll. 19; Nasta'lîḳ; large waterspots; size, 9 in. by 5 in.

Mirât-i-Aḥmadî (مرآت احمدى).

A very extensive and rare history of Gujarât, from the earliest times to the defeat of the Mahrattas in A. H. 1174 (A. D. 1760, 1761), composed by 'Alî Muḥammadkhân, who began the introduction of this work in A. H. 1170 = A. D. 1756, 1757 (see fol. 8b, l. 14), the fourth year of the reign of 'Âlamgîr II; comp. Rieu i. pp. 288 and 289; W. Morley, pp. 84–86; Cat. Codd. Or. Lugd. Bat. iii. p. 13; Bayley, 'The Local Muhammadan Dynasties. Gujarât,' p. xix sq. and p. 2 sq. (where a condensed translation of the earlier parts of this work is given). Muḳaddimah, on fol. 9b; beginning of the ante-Muḥammadan period, on fol. 18a; beginning of the Muḥammadan rulers, on fol. 23a. A khâtimah or appendix, containing geographical, topographical, and biographical matters concerning Gujarât, on ff. 651b–812b.

Beginning: فهرس نسخهٔ دفتر كل حمد پادشاه مالك الملكى كه نصب و عزل فرمان روايان ممالك هفت اقليم و واليان تخت و ديهيم و اورنگ نشينان الخ.

Dated the 6th of Rabî'-alawwal, in the twenty-sixth year of Shâh 'Âlam's reign (A. H. 1199 = A. D. 1785, January 17), by Luṭf-allâh. The first part of this work has been translated by Dr. J. Bird for the Oriental Translation Fund: 'The political and statistical history of Gujarât, translated from the Persian of Alî Mohammed Khân,' London, 1835.

No. 222, ff. 812, ll. 15; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 8½ in. by 7½ in.

The Dakhan.

a. General History.

445

Ta'rîkh-i-Dilkushâ (تأريخ دلكشا).

Part of the annals of military transactions in the Dakhan under the emperor 'Âlamgîr, from about A. H. 1068 to A. H. 1120 (A. D. 1658–1708), by Bhimsen ibn Raghûnandandâs (بهيمسين ابن رگهونندن داس), entitled دلكشا (see author's name and title on fol. 3b, ll. 4 and 10). The author was born in the twenty-third year of Shâhjahân's reign, A. H. 1059 (A. D. 1649), see a fuller description of this work in Rieu i. p. 271. Our copy is imperfect at the end, only going down to about the thirtieth year of 'Âlamgîr's reign, A. H. 1098 (A. D. 1687). An abridged translation of these annals is found in Jonathan Scott's 'History of the Dekkan,' vol. ii. pp. 3–123.

Beginning: ستايش و نيايش معبودى را سزد كه قالب انسان را از كتم عدم بوجود آورد الخ.

No. 94, ff. 105, ll. 13; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 7¼ in. by 5¼ in.

Kaḍâyâi-Salâṭîn-i-Dakhan (قضایای سلاطین دکن).

A history of the Dakhan, compiled chiefly on the basis of Firishta's Gulshan-i-Ibrâhîmî (see Nos. 291–304 in this Cat.), by Mirzâ Mahdikhân, i. e. Nizâm-aldîn Muḥammad Hâdî alḥusainî alṣafawî, the author of the تأریخ نادری (Bodleian Cat., Nos. 302–306) and the مجموعهٔ میرزا مهدی خانی (see above, Nos. 412–414), in A.H. 1156, A.D. 1743 (the title is a chronogram). According to the index on the second page, this work was to contain seven bâbs, viz.:

1. Bahmanî Sulṭâns of Gulbargah; 2. 'Âdilshâhs of Bijâpûr; 3. Nizâmshâhs of Aḥmadnagar; 4. Kuṭb-shâhs of Tiling; 5. 'Imâdshâhs of Barâr; 6. Barîdiyyah Shâhs of Bidar; 7. Fârûḳî Sulṭâns of Khândîs, etc., with a khâtimah on the history of Malabar and Sarândîb and the European settlements in India. But this copy (or perhaps the work itself) is incomplete, giving only the first bâb (the Bahmanîs) from A.H. 748 to A.H. 934 (A.D. 1347–1528), and the greater part of the second bâb (the 'Âdilshâhs) to A.H. 1005 (A.D. 1596, 1597).

Beginning: سپاس و ستایش بی قیاس پادشاه ازل و ابد بارگاه بحکم کلّ یوم و هو فی شان الخ.

The second bâb begins on fol. 70a.

No. 339, ff. 9–109, ll. 25; careless Nasta'lîḳ; size, 11¼ in. by 7 in.

Tanmîḳ-i-Shigarf (تنمیق شگرف).

History of the Dakhan, compiled by Lachmî Narâyan, with the takhallus Shafîḳ (comp. No. 426 above and No. 468 below), A.H. 1200=A.D. 1786 (the title is a chronogram); see the references made to this work in Rieu i. p. 238b and ii. p. 860a. It begins on fol. 2a with a topographical and statistical account of the different ṣûbahs; on fol. 40b follows the history of the conquest of the Dakhan under the kings of Dihlî; on fol. 43a that of the Bahmanî Sulṭâns, abridged from Firishta, and finally the ملوك الطوائف in several subdivisions, viz.: 1. 'Âdilshâhs of Bijâpûr, on fol. 51b; 2. Nizâmshâhs of Aḥmadnagar, on fol. 54b; 3. 'Imâdshâhs of Barâr, on fol. 58a; 4. Kuṭbshâhs of Ḥaidarâbâd, on fol. 58b; 5. Fârûḳî Sulṭâns of Khândîs, on fol. 61a; 6. Barîdiyyah Sulṭâns of Bidar, on fol. 62b.

On fol. 63a begins the account of the Moghul emperors (ذکر سلاطین تیموریّه) down to A.H. 1200.

Beginning of the whole work:

Burhân-i-Maâthir (برهان مآثر).

An excellent, but defective copy of 'Alî bin 'Azîz-allâh Ṭabâṭabâ's history of the Bahmanîs and Nizâm-shâhîs of Gulbargah, Bîdar, and Aḥmadnagar, commenced A.H. 1000 = A.D. 1592 (the title is a chronogram), and completed in or shortly after A.H. 1004 (A.D. 1596), comp. Rieu i. pp. 314 and 315, and iii. p. 1085a. Six leaves are missing at the beginning of this copy, and possibly one or two at the end. It opens abruptly in the first ṭabaḳah (Gulbargah), in the reign of Sulṭân 'Alâ-aldîn Ḥasanshâh Bahmanî (A.H. 742–758 = A.D. 1342–1357), thus: وزیر صافی ضمیر مردم آنملك از فتنه و فساد ایمن الخ.

The first heading appears on fol. 6a: ذکر توجّه رایات فتح آیات سلطان بصوب گلبرگه بجهت دفع مفسدان.

The following reigns (with the respective dates of accession) are these:

Sulṭân Muḥammadshâh I bin Sulṭân 'Alâ-aldîn Ḥasanshâh Bahmanî (A.H. 758–775=A.D. 1357–1373), on fol. 15a.

Sulṭân Mujâhidshâh bin Sulṭân Muḥammadshâh Bahmanî (A.H. 775–779, 18th of Dhû-alḥijjah=A.D. 1373–1378, April 17), on fol. 16b.

Sulṭân Dâ'ûdshâh I bin Maḥmûdkhân bin Sulṭân 'Alâ-aldîn (A.H. 779–780, Muḥarram=A.D. 1378, April to May), on fol. 17b.

Sulṭân Abû-almuẓaffar Muḥammadshâh II bin Maḥ-mûdkhân (A.H. 780–799, 26th of Rajab=A.D. 1378–1397, April 25), on fol. 18a.

Sulṭân Abû-almuẓaffar Ghiyâth-aldîn Bahmanshâh bin Sulṭân Muḥammadshâh II (A.H. 799, Rajab to 17th of Ramaḍân=A.D. 1397, April to June 14), on fol. 19a.

Sulṭân Shams-aldîn Dâ'ûdshâh II bin Sulṭân Muḥam-madshâh II (A.H. 799–800, 23rd of Ṣafar=A.D. 1397, June to Nov. 15), on fol. 19b.

Sulṭân Tâj-aldîn Abû-almuẓaffar Fîrûzshâh bin Aḥmadkhân bin Sulṭân 'Alâ-aldîn Bahmanî (A.H. 800–825, 11th of Shawwâl=A.D. 1397–1422, September 28), on fol. 21a.

Second ṭabaḳah (Bîdar).

Sulṭân Shihâb-aldîn Abû-alghâzi Aḥmadshâh I bin Aḥmadkhân bin 'Alâ-aldîn Bahmanî (A.H. 825–838= A.D. 1422–1435), on fol. 29a.

Sulṭân 'Alâ-aldîn Abû-almuẓaffar Aḥmadshâh II bin Aḥmadshâh (A.H. 838, 22nd of Rajab, to 862, end of Jumâdâ-alawwal=A.D. 1435, February 21, to 1458, April), on fol. 46a.

Sulṭân Humâyûnshâh bin 'Alâ-aldîn Aḥmadshâh II (A.H. 862–865, 27th of Dhû-alḳa'dah=A.D. 1458–1461, September 3), on fol. 57b.

Sulṭân Nizâmshâh bin Humâyûnshâh (A.H. 865–867, 13th of Dhû-alḳa'dah=A.D. 1461–1463, July 30), on fol. 64b.

Sulṭân Muḥammadshâh bin Sulṭân Humâyûnshâh (A.H. 867–887, 5th of Ṣafar=A.D. 1463–1482, March 26), on fol. 75a.

Sulṭân Maḥmûdshâh bin Muḥammadshâh (A.H. 887–924, 24th of Dhû-alḥijjah=A.D. 1482–1518, December 27, not 904, as in Rieu, loc. cit., since it is distinctly stated that he reigned 37 years and some months), on fol. 97b.

Third ṭabaḳah (Aḥmadnagar).

Sulṭân Aḥmad Barrî (A.H. 891–911=A.D. 1486–1505, see fol. 160b sq.), on fol. 125b.

Sulṭân Abû-almuẓaffar Burhân Nizâmshâh (A.H. 911–961, 24th of Muḥarram=A.D. 1505–1553, December 30, see fol. 312a), on fol. 186a.

Sulṭân Ḥusainshâh Nizâmshâh (A.H. 961–972, 7th of Dhû-alḳa'dah=A.D. 1553–1565, June 6, see fol. 376a), on fol. 319a.

Sulṭân Abû-alghâzî Murtaḍâ Nizâmshâh (A.H. 972–996, 18th of Rajab=A.D. 1565–1588, June 13, see fol. 521b), on fol. 376b.

Shâhzâda Mîrânshâh Ḥusain bin Murtaḍâ (A.H. 996–997, Rajab=A.D. 1588–1589, May), on fol. 524b.

The subsequent reigns and events from A.H. 997 to 1004 (A.D. 1589–1596) are no longer kept distinct; a detailed account of them is given by Rieu, loc. cit. Ṣalâbatkhân's escape from the fortress of Karlah (قلعهٔ كرلة) is narrated on fol. 538b sq., 'Âdilshâh's arrival and war with Jamâlkhân on fol. 543a sq.; expedition against the Portuguese on fol. 548b sq.; punishment of the traitors on fol. 552b sq.

The same gap in the narrative, noticed by Rieu, is found here between ff. 556 and 557 (fol. 557a being left blank, and fol. 557b beginning with a new بسم الله الرحمٰن الرحيم). Advance of the Moghuls into the Dakhan, on fol. 557b sq.; night attack (شبخون) of Abhangkhân, on fol. 565a sq.; breach made in the wall of the fortress of Aḥmadnagar, on fol. 574a sq.; peace made with prince Murâd, on fol. 583a sq.; departure of the Moghuls and submission of Ikhlâṣkhân and others, 27th of Rajab, A.H. 1004 (A.D. 1596, March 27), on fol. 590a.

No date.

No. 127, ff. 590, ll. 19; clear and distinct Nasta'lîḳ; size, 11¾ in. by 7 in.

Tawârîkh-i-Haft Kursî (تواريخ هفت كرسى).

A short history of the 'Âdilshâhs of Bijâpûr, from the reign of Yûsuf 'Âdilshâh to the conquest of Bijâpûr, by 'Âlamgîr, in A.H. 1097 (A.D. 1686), identical in its contents, its conciseness, and its richness of dates with the احوال سلاطين بيجاپور, described in W. Morley, p. 77, and Rieu i. p. 318, but nevertheless, as it appears, of different authorship, since the short preface—provided that there is no preliminary portion missing—contains no allusion to the two previous works on which that history of the 'Âdilshâhs is based. This copy contains only a reference to 'Abd-almuḥammad Shâhnawâzkhân, at whose request the anonymous author (who is called—apparently on no authority—on the fly-leaf فتورخان) compiled this abridgment. It is divided into seven majlis, dealing with the first seven rulers of Bijâpûr, viz.: 1. Yûsuf 'Âdilshâh, died A. H. 925=A. D. 1519 (on fol. 3a); 2. Isma'îl 'Âdilshâh, died A. H. 931=A. D. 1524, 1525 (on fol. 10a); 3. Ibrâhîm 'Âdilshâh I, died A. H. 965=A. D. 1558 (on fol. 11a); 4. 'Alî 'Âdilshâh I, died A. H. 988=A. D. 1580 (on fol. 20b); 5. Ibrâhîm 'Âdilshâh II, died A. H. 1036=A. D. 1626 (on fol. 24b); 6. Muḥammad 'Âdilshâh, died A. H. 1067 =A. D. 1656 (on fol. 27a); 7. 'Alî 'Âdilshâh II, died A. H. 1083=A. D. 1672 (on fol. 31b). A short appendix contains a tabulated list of these seven rulers and a few words about Sikandar 'Âdilshâh, to A. H. 1097 (A. D. 1686).

Beginning: اوّلاً تواریخ هفت کرسی تُند آیان (؟) و چند در چند روز الخ.

No. 3051, ff. 1–46, ll. 8–10; Shikasta; size, 8¼ in. by 5¼ in.

Basâtîn-i-Salâṭîn (بساتین سلاطین).

A history of the 'Âdilshâhs of Bijâpûr, from the origin of the dynasty to its last representative, Sulṭân Sikandar, and its overthrow by 'Âlamgîr, compiled by Muḥammad Ibrâhîm al-zubairî (see fol. 3b, l. 11), and entitled بساتین السلاطین (ff. 3b, l. 9, and 435b, last line). The author's name therefore, as given here, agrees completely with that in W. Morley, p. 79, and the same is the case with the date of composition, viz. A. H. 1240 = A. D. 1824, 1825 (see ff. 431a, last line but one, and 433b, l. 12, where the author states that it is the eighth year now since the conquest of Bijâpûr by the English, which took place A. H. 1233). A different author's name and an earlier date, viz. A. H. 1237 (A. D. 1821, 1822), are found in Rieu's copies, i. p. 319 sq.

Beginning: سپاس گوناگون و ستایش از حدّ افزون مر صانعی را سزد که بقدرت کاملهٔ خود الخ.

The authorities on which the author based his work are six, viz.:

1. Muḥammad Ḳâsim Firishta's Naurasnâma (or Gulshan-i-Ibrâhîmî), composed A. H. 1015, see Nos. 291–304 in this Catalogue.

2. Mîr Rafî'-aldîn Shîrâzî's Tadhkirat-almulûk, composed between A. H. 1017 and 1020 (not 1000, as Morley states), see Bodleian Cat., No. 276, and Rieu i. p. 316.

3. Mullâ Ẓuhûr ibn Mullâ Ẓuhûrî Ḳâ'inî's Muḥammadnâma, composed in Sulṭân Muḥammad 'Âdilshâh's reign.

4. Sayyid Nûr-allâh ibn Ḳâḍî Sayyid 'Alî Muḥammad Nûr-allâh's Inshâ-i-'Alî 'Âdilshâhiyyah, composed in 'Alî 'Âdilshâh II's reign, that is, the Ta'rîkh-i-'Alî 'Âdilshâh, see Nos. 450–453 in this Catalogue.

5. Miyân Nuṣratî, the king of poets in the Dakhan's versified 'Alînâma, composed in the same reign.

6. Shaikh Abû-alḥasan ibn Ḳâḍî 'Abd-al'azîz's history of the 'Âdilshâh dynasty down to Sikandarshâh, compiled at the end of A. H. 1110.

No mention of Mr. Grant Duff is found here. The work is divided into eight gardens (bûstân) and an appendix, viz.:

Bûstân I, on fol. 3b: Reign of Yûsuf 'Âdilshâh, who founded Bijâpûr, A. H. 919=A. D. 1513 (see fol. 18b, lin. penult.), and died A. H. 925 (according to others already A. H. 913 or 916, see fol. 17b, last two lines).

Bûstân II, on fol. 19a: Reign of Isma'îl 'Âdilshâh, A. H. 925–941 (A. D. 1519–1534), see fol. 38a, last line (not 931, as Rieu and the immediately preceding Haft Kursî state).

Bûstân III, on fol. 39b: Reign of Ibrâhîm 'Âdilshâh I, A. H. 941–965, see fol. 61b, l. 7.

Bûstân IV, on fol. 62b: Reign of 'Alî 'Âdilshâh I, A. H. 965–988 (see the ta'rîkh on his death, شاه جهان شد شهید, on fol. 142b, l. 8).

Bûstân V, on fol. 143a: Reign of Ibrâhîm 'Âdilshâh II, A. H. 988–1037 (1036 in the Haft Kursî), see fol. 240b, first line.

Bûstân VI, on fol. 240b: Reign of Muḥammad 'Âdilshâh, A. H. 1037–1067, see fol. 279a, l. 7.

Bûstân VII, on fol. 286b: Reign of 'Alî 'Âdilshâh II, A. H. 1067–1083, see fol. 318a, first line (Rieu's copies fix his accession in A. H. 1048=A. D. 1638).

Bûstân VIII, on fol. 318a: Reign of Sikandar 'Âdilshâh, who ascended the throne in A. H. 1083 (A. D. 1672), and died A. H. 1111 (A. D. 1699, 1700), see fol. 413a, first line.

A supplement, dealing with the last years of 'Âlamgîr's reign, followed by a short summary of subsequent events down to A. H. 1233 (A. D. 1818), the date of Bijâpûr's conquest by the English, on fol. 417a sq.

Some leaves injured, for instance, ff. 143 and 144.

No. 3406, ff. 435, written by a number of different hands; the main portion, ff. 25–270a middle and 320–435, in very unequal Shikasta, ll. 11–20; another portion, ff. 1–24, in very clear and distinct Nasta'lîḳ, ll. 15; and a third portion, ff. 270a middle to 319, in another smaller Nasta'lîḳ, ll. 21; size, 9½ in. by 5¼ in.

Ta'rîkh-i-Sulṭân Muḥammad Ḳuṭbshâhî (تأریخ سلطان محمّد قطبشاهی).

History of the Ḳuṭbshâhî dynasty of Gulkundah, by an anonymous author, commenced A. H. 1026 (A. D. 1617) and completed in the beginning of A. H. 1027 (A. D. 1618). It was dedicated to Sulṭân Muḥammad Ḳuṭbshâh, see Bodleian Cat., No. 277; Rieu i. p. 320; W. Morley, p. 82; Cat. Cold. Or. Lugd. Bat. iii. p. 10.

Beginning: تحمیدی که شاهباز بلند پرواز اندیشه بساحت کبریای آن طیران نتواند نمود الخ.

Muḳaddimah, containing an account of Ḳarâ Yûsuf Turkmân and his family, on fol. 3a.

Maḳâlah I: History of Sulṭân Ḳulî Ḳuṭb-almulk, who founded the dynasty, and died A. H. 950 (A. D. 1543, 1544), on fol. 29b.

Maḳâlah II: History of Sulṭân Jamshîd (died A. H. 957=A. D. 1550) and of Sulṭân Subḥân Ḳulî, on fol. 92a.

Maḳâlah III: History of Sulṭân Ibrâhîm Ḳuṭbshâh, died A. H. 988 (A. D. 1580), on fol. 113a.

Maḳâlah IV: History of Sulṭân Muḥammad Ḳulî Ḳuṭbshâh, died A. H. 1020 (A. D. 1612), on fol. 190b.

Khâtimah: History of the first five years of Sulṭân

Muḥammad Ḳuṭbshâh's reign, from his accession, the 17th of Dhû-alḳa'dah, A. H. 1020 (see fol. 256b, ll. 4 and 3 ab infra)=A. D. 1612, Jan. 21, to the end of A. H. 1025 (end of A. D. 1616), on fol. 254a.

This work is interspersed with much poetry, and the khâtimah especially contains a long series of ghazals, rubâ'is, marthiyyas, ḳaṣîdas, etc., composed by Muḥammad Ḳuṭbshâh himself; all the ghazals bearing consequently the takhallus ظلّ الهی or سلطان.

This copy was finished the 20th of Ramaḍân, A. H. 1078 (A. D. 1668, March 4), by Shaikh 'Abd-alḥakîm.

No. 179, ff. 280, ll. 15; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 11½ in. by 6½ in.

Another copy of the same.

Muḳaddimah, on fol. 2a.

Maḳâlah I, on fol. 24b; II, on fol. 82a; III, on fol. 100a; IV, on fol. 169a.

Khâtimah, on fol. 225a.

The greater portion of this copy was transcribed by Shaikh 'Abd-alḳâdir bin Shaikh 'Abd-allaṭîf of Baghdâd, the servant of 'Abdallâh alnaṣîri alćishti at Ḥaidarâbâd, from a MS. in the library of Mîr Shams-aldîn 'Alî Khânṣâḥib; the muḳaddimah is dated the 15th of Shawwâl, A. H. 1197 (A. D. 1783, September 13); the first maḳâlah, the 22nd of Ṣafar, A. H. 1198 (A. D. 1784, January 16), the second, the 1st of Rabî'-alawwal, A. H. 1198 (A. D. 1784, January 24), the third, the 1st of Rabî'-althânî, A. H. 1198 (A. D. 1784, February 23); the khâtimah, the 20th of Rabî'-althânî, A. H. 1198 (A. D. 1784, March 13). Some leaves are supplied by Mîr Faṣîḥ, a few others by Mîr Ḥaidar 'Alî.

No. 1136, ff. 249, ll. 17; irregular Nasta'lîḳ; size, 10½ in. by 6½ in.

Maḳâlah I, on fol. 16b; II, on fol. 50a; III, on fol. 61a; IV, on fol. 102a. Khâtimah, on fol. 134b.

Copied A. H. 1219 (A. D. 1804, 1805), from a MS., dated the 12th of Rajab, A. H. 1171 (A. D. 1758, March 22). Presented by J. H. Peile, Esq., and received 19th of September, 1818; transferred to Civil Coll., August 9, 1819.

No. 3282, ff. 146, ll. 25; careless Nasta'lîḳ, mixed with Shikasta; size, 12½ in. by 7½ in.

The same.

This copy is not dated. Muḳaddimah, on fol. 2b.

Maḳâlah I, on fol. 26b; II, on fol. 84b; III, on fol. 107a; IV, on fol. 180b. Khâtimah, on fol. 238a.

No. 37, ff. 263, ll. 17; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 9½ in. by 6 in.

A defective copy of the same.

This excellent old copy is incomplete at the end; all the specimens of Muḥammad Ḳuṭbshâh's poetry are missing, as well as the verses with which the other parts of the book are interspersed.

Muḳaddimah, on fol. 3a.

Maḳâlah I, on fol. 34b; II, on fol. 104b; III, on fol. 128a; IV, on fol. 231a. Khâtimah, on fol. 303a. It breaks off on fol. 314b. Last chapter-heading (corresponding to No. 179, 456 in this Cat., fol. 269b): بیان شمّهٔ از جامعیّت ذات قدسی صفات و بعضی خصائل مرضیّهٔ حضرت ظلّ الله.

Last words (corresponding to No. 179, fol. 270a, l. 9): که مؤرّخان زمان هرگونه حکایتی را که ابتدا نمایند آنحضرت باختلاف روایات بد اتمام رسانند و همواره با ارباب فضل و حکمت ....

A portion, ff. 188b and 189a, is left blank, but the text is uninterrupted.

No. 2413, ff. 314, ll. 15; splendid Naskhî; size, 12½ in. by 7½ in.

Another defective copy of the same.

This copy is apparently transcribed from the preceding, No. 2413, as it breaks off exactly in the same place, and has the same blank in the third maḳâlah, on ff. 147b and 148a.

Muḳaddimah, on fol. 3a.

Maḳâlah I, on fol. 31a; II, on fol. 84a; III, on fol. 102a; IV, on fol. 180a.

Khâtimah, on fol. 235b.

Last words, as in the preceding copy: باختلاف روایات بد اتمام رسانند و همواره با ارباب فضل و حکمت.....

No date.

No. 2908, ff. 245, ll. 15; large Nasta'lîḳ; size, 11½ in. by 7 in.

A still more defective copy of the same.

This otherwise excellent copy comprises only the muḳaddimah and the four maḳâlas, but here the fourth maḳâlah is put before the third. The whole khâtimah is wanting, and there is besides a lacuna of four or five leaves after fol. 141 (at the end of the fourth maḳâlah), corresponding to No. 179, 456 in this Catalogue, fol. 248b, l. 4 ab infra to fol. 254a.

Muḳaddimah, on fol. 2b.

Maḳâlah I, on fol. 23b; II, on fol. 75b; III, on fol. 142b; IV, on fol. 94b.

No date.

Maâthir-i-Ḳuṭbshâhî Maḥmûdî (مآثر قطبشاهی محمودی).

A very summary account of the reign of Sulṭân Muḥammad Ḳuṭbshâh (A. H. 1020–1035=A. D. 1612–1626), together with a detailed account of all the contemporary events, especially in the Ṣafawî dynasty, with which the ruler of Gulkundah maintained friendly relations (see Rieu i. p. 186b), by Muḥammad bin 'Abdallâh of Nishâpûr, who entered the service of Sulṭân Muḥammad Kuli Ḳuṭbshâh, A. H. 995 (A. D. 1587), see fol. 3b sq. Originally he wrote it in three volumes, but afterwards he several times altered and enriched it, especially after a long journey through Persia, and a pilgrimage to Makkah. The present copy is only a portion of the whole work, and incomplete at the end; as the current year is mentioned A. H. 1033 (A. D. 1624), on fol. 153a, l. 22, but a later date, A. H. 1038 (A. D. 1629), the year of Shâh 'Abbâs' death and Shâh Ṣafi's accession, appears on fol. 172a. It begins, on fol. 5a, with an account of the Ṣafawis, from Shaikh Ṣafi to Shâh 'Abbâs, to whom the largest portion of this MS. is devoted (in twelve maḳâlas, on the basis of Iskandar Munshi's تأريخ عالم آراى عبّاسى, comp. Rieu i. p. 187a). The account of the Ḳuṭbshâhi dynasty begins on fol. 86a, but already on fol. 92a the Persian history is continued.

The تأريخ قطبشاه محمودى is often quoted.

Beginning: صد هزاران هزار جواهر حمد و سپاس و غرر درر ثناء بيقياس نثار حضرت با جلالت آفريدگارى كه مناشير نافذ حكم ازلى الخ.

No. 841, ff. 180, ll. 25; distinct Nasta'lîḳ; illuminated frontispiece; size, 14½ in. by 8½ in.

Ḥadîḳat-alsalâṭîn (حديقة السلاطين).

The history of Sulṭân 'Abdallâh Ḳuṭbshâh of Gulkundah, who was born A. H. 1023 = A. D. 1614 (chronograms for his birth, see on fol. 7a, last line, كام بخش جانها; on fol. 7b, l. 5, خلد الله عمره ابدا, etc.), and succeeded his father, Sulṭân Muḥammad, A. H. 1035 (A. D. 1626). The history goes down to the end of the sixteenth year of his reign, A. H. 1050=A. D. 1640, 1641 (see the beginning of that year, on fol. 215a, last line). The author's name is: Niẓâm-aldîn Aḥmad bin 'Abdallâh alshirâzi alṣâ'idi, see fol. 3a, ll. 4 and 5. Like the copies in the British Museum (see Rieu i. p. 321) and in the Mackenzie Collection, this work is styled on fol. 1b: تأريخ قطبشاهى جلد دويم, with the addition of سنهٔ ١٠٦٩ (1069), as if it were the second volume of the 'Ta'rîkh-i-Sulṭân Muḥammad Ḳuṭbshâhi' (see above, Nos. 456–462), of which there is nowhere the slightest indication. The proper title appears here, on fol. 4a, l. 2.

Beginning: شكر و سپاس و ستايش بيقياس حضرت پادشاهى الخ.

Copied at Madras, 1807.

No. 2978, ff. 224, ll. 15; written by four different hands, the first two, ff. 1–80 and 81–136, in Nasta'lîḳ, the last two, ff. 137–213 and 214–224, in Shikasta; size, 10 in. by 6½ in.

Ḥadîḳat-al'âlam (حديقة العالم).

The first maḳâlah of the history of the Ḳuṭbshâhs and the Niẓâms or Âṣafîs of Ḥaidarâbâd, by Niẓâm 'Alî Âṣafjah II's minister, Abû-alḳâsim bin Raḍi-aldîn almûsawi, with the epithet Mîr 'Âlam (see title and author's name, on fol. 6a, l. 14, and fol. 5b, ll. 2 and 3), who completed this work after A. H. 1218 (A. D. 1803, 1804), and died A. H. 1223 (A. D. 1808), see Rieu i. p. 323 sq. Lithographed in Ḥaidarâbâd, A. H. 1265. This first maḳâlah, dealing with the Ḳuṭbshâhs only, is subdivided into a muḳaddimah and seven bâbs:

Muḳaddimah: Pedigree of Sulṭân Ḳuli Ḳuṭbshâh, on fol. 6b.

Bâb I: Reign of Sulṭân Ḳuli Ḳuṭbshâh (who died after 44 years of independent sovereignty, A. H. 950= A. D. 1543, 1544), on fol. 7a, in three faṣls.

Bâb II: Reign of Sulṭân Jamshîd Ḳuṭbshâh (who died A. H. 957=A. D. 1550) and of prince Subḥân Ḳuli, his son, on fol. 44b, likewise in three faṣls.

Bâb III: Reign of Sulṭân Ibrâhîm Ḳuṭbshâh (who died A. H. 988=A. D. 1580), on fol. 59a, again in three faṣls.

Bâb IV: Reign of Sulṭân Muḥammad Ḳuli Ḳuṭbshâh (who died A. H. 1020=A. D. 1612), on fol. 108b, in three faṣls.

Bâb V: Reign of Sulṭân Muḥammad Ḳuṭbshâh (who died A. H. 1035=A. D. 1626), on fol. 143a, in three faṣls.

Bâb VI: Reign of Sulṭân 'Abdallâh Ḳuṭbshâh (who died A. H. 1083=A. D. 1672), on fol. 163a, in three faṣls.

Bâb VII: Reign of Sulṭân Abû-alḥasan Ḳuṭbshâh, known as Tânâshâh (who was deposed by 'Âlamgîr, in A. H. 1098=A. D. 1687, and died as a prisoner in the fortress of Daulatâbâd, A. H. 1113=A. D. 1701), on fol. 198a, last line.

Beginning, on fol. 3a: نظام ملك سخنورى و انتظام قلمرو معنى گسترى وقف سالارى حمد شاهنشاهى الخ.

The second maḳâlah, of which only a short fragment is found in the India Office Collection (see the following MS.), contains, according to the index, and to Rieu i. p. 324 sq., the history of the Âṣafîs of Ḥaidarâbâd, in five bâbs, the last of which is not extant; the same applies to the khâtimah, which was to contain the author's life.

Prefixed to this first maḳâlah of the حديقة العالم is a preamble (on ff. 1b–2b) similar to that noticed by Rieu in the second maḳâlah of this work (see i. p. 325), viz. by Mîr Abû Turâb bin Sayyid Aḥmad alriḍawi, who states that at the request of the Niẓâmshâh Mîr Akbar 'Alîkhân Bahâdur Âṣafjâh II, the minister Abû-alḳâsim almûsawi Mîr 'Âlam (i. e. the author of the حديقة العالم) charged him, viz. Abû Turâb, to write a history of the Ḳuṭbshâhs who reigned almost 200 years in the Tilinga empire, on the basis of the تأريخ قطبشاهى and other ta'rîkhât, and that he compiled consequently a work, styled قطب نماى عالم (see fol. 2a, ll. 6 and 7), in A. H. 1221=A. D. 1806 (see fol. 2a, lin. penult.). He divided it into a muḳaddimah, seven bâbs, and a khâtimah, the contents of which agree with the seven bâbs in the حديقة, whilst the khâtimah pretends to give an account of Mîr 'Âlam's life.

The beginning of the muḳaddimah, of which four lines only are found, agrees word for word with that in the حديقة, viz.: سپاس و ستايش گوناگون مر قادر بيچون را الخ.

No. 2423, ff. 223, ll. 21; large Nasta'lîḳ; size, 12 in. by 7½ in.

Short fragment of a history of the early life of Nizâm 'Alikhân Âṣafjâh II, from his birth in A. H. 1146 (A. D. 1733, 1734), at Aurangâbâd (see fol. 18b, l. 9 sq.), to A. H. 1171 (A. D. 1758; the 3rd of Ramaḍân of that year appears on fol. 39a, ll. 5 and 6), by Abû-alḳâsim almûsawi (see fol. 6a, l. 2), the author of the حديقة العالم, the first maḳâlah of which is contained in the preceding copy.

This fragmentary biography, which has the same introduction as the first maḳâlah, beginning: نظام ملك سخنوری وانتظام قلمرو معنی گستری وقف سالاری حمد شاهنشاهی كه دبير حكمت كامله اش الخ, is no doubt a part of the first original sketch, out of which the second maḳâlah of the work has been expanded; comp. the contents of the same in Rieu i. pp. 324 and 325. The date of this copy, which was transcribed in January, 1785 (A. H. 1199, Rabî' I), at Ḥaidarâbâd, is a clear evidence of it. The following headings appear in the text:

1. تذهيب سرلوحهٔ عنوان و تهذيب ديباچهٔ صحيفهٔ بيان بذكر نسب همايون آصف سليمان نشان, on fol. 13b.

2. ضيا اندوزیٔ مشرق سخن‌رانی و شعشه افروزیٔ صبح روشن‌بيانی بپرتو ذكر طلوع آفتاب بيت الشّرف دولت و جهانبانی يعنی ولادت باسعادت جناب ثانیٔ آصف و آصف ثانی, on fol. 17a.

3. بيان آغاز طلوع انوار اين دولت ابد بنيان و شروع شيوع ميامن عدل و احسان داور جهان و ذكر توجّهٔ موكب اقبال آن خديو كامگار بجانب مملكت برار, on fol. 23a.

4. نهضت موكب اقبال خديو بيهمال از مملكت برار بجانب خجسته بنياد و ديگر سوانح آن ايّام سعادت فرجام بتقدير خالق عباد, on fol. 30b.

5. ذكر كفران نعمت ورزيدن و فتنه انديشيدن حيدر جنگ و كشته شدن او به تيغ سياست جهان داور معدلت آهنگ و انتهاض موكب منصور از سواد اورنگ آباد بجانب برهانپور, on fol. 32b.

The death of Nizâm-almulk Âṣafjâh, the father of Âṣafjâh II, is recorded on fol. 23b, lin. penult. On fol. 40a this copy breaks off suddenly.

No. 859, ff. 40, ll. 14; clear and distinct Nasta'lîḳ; size, 9½ in. by 5⅝ in.

Tadhkira-i-Âṣafi (تذكرهٔ آصفی).

A history of the Âṣafîs or Nizâms of Ḥaidarâbâd, from their origin to Shawwâl, A. H. 1206 (A. D. 1792, May, June; see the last date 1206 on fol. 310a, last line), somewhat of the same character as the second part of the حديقة العالم (see the preceding copy), but dealing in detail only with the reign of Âṣafjâh II (A. H. 1175–1217 = A. D. 1762–1802), by Tajallî 'Alî, called Tajallî Shâh. It is the same work which is noticed under the title of توزك آصفی in Rieu i. p. 327b, and iii. p. 1037a, where it is stated that the author's death in A. H. 1206 prevented the completion of the history.

Beginning: اشعهٔ ستايش بی آلايش مر احديرا سزد كه از خلوت‌خانهٔ غيب هُويّت خود را الخ.

Previous history of the Amirs of Ḥaidarâbâd, on fol. 5a.

Reign of Nizâm-almulk Âṣafjâh I (born A. H. 1082 = A. D. 1671, 1672, died A. H. 1161 = A. D. 1748), on fol. 14b sq.

Reign of Nawwâb Nizâm-aldaulah Nâṣirjang (died A. H. 1164 = A. D. 1750), on fol. 19a.

Reign of Ṣalâbatjang (deposed A. H. 1175 = A. D. 1762), on fol. 26a.

Reign of Nizâm 'Alikhân Âṣafjâh II, on fol. 85b.

Copied A. H. 1226 (A. D. 1811).

No. 2928, ff. 342, ll. 15; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 10½ in. by 6½ in.

468

Maâthir-i-Âṣafi (مآثر آصفی).

A history of the Âṣafîs or Nizâms of Ḥaidarâbâd, compiled between A. H. 1207 and 1208 (A. D. 1792, 1793), by Lachmi Narâyan, with the takhallus Shafîḳ of Aurangâbâd, who was born as son of Râe Mansârâm, the diwân of Nawwâb Âṣafjâh, A. H. 1158 (A. D. 1745), see Rieu i. pp. 238, 327, and 328; and iii. pp. 1039a and 1083a; Mackenzie Collection, vol. ii. p. 132.

The author wrote besides:

1. Tanmîḳ-i-Shigarf, a history of the Dakhan, A. H. 1200 (A. D. 1786); comp. Nos. 447 and 448 in this Catalogue.

2. Ḥaḳîḳathâi-Hindûstân, a topographical account of the Ṣûbahs of Hindûstân and the Dakhan, A. H. 1204 (A. D. 1790); comp. No. 426 in this Catalogue.

3. Description of Ḥaidarâbâd, A. H. 1214 (A. D. 1799, 1800).

4. Bisâṭ-alghanâ'im, a history of the Marattahs, likewise A. H. 1214. In this book the author refers to his مآثر آصفی for further details about the Marattahs.

5 and 6. Two tadhkiras, viz. Gul-i-Ra'nâ and Shâm-i-Gharîbân; comp. about the former, A. Sprenger, Catal., p. 145, No. 5.

Beginning: جواهر محامد نذر مالك الملكی كه شاهان ذوی الاقتدار را الخ.

The book begins with the grandfather of Nizâm-almulk Âṣafjâh I, Khwâjah 'Âbid, on fol. 2a (see A. Sprenger, Catal., p. 193).

History of Âṣafjâh I, on fol. 10a; he was born A. H. 1082 (ta'rîkh: نيكبخت), and died A. H. 1161.

History of Nâṣirjang, on fol. 82b, lin. penult.

History of Ṣalâbatjang, on fol. 85b.

History of the Marattahs and their invasions of Hindûstân, on fol. 123a, first line.

History of Nizâm 'Alikhân Bahâdur Âṣafjâh II

(A.H. 1175), on fol. 186a, together with accounts of contemporary Amîrs and Râjahs down to the beginning of A.H. 1208. The book was finished the first of Rabî'-alâkhar of that year (A.D. 1793, Nov. 6).

No. 2411, ff. 363, ll. 16; written by various hands in large Nasta'lîḳ and Naskhî; size, 12½ in. by 9½ in.

Tadhkira-i-Nirmal (تذكرهٔ نرمل).

History of the fortress of Nirmal (in the district of Ḥaidarâbâd) from its foundation to A.H. 1231 (Faṣlî year 1225)=A.D. 1816, see fol. 96a, last line, the end of the governorship of Nawwâb Ashraf-aldaulah Bahâdur (who was governor since the Faṣlî year 1220, see fol. 93b), compiled by 'Abd-alrazzâḳ ibn 'Abd-alnabî, an inhabitant of Nândar (in the Ṣûbah of Muḥammadâbâd, see fol. 6a, l. 5), and munshî to General Sir John Malcolm (جنرل سر جان ملكم), A.H. 1232 (A.D. 1817, see fol. 5b, l. 4), at his master's request, who had reached Nirmal on his campaign against the Pindaris in September of that year.

Our copy is apparently fuller than that in Rieu i. p. 327, which only goes down to A.H. 1198, Muḥarram (A.D. 1783, Dec.).

Beginning (the same as in Rieu), on fol. 5b: الحمد لله وحده و صلّوا على النّبى بعده بر ضمير منير صدر نشينان چاربالش الخ.

This history ends on fol. 96b, and is dated, by Mir Ghulâm Ḥusain, the 16th of June, A.D. 1851 (A.H. 1267, 15th of Sha'bân). The remaining portion of the MS. contains:

Extracts from the Ḥadîḳat-al'âlam (منتخب كتاب حديقة العالم), the history of the Nizâms of Ḥaidarâbâd, see Nos. 465 and 466 in this Cat., on ff. 97–198. They are taken exclusively from the first maḳâlah of that work, the history of the Ḳuṭbshâhs, viz.

The third faṣl of the sixth bâb (reign of 'Abdallâh Ḳuṭbshâh, who died A.H. 1083=A.D. 1672), on fol. 97b.

The seventh bâb, complete (reign of Abû-alḥasan Ḳuṭbshâh, known as Tânâshâh, who was deposed A.H. 1098 = A.D. 1687, and died as 'Âlamgîr's prisoner, A.H. 1113=A.D. 1701), on fol. 106a, lin. penult.

Parts of the first, third, and fourth bâbs promiscuously, on fol. 141b sq. Events of the reign of Ḳulî Ḳuṭbshâh (who died A.H. 950=A.D. 1543, 1544), on fol. 141b; of that of Ibrâhîm Ḳuṭbshâh (who died A.H. 988=A.D. 1580), on fol. 145b, etc.

The most prominent dates which appear are A.H. 979 (A.D. 1571, 1572), on fol. 148b; 1019 (A.D. 1610, 1611), on fol. 170b; 972 (A.D. 1564, 1565), on fol. 188b; and 980 (A.D. 1572, 1573), on fol. 194b.

Ff. 1b–3a contain an index both of the Tadhkira-i-Nirmal and the extracts from the Ḥadîḳat-al'âlam (the latter begins on fol. 2a, second column, l. 3 ab infra); fol. 4 is left blank.

No. 3180, ff. 198, ll. 11; clear Nasta'lîḳ; size, 8¾ in. by 7¼ in.

470

The revenues of the Dakhan, according to the rent-roll (احوال صوبجات دكن بقيد جمعبندى), containing full statistical tables of the assessment of all the various provinces, beginning with Khândîsh, on fol. 1b: خانديش بتوجّه عرش آستانى يعنى اكبر بادشاه چون قلعهٔ آسير مفتوح گشت الخ.

The two latest dates which occur in these statistics are A.H. 1144 (A.D. 1731, 1732), on fol. 31a, and 1163 (A.D. 1750), on fol. 128a.

On ff. 156b–176a a short account of the kings of Dihlî is given, beginning with Sulṭân Shihâb-aldîn Ghûrî (A.H. 587=A.D. 1191), down to the sixth year of Akbar's reign (A.H. 968=A.D. 1561), comp. No. 412, fol. 63a sq. above; the account of Bâbar begins on fol. 167a, of Humâyûn on fol. 168b, of Akbar on fol. 173a. On ff. 177b–189b follow the same chronological tables of the Moghul emperors from Timûr to the accession of Shâh 'Âlam, A.H. 1173 (A.D. 1759), entitled مجموعهٔ مرزا مهدىخان, which have been noticed above in Nos. 412–414, compiled by Nizâm-aldîn Muḥammad Hâdî alḥusainî alṣafawî, with the epithet Shâh Mirzâ, usually called Mirzâ Mahdî-khân, beginning: سپاس بيقياس سزاوار مالك الملكيست كه انتظام جهان نوجود الخ.

No. 926, ff. 189, ll. 13; partly Nasta'lîḳ, partly Shikasta; size, 9½ in. by 5¾ in.

The same.

Another copy of the same statistical tables, but with a much larger historical survey, beginning on fol. 84b with Shihâb-aldîn Ghûrî, and going down to A.H. 1119 (A.D. 1707), Bahâdurshâh's accession to the throne. Beginning the same as in the preceding copy. Ff. 73–77 are left blank.

No. 1374, ff. 142; Shikasta; size, 8 in. by 4½ in.

Statistical tables of all the places and villages in the provinces of the Dakhan (تفصيل ديه بديهىٔ صوبجات دكهن). Incomplete at the end.

No. 1608, ff. 120; Shikasta; size, 8¼ in. by 4½ in.

Statistical tables of all the villages, etc., in the province of Khândîsh (تفصيل ديه بديهىٔ صوبهٔ خانديش).

No. 1632, ff. 63; Shikasta; size, 8¼ in. by 4½ in.

Statistical tables of the revenues of the province of Barâr (جمع خرج صوبهٔ برار).

No. 1707, ff. 174; Shikasta; size, 8¾ in. by 4¾ in.

475

Statistical tables of the province of Bîjâpûr, written by Amrata Râi.

No date.

No. 227, ff. 118; Shikasta; size, 8¼ in. by 4½ in.

476

Statistical tables of the province of Muḥammadâbâd Bîdar, written quite in the same way, and, as it seems, by the same hand, as the preceding ones.

No date.

No. 89, ff. 65; Shikasta; size, 8¼ in. by 4½ in.

477

1. Statistical tables of Ḥaidarâbâd down to the 7th of Shawwâl, A.H. 1197 (A.D. 1783, Sept. 5), styled: جمع كامل محالات صوبهٔ فرخنده بنیاد حیدرآباد بغایت آخر سال سنهٔ ۱۱۹۲ فصلی مطابق هفتم شوّال المكرّم سنهٔ ۱۱۹۷ هجری, beginning on fol. 1b.

2. Statistical tables of the influential landowners in the Dakhan down to the last of Rabî'-alawwal, A.H. 1198 (A.D. 1784, Feb. 22), styled: جاگیر داران و انعامداران صوبجات دكن بغایت آخر شهر ربیع الاوّل سنهٔ ۱۱۹۳ فصلی مطابق سنهٔ ۱۱۹۸ هجری, beginning on fol. 49b with Asad-almulk 'Alijâh Bahâdur.

No. 1015, ff. 130; Shikasta; size, 9¼ in. by 6½ in.

Bangâlah.

Tawârikh-i-Bangâlah (تواریخ بنگالا).

The same history of the Nâẓims of Bangâlah and the transactions in that province during the governorship of Ibrâhîmkhân, Ja'farkhân, Sarfirâzkhân, Shujâ'-aldaulah, and 'Alî Wirdîkhân, from the rebellion of Sûbhâ Singh, A.H. 1107 (see fol. 4b)=A.D. 1695, 1696, to 'Alî Wirdîkhân's death in A.H. 1169 (A.D. 1756), which is noticed by Rieu i. p. 312. It was written by order of Mr. Henry Vansittart, Governor of Fort William (1760–1764), and begins: حمد نامعدود واجب الوجود بحریست بی ساحل و ثنای بی منتهای خالق كن فیكون الخ. The author's name, not given in the history itself, is Munshî Salîm-allâh; see Rieu iii. p. 1085a. The last date that appears in this copy is A.H. 1162 (probably a mistake for 1169, the year of 'Alî Wirdîkhân's death). The work has been translated into English by Francis Gladwin: 'Narrative of the transactions in Bengal,' Calcutta, 1788.

No date. Former owner of this MS. was Chas. Boddam, May 1st, 1787.

No. 2995, ff. 1–131, ll. 12; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 9¼ in. by 6½ in.

Muẓaffarnâma (مظفر نامه).

A very explicit and detailed history of the Nâẓims of Bangâlah, from the rise of Nawwâb 'Alî Wirdîkhân Mahâbatjang to A.H. 1186, when Nawwâb Sayyid Muḥammad Riḍâkhân, commonly called Muẓaffarjang, fell a prisoner into the hands of the English, by Karam 'Alî (see fol. 1b, last line), who was personally attached to the service of Muẓaffarjang and wrote this history in the same year 1186 (A.D. 1772, 1773), see fol. 2a, ll. 1 and 2. The title appears on fol. 3a, l. 3 ab infra. Another copy of the same work is described in Rieu i. p. 313.

Beginning: حمد نا محدود وشكر نا معدود سزاوار صانعیست كه بیك امر كن نسخهٔ دو كون پرداخت الخ.

Contents:

1. History of Nawwâb 'Alî Wirdîkhân Mahâbatjang, on fol. 3b, from his early life to his death, the 9th of Rajab, A.H. 1169 (A.D. 1756, April 9), see fol. 133a, ll. 4 and 5.

2. Rule of Nawwâb Sirâj-aldaulah, on fol. 140a, who was killed after a reign of fifteen months and two days, in Shawwâl, A.H. 1170 (A.D. 1757, June, July).

3. First rule of Mîr Muḥammad Ja'farkhân, on fol. 181a, from the 14th of Shawwâl, A.H. 1170 (A.D. 1757, July 2), to his deposition in A.H. 1174, Rabî'-alawwal, after a reign of three years, four months, and some days.

4. Rule of Mîr Muḥammad Ḳâsimkhân, on fol. 217b, from the 10th of Rabî'-alawwal, A.H. 1174 (A.D. 1760, Oct. 20), see fol. 218a, l. 8, to A.H. 1177, exactly three years.

5. Second rule of Mîr Muḥammad Ja'farkhân, on fol. 275a, from the 10th of Rabî'-alawwal, A.H. 1177 (A.D. 1763, Sept. 18), to his death, the 14th of Sha'bân, A.H. 1178 (A.D. 1765, Feb. 6), see fol. 286a, ll. 1 and 2, altogether one year, seven months (so here, instead of the correct five months, هفت being a clerical error for پنج), and four days.

6. Rule of Nawwâb Najm-aldaulah and the beginning of the deputy-governorship of Muẓaffarjang, on fol. 286a, to Najm-aldaulah's death, A.H. 1179, last of Dhû-alḳa'dah (A.D. 1766, May 10), after a reign of one year and three months.

7. Rule of Nawwâb Saif-aldaulah, on fol. 298a, from the 9th of Dhû-alḥijjah, A.H. 1179 (A.D. 1766, May 19), to his death, in A.H. 1183 (A.D. 1770), after a reign of three years, ten months, and some days.

8. Rule of Nawwâb Mubârak-aldaulah, on fol. 341b, from A.H. 1183, Dhû-alḳa'dah (A.D. 1770, Feb., March), to A.H. 1185, Dhû-alḳa'dah (A.D. 1772, Feb.), when the Niẓâmat was abolished.

Khâtimah, on fol. 353b: Muẓaffarjang's arrest, A.H. 1186, 23rd of Muḥarram (not 29th, as here is stated on fol. 354b, l. 2, بیست ونهم having been written by mistake for بیست وسیم, since immediately afterwards the 24th is mentioned)=A.D. 1772, April 26th, and the events of the following months, to the appointment of Mani Begam as caretaker of the Niẓâmat, 1st of Jumâdâ-althânî in the same year (A.D. 1772, Aug. 30).

No date.

No. 291, ff. 358, ll. 11; clear Nasta'lîḳ; size, 8¼ in. by 4½ in.

480

Statistical accounts of the Ṣûbahs or provinces of Bangâlah, mainly in the years 1172 and 1173 of the Bangâli era (=A.H. 1179 and 1180, A.D. 1765–1766). No. 1482 comprises the year 1172, without any subdivisions, No. 1483 the year 1173, distinctly arranged according to the twelve months, in the following order:

March–April (چیت), on fol. 16a.

February–March (پھاگن), on fol. 28a.

January–February (ماگھ), on fol. 46a.

December–January (پوس), on fol. 64a.

November–December (اگہن), on fol. 80a.

October–November (کاتک), on fol. 92a.

September–October (آسن), on fol. 106a.

August–September (بھادون), on fol. 119a.

July–August (ساون), on fol. 134a.

June–July (آساڑھ), on fol. 149a.

May–June (جیٹھ), on fol. 161a.

April–May (بیساکھ), on fol. 179a.

Ff. 1–15 and 200–204 do not strictly belong to No. 1483; they deal with accounts of various years, viz. 1172–1177 of the Bangâli era.

No. 1482, ff. 334, No. 1483, ff. 204; Shikasta; size, 8¾–6 in. by 3¾–4 in.

Important collection of official letters.

Copies of letters, chiefly relating to the affairs of Bangâlah, ranging from A.H. 1162 to A.H. 1187. The oldest date, 1162, 2nd of Rajab (A.D. 1749, June 18), appears in a letter of Hidâyat Muḥyî-aldînkhân to Nawwâb Sirâj-aldaulah, on fol. 26a; some of the latest, viz. 1st of Shawwâl, 1187 (A.D. 1773, Dec. 16), and A.D. 1774, 29th of March, on fol. 49b. The great bulk of letters, parwânas, and akhbâr belongs to the first years of Shâh 'Âlam's reign, A.H. 1174–1177 (A.D. 1760–1763), especially to the fifth year of his reign = A.H. 1177, and contains the correspondence between the Nâẓim Nawwâb Ḳâsim 'Alîkhân (see above in No. 479) and the Governor, Mr. Vansittart, as well as other officials of the East India Company; between the same Nâẓim and Nawwâb Shams-aldaulah; between the Nâẓim Mîr Muḥammad Ja'far 'Alîkhân (see above, No. 479) and Shams-aldaulah, the emperor Shâh 'Âlam and the Governor; between the same emperor and Shams-aldaulah, the king of England and others; between the Governor and Maharâjah Shitâb Râe, Muḥammad Îrijkhân and the Wazîr Shujâ'-aldaulah, etc.

There is also one letter, previous to the period mentioned above, viz. by Nawwâb Âṣafjâh (who died A.H. 1161=A.D. 1748) to the emperor Muḥammadshâh, on fol. 41a.

Similar collections of letters, some of which are probably identical with ours, are noticed in Rieu i. p. 407 sq. Former owner: Sir Charles Wilkins.

No. 2371, ff. 50, ll. 16; Nasta'lîḳ; worm-eaten; size, 9½ in. by 7¾ in.

Dastûr-al'amal (دستور العمل).

Statistical record of Bangâlah and adjoining parts of India, from the beginning of A.D. 1775. It is styled, on fol. 1a: دستور العمل مودنۂ بنگالہ وغیرہ بموجب اظہار رای رایان و قانونگویان, and begins, on fol. 1b: بتاریخ بیستت و چہارم ماہ جامبر (جامبری or جامبر, January) سنۂ ۱۷۷۵ انگریزی صاحب کلان و صاحبان دیگر الخ.

It was finished the 5th of April, A.D. 1775 (1776?) = 29th of the month Cît (see No. 480 above) of the year 1182 of the Bangâli era = 15th of Ṣafar in the 17th year of Shâh 'Âlam's reign (which is A.H. 1190, as the emperor did not ascend the throne before the 4th of Jumâdâ I, A.H. 1173; but this date corresponds exactly to the 5th of April, 1776, and not 1775!). The copy is interleaved. Another copy of the same is noticed in Rieu i. p. 408a.

No. 1566, ff. 1–22, ll. 15; Shikasta; size, 9¾ in. by 6½ in.

Banâras.

Tuḥfa-i-tâza (تحفۂ تازہ).

Tuḥfa-i-tâza, also called Balwandnâma, a history of the Zamindârs of Banâras, from Râjah Mansârâm and his relatives to the deposition of Râjah Cait Singh in A.H. 1195 (A.D. 1781), by Khair-aldînkhân Muḥammad (see fol. 1b, l. 6), who died about A.H. 1242 (A.D. 1827, comp. Rieu iii. p. 946). He wrote besides the Gwâliyârnâma (A.H. 1206 = A.D. 1792, see Rieu iii. p. 1028), a history of Jaunpûr (A.H. 1211=A.D. 1796, 1797, see Rieu i. p. 311), and the 'Ibratnâma or history of Shâh 'Âlam (A.H. 1221 = A.D. 1806, see Rieu iii. p. 946). The present work is described in Rieu iii. p. 964. It was originally divided into five bâbs, but our copy, like those in the British Museum, only contains the first three, viz.: 1. History of Râjah Mansârâm and his relatives, on fol. 2a. 2. History of Râjah Balwand Singh, A.H. 1162–1184 (A.D. 1749–1771), on fol. 17a. 3. History of Râjah Cait Singh, A.H. 1185–1195 (A.D. 1771–1781), on fol. 48a. The other two bâbs, the histories of Râjah Mahîpat Narâ'in and Râjah Ûdit Narâ'in, which are enumerated in the index on fol. 2a, were to form a second volume, beginning with A.H. 1196=A.D. 1782 (see fol. 137b, ll. 13–15). But that second volume seems to have remained unwritten.

Beginning: سپاس خداوندی کہ دیوان دانش دربان (بزبان sic! Rieu reads) دانش بسراج فکرت نتواند رسید الخ.

Copied from a MS., dated A.H. 1253 (A.D. 1837), by Muḥammad Amjad, for the late Principal and Professor of the Calcutta Madrasah and Secretary of the Asiatic Society of Bengal, H. Blochmann (died 1879). Received Nov. 6, 1877.

No. 3205, ff. 138, ll. 21; very clear and distinct Nasta'lîḳ; size, 12½ in. by 7½ in.

Bundelkhand.

Farahbakhsh-i-Jân (فرح بخش جان).

An encomiastic account of the life and deeds of Râjah Barsingh (or as he is called in other histories, Narsingh) Deo of Oorcha in Bundelkhand, the murderer of Akbar's prime minister Abû-alfaḍl, from his birth to Samvat 1664 (=A. D. 1607, A. H. 1015–1016), translated from the Hindûstânî work, برسنگهه چرتر, compiled by a follower of the Râjah, Gisûdâs, at the request of Mr. Turner Macan (see fol. 6ᵃ, lin. penult.), by Râe Shîw Parshâd (see fol. 6ᵇ, l. 6), in the years 1828 and 1829 (see fol. 5ᵇ, l. 3 ab infra, and fol. 79ᵇ, l. 7), and finished the 15th of Shawwâl, A. H. 1244 (=20th of April, 1829, Samvat 1886). The original work contained thirty-three ذکر, to which the translator has added (on ff. 76–80) two ذکر more, on the family of the Râjah and the date of this compilation.

Beginning, on fol. 4ᵇ: هزاران منّت ایزد را که از خاك هویدا ساخت صورتها الخ. A complete index on ff. 1ᵃ–3ᵃ. The title is a chronogram for A. H. 1244. Dated, by Narâyan Dâs of Shâhjahânâbad, in the same year 1244, 4th of Dhû-alḳa'dah (A. D. 1829, May 8).

Presented to the library, October 17, 1842.

No. 2933, ff. 80, ll. 13; large Nasta'lîḳ; size, 9½ in. by 6 in.

Marattahs.

The same history of the rise and progress of the Marattah state, from the origin of the Bhoslah family down to the death of Sîwâji and the accession of Sanbhâji in A. H. 1091 (A. D. 1680), which is described in Rieu i. p. 327 as the work of an anonymous Hindû writer, based on Marattah traditions. At the end the same enumeration of Sanbhâji's successors down to the accession of Raghoji in Nâgpur, 1773, and of Râm Râjah in Satârah, 1750; as Rieu remarks, it must have been compiled before A. D. 1777 (A. H. 1191).

Beginning: هزاران شکر خدای بیچون را که بیك نقطهٔ کن این همه چهارده طبقه الخ.

The full title تفصیل احوال عروج و خروج راجههای و سرداران دکهن is found here on fol. 1ᵃ, ll. 4 and 5.

No date. From fol. 9ᵇ onward English references to the contents of the text are made in pencil on the margin.

No. 1957, ff. 45, ll. 12–16; Shikasta; size, 10¼ in. by 6⅝ in.

Another, but incomplete chronicle of the Bhoslah family of the Marattahs, from its origin, that is, Siwâji and his ancestors, to the operations against Râjah Râm after the capture of his capital (Râighar) in A. H. 1101 or 1102 (A. D. 1690). The first mention of the year 1102 appears on fol. 39ᵇ: درسنهٔ سی و چهار جلوس مطابق سنهٔ هزار و صد و دو هجری (34th year of 'Âlamgîr's reign). The author's name does not appear, but he shows everywhere a most hostile tendency against the Marattahs, as the very beginning of this abrupt chronicle proves: ذکر احوال و ابتدای بنای فساد سیوائی (سیواجی) بدنهاد در جنگ دکهن آنچه از مردم معتبر دکهن و قوم مرتّه آن ملك در باب اصل و نسل سیوائی بد اصل الخ. The ta'rîkh-i-Khwâfikhân, i. e. منتخب لباب (see above, Nos. 396–407), is quoted several times, see, for instance, fol. 39ᵇ, ll. 3 and 4. On the outside of the binding this MS. is styled: کتاب ذکر اصل و نسل راجه سیواجی بهوسله.

No. 2990, ff. 54, ll. 12–14; very legible Shikasta; size, 10 in. by 6½ in.

An incomplete history of the rising of the Bhoslah family of the Marattahs, from Mâlûji, whose son Sâhji, or Sâhûji I, married afterwards the daughter of the Râjpût chieftain Jâdû Râo, and begat the great Sîwâji (born in May, 1627=A. H. 1036), the real founder of the Marattah empire; comp. Elphinstone, History of India, 5th ed., p. 617 sq.

Beginning: ذکریست در بیان آنکه امّا (!) این کتاب (!) خاندان ترقّی راجه بهوسله الخ.

On the fly-leaf this chronicle is ascribed to Daulat Singh. It is most incorrectly written, and abounds in numberless un-Persian words and phrases, looking like a bad translation from some Marattah work.

Statistical tables of the various dominions of the Marattah state, on ff. 58ᵇ–65ᵃ.

A second part, incomplete at the end, begins on fol. 69ᵇ with the transactions between Sedâsheo Râo Bhâo, Holkar, and Shujâ'-aldaulah, leading up to the famous battle of Pânîpat in A. H. 1174 (A. D. 1761). This part breaks off on fol. 83ᵇ. The proper order of ff. 1–23 seems to be this (most of the catch-words being wanting): 1, 2, 11, 3–8, 22, 9, 10, 13, 12, 14–21, 23, etc. The copy belonged formerly to D. Ruddell.

No. 3075, ff. 83, ll. 15–17; written in a curious style of Naskhî; size, 8⅝ in. by 5¾ in.

Another short history of the Marattahs, especially of the Bhoslah or Bhonslah family, from the reign of Muḥammadshâh (who ascended the throne of Dihlî in A. H. 1131=A. D. 1719) to the end of Shâh 'Âlam's reign (A. H. 1221=A. D. 1806), similar in its chief contents to an account described in Rieu ii. p. 801ᵇ. It begins with Sâhû Bhoslah II, who had been crowned as chief of the Marattahs in the fortress of Satârah in the beginning of A. H. 1120 (A. D. 1708, March). At the end there are inserted some of Shâh 'Âlam's elegies. As title is given here in the beginning: احوال حسب و نسب جنودیان و کیفیّت اوج و حشمت آنها آنچه عند التحقیق دریافت شد' نوشته میشود که راجه کدهٔ ستاره الخ.

No author's name. No date.

No. 3322, ff. 142–159, ll. 12–16; careless Nasta'lîḳ; size, 9¾ in. by 6¼ in.

Tawârîkh-i-Râjahâi-Nâgpûr (تواريخ راجههای ناگپور).

Annals of the Marattah Râjahs of Nâgpûr (Nagpore), of the Bhoslah (or as it is always spelt here, Bhonslah) family, compiled, and respectively translated from seven Persian and twenty-five Marattah sources, for Mr. Richard Jenkins (the former British Resident in Nagpore), December, 1823.

Beginning of the preface, on fol. 1b: بندهٔ پرور صاحب خداوند عالیشان رچارد جنکنس صاحب بهادر دام اقباله الخ.

The seven Persian authorities are:

خافیخان (that is, the Muntakhab-i-Lubâb, completed about A. H. 1143 or 1144=A. D. 1731, comp. above, Nos. 396–407).

تواريخ آصفجاه (a history of the Nizâms down to A. H. 1218=A. D. 1803, 1804, by Ḳâdirkhân Munshî, see Rieu iii. p. 1037b).

سوانح دکن (account of the Ṣûbahs of the Dakhan and the Nizâms down to A. H. 1197=A. D. 1783, by Mun'imkhân, see Rieu i. p. 322).

خزانهٔ عامره (the well-known tadhkirah of 'Alî Âzâd).

کتاب سوبهامل در ذکر بنگالا (not known).

کتاب راحت افزا (not known).

معاصر الامرا (wrongly spelt for مآثر الامرا, the second edition of which was completed A. H. 1194=A. D. 1780), see Rieu i. p. 339 sq.

It gives in a short and concise form the events of every year (except in the first portion), partly in narration, partly in letters, statistical tables, etc., from 1659 (Faṣlî year 1069[1]) to 1818 (Faṣlî year 1228).

Beginning, on fol. 4b: منتخب تواريخ خاندان بهونسله راجههای ناگپور از روی مرتّبی' از بزرگان خاندان بهونسله الخ.

No. 3062, ff. 236, ll. 8–10; Nasta'lîḳ and Shikasta; size, 8¼ in. by 6 in.

Historical documents, chiefly relating to the history of the Marattah power in India.

1. Extracts from the account of the Marattahs in Ghulâm 'Alî Âzâd's famous tadhkirah, the Khazâna-i-'âmirah (compiled in A. H. 1176 and 1177=A. D. 1763), see further below under 'Biography.'

(b) Fol. 8a sq., corresponding to No. 2954, fol. 63a, l. 8 sq. (A. H. 1164, امیر الممالک, third son of Nawwâb Âṣafjâh).

(f) Fol. 25a sq., corresponding to No. 2954, fol. 53b, lin. penult. (عماد الملک, ending with A. H. 1173).

2. Extracts from the 'Âlamgîrnâma (by Munshî Muḥammad Kâẓim), or the history of the first ten years of 'Âlamgîr's reign (see above, Nos. 347–357), beginning on fol. 28b, last line, with the following chapter: فتح قلعهٔ چاکنه از ولایت کوکن بسعی امیر الامراء صوبدار دکن, corresponding in contents to the short sketch given in fol. 1a sq. of the previous extracts.

3. Extracts from the Ta'rîkh-i-Rohillah, probably the تاریخ فیض بخش, by Shîw Parshâd (see Rieu i. p. 306), beginning on fol. 52a, and dealing chiefly with Aḥmadshâh Durrânî and his affairs with the Marattahs, shortly before and after the battle of Pânîpat (A. H. 1174=A. D. 1761).

4. The same history of the Marattahs, from Râjah Bhîm and the origin of the Bhoslah family to the death of Siwâjî and the accession of his son Ṣanbhâjî, A. H. 1091 (A. D. 1680), which is described in No. 485 above. Beginning, on fol. 68b: هزاران شکر خدای بیچون را که بیک نقطهٔ کن این همه چهارده طبقه الخ.

At the end the same short enumeration of Sanbhâjî's successors as in No. 485 above.

No date. Quite modern handwriting.

No. 2895, ff. 112, ll. 17; large and distinct Nasta'lîḳ; size, 12¼ in. by 9¼ in.

A large fragment of the history of the Marattah wars in India, from A. H. 1171 to 1199, A. D. 1757–1785, compiled by 'Alî Ibrâhîmkhân, who died as chief magistrate of Banâras, A. H. 1208 (A. D. 1793, 1794). This account was written under the administration of the Governor-General, Charles Earl Cornwallis, see fol. 1b, ll. 4 and 3 ab infra, and comp. Rieu i. p. 328. The book has been translated by Major Fuller, see his printed version in Elliot's History of India, viii. pp. 257–297. Beginning, as in Rieu: الحمد لله علی نعمائه و الصلوة علی نبیّه و اوصائه این وقائع بدائع آثار عبرت نامهٔ اولو الابصاراست که درعهد حکومت امیر والاجاه الخ. The last two sections of this fragment, on ff. 62b and 63b, deal with the Peshwâ Ṣâḥib (i. e. Siwâi or Siwâji Mâdhô Râo, son and successor of Narâyan Râo) and the advance of the English generals to Poona. This copy was presented by J. H. Peile, Esq., and received 19th Sept., 1818; transferred to Civil Coll., 9th Aug., 1819.

No. 3390, olim 14. J. 18, ff. 64, ll. 11; clear and distinct Nasta'lîḳ; greatly injured by worms; size, 8¼ in. by 5 in.

[1] This statement is wrong; it ought to be either A. H. 1069 or Faṣlî 1063.

A first collection of Akhbâr, or news-letters, chiefly relating to the Marattah affairs in 1810, beginning with the 8th of February, and ending with the 8th of December. They contain news of Jaswant Râo Holkar, Daulat Râo Sindhiyah (the Mahârâjah of Gwâliyâr), Ranjît Singh (the Sikh ruler of the Panjâb), Râná Żâlim Singh, Mr. Archibald Seton (the Resident at the court of Dihlî), of Akbarâbâd, Dihlî, Ujain, etc. On ff. 1[a] and 20[a] the collection is styled: منتخب اخبار هندوستان وغیرہ; on fol. 60[a], اخبار منتخب هندوستان وغیرہ; and on the back of the binding, with reference to the chiefly Marattah news, اخبار ناگپور.

No. 2945, ff. 276, ll. 10; Shikasta; size, 10¼ in. by 6¼ in.

A second collection of Akhbâr, or news-letters, relating to Marattah affairs, from the end of 1811 to the autumn of 1812, beginning with the 27th of December, 1811, and ending with the 6th of September, 1812. They contain news of various agents and comptrollers (هرکارہ and متصدّی), chiefly of کوت کشت, that is (according to No. 2946 (496 below), fol. 49[b], l. 2: کوت (کشت ناگپور), the city of Nâgpûr, the seat of the Bhoslah family (the agent's name there was Iżhâr اظهار); besides of Hûshangâbâd (agent: Mahâdû), Bitûl (agent: Bâpû), Malkâpûr (comptroller: Waukat Râo), Patna (comptroller: Narâyan Râo), Poona, etc. A certain number of Akhbâr is written by the same Pândûrang Râm, who is mentioned in Rieu i. p. 330[b], as translator of Maratti news-letters during the years 1809 and 1810.

No. 2949, ff. 303, ll. 10–14; Nasta'lîḳ, mixed with Shikasta; size, 10¼ in. by 6¾ in.

A third collection of Akhbâr, or news-letters, relating to Marattah affairs in 1812 and 1813, beginning with the 3rd of December, 1812 (but we find news as far back as November, 1812, see fol. 1[b] sq.), and ending with the 17th of December, 1813. They contain news of Mr. (afterwards Sir) C. T. Metcalfe (Resident at the court of Dihlî, from 1811 to 1819, and from 1825 to 1827), Mahârâjah Malhâr Râo Holkar II (the illegitimate son and successor of Jaswant Râo Holkar), Ranjît Singh, Râná Żâlim Singh, Nawwâb Mîr Khân (the Afghan general of Holkar), Daulat Râo Sindhiyah, of Burhânpûr, Dihlî, Aurangâbâd, Ujain, etc. This collection is styled on the back of the binding, like No. 2945 (492 above): اخبار ناگپور.

No. 2947, ff. 192, ll. 10–12; written by different hands, partly in Nasta'lîḳ, partly in Shikasta; size, 10¾ in. by 6¾ in.

A fourth collection of Akhbâr, relating to Marattah affairs in the second half of 1814, beginning with the 24th of June, and ending with the last of December, similar in its contents to the second collection. They contain chiefly news of Nâgpûr, by the same agent Iżhâr, besides letters of Mahâdû, Bâpû, etc., see No. 2949 (493 above), news of Bitûl, etc. Many of these are translations from Maratti, as the prefixed ترجمہ shows. As title appears again on the back of the binding, as well as three times in the collection itself (viz. between ff. 129 and 130, 239 and 240, and 304 and 305): اخبار ناگپور.

No. 2948, ff. 358, ll. 8–11; Nasta'lîḳ, mixed with Shikasta; size, 10¾ in. by 6¼ in.

A fifth collection of Akhbâr, relating to Marattah affairs, from the end of 1815 to the autumn of 1816, similar in its contents to the third collection. The dates given in this MS. are frequently wrong, and different months have been jumbled together in the same way as in Rieu i. p. 286. According to a note on the back of the binding, the news-letters refer to 1816, and that is confirmed by the last section (fol. 102 sq.), where the 29th of February is mentioned several times, a fact that points undoubtedly to 1816, as being a leap-year, in spite of the year 1817 having been written almost continually instead of 1816. A similar confusion prevails as to the Muḥammadan year, sometimes 1232, sometimes 1231. This copy contains various sections, 1. ff. 1–13, divided into 13 ḳiṭ'as; 2. ff. 14–84, in several unnumbered portions; 3. ff. 85–101, in 15 ḳiṭ'as; and 4. ff. 102–127, in 23 ḳiṭ'as. The last sections deal with January and February, 1816, the middle part goes as far as September, 1816 (or 1817, as written here), the first section comprises November and December, 1815 (or 1816?). The news-letters refer to the same personages as in No. 2947 (494 above), to the agents of Nâgpûr, Burhânpûr, Ujain, etc.

No. 2946, ff. 127, ll. 10–11; Nasta'lîḳ, mixed with Shikasta; size, 9¾ in. by 6¼ in.

A sixth collection of Akhbâr, relating to Marattah affairs in 1817, beginning with the 2nd of January, and ending with the 28th of September. The majority of news-letters, particularly in the second half of the copy, are those of Daulat Râo Sindhiyah; besides Ranjît Singh, Holkar Jaswant Râo Bhâo and various wakîls and other officials have contributed letters. The collection is styled on ff. 78[a], 80[a] top, and 136[a] first line, اخبار سندهیہ.

No. 2991, ff. 167, ll. 9–11; Nasta'lîḳ, mixed with Shikasta; size, 9¾ in. by 6¼ in.

A seventh collection of Akhbâr, referring to Marattah affairs in 1818, beginning with the first of January, and ending with the last of December, quite similar in its contents to the fourth and second collections. The majority of Akhbâr are by Iżhâr, agent of Nâgpûr. The title on the back of the binding, on ff. 19, 93, and 248, and on the fly-leaf is the usual one: اخبار ناگپور.

No. 2993, ff. 267, ll. 7–11; partly Nasta'lîḳ, partly Shikasta; size, 9¾ in. by 6¼ in.

Gwâliyâr.

Aḥwâl-i-Ḳal'a-i-Gwâliyâr (احوال قلعهٔ گوالیار).

A short historical account of the fortress of Gwâliyâr, from its foundation under the ancient Râjahs, down to the twenty-second year of Shâh 'Âlam's reign, A.H. 1194 (A.D. 1780), compiled at the request of Captain William Bruce (کپتان ولیم برس), from the dictation of two Hindûs of Gwâliyâr, Mottirâm (موتی رام) and Khushḥâl (خوشحال); see another copy of the same work in Rieu i. p. 304b. Beginning: احوال ابتدای بنای قلعهٔ گوالیار لغایت شانزدهم ماه شعبان سنهٔ ۲۲ جلوس والا شاه عالم پادشاه غازی مطابق سنهٔ ۱۱۹۴ هجری الخ. Copied by 'Abd-alraḥîm.

No. 860, ff. 21, ll. 14; clear and distinct Nasta'lîḳ; size, 9¾ in. by 5¼ in.

Carnatic.

Sa'idnâma (سعیدنامه).

An account of the life and history of the ruler of the Carnatic, Sa'âdat-allâhkhân, who was born A.H. 1061 (see fol. 7a, ll. 6 and 7), and died A.H. 1145 (A.D. 1651–1732). His real name was Muḥammad 'Ali bin Aḥmad bin Sa'id-aldîn bin Muḥammad Sa'id bin Muḥammad, and he was honoured by the title of Muḥammad Sa'id (see fol. 7a, ll. 2 and 3, and l. 9). This work is identical with the سعیدنامه described in Rieu i. p. 331, although considerably shorter in extent; there is no mention of the real name of the author, viz. Jaswant Râi bin Bhagwant Râi bin Sundardâs, only his takhallus Munshî appears frequently, for instance, on ff. 37b, l. 4, 40b, lin. penult., 58b, l. 5, 59a, l. 3 ab infra, etc. etc. He is the same Munshî whose diwân is preserved in No. 1454. There is also in this copy no trace of the subdivision into three daftars, although the author speaks plainly of these three books on fol. 59a, lin. penult. (سه دفتر سعیدنامه), and mentions at the same time two other works of his, viz. قصهٔ سیف الملك وبدیع الجمال (probably a new redaction of the well-known, but much older story of 'Saif-almulk and Badî'-aljamâl') and قصهٔ لال و هیرا (the story of 'Lâl and Hirâ').

Beginning as in Rieu:

این نامه که از نام سعید است سعید
از چشم بد دهر بعید است بعید

The title of Sa'idnâma appears several times, for instance, fol. 1b, l. 3, fol. 6a, l. 7, etc.

This copy, which is towards the end greatly injured by worms, is dated the 12th of Dhû-alḳa'dah, A.H. 1229 (A.D. 1814, Oct. 26). It belonged to Narrain Row's Collections (No. 506).

No. 2934, ff. 61, ll. 13; Nasta'lîḳ and Shikasta, partly on white, partly on brown paper; size, 9¾–10¼ in. by 6¾–6¾ in.

Tûzuk-i-Wâlâjâhî (توزك والاجاهی).

A history of the Carnatic, especially of the time of the Nawwâb Anwarkhân, who died A.H. 1162 (A.D. 1749), of his son and successor, Nawwâb Muḥammad 'Ali (with his full name: Amîr-alhind Wâlâjâh 'Umdat-almulk Âṣaf-aldaulah Muḥammad 'Ali Anwar-aldînkhân Bahâdur Żafarjang, see fol. 13a), who ruled over the Carnatic from A.H. 1162 to A.H. 1210 (A.D. 1749–1795), and of the first contests between the English and French in India, to the unsuccessful siege of Madras (چیناپٹن) by the French under Lally, 1758, and the capture of Pondicherry (پھوچری) by the English under Clive, 1761. It covers partly the same ground as the famous mathnawî انورنامه, or the exploits of the Nawwâb Anwarkhân, by Mîr Isma'ilkhân Abjadî, who completed his poem in A.H. 1174=A.D. 1760, 1761 (see Sprenger, Catal. pp. 307 and 308), and to whom a special chapter, the muḳaddimah (on ff. 14a–17a), is dedicated. The munshî Burhân (or Burhânkhân) bin Ḥasan, see fol. 13b, l. 4 ab infra, was commissioned in A.H. 1195 =A.D. 1781 (see fol. 13b), by the Nawwâb, to compose on the basis of the Anwarnâma, but with greater detail, and the removal of all the incongruities and deficiencies caused by a poetical treatment of the matter and the exigency of rhyme and metre, a history of the rulers of the Carnatic, from their first ancestors in Madînah, to his own time. The work was to be divided into a muḳaddimah, two daftars, and a khâtimah, but our copy comprises only the muḳaddimah (on fol. 14a sq.), containing the eulogium of Abjadî, and the first daftar, beginning on fol. 17b with the ancestors of the Nawwâbs, in fact with 'Umar ibn alkhaṭṭâb, and going down to the capture of Pondicherry. This portion was completed A.H. 1200 (A.D. 1786), see fol. 211b in the خاتمهٔ دفتر اوّل توزك والاجاهی; the second daftar was to contain the subsequent events, and particularly a series of important political correspondence, between the principal historical personages of that age, and the khâtimah, a description of India, particularly of the Carnatic. Beginning of the work, on fol. 10b: علم افرازیٔ اقبال سخن حمد والاجاهی که دبیر بی نظیر سلطنت لایزالش تاریخ توزك والاجاهی الخ. It ends on fol. 215b. The remaining portions of this volume (ff. 1a–9a and ff. 216a–219a) contain:

1. A short summary of events in the Carnatic from the time of 'Âlamgîr, on ff. 1a–2a.

2. A short history of the progress of English conquest in India (called: جزء اوّل دخول انگریز در اقلیم هند), from about A.D. 1612 to the first four decades of the present century, on ff. 2b–9a.

3. Rules for the lower, middle, and higher style of letter-writing, each group subdivided into seven ḳânûns (واجبات مراسلات ادنا و اوسط و اعلی متضمن هفت قانون), on ff. 216a–219a.

No. 3174, ff. 219, ll. 17; clear and excellent Nasta'lîḳ; size, 10¾ in. by 8 in.

Sawâniḥât-i-Mumtâz (سوانحات ممتاز).

A detailed history of the reign of the Nawwâb 'Umdat-alumarâ, who ruled the Carnatic from the beginning of Rabî'-althânî, A.H. 1210 (A.D. 1795, Oct.), to the month Rabî'-alawwal, A.H. 1216 (A.D. 1801, July), with an account of the last year of the reign of his father, Muḥammad 'Alîkhân, the son of Anwar-aldîn or Anwarkhân, a summary of the events under 'Umdat-alumarâ's successors, his nephew 'Aẓîm-aldaulah, and 'Aẓîm's son 'Aẓîmjâh (who succeeded his father in A.H. 1235, A.D. 1820), and a full genealogy. The author is Khair-aldîn Ḥasan Ghulâm-i-Ḍâmin bin Iftikhâr-aldaulah Ḥâfiẓ Muḥammad Nâṣirkhân Bahâdur Ṣamṣâmjang, who was born A.H. 1194 =A.D. 1780 (see fol. 160b sq.), received the title of Ṣâḥib-aldaulah Jalâdatjang in A.H. 1210 (A.D. 1795, 1796), that of Khwurshîd-almulk in A.H. 1231 (A.D. 1816), and at his father's death in A.H. 1236 (A.D. 1820, 1821) that of Iftikhâr-aldaulah Muḥammad Nâṣirkhân Bahâdur Ṣamṣâmjang. In A.H. 1249, beginning of Rajab (A.D. 1833, Nov.), when living in Madras, he paid homage to 'Aẓîmjâh, and was requested by him to draw up a history of his great ancestor and grandfather, 'Umdat-alumarâ, as the poet Abjadî had done for Anwarkhân in his famous Anwarnâma. Khair-aldîn set to work and finished this history (see the title on fol. 162b, l. 13) A.H. 1252, the 27th of Dhû-alḥijjah (see fol. 288a, last two lines)=A.D. 1837, April 4. It is divided into four گلزار (each of which contains four گلدسته), the first, comprising the years A.H. 1209 and 1210, on fol. 164b, that is, the last year of Muḥammad 'Alîkhân's reign, his death the 29th of Rabî'-alawwal, A.H. 1210 (A.D. 1795, Oct. 13), and 'Umdat-alumarâ's accession; the second, A.H. 1211 and 1212, on fol. 188b; the third, A.H. 1213 and 1214, on fol. 205b; the fourth, A.H. 1215 and 1216, with a short summary of later events, and a detailed genealogy of the family and descendants of Anwarkhân, on fol. 221a. Khâtimah, on fol. 285b, giving an account of the circumstances which led to the composition of this work.

Beginning: حمداً متوافراً وشکراً متکاثراً بخدای عزّ وجلّ که هر نوع نکات جهانرا از کسوت رنگارنگ عمدهٔ گوناگون الخ. No other copy of this rare work is known.

Copied A.H. 1266 (A.D. 1850).

No. 3176, ff. 159–288, ll. 17; very distinct Nasta'lîḳ; size, 10¾ in. by 8 in.

Panjâb.

Ta'rîkh-i-Panjâb (تاریخ پنجاب).

History of the Panjâb, from the earliest times to A.D. 1840, completed A.H. 1264 (A.D. 1848), by Ghulâm Muḥyi-aldîn, known as Bûṭî or Bûṭâ (بوٹی in the text, بوٹا in the colophon) Shâh Lûdiyânî 'alawî ḳâdirî, see fol. 2a, ll. 2 and 3. The title is a chronogram for A.H. 1264, by elimination of the units, except the ب and پ in the word پنجاب; comp. Rieu iii. p. 953, where a full description of this work is given. Beginning: حمد بیحدّ وثنای بی منتهای مر احدیرا سزا است که کریمه رحمتی الخ.

It contains a muḳaddimah, five daftars, and a khâtimah, viz.

Muḳaddimah, on fol. 2b: Geography of the Panjâb, در بیان احوال حدود ملک پنجاب و وجه تسمیهٔ آن و بیان انهار و انهار مشهورهٔ این ملک و اجناس و اثمار و دیگر اشیای مشهورهٔ آنها).

Daftar I, on fol. 43b: Hindû Râjahs, from Sadûman to Pithaurâ (در بیان احوال راجهای هنود از ابتدای راجه سدومن که بقول شاستر هنود اوّلین راجهای روی زمین او بوده بغایت آخر رای پتهورا که آخرین فرمان فرمایان این ملک یعنی هندوستان او گذشته).

Daftar II, on fol. 61b: Muslim Sulṭâns, from Maḥmûd of Ghazna to A.H. 1183 (A.D. 1769, 1770), the date of Shâh Aḥmad Abdâlî's death, see fol. 180a, ll. 4 and 3 ab infra (در بیان احوال پادشاهان اهل اسلام من سلطان محمود غزنوی غازی و اولاد امجادش و بیان سلطنت پادشاهان غوریان وخلجیان و لودیان وچغاتیان درینملک).

Daftar III, on fol. 180b: Gurus of the Sikhs, from Nânak to Gowind Singh (در بیان احوال گروهای فرقهٔ سکهان من ابتدای بابا نانک بغایت آخر گورو گوبند سنگهه واحوال بیدیان و سودهیان که اولاد گوروان اند).

Daftar IV, on fol. 224a: Sikh Sardârs and Râjahs in the last period of the Moghul empire of Dihlî (در بیان احوال سرداران وراجهای سکهان وغیره سرداران ملک پنجاب واحوال ملک گیری آنها از کنار دریای جمن تا پشاور و کشمیر و بیان کیفیّت مثلهای وبتهای سکهان و دیگر رسوم آنها که بعد از اضمحلال سلطنت دهلی قابض و متصرّف ملک پنجاب شدند).

Daftar V, on fol. 308a: Ranjit Singh, the great Sikh Mahârâjah's life and reign, to the 27th of June, 1839 (not 1838, as by mistake is written here on fol. 419b, l. 2), the date of his death (در احوال ملک گیری مهاراجه رنجیت سنگهه بهادر که بر همگی ملک پنجاب و سوای آن بر ملکهای دیگر به نیروی اقبال قابض و متسلّط گردید من ابتدای کیفیّت آبادی و اجدادش بغایت روز وفات او).

Khâtimah, on fol. 420a: History of the British conquests in India (در ذکر ملک گیری سرکار انگریزی بهادر در ملک هند); the account of the Râjahs of Kângrah, Jamûn, etc., mentioned by Rieu, loc. cit., as probably forming a part of the khâtimah, is not found in this copy. Ff. 175 and 176 are badly injured in the middle. This MS. was received from Dr. Royle, July, 1856.

No. 3244, ff. 4:7, ll. 21–22; careless and coarse Nasta'lîḳ; size, 14½ in. by 7½ in.

'Ibratnâma (عبرتنامه).

Geography, statistics, and history of the Panjâb, especially of the Sikhs, from their first appearance in history down to A. D. 1849, by Muftî 'Alî-aldîn, son of Mufti Khair-aldîn of Lâhûr (see fol. 1b, ll. 5 and 6), an official of the East India Company, who was still alive in 1856, when this MS. was received from Dr. Royle. The author left his native town, Lâhûr, in 1823 (=A. H. 1239, Samvat 1881), on account of the oppression of the Sikhs, and settled in Lûdhâna (لودهانه Loodiana). In 1854, when he was in the service of Mr. Charles Raikes, the Commissioner and Superintendent of Lâhûr, he compiled this work (=A. H. 1270, Samvat 1911), see fol. 2a, l. 4 sq., and fol. 2b, l. 4 ab infra. This MS. is the author's autograph, completed, according to the colophon, in the same year, 1854, 13th of September (=20th of Dhû-alḥijjah, A. H. 1270), and styled, with its full title, عبرت نامه و عمدة التواريخ; according to a note prefixed to the MS. by the before-mentioned Mr. Raikes it was sent 'to the Imperial Exhibition at Paris, for works of art and industry, by the Punjab Committee at Lahore.'

Beginning:

(so pointed instead of سَيِّر) الحمد لله الذى جعل سَيِر للآخرين والصلوة والسلام على رسوله و حبيبه محمّد و اصحبه اجمعين، امّا بعد (sic! instead of عبرةً) الاوّلين عبرةً ميگويد الخ.

The subdivisions are rather in a confused state, a باب اوّل and two دفتر دويم, but the meaning is clear—the author divided his work into three great portions, viz.:

1. Geography of the Panjâb, its flora, fauna, natural productions, etc., on fol. 4a (باب اوّل).

2. History and topography of Lâhûr, from its foundation to the present day, on fol. 30b (دفتر دويم).

3. History of the Sikhs in the Panjâb, from the birth of Bâbâ Nânak to the final victory of the English in 1846, and a few subsequent events, till 1849, on fol. 81a (again styled دفتر دويم).

To these three bâbs or daftars there is added, on ff. 326a–376b, a kind of khâtimah (without a general heading), dealing in detail with the customs and usages, as well as the prevalent philosophic and religious ideas of the people of the Panjâb, beginning with a sketch of the sect of the Ḳâdirîs; among the numerous short chapters of this part are the most prominent ones: the great days of the Muḥammadan year (در تشريح روزهاى بزرگ اهل اسلام), on fol. 331b, last line; the Fakîrs of the three principal creeds, the Muḥammadans, Hindûs, and Sikhs, on fol. 333a; manners and customs of the Muḥammadans, from the cradle to the grave, on fol. 334b; of the Hindûs, on fol. 342b; of the Sikhs, on fol. 352a; scientific attainments (علم) of the same three creeds, on fol. 353a; usages in eating, on fol. 356b, last line; in dress, etc., on fol. 360a; the court-officials under the Mahârâjah Ranjît Singh (مصاحبان و حكيمان و منشيان و مستوفيان و خدمتگاران), on fol. 364b, etc. etc.

No. 3241, ff. 376, ll. 18; large Nasta'lîḳ; the first two pages luxuriously illuminated; smaller gold ornaments on ff. 2b and 3a; size, 12¼ in. by 8¼ in.

Shîr Singh nâma (شيرسنگهه نامه).

History of the Panjâb and the special events which took place in Lâhûr from A. H. 1255 to 1259 (A. D. 1839–1843), by an eye-witness, Muḥammad Naḳî of Pashâwar, son of Mullâ Khwâjah Bakhsh, who wrote it at the request of Bakhshî Bhagatrâm (see ff. 4b, ll. 5 and 6, and 6a, l. 6). The above title of this work, which is described by Rieu iii. p. 952b, is not found in the text itself, but assigned to it in an English note, prefixed to the fly-leaf, by the Commissioner and Superintendent, Mr. Raikes, who states that this MS. was sent 'to the Imperial Exhibition at Paris, for works of art and industry, by the Punjab Committee at Lahore.' It was received into the library from Dr. Royle in July, 1856.

The history begins with the death of Ranjît Singh in A. H. 1255, see fol. 7a sq., and closes with the assassination of Shîr Singh and the proclamation of Dalîp Singh in A. H. 1259, see fol. 65b sq.

Beginning: بر هوشمندان خبير و آگاه دلان روشنضمير كه الخ.

Comp. 'History of the Panjab,' London, 1846, vol. ii. pp. 200–235; 'History of the Sikhs,' by J. D. Cunningham, pp. 237–271; 'Calcutta Review,' i. pp. 476–507; and 'Panjab Chiefs,' by Griffin, pp. 24–26.

No. 3231, ff. 70, ll. 9; large Nasta'lîḳ; illuminated frontispiece; miniature paintings, illustrating especially murderous scenes, on ff. 7a, 8b, 10b, 24a, 25a, 34b, 38b, 42b, 43b, 53b, 59b, and 65b; size, 10½ in. by 5½ in.

Tawârikh-i-Mulk-i-Hazâra (تواريخ ملك هزاره).

History of the state of Hazâra and the neighbouring states and districts in the Panjâb, especially during the thirty years from about A. H. 1819 to 1849 (Samvat 1876 to Samvat 1906, see fol. 119b, last lines, and fol. 120a, ll. 4 and 3 ab infra), by an eye-witness of all the events recorded, Mahtâb Singh of the Kâyath tribe (fol. 3b, l. 1), who was five years recorder of the Pargana of ساهيوال بلوچان, and occupied since Samvat 1881 the same office in the state of Hazâra (or هزاره كارلك as it is called on fol. 4a), which borders to the west on the state of سريكوت (which itself extends as far as the دريا سند ساگر), and to the south on Khânpûr of the Gâkhars.

Beginning: قربان آن قادر بيچون كه كرياس معلّق افلاك بى اينهمه نقوش رنگارنگ الخ.

Geography and topography of Hazâra and the surrounding states, as خانپور, كرلال, جدون, پهكلى, تنول, تريبله, etc., on fol. 4a. Beginning of the real history with the Ghakkars (گهكران) of Khânpûr (also called Gâkhars or Gukhurs, see on these, L. H. Griffin, 'Panjab Chiefs,' p. 574 sq.), on fol. 34a. The style of the narrative is often very un-Persian, see, for instance, fol. 21b, etc. Dated the 11th of August, A. D. 1854, by Pîrbakhsh, the Ḳânûngo of Râwal Pindî, who copied this work at the request of the Assistant Commissioner of Hazâra. In a notice glued on the first page the work is rather incorrectly designated as 'Tawareekh-i-Jummoo, a history of the principality of Jummoo and the neighbouring hill-states, from the earliest times to the accession of Maharajah Goolab Singh, by an unknown author (!).' It was sent, according to the same notice (signed by C. Raikes, Commissioner and Superintendent), 'to the Imperial Exhibition at Paris, for works of art and industry, by the Punjab Committee at Lahore.' It was received into the library from Dr. Royle, July, 1856.

No. 3229, ff. 120, ll. 10–15; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 10 in. by 6¼ in.

Jamûn.

Tawârîkh-i-Râjagân-i-Jamûn (تواريخ راجگان جموں).

A portion of the rare chronicle of the Râjahs of Jamûn (or Jamu, according to Thornton), which is described in Rieu iii. p. 955 under the title of راج درشنی, composed by Ganeshdâs Badhrah, and completed A. H. 1263 (A. D. 1847, Samvat 1904). Our copy, being only a fragment of the whole, does not exhibit author's name or title; the name given above is the one found in the colophon. It is moreover very incorrectly written, and especially the respective Muḥammadan and Hindû dates, wherever they appear together, are invariably greatly at variance with one another (take, for example, fol. 31ᵇ, where A. H. 391, the correct date of Sulṭân Maḥmûd's accession, is represented as Samvat 1031, whereas it ought to be 1057 or 1058, and so in many other places). It begins abruptly in the history of the early Râjahs with بود ارجن, on fol. 1ᵃ: آزاری (read آنجا) که بهشت آنجاست نباشد ـ کسی را با کسی کاری نباشد' عاقبت الامر راجه ارجن مدّت هشناد سنّ صاحب انجمن بود الخ.

Chapter-headings are very few and far between; the time of Muḥammad begins on fol. 26ᵇ; that of Sulṭân Maḥmûd of Ghazna, on fol. 31ᵇ; Akbar's reign, on fol. 78ᵃ; the end of Râjah Kayâ Singh's reign and beginning of that of Dharb Dew (which coincides with 'Âlamgîr's death, A. H. 1118), on fol. 83ᵃ; Gulâb Singh's obtaining possession of Kashmîr in Samvat 1902 (A. D. 1846), on fol. 142ᵃ.

Copied by Muḥammad 'Alî.

No. 3181, ff. 144, ll. 15; Nasta'lîḳ; illuminated frontispiece on fol. 1ᵃ; size, 9½ in. by 6¼ in.

Kashmîr.

Râjatarangi (راج ترنگی).

An incomplete copy of the oldest Persian translation of Kalhana's Râjatarangini or history of Kashmîr, originally written in Sanskrit, A. D. 1148 (printed in Calcutta, 1835; French edition and translation by A. Troyer, Paris, 1840–52); comp. Rieu i. p. 296, and Asiatic Researches, xv. pp. 1–92. The translator's name is not mentioned in this fragment, but he is undoubtedly the same Mullâ Shâh Muḥammad who translated the work from the Sanskrit original by order of Akbar, A. H. 998 (A. D. 1590), and whose version was revised by Badâ'ûnî in A. H. 999 (A. D. 1591); comp. also Elliot, History of India, v. p. 478.

Bahâristân-i-Shâhî (بهارستان شاهی).

Another history of Kashmîr, based on the same Sanskrit work and other sources, by an anonymous author, brought down to A. H. 1023, the eighth year of Jahângîr's reign (see the chronogram at the end: نامهٔ شاهان کشمیر)=A. D. 1614, and beginning, without introduction: مؤرّخان اخبار سلاطین ممالک کشمیر که جملهٔ حالات و واقعات ملوک و احکام و احوال اشراف انام را بقلم کشمیری نوشتند در دفاتر اخبار و صحائف آثار چنین ثبت نمودند که در کشمیر در زمان قدیم الخ.

It ends on fol. 213ᵃ; comp. Rieu i. p. 297. On ff. 214ᵇ–221ᵃ a poetical fragment is added, a peculiar kind of didactic poem, consisting of a series of ḳiṭ'as, usually two, sometimes three, and even four baits long, mixed with fards and put together in form of a mathnawî, being all of the same metre; it begins thus:

خواهی ایمان مرد بشناسی
رو نظر کن بسوی ایمانش
که بود گر بقول خود ثابت
بس بود این دلیل ایمانش
آن برادر مدان که در راحت
روی خود سوده پیش تو بزمین
هر که در وقت سختیت یارست
آن برادر ترا بود بیقین

Ta'rîkh-i-Kashmîr (تأريخ كشمير).

A third history of Kashmîr, from the earliest ages down to the twelfth year of the emperor Jahângîr's reign, commenced on the base of the old Sanskrit work Râjatarangini and other authentic documents, by Ḥaidar Malik bin Ḥasan Malik bin Kamâl-aldîn Muḥammad Nâjî bin Malik Nuṣrat of Cârwarah, commonly called Ra'îs almulkî (see fol. 4ᵃ), A. H. 1027 (A. D. 1618), see fol. 3ᵇ, l. 11, and completed about A. H. 1030 (A. D. 1621), see Bodleian Cat., Nos. 316 and 317; Rieu i.

p. 297 sq.; J. Aumer, p. 98; H. N. Wilson, an Essay on the Hindû History of Cashmir, Asiatic Researches, vol. xv, Serampore, 1825, p. 1 sq.; and D. J. F. Newall, a Sketch of the Mahomedan History of Cashmere, Journal of the Asiatic Society of Bengal, new series, No. 68, Calcutta, 1854, pp. 409–460. This copy begins in the usual way:

ای آنکه جهان بوحدت تست گواه
کس را نبود در حرم کنه تو راه

but it is almost twice as large as the copies described in the above-mentioned catalogues, and the reason is obvious. Our copy consists of two portions, the first of which contains, like all the other copies, the history of Kashmîr, on ff. 1ᵇ–237ᵃ, and concludes with these significant words: تا اینجا حقیقت پادشاهان کشمیر باتمام رسید' حالا حقیقت پادشاهان ولایات ابتداست. Consequently the second portion, on ff. 238ᵃ–387ᵇ, contains a general history of all the contemporary dynasties in the different parts of Îrân, Tûrân, Transoxania, etc., in six bâbs; the beginning is unfortunately missing, it opens abruptly: لشکر شد بعد از پسرش یعقوب الخ.

Bâb I comprises the history of the Ṭâhirides, Sâmânides, Ghaznawides, Ghûrides, Bûyides, the Saljûḳs, the Khwârizmshâhs, the Atâbegs, the Ismâ'îlîs, and the Karâkhitâ'î Sulṭâns, on fol. 238ᵃ.

Bâb II: The Moghul emperors, on fol. 281ᵇ.

Bâb III: The kings who ruled after Sulṭân Abû Sa'îd in Îrân, from the Cûpânians to the Sarbadârs, on fol. 295ᵇ.

Bâb IV (here wrongly styled فصل چهارم): Timûr and his successors, on fol. 322ᵇ.

Bâb V: The Ḳarâ-ḳoyunlû and Âḳ-ḳoyunlû Sulṭâns, on fol. 345ᵇ.

Bâb VI: The Sulṭâns who ruled over Transoxania and Khurâsân after A. H. 906 (A. D. 1501), on fol. 363ᵃ.

At the end of this second portion is written: تمام شد تأریخ کشمیری, consequently there is no doubt that this second portion really forms a part of that work. It is probably based on the لبّ التواریخ, Ḳism III, see above, Nos. 101–103.

No date. This copy belonged formerly to Mr. W. Chambers.

No. 1100, ff. 387, ll. 13; clear and distinct Nasta'lîḳ; size, 13½ in. by 8½ in.

Ta'rîkh-i-Kashmîr (تأریخ کشمیر).

A fourth history of Kashmîr, based on the same original Sanskrit work of Râjataranginî, by Narâyan Kûl, with the takhallus 'Âjiz, a Hindû Brahman of Kashmîr, composed A. H. 1122 (A. D. 1710); comp. ff. 3ᵇ, ll. 4 and 5, and 4ᵃ, l. 7.

Beginning: سپاس بیرون از مقیاس قیاس سزاوار جناب پادشاهی الخ.

A full description of this work is given in Rieu i. p. 298; other copies in G. Flügel ii. p. 191, and the Bodleian Catalogue, No. 318; compare also Wilson's Essay on the Hindû History of Cashmir, in Asiatic Researches, vol. xv. p. 5 sq., Serampore, 1825.

Dated the 29th of Rabî'-althânî (ربی الثانی, sic!), A. H. 1215 (A. D. 1800, Sept. 19), at Banglûr (بنگلور). Purchased at Seringapatam, 1802, by J. H. Peile, and presented by him to the library, Sept. 19, 1818; transferred to Civil Coll., Aug. 9, 1819.

Another copy of the same.

Beginning as in the preceding copy. Author's name and date appear on ff. 5ᵃ, l. 3, and 6ᵃ, l. 3. Dated, by Makhdûm Sharîf, the 27th of Rabî'-alâkhar, A. H. 1217 (A. D. 1802, Aug. 27), at Seringapatam.

No. 2491, ff. 255, ll. 11; large Nasta'lîḳ; size, 8½ in. by 6 in.

Wâḳi'ât-i-Kashmîr (واقعات کشمیر).

A fifth history of Kashmîr, from the oldest times down to A. H. 1160 (A. D. 1747), by Muḥammad A'ẓam, son of Khair-i-Zamân Khân (see fol. 4ᵃ, l. 12), who commenced this work A. H. 1148=A. D. 1735 (fol. 4ᵃ, last line), and dedicated it to the emperor Muḥammadshâh (fol. 4ᵇ, l. 6). The title of the book is a chronogram for the year in which it was commenced, but the author did not finish it before A. H. 1160, see Bodl. Catalogue, No. 319, and Rieu i. p. 300 (the versified chronogram, however, quoted there is not found in this copy). The chief aim of the compiler was to supply especially biographical notices and extracts from the writings of the principal shaikhs, 'Ulamâs, and poets of Kashmîr, which were entirely wanting in works previously written on Kashmîr, and being more or less mere translations from the old Hindû work Râjataranginî.

Beginning, on fol. 3ᵃ: زینت صفحات دفتر ابداع و ایجاد و نزهت طبقات منظر عالم کون فساد الخ.

The book is divided into a muḳaddimah, three ḳisms, and a khâtimah, viz.:

Muḳaddimah: Description of Kashmîr, on fol. 4ᵇ (در بیان احوال و صفات این شهر).

Ḳism I: Hindû Râjahs, on fol. 8ᵃ (در حالات ارباب حکومت که پیش از دور ظهور اسلام درین ملک حکمرانی کردند).

Ḳism II: Muslim rulers, on fol. 22ᵃ (در حالات سلاطین که بعد سطوع فروغ اسلام بسلطنت رسیده اند و از کشمیر بر خاستند).

Ḳism III: Moghul emperors, from Akbar to Muḥammadshâh, on fol. 75ᵃ (در ذکر سلاطین دودمان علیّهٔ چغتائیّه که متصرّف این شهر شدند تا زمان اختتام این رساله).

The heading in the text runs here thus (the number of the ḳism being omitted): بیان آغاز تصرّف سلاطین سلسلهٔ علیّهٔ تیموریّه در صوبهٔ کشمیر.

Khâtimah: Curiosities of Kashmîr, on fol. 192b (در بیان بعض عجائب و غرائب کہ خاتمهٔ این شهر است).

Dated the 12th of Ṣafar, A.H. 1217 (A.D. 1802, June 14). On ff. 1b and 2a a short enumeration of the reigns of the Sharḳî Sulṭâns of Jaunpûr. A. Welland, Feb. 4, 1810.

No. 1429, ff. 195, ll. 12–17; very unequally written, both in Nasta'lîḳ and Shikasta; size, 10½ in. by 8 in.

Maisûr.

Nasabnâma-i-Râjahâi-Maisûr (نسب‌نامهٔ راجهای میسور).

This is the same short account of the Râjahs of Mysore and Nagar, the dates of their birth, wives and children, which is noticed by W. Morley, Cat., pp. 86 and 87, and is entitled there: احوال راجهای میسور و نگر; it is styled here, in the short preface on fol. 1b: حقیقت راجهای میسور و نگر.

The little work was originally written in the Carnataca language, and by order of Tipû Sulṭân two Persian translations were made of it, by Asad Anwar and Ghulâm Ḥusain (see fol. 2a, l. 2). One of these is represented here; as date appears, on fol. 1b, ll. 2–4, A.H. 1212, 20th of Dhû-alḥijjah (A.D. 1798, June 5). It begins with Timmarâj and goes down to Ḥaidar 'Alî (about 266 years). Beginning of the preface: از حضور لامع النور حضرت ظلّ الله الملك المنّان تیپو الخ.

Ḳiṣṣa-i-Ḥaidar 'Alikhân (قصّهٔ حیدر علیخان).

A biography of Nawwâb Ḥaidar 'Alikhân of Mysore, from his rise to his death in the beginning of Muḥarram, A.H. 1197 (A.D. 1782, December; see fol. 43a, ll. 4 and 5), by an anonymous author (according to a notice on the fly-leaf his name was Munshi Amîr), who during the last two years of Ḥaidar 'Alî's reign was in the service of Captain John Kennaway (see fol. 42b, ll. 1 and 2: کپتن جان کنوی), and returned to his native town of Ḥaidarâbâd the last of Dhû-alḳa'dah, A.H. 1196 (A.D. 1782, Nov. 6). He was an eye-witness of the last deeds of the hero of this book.

Beginning: ستایش ناصری کہ بمددگاری فوج لطفش کشور کشایان را الخ.

No date. Another copy of the same history in Rieu iii. p. 1033.

Aḥwâl-i-Ḥaidar 'Alikhân (احوال حیدر علی خان).

Another biography of Nawwâb Ḥaidar 'Alikhân of Mysore, from his birth to his death in A.H. 1197, by an anonymous author, who compiled this work at the request of Mr. Richard Johnson; see fol. 3a, l. 8. It is divided into nine bâbs:

1. در حسب و نسب او, on fol. 4a.
2. در چگونگی روزگار او, on fol. 6b.
3. در ترقّی دولت او ومتصرّف گشتن در اکثر امکنه, on fol. 8b.
4. در سلوك او با رفقای خود در بزم و رزم دائم الاوقات, on fol. 45b.
5. در جمع کردن او زنهای بسیار و سلوك او با ازواج خود, on fol. 50b, first line.
6. در رویهٔ او با تعلّقداران و سوداگران, on fol. 52a.
7. در اوقات خسّت و سخاوت و قوّت حافظهٔ او, on fol. 53b.
8. در تقیّد و احتیاط او در ملك خود از مردم و طریقهٔ ظلم او, on fol. 56b.
9. در گذشتن او از دنیا, on fol. 58b.

Beginning: بر صورت نویسان معانیٔ دقائق و معنی شناسان صور حقائق روشن و بر کاشفان امور غامضهٔ ماضی و حال الخ.

Comp. Col. W. Miles' 'History of Hydur-Naik,' London, 1842, the translation of Mîr Ḥusain 'Alî's Nishân-i-Ḥaidarî (see below, No. 522).

This biography was compiled A.H. 1199, and this copy is the author's autograph, finished the 5th of Rajab in the same year (A.D. 1785, May 14).

Tawârîkh-i-Ḥaidarî (تواریخ حیدری).

A third, much more detailed history of Ḥaidar 'Alikhân, from his birth in A.H. 1125 (A.D. 1713; according to another biography, described in Rieu ii. p. 802a, he was born A.H. 1131=A.D. 1719) to his death and the accession of his son Tipû Sulṭân in A.H. 1197, by Lâla Bud Singh, with the takhalluṣ Munshî (see fol. 14a, l. 2), who spent three years in the compilation of this work (see fol. 19a, l. 5). A date of composition is not given, but it appears to have been written very soon after Ḥaidar 'Alî's death. The author is no doubt identical with Budh Singh of the Khatrî caste, who wrote, by desire of Major James Mordaunt, a short account of the Sikhs, styled رسالهٔ نانك شاه, about A.H. 1197; see Rieu ii. p. 860. The history begins with an account of Ḥaidar 'Alî's ancestors, on fol. 21a; the story of Ḥaidar 'Alî's birth is found on fol. 29a.

Beginning: بدائع نگار صور بیچونی و صنائع طراز اشیاء بی نمونی الخ.

Dated at Patna the first of Rabí'-alâkhar, A. H. 1217 (A. D. 1802, Aug. 1). The full title on the fly-leaf is: تواریخ نوّاب حیدر علیخان بهادر.

A fragment of the same.

This fragmentary copy agrees with No. 2636 (518 above) as far as fol. 48a, where the advance to the fortress of Karnûl (Kannûl or Kurnool, کرنول, in the Presidency of Madras, see Rieu i. p. 332) is described, corresponding to fol. 102a in No. 2636. The remaining portion we have not been able to trace in that copy; for instance, on ff. 48b–50a a mathnawí in praise of the capture of the hill-fort of Gûtí (Gutti or Gooty, گوتی, in the district of Bellary) appears, which is not found in No. 2636. That capture took place in A. H. 1187 (A. D. 1773, 1774).

Sulṭán-altawárikh (سلطان التواریخ).

A history of the Sulṭáns of Mysore, viz. Fatḥ Náik, Ḥaidar 'Alí, and Tipú Sulṭán, by an anonymous author, dedicated to Tipú (see fol. 10a, l. 5, and fol. 12b, last line). It is divided into two daftars, the first dealing with the history of Tipú's father and grandfather, who are respectively called فردوس آشیانی and جنّت مکانی; the second relating the events in the reign of Tipú himself, who is called ظلّ الهی (the shadow of God), down to the march on کلیانور (see fol. 154b sq.). The first daftar begins on fol. 13a, the second (without this heading) in eighteen guftárs on fol. 16a. The third and fourth years of Tipú's reign (A. H. 1199–1200=A. D. 1785 and 1786) commence on fol. 93a, the narrative of his march on Calicut on the Malabar coast (fifteenth guftár) on fol. 140a. The eighteenth and last guftár, beginning on fol. 160b, contains a detailed genealogy of Tipú, but is apparently imperfect.

Beginning: سلطان نشاتین صوری و معنوی الفاظ و معانی ستایش و نیایش پادشاه علی الاطلاق است جل جلاله و عمّ نواله الخ.

On fol. 1a this book is styled کتاب تأریخ خداداد.

Nishán-i-Ḥaidarí (نشان حیدری).

Special history of the reigns of Ḥaidar 'Alí and his son Tipú Sulṭán of Mysore, completed A. H. 1217 (A. D. 1802), see fol. 250b, last line (in Rieu i. p. 331b it is stated that the work was written at the close of A. H. 1213, which probably only means, that the last events, related in it, refer to that year), by an eye-witness of the events related, and a servant of both Sulṭáns, from A. H. 1167 to 1213=A. D. 1754–1799 (see fol. 2a, ll. 7–9), Mír Ḥusain 'Alikhán Kirmání, and entitled نشان حیدری, see fol. 3a, l. 2, comp. W. Morley, p. 87, where a fuller title is given, viz. نشان حیدری و خروج و نزول دولت تیپو سلطان.

The same author wrote in A. H. 1215 (A. D. 1800, 1801) the تذکرة البلاد والحکم, or history of some principalities of the Bâlâghât country (see Rieu i. p. 331 sq.). The present work begins, after the introduction, on fol. 3b, with an account of Ḥaidar 'Alí's ancestors (ذکر جدّ وآبای حیدر علیخان بهادر در طریق اجمال); from A. H. 1163 =A. D. 1749, the year of Tipú's birth and the rise and progress of Ḥaidar 'Alí's power (on fol. 13a, first line), the history becomes more detailed, and every subsequent year is marked by a special heading.

Ḥaidar 'Alí's death and Tipú Sulṭán's accession (A. H. 1197) are related on fol. 157b sq.

Tipú's death in A. H. 1213 (A. D. 1799), on fol. 241a sq., followed by a short enumeration of his virtues, manners, etc.

Beginning of the introduction, on fol. 8b: زیور نام آوری شاهد قلم وزبان وزیب انجمن آرایان حدیقهٔ شرح و بیان حمد قادریست الخ.

The first nine leaves are misplaced; their proper order is: ff. 8, 2–7, 1, 9. This work has been translated for the Oriental Translation Fund by Col. William Miles: 'The History of Hydur Naik,' London, 1842, and as sequel to it, 'The History of the Reign of Tipú Sultán,' London, 1844. Copied by Sayyid Ibráhím.

No. 2580, ff. 251, ll. 15; large and clear Nasta'líḳ; size, 10¼ in. by 6¾ in.

Another copy of the same.

This excellent copy begins in a different way, viz.: شیرازهٔ دفتر متفرّق اخبار عالم و جامع مجموعهٔ افراد اوضاع متباین کاقّهٔ امم حمد مالك ملکیست که الخ, but in every other respect it agrees completely with the previous copy. The author's name, Mír Ḥusain 'Alí, son of Sayyid 'Alí alḳádir alkirmání, appears on fol. 2b, l. 4; the title on fol. 2b, l. 10. The chapter on Ḥaidar 'Alí's ancestors begins on fol. 3a; that of Tipú's birth, in A. H. 1163, on fol. 10b; that of the events of A. H. 1213, and of Tipú's death, on fol. 209b. The date of completion is given in full as 9th of Rajab, A. H. 1217 (A. D. 1802, Nov. 5), on fol. 220a, l. 6.

No. 3179, ff. 220, ll. 17; Nasta'líḳ; size, 10¾ in. by 8¾ in.

A fragment of the same.

A small portion of the Nishân-i-Ḥaidarî, from the beginning to the reduction of the fort of Bâlâpûr (commonly called Ballapoor, in Mysore), by Ḥaidar 'Alîkhân, in A.H. 1172 = A.D. 1758, 1759 (see the last chapter-heading on fol. 13a, corresponding to No. 2580 (522 above), fol. 41a. The last words of this fragment, نوّاب ظفرمند گذاشته خود به بناء دامن . . . . . , correspond to No. 2580, fol. 45a, l. 1). Beginning of the preface on fol. 10b: زیور نام آوریٔ شاهد قلم و زبان و زیب انجمن آرایان الخ.

The leaves of this fragment are curiously misplaced by the binder; their proper order is: ff. 10, 2–9, 1, 17–36, 11–16.

No. 3081, ff. 36, ll. 15; careless Nasta'lîk; size, 8 in. by 5½ in.

Letters of Tîpû Sulṭân.

The first volume of a large collection of letters and notes, by the famous Sulṭân Tîpû of Mysore, presented to the library by Lieut.-Col. W. Kirkpatrick, 13th April, 1811, and annotated throughout by him. It contains, according to a note prefixed to the volume (besides more than 600 others), all the letters which appeared in the 'Selected Letters of Tippoo Sultan,' published by Black, Parry, and Co. (see preface to that work for an explanation of the confusion which prevails in the arrangement of these letters), and covers the years A.H. 1198–1201 (A.D. 1784–86, 87). This volume brings the correspondence down to the end of the 12th month of the year دلو = A.D. 1786–87, and consists of five parts, viz.: I. ff. 1–90, copied April 5th, 1800; II. ff. 91–152; III. ff. 153–241, copied 17th May, 1800; IV. ff. 242–293; V. ff. 294–356.

Address of the first letter, on fol. 1a: هشتم ماه جعفری سال جلو بنام راجه رام چندر'.

Historical miscellanies.

Historical and other pieces, written by various hands, and containing, among altogether worthless fragments:

1. Account of the events of A.H. 1197 (A.D. 1783), the first year of Tîpû Sulṭân's reign, on fol. 1b.

2. Account of the events of A.H. 1198 (A.D. 1784), Tipû's second year, on fol. 20a (ff. 21b and 22a left blank, as well as the larger portion of fol. 21a).

3. Account of the events of A.H. 1199–1200 (A.D. 1785 and 1786), etc., on fol. 24b (a lacuna between ff. 37 and 38, another between ff. 39 and 40).

4. Statistical accounts of the Dârûghas, or police inspectors, the Sirdârs, the British power in India, Indian Râgs and Râginîs, and an endless number of other small items, ghazals and rubâ'is, by Ḥasan 'Alî 'Izzat, Zain-al'âbidîn (the former author of the Mufarriḥ-alḳulûb, a work on the music of Mysore, the latter of the Fatḥ-almujâhidîn), and others, on fol. 46a sq. As dates for some of the statistical items appear the years of Muḥammad's birth (مولود محمّد), 1224 and 1226, comp. ff. 47a and 52a.

Kurg.

Aḥwâl-i-Mulk-i-Kurg (احوال ملك کُرگ).

A short history of the conquest of the realm of Kurg (Coorg), nine manzils from Seringapatan, in A.H. 1187 (A.D. 1773, 1774), during Ḥaidar 'Alî's reign in Mysore. The date is expressed in the following funny way (see fol. 62a, ll. 3 and 4): از قصائد اثنا عشریّهٔ هجرت در قصیدهٔ دوازدهم بیت هشتاد و هفتم. The author's name is not mentioned. A short additional piece is found on fol. 75a. Beginning: قلم رقم‌سنج اخبار فتوحات ابواب اظهار حقائق ملك کُرگ الخ.

No date.

No. 1978, ff. 61–75a, ll. 10; Nasta'lîḳ, mixed with Shikasta; size, 9¼ in. by 5 in.

533

A comprehensive history of the Râjahs of Kurg, from A.H. 1047 (year of the Kali Yug 4734) to A.H. 1222 (A.D. 1637–1807), compiled by order of the late Râjah Wîrâjandar (or Wîr Râjandar) Wadiyar, the son of Lankrâjandar Wadiyar, the son of Apâjirâjandar. This work was translated from Canarese sources (as Rieu states, by Ḥusainkhân Lûhânî, whose name we cannot detect in this copy), and commenced A.H. 1211 (year of the Kali Yug 4898)=A.D. 1796, 1797, see here fol. 1a, last line, comp. Rieu i. p. 333. The story of the Râjah's ancestors begins on fol. 1b, first line.

Beginning: بعد ازحمد و ستایش ایزد متعال ذو الجلال و تحیّات وافیات الخ.

V. History of Persia.

534

Kitâb-almu'jam fî âthâr-i-mulûk al'ajam (کتاب المعجم فی آثار ملوك العجم).

History of the kings of Persia, from Gayûmarth to Anûshirwân, by Faḍl-allâh al-Ḥusainî, who dedicated this work to Nuṣrat-aldîn Aḥmad, the ruler of Lûristân (died A.H. 733=A.D. 1332, 1333), comp. Bodleian Cat., No. 285; Rieu ii. p. 811b; Ḥ. Khalfa v. p. 629; W. Morley, p. 132; J. Aumer, p. 78; W. Pertsch, Berlin Cat., pp. 420 and 421. Edited at Ṭahrân, 1843. It was translated into Turkish under the title of بلاغت نامه or ترجمان بلاغت, see Pertsch, loc. cit.

Dated the 21st of Jumâdâ-althânî, A.H. 1021 (A.D.

1612, August 19), by Shâh 'Abd-alghafûr, who copied it at the request of Mirzâ Mir Kalân at Kâbul. On the last two pages there is added a short glossary of foreign words, occurring in this work, explained in Persian.

No. 69, ff. 136, ll. 19; Nasta'lîḳ; illuminated frontispiece; size, 8¾ in. by 4¾ in.

Another copy of the same.

Beginning as in the preceding copy. Gayûmarth on fol. 13b, Hûshang on fol. 28a, Ṭahmûrath on fol. 40b, Jamshîd on fol. 54b, Ḍaḥḥâk on fol. 63a, Farîdûn on fol. 70a, Minûćihr on fol. 82a, Afrâsiyâb on fol. 94b, Kaiḳubâd on fol. 98b, Kaikâ'ûs on fol. 103a, Kaikhusrau on fol. 106a, Luhrâsp on fol. 111b, Gushtâsp on fol. 114a, Bahman bin Isfandiyâr on fol. 117b, Dârâ-i-Akbar on fol. 119b, Iskandar on fol. 121b, Ardashîr bin Bâbak on fol. 131a, Shâpûr on fol. 134b, Hurmuz on fol. 137b, Narsî on fol. 138b, Hurmuz bin Narsî on fol. 139b, Shâpûr bin Shâpûr on fol. 143a, Yazdajird on fol. 144a, Bahrâm on fol. 145b, Yazdajird bin Bahrâm on fol. 154a, Ḳubâd on fol. 155a, Anûshîrwân on fol. 156a.

Dated 23rd of Ṣafar, A. H. 1028 (A. D. 1619, Feb. 9), by 'Abd-al'aziz bin 'Abd-alḳubâd. Index on ff. 161 and 162.

Bibliotheca Leydeniana.

No. 2780, ff. 162, ll. 17; Nasta'lîḳ; worm-eaten, but carefully mended; size, 9½ in. by 4¾ in.

A very detailed history of the rise of the Ṣafawî dynasty, the origin of the priestly state in Ardabîl and the ancestors of Shâh Isma'îl, as well as the reign of that first king of the Ṣafawî dynasty (A. H. 909–930 = A. D. 1503–1524), which fills the main portion of this work. Unfortunately the MS. is defective at the beginning, and neither title nor author's name can be ascertained. There are, moreover, no distinct subdivisions, and dates are scarcely ever given. On a piece of paper, pasted on one of the fly-leaves, it is styled: تاريخ اسمعيل. Whether any other copy of this highly valuable history is extant in a European library we are unable to find out; all that can safely be stated is that it is neither identical with the احسن التواريخ (see Bodleian Cat., No. 287), nor with the fourth chapter of the third volume of the حبيب السير (see No. 88 sq. in this Cat.). It ends on fol. 305b with the accession of Shâh Ṭahmâsp, A. H. 930; last words: ... و حضرت شاه طهماسب بهادر خان خلّد الله ملكه را آوردند در دار السلطنهٔ تبريز برتخت نشاندند.

Ff. 306a–312b are filled with a kind of genealogical and chronological table of the Ṣafawî dynasty, incomplete at the end (the last leaves being partly torn away), beginning with A. H. 892 (see fol. 306b, l. 4) = A. D. 1487, the year of Shâh Isma'îl's birth; the last date that can be found in the text itself is A. H. 1015 (A. D. 1606), on fol. 311b, lin. penult., but according to the preliminary index on fol. 306a, these lists were to go down to the reigns of Shâh Ṣafî II, i. e. Shâh Sulaimân (who succeeded his father, 'Abbâs II, A. H. 1077 = A. D. 1666).

No. 1877, ff. 312, ll. 14; Nasta'lîḳ, by many different hands; size, 8¼ in. by 5¼ in.

Futûḥât-i-Humâyûn (فتوحات همايون).

A defective history of the first twelve years of the reign of Shâh 'Abbâs the Great, from his accession, A. H. 996 (A. D. 1588), to A. H. 1007 (A. D. 1598, 1599), the year of the conquest of Khurâsân, and the date of the composition of this work (the title is a chronogram, see fol. 11b, l. 2), compiled by Siyâḳî Niẓâm (سياقى نظام), see fol. 8b, l. 6, and dedicated to Shâh 'Abbâs. He gave to the book this peculiar title, because, as he says, the first twelve years of 'Abbâs' reign witnessed twelve different conquests, and the name of the Shâh شاه عبّاس حيدرى consists itself of twelve letters. It is divided into a preface, styled كرامت, with seven اشارة, see fol. 13b, and twelve فتوح, but unfortunately this copy contains only the كرامت and the twelfth or last فتح (فتح دوازدهم در ذكر توجهٔ رايات نصرت آيات بصوب خراسان), which begins in the middle of Sha'bân, A. H. 1006 (A. D. 1598, March), on fol. 16b. Between ff. 15b and 16b all the other eleven فتوح are missing (fol. 16a is left blank).

Beginning: لطيفترين گوهرى كه مؤرّخان بلاغت نظام و منشيان فصاحت هر قسام در رشتهٔ عبارت انتظام دهند حمد و ثنائى قادر لايزاليست الخ.

Copied in Ramaḍân, A. H. 1059 (A. D. 1649, Sept.).

No. 955, ff. 114, ll. 11; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 7¼ in. by 4¼ in.

Ta'rîkh-i-'âlamârâi-'abbâsî (تأريخ عالم آراى عبّاسى).

A complete copy of Iskandar Munshi's history of Shâh 'Abbâs the Great and his predecessors in the Ṣafawî line, originally completed A. H. 1025 (A. D. 1616), but afterwards continued to 'Abbâs' death, and the accession of Shâh Ṣafî in A. H. 1038 (A. D. 1629), comp. Bodleian Cat., Nos. 289–299; Rieu i. p. 185 sq.; W. Morley, p. 133 sq.; W. Pertsch, Berlin Cat., pp. 433–436; Erdmann in Zeitschrift der D. M. G. xv. p. 457 sq.; G. Flügel ii. p. 174 sq.; J. Aumer, p. 80; Journal Asiatique, v. (1824), p. 86 sq.; Ḥ. Khalfa vi. p. 564, etc. According to the preface, Iskandar Munshî divided his work originally into a muḳaddimah, on the forefathers and predecessors of Shâh 'Abbâs and the virtues and eminent qualities of the Shâh himself, and two ṣaḥîfas, the first containing 'Abbâs' life from his birth to his accession (A. H. 978–996 = A. D. 1571–1588), the second the first thirty years of his reign (A. H. 996–1025 = A. D. 1588–1616). He afterwards added the history of the last thirteen years of his reign (A. H. 1025–1038 = A. D. 1616–1629), and subdivided the second ṣaḥîfah into two maḳṣads, the first to contain the first ḳarn or generation, i. e. the first thirty years, to A. H. 1025, the second the remaining years to 1038. The latter is also styled in some Bodleian copies the third ṣaḥîfah. A khâtimah, which the author had intended to comprise wonderful stories and strange incidents of the time, was never completed.

Beginning of the whole work: چون نشر محامد كبريائى الهى كه بيرون از دائرهٔ عقول و افهام است الخ.

Muḳaddimah and first ṣaḥîfah, on fol. 1b.

Second ṣaḥîfah, first maḳṣad, on fol. 157b; second maḳṣad, on fol. 425b.

The same.

This copy, beginning in the usual way, may be older than the preceding one, since it is dated the 25th of Rajab, A. H. 1072 (A. D. 1662, March 16), by Ḥâjî Darwish 'Alî, but it is somewhat defective in consequence of a lacuna after fol. 7.

No. 299, ff. 242, ll. 27; clear and distinct Nasta'lîḳ; size, 14¾ in. by 9½ in.

The same.

This copy has a different beginning, viz.: حمد و مدح پروردگار حمدی سپاس و ستایش; the first year of 'Abbâs' reign on fol. 3a, the thirtieth on fol. 306b.

No date. Eleventh century of the Hijrah. It is somewhat incorrectly styled on fol. 1b: تأریخ عالم آرا جلد اوّل.

No. 2927, ff. 319, ll. 21; clear Nasta'lîḳ; the first page supplied by a modern hand; size, 11¾ in. by 7¼ in.

553

The same.

Beginning as usual. No date. This copy is badly injured in many places; more than a third of each of the first five pages is entirely torn away; large water-spots.

No. 1493, ff. 199, ll. 27: Nasta'lîḳ; size, 15¾ in. by 8¼ in.

Another copy of the second maḳṣad.

Beginning as usual. Dated by Muḥammad Akram Karam-allâh Shâmlû, the 9th of Dhû-alḥijjah, A. H. 1093, that is, the twenty-sixth year of 'Âlamgîr's reign (A. D. 1682, December 9).

No. 855, ff. 354-563, ll. 17; large and distinct Nasta'lîḳ; size, 10¾ in. by 6 in.

Bayân-i-Wáḳi' (بيان واقع).

A history of Nâdirshâh, from his invasion of India to his death in A.H. 1160 (A.D. 1747), and of subsequent events during the reigns of Muḥammadshâh and Aḥmadshâh, together with a narrative of the author's own travels to Persia and Arabia, by Khwâjah 'Abdalkarím bin Khwâjah 'Âḳibat Maḥmûd bin Khwâjah Muḥammad, originally of Kashmir, who came to Shâhjahânâbâd and was an eye-witness of all the principal affairs which went on during Nâdirshâh's invasion; comp. on this interesting work Rieu i. p. 381 sq., and F. Gladwin's incomplete translation, styled 'Memoirs of Khojeh Abdulkurreem,' Calcutta, 1788. According to the index, on fol. 3a, it was originally divided into four bábs and a khátimah, but in the progress of his work the author must have changed his mind, for our copy contains, like those in the British Museum, five bábs, the last of which brings the history down from the time of Nâdirshâh's death to A.H. 1199 (A.D. 1785), the year in which he completed this work; see the last page, l. 12: الى الآن كه سنهٔ يكهزار و يكصد و نود وند هجريست. In the British Museum copies A.H. 1198 (A.H. 1784) seems to be the last date. The intended khátimah is found neither here nor in any other known copy.

The title appears twice, on fol. 2b, last line but one, and fol. 3a, l. 12. The author's name is mentioned on fol. 1b, last line but one, and last line.

باب اوّل در ذكر عروج و خروج نادر السّلطان و آمدن او به سمت هندستان (Nâdirshâh's march to India), on fol. 4a.

باب دوم در بيان معاودت نادر السّلطان بسوى ايران و رفتن بتوران و خوارزم دربن ميان (Nâdirshâh's return to Írân and march to Túrán, Khwârizm, etc.), on fol. 27b.

باب سيوم متضمّن بعضى وقائع كه از دار السلطنت قزوين تا بندر هوگلى كه از بنادر متعلّقهٔ سلطنت هندستان است مشاهده نمود (Events that occurred to the author in his travels from Kazwín through Persia and Arabia back to the port of Húgli), on fol. 68a.

باب چهارم در ذكر بعضى از وقائع كه از ابتداى ورود به بندر هوگلى تا وقت وصل وانتقال اعليحضرت كشير المروّت پادشاه درويش صفت محمّد شاه فردوس آرامگاه بظهور پيوسته (Events that took place from the author's return to Hûglî to the death of Muḥammadshâh), on fol. 94a.

باب پنجم در ذکر بعضی امور که در ایّام سلطنت احمد شاه بهادر بهست آمد (Events in the reign of Aḥmadshâh), on fol. 138b.

Fawâ'id-i-Ṣafawiyyah (فوائد صفویّه).

A history of the Ṣafawî dynasty from Shâh Isma'îl (died A.H. 930=A.D. 1524) to Sulṭân Abû-alfatḥ Muḥammad Mirzâ Bahâdurkhân alṣafawî almûsawî alḥusaini, who lived in exile in Lucknow as pensioner of the East India Company. The work is dedicated to him by the author, Abû-alḥasan bin Ibrâhîm of Ḳazwin, A.H. 1211=A.D. 1796, 1797 (the word تأریخ forms the chronogram), see fol. 2a, l. 1, fol. 3a, ll. 1–5; a more detailed account of this history is given in Rieu i. p. 133 sq. and Morley, p. 137; comp. also W. Pertsch, Berlin Cat., p. 515 sq. The book is divided into two muḳaddimas and a khâtimah.

مقدّمهٔ اولی در ذکر احوال خجسته مآل سلاطین جنّت مکین سلسلهٔ علیّهٔ صفویّه انار الله برهانهم, on fol. 3a, history of the Ṣafawîs from Shâh Isma'îl to Muḥammad Mirzâ, A.H. 1211. On fol. 84a an additional chapter begins, on subsequent events from A.H. 1212 to 1220 (A.D. 1797–1805), see the latter date on fol. 110a; our copy contains therefore more than those in Rieu and Morley, which only go down to A.H. 1216.

مقالهٔ اوّل در ذکر طبقهٔ افاغنهٔ غلزیّه, on fol. 144a.

مقالهٔ دوم در ذکر طبقهٔ افشاریّه, on fol. 145b.

مقالهٔ سیوم در ذکر طبقهٔ افاغنهٔ ابدالیّهٔ دُرانیّه, on fol. 153b.

مقالهٔ چهارم در ذکر طبقهٔ زَنْدیّه, on fol. 166b.

مقالهٔ پنجم در ذکر طبقهٔ قاجاریّهٔ قزلباشیّه, on fol. 186a.

خاتمهٔ کتاب در ذکر اختتام و انجام این مختصر وشمّهٔ از حالات مؤرّخین, on fol. 200a.

VI. Special History of Ṭabaristân, the Barmakîs, Harât, Turkey, the Ḳarâ-Ḳoyunlûs, the Shaibânîs and Astarkhânîs of Transoxania, and the Afghâns.

a. Ṭabaristân.

Ta'rîkh-i-Ṭabarî (تأریخ طبری).

Chronicle of Ṭabaristân, composed by Muḥammad bin al-Ḥasan bin Isfandiyâr in and after A.H. 613 (A.D. 1216, see fol. 39b, ll. 11 and 12), comp. Bodleian Cat., No. 307; Rieu i. p. 202 sq.; F. Spiegel in Zeitschrift der D. M. G. iv. pp. 62–71; Sir W. Ouseley, Travels, iii. p. 554, and B. Dorn, Sehir-eddins Geschichte von Tabaristan, etc. (preface, pp. 3–6). As his sources the author enumerates particularly the following three works: (1) عقود سحر و قلائد درر, by Abû-alḥasan Muḥammad alyazdâdî, fol. 3b, l. 6 (comp. Dorn, p. 4); (2) a risâlah, translated for Dâ'ûd Yazdî, A.H. 197 (A.D. 812, 813), by a man of Sind, 'Alâ bin Sa'îd, from Hindûi into Arabic; and (3) another risâlah, translated by Ibn al-Muḳaffa' from Pahlawî into Arabic (styled جواب نامه, according to the Bodleian copy), see fol. 5a, ll. 4–7. Apparently, Muḥammad bin al-Ḥasan did not complete his work, since in the last portion many events are related which occurred a long time after his death (the last date mentioned here at the very end of the book is the death of Fakhr-aldaulah Ḥasan, A.H. 750=A.D. 1349), and we must therefore assume that this chronicle was continued by another hand, more than a hundred years after the original author's lifetime. In the Bodleian copy there is a still later appendix (missing here), with short chronological notes, the last of which gives the date A.H. 842 (A.D. 1438, 1439).

Beginning: حمد و ثنا و مدح بی منتها آفریدگاری را سزاست که واهب ارواح وخالق اشباح است الخ.

The work is divided into four parts (قسم).

Ḳism I: در ابتدای بنیاد طبرستان, subdivided into four chapters (باب), viz. 1. در ترجمهٔ سخن ابن المقفّع (The translation of Ibn al-Muḳaffa'). 2. در ابتدای بنیاد طبرستان و بنای عمارات و شهرهای وی (First cultivation of Ṭabaristân and building of its cities, etc.). 3. در خصائص و عجائب طبرستان (Peculiarities and wonders of Ṭabaristân). 4. در ذکر ملوك و اکابر و علما و زهّاد و کتّاب و اطبّا و اهل نجوم و حکما و شعرا و معارف (The kings, great and rich men, 'Ulamâs, ascetics, scribes, physicians, astronomers, philosophers, poets, etc. of Ṭabaristân).

Ḳism II: در ابتدای دولت آل وشمگیر و آل بویه و مدّت استیلای ایشان در ملك طبرستان (Beginning of the dynasties of Washmgîr and Buwaih in Ṭabaristân).

Ḳism III: در نقل ملك طبرستان از آل وشمگیر که آخر ایشان نوشیروان بن منوچهر بن قابوس بود با سلاطین محمودیان و سلجوقیان (Kings of Ṭabaristân to Nûshirwân bin Minûćihr bin Ḳâbûs, etc.).

Kism IV: از ابتدای دولت آل باوند دوم نوبت تا آخر دولت ایشان (Rule of the Bâwand dynasty).

For a more detailed description of this work, we refer to Rieu and the Bodleian Cat., loc. cit. This copy was made A.H. 1032 (A.D. 1623) by Himmat ibn Rustamnâk almâzandarâni.

No. 1134, ff. 184, ll. 21; clear and distinct Nasta'lîḳ; size, 9¼ in. by 5¾ in.

Akhbâr-i-Barmakiyân (اخبار برمکیان).

Kitâb-i-akhbâr-i-Barmakiyân, styled on the fly-leaf and on fol. 1a, تأریخ برامکه and تأریخ برمک, a special history of the Barmakis or family of Barmak, the well-known ministers of the 'Abbâsides (the last of which was executed by order of Hârûn-alrashîd), translated from the Arabic original of Abû Muḥammad 'Abd-allâh bin Lâbarî,—see, for instance, fol. 55, l. 3 (چنین گوید ابو محمّد عبد الله بن لابری مؤلّف اوّل این کتاب), and fol. 102, l. 9 (در جمله مؤلّفات عربی ابو محمّد عبد الله الخ)—and Abû-alḳâsim Ṭâbiḳî (read Ṭâ'ifî), who seems to have been the co-editor of the work,—see fol. 3b, l. 12 (چنین گوید ابو القاسم طابقی (؟ طائفی) که مؤلّف اصلست), ff. 11b, l. 7, and 31a, l. 13 (ابو القاسم طابقی که مؤلّف کتاب عربی است),—into Persian, by Diyâi Barani (ضیاء برنی), the author of the تاریخ فیروز شاهی, see above, No. 211, and dedicated to Sulṭân Firûzshâh (A.H. 752–790, A.D. 1351–1388).

Beginning: کتاب اخبار برمکیان که بندهٔ ضیاء برنی از عبارات عربی بپارسی ترجمه کرده است و دیباچه را بخطاب همایون سلطان فیروزشاه مدّ الله ظلال جلاله زیب وزینت داد حمد وثنا مر خدایرا که بفضل خویش کرم و خلق وسخاوت را قبله بر اهل کرم ومقاصد بندگان ساخت الخ.

Other copies of this work are described in the Bodleian Cat., No. 308, and Rieu i. p. 333; comp. also Elliot, History of India, iii. p. 93, and vi. p. 484; and Schefer, Chrestomathie Persane, ii. p. 6 sq., where all the histories dealing with the Barmakis are enumerated.

In the preface the author mentions an old history from the time of Sulṭân Maḥmûd of Ghazna, مآثر محمودی, composed by a certain Imâm Ḳaffâl (so to be read here instead of فعال!).

This history concludes on fol. 102a, and ff. 102b–108a are filled up with some other short stories on the same subject, the first is called the twenty-second story of the eighth book, and the second (on fol. 104b) the thirty-sixth story of the seventh book. The first begins: آورده اند که فضل بن یحیی بن خالد البرمکی با سرور سری (؟) گوید: آنکه در مودّت وفتوّت الخ; the second: مأمون خلیفه یکروز مرا بخواند و گفت الخ.

Dated the 7th of Rabî'-alawwal, A.H. 1097 (A.D. 1686, Feb. 1). The same hand, who wrote this date, added: مالکه و صاحبه احقر الانام و اضعف الاسلام محمّد عزیز الله ولد عبید الله نقشبندی (the first owner of this book was Muḥammad 'Azîz-allâh, son of 'Ubaid-allâh Naḳshbandî).

No. 1961, ff. 108, ll. 18 on the first forty-eight leaves, ll. 15–17 on the rest; Nasta'lîḳ, by two different hands; size, 9½ in. by 5½ in.

c. Harât.

Ta'rikh-i-Hasht Bihisht (تأریخ هشت بهشت).

The seventh book or section (کتیبه) of the very rare history of the first eight Turkish Sulṭâns from 'Uthmânbeg Ghâzî (died A. H. 726 = A. D. 1326) to Bâyazid II (who reigned A. H. 886–918 = A. D. 1481–1512), composed A. H. 912 (A. D. 1506, 1507) by Idrîs bin Ḥusâm-aldîn Albidlîsî, who died A. H. 926 (A. D. 1520); see Bodleian Cat., No. 311; Rieu i. p. 216 sq., and the date of the author's death, ib. p. 219ᵃ, last line; W. Morley, p. 142; W. Pertsch, Berlin Cat., p. 440; Tornberg, p. 191; Ḥ. Khalfa ii. p. 110 and vi. p. 500, etc. A Turkish translation of the same is noticed in G. Flügel ii. p. 216 sq.

This seventh portion contains the history of the seventh Turkish Sulṭân Muḥammad II (reigned A.H. 855–886=A.D. 1451–1481), and begins after a long-worded heading with the following نظم:

برای فتح دین هر داستانی ــ کنم نقل از چنان کشور ستانی

Then follows immediately the داستان اوّل.

It breaks off in the khâtimah (which begins on fol. 214ᵇ); but only one leaf seems to be missing.

Several of the first and also a few of the last leaves are extremely damaged.

No. 91, ff. 220, ll. 19; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 8¼ in. by 5¼ in.

Fatḥnâma-i-Khûnkâr-i-Rûm (فتح نامهٔ خونکار روم).

The campaign of Sulṭân Muḥammad III (who ascended the throne of Turkey A.H. 1003, and died A.H. 1012=A.D. 1595–1604) against Hungary in A.H. 1005 (A.D. 1596, 1597), see fol. 1ᵇ, l. 3, translated according to the last words of this little tract from Turkish into Persian. No author's or translator's name appears anywhere. On fol. 1ᵃ the tract is styled نسخهٔ فتح نامهٔ روم. Beginning: الحمد لمن لانصر الّا من عنده و الصلوٰة و السلام علی حبیبه الخ.

Quite modern handwriting, from A.H. 1217 (A.D. 1802, 1803), probably copied at Seringapatam, like the second and larger half of this MS., which is apparently written by the same transcriber.

Bibliotheca Leydeniana.

No. 2469, ff. 1–15, ll. 11; large Nasta'lîḳ; size, 8¼ in. by 6 in.

e. Ḳarâ-ḳoyunlûs.

Ta'rîkh-i-Turkmâniyyah (تأریخ ترکمانیّه).

A history of the Turkmân dynasty, that is to say of the Ḳarâ-ḳoyunlû branch, with a detailed account of the reigns and warlike deeds of Ḳarâ Muḥammad, the founder of the dynasty, and his son, Ḳarâ Yûsuf (who died, according to the Cat. Codd. Or. Lugd. Bat. iii. p. 11, A.H. 823=A.D. 1420). This work, composed by Ibn'Abdallâh Maḥmûd of Nishâpûr (see fol. 6ᵃ, last line) after A.H. 950 (A.D. 1543), is so much the more precious, as we have no other special history of this powerful Turkmân tribe, and this MS. seems besides to be almost unique in European collections, having been copied, according to a note on fol. 1ᵃ and on the first fly-leaf, from a scarce MS. in the possession of Captain Roebuck. But unfortunately the value of our copy is somewhat diminished by the absence of all dates (the only date in the whole book is A.H. 599 = A.D. 1202, 1203, in the short chapter on Ḳarâ Muḥammad's ancestors, on fol. 21ᵇ, l. 2), and the apparent omission of a very considerable portion of the history of Ḳarâ Yûsuf and his successors on fol. 161ᵃ; the last chapter, on fol. 160ᵇ, relates prince Rustam, 'Umar Shaikh Mirzâ's son and Tîmûr's grandson's flight before his brother, prince Sikandar, and his taking refuge in the fortress of Nîshâpûr, where he was besieged by his brother and escaped at last to Ḳarâ Yûsuf at Tabrîz. The immediately following chapter on fol. 161ᵃ transfers the scene of action, without the slightest transition, into the kingdom of Tiling or Tilingâna in India, and deals after a preliminary account of the Râjahs of Tiling with the Ḳuṭbshâhs of Gulkundah, who conquered Tiling, especially with Sulṭân Ḳuli Ḳuṭb-almulk, the founder of the Ḳuṭbshâhî dynasty, whose reign as independent king of Tilingâna lasted thirty-two years, from A.H. 918–950 (A.D. 1512–1543). His death is mentioned on fol. 228ᵇ in the khâtimah. Now, Ḳuli Ḳuṭb-almulk was, according to the تأریخ سلطان محمّد قطبشاه (see above, Nos. 456–462, and also Cat. Codd. Or. Lugd. Bat. loc. cit.), the great-grandson of Ḳarâ Yûsuf, whose descendants had thrown themselves with the remnants of their defeated armies into India and waged war against the infidels, that is, the Hindû Râjahs of the Dakhan, Tiling, Gulkundah, etc. The logical connection between these two separate portions of our MS. is thus cleared up, but the fact remains, nevertheless, that the whole history of the last years of Ḳarâ Yûsuf, and of the reigns of his son Sikandar Turkmân (who was slain by his own son Ḳubâd, A.H. 841=A.D. 1437), and Sikandar's brother, Jahânshâh (who was extirpated by Ḥasanbeg, the founder of the Âḳ-ḳoyunlû dynasty, in A.H. 872=A.D. 1467), are missing.

There is another drawback in this otherwise so extremely valuable work, that is, the flowery style which often conceals under a mass of poetical phrases the real substance of the story; this is especially regrettable in the dedication on ff. 9ᵇ–10ᵇ, where the name of the sovereign, at whose request the work was written, is so cleverly surrounded with flattering epithets, that it is almost impossible to find it out. It seems to be Muḥammad, and as he is called further on خدایگان ممالك عرب و عجم, we suppose the Ṣafawî ruler Muḥammad Khudâbanda, surnamed Sulṭân Sikandar Shâh, the eldest son of Shâh Ṭahmâsp, is meant, especially as there are several puns with the word Sikandar in the dedication, for instance, on fol. 10ᵃ, ll. 3 and 2 ab infra (سکندر شکوهی که دین پرور است ــ صف لشکرش سدّ اسکندر است).

At what time the book was completed it is impossible to state; Muḥammad Khudâbanda ascended the throne in A.H. 985 (A.D. 1577), and reigned till A.H. 995 (A.D. 1587), that seems rather late for the composition of this work, as some of the last facts mentioned in it are Humâyûn's defeat by Shîrshâh, A.H. 947 (A.D. 1540), and Ḳuli Ḳuṭbshâh's death in A.H. 950 (A.D. 1543); perhaps Muḥammad Khudâbanda was still prince when the book was written. That a history of the Ḳarâ-ḳoyunlû and their descendants, the Ḳuṭbshâhs of Gulkundah, should have been dedicated to a Ṣafawi prince, is not surprising, since the author lays everywhere a particular stress on the fact, that his heroes were partisans of the Shi'ah, and one of the introductory chapters contains an eulogium of 'Alí and the twelve Imâms (see fol. 5ª sq.).

Beginning: خداوند بیچون خدائی تراست ـ بر اقلیم جان پادشاهی تراست.

The history of Ḳará Muḥammad begins on fol. 10ᵇ.

This copy was written in fifteen days by Munshí Mirzá'ibeg for Colonel Mackenzie at Calcutta, and completed the 19th of January, 1815.

f. Shaibânís and Astarkhânís of Transoxania.

'Abdallâhnâma (عبد الله نامه).

A copy of the extremely rare history of the Shaibání Khâns of Transoxania, and especially of 'Abdallahkhân, who was born A.H. 940 (A.D. 1533), became absolute ruler of Transoxania in A.H. 986 (A.D. 1578, 1579), succeeded his father Iskandarshâh in Samarḳand A.H. 990 (A.D. 1582), and died A.H. 1006 (A.D. 1597, 1598)[1]; comp. on this most exquisite work of unequalled value Véliaminov-Zernov in the Bulletin historico-philol. de l'Académie de St. Pétersbourg, xv. pp. 172–175, and Mélanges Asiatiques, iii. pp. 258–263. It was composed by Tanísh bin Mír Muḥammad al-Bukhárí, see fol. 3ª, l. 3 ab infra, and contains an introduction (partly after Rashíd-aldín, see No. 17 in this Catal.) on the genealogy of 'Abdallâh and details on the Islâm in Central Asia, two parts (مقاله), the life of 'Abdallâh-khân, and a khâtimah (praise of 'Abdallâh and his wazírs). The muḳaddimah begins here on fol. 10ª; the beginning of the first part is not marked; the second begins on fol. 399ª. Between ff. 398 and 399 is a lacuna comprising the end of the first maḳâlah, the last chapter of which ('Abdallâh's accession) begins on fol. 392ª. The khâtimah is entirely missing.

Beginning of the preface, on fol. 1ᵇ: زواهر جواهر بیغایت نثار کریاس والا اساس مالك الملکی سزاست که صدای ملکوتش الخ.

Beginning of the second maḳâlah, on fol. 399ª: الحمد لله المتوحّد بالعظمة والکبریاء و المنزّه الخ.

No date. An entry from A.H. 1119 (A.D. 1707, 1708), on fol. 1ª.

No. 3, ff. 499, ll. 23; Naskhí; illuminated frontispiece on fol. 1ᵇ; size, 14 in. by 8¼ in.

575

Baḥr-alasrâr fí manâḳib-alakhyâr (بحر الاسرار فی مناقب الاخیار).

A very rare and detailed history of the Uzbegkhâns of Transoxania, especially of the Astarkhâní Sulṭâns, from the accession of Dín Muḥammadkhân in A.H. 1006 (A.D. 1597, 1598), after the assassination of 'Abd-almu'minkhân, to A.H. 1050 (A.D. 1640, 1641), in the reign of Nadhr Muḥammadkhân (the years A.H. 1047–1050, on ff. 235ª–274ª), with a full account of contemporary events in the neighbouring countries, and a short introduction on the descent of the dynasty from Ćingizkhân and the Kipćáḳ rulers, by Maḥmúd bin Amír Walí (see the colophon on fol. 409ª). A large portion of the work, viz. ff. 275ª–389ª, is devoted to special events of that time, not narrated in the main story, and a detailed account of all the great men, Amírs, 'Ulamâs, Ḳâḍís, Shaikhs, and poets of Transoxania, and particularly of Balkh. Ff. 389ª–409ª contain in the form of an appendix a relation of the author's extensive travels from A.H. 1034 (A.D. 1624, 1625) onwards.

Beginning: ارتفاع اعلام ظفر فرجام مواکب کواکب احتشام خوانین تقای تیموری در ساحت آسمان رتبت طارم الخ.

Copied from the author's autograph by Shâh Ḳâsim in Nadhr Muḥammadkhân's library, soon after the composition of the work itself, as the phrase added to the Sulṭân's name خلّد الله ملکه و سلطانه الی یوم الدین shews, that Nadhr Muḥammadkhân (who died A.H. 1059 = A.D. 1649) was still alive when this transcript was made.

No. 1496, ff. 409, ll. 21; distinct Nasta'lík; illuminated frontispiece, the first two pages embellished with gold stripes between the lines; size, 14¼ in. by 9¼ in.

Ta'rikh-i-Khânjahâní u Makhzan-alafghâní (تأریخ خانجهانی و مخزن الافغانی).

The fuller redaction of Khwâjah Ní'mat-allâh bin Khwâjah Ḥabíb-allâh Harawí's history of the Afghâns, which was completed the 10th of Dhú-alḥijjah, A.H. 1021 (A.D. 1613, February 1), and dedicated to Khânjahân, in whose service the author was at that time, comp. Bodleian Cat., Nos. 2025 and 2026; Rieu i. p. 210 sq.; W. Morley, p. 74 sq.; Elliot, History of India, v. p. 67 sq.; and Dorn's 'History of the Afghans from the Persian of Neamet Ullah,' London, 1829–1836.

Beginning: حمدی که مؤرّخان وقائع نگار و مستخبران بدائع الخ.

The work is divided into a muḳaddimah, seven bâbs, and a khâtimah.

Muḳaddimah on Jacob, his offspring, etc. (در ذکر بیان احوال مهتر یعقوب اسرائیل الله و تعداد فرزندان و سلسلهٔ انساب این طائفه که بآن پیغمبر عالیمقام منتهی میشود), on fol. 3ª.

Báb I: History of king Saul (Ṭálút), the Ark, etc., and the migration of the Afghâns to Ghûr, Kûh-i-Sulaimân, and Rûh (در بیان احوال ملك طالوت و تابوت سکینه و در رسیدن او بامارت وایالت بنی اسرائیل

[1] In Bayle's Oriental Biograph. Dictionary, p. 5ᵇ, a chronogram of his death is quoted: قیامت قایم شد, which clearly gives 1006; by a strange mistake, however, the author of that book makes it out to be 1005.

وقتل نمودن مهتر داوٗد جالوت الخ وبشهادت رسیدن ملك (طالوت و تعداد فرزندان او الخ), on fol. 19a.

Bâb II: History of Khâlid bin Walid, his conversion to Islâm and his campaigns, to the end of the Khilâfat of 'Umar Fârûḳ (در ذکر حضرت خالد بن ولید و بیان اسلام و سپه سالاریٔ او در ولایت بصره و کوفه وشام و روم و عراق عرب وعجم تا آخر خلافت امیر المؤمنین عمر فاروق الخ), on fol. 48b.

Bâb III: History of Sulṭân Bahlûl Lûdî and his successors down to the end of Sulṭân Ibrâhîm bin Sikandar bin Bahlûl's reign, A.H. 932=A.D. 1526 (در بیان سلطان بهلول لودی الخ تا آخر عهد سلطان ابراهیم بن سلطان سکندر بن سلطان بهلول الخ), on fol. 75a.

Bâb IV: History of Shir Shâh Sûr and his successors down to A.H. 1021=A.D. 1612 (در ذکر پادشاهیٔ شیرشاهی سور الخ تا در آمدن حضرت جنّت آسیانی محمّد همایون پادشاه مرتبهٔ دویم در هندوستان و بانجام رسیدن دولت از سلسلهٔ سور و منتقل شدن بدودمان عالیشان چغتیّه), on fol. 134a, without a heading.

Bâb V: History of Nawwâb Khânjahân Lûdî and his ancestors (در احوال و کماهیٔ حقائق آباء واجداد نوّاب کامیاب معلّی القاب خانجهان لودی الخ) seems to begin on fol. 217a (no heading).

Bâb VI: Genealogy of the Afghâns (در بیان تعداد سلسلهٔ افغان), on fol. 318b.

Bâb VII: History of Jahângîr's reign (در ذکر خلافت خدیو زمان و خاقان دوران بندگان حضرت ابو المظفّر نور الدین محمّد جهانگیر پادشاه), on fol. 261b.

Khâtimah: Lives of Afghân Shaikhs (در بیان احوال بعضی مشایخ این طائفه الخ), on fol. 297b.

From the fifth bâb onwards the copy is in hopeless confusion; the above headings are taken from the index on ff. 7b, 8, and 3a. The proper order of the first seventeen leaves is as follows: 1, 2, 4–8, 9–11, 15, 16, 12–14, 17. One leaf is missing after fol. 144. Copied A.H. 1063 (A.D. 1653).

No. 1705, ff. 355, ll. 15; Nasta'lîḳ; the first pages and some in the middle greatly damaged; waterspots throughout; size, 9 in. by 5¼ in.

Another copy of the same.

This copy, which is considerably shorter than the preceding one, agrees entirely with the second copy of this work in Rieu i. p. 211b (Add. 26,283) in so far as (1) the preface is wanting, and the few introductory lines are followed immediately by the index on fol. 2a. (2) Bâb V, containing the history of Khânjahân, is altogether omitted.

Contents:

Muḳaddimah (called here کتاب), on fol. 3a; Bâb I, on fol. 8b; Bâb II, on fol. 25a; Bâb III, on fol. 42a; Bâb IV, on fol. 74a; Bâb VI, on fol. 119a; Bâb VII, on fol. 150a; Khâtimah, on fol. 171a. The work ends on fol. 220a, dated the 26th of Jumâdâ-alawwal, A.H. 1090 (A.D. 1679, July 5), and is followed by two appendices, viz. 1. the same genealogy of Haibatkhân bin Salimkhân, written by himself, which is noticed in the second copy of Rieu, on ff. 220a–223a (see Dorn's History of the Afghans, vol. ii. pp. iv–viii), and in the Bodleian Cat., No. 2026. 2. A collection of traditions (نقل) of Khwâjah Yaḥyâ Kabîr and Ḥaḍrat Makhdûm-i-Jahâniyân (that is, Jalâl-aldîn Bukhârî, who died, according to Rieu i. p. 354b, A.H. 785=A.D. 1383, 1384), on ff. 223a–226b; comp. Bodleian Cat., loc. cit.

The first appendix is styled at the end کنز الافغانی.

Beginning of the whole work, on fol. 1b: حمدی که مؤرّخان وقائع نگار و مستخبران بدائع افکار بلسان گوهربار الخ.

No. 2619, ff. 226, ll. 17; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 12¾ in. by 8¾ in.

Makhzan-i-Afghânî (مخزن افغانی).

The shorter redaction of the same history, in which both the fifth and the seventh bâbs are missing, completely agreeing with the copy in W. Morley and Add. 21,911 in Rieu i. p. 212.

It is divided into three bâbs, three daftars, and a khâtimah.

Bâb I, on fol. 4a, history of Jacob, etc.

Bâb II, on fol. 9b, history of king Saul, the Ark, etc.

Bâb III, on fol. 24a, history of Khâlid bin Walid, etc.

Daftar I, on fol. 40b, history of Sulṭâns Bahlûl, Sikandar, and Ibrâhîm Lûdî.

Daftar II, on fol. 75b, history of Shîrshâh, Islâmshâh, and some Afghân chiefs.

Daftar III, on fol. 171a, history of the Afghân dervishes.

Khâtimah, on fol. 210a, genealogy of the Afghâns.

At the end of Daftar II appear the same lines by Ibrâhîm Batnî, which are noticed by Morley and Rieu.

Dated the 8th of Rajab, A.H. 1a. (1180?=A.D. 1766, Dec. 10). As title appears in the colophon: تواریخ مجلس آرای, and on fol. 1a مجلس آرای.

Bibliotheca Leydeniana.

No. 2706, ff. 230, ll. 17, except ff. 193–230, which contain only fifteen lines in a page, and bear a slightly different handwriting; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 10½ in. by 5¾ in.

579

Risâla-i-Afghânân (رسالهٔ افغانان).

A short treatise on the origin and pedigree of the Afghâns, traced back, as usually, to king Saul (طالوت). It is similar in its contents to the رسالهٔ انساب افاغنه, noticed by W. Morley, p. 77, but of a much earlier date. The anonymous author refers in his statements to Abû 'Alî ibn Aḥmad Mustaufî (i.e. Muḥammad bin Aḥmad al-Mustaufî, we suppose, the translator of the کتاب فتوح, see above, Nos. 131–133), Junaid ibn Ḥâmid, and Khwâjah Ja'far.

Beginning: رسالهٔ افغانان در کیفیّت نسل افغانان

بدانکه از پشت ملك طالوت اند و ملك طالوت از پشت یهودا که پسر کلان مهتر یعقوب بود الخ.

Dated the 3rd of Muḥarram, A. H. 1172 (A. D. 1758, September 6). College of Fort William, 1825.

No. 2124, ff. 274–277, ll. 15; large Nasta'lîḳ; size, 12½ in. by 8½ in.

580

Two other short tracts on the origin of the Afghâns (در بیان تحقیق اصل و نسل مردم افغان), both anonymous, the second being an extract from the تأریخ افغانی by 'Abbâs Sarwânî (that is no doubt the تأریخ شیرشاهی; see above, Nos. 219 and 220).

Beginning of the first tract, on fol. 18b: . . . الحمد لله بدانکه این رساله ایست در بیان تحقیق اصل و نسل مردم افغان که پیش ازین در هندوستان الخ.

Beginning of the second tract, on fol. 25b, last line: رسالهٔ تحقیق اصل و نسل افغانان تأریخ افغانیٔ عبّاس سروانی مینماید که چون آوازهٔ طلوع آفتاب جمال محمّدی الخ.

The second tract is incomplete at the end, breaking off in the middle of a phrase.

No. 1214, ff. 18b–27b, ll. 15; large and clear Nasta'lîḳ; size, 7½ in. by 4½ in.

Tawârikh-i-Raḥmatkhânî (تواریخ رحمتخانی).

A history of the Khabanî and Ghûrî tribes of the Afghâns, and especially of Yûsuf Zî (i. e. Bâyazîd Anṣârî ibn 'Abdallâh, the founder of the Rûshânian sect; comp. Âkhund Darwîza's مخزن الاسلام in Nos. 2393, 2456, 2467, 2476 and 2599 in this collection, and the Asiatic Researches, vol. xi. pp. 363–428) and his people, by Pîr Mu'aẓẓamshâh, son of Pîr Muḥammad Fâḍil, who was in the service of the famous Rohillah chief Ḥâfiẓ Raḥmatkhân (who died A. H. 1188=A. D. 1774; see No. 583), and got from him the order to condense and rewrite, in an easy and readable style, an old Pushtû history (written about A. H. 1031=A. D. 1622) with the title of تواریخ افاغنه (see fol. 2b, l. 7 sq.), dealing in particular with Yûsuf Zî's life and adventures; comp. W. Pertsch, Berlin Cat., p. 460, where the present work is styled تأریخ حافظ رحمتخانی. As the other work of the same title (see the immediately following copy) is written three years later than this, our present book cannot have been based on that, as Pertsch assumes. This work is written in Pushtû also, with a Persian preface, and divided into the following seven maḳâmât (completed, according to the colophon, A. H. 1181=A. D. 1767, 1768):

1. در ذکر اوطان اصلیٔ اقوام خٹی و غوری خصوصًا قوم یوسف زی وغیرهم من توابع ایشان و سبب ارتحال ایشان از آنجا و آمدن بمضافات دار السلطنت کابل و مخالفت مرزا الغ بیك شاهزاده با قوم یوسف زی و کشته شدن سرداران یوسف زی از دست او و آمدن ایشان از آنجا بمضافات شهر پشاور وغیره که بالفعل در آن متوطّن اند, on fol. 3b.

2. در ذکر رسیدن یوسف زی به پشاور و یافتن ملك دوابه الخ, on fol. 15b.

3. در بیان متوجّه شدن یوسف زی بملك سوات و آمدن ظهیر الدین محمّد بابر پادشاه بتسخیر مردم یوسف زی وغیره, on fol. 33a, last line.

4. در بیان آمدن ککیانی بملك دوابه و آمدن محمّد بابر پادشاه از کابل به پشاور و تاخت نمودن وی بر مردم دلزاك الخ, on fol. 58a.

5. در بیان جنگ مردم ککیانی و مردم دلزاك پشاور در ملك دوابه, on fol. 66b.

6. در بیان قسمت کردن شیخ ملّی ممالك مأخوذه و بلاد مغنومه در میان اقوام شیخیّه و وفات شیخ ملّی و ملك احمد الخ, on fol. 77b.

7. در بیان عبور شدن یوسف زی از دریاء لنکی و جنگ کردن ایشان با غوریّه خیل و غیر آن, on fol. 91b.

Tawârikh-i-Raḥmatkhânî (تواریخ رحمتخانی).

Another work of the same title and the same contents, compiled for the same Ḥâfiẓ Raḥmatkhân, by Ḥâfiẓ Muḥammad Ṣadiḳ, in seven majlis, A. H. 1184 (A. D. 1770, 1771); comp. on this Dorn, Bulletin scientifique de l'Académie de St. Pétersbourg, iv. p. 5 sq., where an abridged translation of the work is given; also Dorn's History of the Afghans, i. p. xi, No. 10, and W. Pertsch, Berlin Cat., p. 461.

Beginning: بعد از حمد صلوة بر بصائر صافیهٔ الو الالباب واضح و لائح باد که چون تمامیٔ همّت ظاهری الخ.

No date. Ff. 20b (partly), 21, 22a, 51a (partly), 51b, and 52a are left blank.

Khulâṣat-alansâb (خلاصة الانساب).

A genealogy of the Afghâns, by Ḥâfiẓ Raḥmat bin Shâh 'Âlam of the Kûta-khail tribe (see fol. 6b, ll. 7 and 8), who was the ruler of Rohilkand since A. H. 1161 (A. D. 1748), and was killed in battle A. H. 1188, the 11th of Ṣafar (A. D. 1774, April 23), against the combined forces of the East India Company and the Wazîr of Oudh, Shujâ'-aldaulah; see Bodleian Cat., Nos. 321 and 322; Rieu i. p. 212 sq.; B. Dorn, History of the Afghans, i. p. xii, No. 13; K. F. Neumann, Geschichte des englischen Reiches in Asien, Leipzig, 1857, vol. i. p. 493, etc.

Beginning of the preface, on fol. 1b: الحمد لله ربّ العالمين ..... حمد بيحدّ مر خالقی را كه جميع مكوّنات را جهت اظهار ربوبيّت الخ.

The work itself begins, on fol. 9a, with the chapter در بيان احوال شيخ كوتة عليه الرحمة.

The last chapter is devoted to a refutation of the doctrines of the Râfidîs: بيان تفصيل شيخين و ردّ روافض, beginning on fol. 39b.

The work ends on fol. 59b, and the last three lines give the date of the composition, viz. A.H. 1184 (in Rajab = A.D. 1770, October, Nov.). On ff. 60a–62b the Arabic hymn with Pushtû translation is added, which Dr. Dorn mentions in his 'History of the Afghans,' l. c. It is styled مناجات حضرت علي, and begins لك الحمد يا ذا الجود و المجد و العلى الخ.

No. 1577, ff. 62, ll. 15; large Nasta'lîḳ; size, 10 in. by 6 in.

Ta'rîkh-i-Faiḍbakhsh (تأريخ فيض بخش).

A history of the Rohillah Afghâns, their rise, independence, and dissolution, from the first foundation of their power by 'Alî Muḥammad, the grandson of Shâh 'Âlam the Afghân, who came, A.H. 1084 (A.D. 1673), together with Ḥusainkhân (or Ḥasankhân) to Kather or Rohilkand, down to their defeat and destruction by the East India Company's army, the 23rd of April, A.D. 1774, which put an end to their government and independence. This book was written by Munshî Shîw Parshâd, the wakîl of Nawwâb Faiḍ-allâhkhân Bahâdur, in the month of Muḥarram, A.H. 1190 (A.D. 1776, Febr., March); see fol. 6b, ll. 8 and 9; fol. 7b, ll. 9–11, and the colophon; comp. Bodleian Cat., No. 1972; Rieu i. p. 306, and Elliot, History of India, viii. pp. 175–179. The story opens, after a long-winded introduction, with a retrospect to former Afghân rulers, beginning with Shîrshâh.

Beginning: فيض آفرينی را هزاران ستايش و نيايش سزد و سازگار است كه طراوت الخ.

It is translated by Charles Hamilton in the 'Historical relation of the origin, progress, and fatal dissolution of the Government of the Rohilla Afghans in the Northern Provinces of Hindostan,' London, 1787. This copy is not dated.

No. 249, ff. 133, ll. 14–16; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 9 in. by 6½ in.

Another copy of the same.

The preface is wanting in this copy, which begins at once with a short account of Shîrshâh: در ايّام فرمانروائی و حكومت محمّد فريد مخاطب بشيرشاه بن حسن افغان سور كه مجمل احوالش اينست الخ, corresponding to the preceding copy, fol. 8a, l. 2.

The work concludes on fol. 54b. Ff. 55–75 contain chiefly Rekhta poetry, intermixed with a few Hindûstânî prose-pieces (on ff. 67a–68a); the chief headings are: نامهٔ جُرأت سلمه, on fol. 55a (in mathnawî-baits), beginning: هجو خارش از ; دُرّ يكتای بحر محبوبی الخ جُرأت, on fol. 59b (also in mathnawî-baits), beginning: جوش خارش هوا هی اس آئين الخ, etc. Ghazals, on fol. 63b sq. and fol. 68b; marthiyyas or elegies (all in Rekhta), on ff. 69a–75b.

Bibliotheca Leydeniana. R. Chambers.

No. 2585, ff. 75, ll. 15 (on ff. 1–54, the rest in diagonal lines); Nasta'lîḳ; size, 8¾ in. by 7 in.

586

A large fragment of the same.

This copy, which contains the greater portion of the foregoing history, comes down to A.H. 1185 (A.D. 1771); Najîb-aldaula's death is related on fol. 94a (A.H. 1184); Shâh 'Âlam's return from Ilâhâbâd to Dihlî, on fol. 95a (A.H. 1185). The last chapter, found here on fol. 96a, relates the death of Mullâ Sardârkhân Bakhshî.

Beginning as in the preceding copy. Bibliotheca Leydeniana.

No. 2773, ff. 39b–97a, ll. 13; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 8¼ in. by 5¼ in.

Gulistân-i-Raḥmat (گلستان رحمت).

A special history of the family and the ancestors of the author of this work, the Nawwâb Muḥammad Mustajâbkhân, chiefly of his own father, Ḥâfiẓ-almulk Ḥâfiẓ Raḥmatkhân, after whom the book has been named, together with many details about his great-great-grandfather, Shaikh Shihâb-aldîn, known as Shaikh Kûtî Bâbâ; his grandfather, Shâh 'Âlamkhân bin Maḥmûdkhân, known as Shaikh Mûtî, and the history of Dâ'ûdkhân, 'Alî Muḥammadkhân and other great Afghân noblemen and Amîrs, as well as a general account of the last times of the Moghal empire, from Bahâdurshâh's accession, A.H. 1119 (A.D. 1707), down to the twenty-fifth year of the reign of Shâh 'Âlam, A.H. 1197–1198 (A.D. 1783, 1784); comp. on this work Rieu i. p. 307; Elliot, History of India, viii. p. 301 sq.; and Ch. Elliott's abridged English translation: 'Life of Hafiz ool-Moolk,' London, 1831. It was written A.H. 1207 (A.D. 1792, 1793), see Rieu, loc. cit.

It is divided into four چمن, that is, into a muḳaddimah, two faṣls, and a khâtimah:

مقدمه در بيان حالات شيخ الشيوخ شيخ شهاب الدين شيخ كوتی بابا و اولاد امجاد ايشان, on fol. 4a.

فصل اوّل در ولادت آنحضرت و تشريف آوردن از ولايت بهندوستان و معاودت نمودن بوطن و مراجعت فرمودن بار ديگر باستدعای علی محمّدخان تا رحلت خان موصوف, on fol. 10b.

فصل دوم در عروج آنحضرت بر مدارج امارت و سلطنت و حكومت تا حين شهادت, on fol. 32a.

خاتمه در بیان اولاد قدسی نژاد آنحضرت و واقعاتی که بعد آن حضرت بوقوع آمده, on fol. 213a.

Shaikh Shihâb-aldîn Kûtî Bâbâ is referred to in the book as حضرت جدّ اعلی مرقوم, Shâh 'Âlamkhân as آنحضرت, and Raḥmatkhân as خان شهادت نشان.

Beginning: جواهر زواهر حمد بیحدّ و لآلیٔ متلالیٔ ثنای بیعدّ نثار بارگاه مالك الملکی که مملکتش الخ.

This copy is the fourth made from the author's autograph, and was finished the 14th of Dhû-al-ḳa'dah, A.H. 1218 (A.D. 1804, February 25). It was presented by the author himself to A. Willand, A.D. 1804.

No. 1417, ff. 239, ll. 15; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 10⅝ in. by 7¼ in.

Ḥusain Shâhî (حسین شاهی).

A detailed history of the dynasty of the Durrânî Afghâns, comprising the reigns of Aḥmad Shâh Durr-i-Durrânî and his successors Timûrshâh and Shâh Zamân, to the fifth or sixth year of the latter Sulṭân's reign, A.H. 1212 (A.D. 1798), composed by Imâm-aldîn Ḥusainî (حسینی, so here and in the following copy, Rieu reads چشتی) and dedicated to his spiritual guide Khwâjah Abû Muḥsin Ḥusain Ḥusainî alḥasanî (Rieu has again alćishtî) almaudûdî alkumhârî (see fol. 1b, l. 4, and fol. 2a, ll. 5 and 6), A.H. 1213=A.D. 1798 (سال یکهزار ودو صد و سیزده هجری, so distinctly on fol. 2a, last line; fol. 32a, l. 9, and fol. 56a, ll. 9 and 10; not 1216 as is stated by W. Morley, p. 76); comp. Rieu iii. pp. 904 and 905. It is the same history which Morley describes under the title of تاریخ نسب نامهٔ احمد شاه درّانی; the correct title, as given above, appears here immediately after the date on fol. 2a, last line.

Beginning: حمد بیحدّ و ثنای بیعدّ پادشاهی را سزاست که لمن الملك الیوم لله الواحد الخ.

Genealogy of Sulṭân Aḥmadshâh, his rise to power, etc., on fol. 2b; his death, on fol. 32b; accession of Timûrshâh, on fol. 34b; his death in A.H. 1207 (A.D. 1792, 1793), on fol. 56a; accession of Shâh Zamân in the same year, on fol. 57b; account of Amîrs and great state-officials, on fol. 80b; geographical appendix, giving the various stages in the Panjâb and the distances from Peshâwur to Kâbul and Ḳandahâr, etc., on fol. 88a; genealogy and family of Khwâjah Abû Muḥsin, the author's patron and Pîr, on fol. 98b, concluded by various specimens of his letters.

Ḳiṣaṣ-alanbiyâ (قصص الانبیاء).

Undoubtedly the oldest of all the various works with the same or a similar title, identical with that in Cat. Codd. Or. Lugd. Bat. iii. p. 16; Rieu i. p. 143; W. Pertsch, Berlin Cat., p. 978; G. Flügel ii. p. 370; Ḥ. Khalfa iv. p. 518, etc. It is a fabulous history of the prophets from Âdam to Muḥammad, based on the Ḳurân and the traditions, with an appendix on the early khalîfs down to the death of Mu'âwiyah, and an account of Ḥajjâj bin Yûsuf. The author (distinctly introduced, on fol. 1b, last line but one) gives his name as Isḥâḳ bin Ibrâhîm bin Manṣûr bin Khalaf of Nîshâpûr, and traces the chain of his traditions through Abû Muḥammad bin alḥasan bin Aḥmad alḳaṣṣâr almufassir alnîshâpûrî—Maimûn bin Bahrâm—Ma'mûn bin Aḥmad alsullamî alharawî—'Alî bin Isḥâḳ—Ṣâliḥ bin 'Abd-alraḥmân—Muḥammad bin Marwân alkûfî, and Muḥammad bin Sâ'il alkalbî (Rieu: Sâ'ib alkalbî, died A.H. 146=A.D. 763, 764) back to Ibn 'Abbâs. Rieu therefore places the author's lifetime at the end of the fifth century of the Hijrah.

Beginning: الحمد لله الحمید المبداء و صلّی الله علی محمّد خاتم النبیّین و آله الطیّبین الطاهرین پس از ثنای خدای عزّ و جلّ الخ.

The last two leaves are greatly damaged, a considerable portion of each being torn away.

Dated the 14th of Ṣafar, A.H. 1125 (A.D. 1713, March 12), by Muḥammad Mu'aẓẓam bin Muḥammad (the latter is called حاکم کنبو دهلی), College of Fort William, 1825. Arabic works of the same title and contents are mentioned in Loth, Arabic MSS. of the India Office, p. 205; J. Aumer, p. 182, etc.

No. 2224, ff. 135, ll. 25; careless Nasta'lîḳ, mixed with Shikasta; size, 11¾ in. by 6¾ in.

Tâj-alḳiṣaṣ (تاج القصص).

A large collection of biographies and legends of the prophets from Âdam to Muḥammad, by an anonymous author (an incomplete note on the first page of Ouseley 193, in the Bodleian Library, calls him . . . Ibn Naṣr albukhârî), beginning with a short Arabic introduction, on fol. 4b: الحمد لله الذى توحّد بالملكوت و تعزّز بالجبروت و هو الذى لا يموت و ربّ الازل الخ.

Then follows in the middle of the same page a Persian introduction, beginning: سپاس و ستايش براستى و آفرين بتمامى مر خداوند جهان آفرين الخ; comp. Bodleian Cat., No. 342.

The legends of the ante-muḥammadan prophets open with Âdam and conclude with Jesus, Mary, the Seven Sleepers, and St. George. On fol. 215a begins the history of Muḥammad. The work ends with Ḥusain's death and the events which followed it. A complete index of the whole book is found on ff. 1b–3b.

Dated the 10th of Ramaḍân, A. H. 1104 (thirty-sixth year of 'Âlamgir's reign)=A. D. 1693, May 15, by Mullâ Muḥammad Yûsuf bin Shaikh Bahâ-aldîn. On fol. 1a two other titles are given to this work, viz. تأريخ انبيا and قصص الانبيا, but the latter belongs to a smaller work of the same kind; see the following MSS., and Bodleian Cat., No. 343. On fol. 6a, l. 1, occurs the genuine title تاج القصص. This copy belonged formerly to Mr. Richard Johnson.

No. 322, ff. 299, ll. 30; clear Nasta'lîḳ; some of the first and the last leaves very severely damaged, the whole half of fol. 297 torn away; size, 14½ in. by 9½ in.

A fragment of the same.

This incomplete copy of the تاج القصص breaks off in the story of Jacob and Joseph (in the twelfth majlis of that episode, which is divided into forty majlis). Last words: و بياوردند پيراهن خون چكان و گفتند يوسف . . . ; corresponding to the preceding copy, fol. 84a, ll. 9 and 10.

No. 992, ff. 169b–320b, ll. 19; large and distinct Nasta'lîḳ; size, 10¾ in. by 6¾ in.

Majma'-alḥasanât (مجمع الحسنات).

A second work to which the title of قصص الانبيا is assigned, but which, according to W. Pertsch, Berlin Cat., p. 522, should bear the above designation: مجمع الحسنات, based, as the first words prove, for the greater part on the twenty-seventh book of the Ṣaḥîḥ of Muḥammad bin Isma'îl bin Ibrâhîm al-Bukhârî (died A. H. 256=A. D. 870), which contains the legends of the prophets; comp. Krehl in Zeitschrift der D. M. G. iv. p. 5 sq. The real author's or translator's name is not mentioned. It begins, on fol. 3b, thus: . . . . الحمد لله امّا بعد روايت ميكند محمّد بن اسمعيل بن ابراهيم البخارى باستادى كه اورا بود از امام المتقين جعفر صادق رضى الله عنه و او از پدر خويش محمّد بن على الخ.

An index of all the prophets, etc., whose biographies are found in this work is given on ff. 1a–2a. It begins with the fallen angel, عزازيل, on fol. 8a; then follow آدم, on fol. 10b; شيث, on fol. 22b; ادريس, on fol. 23b; نوح, on fol. 25a; هود, on fol. 29b; شدّاد بن عاد, on fol. 32b; صالح, on fol. 34a; ابراهيم, on fol. 35b; لوط, on fol. 56a; اسمعيل, on fol. 59a; يعقوب, on fol. 59b; يوسف, on fol. 61b; اصحاب اخدود, on fol. 96b; شعيب, on fol. 97a; يونس, on fol. 98b; ايّوب, on fol. 103a; ذو القرنين, on fol. 108a; اصحاب كهف, on fol. 116a; فرعون, on fol. 120b; موسى, on fol. 135a; عامل (in the following copy, عاميل) مقائل, on fol. 153a; عوج بن عنق, on fol. 155a; بلعم, on fol. 157b; خضر و موسى, on fol. 159b; يوشع ابن نون, on fol. 163b; حنظله, on fol. 164a; اشموئيل, on fol. 166b; داوٗد, on fol. 169b; سليمان, on fol. 178a; زكريّا, on fol. 192a; يحيى, on fol. 193b; مريم و عيسى, on fol. 194a; خضر و الياس, on fol. 207a; جرجيس, on fol. 208a; شمعون, on fol. 212b; محمّد, on fol. 214b. With Muḥammad's life and death this copy concludes; comp. Bodl. Cat., No. 343.

Dated by Ghulâm 'Umar bin Ghulâm Ḥasan, who lived in Nânûtah in the district of Shâhjahânâbâd, the 17th of the month Sha'bân in the twenty-fifth year (of whose reign is not stated).

No. 1017, ff. 257, ll. 19; written for the greater part in Nasta'lîḳ; some portions in Shikasta by another hand; size, 10 in. by 5½ in.

Another copy of the Majma'-alḥasanât.

This redaction is substantially the same as in the preceding copy, although the wording is slightly different. It begins with the قصّهٔ عزازيل, on fol. 198b, after which follow exactly the same ḳiṣaṣ as in No. 1017, and it also concludes with Muḥammad, whose biography begins on fol. 391a, after those of شمعون, خضر و الياس, جرجيس, etc. The initial words of this copy are: اللّهمّ صلّ على محمّد و على آل محمّد و بارك و سلّم و كان ذلك النور بالطوف بالقدرت الخ. The words with which the preceding copy opens are found here in l. 11 of the first page, and run thus: رواية . . . محمّد بن سهيل (!) بن ابراهيم بخارى الفارسيّة روايت كرد محمّد بن عبد الله بن ابراهيم البخارى رحمهم الله بسا استادى (!) كه اورا بود بالجعفر بن محمّد صادق از پدر وى محمّد بن على الخ.

Copied by Mullâ 'Abd-alḳâdir ibn Shaikh 'Abdallâh, known as Rajî, for Ḥâjî Thanâ-allâh bin Muḥammad Muḳîm Fâḍil bin Muḥammad Ghâzî of Kanćanpûr (كنچنپور) in Bangâlah, and dated the 23rd of Dhû-alḥijjah, A. H. 1203 (A. D. 1789, September 14).

No. 2442, ff. 193b–432a, ll. 17; large Nasta'lîḳ; size, 12½ in. by 8 in.

A shorter redaction of the same.

This copy, which is rather incorrectly written, but considerably older than the immediately preceding one, contains a sort of abridgment of the Majma'-alḥasanât or Ḳiṣaṣ-alanbiyâ, with some additions however, particularly at the end.

Beginning: الحمد لله ربّ العالمين و العاقبة للمتّقين و الصلوة و السلام على محمّد و آله اجمعين روايت كرد از ابراهيم اسحاق (؟) . . . . . از استاد خود از جعفر صادق الخ.

The following prophets are mentioned: آدم, on fol. 8b; شيث, on fol. 22a; ادريس, on fol. 23a; نوح, on fol. 25a; هود, on fol. 29b; شدّاد بن عاد, on fol. 32a; صالح, on fol. 33a; ابراهيم, on fol. 35a; لوط, on fol. 54b; يعقوب, on fol. 57b; يوسف, on fol. 59b; شعيب, on fol. 87b; يونس, on fol. 89a; ايّوب, on fol. 92b; ذو القرنين, on fol. 96b; موسى, on fol. 102a; قارون, on fol. 132a; يوشع بن نون, on fol. 138a; اشمويل, on fol. 140b; سليمان, on fol. 147a; زكريّا, on fol. 155b; يحيى, on fol. 157a; عيسى, on fol. 157b; جرجيس, on fol. 161b; شمعون, on fol. 164a; محمّد, on fol. 165a; دقيانوس, on fol. 188b; and علي, on fol. 207b.

Dated the 4th of Jumâdâ-alâkhar, A.H. 1076 (A.D. 1665, December 12). This date appears on the margin of the last page, but in spite of that the copy appears to be incomplete; the last words being: برفت تا بدرى سراى.

No. 3489, olim 14. J. 26, ff. 209, ll. 15; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 8¾ in. by 5⅝ in.

Ta'rîkh-i-Anbiyâ (تأريخ انبيا).

Another very detailed work on the prophets and holy men before the Islâm. The proper title of the book cannot be ascertained, as the first leaf is missing; but its characteristic difference from all the other books of the same (or a similar) title is this, that it only treats of ante-Muḥammadan saints, leaving out Muḥammad entirely, and that the biographies are much more detailed and diversified. The title as given above, is assigned to this MS. on fol. 1a.

It is divided into forty-one majâlis, viz.:

1. در نقل خلق كردن زمين, on fol. 1a, in seven bâbs.
2. در خلق آسمانها و آنچه متّصل است بآن, on fol. 4b, in seven bâbs.
3. در ذكر خلق آفتاب و ماهتاب و صفت حركت آنها و ابتداء خلق ايشان, on fol. 9a.
4. در قصّهٔ آدم, on fol. 11b, in eleven bâbs.

One leaf is missing after fol. 22.

5. در ذكر ادريس نبى, on fol. 24a.
6. در قصّهٔ هاروت و ماروت, on fol. 24b.
7. در قصّهٔ نوح, on fol. 26a.
8. در قصّهٔ هود, on fol. 29a.
9. در ذكر عاد, on fol. 31a.
10. در ذكر صالح, on fol. 33b.
11. قصّهٔ اصحاب الرسّ (i.e. the Thamûdites), on fol. 35b.
12. قصّهٔ ابراهيم خليل الرحمٰن, on fol. 38a, in eight bâbs.
13. در بعضى اخبار اسمعيل و اسحق, on fol. 50b.
14. در قصّهٔ لوط, on fol. 51b.
15. در احوال يوسف, on fol. 53b.
16. در ذكر موسى بن ميثا بن يوسف (the first Moses, grandson of Joseph), on fol. 70b.
17. در قصّهٔ ايّوب, on fol. 70b.
18. در قصّهٔ ذا الكِفْل (read ذو or ذى) (i.e. Bishr, Job's son), on fol. 75b.

Tafsîr-i-tadhkirat-alanbiyâ wa alumam (تفسیر تذکرة الانبیاء و الامم).

A dogmatic history of the prophets from Âdam to Muḥammad, based especially on verses of the Ḳurân and traditions, entitled تفسیر تذکرة الانبیاء و الامم (see fol. 5a, l. 15), by an anonymous author, who conceals his name and dedicated this work to Khwâjah Ḥasan. According to the introduction it is divided into a preface, two chapters, and a conclusion, viz.:

دیباچه در فائدهٔ ذکر قصص انبیا و فائدهٔ حکایات از اولیا و بیان بعضی از اجرام علوی و علویّات مثل قلم و لوح و عرش و کرسی و آفتاب و ماه و غیر اینها ودر ذکر بعضی از چیزهای غریب که در تحت فلک ممرّ است.

مقصد اوّل در بیان تفسیر آیات موعود.

مقصد دوم در بیان سیرت سرور عالمیان و صفوت خلاصهٔ انسان ماه فلک اهتدا شاه سریر اصطفا تیر اعظم فلک رسالت اختر انور برج جلالت رسالت پناه رسول الله.

خاتمه در مذمّت دنیا و اهل دنیا و در بیان احوال خلفاء راشدین.

The dibâća, a kind of cosmographical description of the wonderful things in heaven and on earth, begins on fol. 6b. The first makṣad is not marked, but it seems to begin on fol. 41b, where is written:

رکن سیوم در تفسیر آیاتی که در قصص انبیا علیهم الصلوات واقع شد, and contains a detailed account of all the ante-Muḥammadan prophets, beginning with Âdam. The second makṣad, containing Muḥammad's life, begins on fol. 300b. The khâtimah is not found.

Beginning: ربّ اشرح لی صدری و یسّر لی امری و احلل عقدة من لسان یفقهوا قولی الهی بعد از آن که شرح صدر کرده دلهای مارا بنور ایمان الخ.

Dated in the month Sha'bân, A.H. 1013 (A.D. 1604, December 23, to 1605, January 20), by Âdîna of Bukhârâ. Collated. In some respects the copy resembles a first sketch more than a complete and finished work.

No. 319, ff. 413, ll. 24–26; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 14¾ in. by 9½ in.

Jawâmi'-alḥikâyât wa lawâmi'-alriwâyât (جوامع الحکایات و لوامع الروایات).

A complete copy of the famous collection of stories and anecdotes, compiled, A.H. 625 (A.D. 1228), at the court of Sulṭân Abû-almuẓaffar Altamish (who reigned A.H. 607–633=A.D. 1211–1236) of Dihlî, by Maulânâ Nûr-aldîn Muḥammad 'Aufî, the well-known author of the oldest tadhkirah, Lubâb-alalbâb, and divided into four ḳisms, each of which contains twenty-five chapters; comp. Bodleian Cat., Nos. 324–331; Rieu ii. p. 749 sq.; G. Flügel i. p. 410; J. Aumer, pp. 56 and 57; Elliot, History of India, ii. pp. 155–203; Ḥ. Khalfa ii. p. 510, etc.

First ḳism (treating of the knowledge of God), on fol. 5a.

Second ḳism (treating of good morals), on fol. 276a.

Third ḳism (treating of blamable conduct), on fol. 374b.

Fourth ḳism (treating of cosmographical matters), on fol. 448b.

Beginning: حمد و ثنا مر مبدعی را که از بدایت صباح وجود بنهایت رواح عدم هرچه هست در حدّ پادشاهی الخ.

No date.

No. 595, ff. 546, ll. 27; Nasta'lîḳ, ff. 405–447 supplied by another hand; collated; size, 11⅞ in. by 6¼ in.

601

A fragmentary copy of the first ḳism of the Jawâmi'-alḥikâyât.

This fragment is in a very confused state, and defies thorough investigation by the almost complete absence of headings; there are many blanks besides, and lacunas after ff. 96a (96b being left blank) and 199. Ff. 89 and 90 are also blank, but there seems to be no gap, as the catchword of fol. 88b agrees with the beginning of fol. 91a.

Beginning of the preface, on fol. 1b: ثنا و حمد مبدعی را که از بدایت صباح وجود الخ.

Title and index, on ff. 5b–7a. Beginning of the first bâb of ḳism I, on fol. 7a; the following bâbs are not marked, but the second seems to begin on fol. 17b, the third on fol. 34a, the fourth on fol. 47a; this breaks off on fol. 96a; fol. 97a opens apparently in the seventh bâb, and the text seems to continue uninterrupted to the fifteenth, which has a proper heading, on fol. 163a. The sixteenth seems to begin on fol. 172a, the seventeenth on fol. 182b, the eighteenth on fol. 189a, and the nineteenth on fol. 197a, breaking off on fol. 199b. Bâbs 20–25 are entirely missing. Fol. 200a opens abruptly in the fifth bâb, and the beginning of the sixth is marked on fol. 240b. The latter breaks off on fol. 247b (the last page of the MS.).

No. 1385, ff. 247, ll. 19; Nasta'lîḳ, written on paper of different colour and size; size, 13–14¾ in. by 8–8¾ in.

Fragments of the same Jawâmi'-alḥikâyât wa lawâmi'-alriwâyât.

This copy contains:

1. On ff. 1b–38b, bâbs 1–6 and a portion of bâb 7 of the third ḳism.
2. On ff. 39a–77b and 143 the larger portion of the second half of the first ḳism, from the middle of bâb 15 to the end of bâb 25.
3. On ff. 78a–142b the end of bâb 6, bâbs 7–11, and the larger portion of bâb 12 of the first ḳism.

Bibl. Leydeniana. A former possessor was Claud Martin. The first fragment begins thus: قسم سیوم از کتاب جوامع الحکایات و لوامع الروایات در بیان اخلاق مذموم الخ.

No date.

No. 3046, ff. 143, ll. 10; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 8½ in. by 5½ in.

603

Extracts from the same.

Extracts from the second, third, and fourth ḳisms of the same work, styled (!) منتخب الحکایات از جامع

للحكايات, and beginning, on fol. 1a, thus: از قسم دویم در حزم و اندیشه و حکایات متعلقه بدان، حکایت در کتب اهل هند مذکورست که شتر سواری الخ.

These extracts end on fol. 26b and are followed by another short tale in a different handwriting, beginning: یکی از بزرگان دین و پیشوایان یقین نقل کرد که سالی عزیمت حجّ اسلام داشتم الخ.

No date.

No. 1560, ff. 28, ll. 15; large Nasta'lîḳ; size, 9¾ in. by 6 in.

604

A fragmentary piece of the same.

This short fragment of 'Aufi's جوامع الحكايات comprises the end of the 19th, the complete 20th, 21st, 22nd, and 23rd, and the beginning of the 24th bâb of the first kism. 20th bâb, on fol. 2a (physicians and philosophers); 21st bâb, on fol. 4a (interpreters of dreams); 22nd bâb, on fol. 9a (astrologers); 23rd bâb, on fol. 11a (poets); 24th bâb, on fol. 13b (singers).

No. 1502, ff. 14, ll. 19; large and distinct Nasta'lîḳ; size, 13¾ in. by 8½ in.

Ta'rîkh-i-Mûsawi (تاريخ موسوى).

A history of the prophet Moses, compiled after thirty-five years' researches by Mu'in-almiskîn, that is, Mu'in-aldîn Muḥammad Amîn Al-Farâhî alharawi, called Mu'in Miskîn (who died A. H. 907=A. D. 1501, 1502); comp. H. Khalfa iii. pp. 20 and 513; iv. pp. 251 and 608. He is the author of many interesting works, such as: روضة الواعظين; معراج النبوّة (see above, Nos. 138–144); تفسير حدائق; تفسير سورة فاتحة الكتاب; احسن القصص; للحقائق فى كشف اسرار الدقائق (see Bodl. Cat., No. 453), and many others. This story of Moses, also called قصّة حضرت موسى, قصّة موسويّه, and معجزات موسوى, was finished A. H. 904 (A. D. 1498, 1499).

Beginning: ربّنا آتنا من لدنك رحمة و هَيِّئْ لنا من امرنا رشدا الخ.

Dated the 23rd of Ramaḍân, A. H. 906 (A. D. 1501, April 12). It ends on fol. 180a, and the following pages contain morning and evening prayers of the prophet, etc. etc.

No. 2029, ff. 181, ll. 27; Naskhî; much worm-eaten and damaged throughout; size, 10 in. by 6¼ in.

The same.

No date; fol. 133 injured.

No. 32, ff. 289, ll. 18; Nasta'lîḳ, ff. 1 and 255–289 apparently written by another hand; illuminated frontispiece; size, 9¾ in. by 5¾ in.

610

The same.

Many pages injured and worm-eaten; fol. 11 is left entirely blank, and there is consequently a lacuna, corresponding to No. 1817 (612 below), fol. 5b, middle of l. 4 ab infra to fol. 11a, middle of l. 12. A great portion of fol. 152 torn away. No date. Some corrections on the margin.

No. 531, ff. 395, ll. 19; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 8 in. by 4¾ in.

611

A modern copy of the same.

Dated Dhû-alḥijjah, A. H. 1200 (١٢٠٠ = A. D. 1786, September 25 to October 23). College of Fort William, 1825.

No. 2137, ff. 259, ll. 17; written very irregularly by various hands in different styles of Nasta'lîḳ and Shikasta; size, 9¾ in. by 5¾ in.

612

An incomplete copy of the same.

This copy is rather old, but defective at the end. The 5th line ab infra on the last page corresponds to No. 531 (610 above), fol. 393a, last line.

No. 1817, ff. 194, ll. 23; Naskhî; size, 8¾ in. by 4¾ in.

An abridgment of the same.

This copy, considerably smaller than the preceding ones, contains only extracts from the Nigâristân; for instance, the story, beginning on fol. 37b: گویند در ایّام الخ, is found in No. 1992 (607 above), on fol. 22a; the story, beginning on fol. 39a: درین ایّام غریب انجام الخ, on fol. 50a of the same copy, etc. There is besides a lacuna after fol. 56. Beginning as usual. Copied A. H. 1162 (A. D. 1749).

No. 1904, ff. 88, ll. 15; large Nasta'lîḳ; very worm-eaten throughout; size, 9½ in. by 5 in.

Tarjuma-i-Ta'rîkh-alḥukamâ (ترجمهٔ تاریخ الحکما).

A Persian paraphrase of Maulânâ Shams-aldîn Muḥammad Suhrawardî's biographies of ancient philosophers and wise men, entitled تأریخ الحکما, made at the request of Sulṭân Salîmshâh (who assumed afterwards as emperor the title of Jahângîr) in Akbar's reign, A. H. 1011 (A. D. 1602, 1603), by Maḳṣûd 'Alî of Tabrîz (see fol. 2a, ll. 10 and 11; fol. 3a, ll. 1, 6, and 13). The translator's preface begins, on fol. 1b: ای حکیمی علی الاطلاق وای دانای باستحقاق الخ.

The work itself opens thus: آغاز کتاب سپاس و ستایش خدای را کہ اوّل بی اوّل است الخ, and contains the biographies of nearly all the ancient Greek philosophers, physicians, etc., Socrates, Pythagoras, Plato, Aristotle, Galenus, etc., besides the wise Luḳmân and others. The main portion of the work, dealing with these ante-Muḥammadan Ḥakîms, ends here on fol. 136b and is dated the 26th of Rajab, A. H. 1019 (A. D. 1610, October 14), at Âgra by Muḥammad Ḥusain bin Khwâjah Muḥammad of Samarḳand.

On fol. 137b begins the appendix, which adds to these biographies those of celebrated Muḥammadan philosophers and wise men of the Islâm, beginning: خواستیم کہ بتأریخ حکمای پیشین تأریخ حکمای متأخّرین اسلام و بعضی فوائد ایشانرا الحاق کنیم تا صورت تمامی بهم رساند الخ.

No date at the end of this part, which is written by an entirely different hand.

No. 1579, ff. 191, ll. 19; Nasta'lîḳ, by two different hands; size, 8¾ in. by 5½ in.

615

Another copy of the same.

Dated the 11th of Sha'bân, A. H. 1039 (A. D. 1630, March 26), and collated with the author's autograph, A. H. 1064 (A. D. 1654), at Akbarâbâd. The appendix on the Muḥammadan Ḥakîms begins on fol. 161b, equal in length and wording to the preceding copy. Beginning the same as in No. 1579.

No. 1762, ff. 213, ll. 17; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 8¾ in. by 5½ in.

616

The same.

Dated A. H. 1041 (A. D. 1631, 1632), by Muḥammad Ṣâliḥ of Kashmîr; little injuries here and there. The appendix, which is considerably shorter here than in the two preceding copies, begins on fol. 180a.

No. 63, ff. 219, ll. 17; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 8½ in. by 5 in.

617

An incomplete copy of the same.

The preface is missing in this copy, which begins immediately with the biography of Plato: خبر افلاطون و آداب او معنیٔ افلاطون بزبان یونان باشد بسیار علم الخ.

The appendix which is of the same length here, as in Nos. 1579 and 1762 (614 and 615 above), begins on fol. 42b, l. 6. At the end of this appendix there is added an ethical treatise در انتخاب اخلاق (styled باب ششم), in sixteen fâ'idas, beginning on fol. 67b, thus: منّت خدایرا کہ وجود بشر را بخلقت خوش و خوی نیکو خلعت زیبائی داد الخ.

First fâ'idah: در بیان تعریف حکمت علی الاطلاق و بیان اقسام آن اجمالا.

The little treatise is styled in the context simply: منتخب Muntakhab. It concludes on fol. 92a. The last page (92b) contains a tract on opium: در توصیف افیون حلاوت معجون.

No date. On the fly-leaves as well as at the top of fol. 1a the author is styled محقّق الطوسی.

No. 1423, ff. 92, ll. 26–29; small Nasta'lîḳ, sometimes without any diacritical points; size, 11¾ in. by 5¾ in.

618

Intikhâb-i-Ta'rîkh-alḥukamâ (انتخاب تأریخ الحکما).

An abridgment or extract from the preceding work, made by Munshî Mîr Sayyid Ṣadr-aldîn bin Mîr Muḥammad Ṣâdiḳ bin Mîr Muḥammad Amîn, beginning: سپاس و ستایش حکیمی را کہ اوّل بی اوّلست الخ.

Another title given to it, on fol. 1a, is قول الحکما. On the same first page Mr. Richard Johnson states that he has received this little book from Munshî Ṣadr-aldîn (that is, from the compiler himself), being an extract from his common-place book, A. D. 1778.

No. 665, ff. 108, ll. 11; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 8¼ in. by 5¼ in.

VIII. Biography.

a. Christ and St. Peter.

Mirât-alḳuds (مرآت القدس).

The life of Christ according to the Gospels, a work, the materials of which were first collected and arranged by the Portuguese Jesuit, Padre Geronimo Xavier, and afterwards translated under his superintendence into Persian by Maulânâ 'Abd-alsattâr bin Ḳâsim Lâhûri at Âgra, A. D. 1602 (A. H. 1010, 1011), at the request and for the sake of the emperor Akbar. Xavier died as missionary in Goa, A. D. 1617; comp. on this work Bodleian Cat., No. 364; Rieu i. p. 3; W. Pertsch, p. 57; Cat. des MSS. et Xyl., p. 243 sq., etc. This work was edited with a Latin translation by Louis de Dieu: 'Historia Christi Persice,' Lugd. Bat., 1639. It is from this printed edition, according to a note on fol. 1a, that the present copy was transcribed for Mr. Richard Johnson, A. H. 1185 (A. D. 1771, 1772), at Calcutta. The date given at the conclusion of the work, viz. A. H. 1027 (A. D. 1618), is apparently that of the original MS. on which Louis de Dieu based his edition; see Rieu, loc. cit.

Beginning of the preface, on fol. 1b: راهنمونی و هدایت صاحب ترجمه برای خوانندگان' ای عزیزان و محبوبان من این داستان مسیح را پادری ژیرونیمو شویر بپاکیزگی الخ.

The preface ends on fol. 5a, first line, and the whole space from there to fol. 9a is left blank.

Beginning of the life of Christ, on fol. 9b, with the first bâb (Christ's childhood): در طفولیّت مسیح و ولادت مریم و پرورش یافتن' چون مسیح بواسطهٔ مرد از مریم مقدّس زاده شد الخ.

Second bâb (Christ's miracles and teaching): در معجزها و تعلیم, on fol. 43b.

Third bâb (Christ's sufferings and death): در جفاها و محنتها و مرگ مسیح, on fol. 151a.

Fourth bâb (Christ's resurrection and ascension to heaven): در برخاستن مسیح از قبر و رفتن او بر آسمان, on fol. 171b.

Conclusion, on fol. 186a.

As title is given on the fly-leaves, ترجمهٔ قصّهٔ حضرت عیسی; the proper title, مرآت القدس, only appears in the preface.

No. 940, ff. 186, ll. 13; Nasta'lîḳ; worm-eaten throughout; size, 8¼ in. by 5¼ in.

Kawâ'if-i-Pitar-i-'Îsawî (کوائف پیتر عیسوی).

The life of St. Peter according to the Gospels and the Acts of the Apostles, in Persian, by the same Padre Geronimo Xavier. St. Peter is usually represented by سَنْ پیدرو or سَنْ بیدرو.

Beginning: ای دوستان من آنچه پند کردم بر سبب داستان مسیح همان اکنون پند میکنم بر سبب این داستان الخ.

It has likewise been edited by Louis de Dieu, Lugd. Bat. 1639; see Rieu i. p. 3. This copy was made for Richard Johnson, 1778. Xavier also wrote a complete biographical work of all the twelve apostles, A. H. 1609; see Bodleian Cat., No. 365.

No. 1713, ff. 50, ll. 13; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 8¼ in. by 5¾ in.

b. Wazîrs, Amîrs, Nawwâbs, Khâns, etc.

Âthâr-alwuzarâ (آثار الوزرا).

Biographies of the most eminent Wazirs from the oldest times down to the reign of Sulṭân Ḥusain Mirzâ, who ascended the throne in A. H. 873 (A. D. 1469), by Saif-aldîn Ḥâjî bin Niẓâm alfaḍlî, and dedicated to the Wazir Khwâjah Ḳiwâm-aldîn Niẓâm-almulk alkhwâfî, who was appointed to his office A. H. 875 (A. D. 1470, 1471; comp. ff. 3b, l. 12, 3a, last line, and 176a). As date of composition is given on fol. 170b, last line but one (just as in the Bodleian copy, Bodleian Cat., No. 347), A. H. 803, which is undoubtedly a mistake for 883 (A. D. 1478, 1479). The work is divided into two maḳâlas, the first dealing with the prominent wazirs of the most renowned dynasties of the East down to the author's time, the second with the special life and deeds of his patron Khwâjah Ḳiwâm-aldîn. Other copies in the Bodleian Cat., loc. cit., and Rieu iii. p. 969.

First maḳâlah (مقالهٔ اوّل در ذکر آثار واخبار وزرای سابق), in twelve bâbs:

1. Wazirs of the companions of the prophet and the Imâms (در ذکر وزرای صحابهٔ عظام وائمّهٔ مهدیین), on fol. 6b (this bâb is in the Bodleian and British Museum copies the second).

2. Wazirs of the ancient kings, i. e. the Persian and Greek (در ذکر وزرای سلاطین ما تقدّم), on fol. 7a (in the Bodleian and British Museum copies the first).

3. Wazirs of the Umayyades (در ذکر وزرای بنی امیّه), on fol. 12b.

4. Wazirs of the 'Abbâsides (در ذکر وزرای خلفای بنی عبّاس), on fol. 17a.

5. Wazirs of the Sâmânides (در ذکر وزرای آل سامان), on fol. 85b.

6. Wazirs of the Ghaznawides (در ذکر وزرای غزنویّان), on fol. 87b.

7. Wazirs of the Bûyides (در ذکر وزرای آل بویه), on fol. 115b.

8. Wazirs of the Saljûḳs (در ذکر وزرای آل سلجوق), on fol. 118a.

9. Wazirs of the Khwârizmshâhs (در ذکر وزرای سلاطین خوارزمشاهی), on fol. 146a.

10. Wazirs of Cinglzkhân and his descendants (در ذکر وزرای چنگیزخان واولاد واحفاد او), on fol. 148a.

11. Wazirs of the Muẓaffarides and Ghûrides (در ذکر وزرای آل مظفّر و ملوك غور), on fol. 159b.

12. Wazirs of Timûr and his successors (در ذکر وزرای حضرت صاحبقران امیر تیمور گورگان الخ), on fol. 162a.

Second maḳâlah (در ذکر آن دادبخش دردمندان ... خواجه قوام الملّه و الدنیا و الدین نظام الملك الخ), in four bâbs:

1. Nizâm-almulk's fine qualities and superiority over all other wazirs (در اخلاق و اطوار آنحضرت و ترجّح او بر وزرای عالم), on fol. 171a.

2. His life and actions before he became wazir (در حالات و کیفیّت مهمّات آن حضرت قبل از وزارت), on fol. 175a.

3. His actions as wazir (در حالات زمان وزارت), on fol. 176b.

This bâb breaks off on fol. 183a; the fourth (which was to contain an enumeration of the distinctions gained from the Sulṭân) is not found at all (comp. the Bodleian and British Museum copies, where the whole second maḳâlah comprises only 9–10 pages!). The author probably never finished his task.

Beginning: شرائف[1] ..... حضرت پادشاهی را در ایجاد کائنات بشریك و وزیر الخ.

No date.

No. 1569, ff. 183, ll. 15–16; Nasta'lîḳ, mixed with Shikasta; towards the end very badly and incorrectly written; much damaged throughout; size, 9⅝ in. by 6⅝ in.

Maâthir-alumarâ (مآثر الامرا).

The first edition of the great biographical dictionary of the famous Amîrs, Nawwâbs, and other noblemen who lived during the reign of the Timûrides in India, alphabetically arranged. The author of this work was Nawwâb Ṣamṣâm-aldaulah Shâhnawâzkhân Shahîd Khwâfî Aurangâbâdî, with his original name Mîr 'Abdalrazzâḳ (born A. H. 1111 = A. D. 1700, assassinated A. H. 1171 = A. D. 1758); the compiler of this first edition was Faḳîr Ghulâm 'Alî Ḥusainî Wâsiṭî Balgrâmî, with the takhalluṣ Âzâd, the author of the Khazâna-i-'âmirah and other famous tadhkiras, see below, Nos. 682–690; born A. H. 1116 (A. D. 1704), died A. H. 1200 (A. D. 1786); comp. Bodleian Cat., Nos. 166 and 167; Rieu i. p. 339 sq.; Elliot, History of India, viii. p. 187 sq.; W. Morley, pp. 101–105.

Contents:

The editor's preface, on fol. 1b, beginning: حمد شاهنشاهی که اورنگ نشینان سلطنت را رتبهٔ والای جهانبانی کرامت الخ.

The author's life, on fol. 2b.

The author's original preface, on fol. 9a, beginning: لحمد لله وسلام علی عباده الذین اصطفی امّا بعد عرض میدارد فقیر عبد الرزّاق الحسینی الخوافی الاورنگآبادی الخ.

The dictionary itself begins with Adhamkhân Kûka, on fol. 10b, and concludes with Yâḳûtkhân (in the Bodleian copy, Yûsufkhân) Ḥabashî. This copy, which is written in Ḥaidarâbâd, was commenced the 25th of Sha'bân, A. H. 1199 (A. D. 1785, July 3), and finished the 22nd of Dhû-alḳa'dah in the same year (A. D. 1785, September 27).

[1] According to the Bodleian and British Museum copies, the word which is erased here must be read تحمیدات.

No. 839, ff. 351, ll. 20–25; very irregularly written in Nasta'lîḳ and Shikasta; ff. 78–83 added on white paper; size, 15 in. by 8½ in.

623

Another copy of the same first edition.

This copy, which is dated the 10th of Sha'bân, A. H. 1203 (A. D. 1789, May 6), by Muḥammad Yûsuf of Aurangâbâd, contains:

A complete index of all the biographies found in this work, on fol. 1b.

The editor's preface, on fol. 5b, beginning as in the preceding copy.

The author's life, on fol. 6b.

The author's original preface, on fol. 14a, beginning as in the preceding copy.

Beginning of the dictionary, on fol. 15b.

Many English notes on the margin.

No. 2443, ff. 403, ll. 21; clear and distinct Nasta'lîḳ; size, 12 in. by 7½ in.

624

The same.

Another excellent but undated copy of the first edition of the Maâthir-alumarâ, styled here (by an inference drawn from the words: امّا بعد این کتابیست ممتاز و کارنامه in fol. 1b, l. 5) on the fly-leaf: Montauznamah, i. e. ممتازنامه.

Editor's preface, on fol. 1b.

Life of the author, on fol. 2b.

The author's original preface, on fol. 10a.

Beginning of the dictionary, on fol. 11a.

No. 2847, ff. 366, ll. 21; very clear and distinct Nasta'lîḳ; size, 12¾ in. by 8¼ in.

625

The same.

Complete index, on ff. 1–6.

Editor's preface, on fol. 7b.

Author's original preface, on fol. 20a.

Beginning of the dictionary, on fol. 22a.

No date.

No. 2910, ff. 672, ll. 15; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 11¾ in. by 7 in.

626

An addition to the same.

A shorter second or additional volume to the preceding work, serving as supplement to the first, and containing a large number of new biographies, arranged in alphabetical order like those in the first volume. It begins with Isma'îlbeg Dûldî and concludes with Yalankûshkhân Bahâdur. No preface or khâtimah. No date. Mr. Richard Johnson received it from Mîr Muḥammad Ḥusain in Ḥaidarâbâd, A. D. 1788.

No. 840, ff. 142, ll. 21; careless Nasta'lîḳ; written, as it seems, by the same copyist who transcribed No. 622; size, 15¾ in. by 8¼ in.

Maâthir-alumarâ (مآثر الامرا).

This curious MS. of a rather unattractive exterior (both on account of the uncouth hand and the many cancelled portions) is nevertheless of singular interest and importance, as it exhibits the brouillon or first sketch of the second revised and greatly enlarged edition of Ṣamṣâm-aldaulah's biographical dictionary, by the author's son, Mîr 'Abd-alḥayy (born A. H. 1142=A. D. 1729, 1730, died A. H. 1196=A. D. 1782), who commenced this edition, for which he used all the most famous historical and biographical works, A. H. 1182 (A. D. 1768, 1769), and completed it A. H. 1194 (A. D. 1780). Unfortunately there are seventy-two leaves missing between ff. 4 and 5.

Contents:

Preface of the second editor, 'Abd-alḥayy, on fol. 1b, beginning: ستایش بیکران و نیایش بی اندازه مالك الملکی را سزد که آثار الخ.

The date of completion, A. H. 1194, appears in the last line of this preface (ta'rîkh: زهی ادیب مصاحب مآثر الامرا).

The author's original preface, on fol. 3b (the first line, beginning الحمد لله و سلام علی عباده الخ, is crossed out).

The dictionary itself is subdivided into at least five parts, each of which is arranged in alphabetical order and preceded by a table of contents; the system of these subdivisions is not clear, since they all appear to be of mixed contents both as to chronology and to rank. The first part is missing; the second, on fol. 5a, contains twenty-two biographies, beginning with Amîn-aldaulah Amîn-aldînkhân, who died A. H. 1152 (A. D. 1739, 1740), and ending with Muḳarrabkhân, the son of Amînkhân, who died A. H. 1158 (A. D. 1745). In the text itself there were originally a larger number of biographies, but they have been crossed out (denoted by بطل) and not inserted in the table on fol. 5a.

The third part begins on fol. 35a and contains 126 biographies, four of which, although first inserted in the index, have afterwards been cancelled (denoted by بطل in the text, by a big م=محو in the table of contents). First biography: Ibrâhîmkhân Aurang, under Humâyûn, who died A. H. 975 (A. D. 1567, 1568). Last biography: Yûsufkhân of Kashmîr, who died A. H. 999 (A. D. 1590, 1591).

The fourth part begins on fol. 98a and contains eighty-five biographies, three of which are afterwards cancelled.

First biography: Ihtimâmkhân, who died A. H. 1056 (A. D. 1646).

Last biography: Ya'ḳûbkhân Badakhshî, who died A. H. 1037 (A. D. 1627, 1628).

The fifth part begins on fol. 132a and contains 138 biographies, four of which are afterwards cancelled.

First biography: Aḥsankhân Sulṭân Ḥasan, who died A. H. 1120 (A. D. 1708, 1709).

Last biography: Yalankûshkhân Bahâdur, who died A. H. 1076 (A. D. 1665, 1666).

The whole number of biographies therefore in this brouillon is 371, or deducting the eleven which afterwards have been crossed out, 360. In the first missing part there may have been eighty or ninety more, which would give a total of about 450 biographies, whereas the usual copies of this second edition contain 731.

A khâtimah, giving the editor's short account of his own life, is found on fol. 203b; see Rieu i. p. 340.

This MS. exhibits throughout erasures of certain lines in the text and corrections and annotations in the margin, all in the same handwriting. Usually a blank space is left between the single biographies for future additions. Ff. 96, 97, and 131 are entirely blank. Presented by Lieut.-Col. W. Kirkpatrick, 30th of May, 1804.

No. 2424, ff. 204, ll. 21–23; Shikasta; size, 12⅝ in. by 6¼ in.

Another copy of the same.

This copy of the second or revised and enlarged edition is the usual one, beginning on fol. 1b with the second editor's preface: ستایش بیکران و نیایش بی اندازه الخ, after which follow:

The preface of the first editor, Faḳîr Ghulâm 'Alî, on fol. 3b, beginning: حمد شاهنشاهی الخ.

The author's life, on fol. 4a, and a detailed index of the whole work, on ff. 9b–12b.

Beginning of the dictionary with Isma'îlbeg Dûldî (see No. 626), on fol. 12b.

The right order of ff. 206–221 is: 206, 208, 207, 209–212, 214, 213, 215–218, 220, 219, 221; of ff. 272–287: 272, 274, 273, 275–278, 280, 279, 281–284, 286, 285, 287; and of ff. 522–592: 522, 526, 525, 524, 523, 527–541, 543, 542, 544–547, 549, 548, 550–559, 561, 560, 562–565, 567, 566, 568–571, 573, 572, 574–589, 591, 590, 592.

Dated the 22nd of Shawwâl, A. H. 1221=A. D. 1807, January 2.

Nos. 837, 838, ff. 597, ll. 27; clear and distinct Nasta'lîḳ; size, 14½ in. by 8¼ in.

Tadhkirat-alumarâ (تذكرة الامرا).

The biographical dictionary of famous Amîrs and Khâns who served under the Moghul emperors of India, Akbar, Jahângîr, Shâhjahân, and 'Âlamgîr, compiled by Kiwal Râm, son of Raghunâth Dâs; comp. Bodleian Cat., No. 258; Rieu i. p. 339; A. Sprenger, MSS. of the late Sir H. Elliot, in Journal of the Royal Asiatic Society of Bengal, vol. xxiii. p. 239, No. 70; Elliot, History of India, viii. p. 192. The date of composition is here distinctly 1194 (A. D. 1780); see fol. 2b, l. 3. Other copies exhibit the dates 1184 and even (if it is not a mere mistake in writing) 1140 (as the Bodleian copy does, a date which after all would not be inconsistent with the chronology of the tadhkirah, as it does not mention any Amîrs beyond 'Âlamgîr's reign).

The work is divided into two bâbs, the first containing the Muḥammadan, the second the Hindû Amîrs, both in alphabetical order.

Each bâb is subdivided into two faṣls, viz.:

First bâb: فصل اوّل در ذكر اميرانى كه بخطاب خانى وغيره سرفراز شده اند, on fol. 2b; with an appendix, در ذكر وصل فصل اوّل, on fol. 197a.

فصل دوم در ذكر اميرانى كه خطاب نيافته اند, on fol. 204a.

Second bâb: فصل اوّل در ذكر آنهاى كه خطاب راجه و مهاراجه و رانا وراو و راى ووت (read وراوت) ورای رايان وغيره يافته اند, on fol. 231a.

فصل دوم در ذكر احوال راجپوتان وغيره كه خطاب راجگى وغيره نيافته اند, on fol. 263b.

Beginning: بعد حمد قادرى كه بيك امر كُن هزده هزار عالم را موجود فرمود و پس از نعت پيغمبرى الخ.

Copied from a MS. in the possession of Captain Roebuck, by Munshi Mirzâibeg. No date.

No. 2685, ff. 294, ll. 15–17; Shikasta; size, 10¾ in. by 7¾ in.

Manâḳib-al'ârifîn (مناقب العارفين).

Biographies and detailed traditions of the principal mystical Shaikhs of the seventh century of the Hijrah, that is, of Jalâl-aldîn Rûmî, his father, son, and descendants, as well as his friends and spiritual successors, composed by Maulânâ Shams-aldîn Aḥmad Aflâkî al'ârifî; comp. Rieu i. p. 344; G. Flügel ii. p. 371; W. Pertsch, Berlin Cat., p. 553; Hammer, in Wiener Jahrbücher, vol. 74, Anzeigeblatt, p. 5; Ḥ. Khalfa vi. p. 154, etc. Numerous portions of this work have been translated into English by J. W. Redhouse in the Introduction to his translation of 'The Mesnevi, Book the First,' Trübner's Oriental Series, London, 1881. The author commenced this work, according to his own statement, on fol. 2a, lin. penult., A. H. 710=A. D. 1310, 1311 (perhaps a clerical error for A. H. 718=A. D. 1318, 1319, the usual date given in the Vienna and British Museum copies), and did not complete it before A. H. 754 (A. D. 1353), as the last words of this copy unmistakably prove. They run here (with one important difference from the wording in other copies) thus: تاريخ تصنيف المصنّف افضل الفضلا مولانا شمس الدين احمد افلاكى العارفى رحمه الله سنهٔ اربع و خمسين و سبعمائه.

The work is divided into ten faṣls, the first nine of which contain, each, one biography of a great Shaikh, whilst the tenth gives a complete list of the descendants of Jalâl-aldîn Rûmî's father, of Jalâl-aldîn himself, and of his son, Sulṭân Walad.

Faṣl I: Bahâ-alḥaḳḳ wa-aldîn Walad Muḥammad bin al-Ḥusain bin Aḥmad alkhaṭîbî albalkhî, the father of Jalâl-aldîn Rûmî, who died A. H. 628 (A. D. 1231), on fol. 3a.

Faṣl II: Burhân-alḥaḳḳ wa-aldîn almuḥaḳḳiḳ wa almudaḳḳiḳ altirmidhî alḥusainî, the spiritual guide of Jalâl-aldîn Rûmî, on fol. 17b.

Faṣl III: Maulânâ Jalâl-aldîn Rûmî, the great mystic poet, born A. H. 604, the 6th of Rabî'-alawwal (A. D. 1207, September 30), in Balkh, died the 5th of Jumâdâ-alâkhar, A. H. 672 (A. D. 1273, December 17), in Kûniyah (Iconium), seems to begin on fol. 22b (no heading marked in the text).

Faṣl IV: Maulânâ Shams-alḥaḳḳ wa-aldîn Muḥammad bin 'Alî bin Malakdâd altabrizî, Jalâl-aldîn's friend and guide, on fol. 177a.

Faṣl V: Shaikh Ṣalâḥ-alḥaḳḳ wa-aldîn Faridûn, known as Zarkûb-i-Ḳûnawî (القونوى, more correctly Ḳûniyawî, القونيوى), the gold-beater of Iconium, friend and one of the spiritual successors of Jalâl-aldîn Rûmî, on fol. 200b.

Faṣl VI: Ḥusâm-alḥaḳḳ wa-aldîn Ḥasan bin Muḥammad bin al-Ḥasan Ibn Akhî Turk, also one of Jalâl-aldîn's spiritual successors and chief collaborator in the Mathnawî, on fol. 211a.

Faṣl VII: Bahâ-alḥaḳḳ wa-aldîn Sulṭân Walad, Jalâl-aldîn's son, died A. H. 712 (A. D. 1312), on fol. 225a.

Faṣl VIII: Jalâl-alḥaḳḳ wa-aldîn Faridûn, known as Calabî Amîr 'Ârif albalkhî, son of Sulṭân Walad, born the 8th of Dhû-alḳa'dah, A. H. 670 (A. D. 1272, June 6), died the 24th of Dhû-alḥijjah, A. H. 719 (A. D. 1320, February 5), on fol. 238a.

Faṣl IX: Calabî Shams-aldîn Amîr 'Âbid, brother of Amîr 'Ârif, died the 5th of Muḥarram, A. H. 739 (A. D. 1338, July 24). His brother and spiritual successor, Ḥusâm-almillah wa-aldîn Amîr Wâḥid, died the last of Sha'bân, A. H. 742 (A. D. 1342, February 7), and was succeeded by his younger son Calabî Amîr 'Âbid (according to Rieu, loc. cit.: 'Âlim), on fol. 283b.

Faṣl X: Full list of the descendants of the foregoing Shaikhs, on fol. 288b.

(a) Issue of Jalâl-aldîn Rûmî's father, Bahâ-aldîn (Faṣl I): 1. 'Alâ-aldîn Muḥammad; 2. Jalâl-aldîn Muḥammad (i. e. Jalâl-aldîn Rûmî); 3. Fâṭimah Khâtûn.

(b) Issue of Jalâl-aldîn Rûmî (Faṣl III): 1. Bahâ-aldîn Walad, i. e. Sulṭân Walad; 2. 'Alâ-aldîn Muḥammad, killed in the affray of Shams-aldîn Tabrîzî; 3. Muẓaffar-aldîn Amîr 'Âlim; 4. Malikah Khâtûn.

(c) Issue of Jalâl-aldîn's son, Sulṭân Walad (Faṣl VII): 1. Calabî Jalâl-aldîn Amîr 'Ârif; 2. Muṭahharah Khâtûn, with the epithet Ḥaḍrat Maulânâ 'Âbidah; 3. Sharaf Khâtûn, with the epithet 'Ârifah,—these three were by his wife Fâṭimah, daughter of Shaikh Ṣalâḥ-aldîn; 4. Calabî Shams-aldîn Amîr 'Âbid; 5. Calabî Ṣalâḥ-aldîn Amîr Zâhid (died in Sha'bân, A. H. 734=A. D. 1334, April); 6. Ḥusâm-aldîn Amîr Wâḥid,—these latter three were by two concubines, viz. Nuṣrat Khâtûn and Sunbulah Khâtûn.

(d) Issue of Calabî Jalâl-aldîn Amîr 'Ârif (Faṣl VIII and No. 1 in X, c): 1. Amîr 'Âlim; 2. Amîr 'Âdil; 3. Malikah Khâtûn,—all three by his wife Daulat Khâtûn, daughter of Amîr Ḳaiṣar Tabrîzî.

(e) Issue of Calabî Shams-aldîn 'Âbid (Faṣl IX and No. 4 in X, c): 1. Calabî Muḥammad; 2. Calabî Amîr 'Âlim; 3. Calabî Shâh Malik.

(f) Issue of Muṭahharah, Sulṭân Walad's daughter (Faṣl X, c, 2): Burhân-aldîn Amîr Shâh.

Beginning of the whole work: الحمد لله الذى نوّر قلوب اوليائه بانوار المعانى و البيان و اجرى من فيض فضله على لسان الانسان الخ.

Dated the beginning of Rabî'-alawwal, A.H. 1027 (A.D. 1618, end of February). Collated. A few pages a little injured. Ff. 288 and 289 are turned upside down, so that fol. 287b is immediately followed by fol. 289b. A Turkish translation of the Manâḳib-al'ârifîn, styled بهشت هشت or the eight paradises (containing only the first eight faṣls of the original), probably by Darwish Maḥmûd, who died A.H. 998 (A.D. 1590), is noticed by G. Flügel ii. p. 372, and Ḥ. Khalfa vi. p. 154, No. 13037.

No. 1670, ff. 291, ll. 23; Naskhî; illuminated frontispiece; size, 9¾ in. by 7¾ in.

Thawâḳib-almanâḳib-i-auliyâi-allâh (ثواقب المناقب اولياء الله).

A modern edition of Shaikh Aḥmad 'Ârifî Aflâkî's Manâḳib-al'ârifîn, by 'Abd-alwahhâb bin Jalâl-aldîn Muḥammad al-Hamadânî (see fol. 2b, l. 2), who revised and corrected the original work, curtailed it in some places by omitting superfluous stories and traditions, increased it in others by adding much needed explanations, and paid particular attention to dates, genealogy, etc. This edition, the title of which is a chronogram for A.H. 947=A.D. 1540,1541 (see fol. 234a, last two lines), is divided into a muḳaddimah, nine dhikrs or biographies, and a khâtimah. The nine dhikrs deal with the same mystic Shaikhs as the first nine faṣls of the original work, viz.:

1. Bahâ-alḥaḳḳ wa-alḥaḳîḳah wa-aldunyâ wa-aldîn Walad Balkhî, styled Sulṭân-al'ulamâ, the father of Jalâl-aldîn Rûmî, on fol. 5b, in six bâbs. His death is fixed here in A.H. 618 (clearly a mistake for A.H. 628), the 18th of Rabî'-alâkhar (see fol. 19b, ll. 8 and 9).

2. Sayyid Burhân-aldîn Muḥaḳḳiḳ, teacher of Jalâl-aldîn Rûmî and disciple of the preceding Shaikh (مربّى مولانا و مربّاى سلطان العلما), on fol. 20b.

3. Maulânâ Jalâl-aldîn albalkhî alrûmî, on fol. 24a, in ten bâbs, each subdivided into two faṣls.

4. Shaikh Shams-aldîn Tabrîzî, on fol. 169b, in eight bâbs. His death is fixed here in A.H. 643=A.D. 1245, 1246 (see fol. 185a, l. 4). The usual (and probably more correct) date is A.H. 645 (A.D. 1247, 1248).

5. Shaikh Ṣalâḥ-aldîn Farîdûn Ḳûnawî (قونوى, read قونيوى Ḳûniyawî), on fol. 186a. He died the 1st of Muḥarram, A.H. 657=A.D. 1258, December 29 (see fol. 190a, l. 3).

6. Ḥaḍrat Çalabî Ḥusâm-aldîn, on fol. 190a. He died the 22nd of Sha'bân, A.H. 683=A.D. 1284, November 3 (see fol. 194b, ll. 7 and 8).

7. Sulṭân Bahâ-aldîn Walad, Jalâl-aldîn Rûmî's son, on fol. 194b. He died the 10th of Rajab, A.H. 712=A.D. 1312, November 11 (see fol. 200a, ll. 13 and 14).

8. Jalâl-aldîn Farîdûn, known as Çalabî 'Ârif, son of the preceding Shaikh, in six faṣls, on fol. 200b. His death is fixed here on the 24th of Dhû-alḥijjah, A.H. 729, instead of 719, as in the original work (see fol. 232a, l. 3 ab infra).

9. Çalabî Shams-aldîn Amîr 'Âbid, brother of the preceding Shaikh, on fol. 232b.

Khâtimah, on fol. 233b, giving the ta'rîkh of the work and a munâjât.

The tenth bâb of the original work is altogether omitted in this revised edition.

Rauḍat-alsâlikîn (روضة السالكين).

Biographies of prominent Ṣûfic Shaikhs of the Naḳshbandî order, principally of the great Shaikh Maulânâ 'Alâ-aldîn alâbizhî (الآبزى, so distinctly on fol. 31b, last line, and fol. 170b, l. 5; in the immediately following first copy of the Rashaḥât, No. 705, the word is spelt, on fol. 152b, first line, alâblzî الآبيزى, with the distinct marginal gloss: آبيز بالف ممدوده و كسر باء موحّده و ياء تحتانيّه و حرف زاى; whereas in W. Pertsch, Berlin Cat., p. 563, it appears as آبسير Âbsir; in all the three different forms of spelling it is the name of a village in Ḳûhistân) alḳûhistânî, compiled by 'Alî bin Maḥmûd alabîwardî alkûrânî (الكورانى), and beginning:

آنجا كه كمال كبريای تو بود
عالم نم از بحر عطای تو بود
مارا چه حمد و ثنای تو بود
هم حمد و ثنای تو سزای تو بود

قال الفقير الى رحمة الله الغنى على بن محمود الخ.

The ten introductory biographies, which precede that of the principal hero of this—hitherto unknown—work (no further copies of which are mentioned anywhere), and which are merely copied from the Nafaḥât-aluns, are:

1. Khwâjah 'Abd-alkhâliḳ Ghujdawânî (غجدوانى), died A.H. 575 (A.D. 1179, 1180), on fol. 2a.

2. Khwâjah Muḥammad Bâbâ-i-Samâsî (سماسى), one of the spiritual successors of the preceding Shaikh, on fol. 4a.

3. Sayyid Amîr Kulâl, spiritual successor of the preceding Shaikh, died A.H. 772 (A.D. 1370), on fol. 5b.

4. Khwâjah Bahâ-aldîn Naḳshband, with his real name: Muḥammad bin Muḥammad albukhârî, died the third of Rabî'-alawwal, A.H. 791 (A.D. 1389, March 2), on fol. 6b.

5. Khwâjah 'Alâ-aldîn 'Aṭṭâr, friend and pupil of Bahâ-aldîn, died the 20th of Rajab, A.H. 802 (A.D. 1400, March 17), on fol. 10b.

6. Khwâjah Muḥammad Pârsâ, likewise friend and pupil of Bahâ-aldîn, died end of A.H. 822 (A.D. 1420, January), on fol. 13a.

7. Maulânâ Nizâm-aldîn Khâmûsh, friend and pupil of 'Alâ-aldîn (No. 5), on fol. 17a.

8. Khwâjah 'Abdallâh Imâmî Iṣfahânî, likewise a pupil of 'Alâ-aldîn, on fol. 19b.

9. Maulânâ Sa'd-aldîn alkâshgharî, friend and pupil of Niẓâm-aldîn (No. 7), died the 7th of Jumâdâ-alâkhar, A.H. 860 (A.D. 1456, May 13), on fol. 20a.

10. Khwâjah 'Ubaid-allâh, died A.H. 895 (A.D. 1490), on fol. 29b (see his full biography in the immediately following work, the Rashaḥât).

On fol. 31b, the detailed history of the life and wonderful deeds of the principal subject of this work follows, Maulânâ 'Alâ-aldîn alâbizhî alḳûhistânî, with his real name, Muḥammad bin Muḥammad bin Mu'min, who died A.H. 892, in the month Jumâdâ-alawwal (A.D. 1487, April–May); see fol. 170b. Ta'rîkh of his death: رفت پیر. He was the pupil of Sa'd-aldîn Kâshgharî (No. 9).

A concluding chapter on the pre-eminence of the Naḳshbandî order over the other Ṭarîḳas and Silsilas (در بیان فضیلت این سلسلهٔ شریفه بر سائر طرق وسلاسل) begins on fol. 170b, but is incomplete at the end. It breaks off on fol. 174b, so that both date of completion and date of transcription are missing. Many pages injured. Numerous marginal additions. Fol. 52 must be inserted between ff. 46 and 47.

No. 698, ff. 174, ll. 15; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 6¾ in. by 4¾ in.

Rashaḥât-i-'ain-alḥayât (رشحات عین الحیات).

Another, better known, collection of biographies of great Naḳshbandî Shaikhs, principally of Shaikh 'Ubaid-allâh Aḥrâr, the spiritual guide of the author of this work, by 'Alî bin al-Ḥusain al-Wâ'iẓ al-kâshifî, known as Ṣafî, who began to compile it A.H. 893 (A.D. 1488), and finished it after sixteen years' labour, A.H. 909 (A.D. 1503, 1504), see ff. 1b, last line; 2a, first line; 3a, ll. 6 and 7, and the last lines of the last page of this copy. The title رشحات forms a chronogram.

Other copies are noticed in Bodleian Cat., No. 360; Rieu i. p. 353; W. Pertsch, p. 121 (where the contents are fully described); W. Pertsch, Berlin Cat., p. 563; Cat. des MSS. et Xylogr. p. 299; Ḥ. Khalfa iii. p. 461, etc. A somewhat later date than 909, viz. A.H. 912 (A.D. 1506, 1507), appears on fol. 150a, l. 7, in the chronogram: یکشنبه پنجم رشعبان. The author died A.H. 939 (A.D. 1532, 1533). The Rashaḥât are divided into a maḳâlah (containing the biographies of the former great Naḳshbandî Shaikhs), three maḳṣads (giving an elaborate account of the ancestors, the life, sayings, deeds, and miracles of Shaikh 'Ubaid-allâh, born in Ramaḍân, A.H. 806=A.D. 1404, March, April, died the 29th of Rabî'-alawwal, A.H. 895, خمس وتسعین وثمانمائه, A.D. 1490, February 20, see fol. 307b, ll. 7 and 8), and a khâtimah (giving the story of the Shaikhs' death). The full headings of the various chapters are as follows:

مقالهٔ در ذکر طبقات خواجگان سلسلهٔ نقشبندیه قدّس الله تعالی ارواحهم العلیّه من اوّلها الی آخرها هم بوجه اجمال وهم بطریق تفصیل, on fol. 3b.

مقصد اوّل در ذکر آباء واجداد واقربای حضرت ایشان وتأریخ ولادت آن حضرت واحوال ایّام صبا وشمّهٔ از شمائل واخلاق واطوار حضرت ایشان وابتدای سفر و دیدن مشایخ زمان چه در ماوراء النهر و چه در خراسان, on fol. 180b.

مقصد دوم در ذکر بعضی از حقائق و معارف ودقائق ولطائف و حکایات و امثال که در خلال احوال از حضرت ایشان بی واسطه استماع افتاده, on fol. 209b.

مقصد سیوم در ذکر بعضی از تصرّفات و امور غریبه که بطریق خرق عادت از حضرت ایشان ظاهر شده است و نقل ثقات و عدول در آن بصحّت پیوسته, on fol. 242a.

خاتمه در ذکر تأریخ وفات حضرت ایشان و کیفیّت انتقال و ارتحال آنحضرت از دار دنیا بدار آخرت, on fol. 307b.

Beginning of the preface, on fol. 1b: الحمد لمن رشّ رشحات الحقائق والحکم علی قلوب العارفین بفیضه الاقدس والصلوة علی المظهر الاتمّ الخ.

This copy is dated the 17th of Dhû-alḥijjah, A.H. 984 (A.D. 1577, March 7), by Muḥammad Ḥusain bin Maulânâ Abû-alḳâsim of Harât. Collated throughout. A Turkish translation of the work by Muḥammad Ma'rûf bin Muḥammad Sharîf al-'Abbâsî, made A.H. 993 (A.D. 1585), is described in Rieu, Turkish Cat., p. 74, printed Constantinople A.H. 1236, and Bûlâḳ A.H. 1256. A small portion of another Turkish translation of the same, by 'Ârif Calabî, is noticed in W. Pertsch, Berlin Turkish Cat., p. 31.

No. 705, ff. 331, ll. 17; Nasta'lîḳ; illuminated frontispiece; size, 7¼ in. by 4¾ in.

Another excellent copy of the same.

Beginning as in the preceding copy. Maḳâlah, on fol. 3b; Maḳṣad I, on fol. 189b; II, on fol. 225b; III, on fol. 269a; Khâtimah, on fol. 342a. There is no date; but a note at the end of the book, in another handwriting, informs us that this copy was collated by the owner, Mîr Aḥmad bin Mîr 'Abd-alrazzâḳ, with the original in Rajab, A.H. 1041 (A.D. 1632, January–February). College of Fort William, 1809.

No. 2225, ff. 346, ll. 16; very distinct and correct Nasta'lîḳ; size, 11⅞ in. by 6¾ in.

635

The same.

Maḳâlah, on fol. 3b; Maḳṣad I, on fol. 177a; II, on fol. 210b; III, on fol. 259b; Khâtimah, on fol. 319b.

Ff. 321 and 322 are supplied by another hand, and the contents of the last original leaf (fol. 323) appear repeated on ff. 322a, last line–322b, last line.

No date.

No. 625, ff. 323, ll. 19; clear Nasta'lîḳ; size, 9⅝ in. by 5¼ in.

636

A very similar work on the Naḳshbandî order, compiled A.H. 947=A.D. 1540, 1541 (see fol. 1b, last line), by Abû al-muḥsin Muḥammad Bâḳir bin Muḥammad 'Alî, without any special title (on fol. 1a it is styled تأریخ غریبه), in a muḳaddimah, four maḳṣads, and a khâ-timah. It differs from the Rashaḥât only in so far, as the biography of the founder of the order, Bahâ-aldîn Muḥammad bin Muḥammad Naḳshband, occupies here the same space as that of 'Ubaid-allâh Aḥrâr, whose life is the principal theme of the Rashaḥât.

Beginning: الحمد لله ربّ العالمين الذى رفع اعلام الشريعة بمياسن الخ.

Muḳaddimah. Introduction to the history of the Naḳshbandî order, on fol. 2b.

Maḳṣad I. Shaikhs prior to Bahâ-aldîn, from the prophet and 'Alî to Naḳshband himself, on fol. 9a.

Maḳṣad II, in three ḳisms. Life, deeds, sayings, and miracles of Bahâ-aldîn Naḳshband (A. H. 718–791 = A. D. 1318–1389), on fol. 35a.

Maḳṣad III. Shaikhs who lived from Bahâ-aldîn's time to that of 'Ubaid-allâh Aḥrâr, on fol. 119b.

Maḳṣad IV. Life, deeds, sayings, and miracles of Khwâjah 'Ubaid-allâh (A. H. 806–895 = A. D. 1404–1490), on fol. 196a, in three maṣads and a khâtimah, the subdivisions quite identical with that in the Rashaḥât.

No date. Tenth century.

No. 1426, ff. 277, ll. 19; good Nasta'lîḳ; size, 10¾ in. by 6¼ in.

Siyar-al'ârifîn (سير العارفين).

Biographies of fourteen renowned Shaikhs and holy men of India, all belonging to the Ċishtî order, compiled by Ḥâmid bin Faḍl-allâh, known as Darwîsh (or Mullâ) Jamâlî, see fol. 2b, ll. 2 and 3. Other copies of the work are described in Rieu i. p. 354, and W. Pertsch, Berlin Cat., p. 556. According to A. Sprenger's Cat. Oudh, p. 446, the poet Jamâlî of Dihlî died A. H. 922 or 925, the author of the Safînah also fixes his death in 925 (A. D. 1519), and refutes the statement of the author of the Ṭabaḳât-i-Shâhjahânî, that he had lived until A. H. 942 (comp. Bodleian Cat., No. 376, 43). According to the same Safînah, Jamâlî was born near Dihlî, went to Khurâsân under Sulṭân Ḥusain Mirzâ, made the acquaintance of the poet Jâmî, undertook extensive journeys, returned afterwards to India and was in high favour with Sulṭân Sikandar Lûdî and also with the emperor Bâbar. This book is dedicated on fol. 4b, last line, to Humâyûn, and since the epithets given to his name seem to imply that he was sovereign ruler already at that time, the book must have been finished after A. H. 937 = A. D. 1530 (the date of Humâyûn's accession to the throne), and the poet cannot have died already, A. H. 925. A. H. 942 (A. D. 1535, 1536) seems therefore, after all, the more correct date of Jamâlî's death; comp. also Bodleian Cat., No. 1274. In the preface the author gives us a short statement about his pilgrimage to Makkah, and his travels in Maghrib, Yaman, Palestine, Rûm, Syria, the two 'Irâḳs, Adharbaijân, Gîlân, Mâzandarân, and Khurâsân, and tells us, that after his return to Dihlî his friends requested him to write a book on the learned Shaikhs of all the countries which he had visited. But he found that too great a task, and resolved, therefore, to write a work exclusively on Indian Saints.

The fourteen biographies deal with the following Shaikhs:

1. Sulṭân-almashâyikh Mu'în-aldîn Ḥasan bin Ghiyâth-aldîn alḥusainî alḥasanî Sijzî (سجزى, as explained in a marginal gloss: بكسر سين مهمله و سكون جيم و كسر زاى معجمه), on fol. 5a. He died, A. H. 633 (A. D. 1236), in Ajmîr, see further down in the Safînat-alauliyâ, No. 110.

2. Ḥadrat Shaikh-almashâyikh Badr-almillat wa-aldîn Maḥmûd Mû'înadûz (the furrier) Khujandî, on fol. 18b.

3. Ḥadrat Shaikh-alislâm Bahâ-almillat wa-aldîn Zakariyyâ, on fol. 20b (see the Safînat-alauliyâ, No. 152).

4. Ḥadrat Sulṭân-al'âshiḳîn Burhân-alwâḥidîn Ḳuṭb-aldîn Bakhtiyâr Ûshî, on fol. 54b (see the Safînat-alauliyâ, No. 112).

5. Ḥadrat Shaikh-almashâyikh wa-alauliyâ Farîd-almillah wa-aldîn Mas'ûd (i. e. the well-known Ganj-i-Shakar, see the Safînat-alauliyâ, No. 113), on fol. 74a.

6. Ḥadrat Sulṭân-almashâyikh Ṣadr-aldîn 'Ârif, on fol. 111b (see the Safînat-alauliyâ, No. 155).

7. Ḥadrat Sulṭân-almashâyikh Niżâm-aldîn Muḥammad Badâ'ûnî (i. e. Shaikh Auliyâ, see the Safînat-alauliyâ, No. 114), on fol. 128b. He died A. H. 725 (A. D. 1325).

8. Ḥadrat Malik-almashâyikh wa-alauliyâ Rukn-aldîn Abû-alḳâsim Abû-alfatḥ, on fol. 168b. He was the son of Ṣadr-aldîn 'Ârif (see the Safînat-alauliyâ, No. 156).

9. Ḥadrat Malik-almashâyikh Shaikh Ḥamîd-aldîn Nâgûrî, on fol. 178b (see the Safînat-alauliyâ, No. 111).

10. Ḥadrat Malik-almashâyikh Shaikh Najîb Mutawakkil, on fol. 189b.

11. Ḥadrat Sulṭân-almashâyikh Shaikh Jalâl-aldîn Abû-alḳâsim Tabrîzî, on fol. 197a.

12. Ḥadrat Shaikh-almashâyikh Naṣîr-almillah wa-aldîn Maḥmûd Audhî (i. e. Ċirâgh of Dihlî, see the Safînat-alauliyâ, No. 116), on fol. 207b.

13. Ḥadrat Malik-almashâyikh Ma'rifat-shi'âr Siyâdat-dithâri Sayyid Jalâl-almillah wa-aldîn Makhdûm-i-Jahâniyân Bukhârî, on fol. 214a (see the Safînat-alauliyâ, No. 157). He died A. H. 785 (A. D. 1384).

14. Ḥadrat Samâ almillah wa-aldîn Sulṭân-almuḥaḳḳiḳîn u Burhân-al'ârifîn Sulṭân-almashâyikh Samâ-almillat wa-aldîn, the author's spiritual guide, on fol. 226b. He received the investiture from Shaikh Kabîr-aldîn Isma'îl, and died A. H. 901, the 17th of Jumâdâ-alawwal = A. D. 1496, February 2 (see fol. 243a, ll. 6–10, where the following ta'rikh is given by Jamâlî: هشت خلد آمد بنام او اگر پرسد كسى ـ سال تاريخش بگو هشت آمده بر نام او, i. e. هشت = 705, came upon (was added) to his name, viz. سماء الدين = 196, total 901).

Of these fourteen Shaikhs, No. 2 is wanting in Rieu's copy and No. 14 in Pertsch's, so that the present copy is the fullest as yet met with.

Beginning of the preface, on fol. 1b: حمدى كه ابواب سعادت بر ارباب عبادت مفتوح گردانيد و سپاسى الخ.

An index on the fly-leaf. Copied in Shawwâl, A. H. 1043 (A. D. 1634, April), at Lâhûr; this copy belonged formerly to Mr. Richard Johnson.

No. 1313, ff. 244, ll. 13; inelegant Nasta'lîḳ; illuminated frontispiece; size, 9¾ in. by 5¾ in.

638

Another copy of the same.

This copy contains only thirteen biographies, which completely agree with those in Rieu's copy, viz. 1. on fol. 3b; 2. wanting; 3. on fol. 13a; 4. on fol. 33b; 5. on fol. 43b; 6. on fol. 65a; 7. on fol. 74b; 8. on fol. 98b; 9. on fol. 104a; 10. on fol. 110b; 11. on fol. 115a; 12. on fol. 121b; 13. on fol. 125b; 14. on fol. 132b.

The work ends on fol. 142b; the remaining pages (ff. 142b–164a) are filled with various traditions and tales of Khalifs, saints, etc., in the same handwriting.

No date.

No. 1751, ff. 164, ll. 19; Nasta'lîḳ; waterspots; size, 8¼ in. by 5¼ in.

639

A shorter redaction of the same.

This copy contains apparently the same thirteen biographies as the preceding one, but is much shorter in extent. It is dated the 7th of Shawwâl, A.H. 1123 (fifth year of Bahâdurshâh's reign=A.D. 1711, Nov. 18), by Muḥammad Murâd Sulṭân Shâhî Ḳâdirî.

No. 939, ff. 88, ll. 17; Shikasta, some pages supplied by another hand in careless Nasta'lîḳ; worm-eaten and slightly damaged throughout; size, 8¼ in. by 5 in.

Akhbâr-alakhyâr (اخبار الاخيار).

Biographies of the most renowned Shaikhs and holy men of India, from the Muḥammadan conquest to the end of the tenth century of the Hijrah, compiled by 'Abd-alḥaḳḳ bin Saif-aldîn alturk aldihlawî albukhârî (see fol. 5b, ll. 10 and 11), the well-known author of the تأريخ حقّى (see Bodleian Cat., Nos. 195–198; Rieu i. p. 223, and No. 290 in this Cat.), the جذب القلوب الى دار المحبوب, a history of Madînah (see further below in the next chapter 'Geography, etc.'), and many other biographical and mystical works. He was not able to finish the original sketch of this work, made many years before, until after his return from Ḥijâz, whither he had gone, A.H. 996 (A.D. 1588), see fol. 269a, in A.H. 999 (A.D. 1591), according to the chronogram on fol. 268b:

نام و تأريخ اين كتاب عزيز — گر كنى ذكر الاوليا احسن which gives us at the same time ذكر الاوليا as an additional title of this work, other copies of which are described in Bodleian Cat., No. 363, and Rieu i. p. 355, where as final date of completion, A.H. 1028 (A.D. 1619) is given, in consequence of an incidental remark in Jahângîr's autobiographical memoirs. The above chronogram, which seems to fix definitely the completion of the work, has not been noticed in any previous copy. The work begins with the biography of the great Ṣûfic Shaikh 'Abd-alḳâdir aljîlânî, on fol. 9b, after which follows immediately that of Khwâjah Mu'în-alḥaḳḳ wa-aldîn Sijzî, the founder of the Ch'ishtî order (who died A.H. 633=A.D. 1236, see No. 637, 1), his contemporaries and disciples, on fol. 22b (طبقهٔ اوّل); it goes then over to Shaikh Farîd-alḥaḳḳ wa-aldîn Ganj-i-Shakar (who died A.H. 664=A.D. 1265), his followers and pupils, on fol. 49a (طبقهٔ دوم); enumerates all the Shaikhs from the time of Naṣîr-aldîn Maḥmûd Ch'irâgh of Dihlî (died A.H. 757=A.D. 1356) down to the author's own epoch, on fol. 73b; and deals towards the end in special chapters with a number of ecstatic Shaikhs (ذكر بعضى مجاذب), on fol. 240a; with female saints (ذكر بعضى از نساء صالحات), on fol. 245a; and the author's ancestors, family, and own life (here styled تكملهٔ, in the index on fol. 9a خاتمهٔ), on fol. 248a.

Beginning: شكر مر حضرت واهب العطيّات را كه عطاى اورا پايان نيست الخ.

The margin of ff. 2–87 is covered with fragments of theological and cosmographical treatises, without any title.

No date.

No. 1450, ff. 270, ll. 17; unequal Nasta'lîḳ; the first page supplied later; size, 10 in. by 5¼ in.

Akhbâr-alaṣfiyâ (اخبار الاصفيا).

A much smaller and less known work, of very similar contents, giving likewise biographies of all the famous Saints and Shaikhs who have lived or stayed in India, compiled by 'Abd-alṣamad bin Afḍal Muḥammad bin Yûsuf Anṣârî, a nephew of the famous Abû-alfaḍl and editor of his official letters, the مكاتبات علّامى, see above, Nos. 271–286 in this Cat., compare also Rieu iii. p. 1087a, where as title of the present work is given: اخبارات الاصفيا. It was completed A.H. 1014 (A.D. 1605, 1606) and dedicated to the emperor Jahângîr, see fol. 1b, fol. 6b, last line, fol. 7a, ll. 15 and 16, and fol. 7b, ll. 14 and 15. It contains short biographical accounts of 245 male and 4 female persons, beginning, like the preceding work, with Ghauth alṣamadânî Ḳuṭb-i-rabbânî Shaikh Muḥyî-aldîn Abû Muḥammad 'Abd-alḳâdir alḥasanî alḥusainî aljîlânî (born A.H. 471=A.D. 1079, died A.H. 561=A.D. 1166), see fol. 8b, and ends with Fâṭimah Sâlimah, on fol. 70a. A complete index on ff. 1b–5a; the work itself begins thus, on fol. 6b: جهان جهان آفرين مر جان و جهان آفرين را كه جهان دانش و جان سخن بصاحب فطرتان الخ, and concludes on fol. 70b. Ff. 71b–74b are filled by another hand with a story of Shaikh Sharaf-aldîn Abû 'Alî Ḳalandar of Pânîpat (who died A.H. 724=A.D. 1324, see Rieu ii. p. 668, and iii. p. 1090b sq.). Copied by Bâḳir Sâmânî, in the thirty-first year of 'Âlamgîr's reign (A.H. 1098, 1099=A.D. 1687, 1688).

No. 868, ff. 74, ll. 19–28; very irregularly and unequally written in Shikasta; size, 10¼ in. by 6¼ in.

Tarjuma-i-Raudat-alriyâḥîn (ترجمهٔ روضة الرياحين).

Biography of Saints and great Shaikhs, translated from the Arabic work (or more correctly روضة الرياحين فى حكايات الصالحين, by 'Abdallâh bin As'ad alyâfi'î alyamanî, or with his fuller name: Abû-alsa'âdat or alsa'âdât (in the Cat. Codd. Or. Lugd. Bat. once: Abû-alsiyâdat) 'Afîf-aldîn Abû Muḥammad 'Abdallâh bin As'ad bin 'Alî alyâfi'î alyamanî, who died A. H. 768, the 20th or 21st of Jumâdâ-alâkhar (A. D. 1367, February 21); compare O. Loth, Arabic MSS. of the India Office Library, p. 202; Cat. Codd. Or. Lugd. Bat. ii. p. 299; Ḥ. Khalfa iii. p. 488; the Safînat-alauliyâ, No. 62, etc. He was the author of many other similar works, all dealing more or less with the great Shaikh 'Abd-alḳâdir Jîlânî and the Ḳâdirî Saints, viz. ارشاد و التطريز (Ḥ. Kh. i. p. 254); اسنى المفاخر, in praise of the Shaikh 'Abd-alḳâdir (Ḥ. Kh. i. p. 293); اطراف التواريخ (ib. i. p. 344); خلاصة المفاخر, also a history of that Shaikh (ib. iii. p. 167; comp. Bodleian Cat., No. 332); درر فى مدح سيّد البشر, a poem (ib. iii. p. 221); كفاية المعتقد (ib. v. p. 226); مرآة الجنان و عبرة اليقظان, a history from the Hijrah down to A. H. 750 (ib. v. p. 481; comp. O. Loth, Arabic MSS., p. 201, and G. Flügel ii. p. 43); مرهم العلل المعطّلة (ib. v. p. 501); مناقب الامام مايه, in praise of Imâm Mâyah of the Ash'ariyyah sect (ib. vi. p. 151); منهل المفهوم (ib. vi. p. 225); نشر الريحان (ib. vi. p. 342); نشر المحاسن العاليّة (ib. vi. p. 344); نفحات الازهار (ib. vi. p. 366); نوادر المعانى (ib. vi. p. 387); نهاية المحيا, a poem with commentary in praise of famous Shaikhs (ib. vi. p. 404); المرهم فى الاصول الدينيّة and the epitome of the same, styled الشامل المعلّم شاووش كتاب المرهم الخ (Cat. Codd. Or. Lugd. Bat. ii. p. 315); فوائد جليلة عظيمة النفع جدًّا مجموعة من مواضع متفرّقة من كتاب الدرّ النظيم (ib. iv. p. 341; comp. Ḥ. Khalfa iii. p. 197), etc. etc. The present work is also styled: نزهة العيون النواظر و تحفة القلوب للخواطر فى حكايات الصالحين و الاولياء الاكابر.

This prose-translation in Persian, which is contained in our copy, is not mentioned anywhere. It was made by Faḍl-Allâh bin Asad-allâh alḥusainî ala'râbî alsimnânî, with the takhallus Jahânî (see fol. 3b, last line but two), under Sulṭân Muḥammad Ḳuṭbshâh (who reigned A. H. 1020–1035=A. D. 1612–1626); see fol. 5b, l. 1. It contains 500 ḥikâyât in two faṣls: 1. در شمّة از فضائل اولياء سالكين و فقراى صالحين, on fol. 8a; 2. در اثبات كرامات اولياى عظام و اصفياى كرام و ظهور كرامات, on fol. 24a. The first story begins on fol. 31a with a legend of Abû-alfaiḍ Dhû-alnûn Miṣrî (who died in Sha'bân, A. H. 240=A. D. 855, January). The Persian translator has added to the original work a long appendix of his own, or khâtimah, treating especially of the life and miracles of the great Shaikh 'Abd-alḳâdir Jîlânî, in three faṣls, viz.:

1. در شرح احوال بعضى مشايخ, on fol. 371a; 2. در جواب شبهاتى كه بعضى از فقها مثل ابن جوزى و غيره در حكايات اين طائفهٔ عليّه آورده اند, on fol. 404a; 3. در بيان برخى از عقائد مشايخ و علماى ربّانيين بطريق اختصار, on fol. 410b.

Beginning of the preface: حمد و ثنا مبدعى را كه از بدايت صباح وجود تا نهايت رواح عدم هرچه هست در حدّ پادشاهى اوست الخ.

A lacuna after fol. 7. Fol. 200 and several of the last leaves injured. The title جامع الحكايات, given to this book on fol. 1a, is a mistake, probably caused by the initial words, which are identical with those of Muḥammad 'Aufî's well-known work of the same title; see Nos. 600–604 in this Catalogue.

Dated the 10th of Jumâdâ-alawwal, A. H. 1026 (A. D. 1617, May 16), which cannot be much later than the completion of the work itself.

No. 1523, ff. 412, ll. 19; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 12 in. by 7¼ in.

Tarjuma-i-Khulâṣat-almafâkhir (ترجمهٔ خلاصة المفاخر).

A Persian translation of the supplement to the preceding work, usually denoted by the simple name of تكملة; see fol. 2a, l. 4, and fol. 228b, last line; the author of the Arabic original is the same 'Abdallâh bin As'ad alyâfi'î alyamanî; comp. O. Loth, loc. cit., and W. Pertsch, Berlin Cat., p. 66. It adds 200 stories to those in the روض الرياحين, most of which refer to the great Shaikh 'Abd-alḳâdir (see above). The name of the Persian translator is not mentioned, but as the first of two other copies of the same work in the Bodleian Library (Bodleian Cat., Nos. 332 and 333) was made before A. H. 910 (A. D. 1504), and as moreover the anonymous author mentions as his spiritual guide the great Shaikh Sayyid Jalâl-aldîn Makhdûm-i-Jahâniyân, who died A. H. 785 (A. D. 1384), the translation of this تكملة must have been made at least 200 years before that of the روض الرياحين. The Persian poet 'Abdî made a poetical version of the same تكملة in A. H. 1051 (A. D. 1641, 1642), entitled ترجمهٔ تكملة; see A. Sprenger, Catal., p. 307.

Beginning: الحمد لله ربّ العالمين . . . . . ميگويد اضعف العباد اصلح الله شانه كه چون كتاب خلاصة المفاخر فى مناقب غوث الملكوت قطب الصمد الخ.

Dated the 14th of Ṣafar, A. H. 1089 (A. D. 1678, April 7). College of Fort William, 1825.

No. 2271, ff. 228, written in different styles of Naskhî, mixed with Shikasta, by various hands, the oldest part, ll. 15, the more modern ones, ll. 17; very much damaged, but carefully mended; size, 8¾ in. by 5½ in.

Maḳâmât-i-Sayyid Atâ'î (مقامات سيّد اتائى).

The life, miracles, and spiritual teachings of the great Saint of the Yasawî order, Jamâl-aldîn Khwâjah Dîwâna Sayyid Atâ'î of Khwârizm and Khaiwaḳ, who was born in the reign of Shâh Ismaʻîl Ṣafawî (the exact date is given on fol. 14b, last line, and fol. 15a, first line: چون حضرت ایشان چهار ماید شدند فتنهٔ شاه اسمعیل واقع گردید, and likewise on fol. 31a, l. 1 sq.: حضرت ایشان در هنگام شیر خوارگی بودند که فترات غریبه نمود و بسبب هجوم قزلباش و فتنهٔ شاه اسمعیل کار اکثر آنحدود بقتل انجامید الخ), and died A.H. 1016=A.D. 1607, 1608 (see fol. 118a, ll. 1 and 2, and fol. 123a, first line; chronogram: تاج سر اولیا شد, on fol. 122a, last line), 100 or even 103 years old (see fol. 122b, l. 9: زهی خواجهٔ خواجگان خواجهٔ ما ـ ; and fol. 122b, l. 9 sq.: که صد سال هادیٔ راه هُدا شد خواجهٔ خواجگان جمال الدین آن نمایندهٔ طریق هدا مرشد سالکان خفیه و چهر هادیٔ طالبان راه خدا صد و سی (read سه) سال در جهان میزد الخ), which would fix his birth either in A.H. 916 (A.D. 1510, 1511) or in A.H. 913 (A.D. 1507, 1508). His father was Sayyid Pâdishâh Khwâjah Pardapûsh (پردهپوش), of the Yasawî order, and he traces his descent to Sulṭân Khwâjah Aḥmad Yasawî, called Atâ (father), the founder of the Yasawî order and third Khalîfah of Abû Yaʻḳûb Yûsuf bin Ayyûb of Hamadân (see the Safînat-alauliyâ, Nos. 73 and 75). This work was compiled by the Saint's younger son, Muḥammad Ḳâsim bin Khwâjah Diwâna Sayyid Atâʼî, with the takhalluṣ Riḍwân (see fol. 2b, ll. 8 and 9, and fol. 123a, l. 10), on the basis of some previous works on the same subject, one by Âkhund Maulânâ Darwîsh Tâshkandî, the other by Ḳâḍî Jân Muḥammad bin Ḳaḍî Khân Bukhârî (بجاری, probably a mistake for بخاری), styled مقامات العارفین (see ff. 4a, ll. 7 and 12–13, and 4b, l. 3 sq.), at the suggestion of his brother Khwâjah Abû-alḥasan (see fol. 4b, last line sq.), and completed the first of Muḥarram, A.H. 1036=A.D. 1626, September 22 (see fol. 124b, ll. 8 and 9). It is divided into a muḳaddimah, four maḳâms, and a khâtimah.

Muḳaddimah, on fol. 6b: Explanation of the Ṣûfic terms ولی, ولایت, کرامت, خوارق عادات, etc. (در تحقیق معنیٔ ولایت و ولی و طبقات اولیاء الله و اثبات کرامات و اقسام خوارق عادات الخ).

Maḳâm I, on fol. 14b: Genealogy and pedigree of the great Saint Jamâl-aldîn Diwâna and the ramification of his family with the Yasawî, Kubrawî, and Naḳshbandî orders (در ذکر شجرهٔ نسبی و سلسلهٔ حسبیٔ حضرت ایشان).

Maḳâm II: Life and travels of the Saint, on fol. 30b (در ذکر مبادیٔ احوال و سیاحات حضرت ایشان).

Maḳâm III: Miracles of the Saint, on fol. 47a (در ذکر بعضی از خوارق عادات و برخی از کرامات حضرت ایشان).

Maḳâm IV: Spiritual sayings of the Saint, on fol. 102a (در ذکر بعضی از کلمات قدسیهٔ حضرت ایشان).

Khâtimah: Last illness and death of the Saint, on fol. 116a (در مرض موت حضرت ایشان و کیفیّت انتقال آنحضرت الخ).

Beginning: سر نامهٔ مقامات اولیاء هستی سپاس تدبری سزد که بقدرت کامله لوای رفعت آدمی بر کافهٔ مخلوقات افراخته الخ.

The copy is incomplete at the end; one or two leaves of the epilogue are missing. There seems to be also a small lacuna after fol. 11. Worm-eaten throughout.

No. 3100, ff. 126, ll. 15; Nastaʻlîḳ; size, 7½ in. by 4¾ in.

Majmaʻ-alauliyâ (مجمع الاولیا).

An almost complete copy of a hitherto unknown, extremely large and interesting biographical work, containing the lives of all the most renowned Saints, religious heroes, and great mystic Shaikhs, with its full title: محفل الاصفیا و مجمع الاولیا, usually styled مجمع الاولیا or even مجمع فیض, the latter title being a chronogram, fixing the date of the composition of this work in A.H. 1043 (A.D. 1633, 1634); see fol. 3b, l. 3 sq. Only one leaf is missing in the beginning, the initial words لمعه ایست از لمعات حقیقت . . . . corresponding to fol. 2a, l. 3 in the following copy, and the last few leaves are greatly injured and partly torn away. The work was compiled by ʻAlî Akbar Ḥusainî Ardastânî, see fol. 1a, l. 7 sq., and dedicated to the emperor Shâh-jahân; see fol. 2b, first line sq. It is divided into a muḳaddimah, twelve bâbs (each preceded by a complete index), and a khâtimah, viz.:

مقدّمه محتوی بر بیان اصطلاحات صوفیّه و مقامات عشره و بیان طوائف اقطاب و اوتاد و ابدال و ما یناسب ذلك (On Ṣûfic terminology, the ten maḳâmât or stations, and the classes of Aḳṭâb or 'poles,' of Autâd or 'props,' of Abdâl or 'lieutenants,' etc.), on fol. 3b.

باب اوّل در ذکر خلفاء راشدین و ائمّهٔ اثنا عشر و صحابهٔ مهاجر وانصار و تابعین و تبع تابعین و برخی از اولاد حضرت سیّد کائنات (The first four Khalîfs, the Imâms, the companions of the Prophet, the Tâbiʻîn or successors of the companions, the Tubbaʻ Tâbiʻîn or successors of the Tâbiʻîn, etc., beginning with Abûbakr and ending with Abû Ṭâhir Muḥammad bin Yaḥyâ bin Ẓafar, who was born A.H. 466=A.D. 1073, 1074, altogether 304 biographies), on fol. 18a.

باب دوم در ذکر خواجه حسن بصری و من ینتسب الیه من المشایخ (Khwâjah Ḥasan Baṣrî, whose death is fixed here in A.H. 120, or according to others in A.H. 106 (A.D. 738 or 724), and the leading Saints of his order, ending with Muḥammad bin Fâḍhah, altogether 143 biographies, of which three, however, are cancelled in the text), on fol. 146b.

باب سیوم در ذکر سلطان ابراهیم ادهم و من ینتسب الیه من المشایخ (Sulṭân Ibrâhîm Adham, whose death is fixed here in A. H. 166 or 162=A. D. 782, 783, or 778, 779, and the leading Saints of his order, ending with Abûbakr Yazdâniyâr Urmawî, the originally last Shaikh Abû Isḥâḳ Shâmî having been cancelled, altogether sixty-three biographies), on fol. 240a.

باب چهارم در ذكر شيخ معروف كرخى ومن ينتسب اليه من المشايخ (Shaikh Ma'rûf Karkhî, whose death is fixed here in A. H. 261=A. D. 875, and the leading Saints of his order, ending with Sayyid Ibrâhîm Khûzistânî, altogether seventy-four biographies), on fol. 273b.

باب پنجم در ذكر سلطان بايزيد بسطامى ومن ينتسب اليه من المشايخ (Sulṭân Bâyazîd Bisṭâmî, who died A. H. 261=A. D. 875, according to a less trustworthy source already A. H. 234, and the leading Saints of his order, ending with Sayyid Ḥaidar bin 'Alî Âmulî, altogether fifty-four biographies), on fol. 305a.

باب ششم در ذكر سيّد الطائفه شيخ جنيد بغدادى ومن ينتسب اليه من المشايخ (Shaikh Junaid Baghdâdî, who died A. H. 297=A. D. 909, 910, and the leading Saints of his order, ending with Shaikh Abû 'Abdallâh Ṭâḳî, altogether ninety biographies), on fol. 335a.

باب هفتم در ذكر سلسلهٔ حضرات خواجها و مشايخ تركى (Shaikhs of the Naḳshbandî order and Turkish Shaikhs, from Khwâjah Yûsuf Hamadânî, whose death is fixed here in A. H. 555=A. D. 1160, to Shaikh Muḥammad Ma'ṣûm, who was born A. H. 1007=A. D. 1598, 1599, and thirty-five years old at the time when the author wrote this part of his work, altogether 162 biographies), on fol. 374b.

باب هشتم در ذكر مشايخ عصر غوث اعظم شاه محيى الدين شيخ عبد القادر جيلانى (Shaikh Ghauth-i-a'ẓam Muḥyî-aldîn 'Abd-alḳâdir Jîlânî, died A. H. 561=A. D. 1166, his contemporaries and followers down to Shaikh Mûsâ bin Mâhin, altogether sixty-five biographies), on fol. 453b.

باب نهم در ذكر مشايخ سهروردية و كبروية و چشتية (Shaikhs of the Suhrawardî, Kubrawî, and Chishtî orders, from Shaikh Shihâb-aldîn Suhrawardî, who died A. H. 632=A. D. 1234, 1235, to Khwâjah Muḥammad bin Aḥmad bin Muḥammad bin Yûsuf Chishtî, whose birth is fixed here in A. H. 507, and his death in A. H. 597=A. D. 1113–1201, altogether sixty-four biographies), on fol. 508b.

باب دهم در ذكر مشايخ دهلى و گجرات و غير آن از ممالك هندوستان (Shaikhs of Dihlî, Gujarât, and other parts of India, from Khwâjah Mu'în-aldîn Ḥasan Sijzî, who died A. H. 633, 6th of Rajab or, less correctly, Dhû-alḥijjah, A. D. 1236, March 16 or August 11, to Shaikh Jauhar Sirhindî, who died A. H. 1027=A. D. 1618, altogether 277 biographies), on fol. 592a.

باب يازدهم در ذكر شعرا (Poets, beginning with Amîr Ḳâsim-i-Anwâr, who died A. H. 837=A. D. 1433, 1434, and ending with Bâbâ Kamâl Khujandî; the last date is A. H. 835=A. D. 1431, 1432, that of the death of Shaikh Abû-alwafâ, one of Khujandî's pupils, altogether thirty-six biographies, being a selection only of such as were great mystic Shaikhs at the same time), on fol. 756b.

باب دوازدهم در ذكر نساء عارفات (Female Saints, from Râbi'ah 'adawiyyah of Baṣrah to Bibî Anliyâ, a contemporary of Sulṭân Muḥammad Tughluḳ, buried in Dihlî, altogether thirty-eight biographies), on fol. 814a.

خاتمه در ذكر فضائل و مناقب اهل بيت طاهرين و خلفاء راشدين و شمّهٔ از احوال خضر و الياس (On the excellent qualities and virtues of the house of 'Alî and the first four Khalîfs, together with some discourses on Khiḍr and Ilyâs), on fol. 833a.

This copy, which exhibits at the end as date only the 2nd of Rabi'-alawwal, A. H. 1043 (A. D. 1633, September 6), i. e. the date of the completion of the work itself, is undoubtedly in its principal parts the author's own first sketch or 'brouillon,' as the whole aspect of the MS. unmistakably proves. Almost in every page portions are struck out and either replaced by others on the margin or restored later on, which gives quite a unique value to the MS. There are besides numerous marginal corrections and additions. The actual number of biographies, according to our counting, is 1370; on fol. 3a, first line, the author states that he intends to enumerate 1000 and — biographies (هزار و), carefully avoiding any exact statement. In the following copy this passage has been filled in, and 1511 is given as the proper number, which exceeds that in the present copy by 141, but may very well be correct with regard to a later revised and enlarged edition, of which the following copy is, no doubt, an imperfect specimen. Rather peculiar are the chronological dates given in this work; they often entirely differ from those commonly fixed upon by standard authors.

No. 1647, ff. 939, ll. 19; Nasta'lîk, by different hands; size, 12¾ in. by 6¼ in.

Another, but incomplete copy of the same.

This copy, which seems to represent a later redaction of the work, also with a few erasures and numerous marginal corrections and additions, contains only the first half of the work, viz.:

Mukaddimah, on fol. 5b; Bâb I, on fol. 27a; II, on fol. 230a; III, on fol. 366a; IV, on fol. 406b; V, on fol. 453b; VI, on fol. 496a; VII (containing the index only), on fol. 553b. There is besides a large lacuna after fol. 382 in the third bâb, corresponding to ff. 251b, last line—257a, l. 15 in the preceding copy.

Beginning of the preface, on fol. 1b: سپاس و ستايش مصوّريرا كه لوح عدم را بهٔ نگارش عكوس صفاتيّ خود بياراست و عرصهٔ وجود را بمجال اسماى ذاتيّ خويش مزيّن ساخت الخ.

The proper order of ff. 112–117 is: 112, 114, 113, 116, 115, 117. No date.

No. 1022, ff. 554, ll. 17; Nasta'lîk; size, 10 in. by 5¼ in.

Biographies of Saints and famous Shaikhs, from the beginning of Islâm to the author's time, compiled by prince Dârâ Shukûh (the author of the مجمع البحرين, the حسنات العارفين, and the نادر النكات; comp. Rieu i. p. 356; W. Pertsch, Berlin Cat., pp. 58 and 546; J. Aumer, p. 140, etc.), and finished the 27th of Ramaḍân, A. H. 1049 (A. D. 1640, Jan. 21), in the author's twenty-fifth year; comp. fol. 134b, last line; see also fol. 79a, l. 13, and fol. 86a, l. 4. A complete index of all the persons quoted in this work is found on ff. 1–13a (the right order of which is 1, 7–12, 6, 2–5, 13). The work itself begins, on fol. 13b: الحمد لله ربّ العالمين و الصلوٰة و السلام على محمّد سيّد المرسلين و على آله و اصحابه اجمعين الطيّبين الطاهرين امّا بعد آكرچه احوال و معجزات حضرت سيّد انام الخ.

Lithographed in Lucknow, A. D. 1872. It contains the following short biographies, which are particularly valuable by a comparative strictness in the chronological order and the full dates they give:

I. Muḥammad, the first four Khalîfs, the twelve Imâms, some Aṣḥâb and Tâbi'în, and the four great legal authorities.

1. The prophet Muḥammad, died A. H. 11, the 12th of Rabi' I, on fol. 16b.

2. The first Khalîf Abûbakr Ṣiddîḳ, with his real name: 'Abdallâh, son of Abû Ḳuḥâfah (bin) 'Uthmân bin 'Âmir bin 'Amr bin Ka'b bin Sa'd and Umm-alkhair Salmâ, died A. H. 13, the 22nd or, according to others, the 23rd of Jumâdâ II, 63 or 65 years old, on fol. 18a.

3. The second Khalîf 'Umar Fârûḳ ibn al-Khaṭṭâb, with the Kunyah Abû Ḥafṣ, died A. H. 23, the 28th of Dhû-alḥijjah, 63, or according to others 54, 55, or 58 years old, on fol. 19a.

4. The third Khalîf 'Uthmân bin 'Affân Dhû-alnûrain, with the Kunyah Abû 'Umar, or Abû Lailâ or Abû 'Abdallâh, died A. H. 35 (or according to others 36), the 13th or 18th (15th in the following copy) of Dhû-alḥijjah, 88, or according to others 90 or only 75, 82, or 86 years old, on fol. 19b.

5. The fourth Khalîf and first Imâm 'Alî Murtaḍâ Asad-allâh bin Abî Ṭâlib, with the Kunyas Abû-alḥasan and Abû-alturâb, died A. H. 40, the 21st of Ramaḍân (according to others the 17th or 23rd), 63 or 65 years old, on fol. 20a.

6. Ḥasan bin 'Alî bin Abî Ṭâlib, the second Imâm, with the Kunyah Abû Muḥammad and the Laḳabs Taḳî and Sayyid, born in Madînah in the middle of Ramaḍân, A. H. 3, died 48 (in the following copy 47) years old, A. H. 50, the 11th of Rabi' I, on fol. 21a.

7. Ḥusain bin 'Alî bin Abî Ṭâlib, the third Imâm, with the Kunyah Abû 'Abdallâh and the Laḳabs Shahîd and Sayyid, born in Madînah, the 4th of Sha'bân, A. H. 4, killed at Karbalâ, 57 years and 5 months old, A. H. 61, on the day 'Âshûrâ, i. e. the 10th of Muḥarram, on fol. 21a.

8. 'Alî bin Ḥusain bin 'Alî almurtaḍâ, the fourth Imâm, with the Kunyas Abû Muḥammad, Abû-alḥasan, and Abûbakr, and the Laḳabs Sajjâd and Zain-al'âbidîn, born in Madînah, A. H. 33 (according to others 36 or 38), died 61 or 62 (according to others 56 or 58) years old, the 18th of Muḥarram, A. H. 94 or 95; his mother was the daughter of the last Persian king Yazdajird III, on fol. 21b.

9. Muḥammad bin 'Alî bin Ḥusain, the fifth Imâm, with the Kunyah Abû Ja'far and the Laḳab Bâḳir, born in Madînah, A. H. 57, the 3rd of Ṣafar, died 57 (according to others 58, 63, or 73) years old, A. H. 114 (according to others 117 or 118); his mother was Fâṭimah, a daughter of Imâm Ḥasan bin 'Alî, on fol. 22a.

10. Ja'far bin Muḥammad bin 'Alî bin Ḥusain, the sixth Imâm, with the Kunyah Abû 'Abdallâh or Abû Isma'îl, and the Laḳab Ṣâdiḳ, born in Madînah, A. H. 80 (or according to others 83), the 17th of Rabi' I, died 68 (or 65) years old, at Madînah, the 15th of Rajab, A. H. 148; his mother was a daughter of Ḳâsim bin Muḥammad bin Abîbakr Ṣiddîḳ, on fol. 22a.

11. Mûsâ bin Ja'far alṣâdiḳ, the seventh Imâm, with the Kunyas Abû-alḥasan and Abû Ibrâhîm, and the Laḳab Kâẓim, born at Abûh (ابوا), between Makkah and Madînah, the 7th of Ṣafar, A. H. 128, died 54 (or according to others 55) years old, the 6th, 7th, or in the middle of Rajab, A. H. 183, in the prison of Hârûn-alrashîd; his mother was a slave-girl, bought by Imâm Muḥammad Bâḳir and given to Imâm Ja'far Ṣâdiḳ, on fol. 22b.

12. 'Alî bin Mûsâ Kâẓim bin Ja'far, the eighth Imâm, with the Kunyah Abû-alḥasan and the Laḳab Riḍâ, born at Madînah the 11th of Rabi' II (or according to others the 6th, 7th, or 8th of Shawwâl), A. H. 153 (or 156), died 49 (or according to others 44, 45, or 50) years old, in Ṭûs, the 21st or 29th of Ramaḍân, A. H. 208, on fol. 23a.

13. Muḥammad bin 'Alî bin Mûsâ bin Ja'far Ṣâdiḳ, the ninth Imâm, with the Kunyah Abû Ja'far (usually called Abû Ja'far the second) and the Laḳabs Taḳî and Jawâd, born in Madînah the 10th of Rajab, A. H. 195, died 25 years old, A. H. 220, the 6th of Dhû-alḥijjah, under the Khalîf Mu'taṣim, on fol. 23b.

14. 'Alî bin Muḥammad bin 'Alî bin Mûsâ bin Ja'far Ṣâdiḳ, the tenth Imâm, with the Kunyah Abû-alḥasan (usually called Abû-alḥasan the third) and the Laḳabs Hâdî, Zakî 'Askarî, and Naḳî, born in Madînah the 13th of Rajab (according to others on the day 'Arafah, i. e. the 9th of Dhû-alḥijjah), A. H. 214, so to be read instead of the date دو صد و چهار هجرى in the text both of this and the following copy (others say A. H. 213), died 40 or 41 years old, near Baghdâd, end of Jumâdâ I (according to others the 13th of Jumâdâ II), A. H. 254; under the Khalîf Muntaṣir-billâh (read Almu'tazz-billâh, since Muntaṣir had died six years before that date), on fol. 24a.

15. Ḥasan bin 'Alî bin Muḥammad bin 'Alî Riḍâ, the eleventh Imâm, with the Kunyah Abû Muḥammad and the Laḳabs Zakî, Khâliṣ, Sirâj, and 'Askarî, born at Madînah, A. H. 231 (according to others 232), died 29 (or 28) years old, the 6th or 8th of Rabi'-alawwal, A. H. 260, on fol. 24b.

16. Muḥammad Mahdî bin Ḥasan bin 'Alî bin Muḥammad bin 'Alî Riḍâ, the twelfth Imâm, with the Kunyah Abû-alḳâsim, born A. H. 258, the 23rd of Ramaḍân; in A. H. 265 or 266 he disappeared, according to Shî'ite belief, to turn up again at the end of time; according to Sunnite doctrine he died in one of these two years, on fol. 25a.

17. Salmân the Persian, with the Kunyah Abû 'Abdallâh, died A. H. 33 at Madâ'in, one of the companions of the prophet; some say he was 1500 years old, others 350, others again 250, and the last statement, the author of the book says, is the correct one (واین قول اصحّ است) !!, on fol. 25b.

18. Uwais Ḳarnî, of Najd, one of the Tâbi'în, was killed, according to some authorities (see the كشف المحجوب and the تذكرة الاولیا), in the battle of Ṣiffîn (A. H. 37), according to others (see the شواهد النبوّة), he died A. H. 22, the 3rd of Rajab, on fol. 25b.

19. Ḥasan Baṣrî, with the Kunyah Abû Sa'îd, another of the Tâbi'în, born A. H. 21, died 89 years old, the 5th of Rajab, A. H. 110; buried at Baṣrah, on fol. 26a.

20. Ḳâsim bin Muḥammad bin Abîbakr alṣiddîḳ, also one of the Tâbi'în and one of the seven theologians (فقيه) of Madînah, was brought up in the house of his aunt 'Â'ishah; he died A. H. 107, 108, 112, or even 102, on fol. 26a.

21. Imâm-i-a'ẓam Abû Ḥanîfah of Kûfah, the first great legal Imâm, with his real name Nu'mân bin Thâbit, one of the Tâbi'în and friend of Imâm Ja'far Ṣâdiḳ (No. 10), born A. H. 80, died at Baghdâd, the 15th of Rajab, A. H. 150, 70 years old, on fol. 26b.

22. Mâlik bin Anas bin Mâlik, the second great legal Imâm, with the Kunyah Abû 'Abdallâh, born A. H. 95 (according to others 94 or 97), died the 7th of Rabî'-alâkhar, A. H. 179, on fol. 27a.

23. Muḥammad bin Idrîs Shâfi'î, the third great legal Imâm, with the Kunyah Abû 'Abdallâh, of the Ḳuraish, a pupil of Imâm Mâlik, born A. H. 150, died in Miṣr, 54 years old, the last of Rajab, A. H. 204; his mother was Umm-alḥasan, daughter of Ḥamzah bin al-Ḳâsim bin Zaid bin Ḥasan bin 'Alî bin Abî Ṭâlib; from his father's side he was a descendant of 'Abd-almuṭṭalib bin Hâshim, the prophet's grandfather; after his studies under Mâlik he went to 'Irâḳ and associated with Imâm Muḥammad bin Ḥasan, a pupil of Abû Ḥanîfah (No. 26), on fol. 27a.

24. Aḥmad Ḥanbal, or with his full name: Aḥmad bin Muḥammad bin Ḥanbal, the fourth great legal Imâm, Shâfi'î's pupil, with the Kunyah Abû Muḥammad or Abû 'Abdallâh, born in Baghdâd, A. H. 164, died 77 years old, in his native town, the 12th of Rabî'-alawwal, A. H. 241, on fol. 27b.

25. Imâm Abû Yûsuf (in the following copy wrongly: Muḥammad Yûsuf) Ya'ḳûb bin Ibrâhîm of Kûfah, a pupil of Abû Ḥanîfah, the first who ever got the title of Ḳâḍî-alḳuḍât, born A. H. 112, died 70 years old, the 27th of Rajab, A. H. 182, on fol. 28a.

26. Imâm Muḥammad Shaibânî, whose father Ḥasan came from Syria to the 'Irâḳ; he was brought up in Kûfah and became a pupil of Abû Ḥanîfah, died the 14th of Jumâdâ II, A. H. 189, on fol. 28a.

II. Shaikhs of the Ḳâdirî order (which was styled Junaidî before the time of Shaikh 'Abd-alḳâdir Jîlânî).

27. Shaikh Ma'rûf Karkhî, son of Firûz or Fîrûzân (according to others of 'Alî), with the Kunyah Abû Maḥfûẓ, originally a Christian, but converted to Muḥammadanism by the Imâm 'Alî Riḍâ bin Mûsâ (No. 12); he became a pupil of Abû Ḥanîfah and was instructed in Ṣûfic lore by Ḥabîb Râ'î, who was himself a pupil of Salmân the Persian (No. 17), he died A. H. 200, the 2nd of Muḥarram, on fol. 28b.

28. Shaikh Sarî alsaḳaṭî, with the Kunyah Abû-alḥasan, a pupil of the preceding Shaikh, died over 98 years old, the 3rd of Ramaḍân, A. H. 253 (in the following copy A. H. 250), on fol. 29a.

29. Shaikh Junaid bin Muḥammad bin al-Junaid of Baghdâd, with the Kunyah Abû-alḳâsim and the Laḳabs Sayyid alṭâ'ifah (because the order was called after him Junaidî), Ṭâ'ûs-al'ulamâ, Ḳawârirî, Zajjâj (the last two on account of the trade of his father, who was a glass-blower in Nahâwand), and Kharrâz; he was born and brought up at Baghdâd and followed the doctrines of Sufyân Thaurî (No. 162); he was also the principal pupil and nephew of Shaikh Sarî Saḳaṭî (No. 28), and died the 27th of Rajab, A. H. 297; others, but incorrectly, fix his death in A. H. 299, on fol. 29b.

30. Shaikh Abûbakr Shiblî, with his real name, Ja'far bin Yûnus, pupil of the preceding Shaikh, born, according to some, in Baghdâd, according to others in Sâmirah, died 87 years old, the 27th (in the following copy the 7th) of Dhû-alḥijjah, A. H. 334; he was a follower of the Mâlikite school, on fol. 31a.

31. Shaikh 'Abd-alwâḥid Tamîmî (in the following copy, Yamanî) bin 'Abd-al'azîz bin Ḥarith bin Asad, with the Kunyah Abû-alfaḍl, a pupil of Shiblî, died in Jumâdâ II, A. H. 425, on fol. 32a.

32. Shaikh Abû-alfaraḥ Ṭarṭûsî, a pupil of the preceding Shaikh, on fol. 32a.

33. Shaikh Abû-alḥasan Hakkârî, with his real name, 'Alî bin Muḥammad bin Yûsuf bin Ja'far alḳuraishî alhakkârî, pupil of the preceding Shaikh, died in Muḥarram, A. H. 486, on fol. 32a.

34. Shaikh Abû Sa'îd Mubârak bin 'Alî bin Ḥusain al-maḥrûmî (المحرومی, in other places makhzûmî مخزومی and maḥzûmî محزومی), a follower of the Ḥanbalite school, pupil of the preceding Shaikh and spiritual Pîr of 'Abd-alḳâdir Jîlânî (the famous غوث الثقلين; see below, No. 36), died in Muḥarram, A. H. 513, on fol. 32b.

35. Shaikh Ḥammâd bin Muslim, with the Kunyah Abû 'Abdallâh and the epithet Dabbâs (the seller of honey made of grapes or fresh dates), the teacher of 'Abd-alḳâdir Jîlânî, died in Ramaḍân, A. H. 520 (A. H. 525 in the following copy), on fol. 33a.

36. Ghauth-althaḳalain or Ghauth-ala'ẓam Shâh Muḥyi-aldîn Sayyid 'Abd-alḳâdir aljîlî alḥasanî alḥusainî, the real founder of the Ḳâdirî order, and the son of Abû Ṣâliḥ Mûsâ Jangîdûst bin Abî 'Abdallâh bin Yaḥyâ (al-)Zâhid bin Muḥammad bin Dâ'ûd bin Mûsâ-aljûn bin 'Abdallâh Maḥḍ bin Ḥasan Muthannâ bin Imâm Ḥasan bin 'Alî Murtaḍâ, who consequently traced his genealogy back to 'Abdallâh Maḥḍ, whose father Ḥasan was the son of 'Alî's son Ḥasan, and whose mother Fâṭimah was the daughter of 'Alî's son Ḥusain; he was born in Jîl (i. e. Jîlân or Gîlân, but according to others a village distant one day's journey from Baghdâd), the 1st of Ramaḍân, A. H. 470 (or according to others 471), went, 18 years old, A. H. 488, to Baghdâd, to apply himself to the study of the Ḳurân, the traditions, law, and other sciences, and entered upon his preaching and teaching career A. H. 521; he died the 8th or 9th (according to others the 11th, 13th, or 17th) of Rabî'- alâkhar, A. H. 561, 90 (respectively 89) years, 7 months, and 9 days old; in India the عرس or anniversary of his death is celebrated by some on the 11th, by others on the 17th of that month, in Baghdâd the 17th, but the author of this work himself (Dârâ Shukûh) used to celebrate it on the 9th as the most correct date of the great Shaikh's death. Among 'Abd-alḳâdir Jîlânî's numerous works are mentioned غنية الطالبين (styled غنية لطالبي طريق الحق in Cat. Codd. Or. Lugd. Bat. iv. p. 194 sq.; comp. also Ḥ. Khalfa iv. p. 338 and O. Loth, Arabic Catalogue of the India Office Library, p. 168 sq., where, besides, a collection of sermons and another of Ṣûfic essays are described, see below in No. 49, and a genealogy of 'Abd-alḳâdir, similar to the above, is given) and فتوح الغيب (see ib. iv. p. 317; Ḥ. Khalfa iv. p. 386, and O. Loth, Arabic Cat., loc. cit.), on fol. 33a.

37. Shaikh Saif-aldîn 'Abd-alwahhâb, the eldest son of 'Abd-alḳâdir Jîlânî and his successor in the spiritual office, born in Sha'bân, A. H. 512, died at Baghdâd, the 25th of Shawwâl, A. H. 603; he left two sons, Shaikh Abû Manṣûr 'Abd-alsalâm and Shaikh Abû-alfatḥ Salmân (but see No. 63 further down), on fol. 43a.

38. Shaikh Sharaf-aldîn 'Îsâ, with the Kunyah Abû 'Abd-alraḥmân, 'Abd-alḳâdir Jîlânî's second son, for whom his father composed his فتوح الغيب; he is himself the author of a Ṣûfic work: جواهر الاسرار, and died A. H. 573 in Miṣr, on fol. 43b.

39. Shaikh Shams-aldîn 'Abd-al'azîz, with the Kunyah Abûbakr, third son of 'Abd-alḳâdir Jîlânî, on fol. 43b.

40. Shaikh Sirâj-aldîn 'Abd-aljabbâr, with the Kunyas Abû 'Abd-alraḥmân and Abû-alfaraḥ, fourth son of 'Abd-alḳâdir Jîlânî, was muftî of 'Irâḳ; the author of this work (Dârâ Shukûh) possessed 'Abd-alḳâdir's collection of sermons, styled جلاء الخاطر (see O. Loth, Arabic MSS., p. 169, and Ḥ. Khalfa ii. p. 605 sq.), in Sirâj-aldîn's own handwriting, on fol. 43b.

41. Shaikh Tâj-aldîn Abûbakr 'Abd-alrazzâḳ, 'Abd-alḳâdir's fifth son, born A. H. 528, died 6th of Shawwâl, A. H. 623; he left five sons: Shaikh Abû Ṣâliḥ Naṣîr (in the following copy, Naṣr), Shaikh Abû-alḳâsim 'Abd-alraḥîm, Shaikh Abû Muḥammad Isma'îl, Shaikh Abû-almaḥâsin Faḍl-allâh, and Shaikh Jamâl-allâh, on fol. 44a.

42. Shaikh Abû Isḥâḳ Ibrâhîm, sixth son of 'Abd-alḳâdir, died the 25th of Dhû-alḳa'dah, A. H. 600, on fol. 44b.

43. Shaikh Abû-alfaḍl Muḥammad, seventh son of 'Abd-alḳâdir, died at Baghdâd the 5th (in the following copy again the 25th) of Dhû-alḳa'dah, A. H. 603 (so no doubt correctly in the following copy; here is given as date again A. H. 600), on fol. 44b.

44. Shaikh Abû 'Abd-alraḥmân 'Abdallâh, eighth son of 'Abd-alḳâdir, died the 27th of Ṣafar, A. H. 587; he left two sons: Shaikh Abû Muḥammad 'Abd-alraḥmân and Shaikh Abû Muḥammad 'Abd-alḳâdir, on fol. 44b.

45. Shaikh Abû Zakariyyâ (so correct in the index and in the following copy; the text here has Abûbakr Zakariyyâ) Yaḥyâ, ninth son of 'Abd-alḳâdir, born the 6th of Rabî'-alawwal, A. H. 550, died the 14th of Sha'bân (شب برات), A. H. 600, in Baghdâd, on fol. 44b.

46. Shaikh Abûnaṣr Mûsâ, the tenth and last son of 'Abd-alḳâdir, born the last of Rabî'-alawwal, A. H. 539 (sic! perhaps a mistake for 559), settled in Damascus and died there the first of Jumâdâ-alâkhar, A. H. 618, on fol. 45a.

47. Shaikh 'Alî bin Hai'atî, a pupil of Shaikh Tâj-al'ârifîn Abû-al'urafâ (correctly in the following copy: Abû-alwafâ), and both friend and disciple of 'Abd-alḳâdir Jîlânî, died 120 years old, A. H. 564, on fol. 45a.

48. Shaikh Abû 'Umar (or 'Amr) 'Uthmân Yaḳînî (so in the text here; the index and the following copy have instead of يقيني some very indistinct word, which must be read, according to the Nafaḥât-aluns, Ṣarighînî or Ṣarifînî), pupil of 'Abd-alḳâdir, without date, on fol. 45b.

49. Shaikh Abû Sa'îd Ḳîlû'î (قيلوئى, so in the index, from قيلويه, as on fol. 46b, l. 9, is distinctly written, the name of a place in 'Irâḳ; in the heading he is called فيلوئى), got his investiture from 'Abd-alḳâdir, died A. H. 557, on fol. 46b.

50. Shaikh Ḳadîb-albân (the following copy has the silly reading: قضيب البيان) of Mauṣil, with the Kunyah Abû 'Abdallâh, a pupil of 'Abd-alḳâdir, died A. H. 570, on fol. 46b.

51. Shaikh Aḥmad bin Mubârak, a pupil of 'Abd-alḳâdir, died A. H. 570, on fol. 47a.

52. Shaikh Ṣadaḳah bin Ḥusain of Baghdâd, with the Kunyah Abû-alfaraḥ, a friend and disciple of 'Abd-alḳâdir, died A. H. 573, on fol. 47a.

53. Shaikh Baḳâ bin Buṭṭû (بطّو, in the following copy بطور Buṭṭûr, but the former is confirmed by the Nafaḥât-aluns, No. 1412, fol. 248a), a pupil of Shaikh Abû-alwafâ (No. 313), and disciple of 'Abd-alḳâdir, died about A. H. 553 (the following copy has 550), on fol. 47a.

54. Shaikh Muḥammad alawânî (الاوانى), known as Ibn-alḳâ'id (ابن القائد, so in the index, the text on fol. 47b, last line, and in the following copy; in the heading here he is styled Ibn-alfâ'iz, ابن الفائز), a pupil of 'Abd-alḳâdir, on fol. 47b.

55. Shaikh Abû-alsu'ûd bin al-Shiblî, a pupil of 'Abd-alḳâdir, on fol. 48a.

56. Shaikh Abû 'Umar Ḳurnishî, with his real name: 'Uthmân bin Marzûḳ bin Ḥamîd bin Salâḳah (in the following copy: Salâm), one of the great Shaikhs of Egypt, was a Ḥanbalite and pupil of 'Abd-alḳâdir, died more than 70 years old, A. H. 564, and was buried by the side of Imâm Shâfi'î's tomb in Miṣr, on fol. 48a.

57. Shaikh Muwaffiḳ-aldîn almaḳdisî, with his real name: 'Abdallâh bin Muḥammad bin Aḥmad bin Ḳudâmah al-Ḥanbalî, a pupil of 'Abd-alḳâdir and author of many works, maḳâmas, etc., died A. H. 620, on fol. 48a.

58. Shaikh Muḥammad bin Aḥmad aljuwainî (الجوني, read الجويني), a pupil of Shaikh 'Abdallâh Yaḥyâ (Batâ'iḥ, بطائح, in the following copy), who was himself a pupil of 'Abd-alḳâdir, died A. H. 650 (according to the following copy, A. H. 558 or 658), on fol. 48a.

59. Shaikh Abû-Madîn Maghribî, with his real name: Shu'aib bin Ḥusain (or Ḥasan), a pupil of Shaikh Abû-alghazâli Maghribî and spiritual guide of the immediately following Shaikh Muḥyî-aldîn Ibn

'Arabî, one of the great Shaikhs of Maghrib, died A. H. 590, on fol. 48b.

60. Shaikh Muḥyî-aldîn Ibn 'Arabî, with his real name: Muḥammad bin 'Alî bin 'Arabî, got his investiture, according to the best traditions, from Shaikh Abû Muḥammad Yûnus alḳaṣṣâr alhâshimî, 'Abd-alḳâdir's pupil; he was initiated into Ṣûfism, according to his own statement in his work, كتاب الملكس (in the following copy, كتاب الملابس), by Abû-alḥasan 'Alî bin 'Abdallâh bin Jâmi', and was a friend of Shihâb-aldîn Suhrawardî (No. 148); born in Spain (بلاد اندلس), the 17th of Ramaḍân, A. H. 560 (a Monday), died in the night before Friday, the 22nd of Rabî'-alâkhar, A. H. 638, at Damascus, on fol. 48b.

61. Shaikh Ṣadr-aldîn Muḥammad bin Isḥâḳ Ḳûnawî (or Kûniyawî, i. e. of Konia or Iconium), with the Kunyah Abû-alma'âlî, the greatest of Muḥyî-aldîn Ibn 'Arabî's pupils, and the teacher of Maulânâ Ḳuṭb-aldîn 'Allâmah in the science of tradition; he was a special friend of Jalâl-aldîn Rûmî, the great mystic poet, who died before him, on fol. 49a.

62. Imâm 'Abdallâh bin As'ad Yâfi'î, with the Kunyah Abû-alsa'âdât and the Laḳab 'Afîf-aldîn; he was originally of Yaman and dwelt always in the two holy cities, was a Shâfi'ite and a disciple of 'Abd-alḳâdir in the second or third line; his investiture he got first from Shaikh Mas'ûd Ḥâwî (in the following copy: Jâdib, جادب), and later on from Shaikh Abû-alḥasan Nûr-aldîn 'Alî bin 'Abdallâh Yamanî Ṭawâshî (طواشى). In most of his publications, see above, Nos. 642 and 643 in this Cat., viz. the تأريخ يافعى (i. e. the مرآة الجنان), the تكملة, the روائض الرياحين (read روض الرياحين), and the نشر المحاسن, he relates episodes from 'Abd-alḳâdir Jîlânî's life and miracles worked by him. He died the 21st of Jumâdâ-alâkhar, A. H. 768 (in the following copy: 760), on fol. 49a.

63. Makhdûm Shaikh 'Abd-alḳâdir II, a descendant of the great 'Abd-alḳâdir Jîlânî in the eighth generation; his father was Shaikh Muḥammad bin Sayyid Sâmir (سامير, in the following copy: Shâh Mîr شاه مير) bin Sayyid 'Alî bin Sayyid Mas'ûd bin Sayyid Aḥmad bin Sayyid Saif-aldîn 'Abd-alwahhâb bin Sayyid alsâdât Sayyid 'Abd-alḳâdir Jîlânî (comp. No. 37 above, where, however, no son of Sayyid Saif-aldîn 'Abd-alwahhâb with the name of Aḥmad is mentioned; in the following copy there is inserted between Sayyid Aḥmad and Sayyid Saif-aldîn a Sayyid Ṣafar-aldîn, which might be the honorary epithet of one of Saif-aldîn's sons). He lived at last at Uch or Ûch in Multân and is reckoned among the greatest Shaikhs of India; he died 78 (in the following copy 77) years old, the 18th of Rabî'-alawwal, A. H. 940, and left two sons, Shaikh 'Abd-alrazzâḳ (died the 5th of Jumâdâ-alâkhar, A. H. 942) and Sayyid Zain-al'âbidîn; the latter died before his father and left a son, Sayyid Muḥammad, descendants of whom were still in existence at the time of this book's composition. 'Abd-alrazzâḳ's son, Shaikh Ḥâmid (in the following copy: جاند), was his father's successor in the headship of the order, and Shaikh Ḥâmid's son, Shaikh Jamâl-aldîn Abû-alḥasan, died the 29th of Dhû-alḳa'dah, A. H. 978, on fol. 49b.

64. Shaikh 'Abdallâh بتهتى, or, according to the following copy, بهتهى (from بتهه or بهته a place in the district of Dihlî), a descendant of 'Abd-alḳâdir Jîlânî in the 13th generation; and son of Sayyid 'Umar bin Sayyid Ḥasan (or Ḥusain) Ḥanbalî; he came in his 15th year from Baghdâd to India, and died more than 100 years old, the 10th of Rabî'-alawwal, A. H. 1037, on fol. 49b.

65. Ḥaḍrat Shaikh Mîr Muḥammad, known as Miyân Mîr or Miyânjîw, a descendant of the Khalîf 'Umar, born at Siwastân (سيوستان), A. H. 957 (not 938, as Rieu states i. p. 358), lived more than 60 years in Lâhûr, and died there, 88 years old, A. H. 1045, the 7th of Rabî'-alawwal. Dârâ Shukûh has given a full account of the life and deeds of this Indian saint and of his chief disciples in a special work of his, the سكينة الاولياء (see Rieu i. pp. 357 and 358). Among his pupils are mentioned: Ḥâjî Ni'mat-allâh Sirhindî, Shaikh Tanhâ, Shaikh Isma'îl, Mullâ Khwâjah Kalân, Miyân Ḥâmid, Mullâ 'Abd-alghafûr Dânishmand, Ḥâjî Ṣâliḥ (all deceased at the time of this book's composition), Mullâ Shâh, Mullâ Khwâjah Bihârî, Shaikh Muḥammad Lâhûrî, Shaikh Aḥmad Sunâmî, Shaikh Aḥmad Dihlawî, etc., on fol. 50a.

III. Shaikhs of the Nakshbandî order (formerly Ṭaifûrî, see fol. 52b, l. 3, and fol. 59b, l. 3 ab infra; both in the heading and index simply styled Salsala-i-sharîfa-i-Khwâjagân).

66. Shaikh Abû Yazîd (commonly called Bâyazîd) Bisṭâmî with the honorary title of Sulṭân-al'ârifîn, whose real name was Ṭaifûr bin 'Îsâ bin Âdam bin Sarûshân (سروشان). His grandfather was a Parsee, who was converted to Islamism. This founder of the Ṭaifûrî order died the 15th of Sha'bân, A. H. 261 (according to others 264; the date given by Jâmî, viz. 204, or 234 as the following copy has, see the Majma'-alauliyâ, fifth bâb, is a clerical error), on fol. 52a.

67. Shaikh Abû-alḥasan Kharaḳânî (Kharaḳân is a place near Ḳazwîn), with his real name: 'Alî bin Ja'far, a disciple of the preceding Shaikh, but born a considerable time after Bâyazîd's death. He died the 10th of Muḥarram, A. H. 425, on fol. 52b.

68. Shaikh Abû 'Alî Rûdbârî (Rûdbâr is in the province of Ṭûs), whose father was Muḥammad bin Ḳâsim bin Manṣûr, a descendant of the old Sâsânian kings; he was a pupil of Shaikh Junaid Baghdâdî (see No. 29) and died A. H. 322 in Miṣr, on fol. 52b.

69. Shaikh Abû 'Alî Kâtib, lived in Egypt too, and was a disciple of the preceding Shaikh; he died A. H. 346 (according to others 356), on fol. 53a.

70. Shaikh Abû 'Uthmân Maghribî, with his real name: Sa'îd bin Salâm (Islâm in the following copy), pupil of Abû-alḥusain Ṣâni'-i-dunyawî (Ṣâliḥ Dînawarî in the following copy) and disciple of the preceding Shaikh; he died in Nîshâpûr, A. H. 373, on fol. 53a.

71. Shaikh Abû-alḳâsim 'Alî Gurgânî, was connected through one spiritual guide, Abû 'Uthmân Maghribî (No. 70), with the Junaidî order, through another, Abû-alḥasan Kharaḳânî (No. 67), with that of Bâyazîd Bisṭâmî; he was a friend of Abû Sa'îd bin Abû-alkhair (No. 294), and of the author of the كشف المحجوب (No. 298) in his younger years; he died A. H. 450, on fol. 53a.

72. Shaikh Abû 'Alî of Fârmad (or Fârmadh near Ṭûs), with his real name: Fuḍail (Faḍl in the following copy) bin Muḥammad, the Shaikh-alshuyûkh of Khurâsân, a disciple of Imâm Abû-alḳâsim Ḳushairî (No. 299) and pupil of the preceding Shaikh; he had some intercourse with Shaikh Abû Sa'îd bin Abû-alkhaîr and died A. H. 477, on fol. 53a.

73. Khwâjah Yûsuf bin Ayyûb of Hamadân, with the Kunyah Abû Ya'ḳûb, a pupil of the preceding Shaikh as well as of Shaikh Abû Isḥâḳ Shîrâzî; he was acquainted with Shaikh 'Abdallâh Juwainî, Shaikh Ḥasan Simnânî, and also with the great 'Abd-alḳâdir Jîlanî. He was born A. H. 440 and died on the way to Marw, A. H. 535, on fol. 53b.

74. Khwâjah Ḥasan of Andâḳ (near Bukhârâ), with his real name: Ḥasan bin Ḥusain, and the Kunyah Abû Muḥammad, born somewhat after A. H. 460, died A. H. 552, on fol. 53b.

75. Khwâjah Aḥmad Yasawî (Yasî, يسي, being a well-known town in Turkistân), a pupil of Yûsuf Hamadânî (No. 73), died A. H. 562, on fol. 53b.

76. Khwâjah 'Abd-alkhâliḳ of Ghujdawân (six farsangs from Bukhârâ), son of Imâm 'Abd-aljalîl (in the following copy: 'Abd-aljamîl), a descendant of the kings of Rûm and an ancestor of Bahâ-aldîn Nakshband (see below, No. 82); he got his investiture from Khwâjah Yûsuf of Hamadân, and died A. H. 575, on fol. 54a.

77. Khwâjah 'Ârif of Riwgar (ريوگر in the district of Bukhârâ), pupil and successor of the preceding Shaikh, died A. H. 715 (?), on fol. 54a.

78. Khwâjah Maḥmûd, born in a village near Bukhârâ (with the name of انجير فغنو, in the following copy he is called Abû-alkhaîr Faghnawî (ابو الخير فغنوى), pupil and successor of the preceding Shaikh, died A. H. 715, on fol. 54a.

80. Khwâjah Muḥammad Bâbâ-i-Samâsî (سماسي, one of the villages near Râmtîn), the pupil and successor of the preceding Shaikh and the adopted father of the great Bahâ-aldîn Nakshband (No. 82), on fol. 54b.

81. Sayyid Amîr Kulâl, one of the best pupils and successors of the preceding Shaikh, born in Sûkhâr (سوخار), died the 8th of Jumâdâ-alawwal, A. H. 772, on fol. 54b.

82. Khwâjah Bahâ-aldîn Nakshband, with his real name: Muḥammad bin Muḥammad albukhârî, pupil of the preceding Shaikh, born in Muḥarram, A. H. 718, died 3rd of Rabî'-alawwal, A. H. 791, 73 years old, on fol. 54b.

83. Khwâjah Pârsâ, with his real name: Muḥammad bin Muḥammad bin Maḥmûd alḥâfiẓî albukhârî, a famous pupil of Bahâ-aldîn Nakshband, who found a right royal reception in Makkah, when performing his pilgrimage, in Muḥarram, A. H. 822; the 23rd of Dhû-alḥijjah of the same year he entered Madînah, and died there the 24th of the same month, 73 years old, on fol. 55b.

84. Khwâjah Abû-alnaṣr Pârsâ, with the epithets Burhân-aldîn and Ḥâfiẓ-aldîn, son and pupil of the preceding Shaikh; he accompanied his father on his last pilgrimage; died A. H. 865, on fol. 55b.

85. Khwâjah 'Alâ-aldîn 'Aṭṭâr, with his real name: Muḥammad bin Muḥammad albukhârî; he was originally of Khwârizm, pupil of Bahâ-aldîn Nakshband, died 20th of Rajab, A. H. 802; his eldest son Khwâjah Ḥasan 'Aṭṭâr died A. H. 826, on fol. 56a.

86. Maulânâ Ya'ḳûb Carkhî (Carkh is a village between Kâbul and Ghazna), another famous pupil of Bahâ-aldîn Nakshband, on fol. 56a.

87. Khwâjah 'Ubaid-allâh (in the index and in the following copy: 'Abdallâh) Ghujdawânî Aḥrâr, with the epithet Nâṣir-aldîn, son of Khwâjah Maḥmûd bin Shihâb-aldîn Suhrawardî (the last word is added in the following copy), a famous pupil of the preceding Shaikh, friend of Jâmî's, born in Ramaḍân, A. H. 806, in Bâghistân, near Tâshkand, died 90 years and a few months old, 29th of Rabî'-alawwal, A. H. 895, and was buried in Samarḳand, on fol. 56b.

88. Maulânâ Niẓâm-aldîn Khâmûsh, pupil and successor of Khwâjah 'Alâ-aldîn 'Aṭṭâr, died more than 90 years old, in Samarḳand, on fol. 57a.

89. Maulânâ Sa'd-aldîn of Kâshghar, pupil and successor of the preceding Shaikh, died 7th of Jumâdâ-alâkhar, A. H. 860, on fol. 57a.

90. Maulânâ 'Abd-alraḥmân Jâmî, the renowned poet, with the epithets of 'Imâd-aldîn and Nûr-aldîn, son of Aḥmad bin Muḥammad of Dasht (a place near Iṣfahân), pupil of Maulânâ Sa'd-aldîn Kâshghar, and belonging, according to some to the Ḥanafite, according to others to the Shâfi'ite school; he was born in Jâm, the 22nd of Sha'bân, A. H. 817, and died, 3 years after his contemporary, the great Shaikh Khwâjah Aḥrâr, the 18th of Muḥarram, A. H. 898, 81 years old, on fol. 57b.

91. Maulânâ 'Abd-alghafûr Lârî, with the epithet Raḍî-aldîn, a pupil of Jâmî, wrote glosses (حاشيه) on Jâmî's نفحات الانس; he died the 5th of Sha'bân, A. H. 912, and is buried at Harât, on fol. 58b.

92. Khwâjah 'Abd-alshahîd (in the following copy: 'Abd-alrashîd), a grandson of Khwâjah 'Ubaid-allâh Aḥrâr, lived 18 years in India, and died in Samarḳand, A. H. 982, on fol. 59a.

93. Khwâjah Bâḳî, died 40 years old, in Dihlî, A. H. 1012, on fol. 59b.

94. a and b. Hâshim Khwâjah and Ṣâliḥ Khwâjah, two brothers and renowned Shaikhs of Transoxania, the elder of whom, Hâshim, died near Samarḳand, the 5th of Rabî'-alawwal, A. H. 1046, and the younger, Ṣâliḥ, in Muḥarram, A. H. 1048, at Balkh, 78 (in the following copy 77) years old, on fol. 59b.

IV. Shaikhs of the Ćishtî order.

95. Khwâjah 'Abd-alwâḥid (bin) Zaid, originally of Baṣrah, and pupil of Ḥasan Baṣrî (No. 19); he got his investiture from the Imâm-i-a'ẓam, i. e. Abû Ḥanîfah (No. 21), whose follower he was, and died the 27th of Ṣafar, A. H. 177, on fol. 59b.

96. Fuḍail bin 'Iyâḍ, with the Kunyah Abû 'Alî, originally of Kûfah (according to others of Marw in Khurâsân, of Samarḳand, or even of Bukhârâ), a pupil of the preceding Shaikh and contemporary with Ibrâhîm Adham (No. 97), Sufyân Thaurî (No. 162), and others; he was a follower of Abû Ḥanîfah, and died in Muḥarram, A. H. 187 (in the following copy 188), and was buried in Makkah, on fol. 60a.

97. Sulṭân Ibrâhîm Adham, with the Kunyah Abû Isḥâḳ, son of Sulaimân bin Manṣûr Balkhî, of the old royal family of Balkh, and ruler of Balkh himself for some time, till he renounced worldly splendour, entered upon the mystic path and went to Makkah; he was a follower of Abû Ḥanîfah and got his investiture from Fuḍail bin 'Iyâḍ; he died the 16th of Jumâdâ-alawwal, A. H. 162 (or according to others A. H. 161, in the following copy A. H. 160), on fol. 60b.

98. Khwâjah Ḥudhaifah of Mar'ash, a pupil of the preceding Shaikh, died the 14th of Shawwâl (year omitted), on fol. 61b.

99. Khwâjah Hubairah of Baṣrah, a pupil of the preceding Shaikh, died the 18th of Shawwâl (year omitted), on fol. 61b.

100. Shaikh 'Ulû Dînawarî, pupil of the preceding Shaikh, different from Shaikh Mamshâd Dînawarî (who appears further down, in No. 140), died the 14th of Muḥarram (year omitted), on fol. 61b.

101. Khwâjah Abû Isḥâḳ Shâmî, pupil of the preceding Shaikh, died the 14th of Rabî'-alâkhar (year omitted), on fol. 62a.

102. Khwâjah Abû Aḥmad Abdâl Čishtî, the real founder of the Čishtî order, who, like Ibráhîm Adham, renounced a princely position and became a follower of Abû Isḥâḳ Shâmî, born A. H. 260, died the 10th of Jumâdâ-alawwal or Jumâdâ-alâkhar, A. H. 355 (350 in the following copy), and was buried in Čisht, on fol. 62a.

103. Khwâjah Muḥammad Čishtî, son and pupil of the preceding Shaikh, said to have greatly contributed by his sanctity and good counsel to the conquest of Sûmanât by Maḥmûd of Ghazna, whom he accompanied, 70 years old, on that expedition; he died the 1st of Rajab, A. H. 411, and was buried in Čisht, on fol. 62b.

104. Khwâjah Yûsuf bin Muḥammad Sim'ân (سمعان, in the heading سمون) the Syrian, with the Laḳab Nâṣir-aldîn, a nephew of the preceding Shaikh by sister's side, born in Čisht, died the 4th of Rabî'-alâkhar, A. H. 459, 84 years old; he appointed as his spiritual successor his eldest son, Khwâjah Ḳuṭb-aldîn Maudûd (see the following Shaikh), on fol. 62b.

105. Khwâjah Ḳuṭb-aldîn Maudûd Čishtî, who knew in his seventh year the whole Ḳurân by heart; his father died when he was 26 years old, and then he assumed the spiritual leadership, but placed himself nevertheless for some time under the tuition of the Shaikh-alislâm Shaikh Aḥmad-i-Jâm (No. 308) in Harât; he died the 1st of Rajab, A. H. 527, on fol. 62b.

106. Khwâjah Aḥmad bin Maudûd bin Yûsuf Čishtî, pupil of his father, made the pilgrimage and lived six months in Madînah as Jâr-allâh; after his return he went to Baghdâd and visited Shaikh Shihâb-aldîn Suhrawardî (No. 148); he was born A. H. 500, and died A. H. 577 (so correctly according to the following copy), on fol. 63a.

107. Shâh-i-Sanjân, with the epithet Rukn-aldîn and his real name Maḥmûd, originally of Sanjân near Khwâf, a pupil of Khwâjah Maudûd Čishtî, died A. H. 597, on fol. 63b.

108. Khwâjah Ḥâjî Sharîf Zandanî, a pupil of the same Maudûd, between whom and the subordinate order or silsilah of Khwâjah Mu'în-aldîn Čishtî he forms the connecting link; died the 6th of Rajab (year omitted), on fol. 63b.

109. Shaikh 'Uthmân of Hârûn (near Nîshâpûr), pupil of the preceding Shaikh, died the 16th of Shawwâl (year omitted), on fol. 63b.

110. Khwâjah Mu'în-aldîn Sijzî Čishtî, born in Sijistân, but brought up in Khurâsân, son of Khwâjah Ghiyâth-aldîn Ḥasan (Ḥusain in the following copy), pupil of the preceding Shaikh, and head of the Čishtî order in Hindûstân; when he had renounced worldly aspirations, he travelled to Samarḳand and Bukhârâ, and thence to the 'Irâḳ-i-'Arab; in Hârûn he put himself under Shaikh 'Uthmân's tuition and remained 20 years with him. He afterwards visited for a longer time Shaikh 'Abd-alḳâdir Jîlânî (No. 36), Shaikh Najm-aldîn Kubrâ (No. 124), Khwâjah Yûsuf Hamadânî (No. 73), Shaikh Abû Sa'îd Tabrîzî and Shaikh Ḥusain Zanjânî in Lâhûr; from Lâhûr he went to Dihlî and at last to Ajmîr, where he settled for the remainder of his life. He was born A. H. 537 and died in Ajmîr the 6th of Rajab (according to others the 3rd or, as the following copy reads, the 9th of Dhû-alḥijjah), A. H. 633. The statement therefore, made here on fol. 65a, first line, and in the following copy too, that he lived 104 years (یکصد و چهارسال) is wrong; it ought to be 100 years less 4. The author of this work, prince Dârâ Shukûh, remarks incidentally at the end of Mu'în-aldîn's biography, that he himself was born in Ajmîr, the last of Ṣafar, in the middle of the night, A. H. 1024, when his mother was 24 years old, as the first son after three daughters, on fol. 64a.

111. Shaikh Ḥamîd-aldîn alṣûfî alsa'îd alnâgûrî, with the Kunyah Abû Aḥmad and the epithet Sulṭân-altârikîn (or, according to the following copy, Sulṭân-alsâlikîn), one of the great spiritual successors of the preceding Shaikh. He exchanged a series of letters (مراسلات) on the Ṣûfic topics of فقر and غنا with Shaikh Bahâ-aldîn Zakariyyâ Multânî (No. 152), and died the 29th of Rabî'-alâkhar, A. H. 673, in Nâgûr, on fol. 65a.

112. Khwâjah Ḳuṭb-aldîn Ûshî Kâkî, with his real name: Bakhtiyâr bin Aḥmad bin Mûsâ, born in Ûsh, near Farghâna; he was a pupil of Khwâjah Mu'în-aldîn Čishtî (No. 110), went later on to Baghdâd, to enjoy Shaikh Shihâb-aldîn Suhrawardî's (No. 148) tuition, and proceeded at last to Multân, where he became attached to Shaikh Bahâ-aldîn Zakariyyâ Multânî. Shaikh Farîd-aldîn Ganj-i-shakar (No. 113) became his pupil there. The last years of his life he spent in Dihlî and in Ajmîr in intimate friendship with Mu'în-aldîn Čishtî, and died in the same year as his spiritual teacher and friend, viz. A. H. 633, the 14th of Rabî'-alawwal; he was buried in Dihlî; on fol. 65a.

113. Shaikh Farîd-aldîn Ganj-i-shakar, the pupil and spiritual successor of the preceding Shaikh, with his real name: Mas'ûd bin 'Azîz-aldîn ('Izz-aldîn in the following copy) Maḥmûd, a descendant of the Khalîf 'Umar on his father's side; his mother was the daughter of Maulânâ Wajîh-aldîn Khujandî; he was born in کهول وال, a village near Multân, and died 95 years old, A. H. 664, the 5th of Muḥarram; he was buried in Patan (i.e. Pâkpatan or Ajwadhan, see Rieu i. p. 41b, footnote), half-way between Multân and Lâhûr, on fol. 66b.

114. Shaikh Nizâm-aldîn Auliyâ, with his real name: Muḥammad bin Aḥmad bin Dâniyâl Badâ'ûnî and the epithet سلطان المشايخ, pupil and successor of the preceding Shaikh; he was born A. H. 636, and died the 18th of Rabî'-alâkhar, A. H. 725. The most renowned of his disciples are the following four: Amîr Khusrau (No. 115), Shaikh Naṣîr-aldîn Cirâgh (No. 116), Shaikh Burhân-aldîn Gharîb (No. 117), and Shaikh Ḥasan Dihlawî, on fol. 67a.

115. Amîr Khusrau of Dihlî, of the princely family of Hazârah and of Turkish descent, the greatest Persian poet of India, born in Mu'minâbâd, died A. H. 725, shortly after his spiritual teacher's death, which affected him very deeply, on fol. 67b.

116. Shaikh Naṣîr (in the text Naṣr) -aldîn Cirâgh of Dihlî, with his real name: Maḥmûd (in the following copy: Muḥammad); he became Nizâm-aldîn Auliyâ's pupil when he was 40 years old, and died the 18th of Ramaḍân, A. H. 757, on fol. 68b.

117. Shaikh Burhân-aldîn Gharîb, the third disciple of Nizâm-aldîn Auliyâ, without date of birth or death, on fol. 69a.

118. Shaikh 'Abd-alḳuddûs (or alḳaddûs, see the Bodleian Cat., No. 1275) of Gangû, near Dihlî, a pupil of Shaikh Muḥammad bin Shaikh 'Ârif bin Shaikh Aḥmad 'Abd-alḥaḳḳ (Shaikh Muḥammad was the pupil of his father 'Ârif, 'Ârif that of his father Aḥmad 'Abd-alḥaḳḳ; the last mentioned was the pupil of Shaikh Jalâl of Pânîpat, the pupil of Shaikh Shams-aldîn Turk of Pânîpat, the pupil of Shaikh 'Alî Ṣâbir, the pupil of Farîd-aldîn Ganj-i-shakar, No. 113, see fol. 69b); he had many sons, among whom Shaikh Rukn-aldîn gained the highest reputation as derwish, and died A. H. 945, in Gangû, on fol. 69a.

119. Shaikh Jalâl Thânîsarî, son of Ḳâḍî Maḥmûd, originally of Balkh, and pupil of the preceding Shaikh, died 96 years old, the 25th of Dhû-alḥijjah, A. H. 989, on fol. 69b.

V. Shaikhs of the Kubrawî order.

120. Shaikh Abûbakr bin 'Abdallâh Nassâj (نسّاج), originally of Ṭûs, a pupil of Shaikh Abû-alḳâsim Gurgânî (see No. 71), and a contemporary and friend of Abûbakr Dînawarî, on fol. 70a.

121. Shaikh Aḥmad Ghazâlî, originally of Ṭûs, pupil of the preceding Shaikh and brother of the famous Ḥujjat-alislâm Imâm Muḥammad Ghazâlî, died A. H. 517, and was buried at Ḳazwîn, on fol. 70a.

122. Shaikh Abû-alnajîb Suhrawardî, with his real name 'Abd-alḳâhir (in the following copy: 'Aḍud-alḳâhir) and the honorary title of Ḍiyâ-aldîn, a descendant of the Khalîf Abûbakr in the 13th generation, and disciple both of Aḥmad Ghazâlî and of his uncle Shaikh Wajîh-aldîn (No. 147); he died in the night of the 12th of Jumâdâ-alâkhar, A. H. 563, and was buried at Baghdâd, on fol. 70a.

123. Shaikh 'Ammâr-i-Yâsir (یاسر, or Yâsir یاسیر, as he is styled on fol. 71a, line 7), a pupil of the preceding Shaikh, on fol. 70b.

124. Shaikh Najm-aldîn Kubrâ, with his real name: Aḥmad bin 'Umar alkhîwaḳî, and the Kunyah Abûaljanâb (in the following copy: جناں), disciple both of 'Ammâr-i-Yâsir, who traced his doctrines back to Abûalḳâsim Gurgânî, and of Shaikh Isma'îl Ḳaṣrî. The latter got his investiture from Muḥammad bin Mâlkîl (here مانكيل, but مالكيل is confirmed by a marginal gloss in the Nafaḥât-aluns, No. 1412, fol. 198a, line 9), who was connected with the prophet by the following line of Shaikhs: Muḥammad bin Dâ'ûd, Abû-al-'abbâs Idrîs, Abû-alḳâsim bin Ramaḍân, Abû Ya'ḳûb (Ṭabarî, as the Nafaḥât-aluns add), Abû 'Abdallâh bin 'Uthmân, Abû Ya'ḳûb (Ya'ḳûb in the Nafaḥât-aluns) Nahrjûrî, Abû Ya'ḳûb Sûsî, 'Abd-alwâḥid bin Zaid, Kumail bin Ziyâd, 'Alî bin Abû Ṭâlib, the fourth Khalîf. Shaikh Najm-aldîn died the 10th of Jumâdâ-alawwal, A. H. 618, the year when Hûlâgû entered Khwârizm, more than 60 years old; his chief companions and disciples were, besides the five immediately following Shaikhs, Bâbâ Kamâl Khujandî (or according to the Nafaḥât-aluns, Jandî), Shaikh Jamâl-aldîn Kîlî (كيلى), and according to some, also Maulânâ Bahâ-aldîn Walad, the father of Jalâl-aldîn Rûmî (No. 136), on fol. 70b.

125. Shaikh Majd-aldîn (in the following copy: Majîd-aldîn) Baghdâdî, with his real name: Sharaf (in the following copy: Sharîf) bin al-Mu'ayyad bin Abûalfatḥ, and the Kunyah Abû Sa'îd, pupil of the preceding Najm-aldîn Kubrâ, died A. 147. Shaikh Wajîh-aldîn, a follower both of the doctrines of Mamshâd Dînawarî (see No. 140) and of Ruwaim (see No. 143) through his two teachers, Shaikh Muḥammad 'Ammûyah and Akhî Faraj (here called Farrukh also) Zanjânî, respectively. He was himself the spiritual teacher of Shaikh Abû-alnajîb Suhrawardî (No. 122), and died in Baghdâd, on fol. 76a.

148. Shaikh Shihâb-aldîn Suhrawardî, the founder of the Suhrawardî order, with his real name: 'Umar bin Muḥammad albakrî, the Kunyah Abû Ḥafṣ and the epithet Shaikh-i-Shuyûkh, a descendant of the Khalîf Abûbakr, a Shâfi'ite and pupil of his uncle Shaikh Abû-alnajîb Suhrawardî (see above); he also enjoyed the company and tuition of the great 'Abd-alḳâdir Jîlânî (No. 36). He was born in Rajab, A. H. 539, and died in Baghdâd the first of Muḥarram, A. H. 632, on fol. 76a.

149. Shaikh Ḥamîd-aldîn Nâgûrî, with his real name: Shaikh Muḥammad bin 'Aṭâ, one of the greatest pupils of the preceding Shaikh, whose teaching he attended in Baghdâd, where he also enjoyed the companionship of Khwâjah Ḳuṭb-aldîn Bakhtiyâr Ûshî Kâkî (No. 112) and Ganj-i-shakar (No. 113); before he renounced the world, he was Ḳâḍî of the town of Nâgûr. He died A. H. 643 and was buried in Dihlî by the side of Ḳuṭb-aldîn Bakhtiyâr, on fol. 76b.

150. Shaikh Najîb-aldîn 'Alî bin Buzghush (بزغش) of Shîrâz (but his family came originally from Syria), likewise a pupil of the great Shihâb-aldîn Suhrawardî; he died A. H. 678 in Shîrâz, on fol. 77a.

151. Shaikh 'Abd-alraḥmân Ẓahîr-aldîn bin 'Alî bin Buzghush, the pupil and spiritual successor of his father Najîb-aldîn, died A. H. 716 (the Nafaḥât-aluns, No. 1412, fol. 225a, ll. 3 and 4 ab infra, fix his death in A. H. 726, but a note on the margin gives again distinctly ۷۱۶), on fol. 77a.

152. Shaikh Bahâ-aldîn Zakariyyâ Multânî, son of Wajîh-aldîn bin Kamâl-aldîn 'Alîshâh Ḳuraishî, with the Kunyas: Abû Muḥammad and Abû-albarakât, one of the greatest pupils and spiritual successors of Shihâb-aldîn Suhrawardî, born A. H. 566, died the 7th of Ṣafar, A. H. 666, 100 years old; he is buried in Multân, on fol. 77a (the headings of Nos. 150–152 are in great confusion in the text, but both the index and the following copy enable the correction of the text).

153. Shaikh Fakhr-aldîn 'Irâḳî, pupil of the preceding Shaikh, well known as author of a dîwân and of the لمعات; he was originally of Hamadân and died the 8th of Dhû-alḳa'dah, A. H. 688 (read in the text here, as well as in the following copy, ششصد instead of هشتصد), 82 years old; he was buried in Damascus, on fol. 77b.

154. Amîr Ḥusainî Sâdât, with his real name: Ḥusain bin 'Âlim bin Abî-alḥusain, originally of Ghûr, author of the كنز الرموز, the زاد المسافرين, the نزهة الارواح, and the questions put in Shabistarî's گلشن راز; he was a pupil of Shaikh Bahâ-aldîn Zakariyyâ Multânî (No. 152), and died in Harât the 10th (18th in the following copy) of Shawwâl, A. H. 718, on fol. 78a.

156. Shaikh Rukn-aldîn, with the Kunyah Abû-alfatḥ and the epithet Faḍl-allâh, son, pupil, and spiritual successor of the preceding Shaikh Ṣadr-aldîn; he filled his holy office 52 years, and died the 9th of Jumâdâ-alawwal, A. H. 735, 88 years old; he was buried by his father's and grandfather's side, on fol. 78a.

157. Ḥaḍrat Makhdûm-i-Jahâniyân, i. e. Sayyid Jalâl Bukhârî (see the Siyar-al'ârifîn, No. 13), whose grandfather, Sayyid Jalâl Bukhârî Surkh (سرخ), was the first of this order who went from Bukhârâ to India and became a pupil of Shaikh Bahâ-aldîn Zakariyyâ Multânî (No. 152); he had three sons, viz. Sayyid Aḥmad Kabîr, Sayyid Bahâ-aldîn, and Sayyid Muḥammad; the eldest of these had again two sons: Makhdûm-i-Jahâniyân Sayyid Jalâl and Sayyid Râjû Ḳattâl. Makhdûm-i-Jahâniyân received his spiritual tuition both from his father and from Shaikh Rukn-aldîn bin Shaikh Ṣadr-aldîn bin Shaikh Bahâ-aldîn Zakariyyâ Multânî (No. 156); in Makkah he formed a sincere friendship with the Imâm 'Abdallâh Yâfi'î (No. 62), and after his return to India he became in Dihlî closely associated with Shaikh Naṣîr-aldîn Ċirâgh of Dihlî (No. 116) and finally a member of the Ċishtî order. He was born the 14th of Sha'bân (جمعة براءت), A. H. 707, and died the 10th of Dhû-alḥijjah (عيد الضحى), A. H. 785, 78 years, 3 months, and 26 days old, on fol. 78b.

187. Shâh Shujâ' Kirmânî, with the Kunyah Abû-alfawâris, of royal descent, and pupil of Abû-alḥafṣ Ḥaddâd (No. 184); he was a friend of Abû Turâb Nakhshabî (No. 178), Abû Dharrâ' Baṣrî, Abû 'Ubaid Baṣrî, etc., and died after A.H. 270, on fol. 87a.

188. Shaikh Ḥamdûn Ḳaṣṣâr, with the Kunyah Abû Ṣâliḥ, son of 'Umârah (in the following copy 'Imâd); he founded the طريقة قصّاريّة, was a follower of Sufyân Thaurî (No. 162), and a friend of Abû Turâb Nakhshabî (No. 178), 'Alî Ḳasrâbâdî (read Naṣrâbâdî or Naṣîrâbâdî), and Abû Ḥafṣ (No. 184), and died A.H. 271, on fol. 87a.

189. Fatḥ bin Shakhraf (شخرف), with the Kunyah Abû Naṣr, born in Marw, died the 15th of Sha'bân, A.H. 273, on fol. 87b.

190. Shaikh Abû 'Abdallâh (in the following copy Abû Muḥammad) Mukhtâr, son of Muḥammad bin Aḥmad, born in Harât; he was the Pîr of Shaikh Abû-al'alî bin Mukhtâr al'alawî alḥusainî (alsakhî in the following copy), and died in Harât, A.H. 277, on fol. 87b.

191. Abû 'Abdallâh Maghribî, with his real name: Muḥammad bin Isma'îl, the spiritual guide of Ibrâhîm Khawwâṣ (No. 199) and Ibrâhîm bin Shaibân Kirmânshâhî (No. 232), and the pupil of Abû-alḥasan (Abû-alḥusain in the following copy) 'Alî Zarrîn, who was himself a disciple of Khwâjah 'Abd-alwâḥid Zaid (No. 95), whose teacher Shaikh Ḥasan Baṣrî (No. 19) had been; he died, 122 years old, A.H. 279, on fol. 87b.

192. Shaikh Abû 'Abdallâh Khâḳân alṣûfî, of Baghdâd, died A.H. 279, on fol. 88a.

193. Sahl (in the following copy Suhail) bin 'Abdallâh Tustarî, with the Kunyah Abû Muḥammad, a Ḥanafite, pupil of Dhû-alnûn Miṣrî (No. 177), died in Muḥarram, A.H. 283, 80 years old, on fol. 88a.

194. Abû Sa'îd Kharrâz, with his real name: Aḥmad bin 'Îsâ, born in Baghdâd, and founder of the طريقة خرّازيّة; he was a pupil of Muḥammad bin Manṣûr Ṭûsî, and friend of Dhû-alnûn Miṣrî (No. 177), Sarî Sakaṭî (No. 28), Bashar Ḥâfî (No. 171), and others, and died at Makkah, A.H. 286 (according to others 285 or 287), on fol. 88b.

195. 'Abbâs bin Ḥamzah Nishâpûrî, with the Kunyah Abû-alfaḍl, friend of Dhû-alnûn Miṣrî and Bâyazîd Bisṭâmî (No. 66), died in Rabî'-alawwal, A.H. 287 (288 in the following copy), on fol. 89a.

196. Abû Ḥamzah Baghdâdî, with his real name:

Muḥammad bin Ibrâhîm, friend of Bashar Ḥâfî, Sarî Saḳaṭî, and Abû Turâb Nakhshabî (No. 178), pupil of Ḥârith Muḥâsabî (No. 176), and contemporary with Abû-alḥusain (in No. 201 and in the following copy Abû-alḥasan) Nûrî and Khair alnassâj (No. 221), died A. H. 289, on fol. 89a.

197. Abû Ḥamzah Khurâsânî, born in Nishâpûr, friend of Abû Turâb Nakhshabî and Abû Sa'îd Kharrâz (No. 194), and contemporary with Shaikh Junaid (No. 29), died A. H. 290, on fol. 89a.

198. Shaikh Abûbakr Daḳḳâḳ, with his real name: Muḥammad bin 'Abdallâh, contemporary with Abû-alḥusain Nûrî and Abû Ḥamzah Khurâsânî, died A. H. 290, on fol. 89b.

199. Ibrâhîm alkhawwâṣ, with the Kunyah Abû Isḥâḳ, of Baghdâd, belonging to the same group of friends and contemporaries as the previous Shaikhs; he died A. H. 291, and the statement of a conversation between him and Abû-alḥasan Kharaḳânî who died A. H. 425 (No. 67) must needs be wrong, unless a mere spiritual intercourse is meant, on fol. 89b.

200. Zakariyyâ bin Dulûya (دلويه), with the Kunyah Abû Yaḥyâ, of Nishâpûr, died A. H. 294, on fol. 90a.

201. Abû-alḥasan (according to Nos. 196, 198, and 222, and the Nafaḥât-aluns: Abû-alḥusain) Nûrî, with his real name: Aḥmad bin Muḥammad or Muḥammad bin Muḥammad, known as Ibn Baghawî, his father having been a native of Baghshûr between Harât and Marw (see on Baghshûr, also called Bagh, with the nisbah Baghawî, Barbier de Meynard's Dictionnaire géographique etc., p. 109); he was born and brought up at Baghdâd, pupil of Sarî Saḳaṭî, friend of Muḥammad bin 'Alî Ḳaṣṣâb and Aḥmad bin (Abî) alḥawârî (No. 172), and contemporary with Shaikh Junaid and Dhû-alnûn Miṣrî; the Shaikhs of his time gave him the honorary epithet of امير القلوب or prince of hearts; he instituted the طريقة نوريّة, and died A. H. 295 (others fix, less correctly, his death in A. H. 286), on fol. 90a.

202. Shaikh 'Amr (in the following copy 'Umar) bin 'Uthmân Makkî Ṣûfî, with the Kunyah Abû 'Abdallâh, pupil of Junaid, and teacher of Ḥusain bin Manṣûr Ḥallâj (No. 211), died in Baghdâd, A. H. 296 (according to others, A. H. 291 or most likely 297, the same year in which Junaid died), on fol. 90b.

203. Abû 'Uthmân Wâ'iẓ, with his real name: Sa'îd bin Isma'îl bin (Sa'îd bin) Manṣûr, born and brought up in Rai, lived afterwards in Nishâpûr, where he died, A. H. 298, on fol. 91a.

204. Samnûn bin Muḥibb (according to the Nafaḥât-aluns: bin Ḥamzah almuḥibb) Kadhdhâb, with the Kunyah Abû-alḥusain or Abû-alḥasan (according to others Abû-alḳâsim), friend of Sarî Saḳaṭî (No. 28), Muḥammad bin 'Alî Ḳaṣṣâb, and Abû Aḥmad Ḳalânisî, died A. H. 298, on fol. 91a.

205. Abû 'Uthmân Ḥîrî, with his real name: Sa'îd bin Isma'îl Ḥîrî Nishâpûrî (Ḥîrah is a quarter of Nishâpûr), originally of Rai, pupil of Shâh Shujâ' (No. 187), Abû Ḥafṣ Ḥaddâd (No. 184), and Yaḥyâ bin Ma'âdh Râzî (No. 183, in the following copy the latter two are called his friends, not his teachers), and friend of Shaikh Junaid, Ruwaim (No. 143), Yûsuf bin Ḥusain (No. 208), and Muḥammad bin Faḍl Balkhî (No. 217), died in Rabî'-alawwal, A. H. 298, on fol. 91a.

206. Shaikh Aḥmad bin Muḥammad bin Masrûḳ, with the Kunyah Abû-al'abbâs, originally of Ṭûs, teacher of Shaikh 'Alî Rûdbârî and pupil of Ḥârith Muḥâsabî (No. 176), died A. H. 299 (this Shaikh is entirely wanting in the following copy), on fol. 91b.

207. Ṭalḥah (so to be read instead of طلحى both in text and index, according to the Nafaḥât-aluns) bin Muḥammad Ṣabâḥ Nîlî, pupil of Shaikh Abû 'Uthmân Ḥîrî (No. 205), died A. H. 302, on fol. 91b.

208. Yûsuf bin Ḥusain Râzî, with the Kunyah Abû Ya'ḳûb, pupil of Dhû-alnûn Miṣrî, and follower of Imâm Ḥanbal, died A. H. 303 or 304, on fol. 92a.

209. Abû-al'abbâs Bustî, with his real name: 'Abdallâh bin Muḥammad bin Nâfi' (bin Muḥammad, as the following copy adds) Mukarram, died in Ramaḍân or Muḥarram, A. H. 304, on fol. 92a.

210. Abû 'Abdallâh bin Jallâ (so according to No. 224, the following copy and the Nafaḥât-aluns, No. 1412, fol. 58b; the text here has جلد instead of جلّاء), with his real name: Aḥmad bin Yaḥyâ, originally of Baghdâd, lived in Ramlah (near Damascus), pupil of Abû Turâb Nakhshabî (No. 178) and Dhû-alnûn Miṣrî, and friend of Junaid and Nûrî (No. 201), died A. H. 306, on fol. 92a.

211. Ḥusain bin Manṣûr Ḥallâj, with the Kunyah Abû-almughîth, originally of Baiḍâ in Fârs; the views of the greatest Ṣûfic Shaikhs are utterly at variance with regard to his spiritual authority; some, like his own Pîr 'Amr bin 'Uthmân Makkî (No. 202), Abû Ya'ḳûb Nahrajûrî (No. 228), and 'Alî bin Sahl (in the following copy again Suhail, comp. No. 193) Iṣfahânî, reject him altogether; whereas Shaikh Abûbakr Shiblî (No. 30), Abû-al'abbâs bin 'Aṭâ (in the following copy incorrectly 'Aṭṭâr, No. 212), Shaikh 'Abdallâh (correctly Abû 'Abdallâh in the following copy) bin Khafîf (No. 144), Shaikh Abû-alḳâsim Naṣrâbâdî (No. 267), Shaikh Abû Sa'îd bin Abû-alkhair (No. 294), Khwâjah 'Abdallâh Anṣârî (No. 300), Shaikh Abû-alḳâsim Gurgânî and Pîr 'Alî Hujwîrî, the author of the كشف المحجوب (No. 298), fully believe in him. Khwâjah Muḥammad Pârsâ (No. 83) in his فصل الخطاب refutes the common idea that Shaikh Junaid had written a fatwâ for the execution of Ḥallâj, by simply referring to the fact of Junaid having died eleven or twelve years before his alleged victim. Ḥallâj was put to death in Baghdâd on the 25th of Dhû-alḳa'dah, A. H. 309, on fol. 92b.

212. Shaikh Abû-al'abbâs bin 'Aṭâ, with his real name: Muḥammad bin Aḥmad of Baghdâd, friend of Junaid and Shaikh Abû Sa'îd Kharrâz (No. 194), died in Dhû-alḳa'dah, A. H. 309 (according to others, but less correctly, A. H. 311, in the following copy this Shaikh is wanting), on fol. 93a.

213. Abûbakr Râzî, with his real name: Muḥammad bin Zakariyyâ, died A. H. 310, on fol. 93a.

214. Abû-alkhair Ḥimṣî, died A. H. 310, on fol. 93b.

215. Abû Muḥammad Jurairî (جريرى, in the following copy Ḥarîrî, حريرى), with his real name: Aḥmad bin Muḥammad bin Ḥusain (according to others: Ḥusain bin Muḥammad, and even: 'Abdallâh bin Yaḥyâ), one of the most excellent pupils of Shaikh Junaid and friend of Sahl bin 'Abdallâh Tustarî (No. 193), died A. H. 312 (according to others, A. H. 314), on fol. 93b.

216. Nabân bin Muḥammad alḥammâl, originally of Wâsiṭ, lived in Miṣr, was a friend of Shaikh Junaid, and one of the spiritual teachers of Nûrî (No. 201), died in Ramaḍân, A. H. 316, on fol. 93b.

217. Muḥammad bin Faḍl (Fuḍail in the following copy), with the Kunyah Abû 'Abdallâh, born in Balkh and pupil of Shaikh Aḥmad bin Khiḍrawaih (No. 174), died A. H. 319, and was buried in Samarḳand, on fol. 93b.

218. Abû-alḥusain (in the following copy and the Nafaḥât-aluns: Abû-alḥasan) Warrâḳ, with his real name: Muḥammad bin Sa'd, one of the great Shaikhs of Nîshâpûr, pupil of Abû 'Uthmân Ḥîrî (No. 205), died A. H. 319, on fol. 94a.

219. Shaikh Abû-alḥasan aldarrâj, born in Baghdâd, was a pupil of Ibrâhîm Khawwâṣ (No. 199), and died A. H. 320, on fol. 94a.

220. Shaikh Abû 'Umar (in the following copy Abûbakr) Dimishḳî, friend of Abû 'Abdallâh bin Jallâ (No. 210), and one of the companions of Dhû-alnûn Miṣrî, died A. H. 320, on fol. 94a.

221. Shaikh Khair alnassâj, with the Kunyah Abû-alḥasan, and the real name of Muḥammad bin Isma'îl, originally of Sâmirah, lived in Baghdâd and was a pupil of Sarî Sakaṭî, as well as a contemporary of Shaikh Junaid, Ibrâhîm Khawwâṣ (No. 199), and Shiblî, died 120 years old, A. H. 322, on fol. 94a.

222. Shaikh Abûbakr alwâsiṭî, with his real name: Muḥammad bin Mûsâ, known as Ibn Farghânî, one of the old companions of Shaikh Junaid and Abû-alḥusain (or Abû-alḥasan, as the following copy has) Nûrî (No. 201), died in Marw, A. H. 320 (according to others, after A. H. 320), on fol. 94b.

223. Shaikh Abûbakr Kitâbî (كتابى, in the following copy and the Nafaḥât-aluns Katânî, كتانى), with his real name: Muḥammad bin 'Alî bin Ja'far, originally of Baghdâd, pupil of Shaikh Junaid, honoured by the epithet چراغ حرم, because he spent 30 years in the حرم or precincts of the temple of Makkah, and died there, A. H. 322, on fol. 94b.

224. Shaikh Ibrâhîm bin Dâ'ûd alḳaṣṣâr alraḳḳî (so according to the Nafaḥât-aluns, No. 1412, fol. 81b marginal gloss; the text here has الزنى or الزقى), with the Kunyah Abû Isḥâḳ, one of the Syrian Shaikhs, contemporary with Junaid, Dhû-alnûn Miṣrî, and Abû 'Abdallâh bin Jallâ (No. 210), died A. H. 326, on fol. 95a.

225. Abû-alḥasan (according to the Nafaḥât-aluns, No. 1412, fol. 80a, Abû-alḥusain) bin Muḥammad almuzayyin (المزين), with his real name 'Alî, of Baghdâd, friend of Junaid and Sahl (in the following copy again Suhail) bin 'Abdallâh Tustarî (No. 193); there are said to have been two Shaikhs with the name Muzayyin, viz. Muzayyin-i-Kabîr and Muzayyin-i-Ṣaghîr, the greater and the smaller Muzayyin; the present Shaikh is Muzayyin-i-Ṣaghîr, who died in Makkah, A. H. 327 or 328, on fol. 95a.

226. Abû 'Alî Thaḳafî (ثقفى, confirmed by a marginal gloss in the Nafaḥât-aluns, No. 1412, fol. 97b; in the text of the Nafaḥât and the following copy الشقفى), with his real name: Muḥammad bin 'Abd-alwahhâb, contemporary with Abû Ḥafṣ Ḥaddâd (No. 184) and Ḥamdûn Ḳaṣṣâr (No. 188), died A. H. 328 (so correctly according to the following copy, instead of 308 سبعد وعشت, as is written here), on fol. 95b.

227. Shaikh Abû Muḥammad Murta'ish, with his real name: 'Abdallâh bin Muḥammad Nîshâpûrî, lived in Baghdâd, and was a pupil of Abû Ḥafṣ Ḥaddâd and of Shaikh Junaid (No. 29); he died A. H. 328, on fol. 95b.

228. Shaikh Abû Ya'ḳûb Nahrajûrî, with his real name: Isḥâḳ bin Muḥammad, pupil of Abû Ya'ḳûb Ṣûfî and friend of Junaid and 'Amr (in the following copy again 'Umar) bin 'Uthmân (No. 202), stayed many years in Makkah, and died there A. H. 330, on fol. 95b.

229. Shaikh Abû-alḥasan alṣâ'igh (الصائغ) Dînawarî, with his real name: 'Alî bin Muḥammad bin Suhail (in the Nafaḥât-aluns, No. 1412, fol. 80b, Sahl), lived in Miṣr, pupil of Shaikh Abû Ja'far Ṣaidalânî (in the following copy Ṣailânî), and spiritual guide of Abû-alḥasan (according to others Abû-alḥusain) Karâfî (قرافى, nisbah of قرافه, a town in Egypt) and Abû 'Uthmân Maghribî; he died the 15th of Rajab, A. 253. Shaikh Abûbakr aldaḳḳî, with his real name: Muḥammad bin Dâ'ûd Dimishḳî (others call him Dînawarî), pupil of Zakkâk-i-Kabîr, lived in Syria and died there, 120 years old, A. H. 359; he had enjoyed personal acquaintance with Junaid, on fol. 99a.

254. Abû-alḥasan (Abû Ḥusain in the following copy) bin Sâlim Baṣrî, the last pupil of Sahl (again Suhail in the following copy) bin 'Abdallâh Tustarî (No. 193) and teacher of Abû Ṭâlib Makkî (No. 278), died A. H. 360, on fol. 99a.

255. Abûbakr Mufîd, with his real name: Muḥammad bin Aḥmad bin Ibrâhîm, born in Jarjarâbâd, had personally known Yûsuf bin Ḥusain (No. 208) and Junaid, died A. H. 364, on fol. 99a.

256. Shaikh Isma'îl Nishâpûrî, died A. H. 365, on fol. 99a.

257. Abû 'Umar (according to the Nafaḥât-aluns, No. 1412, fol. 108a, Abû 'Amr) bin Nujaid, with his real name: Isma'îl bin Nujaid bin Aḥmad alsullamî, the grandfather of Shaikh Abû 'Abd-alraḥmân Sullamî (No. 284), had personally known Shaikh Junaid, died A. H. 365 or 366, on fol. 99a.

258. Abû 'Abdallâh Mukrî, with his real name: Muḥammad bin Aḥmad almukrî (Nafaḥât-aluns, No. 1412, fol. 127a, almaghribî), friend of Abû Yûsuf (in the following copy Yûsuf) bin Ḥusain, 'Abdallâh Kharrâz of Rai, Muẓaffar Kirmânshâhî, Ruwaim, Jurairî, Ibn 'Aṭâ, and others, died A. H. 366, on fol. 99b.

259. Abûbakr Ḳaṭî'î, Ḥâfiẓ and Imâm of Baghdâd, was in the science of tradition (حديث) a pupil of 'Abdallâh bin Aḥmad bin Ḥanbal and had also personally known Shaikh Junaid; he died in Baghdâd, Dhû-alḥijjah, A. H. 360 (a mistake for A. H. 368, see the Nafaḥât-aluns, No. 1412, fol. 96a), on fol. 99b.

260. Shaikh Abû Muḥammad (Abû Aḥmad in the following copy), son of Muḥammad bin 'Îsâ Nishâpûrî, died A. H. 368 (so to be read according to the following copy, instead of 308 سيصد و هشت, the word شصت being omitted), on fol. 99b.

261. Abû 'Abdallâh Rûdbârî, with his real name: Aḥmad bin 'Aṭâ, one of the Syrian Shaikhs, lived in Ṣûr (Tyrus) and died there, A. H. 369; his grave is now covered by the sea, on fol. 99b.

262. Abû Sahl (in the following copy again Abû Suhail) Ṣa'lûkî (صعلوكى=فقير), with his real name: Muḥammad bin Sulaimân Ṣa'lûkî al-faḳîr, born in Nishâpûr, A. H. 290, died 79 years old, A. H. 369; he was a friend of Shiblî, Murta'ish (No. 227), and Abû

'Alî Thakafî (or Shafakî, as the text of the Nafaḥât-aluns spells the name again, No. 1412, fol. 146b; comp. No. 226 above), on fol. 99b.

263. Shaikh Ibrâhîm bin Thâbit, with the Kunyah Abû Isḥak, friend and older contemporary of Shaikh Abû 'Abd-alraḥmân Sullamî (comp. No. 257), died A. H. 369, on fol. 99b.

264. Shaikh Abûbakr Warrâḳ, with his real name: Muḥammad bin 'Umar alḥakîm, originally of Tirmidh, but lived in Balkh; he was the pupil of Muḥammad bin 'Alî Ḥakîm Tirmidhî (No. 182), and the author of a diwân and of several other works; he had studied the Pentateuch, the Gospels, and Psalms, died A. H. 370 and was buried in Tirmidh, on fol. 100a.

265. Abûbakr Farrâ (the following copy has an incorrect فرار), with his real name: Muḥammad bin Aḥmad bin Ḥamdûn Farrâ, of Nishâpûr, friend of Abû 'Alî Thakafî (here the Nafaḥât-aluns, No. 1412, fol. 92b, also read distinctly ثقفي, see No. 226 above), 'Abdallâh Manâzil (No. 231), Abûbakr Shiblî, Abûbakr bin Ṭâhir Abharî (No. 230), and Murta'ish (No. 227), died A. H. 370, on fol. 100a.

266. Abû-alḥusain Ḥusrî, with his real name: 'Alî bin Ibrâhîm, originally of Baṣrah, lived in Baghdâd; he was a Ḥanbalite, pupil of Shaikh Shiblî, and died in Dhû-alḥijjah, A. H. 371, on fol. 100a.

267. Abû-alḳâsim Naṣrâbâdî, with his real name: Ibrâhîm bin Muḥammad bin Maḥmûyah (مَحْمُوَيه), born in Nishâpûr, pupil of Shaikh Shiblî and friend of Abû 'Alî Rûdbârî (No. 68), Murta'ish, and Abûbakr bin Ṭâhir Abharî; at the end of his life he settled in the holy precincts of Makkah; he died, according to the Nafaḥât-aluns, A. H. 372, according to Yâfi'î, the محاسن الاخبار, and others in the month Rabî'-alawwal, A. H. 367, which seems to be more correct, on fol. 100a.

268. Abûbakr altarsûsî, with his real name: 'Alî bin Aḥmad bin Muḥammad Ṭarsûsî; he was a disciple of Abû-alḥaramain (probably Abû-alḥusain, as the following copy reads) Mâlikî, friend of Ibrâhîm bin Shaibân Kirmânshâhî (No. 232), and received the nickname of طاوس الحرمين, 'the peacock of the two holy places (Makkah and Madînah),' in consequence of a lengthened stay in Makkah; he died A. H. 374 and was buried in Makkah, on fol. 100b.

269. 'Abd-alwâḥid bin 'Alî alsayyârî, nephew and pupil of Abû-al'abbâs Sayyârî (No. 240), died A. H. 375 (the following copy has—no doubt incorrectly—370), on fol. 100b.

270. Shaikh Abû 'Abdallâh albarḳî, born in Barḳ, a suburb of Khwârizm, where he also spent his life; he died A. H. 376, on fol. 100b.

271. Abû Naṣr Sarrâj, with his real name: 'Abdallâh bin 'Alî altûsî, with the nickname طاوس الفقرا, 'the peacock of the dervishes;' among his numerous works is the كتاب لمع on Ṣûfism; he was a pupil of Abû Muḥammad Murta'ish (No. 227) and had personally known Sarî Saḳaṭî (†see No. 28) and Sahl (in the following copy again Suhail) Tustarî (No. 193), died in Ṭûs, A. H. 370 (correctly 378, as the following copy has), on fol. 100b.

272. Abû-alḳâsim Râzî, with his real name: Ja'far bin Aḥmad bin Muḥammad, lived in Nishâpûr and was a friend of Ibn 'Aṭâ (No. 212), Muḥammad bin Abî-aljawârî (correctly alḥawârî, as in No. 172), and Abû 'Alî Rûdbârî (No. 68), died in Rai, A. H. 378, on fol. 101a.

273. Abû-alḳâsim almuḳrî, with his real name: Ja'far bin Aḥmad bin Muḥammad almuḳrî, brother of Abû 'Abdallâh Muḳrî (No. 258), one of the Shaikhs of Khurâsân and friend of Ibn 'Aṭâ, Jurairî, Abûbakr bin Abî Sa'dân, Abû 'Alî Rûdbârî, and Abûbakr Mamshâd, died in Nishâpûr, A. H. 378, on fol. 101a.

274. Abûbakr Kalâbâdî (كلابادى), with his real name: Muḥammad bin Ibrâhîm bin Ya'ḳûb alkalâbâdî albukhârî, author of a كتاب تعرّف, died in Bukhârâ the 19th of Jumâdâ-alawwal, A. H. 380 (according to others A. H. 384 or 385), on fol. 101a.

275. Shaikh Abû-alkhair (ابو الخير, so according to the index on fol. 2a, the following copy, and the Nafaḥât-aluns, No. 1412, fol. 102b, last line; the text here reads Abû-aljunaid, ابو الجنيد) Ḥabashî, with the nickname of طاوس الحرمين (like Abûbakr altarsûsî, see No. 268; but a marginal note in the Nafaḥât-aluns, No. 1412, fol. 103a, declares this to be a mistake), for sixty years he stayed in the holy places and died in Makkah, A. H. 383, on fol. 101a.

276. Aḥmad bin Ibrâhîm almusawwamî (المسوّمى, in the following copy متوّمى), with the Kunyah Abû 'Alî, one of the Shaikhs of Baghdâd, died 83 years old, A. H. 386, in the month Sha'bân; he is called here a friend of Shaikh Sarî Saḳaṭî, which is an impossibility, since that Shaikh died fifty years before Aḥmad bin Ibrâhîm was born (see No. 28), on fol. 101b.

277. Shaikh Abû-alḥusain bin Sam'ûn, with his real name Muḥammad (in the Nafaḥât-aluns more fully: Muḥammad bin Aḥmad bin Isma'îl bin Sam'ûn) and the Laḳab ناطق بالحكمة, 'wisdom-speaking,' a contemporary of Shaikh Shiblî, born A. H. 300, died 15th of Dhû-alḳa'dah or Dhû-alḥijjah, A. H. 386 or 387, on fol. 101b.

278. Shaikh Abû Ṭâlib Makkî, with his real name: Muḥammad bin 'Alî bin 'Aṭiyyah alḥârithî, pupil of Shaikh Abû-alḥasan (or Abû-alḥusain) Muḥammad bin Abî 'Abdallâh Aḥmad bin alsâlim albaṣrî, died in Jumâdâ-alâkhar, A. H. 386, on fol. 102a.

281. Khwâjah Yaḥyâ bin 'Ammâr alshaibânî, originally of Sijistân; he had personally known Shaikh Abû 'Abdallâh bin Khafîf (No. 144), and Khwâjah 'Abdallâh Anṣârî (No. 300) had known him when a boy; he died A. H. 402, on fol. 102a.

282. Shaikh 'Uthmân bin Abû 'Amr (Abû 'Umar in the following copy) Bâḳilânî, died in Rajab, A. H. 402, 84 years old, on fol. 102a.

283. Shaikh Abû 'Alî Daḳḳâḳ, with his real name: Ḥasan bin Muḥammad Daḳḳâḳ, pupil of Shaikh Abû-alḳâsim Naṣrâbâdî (No. 267); Abû-alḳâsim Ḳushairî (No. 299) was his disciple and son-in-law; Abû 'Alî died in Nishâpûr in the month Dhû-alḳa'dah, A. H. 405 or 406, on fol. 102b.

284. Shaikh Abû 'Abd-alraḥmân (comp. Nos. 257 and 263; in No. 294 and in the following copy simply 'Abd-alraḥmân) Sullamî, with his real name: Muḥammad bin Ḥusain bin Muḥammad bin Mûsâ Sullamî, pupil of Shaikh Abû-alḳâsim Naṣrâbâdî (No. 267) and Shaikh Shiblî; Shaikh Abû Sa'îd bin Abû-alkhair got his investiture from him, after the death of his Pîr Abû-alfaḍl; Abû 'Abd-alraḥmân is the author of the طبقات مشايخ and the تفسير حقائق, and died in Sha'bân, A. H. 412, on fol. 102b.

285. Shaikh Abû Sa'îd Mâlînî (Barbier de Meynard, Dictionnaire géographique etc. de la Perse, p. 511, calls him Abû Sa'd), with his real name: Aḥmad bin Muḥammad bin Aḥmad bin Isma'îl bin Ḥafṣ (حفص, so distinctly in the following copy; here is written حصيص or حصص), born in Mâlîn near Harât, died in Shawwâl, A. H. 412, in Egypt, on fol. 102b.

286. Abû-alḥasan (according to the following copy and the Nafaḥât-aluns Abû-alḥusain) bin Jahḍam Hamadânî, with his real name 'Alî, disciple of Kaukabî and Ja'far Khuldî (No. 246), author of a work حجّة الاسرار, in which the life and miracles of the Ghauth-alu'ẓam 'Abd-alḳâdir Jîlî are alleged to be related (sic! 'Abd-alḳâdir was born A. H. 470, i.e. 56 years after the death of his imaginary biographer Abû-alḥasan, see No. 36); he died A. H. 414, on fol. 102b.

287. Shaikh Abû 'Abdallâh Ṭâḳî (طاقی), with his real name: Muḥammad bin Faḍl bin Muḥammad alṭâḳî alsijistânî alharawî, pupil of Mûsâ bin 'Amrân Jîrafṭî (or according to a marginal note in the Nafaḥât-aluns, No. 1412, fol. 158a, Jîrufṭî, Jîraft or Jîruft being a town in Kirmân), died the 1st of Ṣafar, A. H. 416, in Harât, on fol. 103a.

288. Shaikh Abû 'Abdallâh Dâstânî, with his real name: Muḥammad bin 'Alî Dâstânî, and the Laḳab Shaikh-almashâyikh, contemporary with Abû-alḥasan Kharaḳânî (No. 67), died in Rajab, A. H. 417, 59 years old, on fol. 103a.

292. Shaikh Abû Isḥaḳ bin Shahriyâr Kâzarûnî, with his real name Ibrâhîm, originally of Fârs; Shaikh Abû 'Alî Ḥusain bin Muḥammad alfîrûzâbâdî alakkâr was his instructor in Ṣûfism; he had personally known Abû-alḥusain bin Jahḍam (No. 286), and died in Dhû-alḳa'dah, A. H. 426, on fol. 103b.

293. Shaikh Abû Manṣûr Muḥammad al-Anṣârî, the father of the famous Shaikh-alislâm Khwâjah 'Abdallâh Anṣârî (No. 300) and pupil of Sharîf Ḥamzah 'Aḳîlî as well as of Abû-almuẓaffar Tirmidhî, died in Sha'bân, A. H. 430, and was buried in Balkh by the side of Sharîf Ḥamzah 'Aḳîlî, on fol. 103b.

294. Shaikh Abû Sa'îd bin Abû-alkhair, the great rubâ'î-writer, with his real name Faḍl-allâh, born in Mahna in Khurâsân; he was first a pupil of Shaikh Abû-alfaḍl bin Ḥasan of Sarakhs (who himself had as teacher Abû Naṣr Sarrâj, No. 271, the pupil of Abû Muḥammad Murta'ish, No. 227, whose Pîr had been Shaikh Junaid Baghdâdî, No. 29), and after the death of that Shaikh he got his investiture from Shaikh (Abû) 'Abd-alraḥmân Sullamî (No. 284); he also studied one year with Abû-al'abbâs Ḳaṣṣâb Âmulî; he was born A. H. 357, and died the 4th of Sha'bân, A. H. 440, 1000 months old (=83 years and 4 months), on fol. 104a.

295. Shaikh 'Ammû (عمّو, not عمور, as the following copy has), a nickname (paternal uncle) given to Aḥmad bin Muḥammad bin Ḥamzah Ṣûfî, with the Kunyah Abû Isma'îl, by Shaikh Abû-al'abbâs Nahâwandî (No. 145); he died in Rajab, A. H. 441, 92 years old, on fol. 105a.

296. Shaikh Abû 'Abdallâh (in the following copy 'Abdallâh) Ibn Bâkûyah (ابن باكويه), with his real name: 'Alî bin Muḥammad bin 'Abdallâh; he had, in his youth, personally known Shaikh Abû 'Abdallâh bin Khafîf (No. 144) and had friendly intercourse with Abû-alḳâsim Ḳushairî (No. 299), Shaikh Abû Sa'îd (No. 294), and Shaikh Abû-al'abbâs Nahâwandî; he died A. H. 442 in Shîrâz, on fol. 105a.

297. Shaikh Abû-alḥasan Rûzî, with his real name: 'Alî bin Maḥmûd bin Ibrâhîm (in the following copy: 'Alî bin Muḥammad bin Maḥmûd bin Ibrâhîm), pupil of Shaikh Abû-alḥasan (more correctly Abû-alḥusain) Ḥuṣrî (No. 266), and friend of 'Abd-alraḥmân (or Abû 'Abd-alraḥmân) Sullamî; he died in Ramaḍân, A. H. 451, 85 years old, on fol. 105a.

298. Ḥaḍrat Shaikh Pîr 'Alî Hujwîrî, son of 'Uthmân Ibn 'Alî aljullâbî alghaznawî, with the Kunyah Abû-alḥasan, the famous author of the كشف المحجوب, pupil of Shaikh Abû-alfaḍl bin Ḥasan (or Ḥusain) alkhuttalî (who himself was a pupil of Shaikh Ḥuṣrî, whose teacher had been Shaikh Shiblî); he was personally acquainted with Shaikh Abû-alḳâsim Gurgânî, Shaikh Abû Sa'îd bin Abû-alkhair, and Shaikh Abû-alḳâsim Ḳushairî, and followed the Ḥanafite doctrine; he spent a considerable time in Lâhûr and found there many disciples; he died either A. H. 456 or 464 in Lâhûr (see the objection to both these dates in Rieu i. p. 343), on fol. 105a.

299. Shaikh Abû-alḳâsim Ḳushairî, with his real name: 'Abd-alkarîm bin Hawâzin alḳushairî, one of the Shaikhs of Khurâsân and author of the رسالة قشيريّة and the تفسير لطائف الاشارات; he was the pupil and son-in-law of Shaikh Abû 'Alî Daḳḳâḳ (No. 283), and spiritual guide of Shaikh Abû 'Alî Fârmadî (No. 72), and died in Rabî'-alâkhar, A. H. 465, on fol. 106a.

300. Shaikh-alislâm Khwâjah 'Abdallâh Anṣârî, son of Abû Manṣûr Muḥammad Anṣârî (No. 293), with the Kunyah Abû Isma'îl, of Harât; he was a descendant of Abû Manṣûr Matt (مَتّ) alanṣârî ibn Abû Ayyûb Anṣârî, who, in the reign of the Khalîf 'Uthmân, went with Aḥnaf bin Ḳais to Khurâsân and settled in Harât, was born in Sha'bân, A. H. 396, and died, 85 years old, A. H. 481, 9th of Rabî'-alâkhar, on fol. 106a.

301. Abû-alḥasan Najjâr, died the 22nd of Dhû-alḥijjah, A. H. 481, 84 years old, on fol. 106b.

302. Abû Naṣr alharawî alkhânjabâdî (الخانجي بادى), with his real name: Muḥammad bin Aḥmad bin Abî Ja'far, originally of Kirmân, died 124 years old, in Khânjabâd, A. H. 500, on fol. 106b.

303. Ḥujjat-alislâm Imâm Muḥammad bin Muḥammad al-Ghazâlî alṭûsî, with the Kunyah Abû Ḥâmid and the Lakab Zain-aldîn, who had as teacher in Ṣûfism Shaikh Abû 'Alî Fârmadî (No. 72); he was a Shâfi'ite and author of many important works, for instance, the تفسير ياقوت التاويل in 40 volumes, the احياء العلوم, the جواهر القرآن, the كيميای سعادت, etc. (in the Nafaḥât-aluns there is added the مشكوة الانوار). He was a brother of Imâm Aḥmad Ghazâlî, was born A. H. 450, and died, 54 years old, the 14th of Jumâdâ-alâkhar, A. H. 505, in Baghdâd, on fol. 107a.

304. Abû-al'abbâs Ḥurrî, with his real name: Aḥmad bin Ja'far, died A. H. 507 (so correctly in the following copy; here is written by mistake پانصد و هفتاد), on fol. 107a.

305. Ḥakîm Sanâ'î Ghaznawî, with his real name: Abû-almajd Majdûd bin Âdam, the famous author of the 'Ḥadîḳah,' a pupil of Khwâjah Yûsuf Hamadânî (No. 73); his death is fixed here in A. H. 525, and this ta'rîkh is stated to be inscribed on Sanâ'î's tomb in Ghazna, which Dârâ Shukûh, the author of this work, states to have visited himself, on fol. 107a.

306. Shaikh Abû 'Abdallâh Juwainî (جوينى, so to be read instead of جونى, which is found both in index and text here, and also in the following copy), with his real name: Muḥammad bin Ḥummûyah (حمّويه), one of the Shaikhs of Khurâsân and friend of Shaikh Abû-alḥasan Bustî, died, 90 years old, A. H. 530, on fol. 107b.

307. Ḥaḍrat 'Ain-alḳudât of Hamadân, with his real name: Abû-alfaḍâ'il 'Abdallâh bin Muḥammad almiyânjî, a friend of Shaikh Muḥammad bin Ḥummûyah and Imâm Aḥmad Ghazâlî, author of various Arabic and Persian works, died A. H. 533, on fol. 107b.

308. Shaikh-alislâm Ḥaḍrat Shaikh Aḥmad-i-Jâm, son of Abû-alḥusain, with the Kunyah Abû Naṣr, born in Nâmaḳ near Jâm, a descendant of that Jarîr bin 'Abdallâh altajallî to whom the Khalîf 'Umar ibn al-Khaṭṭâb had given the name Yûsuf bin Ummat; he had 39 sons and 3 daughters, and 17 of these children (including the daughters) survived him; the mother of the emperor Akbar, the great-grandfather of the author of this work, was also a descendant of Shaikh Aḥmad-i-Jâm; Shaikh Ẓahîr-aldîn 'Îsâ, one of the Shaikh's sons, reports in his رموز الحقائق, that his father, during his lifetime, had brought 600,000 (in the following copy only 300,000) persons to repentance. According to a legend, told here in detail, Abû Sa'îd bin Abû-alkhair, who died one year before Aḥmad-i-Jâm's birth, had a prophetic vision of this coming great ornament of Ṣûfism, and charged in his last will his son Abû Ṭâhir (to whom he also afterwards appeared in a dream) to hand to Aḥmad-i-Jâm, as soon as he was grown up, his (the father's) own garment (خرقه) as token of investiture, a commission which was duly executed. One of the greatest pupils of Aḥmad-i-Jâm was Khwâjah Maudûd Ch'ishtî (No. 105). The Shaikh was born A. H. 441 and died, 95 years old, A. H. 536, on fol. 107b.

309. Shaikh Abû-al'abbâs bin 'Irrîf, with his real name: Aḥmad bin Muḥammad alṣanhâjî (الصنهاجي, so correctly in the following copy and in the Nafaḥât-aluns, No. 1412, fol. 250b, where the father's name is spelt 'Irîf) alandalusî, died A. H. 536, on fol. 108b.

310. 'Abd-alsalâm bin 'Abd-alraḥmân bin Abî-alrijâl allaḥmî alashbîlî (الاشبيلي, in the following copy الاشتلي), with the Kunyah Abû-alḥikam (or Abû-alḥakîm, as the following copy has), author of the شرح اسماء الحسنى, died A. H. 536, on fol. 108b.

311. Shaikh Abû-albayân bin Maḥfûẓ alḳurashî, called Ibn-aljawârî (alḥawârî?), died A. H. 551, on fol. 108b.

312. Shaikh 'Abd-alawwal bin 'Îsâ bin Shu'aib alsanjarî alharawî, with the Kunyah Abû-alwaḳt, was in the science of tradition a pupil of Jamâl-alislâm Dâ'ûdî and a friend of Khwâjah 'Abdallâh Anṣârî (No. 300); he went from Khurâsân to Baghdâd, was born in Dhû-alḳa'dah, A. H. 458, and died in Dhû-alḳa'dah, A. H. 553, in Baghdâd; 'Abd-alḳâdir Jîlânî (No. 36) read the burial service over his grave, which is close to that of Ruwaim (No. 143), on fol. 108b.

313. Shaikh Tâj-al'ârifîn Abû-alwafâ, with his real name, Kâkish (كاكيش), contemporary with 'Abd-alḳâdir Jîlânî, who visited him, when still young, in Baghdâd. Tâj-al'ârifîn, who recognised at once in 'Abd-alḳâdir the future spiritual greatness, demonstrated it to the audience of his majlis in a rather drastic way. He got 'Abd-alḳâdir twice turned out from the majlis, both times the youth humbly went out and humbly returned, and the third time the Shaikh embraced him and showed him to all people present as a really god-like man; Tâj-al'ârifîn died, more than 80 years old, after A. H. 500 (550?), in Baghdâd, on fol. 109a.

314. Shaikh 'Adî (عدى) bin almusâfir alshâmî (in the following copy, alshâfi'î) alhakkârî (الهكّارى), friend of 'Abd-alḳadir Jîlânî, Shaikh Ḥammâd Dabbâs (No. 35), one of the spiritual guides of the former, and 'Uḳail Manîjî (or Maniji, as it is pointed in the Nafaḥât-aluns, No. 1412, fol. 251b marginal gloss), went from Syria to the Hâkkarî hill near Mauṣil, and built there a cell for himself, where he died, A. H. 557, on fol. 109b.

315. Shaikh Mâjid Kurdî, pupil of Tâj-al'ârifîn Abû-alwafâ (No. 313), died A. H. 561 (560 in the following copy), on fol. 110a.

316. Sayyid Aḥmad bin Abû-alḥasan alrafâ'î, a descendant of the seventh Imâm Mûsâ Kâẓim (No. 11) and a direct successor in the spiritual leadership (through five generations) of Shaikh Shiblî (No. 30); he was a Shâfi'ite and died the 12th of Jumâdâ-alawwal, A. H. 578, more than 80 years old, on fol. 110b.

381. Zainab bint Jaḥsh, with the Kunyah Umm-alḥukm, whose mother Umaimah (in the following copy Aminah) bint 'Abd-almuṭṭalib was Muḥammad's aunt, the prophet's seventh wife, married to him in the month Dhû-alḳa'dah, A. H. 5; her original name was Barrah, and her first husband Zaid, Muḥammad's adopted son; she died A. H. 20 or 21, on fol. 126b.

382. Saudah, with the Kunyah Umm-alaswad, daughter of Rabi'ah bin Ḳais bin 'Abd Shams bin 'Abd . . . . bin Naṣr bin Mâlik bin Ḥanbal bin 'Âmir bin Luwayy bin Ghâlib alḳurashiyyah al'âmiriyyah, and Bint Ḳais bin 'Amr, Muḥammad's second wife, whom he married in the tenth year of his prophetic mission, shortly after Khadîjah's death; she died at the end of the Khalif 'Umar's reign or (according to a less trustworthy authority) during the reign of Mu'âwiyah, on fol. 127a.

383. Ṣafiyyah, daughter of Ḥayy bin Akhṭab bin Sa'batah (سعبتة) bin Tuḳailah (تقيلة) and Ḥurrah (so in the following copy حرة; here it is spelt خرة) bin Samwân (سموان, in the following copy سموال), a Jewess, Muḥammad's ninth wife; she died A. H. 36, or according to others, A. H. 50 or 52, or even, as some assert, in Khalif 'Umar's reign, on fol. 127a.

384. Umm Ḥabîbah, daughter of Abû Sufyân, and Ṣafiyyah bint al'âṣ (in the following copy Abi-al'âṣ) bin Umayyah bin 'Abd-alshams, the aunt of the Khalif 'Uthmân. Umm Ḥabîbah was Muḥammad's tenth wife, whom he married in her 35th year in Madînah, A. H. 7, her dowry was 400 gold dinârs, or according to others, 4000 silver dirhams; she died A. H. 42 or 44, on fol. 127b.

385. Ḥafṣah, daughter of 'Umar the second Khalif, and Zainab bint Maẓ'ûn bin Ḥabîb bin Wahab, Muḥammad's fourth wife, married to him A. H. 2 or 3; she was born 5 years before Muḥammad's prophetic mission, and died A. H. 45 or 47 (in the following copy a third alternative, viz. A. H. 41, is given), on fol. 127b.

386. Juwairiyyah, daughter of Ḥârith bin Abî Ḍarâr (Ḍarâri in the following copy) bin Ḥabîb bin 'Âbid bin Mâlik, married to Muḥammad as his eighth wife in Sha'bân, A. H. 5 or 6; she died in Madînah, A. H. 55 or 56, 65 years old, on fol. 127b.

387. Maimûnah, daughter of Ḥârith bin Ḥuzn bin Bahr bin al-Hazm, and Hind bint 'Auf bin Zamîr bin al-Ḥarb, married to the prophet as his eleventh wife, A. H. 7; she died, according to the most trustworthy authorities, A. H. 51, according to others, A. H. 61, 63 or 66, on fol. 128a.

388. Umm Salmah, with her real name: Hind bint Abî Umayyah, married to the prophet in Shawwâl, A. H. 4, as his sixth wife; she died the 3rd of Rabî'-alâkhar, A. H. 61 or 59, 84 years old; Abû Hurairah read the prayer over her body, on fol. 128a.

(b) The prophet's daughters.

389. Ḥaḍrat Fâṭimah Zahrâ, with the Kunyah Umm Muḥammad, and the Laḳabs Ṭâhirah, Zâkiyah, Râḍiyah, Marḍiyyah, and Batûl; she was the youngest daughter of the prophet, and married to 'Alî in Ramaḍân, A. H. 2, after his return from the battle of Badr, when she was 15 or (more correctly) 18 years old; she bore him three sons, Ḥasan, Ḥusain, and Muḥsin, and three daughters, Zainab, Umm Kulthûm, and Ruḳayyah; Muḥsin and Ruḳayyah died quite young; Zainab, who was married to 'Abdallâh Ja'far, and Umm Kulthûm, who was married to the (Khalif) 'Umar, left no children behind; Fâṭimah was born five years before Muḥammad's prophetic mission, and died the 3rd of Ramaḍân, A. H. 11, six months after the prophet's death, 28 years old, on fol. 128a.

390. Ḥaḍrat Zainab, the eldest daughter of the prophet, married to her cousin Abû-al'abbâs bin al-Rabî'; issue: one son, 'Alî, and one daughter, Imâmah, who became 'Alî's wife after Fâṭimah's death; the son, 'Alî, died when he had just reached manhood; Zainab was born before the prophetic mission, and died A. H. 8, on fol. 128b.

391. Ḥaḍrat Ruḳayyah, Muḥammad's second daughter, born after Zainab, married to the (Khalif) 'Uthmân, to whom she bore one son, who died in his second year; she was born before the prophetic mission, and died A. H. 2 (so correctly in the following copy: در سال دوم از هجرت; here is written by mistake: در سال هشتم از هجرت), on fol. 128b.

392. Ḥaḍrat Umm Kulthûm, Muḥammad's third daughter, born after Ruḳayyah, and before Fâṭimah; her real name was Âminah (آمنة, in the following copy Aminah, امينة); she was married to 'Uthmân after her sister Ruḳayyah's death, A. H. 3, and died A. H. 9, on fol. 129a.

(c) Other famous women.

393. Zâ'idah, a slave-girl of (the Khalif) 'Umar, on fol. 129a.

394. Shu'wânah (شُعْوَانة), a Persian by birth, settled in Ubullah (four farsangs from Baṣrah), where her majlis was frequented by many learned and pious men; she was contemporary with Fuḍail bin 'Iyâḍ (No. 96) and died A. H. 175, on fol. 129b.

395. Ḥaḍrat 'Uḳairah (عقيرة, in the Nafaḥât-aluns: 'Ufairah) al'âbidah, of Baṣrah, died A. H. 180, on fol. 129b.

396. Ḥaḍrat Râbi'a-i-'adawiyyah of Baṣrah, contemporary with Sufyân Thauri (No. 162); she was the fourth daughter of her father, therefore her name Râbi'ah; her pilgrimage to Makkah occupied 14 years, because at every step in the desert she said a full prayer. She died A. H. 185, on fol. 129b.

397. Nafiyyah (نفيّة, perhaps Naḳiyyah?) of Miṣr; Imâm Shâfi'i (No. 23) visited her, and when he died in Miṣr, his corpse was taken into her house; she died in Ramaḍân, A. H. 208. Her husband, Isḥaḳ bin Ja'far, wanted to bury her in Madînah, but the people of Miṣr insisted on her interment in their own city, on fol. 130b.

398. Fâṭimah of Nîshâpûr, dwelt for some time in the holy city of Makkah, and also in Jerusalem; Shaikh Bâyazid Bisṭâmi (No. 66), her contemporary, admired and praised her very much; she died A. H. 223, on fol. 131a.

399. Tuḥfah, originally a slave-girl, whose romantic rescue through the agency of Shaikh Sarî Saḳaṭî (No. 28) is here related with all details, on fol. 131a.

400. Umm 'Îsâ, daughter of Ibrâhîm Ḥarbî, a great authority in legal matters, died in Rajab (according to others, in Ramaḍân), A. H. 328, on fol. 133a.

401. Umm Muḥammad, the mother of Shaikh 'Abdallâh (or Abû 'Abdallâh) bin Khafîf (No. 144), in whose company she made by sea the pilgrimage to Ḥijâz, on fol. 133a.

402. Ummat-alwâḥid, with her real name ستيبه (in the following copy سنيبه), daughter of Ḥusain bin Isma'îl Ḥâkimi, famous as Ḳurân-reader, traditionist, legal authority, etc.; she died in Ramaḍân, A. H. 377, more than 90 years old, on fol. 133a.

403. Ummat-alsalâm, daughter of Ḳâḍî Abûbakr bin Kâmil bin Khalaf and disciple of Muḥammad bin Isma'îl بصلانی (in the following copy بصلافی); her pupils were Tanûkhî, Zâhidî, and Abû-al'alî; she was born in Rajab, A. H. 318 (the date is omitted here, in the following copy only هژده appears), and died in Rajab, A. H. 390, on fol. 133a.

404. Maimûna-i-Wâ'izah, daughter of Shâkûlah (شاقول, in the following copy شاقولی), and mother of 'Abd-alṣamad, died A. H. 393, on fol. 133b.

405. Khadîjah, with the Kunyah Umm Salmah, daughter of Mûsâ bin 'Abdallâh, died A. H. 407 (or according to the following copy, 437, چهار صد وسی و هفت, which is probably the correct reading), on fol. 133b.

406. Umm Muḥammad, the aunt of Shaikh 'Abd-alḳâdir Jîlânî, on fol. 133b.

407. Khadîja-i-Wâ'izah, daughter of Muḥammad bin 'Alî bin 'Abdallâh and intimate friend of Ibn Sam'ûn (No. 277), was born A. H. 374, died A. H. 460, 86 years old; she was buried by the side of Ibn Sam'ûn, on fol. 133b.

408. Karîmah of Marw, daughter of Aḥmad bin Muḥammad bin Abî Ḥâtim, died A. H. 460 or (according to the following copy) 463, on fol. 134a.

409. Fâṭima-i-Wâ'izah, daughter of Ḥusain bin Ḥasan bin Faḍlawaih (or Faḍlûyah), died A. H. 521, on fol. 134a.

410. Fâṭimah, daughter of Naṣr bin 'Aṭâ, who during her whole life had only three times left her house; she died A. H. 573, on fol. 134a. The author adds here a few remarks (taken from Imâm 'Abdallâh Yâfi'î's تاريخ and روض الرياحين) about a pious Egyptian woman, who stood for thirty years in the same place, unmoved by cold or heat, never sleeping and never taking any food, and about another woman in Khwârizm, who for twenty-five years neither slept nor ate; he also quotes (from Jâmî's Nafaḥât-aluns) a report of Abû Sa'îd bin Abû-alkhair's about a pious old lady in Marw.

411. Bibî Jamâl Khâtûn, daughter of Ḳâḍî Sâ'in-data (ساتين دته) and sister of Ḥaḍrat Miyân Mîr (No. 65), on fol. 134b; she was over 60 years old, and lived in Siwastân, when this work was composed in A. H. 1049.

No date; but this copy appears to be older than the following (dated) one, and is, with very few exceptions, much more correct in the spelling of names as well as in the dates.

No. 660, ff. 135, ll. 17; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 8¼ in. by 6¼ in.

648

Another copy of the same.

This copy concludes on fol. 129a, and is dated the 12th of Dhû-alḥijjah, A. H. 1120 (A. D. 1709, February 22), by 'Alâ-aldîn, known as Lâr Muḥammad bin 'Alî Riḍâ. Ff. 130–134 are written by quite a different hand, and filled with some traditions in Arabic, beginning: قال علی ابن ابی طالب رضی الله عنه وکرّم وجهه سمعت النبی الخ.

The proper order of the leaves is: ff. 1–89, 97–105, 90–96, 106–134.

No. 1363, ff. 134, ll. 17 (except ff. 130–134, ll. 10); clear Nasta'lîḳ; size, 8¼ in. by 5¼ in.

The same.

A very badly written copy, spoiled and damaged in many places. Dated the 20th of Rabî'-althânî, A. H. 1179 (A. D. 1765, October 6), by Faḍl-allâh, son of Ghulâm Mahdî (sixth year of Shâh 'Âlam's reign).

No. 1878, ff. 108, ll. 15–19; irregularly written, partly in careless Nasta'lîḳ, partly in Shikasta; size, 8¾ in. by 5 in.

Fâtiḥ-alḳulûb (فاتح القلوب).

History of the life and wonderful deeds of the great Shaikh Mîr 'Abdallâh ibn Mîr Muẓaffar alḥusainî altirmidhî (who died A. H. 1035=A. D. 1626, according to the two chronograms on fol. 19a: زدنیای دنی قطب زمان رفت and روضهٔ جاوید, a date also given in Beale's Oriental Biogr. Dictionary, p. 6b, whereas, according to another chronogram on the same page, viz. شیخ زمانه بود, and the statement on fol. 18b, line 7, see also Rieu i. p. 154a, his death took place ten years sooner, in A. H. 1025 =A. D. 1616), by one of his disciples, divided into twelve bâbs, and beginning: الحمد لله ..... بعد از بیان توحید وثنای باری عزّ اسمه و نعت سیّد المرسلین و خاتم النبیّین امیر المؤمنین و امامان دین علیهم السّلام و مدح اصحاب مستطاب الخ.

Mîr 'Abdallâh Tirmidhî, with the takhalluṣ Waṣfî, was a clever calligrapher, who got from the emperor Akbar the honorary epithet of Mushkîn Ḳalam, and a good poet too, see Rieu, loc. cit., and Bodleian Catal., No. 1894.

The last year that appears in this little work, mentioned as date of the death of one of the Shaikh's great pupils, is A. H. 1054 (A. D. 1644, 1645), on fol. 31a, l. 15.

This copy was finished the 23rd of Dhû-alḳa'dah, in the 20th year (either of Shâhjahân, which would be A. H. 1056=A. D. 1646, December 31, or more likely of 'Âlamgîr, A. H. 1087=A. D. 1677, January 27). On fol. 1b the work is simply styled: تاريخ میر عبد الله.

No. 645, ff. 32, ll. 17; Nasta'lîḳ; worm-eaten; size, 8¾ in. by 4¾ in.

Râḥat-alarwâḥ (راحت الارواح).

The life, miracles, and maxims of the great Ṣûfic Shaikh 'Azîz-allâh (born in Lâhûr, the 3rd of Jumâdâ II, A. H. 1047=A. D. 1637, October 23, died 37 years, 4 months and 17 days old, the 20th of Shawwâl, A. H. 1084=A. D. 1674, January 28), by Ḥâfiẓ Muḥammad Sa'îd bin Ḥâfiẓ (see fol. 2a, ll. 6 and 7; fol. 3a, line 4; and fol. 5a, line 4), who commenced the compilation of this work in the beginning of Rajab, A. H. 1084 (A. D. 1673, October 12), and finished it after some interval during prince Muḥammad Sulṭân's campaign against Kâbul, A. H. 1085 =A. D. 1674, 1675 (comp. fol. 4a, ll. 3 and 4, and fol. 253b, ll. 4 and 5). It is divided into the following five babs:

1. در تاریخ ولادت و احوال ایّام طفولیّت و اخذ نعمت آنحضرت از اعزّهٔ زمانه, on fol. 5b.

2. در معاش و لباس آنحضرت, on fol. 15a.
3. در اخلاق و شمائل و صرف اوقات وشمّهٔ از ریاضات آنحضرت, on fol. 20b.
4. در خوارق عادات آنحضرت, on fol. 52a.
5. در ملفوظات و تأریخ وفات آنحضرت, on fol. 133a.

Beginning: الحمد لله الذی ارسل عبده الذی هو عزیز الله الخ.

Dated the 11th of Jumâdâ I, A. H. 1108 (A. D. 1696, December 6).

No. 1165, ff. 255, ll. 11; large Nasta'lîḳ; size, 9½ in. by 6 in.

Manâḳib-alḥaḍarât (مناقب الحضرات).

A more modern history of the great Shaikhs of the Naḳshbandî order, especially of Shaikh Aḥmad Fârûḳî, who died in Sirhind, A. H. 1034 or 1035 = A. D. 1625 or 1626 (referred to as حضرت ایشان), Shaikh Muḥammad Sa'îd Ma'ṣûm 'Umarî, the son of the preceding Shaikh, who died, according to Beale, Oriental Biogr. Dictionary, p. 190b, A. H. 1079 = A. D. 1668 (simply styled مخدومی or معصوم الزمانی), and Shaikh Âdam Naḳshbandî (called سیّدی or خلیفهٔ الزمانی), the same who wrote in A. H. 1035–1037 (A. D. 1626–1628) the خلاصة المعارف, their contemporaries and disciples. The full title of the book is: مناقب آدمیّه و حضرات احمدیّه, and it is divided, according to the index on ff. 2b and 3a, into a muḳaddimah, three maṭlabs, eleven bâbs, and a khâtimah. But unfortunately the MS. is in a hopeless confusion; many leaves are misplaced, several lacunas are found besides, and a great number of catchwords being torn away, it is impossible to restore order. There are three distinct beginnings in the book, the first, on fol. 1b: الحمد لله ربّ العالمین والصلوة الخ; the second, on fol. 40b: الحمد لله ربّ العالمین الرّحمن الرّحیم مالك یوم الدین الخ; the third, on fol. 189b: الحمد لله الذی جعل الامکان مرآة للوجوب الخ.

Accordingly we have three large divisions, probably comprising the muḳaddimah, the three maṭlabs, and the khâtimah, respectively.

Muḳaddimah (در ترغیب بر محبّت نیکان و سبب تألیف این کتاب و مناقب سلسلهٔ نقشبندیّه و تنبیهات و فوائد ضروریّه), on fol. 3a.

Maṭlab I, in four faṣls, on fol. 163a, margin: faṣl 1. در مناقب اجمالیٔ حضرت شیخ احمد فاروقی, on fol. 163b; 2. در مناقب اجمالیٔ حضرت شیخ محمّد سعید عمری, on fol. 174b, margin; 3. در مناقب فضائل اجمالیٔ حضرت شیخ محمّد معصوم نقشبندی, on fol. 177a; 4. در فضائل اجمالیٔ بعضی از مشایخ خلیفهٔ الزمانی, on fol. 185a, margin.

Maṭlab II. در مناقب حضرت خلیفهٔ الزمانی, on fol. 188b, margin, in nine bâbs, only eight of which are found in this copy, viz. the first, on fol. 188b, margin; the third, on fol. 116a, margin; the fourth, on fol. 118a; the fifth, on fol. 122a, margin; the sixth, on fol. 129a, margin; the seventh, on fol. 133a, margin; the eighth, on fol. 140b, margin; and the ninth, on fol. 152b, margin.

The beginning of the third Maṭlab (در بیان احوال بعضی از خلفای ایشان) and of the Khâtimah (در بعضی از مکتوبات و ملفوظات عرفانیّه و سلوك و موعظه) cannot be traced anywhere; but the greater portion of both is undoubtedly contained in this copy. There appears an eleventh bâb, on fol. 49a: در بیان أحوال بعضی خلفا و یاران الخ, probably belonging to the third Maṭlab.

On fol. 189b, margin, in the third beginning, there seems to be given the author's name, viz. Muḥammad Murâd bin Ḥabîb-allâh bin Sa'dî, who is probably identical with the holy Shaikh of Kashmîr, Muḥammad Murâd Naḳshbandî, who died, according to Rieu i. p. 300a, A. H. 1134 (A. D. 1722); in the first beginning, on fol. 2b, margin, is stated, that this work is the third ḳism of the نتائج الحرمین.

It was written, according to the colophons on ff. 39b and 226a, in A. H. 1139 and 1140 (A. D. 1726–1728).

No. 1940, ff. 226, centre-column, ll. 13, and a margin-column, ll. 32–34; Nasta'lîḳ; many little damages throughout; size, 10½ in. by 6½ in.

Maṭlûb-alṭâlibîn (مطلوب الطالبین).

A detailed biography of the great Shaikh of the Ċishtî order, Niẓâm-aldîn Muḥammad Auliyâ, who was born in Badâ'ûn, the 27th of Ṣafar, A. H. 636 (A. D. 1238, October 9), became a pupil of Shaikh Farîd-aldîn Ganj-i-shakar, the 15th of Rajab, A. H. 655 (A. D. 1257, July 29), was nominated by him his Khalîfah or spiritual successor, the 2nd of Rabî'-alawwal, A. H. 656 (A. D. 1258, March 9), died the 18th of Rabî'-alâkhar, A. H. 725 (A. D. 1325, April 3), and was buried in Ghiyâthpûr, near Dihlî (see fol. 113b, line 11 sq., and compare the Safînat-alauliyâ, No. 114), together with a full account of his deeds and doctrines, of the other great Shaikhs of the Ċishtî order from Farîd-aldîn upwards, his relations and disciples, as well as of the pedigree of the compiler of this work, Muḥammad Bûlâḳ bin Shaikh Abû Muḥammad Khâlidî Dihlawî bin Shaikh 'Alî Akbar, who was a descendant of the hero of this biography, and completed this history of the life of his great ancestor A. H. 1111 = A. D. 1699, 1700 (see the two chronograms سلك نظامی and تحفه شد از برای طالبان on fol. 2a, line 9, and fol. 2b, line 2). Niẓâm-aldîn Auliyâ was the spiritual teacher of the two great poets of Dihlî, Amîr Khusrau and Amîr Ḥasan.

The work is divided into the following 17 maṭlabs:

1. Pedigree and birth of Niẓâm-aldîn, account of his parents, and genealogy of the author of this work (در بیان حسب و نسب و مولد سلطان المشایخ و اجمال احوال والدین شریفین وی و مجملا ذکر آبا و اجداد این احقر العباد راقم اوراق محمّد بولاقی الخ), on fol. 5b. Niẓâm-aldîn's father is called here Khwâjah Aḥmad bin Khwâjah 'Alî of Bukhârâ (died the 5th of Dhû-alḥijjah, A. H. 641 = A. D. 1244, May 15, five years after the birth of his son; his mother was Bibî Zalîkhâ).

2. Nizâm-aldîn's earlier education in the exact sciences (در بیان تعلّم و تفرّس سلطان المشایخ و تفصیل تحصیل علوم ظاهری وی), on fol. 10a.

3. Nizâm-aldîn's journey from Badâ'ûn to Dihlî, and thence to Ajwadhan, in Multân, to become a pupil of Shaikh Farîd-aldîn Ganj-i-shakar in Ṣûfic lore (در بیان پیدا آمدن محبّت شیخ الاسلام شیخ فرید گنجشکر در دل سلطان المشایخ و رسیدن وی بدان اخلاص از شهر بداون بشهر دهلی و از آنجا رو نهادن بطرف اجودهن که مسکن خاصّ شیخ فرید گنجشکر بود و هم مدفن اوست), on fol. 12a. The death of Farîd-aldîn Ganj-i-shakar, the pupil of Khwâjah Ḳuṭb-aldîn Bakhtiyâr Kâkî Ûshî and the spiritual guide of Nizâm-aldîn Auliyâ, is fixed in this work, on fol. 124a, in A.H. 668, the 5th of Muharram (A.D. 1269, September 4), instead of the usual date, given in all other biographies, see the Safînât-alauliyâ, No. 113, cf. A.H. 664=A.D. 1265, October 17 (comp. also No. 640 above in this Catalogue).

4. Nizâm-aldîn's arrival in Ajwadhan, and beginning of his studies under Farîd-aldîn Ganj-i-shakar (در بیان رسیدن سلطان المشایخ در شهر اجودهن وارادت آوردن وی در خدمت شیخ فرید الدین گنجشکر), on fol. 14a.

5. Nizâm-aldîn's steadiness, devotion, confidence, and obedience as Farîd-aldîn's pupil, the Shaikh's tender affection for him, explanation of the rules and rites of the Bai'at or initiation, the duties and relations of Pîr and Murîd, and account of Bibî Fâṭimah Sâm (در بیان رسوخیّت و قدوتیّت و اعتقاد و انقیاد سلطان المشایخ در خدمت پیر خود فرید الدین گنجشکر و شفقت و مرحمت شیخ در باب او و تشریح آداب بیعت و ارادت و توضیح حقوق پیری و مریدی و احوال حضرت بی‌بی فاطمه سام), on fol. 15a. Bibî Fâṭimah Sâm, a very spiritual woman, was the adopted sister of Shaikh Farîd-aldîn, and his brother Shaikh Najîb-aldîn Mutawakkil, see fol. 19a.

6. Nizâm-aldîn's nomination as Khalîfah of Farîd-aldîn, and explanation of the various kinds of the Khilâfat, the origin of the Khirḳah or devotee's garment, the Kulâh or cowl, and other matters pertaining thereto (در بیان یافتن خلافت سلطان المشایخ از خدمت پیر خود فرید الدین گنجشکر و وضوح اقسام خلافت و شروح اصل خرقه و کلاه و اسباب خلافت باطنی و غیره فوائد), on fol. 29b.

7. Nizâm-aldîn's setting up a Ṣûfic convent in Ghiyâthpûr, near Dihlî, and account of Shaikh Malikyâr-i-Parrân and Shaikh Abûbakr Ṭûsî Ḥaidarî (در بیان تشریف آوردن سلطان المشایخ در شهر دهلی از خدمت پیر خود شیخ فرید الدین گنجشکر و سکونت اختیار کردن در موضع غیاث‌پور باشارهٔ غیبی و موجب تعمیر خانقاه و اجمال احوال شیخ ملکیار پرّان و شیخ ابا بکر طوسی حیدری), on fol. 37a. The renowned Shaikh Nûr-aldîn Malikyâr-i-Parrân came from Lâr to Dihlî in the reign of Ghiyâth-aldîn Balban (A.H. 664-686=A.D. 1266-1287) and entered there into close friendship with Shaikh Abûbakr Ṭûsî Ḥaidarî, see fol. 40b.

8. Nizâm-aldîn's practice of poverty, resignation, trust in God, worship, ascetism, and spiritual exertions in his earlier years in Ajwadhan and Dihlî (در بیان فقر و قناعت و توکّل و اطاعت و بعضی ریاضات و مجاهدات اوائل حال سلطان المشایخ که در دیار اجودهن و دهلی کشیده و برآن شاکر و صابر مانده), on fol. 41a.

9. Nizâm-aldîn's offerings and donations, and princes coming to beg at his door, together with an account of the seven Sulṭâns of Dihlî, who were his contemporaries and partly hostile, partly friendly to him (در وضوح فتح و فتوح و بذل و ایثار و انعام و اطعام سلطان المشایخ و آمدن پادشاهان بامّید گدائی بر در او و اجمال احوال هفت سلاطین دهلی که معاصر آن حضرت بودند بعضی مخالف و بعضی مخلص), on fol. 46a. The seven Sulṭâns are: 1. Ghiyâth-aldîn Balban, reigned 21 years, and died A.H. 686 (A.D. 1287); 2. Mu'izz-aldîn Kaiḳubâd bin Nâṣir-aldîn, grandson of the former, the same to whom Amîr Khusrau dedicated his قران السعدین, reigned three years, and was killed A.H. 689 (A.D. 1290) by 3. Jalâl-aldîn Khiljî, one of his Amîrs, who became his successor, reigned six or seven years, and was in his turn killed in Ramaḍân, A.H. 695 (A.D. 1296, July), by 4. 'Alâ-aldîn, his nephew and son-in-law, who reigned twenty years, and died the 6th of Shawwâl, A.H. 715 (A.D. 1316, January 3; the usual date is A.H. 716=A.D. 1316, December 22); 5. Ḳuṭb-aldîn, son of the former, commonly known as Mubârakshâh, who killed his three brothers Khidrkhân, Shâdîkhân (both pupils of Shaikh Nizâm-aldîn), and Shihâb-aldînkhân; he was, contrary to his predecessors, hostile to the Shaikh, and was killed after a reign of four years and four months, A.H. 720=A.D. 1320 (so here distinctly; the usual date of his death is A.H. 721=A.D. 1321), by Khusraukhân, who usurped the throne for four months, after which he was slain in his turn by 6. Ghiyâth-aldîn Tughluḳ, the governor of Multân, who became king, A.H. 720 (again distinctly: در سنهٔ عشرین و سبعمائه یعنی در سال هفصد و بیست نه سپهر); he was crushed by the fall of a pavilion in A.H. 725 (A.D. 1325); 7. Muḥammad bin Ghiyâth-aldîn Tughluḳ (A.H. 725-752=A.D. 1325-1351), in the beginning of whose reign the Shaikh died.

10. Nizâm-aldîn's great forbearance with and kind affection to high and low, his intercourses with Shaikh Rukn-aldîn Abû-alfatḥ and their mutual humility and civility (در بیان تحمّل و تأمّل و بردباری و دلداری سلطان المشایخ که با خاصّ و عامّ داشت و ذکر بعضی مجالس که در میان سلطان المشایخ و شیخ رکن الدین ابو الفتح نبیرهٔ شیخ بهاء الدین زکریّا واقع شده و تواضع و سلوک نمودن این هردو بزرگ با یکدیگر), on fol. 55a. Shaikh Rukn-aldîn Abû-alfatḥ was the son of Shaikh Ṣadr-aldîn Ârif, and grandson of Shaikh Bahâ-aldîn Zakariyyâ; he died A.H. 735, the 9th of Jumâdâ-alawwal (A.D. 1335, January 5), comp. the Safînat-alauliyâ, No. 156.

11. Stories of Nizâm-aldîn's supernatural powers and the miracles worked by him, with an explanation of the various stages of the mystic road, the different kinds of Wilâyat or saintship, the terms Akṭâb or 'poles,' Abdâl or 'lieutenants,' the condition of the 'beloved,' and the like (در بیان حکایات تصرّفات و کشف کرامات سلطان المشایخ و تفصیل مراتب سلوك و اقسام ولایت و تفسیر تعداد اسامیهای اقطاب و ابدال و غیره که قیام عالم بوجود شان موقوف است و تشریح مرتبهٔ محبوبی یعنی معشوقی), on fol. 61b.

12. Nizâm-aldîn's Samâ' and some of its ceremonies (در بیان شنیدن سماع سلطان المشایخ و بعضی آداب آن), on fol. 76a.

13. Nizâm-aldîn's humility, asceticism, and devotions in his later years, and account of the prayers, fastings, and breviaries of himself and other Chishti Pirs (در بیان خشوع و خضوع و بعضی ریاضات و عبادات آخر عمر حضرت سلطان المشایخ و ترتیب و توصیف نماز وروزه واوراد که معمول آن حضرت و غیره پیران چشت است), on fol. 88b.

14. Nizâm-aldîn's last illness, death, and burial (در بیان حقائق زحمت کشیدن و خرامیدن سلطان المشایخ از دار دنیا سوی روضهٔ عقبی و کماهیّ تکفین و تجهیز وی), on fol. 108a.

15. Account of the prominent Shaikhs of the Chishti order, its fourteen Khânwâdas or families, and its fourteen branches (در بیان اجمال احوال هر یك از پیران شجرهٔ عالیهٔ چشتیّه و بعضی وطن و مسکن و مدفن و مدّت حیات و تاریخ وفات ایشان و مجملا مذکور چهار پیر و چهارده خاندان (خانوادهٔ in the index) اصل و آن (فروع in the index چهارده فرع)), on fol. 114b.

The chain of the Chishti Pirs is the usual one, but in an inverted order, comp. Rieu i. pp. 359 and 360b, viz. 1. Farîd-aldîn Ganj-i-shakar (see above in the third maṭlab), who had five sons, viz. (a) Shaikh Nasr-aldîn, the father of Maulânâ Kamâl-aldîn; (b) Shaikh Shihâb-aldîn; (c) Shaikh Badr-aldîn Sulaimân, who occupied his father's position with the consent of his brothers, and was succeeded by his famous son, Maulânâ 'Alâ-aldîn; (d) Shaikh Nizâm-aldîn, the father of Khwâjah Ibrâhîm, and grandfather of another renowned Shaikh, Maulânâ 'Aziz-aldîn; and (e) Shaikh Ya'kûb, the father of Maulânâ A'azz-aldîn (اعزّ الدین) and Khwâjah Kâḍî; and three daughters, viz. (a) Bibî Mastûrah; (b) Bibî Sharîfah, and (c) Bibî Fâṭimah, the wife of Maulânâ Badr-aldîn Isḥâk, and mother of Khwâjah Muḥammad and Khwâjah Mûsâ; 2. Khwâjah Kuṭb-aldîn Bakhtiyâr Kâkî, son of Khwâjah Kamâl-aldîn Aḥmad bin Mûsâ Ûshî (Ûsh is a village in Transoxania, according to others in Farghâna, see the Safînat-alauliyâ, No. 112); 3. Khwâjah Mu'în-aldîn Chishti, see the Safînat-alauliyâ, No. 110. His death is fixed here in A. H. 632, 6th of Rajab (A. D. 1235, March 27), that is, before Kuṭb-aldîn's, who died A. H. 633, 14th of Rabî'-alawwal (A. D. 1235, Nov. 27). 4. Khwâjah 'Uthmân Hârûnî (Hârûn is a village in Khurâsân, or according to others in Farghâna), see the Safînat-alauliyâ, No. 109. He died A. H. 607, 6th or 16th of Shawwâl (A. D. 1211, March 23 or April 2).

5. Khwâjah Ḥâji Sharîf Zandanî, see the Safînat-alauliyâ, No. 108. He died the 3rd or 6th of Rajab (year not known, سنهٔ وفاتش در نظر نیامد). 6. Khwâjah Kuṭb-aldîn Maudûd Chishti, see the Safînat-alauliyâ, No. 105. He was the son, pupil, and spiritual successor of Khwâjah Nâṣir Yûsuf (in No. 7, and in Rieu, loc. cit.: Abû Yûsuf) Chishti, and died the first of Rajab, A. H. 527 (A. D. 1133, May 8). 7. Khwâjah Nâṣir-aldîn Abû Yûsuf Chishti (in the Safînat-alauliyâ, No. 104, Yûsuf), son of Muḥammad Sim'ân, nephew, pupil, and spiritual successor of Khwâjah Abû Muḥammad Chishti, died A. H. 459, the 4th of Rabî'-alâkhar (A. D. 1067, February 22). 8. Khwâjah Abû Muḥammad (in the Safînat-alauliyâ, No. 103, Muḥammad) Chishti, whose death is fixed here in A. H. 414, the first of Rajab (A. D. 1023, September 19). 9. Khwâjah Abû Aḥmad Chishti (No. 102 in the Safînat-alauliyâ), father of the preceding and pupil of the following Shaikh, born A. H. 260, the 3rd of Jumâdâ-althânî (A. D. 874, March 26), died the 10th of Jumâdâ-althânî, A. H. 355 (A. D. 966, June 3). 10. Khwâjah Abû Isḥâk Shâmî, afterwards Chishti, pupil and spiritual successor of the following Shaikh; year of his death unknown (see the Safînat-alauliyâ, No. 101). 11. Khwajâh Mamshâd 'Ulû Dînawarî, pupil of the following Shaikh; year of his death likewise unknown (see the Safînat-alauliyâ, Nos. 100 and 140, where a distinction is made between 'Ulû Dînawarî and Mamshâd Dînawârî, the death of the latter being fixed in A. H. 299=A. D. 911, 912). 12. Khwâjah Hubairah Baṣrî, pupil of the following Shaikh, year of death again unknown (see the Safînat-alauliyâ, No. 99). 13. Khwâjah Ḥudhaifah Mar'ashî, pupil of the following Shaikh, year of death unknown (see the Safînat-alauliyâ, No. 98). 14. Khwâjah Ibrâhîm bin Adham, who got his tuition and investiture from the following Shaikh; his death is fixed here in A. H. 161, the first of Shawwâl=A. D. 778, July 2 (comp. the Safînat-alauliyâ, No. 97, and the Majma'-alauliyâ, third bâb, where he is incorrectly styled Ibrâhîm Adham). 15. Khwâjah Fuḍail bin 'Iyâḍ, pupil of the following Shaikh, he died in Muḥarram, A. H. 187=A. D. 803, January (see the Safînat-alauliyâ, No. 96). 16. Khwâjah 'Abd-alwâḥid bin Zaid, pupil of the following Shaikh; his death is fixed here in A. H. 176, the 27th of Ṣafar=A. D. 792, June 23 (comp. the Safînat-alauliyâ, No. 95). 17. Khwâjah Ḥasan Baṣrî, with the Kunyas Abû Sa'îd and Abû Muḥammad, died the first of Rajab, A. H. 110 (A. D. 728, Oct. 10), 89 years old (comp. the Safînat-alauliyâ, No. 19, and the Majma'-alauliyâ, second bâb). 18. Amir-almu'minîn 'Alî bin Abî Ṭâlib. 19. Muḥammad the prophet.

The fourteen families of the Chishti order are: 1. The Zaidîs, beginning with No. 16 in the preceding list of Chishti Shaikhs. 2. The 'Iyâḍîs, beginning with No. 15. 3. The Adhamîs, beginning with No. 14. 4. The Hubairîs, beginning with No. 12. 5. The Chishtîs, beginning with No. 11 (or 10). 6. 'Ajamîs, beginning with Ḥabîb-i-'ajamî, pupil of Ḥasan Baṣrî (see the Safînat-alauliyâ, No. 161). 7. The Ṭaifûrîs, beginning with Bâyazîd Bisṭâmî (see the Safînat-alauliyâ, No. 66, and the Majma'-alauliyâ, fifth bâb). 8. The Karkhîs, beginning with Ma'rûf Karkhî (see the Safînat-alauliyâ, No. 27, and the Majma'-alauliyâ, fourth bâb). 9. The Sakaṭîs, beginning with Sarî Sakaṭî (see the Safînat-alauliyâ, No. 28). 10. The Junaidis, beginning with Junaid Baghdâdi (see the Safinat-alauliyâ, No. 29, and the Majma'-alauliyâ, sixth bâb). 11. The Kâzarûnis, beginning with Abû Isḥâḳ Kâzarûni (see the Safinat-alauliyâ, No. 292). 12. The Ṭûsis, beginning with 'Alâ-aldin Ṭûsi, the pupil and spiritual successor of Shaikh Wajih-aldin Abû Ḥafṣ (see the Safinat-alauliyâ, No. 147). 13. The Suhrawardis, beginning with Ḍiyâ-aldin Abû Najib Suhrawardi, likewise a pupil and successor of Wajih-aldin Abû Ḥafṣ (see the Safinat-alauliyâ, No. 122). 14. The Firdausis, beginning with Najm-aldin Kubrâ Firdausi (see the Safinat-alauliyâ, No. 124).

The fourteen branch-families (خانوادهای or فروع, otherwise styled silsilas, i. e. subordinate orders, see Rieu i. p. 360b) are: 1. The Ḳâdiris or Ghauthis (قادریّهٔ غوثیّه), beginning with 'Abd-alḳâdir Jilâni (see the Safinat-alauliyâ, No. 36, and the Majma'-alauliyâ, eighth bâb). 2. The Yasawîs, beginning with Aḥmad Yasawi, the pupil and successor of Khwâjah Abû Yûsuf Hamadâni (usually called Yûsuf Hamadâni, comp. on both the Safinat-alauliyâ, Nos. 73 and 75, the Majma'-alauliyâ, seventh bâb, and the Maḳâmât-i-Sayyid Atâ'i, No. 644 in this Catalogue). 3. The Naḳshbandis, beginning with Bahâ-aldin Naḳshband (see the Safinat-alauliyâ, No. 82). 4. The Nûris, beginning with Abû-alḥasan Nûri (see the Safinat-alauliyâ, No. 201). 5. The Khiḍrawis, beginning with Aḥmad bin Khiḍrawaih (see the Safinat-alauliyâ, No. 174). 6. The Shaṭṭâris or 'Ishḳis (شطّاریّهٔ عشقیّه), beginning with 'Abdallâh Shaṭṭâr, the pupil and spiritual successor of Shaikh Muḥammad 'Ârif. 7. The Ḥusainis or Bukhâris (حسینیّهٔ بخاریّه), who trace their line from Sayyid Jalâl Makhdûm-i-Jahâniyân Bukhâri (see the Safinat-alauliyâ, No. 157) back to Imâm Ḥusain and 'Ali bin Abi Ṭâlib. 8. The Zâhidis, beginning with Khwâjah Badi'-aldin (in Rieu, loc. cit., Badr-aldin) Zâhid, the pupil and spiritual successor of Fakhr-aldin Zâhid. 9. The Anṣâris, beginning with 'Abdallâh Anṣâri (see the Safinat-alauliyâ, No. 300). 10. The Ṣafawis, beginning with Ṣafi-aldin Isḥâḳ Ardabili, pupil, son-in-law, and successor of Shaikh Zâhid Ibrâhîm Jîlâni. 11. The 'Aidarûsis, beginning with Sayyid 'Abdallâh 'Aidarûsi, the pupil and successor of Shaikh Abûbakr. 12. The Ḳalandaris, beginning with Shaikh Ḥaidar Ḳalandar and Shâh Ḥusain Balkhi Ḳalandar; this order, often called the Ḳalandari and Ċishti branch (خانوادهٔ چشتیّهٔ قلندریّه) was spread in India by Shâh Khiḍr-i-Rûmi, a pupil of Khwâjah Ḳuṭb-aldin Bakhtiyâr Kâki (No. 2 in the list of Pirs above; comp. also Bodleian Cat., No. 1997). 13. The Uwaisis, who trace their line back to Uwais Ḳarni (see the Safinat-alauliyâ, No. 18); Niẓâmi of Ganja was one of the prominent Shaikhs of this order. 14. The Madâris, beginning with Badi'-aldin Shâh Madâr, whose life has been described by his pupil Shaikh Maḥmûd in his ایمان محمودی (see the Safinat-alauliyâ, No. 358, and Rieu i. p. 361).

16. Niẓâm-aldin's relations, spiritual successors, down to the author of this book, and pupils (در بیان احوال اقربای صالحین و خلفای راشدین و بعضی مریدان سلطان المشایخ و تفصیل شجرهٔ این راقم اوراق که بحضرت سلطان المشایخ منتهی میشود), on fol. 144b.

Principal relations: 1. Khwâjah Muḥammad, pupil and nephew of Niẓâm-aldin, son of his sister Bibi Jannat. 2. Khwâjah Rafi-aldin Hârûn, son of Khwâjah Muḥammad. 3. Khwâjah Naf'-aldin Nûḥ, son of a younger brother of Rafi'-aldin Hârûn, who bore likewise the name of Khwâjah Muḥammad. 4. Khwâjah Abûbakr, a son, or son-in-law, as it seems, of Bibi Jannat, and father of Khwâjah 'Aziz-aldin.

The first ten Khalifas or spiritual successors: 1. Naṣir-aldin Muḥammad Ċirâgh of Dihli, son of Shaikh Yaḥyâ Audhi (see the Safinat-alauliyâ, No. 116, and the Siyar-al'ârifin, No. 12). 2. Shaikh Shams-aldin Muḥammad bin Yaḥyâ. 3. Shaikh Ḳuṭb-aldin Munawwar bin Shaikh Burhân-aldin bin Shaikh Jamâl-aldin Hânsawi; his son was Shaikh Nûr-aldin. 4. Shaikh Ḥusâm (so correct instead of جسام in the text) -aldin Multâni. 5. Shaikh Fakhr-aldin Zarâwi. 6. Shaikh 'Alâ-aldin 'Ali. 7. Shaikh Burhân-aldin Gharib (see the Safinat-alauliyâ, No. 117), died the 12th of Safar, A.H. 732 (A.D. 1331, Nov. 14), at Daulatâbâd. 8. Shaikh Wajih-aldin Yûsuf II. 9. Shaikh Shihâb-aldin Imâm, died in Dihli. 10. Shaikh Sirâj-aldin 'Uthmân, known as Akhi Sirâj. All these ten Khalifas survived Niẓâm-aldin by a few years only.

The chain of Khalifas which connects Shaikh Sirâj-aldin with the author of this work, Muḥammad Bûlâḳ, is as follows: 11. Shaikh 'Alâ-alḥaḳḳ wa-aldin Bangâli, pupil and successor of Akhi Sirâj, and son of 'Umar bin As'ad Lâhûri. 12. Shaikh Nûr Ḳuṭb-i-'âlam, son and successor of the preceding Shaikh. 13. Makhdûm Shaikh Ḥusâm (here again spelt جسام)-aldin of Mânikpûr (a place in Audh, see W. Pertsch, Berlin Cat., p. 998). 14. Sayyid Râjû Ḥâmidshâh. 15. Shaikh Ḥasan Ṭâhir, originally of Jaunpûr, came under Sulṭân Sikandar (i. e. Sikandar Shâh Lûdi, A.H. 894–923=A.D. 1489–1517) to Dihli. 16. Ḳâḍikhân Yûsuf Nâṣiḥi (in one place here ماصحی Mâṣiḥi). 17. Shâh 'Abd-al'aziz Kashki (کشکی), with the honorary epithet of Jamâl-alḥaḳḳ, the younger son of Shaikh Ḥasan Ṭâhir, and brother of Shâh Ḍiyâ, came from Jaunpûr to Dihli, and lived there seventy years. 18. Shâh Najm-alḥaḳḳ wa-aldin Ċâ'în lodhâ (چائین لدها). 19. Shaikh Bahâ-aldin Shâhâbâdi (Shâhâbâd is a place near Karnâl). 20. Ḥadrat Shâh Aḥmad Asad-allâh. 21. Makhdûm Shâh Khûb-allâh (خوب الله), son and successor of the preceding Shaikh, and Pir and predecessor of Muḥammad Bûlâḳ, who was honoured by him with the epithet of Kamâl-alḥaḳḳ wa-aldin, and appointed his Khalifah, in the 84th year of Makhdûm Shâh, and the 50th of his own life.

Principal pupils of Niẓâm-aldin: 1. Khwâjah Abûbakr of Mândû. 2. Ḳâḍi Muḥyi-aldin Kâshâni. 3. Amîr Khusrau of Dihli, the great poet who only survived his master's death by six months, and died the 18th of Shawwâl, A.H. 725 (A.D. 1325, September 27). 4. Amîr Ḥasan, the poet. 5. Maulânâ Wajih-aldin Fâ'ili (یائلی). 6. Maulânâ Fakhr-aldin Rûzi (or perhaps Rûzani). 7. Maulânâ Faṣiḥ-aldin. 8. Maulânâ Jamâl-aldin. 9. Maulânâ Jalâl-aldin (the last three died during their master's lifetime). 10. Khwâjah Muḥammad Imâm ibn Maulânâ Badr-aldin Isḥâḳ (the husband of Bibi Fâṭimah, daughter of Shaikh Farid-aldin Ganj-i-shakar), author of the انوار المجالس in which he collected the sayings of Niẓâm-aldîn. 11. Khwâjah Mûsâ, brother of the preceding Khwâjah. 12. Maulânâ 'Aziz-aldîn Ṣûfî, son of Bibi Mastûrah, one of Shaikh Farid-aldîn Ganj-i-shakar's daughters (see about the last three above, in maṭlab 15), and author of the تحفة الابرار, in which sayings of Niẓâm-aldîn are collected also. 13. Khwâjah Karîm-aldîn bin Khwâjah Kamâl-aldîn Samarḳandî, who married the daughter of Khwâjah Muḥammad (No. 10), the grandson of Farid-aldîn Ganj-i-shakar. 14. Ḳâḍî Sharaf-aldîn Fîrûzgahî (فیروزگهی). 15. Maulânâ Bahâ-aldîn Audhî, originally of Multân; he lived and died in Dihlî. 16. Shaikh Mubârak Gûyâ, called Amîrdâd, because he was Amîrdâd or Mîrdâd (i.e. chief-justice) under Sulṭân 'Alâ-aldîn Khiljî (see above, in maṭlab 9). 17. Khwâjah Mu'ayyid-aldîn Kurrî, who was originally prefect of کرّه under Sulṭân Jalâl-aldîn (i.e. Jalâl-aldîn Khiljî, see above, maṭlab 9). 18. Khwâjah Tâj-aldîn Dâwarî. 19. Khwâjah Ḍiyâ-aldîn Baranî, intimate friend of Amîr Khusrau and Amîr Ḥasan, rose to a high position under Sulṭân Muḥammad Tughluḳshâh (see above, maṭlab 9), and composed a number of renowned works, for instance, the ثنائی محمّدی, the صلوات کبیر, the عنایت نامهٔ الهی, the مآثر سادات, and particularly the تأریخ فیروزشاهی (see above, No. 211, in this Cat., and also No. 569, where the same author's اخبار برمکیان are noticed). 20. Khwâjah Mu'ayyid-aldîn Anṣârî. 21. Khwâjah Shams-aldîn, a nephew of the poet Amîr Ḥasan (by others, but wrongly, called a nephew of Amîr Khusrau). 22. Ḥâjî Niẓâm-aldîn Shîrâzî. 23. Khwâjah Sâlâr. 24. Maulânâ Fakhr-aldîn of Mîrath (Meerut). 25. Maulânâ Maḥmûd. 26. Maulânâ 'Alâ-aldîn of Andhipat. 27. Maulânâ Shihâb-aldîn کشتواری. 28. Maulânâ Ḥajîb-aldîn Multânî. 29. Maulânâ Badr-aldîn نولهٔ. 30. Maulânâ Rukn-aldîn چغمه. 31. Khwâjah Aḥmad Badâ'ûnî. 32. Khwâjah Ḳuṭb-aldîn Kuhansâlî. 33. Maulânâ Najm-aldîn Maḥbûb, with the epithet Shakarkhân-i-Thânîsarî (شکرخان تهانیسری). 34. Khwâjah Shams-aldîn Dhârî (دهاری), also called Janbî (جنبی), he wrote a book, containing sayings of his master (ملفوظات آنحضرت). 35. Maulânâ Yûsuf Badâ'ûnî. 36. Maulânâ Ḳâḍî پشه پائلی. 37. Maulânâ Ḳiwâm-aldîn Yakdâna Audhî. 38. Maulânâ Burhân-aldîn Sâwî. 39. Khwâjah 'Abd-al'aziz Bângarmû'î. 40. Maulânâ Jamâl-aldîn Audhî. 41. Shaikh Niẓâm-aldîn Mû'î (موئی), friend of Shaikh Sharaf-aldîn Munyarî (died A. H. 782 = A. D. 1380, 1381), who went for his sake to Bihâr, and settled there. 42. Ḳâḍî 'Abd-alkarîm قدوای, lived and died in Audh. 43. Ḳâḍî Ḳiwâm-aldîn قدوای. 44. Makhdûm Shaikh Ḥaidar. 45. Sayyid Muḥammad (bin Mubârak) Kirmânî, the author of the سیر الاولیا (see Rieu iii. p. 976[a]).

17. Pithy sayings and stories of Niẓâm-aldîn, as collected by Amîr Ḥasan, Amîr Khusrau, and other pupils of his (در بیان بعضی کلمات و حکایات نوادر که بر زبان دُربار گهر نثار سلطان المشایخ گذشته و آنهارا امیر حسن و امیر خسرو و غیره مریدان در تصانیف خود جمع کرده اند, بنوك قلم در آورده), on fol. 169[b].

Beginning of the whole work, on fol. 1[b]: لله الحمد و المنّة که دین متین خاتم النبیّین را بر آئین انبیای پیشین سلام الله علیهم اجمعین کرامت و شرافت بخشید الخ.

A full index of the seventeen maṭlabs is found on ff. 2[b], 3[a], 3[b], and 5[a]. The proper order of the leaves, which are curiously misplaced, is: ff. 1–3, 5, 4, 6–106, 115–121, 107–114, 122–175. Among the numerous authorities, constantly referred to in this work, the most prominent and most frequently occurring ones are: راحت المحبّین and فوائد الفؤاد, both containing sayings and discourses of Niẓâm-aldîn, taken down by his pupils (the latter by Amîr Ḥasan, see above, and comp. Rieu iii. p. 973[b]); راحت القلوب by Farid-aldîn Ganj-i-shakar (ib. p. 974[a]); اوراد چشتیّه; سیر العارفین (see Nos. 637–639 in this Cat.); سیر الاولیا by Sayyid Muḥammad Kirmânî (see above), etc.

This copy was transcribed A. H. 1137 (A. D. 1724, 1725), in Muḥammadshâh's reign, by Sayyid Mîr Muḥammad Ganjâhî (گنجاهی), known as (!) گجراتی شاه دولا.

Sawâṭi'-alanwâr (سواطع الانوار).

The most elaborate and detailed work on the great Shaikhs of the Chishtî order that has yet come to light, by one of the more modern Khalîfas or spiritual successors of Mu'în-aldîn Chishtî, Farîd-aldîn Ganj-i-shakar, and other renowned Pîrs, Muḥammad Akram bin Shaikh Muḥammad 'Alî bin Shaikh Ilâhbakhsh alḥanafî albarâsawî (البراسوی), see ff. 1[b], l. 5; 5[b], ll. 15 and 16, etc.; who commenced this work, chiefly for the spiritual guidance of his pupil, Sharaf-aldîn 'Alîkhân bin Shaikh Bahâ-aldîn bin Iḥtishâmkhân Badâ'ûnî, A. H. 1135 (A. D. 1723), at Dihlî, and completed it, after seven years' labour, the 13th of Muḥarram, A. H. 1142 (A. D. 1729, August 8), see fol. 6[b], line 6 ab infra, sq. The chronogram for the beginning of the work is کتاب معتبر (= 1135), in a ta'rîkh, by the above-mentioned Sharaf-aldîn 'Alîkhân, see fol. 6[b], last line, sq.; that for the completion بحر الخارق (= 1142), see fol. 7[a], l. 2 sq. The author's chief authorities were (see fol. 7[a], lin. penult. sq.):

The Sawâṭi'-alanwâr are divided into four اقتباس (found here respectively on ff. 7b, 45a, 91a, and 358b), each subdivided into three نور, with many smaller divisions, called شعاع, لامع, and ساطع.

The first Iḳtibâs treats of the lives and deeds of Muḥammad, the first four Khalifs, and the twelve Imâms.

The second, third, and fourth Iḳtibâs give detailed biographies of the whole chain of Chishtî Pîrs, from Ḥasan Baṣrî to the author's own father Muḥammad 'Alî, covering a space of more than 1000 years.

List of the great Chishtî Shaikhs in the order of their spiritual succession (the first seventeen are identical with those given in the fifteenth maṭlab of the preceding work, of course in an inverted order):

1. Khwâjah Ḥasan Baṣrî, son of Abû-alḥasan Yasâr, with the Kunyas Abû Sa'îd and Abû Muḥammad, born A.H. 21 (A.D. 642), died, 89 years old, the 1st or 5th of Rajab, A.H. 110 (A.D. 728, October 10 or 14), on fol. 45a (No. 17 in the Maṭlûb-alṭâlibîn).

2. Khwâjah 'Abd-alwâḥid bin Zaid, died the 27th of Ṣafar, A.H. 177 (A.D. 793, June 13); the تاريخ المصر fixes his death as early as A.H. 128 (!), on fol. 52b (No. 16 in the Maṭlûb-alṭâlibîn).

3. Khwâjah Fuḍail bin 'Iyâḍ, with the Kunyas Abû 'Alî and Abû-alfaiḍ, on fol. 56b (No. 15 in the Maṭlûb-alṭâlibîn; as birth-places are given here: Marw, Bukhârâ, Kûfah, or Samarḳand).

4. Khwâjah Ibrâhîm bin Adham, died the 16th of Jumâdâ-alawwal, A.H. 161, 162, or 166 (A.D. 778, February 19, 779, February 8, or 782, December 26), on fol. 62a (No. 14 in the Maṭlûb-alṭâlibîn; his father's name is given here as Adham bin Sulaimân bin Manṣûr Tamîmî).

5. Sayyid Badr-aldîn Ḥudhaifah almar'ashî, contemporary with Shaḳîḳ Balkhî and Abû Sulaimân Dârânî, exchanged many letters with Yûsuf-i-Asbâṭ, on fol. 70b (No. 13 in the Maṭlûb-alṭâlibîn; date of death, as in all other biographies, only the 4th of Shawwâl).

6. Shaikh Amîn-aldîn Hubairah albaṣrî, died the 8th of Shawwâl (no year mentioned), 120 or even 130 years old, on fol. 71b (No. 12 in the Maṭlûb-alṭâlibîn).

7. Khwâjah 'Ulû Dînawarî (Dînawar is a place in Ḳûhistân, between Hamadân and Baghdâd, near Karmisîn or Ḳirmisîn, قرمسين, the Arabicised Kirmânshâh), died the 24th of Muḥarram (no year), on fol. 73a (No. 11 in the Maṭlûb-alṭâlibîn).

8. Sharîf-aldîn Abû Isḥâḳ Chishtî (Chisht is a place in Khurâsân, in the district of Harât; another Chisht is in India, near Multân), on fol. 73b (No. 10 in the Maṭlûb-alṭâlibîn).

9. Abû Aḥmad Abdâl Chishtî, died, 95 years old, A.H. 355 (A.D. 966), on fol. 75a (No. 9 in the Maṭlûb-alṭâlibîn).

10. Khwâjah Abû Muḥammad Chishtî, son of the preceding Shaikh, on fol. 76b. His death is fixed here on the 4th of Rabî'-althânî, A.H. 421=A.D. 1030, April 11 (No. 8 in the Maṭlûb-alṭâlibîn).

11. Khwâjah Nâṣir-aldîn Abû Yûsuf Chishtî, son of Khwâjah Muḥammad Sim'ân (سمعان) ibn Sayyid Ibrâhîm ibn Sayyid Muḥammad ibn Sayyid Ḥusain ibn Sayyid 'Abdallâh, known as 'Alî Akbar, ibn Imâm 'Alî Naḳî ibn Imâm Muḥammad Taḳî aljawâd, etc., on fol. 79b. He left two sons: Khwâjah Ḳuṭb-aldîn Maudûd, his Khalîfah, and Tâj-aldîn Abû-alfatḥ, and died the 3rd of Rajab, A.H. 459=A.D. 1067, May 20 (No. 7 in the Maṭlûb-alṭâlibîn).

12. Khwâjah Ḳuṭb-aldîn Maudûd Chishtî, died A.H. 527=A.D. 1133, on fol. 81a (No. 6 in the Maṭlûb-alṭâlibîn). His three most prominent Khalîfas were: (a) Ḥâjî Sharîf Zandanî; (b) Khwâjah Aḥmad, born A.H. 507, died A.H. 577=A.D. 1113, 1114–1181, 1182 (Safînat-alauliyâ, No. 106), Maudûd's son, and brother of Khwâjah 'Abd-al'alî; (c) Shâh Sanjân, i.e. Rukn-aldîn Maḥmûd, died A.H. 597=A.D. 1200, 1201 (Safînat-alauliyâ, No. 107).

13. Khwâjah Ḥâjî Sharîf Zandanî, died the 3rd of Rajab (year unknown), on fol. 87b (No. 5 in the Maṭlûb-alṭâlibîn).

14. Khwâjah 'Uthmân Hârûnî (Hârûn is a place in the district of Nishâpûr or in that of Farghâna), on fol. 88b (No. 4 in the Maṭlûb-alṭâlibîn).

15. Khwâjah Mu'în-aldîn Ċishtî Sijzî, son of Khwâjah Ghiyâth-aldîn Ḥasan ibn Sayyid Aḥmad Ḥasan ibn Sayyid Ṭâhir ibn Sayyid 'Abd-al'aziz ibn Sayyid Ibrâhîm ibn Imâm 'Alî Riḍâ ibn Imâm Mûsâ Kâẓim ibn Imâm Ja'far Ṣâdiḳ ibn Imâm Muḥammad Bâḳir ibn Imâm Zain-al'âbidîn ibn Imâm Ḥusain, on fol. 91b (No. 3 in the Maṭlûb-alṭâlibîn). He was born, A.H. 537 (A.D. 1142, 1143), in Sijistân, went to India and enjoyed the tuition and companionship of 'Abd-alḳâdir Jîlânî and Najm-aldîn Kubrâ, and died the 6th of Rajab, or according to others, the 20th of Dhû-alḥijjah, A.H. 632 =A.D. 1235, March 27 or September 5, quite as in the preceding work. He had two wives, viz. Bibî 'Iṣmat, the daughter of Shaikh Wajîh-aldîn Mashhadî, and Immat or Ummat-allâh (امة الله), a Râjah's daughter; one daughter, Bibî Ḥâfiẓ Jamâl, and three sons, viz. (a) Shaikh Abû Sa'îd, (b) Shaikh Fatḥ-aldîn, (c) Shaikh Husâm-aldîn. His two most renowned disciples and Khalîfas were: (a) Ḳuṭb-aldîn Bakhtiyâr, and (b) Ḥamîd-aldîn Ṣûfî alsa'îdî alnâgûrî alsiwâlî (السيوالي, Siwâl being one of the townships of Nâgûr), with the Kunyah Abû Aḥmad and the epithet of Sulṭân-altârikîn, died the 11th of Ramaḍân, A.H. 641 (A.D. 1244, February 22), or, more correctly, the 29th of Rabî'-alâkhar, A.H. 673=A.D. 1274, Nov. 1 (see the Safînat-alauliyâ, No. 111).

16. Khwâjah Ḳuṭb-aldîn Bakhtiyâr Kâkî Ûshî, son of Khwâjah Kamâl-aldîn bin Aḥmad bin Mûsa Ûshî, on fol. 107b (No. 2 in the Maṭlûb-alṭâlibîn). His chief disciples were: (a) Shaikh Farîd-aldîn Ganj-i-shakar; (b) Shaikh Badr-aldîn Ghaznawî, who came from Ghazna to Lâhûr, and later on to Dihlî, whose Khalîfah was Shaikh Imâm-aldîn Abdâl, succeeded by Shaikh Shihâb-aldîn 'Âshiḳ, whose Khalîfah again was Shaikh 'Imâd-aldîn Dihlawî, likewise a pupil of Imâm-aldîn Abdâl, succeeded in his turn by Shaikh Tâj-aldîn Imâm; (c) Shâh Khiḍr Rûmî (see the list of subordinate orders of the Ċishtîs, No. 12 in the Maṭlûb-alṭâlibîn), whose pupil was Shaikh Najm-aldîn Ḳalandar; (d) Ḳâḍî Ḥamîd-aldîn Nâgûrî (see the Safînat-alauliyâ, No. 149), with his real name: Muḥammad bin 'Aṭâ, who belonged at the same time to the Suhrawardî order, being a disciple of Shaikh Shihâb-aldîn Suhrawardî, and died the 5th of Ramaḍân, A.H. 643 (A.D. 1246, January 24), at Dihlî; his son was Maulânâ Nâṣiḥ-aldîn.

17. Shaikh Farîd-aldîn Mas'ûd Ajwadhanî Ganj-i-shakar, on fol. 118b (No. 1 in the Maṭlûb-alṭâlibîn). His father's name appears here as Shaikh (or Ḳâḍî) Jamâl-aldîn Sulaimân bin Shaikh Shu'aib bin Shaikh Aḥmad II bin Shaikh Yûsuf bin Shaikh Muḥammad bin Shaikh Shihâb-aldîn bin Shaikh Aḥmad I (known as Farrukh-shâh of Kâbul) bin Shaikh Naṣîr-aldîn bin Sulṭân Maḥmûd bin Shaikh Sâmân bin Shaikh Mas'ûd bin Shaikh 'Abdallâh Khwurd bin Wâ'iẓ alasghar bin Wâ'iẓ alakbar bin Shaikh Abû-alfatḥ bin Shaikh Isḥâḳ bin Shaikh Ibrâhîm bin Shaikh Nâṣir-aldîn bin Shaikh 'Abdallâh Kalân ibn Amîr-almu'minîn 'Umar ibn Alkhaṭṭâb. His elder brother was Shaikh A'azz-aldîn Muḥammad, his younger brother Shaikh Najîb-aldîn Mutawakkil. His death is fixed here, as usual, on the 5th of Muḥarram, A.H. 664 (A.D. 1265, Oct. 17), when he was 95 years old; but the immediately following remark, that he survived by 35 years Ḳuṭb-aldîn Bakhtiyâr Kâkî (who died the 14th of Rabî'-alawwal, A.H. 633), would rather point to A.H. 668, the date given in the preceding work. As ta'rîkh, however, appears فريد الله شد (=664). Both order and names of the five sons and three daughters of Ganj-i-shakar are the same as in the Maṭlûb-alṭâlibîn, except that the first is called here (probably more correctly) Shaikh Naṣîr-aldîn, known as Naṣr-allâh; but according to the جواهر فريدى—a statement which the author of this work has apparently adopted—the five sons were: (a) Shihâb-aldîn Ganj-i-'ilm, (b) Niẓâm-aldîn Shahîd, (c) Badr-aldîn Sulaimân, (d) Shaikh Ya'ḳûb, (e) 'Abdallâh, who died very young; Shaikh Naṣr-allâh was, according to this authority, only a step-son (ربيب). The proper order of Ganj-i-shakar's three daughters, according to the same authority, is: Bibî Fâṭimah, Bibî Sharîfah, and Bibî Mastûrah, who became the wife of Shaikh 'Umar Ṣûfî Fârûḳî and the mother of Shaikh 'Izz-aldîn (so on fol. 186a, last line, whereas on fol. 165b, line 7, he is called 'Aḍud-aldîn, and in the Maṭlûb-alṭâlibîn, 16th maṭlab, No. 12 in the list of pupils: 'Aziz-aldîn). Ganj-i-shakar's wife was a daughter of Sulṭân Ghiyâth-aldîn Balban (see the Maṭlûb-a'ṭâlibîn, 9th maṭlab).

Ganj-i-shakar's grandchildren: I. Sons of Shaikh Shihâb-aldîn Ganj-i-'ilm: (a) Shaikh Ḥusâm-aldîn, (b) Shaikh 'Abd-alḥamîd, (c) Shaikh Mas'ûd, (d) Shaikh Muḥammad, (e) Shaikh 'Alishîr, (f) Shaikh Jamshîd. II. Sons of Shaikh Niẓâm-aldîn: (a) 'Aḍud-aldîn, known as Shaikh Ibrâhîm, father of Shaikh Nûr-aldîn (called in the Maṭlûb-alṭâlibîn: 'Aziz-aldîn), the father of Khwâjah 'Aḍud-aldîn, who had again three sons: Khwâjah Badr-aldîn, Khwâjah Rukn-aldîn, and Shaikh Khwâjah; (b) Khwâjah 'Alî, the father of Shaikh Sâlâr, Shaikh Nûr-aldîn, Shaikh Yaḥyâ, and Shaikh Khusrau. III. Sons and daughters of Shaikh Badr-aldîn Sulaimân: A. Issue of his wife, Bibî Malkû (ملكو), the daughter of Ḳâḍî Abû Muslim: (a) Shaikh Muḥammad 'Alâ-aldîn Mauj-i-daryâ, who was for 50, or even 54 years, his father's Khalîfah, and had two sons: Shaikh Mu'izz-aldîn and Shaikh 'Alam-aldîn; the list of lineal descendants of Mauj-i-daryâ goes down to Shaikh Tâj-aldîn Maḥmûd, who died the 17th of Ṣafar, A.H. 1019 (A.D. 1610, May 11), 85 years old, a short time after the death of his son Shaikh Faiḍ-allâh (died, 55 years old, the 25th of Dhû-alḥijjah, A.H. 1018=A.D. 1610, March 21), in whose place he had appointed his grandson, Shaikh Ibrâhîm, Faiḍ-allâh's son. Shaikh Ibrâhîm had four sons: Shaikh Muḥammad (died A.H. 1024, the 18th of Muḥarram=A.D. 1615, Feb. 17), Shaikh Ilâh-bakhsh, Shaikh Ghulâm Muḥammad, and Shaikh Jân Muḥammad; (b) Shaikh Muḥammad Shahîd; (c) Shaikh Maḥmûd; (d) Shaikh Tâj-aldîn; (e) Bibî 'Iffat; (f) Bibî Ṣafiyyah; (g) Bibî Zainab; (h) Bibî Rakiyyah. B. Issue of his wife, Bibî Ḥâjirân: (a) Shaikh Maudûd, (b) Shaikh Aḥmad, (c) a daughter, whose name is not mentioned. IV. Sons and daughter of Shaikh Ya'ḳûb: (a) Khwâjah 'Aḍud-aldîn (called in the Maṭlûb-alṭâlibîn: A'azz-aldîn), (b) Khwâjah Ḳâḍî, (c) Bibî 'Izzat. V.

Sons of Shaikh Naṣîr-aldîn or Naṣr-allâh: (a) Khwâjah Bâyazîd, (b) Khwâjah Ni'mat-allâh, (c) Khwâjah 'Abd-allâh, (d) Khwâjah Karîm-aldîn, (e) Khwâjah Ibrâhîm, (f) Khwâjah 'Abd-alrashîd (a Maulânâ Kamâl-aldîn, who appears as Shaikh Naṣîr-aldîn's son in the Maṭlûb-alṭalibîn, is not mentioned here at all).

18. Shaikh Najîb-aldîn Mutawakkil (see above in the Siyar-al'ârifîn, No. 10, and the Maṭlûb-alṭâlibîn, 5th maṭlab), the brother and Khalîfah of the preceding Shaikh, on fol. 189a. He died the 9th of Ramaḍân, A. H. 669 (A. D. 1271, April 21), at Dihlî, in the reign of Ghiyâth-aldîn Balban.

19. Shaikh Jamâl-aldîn Hânsawî, with his real name Aḥmad, died during Farîd-aldîn Ganj-i-shakar's lifetime, on fol. 191a. Shaikh Abûbakr Ṭûsî Ḥaidarî Ḳalandar and Shaikh Ḥusâm-aldîn of Andipat (اندیپت) were among his companions and disciples; his son was Shaikh Burhân-aldîn, the father of Shaikh Ḳuṭb-aldîn Munawwar (one of Niẓâm-aldîn Auliyâ's Khalîfas, see the Maṭlûb-alṭâlibîn, 16th maṭlab, No. 3 in the list of Khalîfas).

20. Shaikh Badr-aldîn Isḥâḳ bin 'Alî bin Isḥâḳ, of Dihlî, pupil, Khalîfah, and son-in-law of Farîd-aldîn Ganj-i-shakar (see the Maṭlûb-alṭâlibîn, 15th maṭlab, No. 1), on fol. 194a.

21. Shaikh Niẓâm-alḥaḳḳ wa-aldîn Muḥammad bin Aḥmad bin 'Alî albukhârî (see a different statement in the Safînat-alauliyâ, No. 114, and the Maṭlûb-alṭâlibîn), with the honorary epithets of Sulṭân-almashâyikh and Niẓâm-alauliyâ, on fol. 196a. His paternal as well as his maternal grandfather, Khwâjah 'Alî and Khwâjah 'Arab, came from Bukhârâ, stayed some time in Lâhûr, and settled then in Badâ'ûn; both were descendants of the Khalîf 'Alî bin Abî Ṭâlib, their respective genealogies being: (a) Khwâjah 'Alî bin Sayyid 'Abdallâh bin Sayyid Ḥusain bin Sayyid 'Alî bin Sayyid Aḥmad bin Sayyid Abî 'Abdallâh bin Sayyid 'Alî Aṣghar bin Sayyid Ja'far bin Imâm 'Alî Hâdî bin Imâm Muḥammad Jawâd bin Imâm 'Alî Riḍâ bin Imâm Mûsâ Kâẓim, etc.; (b) Khwâjah 'Arab bin Sayyid Abû-almafâkhir bin Sayyid Muḥammad Aṭhar, one of the Khalîfas of 'Abd-alḳâdir Jîlânî, and son of the same Sayyid Ḥusain bin Sayyid 'Alî, who appears as grandfather of Khwâjah 'Alî, above.

22. Shaikh Naṣîr-aldîn Maḥmûd Ċirâgh of Dihlî, son of Shaikh Yaḥyâ Audhî (see the Safînat-alauliyâ, No. 116, and the Maṭlûb-alṭâlibîn, 16th maṭlab, No. 1 in the list of Khalîfas), on fol. 246a. His prominent disciples and Khalîfas were: (a) Sayyid Muḥammad Gisûdarâz bin Sayyid Yûsuf alḥasanî aldihlawî, born in Dihlî, the 4th of Rajab, A. H. 720=A. D. 1320, August 10 (the usual date is 721, see Rieu i. p. 347), died at Gulbarga, 105 years old, A. H. 825 (A. D. 1422), in the reign, as is stated here, of Sulṭân Fîrûzshâh Ghiyâth-aldîn bin Muḥammadshâh (more correctly: Aḥmad-khân, see above, No. 449 in this Cat.) bin Shâh 'Alâ-aldîn Bahmanî (who died in Shawwâl, A. H. 825; Rieu, loc. cit., fixes Gisûdarâz' death on the 16th of Dhû-alḳa'dah of that year, soon after the accession of Sulṭân Aḥmadshâh I); his spiritual successor was his grandson, Mîr Sayyid Yad-allâh, and among the latter's successors was the poet Shaikh Rizḳ-allâh, with the takhalluṣ Mushtâḳî in his Persian and that of Râjan in his Hindûstânî poems, born A. H. 897 (A. D. 1492), died the 20th of Rabî'-alawwal, A. H. 989 (A. D. 1581, April 24), according to the ta'rîkh حقم مشتاق, 92 years old. Other pupils and Khalîfas of Gisûdarâz were Shaikh Abû-alfatḥ 'Alâ-aldîn Ḳuraishî, the author of a تکمیل on syntax and a مشاهد on Ṣûfism, and Gisûdarâz' own son, Shaikh 'Alâ-aldîn, the father of the renowned Shaikh Ṣadr-aldîn Ḥakîm. (b) Sayyid Muḥammad ibn Sayyid Ja'far Makkî, author of the بحر المعانی on Ṣûfism, of a رساله در بیان روح, of another risâlah, styled پنج نکات, and of the بحر الانساب (on the Ahl-i-Bait); he lived from the time of Sulṭân Muḥammad Tughluḳ (reigned A. H. 725–752 = A. D. 1325–1351) to that of Sulṭân Bahlûl (reigned A. H. 854–894 = A. D. 1450–1489), and reached an age of more than 100 years; (c) Maulânâ Khwâjagî, the spiritual teacher of Ḳâḍî Shihâb-aldîn; (d) Shaikh Ṣadr-aldîn Ḥakîm (different from the Shaikh of the same name, mentioned above as one of Gisûdarâz' Khalîfas); (e) Ḳâḍî 'Abd-almuḳtadir ibn Ḳâḍî Rukn-aldîn alsharîḥ alkandî, author of Arabic ḳaṣîdas and ghazals, and of a counterpart to the لامیة العجم; (f) Ḳâḍî Maḥmûd سیاوی, the spiritual teacher of Khwâjah Ikhtiyâr-aldîn 'Umar Îriċî, died A. H. 809, the 14th of Muḥarram (A. D. 1406, July 1); (g) Ḳadî Fakhr-aldîn بجلوری, also pupil and Khalîfah of Niẓâm-aldîn Auliyâ; (h) Khwâjah Khânûn of Gwâliyâr (here spelt گوالیری), one of the later Khalîfas of Naṣîr-aldîn Maḥmûd, pupil of Khwâjah Ḥusain Nâgûrî, and Pîr of Shaikh Niẓâm-aldîn Nârnaulî, whose tuition the great Sulṭân Akbar enjoyed; (i) Sayyid Jalâl-aldîn Bukhârî, son of Sayyid Aḥmad Kabîr, and brother of Sayyid Ṣadr-aldîn Râjû Kattâl of Bukhârâ (died A. H. 827 = A. D. 1424), with the epithet of Makhdûm-i-Jahâniyân (Safînat-alauliyâ, No. 157; Siyar-al'ârifîn, No. 13), pupil of Shaikh Rukn-aldîn Abû-alfatḥ Ḳuraishî ibn Shaikh Ṣadr-aldîn ibn Shaikh Bahâ-aldîn Zakariyyâ Multânî, and friend of Imâm Abû 'Abdallâh Yâfi'î; his sayings are collected in the خزانهٔ جلالی; among his disciples and Khalîfas are mentioned: (a) Shaikh Yûsuf Budh of Îriċ, who was also a pupil of Ikhtiyâr-aldîn (see above) and of Ṣadr-aldîn Râjû Ḳattâl, and translated Muḥammad Ghazâlî's منهاج العابدین into Persian (died A. H. 834 = A. D. 1430, 1431); another of Jalâl-aldîn Bukhârî's pupils, whose name is not given, translated into Persian the تکملهٔ روض الریاحین by 'Abdallâh Yâfi'î (the same which is described above in No. 643 of this Cat.); (β) Shaikh Ḳiwâm-aldîn, the spiritual guide of Shaikh Sârang, who was originally one of the Amîrs of Sulṭân Fîrûzshâh, and founded the city of Sârangpûr, but afterwards renounced the world, performed the pilgrimage, and was for some time a pupil of Shaikh Yûsuf Îriċî; (γ) Shaikh Sirâj-aldîn Sûkhta; (δ) Sayyid Burhân-aldîn Ḳuṭb-i-'âlam, grandson of Jalâl-aldîn Bukhârî and father of Shâh-i-manjhan, with the epithet of Shâh 'Âlam; he died in Aḥmadâbâd, the 8th of Dhû-alḥijjah, A. H. 857 (A. D. 1453, Dec. 10); Shâh 'Âlam died A. H. 880 (A. D. 1475, 1476). (j) Shaikh Fatḥ-allâh Audhî, Khalîfah of Shaikh Ṣadr-aldîn Ḥakîm (mentioned under d), and spiritual guide of Shaikh Darwîsh Ḳâsim Audhî Dihlawî, the author of a risâlah, styled آداب السالکین; (k) Shaikh Abû-alfatḥ Jaunpûrî, pupil of his grandfather Ḳâḍi 'Abd-almuḳtadir (mentioned under e), and author of excellent Arabic ḳaṣîdas as well as of Persian poetry, born the 14th of Muḥarram, A. H. 772 (A. D. 1370, August 8), died the 23rd of Rabî'-alawwal, A. H. 858 (A. D. 1454, March 23).

23. Shaikh Sirâj-aldîn 'Uthmân, known as Akhî Sirâj, one of the most renowned successors of Niẓâm-aldîn Auliyâ, on fol. 291[b] (see the Maṭlûb-alṭâlibîn, 16th maṭlab, No. 10 in the list of Khalifas), whose spiritual successor was Shaikh 'Alâ-aldîn bin As'ad Lâhûri Bangâli; the son, pupil, and Khalifah of the latter was Shâh Nûr-aldîn Ḳuṭb-i-'âlam, author of مكتوبات, full of deep thoughts, and father of Shaikh Rif'at-aldîn and Shaikh Anwar. One of the prominent disciples of Shaikh 'Alâ-aldîn Bangâli was Sayyid Ashraf Jahângîr (Simnâni, as we learn from fol. 360[a], l. 3, and Rieu i. p. 361[a]; died A. H. 840=A. D. 1436, 1437), who travelled in company with Sayyid 'Ali Hamadâni, and took 'Alâ-aldîn as Pîr when he came to India; he was also contemporary with Ḳâḍi Shihâb-aldîn Daulatâbâdi, and a friend of Shâh Madâr (who also died A. H. 840, see Rieu, loc. cit.); his discourses were collected in a volume, which bore the title of لطائف اشرفی, see the list of authorities above. A renowned pupil and Khalifah of Shaikh Nûr-aldîn Ḳuṭb-i-'âlam was Shaikh Ḥusâm-aldîn of Mânikpûr (see the Maṭlûb-alṭâlibîn, 16th maṭlab, Nos. 11–13 in the list of Khalifas), whose sayings and discourses were collected in the رفیق العارفین. Ḥusâm-aldîn's chief disciple and Khalifah was Râji Ḥâmidshâh, the father of Râji Sayyid Nûr, and the spiritual guide of Shaikh Ḥasan Ṭâhir of Jaunpûr, who wrote the Ṣûfic work مفتاح الفیض, and died in Dihlî, the 24th of Rabî'-alawwal, A. H. 909 (A. D. 1503, September 16). Ḥasan Ṭâhir was the friend of Maulânâ Ilâhdâd (or as the name is pointed here distinctly: Allâhdâd, الٰهداد) of Jaunpûr, the commentator of the كافیه and the هدایه, and the Pîr of Shaikh Ma'rûf of Jaunpûr, whose pupil was Shaikh Niẓâm-aldîn of Amptha (or Ompta in Bangâlah, here spelt both امپتهه and امپتهه, see fol. 303[a], last line, and fol. 303[b], l. 13), who died A. H. 981 (A. D. 1573, 1574).

Other renowned Khalifas and disciples of Niẓâm-aldîn Auliyâ (added here to the chapter on Sirâj-aldîn 'Uthmân) were: (a) Shaikh Ḳuṭb-aldîn Munawwar bin Shaikh Burhân-aldîn bin Shaikh Jamâl-aldîn Hânsawi, see No. 19, above. His son was Shaikh Nûr-aldîn, and his chief Khalifah Sayyid Tâj-aldîn Shîrsuwâr; (b) Shaikh Shihâb-aldîn Imâm (see the Maṭlûb-alṭâlibîn, 16th maṭlab, No. 9 in the list of Khalifas), whose son was Shaikh Rukn-aldîn. A pupil of the latter was the poet Mas'ûd-i-Bakk (died A. H. 800=A. D. 1397, 1398, comp. Bodleian Catal., No. 856, and A. Sprenger, Catal., p. 486), with his original name Shirkhân, a relative of Sulṭân Fîrûz of Dihlî, author of a dîwân and various Ṣûfic works, for instance, the تمهیدات, similar to 'Ain-alḳuḍât Hamadâni's (died A. H. 525=A. D. 1130, 1131, or 533=A. D. 1138, 1139) تمهیدات, the مرآة العارفین, which is divided into fourteen كشف (the fourteenth of which, on the soul, فی بیان حقیقة الروح, is quoted here in full), and others; (c) Shaikh Ḥusâm-aldîn Multâni (see the Maṭlûb-alṭâlibîn, 16th maṭlab, No. 4 in the list of Khalifas), who entered into Niẓâm-aldîn's tuition together with Maulânâ Jamâl-aldîn Nuṣratkhâni and Maulânâ Sharaf-aldîn, and died in Patan (i. e. Pâkpatan) in the same year in which Sulṭân Muḥammad Tughluḳ ordered the inhabitants of Dihlî to remove to Diwgîr (Deogiri, as it is called in Elphinstone, History of India, 5th ed., p. 408); (d) Shaikh Fakhr-aldîn Zarâwi (see the Maṭlûb-alṭâlibîn, 16th maṭlab, No. 5 in the list of Khalifas) or Zarâdi, as it appears to be spelt here, who visited Shaikh Mu'în-aldîn in Ajmîr, and Shaikh Farîd-aldîn Ganj-i-shakar in Ajwadhan; at the time of the removal of the inhabitants of Dihlî to Diwgîr he went on a pilgrimage to Makkah, thence to Baghdâd, and, finally, longing for his old home, Dihlî, he started on his return voyage to India; but his ship was lost, and he perished with it; (e) Maulânâ Fakhr-aldîn Marwazi (perhaps identical with No. 6 in the list of Niẓâm-aldîn's pupils, in the 16th maṭlab of the Maṭlûb-alṭâlibîn, called there Fakhr-aldîn Rûzi or Rûzani); (f) Maulânâ 'Alâ-aldîn Naili (so distinctly pointed), who is called 'Alâ-aldîn 'Ali, see No. 6 in the above list of Khalifas; (g) Shaikh Burhân-aldîn Gharîb, usually called Burhân-i-Auliyâ (see above, No. 7 in the list of Khalifas), died a few years after Niẓâm-aldîn; (h) Maulânâ 'Ali Shâh Jândâr, author of the خلاصة اللطائف; (i) Sayyid Muḥammad bin Mubârak bin Muḥammad al-Kirmâni, author of the سیر الاولیا; (j) Maulânâ Shams-aldîn Yaḥyâ (called Shams-aldîn Muḥammad bin Yaḥyâ in the Maṭlûb-alṭâlibîn, 16th maṭlab, No. 2 in the list of Khalifas); (k) Ḳâḍi Muḥyî-aldîn Kâshâni (see the above maṭlab, No. 2 in the list of pupils), died before Niẓâm-aldîn; (l) Maulânâ Wajîh-aldîn Yûsuf (see the above maṭlab, No. 8 in the list of Khalifas, where he is called Yûsuf II); (m) Amîr Khusrau, the poet, died the 18th of Shawwâl, A. H. 725 (A. D. 1325, September 27); (n) Amîr Ḥasan bin 'Alâ-i-Sanjarî Dihlawi, the poet and collector of the فوائد الفؤاد, or sayings and discourses of Shaikh Niẓâm-aldîn; (o) Khwâjah Shams-aldîn, here called a nephew of Amîr Khusrau (but see the Maṭlûb-alṭâlibîn, loc. cit., No. 21 in the list of pupils); (p) Khwâjah Ḍiyâ-aldîn Barani (ib., No. 19); one of his works, mentioned here, is the حسرت نامه, or book of regret, an extract of which is given.

24. Ḳuṭb-i-abdâl Shaikh 'Alâ-aldîn 'Alî bin Aḥmad Ṣâbir, pupil of Farîd-aldîn Ganj-i-shakar, on fol. 320[b]. The Akhbâr-alakhyâr (see No. 640 in this Cat.) represent him as nephew and son-in-law of Farîd-aldîn, but that statement is not corroborated by any of the detailed accounts of that Shaikh's family, both in the present work and in the Maṭlûb-alṭâlibîn. He died before Niẓâm-aldîn, the 13th of Rabî'-alawwal, A. H. 690 (A. D. 1291, March 16).

25. Shaikh Shams-aldîn Turk Pânipati, the Khalifah of the preceding Shaikh, on fol. 325[a]. He was the son of Khwâjah Aḥmad Buzurg ibn Khwâjah 'Abd-almu'min, a descendant of Khwâjah Aḥmad Yasawî (see the Safînat-alauliyâ, No. 75), who traced his genealogy back to Muḥammad Ḥanîfah bin 'Alî Murtaḍâ, and dwelt for a long time in Turkistân and Transoxania, in pursuit of Ṣûfic lore, before he came to India and chose 'Alâ-aldîn 'Alî Ṣâbir as his spiritual guide. He died in Pânipat, the 19th of Sha'bân, but the year of his death is not known; he was contemporary with Shaikh Naṣîr-aldîn Maḥmûd Audhî, who died A. H. 757 (A. D. 1356), i. e.

the great Maḥmûd Cirâgh of Dihlí, who died A. H. 757, 18th of Ramaḍân (A. D. 1356, Sept. 14), see No. 22, above.

26. Shaikh Jalâl-alḥaḳḳ-wa-aldín Pânipatí, with his real name, Muḥammad bin Mu'izz-aldín Khwâjah Maḥmûd, the Khalífah of the preceding Shaikh, on fol. 328b. His father Maḥmûd traces his origin back to the Khalíf 'Uthmân bin 'Affân, by the following chain of ancestors: Karím-aldín Khwâjah Ya'ḳûb (Maḥmûd's father) bin Jamíl-aldín Khwâjah 'Îsâ bin Majd-aldín Khwâjah Isma'íl bin Sharaf-aldín Khwâjah Muḥammad bin Badr-aldín Khwâjah Abûbakr bin Ṣadr-aldín Khwâjah 'Alí bin Shams-aldín Khwâjah 'Uthmân bin Najm-aldín Khwâjah 'Abdallâh bin Shihâb-aldín Khwâjah 'Abd-alraḥmân II bin Zain-aldín Khwâjah 'Abd-al'aziz alsarakhsí bin Fakhr-aldín Khwâjah Khâlid bin Ḍiyâ-aldín Khwâjah Walíd bin Ḳuṭb-aldín Khwâjah 'Abd-al'aziz alkabír bin Rukn-aldín Khwâjah 'Abd-alraḥmân alkabír bin 'Alâ-aldín Khwâjah 'Abdallâh II bin 'Alam-aldín Khwâjah 'Abd-al'aziz bin Ḥusâm-aldín Khwâjah 'Abdallâh Kabír bin Imâm-aldín Ḥadrat Khwâjah 'Umar bin Amír-almu'minín Imâm-almuttaḳín Ḥabíb-alraḥmân Ḥadrat 'Uthmân bin 'Affân. The year of Jalâl-aldín's death is not known; he was contemporary with Sulṭân Maḥmûd bin Muḥammad bin Fírûzshâh, who died, after a reign of twenty years and two months, the 5th of Dhû-alḳa'dah, A. H. 815 (A. D. 1413, February 6). His five sons were: (a) Khwâjah 'Abd-alḳádir, (b) Khwâjah Ibrâhím, (c) Khwâjah Shibli, (d) Khwâjah Karím-aldín, (e) Khwâjah 'Abd-alwâḥid. Shaikh 'Abd-alṣamad Sunámí (سُنامی), one of his principal Khalífas, collected his ملفوظات, or sayings.

27. Makhdûm Shaikh (or Shâh) Aḥmad 'Abd-alḥaḳḳ of Radauli, the principal Khalífah of the preceding Shaikh, on fol. 333a. His grandfather, Shaikh Dâ'ûd, who traced his origin back to the Khalíf 'Umar, had left his native town Balkh during the devastation under Hûlâgûkhân, and came to India, where he settled, in Sulṭân 'Alâ-aldín Khiljí's reign (A. H. 695–715 = A. D. 1296–1316), in Radauli, near Audh, and became a pupil of Shaikh Naṣír-aldín Maḥmûd Cirâgh (see No. 22, above). His son was Shaikh 'Umar, who again had two sons: Shaikh Taḳí-aldín and Shaikh Aḥmad 'Abd-alḥaḳḳ. The latter chose Jalâl-aldín Pânipatí as his spiritual guide. He afterwards spent some time in Sunâm, where he lived in the house of an excellent female devotee, Fâṭimah; then went back to Pânipat, and, not finding his master there, to Badâ'ún, in the very year when Timûr invaded India and fought the battle of Dihlí with Sulṭân Maḥmûd, the grandson of Fírûzshâh, who took refuge in Gujarât (Rabí'-althání, A. H. 801 = A. D. 1398, December, to 1399, January); from Badâ'ún Aḥmad 'Abd-alḥaḳḳ betook himself to Bhakhar, later on again to Pânipat, to enjoy once more Jalâl-aldín's tuition, and after his Pír's death to Bangâlah, where he met with Shaikh Nûr Ḳuṭb-i-'âlam (see No. 23, above). He finally returned to his native place Radauli, and died the 15th of Jumâdâ-althání, A. H. 837 (A. D. 1434, January 27), 120 years old (ta'ríkh: عارف حق احمد عبد الحق بحق). Among his disciples the most prominent were: (a) Shaikh Bakhtiyâr; (b) Shaikh Mukhliṣ with his two sons, Bahrâm and Shams-aldín; (c) Shaikh Naṣír-aldín and his younger brother, Shaikh Ḳidwat-aldín, sons of Shaikh Badr-aldín Cishtí.

28. Makhdûm Shaikh 'Árif, son and Khalífah of the preceding Shaikh, on fol. 350a. He married Umm Kulthûm, the daughter of Shaikh Núr-aldín (the Khalífah of Sayyid Mûsá), and begat two daughters, the second of whom was married to Shaikh 'Abd-alḳuddûs, and one son (the immediately following Shaikh). He was 50 years head of the order, after the death of his father, but the exact date of his demise is not given anywhere.

29. Shaikh Muḥammad bin Árif bin Aḥmad 'Abd-alḥaḳḳ, son and Khalífah of the preceding Shaikh, on fol. 353a. His son was Shaikh-i-Auliyá, known as Shaikh Budh, the father of Shaikh Pír and Shaikh Manṣúr. Manṣúr's son was Shaikh 'Álam, Shaikh Pír's son was Shaikh Ḳuṭb-aldín, who healed one of Sulṭân Akbar's Amírs, Raḥmatkhân, who was also his disciple, from a dangerous illness, by offering twenty years of his own life for that of the Amír, an offer which God accepted. Ḳuṭb-aldín's son and successor was Shaikh Ḥamíd, who died the 2nd of Jumâdâ-alawwal, A. H. 1032 (A. D. 1623, March 4), in Jahângír's reign; his Khalífah was Shaikh 'Abd-alraḥmân Cishtí, the author of the مرآة الاسرار (completed A. H. 1065 = A. D. 1655, see on this work and some of the before-mentioned Shaikhs, Rieu i. p. 359 sq.), the اوراد چشتیه and other works.

30. Ḳuṭb-al'álam Shaikh 'Abd-alḳuddûs (or alḳaddûs) bin Shaikh Isma'íl Gangú'i alḥanafí (see the Safínat-alauliyá, No. 118), on fol. 359a. He was the pupil, brother-in-law, and Khalífah of the preceding Shaikh, but got besides an investiture from almost all the Khânwâdas or Ṣúfic branches; his grandfather was Shaikh Ṣafí-aldín Ḥanafí, one of the Khalífas of Sayyid Ashraf Jahângír Simnání (see No. 23, above). Shaikh 'Abd-alḳuddûs spent thirty-five years in Radauli, left that place in A. H. 896 (A. D. 1491), in the beginning of the reign of Sulṭân Sikandar bin Bahlúl Lúdí (A. H. 894–923 = A. D. 1489–1517), at the suggestion of 'Umarkhân Kásl, one of the Sulṭân's Amírs and a pupil of himself, and went to Shâhâbâd, near Dihlí, where he stayed another thirty-five years. When in A. H. 932 (A. D. 1525, 1526) Bâbar defeated and killed Sulṭân Ibrâhím bin Sikandar bin Bahlúl Lúdí (A. H. 923–932 = A. D. 1517–1526), and sacked Shâhâbâd, 'Abd-alḳuddûs betook himself to Gangú, where he spent fourteen years more, and died the 23rd of Jumâdâ-alâkhar, A. H. 944 (A. D. 1537, November 27), or according to less trustworthy authorities, A. H. 945, 84 years old; he must consequently have been born A. H. 860 (A. D. 1456). Among his numerous sons particularly prominent were Shaikh Ḥamíd-aldín, born A. H. 886 (A. D. 1481, 1482), and Rukn-aldín, the author of the لطائف قدسی, born A. H. 897, the 5th of Jumâdâ-alawwal (A. D. 1492, March 5), and father of Shaikh 'Aziz-allâh. His eight principal Khalífas were: (a) Shaikh Jalâl-aldín Thánísarí, see below; (b) Shaikh 'Abd-alghafúr A'ẓampúrí, father of Shaikh Abú Isḥáḳ and Shaikh Aḥmad Siráj-al'árifín; (c) Khiḍrkhân, known as Shaikh Khân, of Jaunpúr; (d) Shaikh 'Abd-al'aziz of Kairâna; (e) Shaikh 'Abd-alsattâr Saháranpúrí (who died A. H. 905 = A. D. 1499, 1500, see Rieu iii. p. 890b); (f) Shaikh 'Abd-alaḥad, father of Shaikh Aḥmad Sirhindí; (g) Mír Sayyid Rafí'-aldín Akbarâbâdí; (h) Shaikh 'Abd-alraḥmân.

31. Shaikh Jalâl-almillah wa-aldîn bin Maḥmûd alfârûḳî althânîsarî, the principal pupil and Khalîfah of the preceding Shaikh (see the Safînat-alauliyâ, No. 119), on fol. 384b. He was originally of Balkh, and traced, both on father's and mother's side, his pedigree back to the second Khalîf 'Umar Fârûḳ. He died the 14th or 24th of Dhû-alḥijjah, A. H. 989 (A. D. 1582, January 9 or 19), in the same year in which he had been honoured in Thânîsar by the visit of the emperor Akbar (who was on the march to the Panjâb, to quell the rebellion of his brother Mirzâ Muḥammad Ḥakîm, the viceroy of Kâbul), the prime-minister Abû-alfaḍl, and his brother, the poet Faiḍî. The chronogram of his death, however, given here as سر دفتر اولیا, would fix the Shaikh's death in A. H. 992; but, says the author of this work, two or three years more or less in a ta'rîkh is an admissible licence (زیادتی و کمیٔ دو سه عدد در تأریخ جائز داشته اند!!). As he was ninety-five years old at the time of his death, he must have been born A. H. 894 (A. D. 1489). His six principal Khalîfas were: (a) Shaikh Nizâm-aldîn Thânîsarî, see below; (b) Shaikh 'Abd-alshakûr, his elder brother and father of Shaikh Nizâm-aldîn; (c) Ḳâḍî Sâlim of Kairâna; (d) Shaikh Mûsâ; (e) Shaikh 'Îsâ; (f) Mîr Sayyid Fâḍil, native of Tûhâna, commonly called Ḥaḍrat Mîr.

32. Shaikh Nizâm-aldîn bin 'Abd-alshakûr alfârûḳî althânîsarî albalkhî, nephew, son-in-law, and Khalîfah of the preceding Shaikh, on fol. 393a. When towards the end of A. H. 1014 (A. D. 1606), the first year of Jahângîr's reign, this emperor's rebellious son, Sulṭân Khusrau, fled from Akbarâbâd and passed through Thânîsar, he called upon Shaikh Nizâm-aldîn, who incurred thereby the emperor's displeasure, and had to leave India. Before going to Balkh, where he finally settled and died, the 8th of Rajab, A. H. 1035 or 1036 (A. D. 1626, April 5, or 1627, March 25), he performed the pilgrimage, and composed during his stay in the holy cities two commentaries on 'Irâḳî's Lama'ât (comp. Bodleian Cat., No. 1254), the شرح لمعات مکی and the شرح لمعات مدنی, the former written in Makkah, the latter in Madînah. Other works of his are the رسالهٔ حقّیّه در بیان معنت بطن وجود and the ریاض القدس, a commentary on the last two جزو of the Ḳurân. Among the contemporaries of Nizâm-aldîn, Shaikh Nizâm Nârnaulî is mentioned, with whom the former had frequent intercourse. Nizâm-aldîn's two most prominent sons were Shaikh Muḥammad Sa'îd, who returned to Thânîsar, the original home of his family, and 'Abd-alḥaḳḳ, who settled in Karnâl. Nizâm-aldîn's fourteen principal Khalîfas were: (a) Shaikh Abû Sa'îd Gangû'î, see below; (b) Shaikh Ḥusain Bhûharî (بهوهری), whose spiritual successor was Shaikh Walî Muḥammad of Nârnaul; (c) Shaikh Pâyanda of پنور, a place not far from سهرند (i. e. سرهند Sirhind); (d) Mîr Sayyid Ilâhbakhsh Lâhûrî, whose principal pupil and successor was Shaikh Muḥammad Mirzâ; (e) Shaikh 'Abd-alkarîm Lâhûrî, the author of a Persian commentary on the فصوص الحکم; (f) Shaikh Ilâhdâd Lâhûrî; (g) Shaikh Dûst Muḥammad Ṣûfî Lâhûrî; (h) Shaikh Muṣṭafâ; (i) Shaikh 'Abd-alfattâḥ; (j) Shaikh 'Abd-alraḥmân Kashmîrî, who lived in Lâhûr; (k) Sayyid Ḳâsim Burhânpûrî; (l) Ḳâḍî 'Abd-alḥayy, son of Ḳâḍî Sâlim of Kairâna; (m) Shaikh Ṣâdiḳ Burhânpûrî; (n) Shaikh Fatḥî, whose successor was Shaikh Isma'îl Akbarâbâdî.

33. Shaikh Abû Sa'îd Gangû'î alḥanafî, the Khalîfah of the preceding Shaikh, on fol. 408a. He was a grandson both of 'Abd-alḳuddûs Gangû'î (No. 30) and of Jalâl-aldîn Thânîsarî (No. 31), his mother being a daughter of the latter Shaikh. He went after his Pîr Nizâm-aldîn (No. 32) to Balkh, and afterwards returned to Gangû. The date of his death is unknown. His five principal Khalîfas were: (a) Shaikh Muḥammad Ṣâdiḳ Gangû'î, see below; (b) Shaikh Ibrâhîm Râmpûrî, one of whose Khalîfas was Pîr Muḥammad Junaidî; (c) Shaikh Muḥibb-allâh Ṣadrpûrî, died in Ilâhâbâd the 9th of Rajab, A. H. 1058 (A. D. 1648, July 30); in his اجوبه و اصوله, which are quoted here at length, he gives his discussions on Ṣûfic topics with a great dervish, or according to other authorities, with prince Dârâ Shukûh; his son was Shaikh Tâj-aldîn; (d) Shaikh Ibrâhîm Sahâranpûrî; (e) Shaikh Khwâjah Pânîpatî.

34. Shaikh Muḥammad Ṣâdiḳ bin Shaikh Fatḥ-allâh Gangû'î, nephew and Khalîfah of the preceding Shaikh, on fol. 422a. He died the 18th of Muḥarram, but the year of his death is unknown. His eight principal Khalîfas were: (a) His eldest son, Shaikh Dâ'ûd, see below; (b) His younger son, Shaikh Muḥammad Gangû'î; (c) Shaikh Ibrâhîm Murâdâbâdî, the father of Shaikh Abû Sa'îd; (d) Shaikh 'Abd-alsubḥân Sahâranpûrî; (e) Shaikh 'Abd-aljalîl Ilâhâbâdî, author of a risâlah در بیان اذکار واشغال and of an Arabic ḳaṣîdah; his son and Khalîfah was Shaikh Ghulâm Muḥyî-aldîn; (f) Shaikh Jamâl; (g) Shaikh Mubârak; (h) Shaikh Yûsuf, died in Sâmânah.

35. Shaikh Dâ'ûd, eldest son, pupil and Khalîfah of the preceding Shaikh, on fol. 435a. In A. H. 1068 (A. D. 1658), when 'Âlamgîr ascended the throne in Shâhjahânâbâd Dihlî, the Shaikh was calumniated before him, and consequently summoned to Dihlî; but he was fully acquitted. He died the 6th of Ramaḍân (year not known), but his anniversary is celebrated the 19th of Sha'bân. His five principal Khalîfas were: (a) Shaikh Saundhâ, see below; (b) Shaikh Bulâḳî (بلاقی) Kaithalî; (c) Shaikh Gharîb-allâh bin Sayyid 'Abd-alrasûl of Kairâna, a foster-brother of the author of the سیر الأقطاب (see Rieu i. p. 358b); (d) Shaikh Abû-alma'âlî, who lived at انبهته, in the district of Sahâranpûr; (e) 'Abd-alḳâdir of سنور.

36. Shaikh Saundhâ (سوندها) bin Shaikh 'Abd-almu'min Safîdûnî (Safîdûn is not far from Pânîpat), the principal Khalîfah of the preceding Shaikh, on fol. 445b. He lived 96 years, the first part of which he spent in his Pîr, Shaikh Dâ'ûd's company, the second in Bhûhar, the last in Safîdûn, the original home of his family. In A. H. 1111 (A. D. 1699, 1700), he invested the author of this work, Shaikh Muḥammad Akram, with the garment of the Khalîfah, and appointed him his spiritual successor. His four chief companions and disciples were: (a) Shaikh Muḥammad 'Alî, the father of the author, see below; (b) Shaikh Pîr Muḥammad of تهانه;

(c) Shaikh 'Uthmân of كرنال (كرنال Karnâl?); (d) Shaikh Muḥammad Ṣâdiḳ of Kaithal.

37. Shaikh Ilâhbakhsh alḥanafi albarâsawi, the grandfather of the author, on fol. 475a. He was the son of Shaikh Isma'îl bin Shaikh Bahâ-aldîn bin Shaikh Fatḥallâh bin Shaikh Ṣadr-aldîn, who traced his pedigree back to Abû Ḥanîfah Kûfî (Safînat-alauliyâ, No. 21), and the Khalîfah of Shâh Mîr Lâhûrî. His wife was Bibî Râbi'ah, who bore him three sons: (a) Shaikh 'Abd-alraḥîm, who died young; (b) Shaikh Sharaf-allâh, the father of Shaikh 'Abd-almâjid, and Shaikh 'Abd-alkarîm; (c) Shaikh Muḥammad 'Alî, the father of the author.

38. Shaikh Muḥammad 'Alî bin Shaikh Ilâhbakhsh, on fol. 478a. He was the friend and disciple of Shaikh Saundhâ (see above), and married Jân Bibî, the daughter of Shaikh Muḥammad Isḥâḳ Anṣârî, a descendant of that Abû Ayyûb Anṣârî in whose house in Madînah the prophet stayed after his flight from Makkah. He died A. H. 1127, the 7th of Jumâdâ-alâkhar (A. D. 1715, June 10), and left two sons: Muḥammad Akram, the author of this book, and Muḥammad 'Abdallâh.

Beginning: الحمد لله كاشف الاحوال على ارباب المجاهدات و جاعلهم والهين فى مقام القرب الخ.

The copy is not dated, and is probably the author's autograph. A small portion of fol. 1b, and the larger part of fol. 2, torn away. The proper order of ff. 288–294 is: 288, 293, 290–292, 289, 294. Bibliotheca Leydeniana.

No. 2705, ff. 481, ll. 17; Nasta'lîḳ; illuminated frontispiece; size, 10⅝ in. by 6½ in.

Rauḍat-alauliyâ (روضة الاولیا).

A short compendium or Unmûzaj on the great Saints of India, especially of the Dakhan, compiled by Ghulâm 'Alî Âzâd alḥusaini alwâsiṭi albalgrâmi, the author of the famous tadhkiras مآثر الكرام, سرو آزاد, خزانهٔ عامره, etc. (see further below, No. 682 sq.), in A. H. 1161 (A. D. 1748), see fol. 22a, last line but two. It gives biographical accounts of ten great Shaikhs, the last of whom is the author himself, and is apparently the basis on which he wrote in A. H. 1166 (A. D. 1753) his larger works on the Shaikhs, learned men, and poets of Balgrâm and India in general. The first biography is that of Shaikh Burhân-aldîn Muḥammad bin Maḥmûd bin Nâṣir, commonly called Algharîb alhânsawî (الغريب الهانسوى).

Beginning: نحمدك يا من تقدّست ذاته عن شوائب الامكان و تجلّت صفاته فى مراتب الاكوان و نصلّى و نسلّم على حبيبك الخ.

At the end of the short sketch of the author's life (relating his various travels and his pilgrimage to Makkah and Madînah in A. H. 1150–52 = A. D. 1737–1740) a ḳaṣîdah by the same is added: قصيده در بيان شجرهٔ بزرگان روضهٔ منوّره قدّس الله اسرارهم.

Beginning:

زبان خامهٔ مشكين كند بنام خدا
بيان سلسلهٔ اولياء روضه ادا

No. 1814, ff. 1–23a, ll. 21; clear Nasta'lîḳ; size, 9½ in. by 5½ in.

Tadhkirat-alshu'arâ (تذكرة الشعرا).

The well-known biography of Persian poets by Daulatshâh bin 'Alâ-aldaulah Bakhtîshâh (according to W. Pertsch: ibn Bakhtîshâh) of Samarḳand, who completed this work A. H. 892 (A. D. 1487), and dedicated it to Mîr 'Alî Shîr. Hammer's 'Schöne Redekünste Persiens' are principally based on it. It is divided into a muḳaddimah, seven ṭabaḳât, and a khâtimah, comp. Notices et Extr. iv. p. 220 sq., where the full list of biographies is given; Bodleian Cat., Nos. 348–359; Ricu i. p. 364; W. Pertsch, Berlin Catal., p. 597 sq.; A. Sprenger, Catal., p. 7 sq.; Cat. des MSS. et Xyl., p. 308 sq.; G. Flügel ii. p. 366 sq.; J. Aumer, p. 1; Ḥ. Khalfa ii. p. 262, No. 2819; Dorn, Das asiatische Museum, p. 349, No. 19; Rehatsek, Mulla Firuz Library, p. 130 sq.; Rosen, Persian MSS., p. 160, etc. On the various articles of this work, translated into European languages, see W. Pertsch, loc. cit. A Turkish translation of it, entitled سفينة الشعرا, appeared in Constantinople, A. H. 1259. Daulatshâh died A. H. 900 (A. D. 1494, 1495).

This copy, excellently written and comparatively old, begins, on fol. 1b: تحميدى كه شاهباز بلند پرواز انديشه بساحت (بسياجت and other copies) فضاى (كبريائى read و) آن طيران الخ. Muḳaddimah, on fol. 11a. Ṭabaḳah I (beginning with Rûdagî), on fol. 17b; II (beginning with Azraḳî), on fol. 38b; III (beginning with Nizâmî), on fol. 64a; IV (beginning with Farîd-aldîn 'Aṭṭâr), on fol. 88a; V (beginning with 'Imâd Faḳîh), on fol. 118a; VI (beginning with Sayyid Ni'mat-allâh of Kûhistân), on fol. 155a; VII (beginning with Amîr Shâhî), on fol. 197a. Khâtimah (beginning with Jâmî), on fol. 223a. In the text itself only the third ṭabaḳah is marked by a special heading; all the others have been determined both by the index on ff. 10a–11a and a comparison with the following copies.

Dated the 9th of Rajab, A. H. 960 (A. D. 1553, June 21). Bibliotheca Leydeniana.

No. 2753, ff. 246, ll. 17; Naskhî; size, 8½ in. by 6½ in.

657

Another copy of the same.

Another excellent copy of Daulatshâh's tadhkirah, dated the 15th of Muḥarram, A. H. 1095 (A. D. 1684, Jan. 3). Muḳaddimah, on fol. 10b. Ṭabaḳah I, on fol. 16b; II, on fol. 42a; III, on fol. 71a; IV, on fol. 102a; V, on fol. 136a; VI, on fol. 175b; VII, on fol. 216b. Khâtimah, on fol. 243b. Worm-eaten. The proper order of the leaves is: ff. 1–151, 154–209, 152, 153, 210–266.

No. 2730, ff. 266, ll. 17; clear and distinct Nasta'lîḳ; size, 9½ in. by 5½ in.

658

The same.

This copy, considerably older than the preceding one, is somewhat damaged on the first pages.

Dated the 8th of Dhû-alḥijjah, A. H. 1028 (A. D. 1619, Nov. 16).

No. 2337, ff. 420, ll. 15; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 6½ in. by 3½ in.

659

The same.

This copy is likewise injured in many places, especially in the corners, and worm-eaten. It is dated the 5th of Rabî'-alawwal, in the 49th year (of 'Âlamgîr? that would be A. H. 1117=A. D. 1705, June 27).

No. 809, ff. 290, ll. 17; careless and rude Nasta'lîḳ; only the first twenty-six leaves supplied by another, careful hand, on more modern paper; size, 8⅝ in. by 4⅝ in.

660

The same.

An excellent copy, not dated.

No. 2539, ff. 65–420, ll. 15; very clear and distinct Nasta'lîḳ; size, 10½ in. by 7⅝ in.

661

The same.

No date. The sixth ṭabaḳah begins here, on fol. 201a (طبقهٔ سادس), with Kamâl Khujandî; the usual beginning (viz. with Ni'mat-allâh Kûhistânî) is found here on fol. 206a.

No. 401, ff. 304, ll. 16; legible, but very incorrect Nasta'lîḳ; ff. 1 and 2 supplied later; size, 9¾ in. by 5¾ in.

662

A defective copy of the same.

This excellent copy, written in the tenth or eleventh century of the Hijrah, breaks off towards the end of the sixth ṭabaḳah, in the biography of Bâbâ Saudâ'î of Abiward, who flourished under Shâhrukh, on fol. 242b. The last words: ... ترا محنت چانی قربان, agree with the preceding copy, fol. 259b, line 4 ab infra. Muḳaddimah, on fol. 12a. Ṭabaḳah I, on fol. 18b; II, on fol. 45b; III, on fol. 76a (heading omitted); IV, on fol. 108b; V, on fol. 145b; VI, on fol. 191b (only headed طبقه, and beginning with كهبتاني (!), i. e. correctly: Ni'mat-allâh Kûhistânî). The last four pages (ff. 243 and 244), written by another hand, contain (a) the end of Jâmî's شرح فصوص الحكم, i. e. the نقد النصوص, a commentary on Muḥyi-aldîn Muḥammad bin 'Alî al 'Arabî's (died A. H. 638=A. D. 1240, 1241) نقش الفصوص, an extract from the same Arabic author's larger mystical work, the فصوص الحكم (comp. Bodleian Cat., Nos. 894, 9, and 976, and W. Pertsch, Berlin Cat., p. 274), and (b) another small prose-tract on mystical matters, beginning: الها ملكا پادشاها قبلهٔ دل مارا بتشريف ربّ اشرح لی صدری در اشعهٔ آفتاب الخ.

No. 3206, ff. 244, ll. 15 (ll. 19 on the last four pages); excellent Nasta'lîḳ; illuminated frontispiece; size, 8⅝ in. by 4¾ in.

A still more defective copy of the same.

This copy is incomplete both at the beginning and end.

It opens abruptly in the introduction, thus: ... خندق جهت رسول گفته بود بدو بخشيد الخ, corresponding to the preceding copy (No. 3206), fol. 6a, l. 8, and breaks off in the beginning of the sixth ṭabaḳah with these words: ... تصرّف و تخت حكم او درآمد گويند كه در يورش, corresponding to fol. 194a, l. 3 ab infra, in the same copy.

No. 400, ff. 181, ll. 15; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 8⅝ in. by 4¾ in.

Majâlis-alnafâ'is (مجالس النفائس).

The Caghatâi original of Mîr 'Alî Shîr Nawâ'î's biography of Persian poets, composed A. H. 896 (A. D. 1491), comp. Rieu, Turkish Cat., p. 273; W. Pertsch, Berlin Turkish Cat., p. 313; G. Flügel, ii. p. 373; Paris Cat., pp. 297, 331, and 333; J. Aumer, Türkische Handschriften, No. 148; Cat. des MSS. et Xyl., No. 553, etc.; Hammer, Handschriften, pp. 326–330; Wiener Jahrbücher, vol. 74, Anzeigeblatt, p. 11 sq., etc.; Biography of Nawâ'î, and French translation of the seventh majlis by Belin, Journal Asiatique, 5e série, tom. xvii. p. 175 sq.; extracts from the third majlis in Berezin's Chrestomathie Turque, p. 146 sq. A Persian translation of this work by Fakhrî of Harât, the author of the جواهر العجائب (see Bodleian Cat., No. 362), entitled لطائف نامه and composed about A. H. 927 (A. D. 1521), is described in Rieu i. p. 366; a later Persian version by Shâh 'Alî is mentioned in Rieu, Turkish Cat., p. 274a. Mîr 'Alî Shîr died in Jumâdâ II, A. H. 906 (A. D. 1501, beginning of January).

Beginning: يوز حمد آنكا كيم يساب جهان بستانى ايلاب الخ.

The title appears on fol. 3b, last line. The work is divided into eight Majlis, viz.:

1. Poets who died in the author's lifetime, but were never personally known to him, beginning with Ḳâsim-i-Anwâr, on fol. 5b. The heading is omitted.

2. Contemporary poets, who were personally known to him, but died before the composition of this work, i. e. A. H. 896, on fol. 18b, beginning with Sharaf-aldîn 'Alî Yazdî.

3. Contemporary Shaikhs and poets, personally known to him, and still alive at the time of the composition of this work, on fol. 46a, last line, beginning with Jâmî.

4. Fuḍalâ, or men of letters, who composed occasionally verses, on fol. 66b, first line, beginning with Pahlawân Muḥammad.

5. Noblemen of Khurâsân, who excelled in poetical composition, on fol. 84b, beginning with Daulatshâh.

6. Poets and ingenious men of other countries, on fol. 89b, beginning with Aḥmad Ḥâjîbeg.

7. Poetry and witticisms of Sulṭâns and princes, on fol. 97a, beginning with Amîr Timûr Gûrgân.

8. Sayings in prose and verse of Nawâ'î's patron, Sulṭân Ḥusain (reigned A. H. 873–911=A. D. 1469–1506), on fol. 101b.

No. 2507, ff. 1–110, ll. 13; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 8½ in. by 5½ in.

Tuḥfa-i-Sâmî (تحفهٔ سامى).

Biographies of Persian poets from the end of the ninth century of the Hijrah to the middle of the tenth, a kind of continuation to Daulatshâh's and Nawâ'î's tadhkiras, by the prince Sâm Mirzâ, son of Shâh Ismâ'îl, who was born A. H. 923 (A. D. 1517), and put to death A. H. 984 (A. D. 1576), see Rieu i. p. 367 sq.; W. Pertsch, Berlin Catal., p. 600 sq.; G. Flügel ii. p. 367; A. Sprenger, Catal., p. 12; J. Aumer, p. 1; Krafft, p. 126; and especially De Sacy in Notices et Extraits, iv. pp. 273–308, where a full list of the biographies has been given, and O. Frank, Morgenländische Handschriften der kgl. Hofbibliothek in München, p. 34 and Anhang. It was composed A. H. 957 (A. D. 1550), and divided into seven ṣaḥifas, see Rieu and Pertsch, loc. cit. This copy contains (as far as it is possible to count the single items, several names being omitted) 579 biographies.

Beginning: لله الحمد قبل كلّ كلام ـ بصفات الجلال و الاكرام حمد او تاج تارك سخن است ـ صدر هر نامهٔ نو و كهن است الخ

No. 2570, ff. 153, ll. 15; Nasta'lîḳ; illuminated frontispiece; size, 9¼ in. by 5 in.

666

Another copy of the same.

This copy, transcribed by Bâḳî Muḥammad Ḥâfiẓ Nûr of Andakhud, but likewise not dated, is much shorter than the preceding one, and more like an abridgment of the original work, containing only 474 biographies.

Beginning the same as in the preceding copy.

No. 691, ff. 73, ll. 19; clear Nasta'lîḳ; size, 9¼ in. by 6¼ in.

Khulâṣat-alash'âr wa Zubdat-alafkâr (خلاصة الاشعار و زبدة الافكار).

The famous tadhkirah of Persian poets by Taḳi-aldîn Kâshî, who was born about A. H. 946 (A. D. 1539, 1540), and completed the four volumes which form the main portion of this work in A. H. 985 (A. D. 1577, 1578). An appendix on contemporary poets he added in A. H. 993 (A. D. 1585). A revised and amplified edition he published in A. H. 1016 (A. D. 1607, 1608). An abridgment of this second edition, in which the poetical specimens are omitted, is contained in this copy, and it agrees upon the whole so well with that in Sprenger's Catal., p. 15 sq., that it will be only necessary to point out the slight differences which exist between both. That the author was engaged in the compilation of this second edition already in A. H. 997 (A. D. 1589), we learn from fol. 1100b, l. 12, where this date appears, preceded by the usual words حالا كه 'now, that.' Comp. on this important work, Bland, in Journal of the Royal Asiatic Society, ix. p. 126; A. Sprenger, Catal., pp. 13–46; W. Pertsch, Berlin Cat., p. 610 sq.

Beginning: جواهر حمد و ثنائی كه مفرّح قلوب اصحاب دين مبين و مفتاح ابواب صدور ارباب متين الخ.

The work is divided into a muḳaddimah, four faṣls, four rukns, the fourth of which is wanting in this copy, and a khâtimah, subdivided into twelve faṣls. It is dedicated to Shâh Ṭahmâsp (who died A. H. 984 = A. D. 1576), see fol. 4a, l. 3; title, on fol. 8b; index, on ff. 9a–12b; Munâjât, on fol. 12b.

Muḳaddimah on the utility of such a tadhkirah, on fol. 13b.

Four faṣls on mystical lore: first (در بيان ايجاد عشق و معرفت آنكه عشق ازليست و اين محبّت از جانب الهيست), on fol. 17a; second (در تعريف فضيلت عشق و مذمّت كسانی كه مذاق را عشق نام نهاده اند الخ), on fol. 27b; third (در تقسيم عشق بمجاز و حقيقت و شرائط محبّت از جانب محبّ الخ), on fol. 31b; fourth (در شرائط محبّت از طرف محبوب مجازی الخ), on fol. 56b.

Extracts from 'Alî's Arabic diwân (اختيارات اشعار حضرت شاه اوليا الخ), on fol. 73b.

Rukn I (comprising the first and second mujallad of the whole work), on fol. 110a. Fifty-four ancient ḳaṣîdah-writers from the time of Sabuktagîn to the eighth century (the numbers quoted in the following instances are those in A. Sprenger, Catal., p. 15 sq.).

10. The poet's name appears here distinctly as Abû Manṣûr Ḳaṭarân Ajalî alurmawî (on fol. 192a).

17. The name is spelt here thus: 'Abd-alwâsi' bin 'Abd-aljâmi' (الجامع) bin 'Umar bin al-Rabî' aljabalî alsulṭânî (on fol. 229a).

35. Here is distinctly written Shufurwah (on fol. 339b).

42. Najîb-aldîn Jarbâdḳânî (on fol. 382b).

This rukn is dated the 21st of Ramaḍân, A. H. 1038 (A. D. 1629, May 14).

Rukn II (comprising the third mujallad), on fol. 454a. Forty-two ghazal-writers and later ḳaṣîdah-writers from the eighth century to the beginning of the ninth; the first is Sa'dî of Shîrâz.

80. 'Izz-aldîn Karkhî (on fol. 586a).

88. Najm-aldîn bin Muḥammad bin Zangî (on fol. 627a).

89. Muẓaffar Harawî, died A. H. 782 (both dates of Sprenger's copy are confounded here; there is first 82 and then 20, written before 700, on fol. 636b).

This rukn is dated the 5th of Dhû-alḳa'dah, A. H. 1038 (A. D. 1629, June 26).

Rukn III (comprising the fourth mujallad), on fol. 691b. Forty-nine modern poets of the ninth and a few of the tenth century.

114. Badr-aldîn Shâshî, died A. H. 854 (here again appear both dates سبعمائة و ثمانمائة, on fol. 791a).

130. Amîr Yâdgârbeg Saifî (on fol. 862a).

132. Shaikh Walî Kalandar (on fol. 866b).

139. Sayyid Ashraf, died A. H. 854 (on fol. 875b).

141. Here spelt فصای سمرقندی (on fol. 879b).

145. Looks, both in index and text, as Fanâ'î (on fol. 889a).

This rukn is dated Muḥarram, A. H. 1039 (A. D. 1629, August–September).

Rukn IV (comprising the fifth mujallad) is missing.

Besides the poets quoted above, some others have a different spelling in the text, but in the index those agree with Sprenger.

Khâtimah: Contemporary poets, in twelve aṣls, beginning, on fol. 890b: حمد و سپاس بی عدد آفریدگار را سزد که نفس ناطقه را معدن الخ

Aṣl I, in two faṣls: Poets of Kâshân. First faṣl, on fol. 899a; second faṣl, on fol. 969b.

252. Here spelt Ḳiyâm-aldîn Muḥammad (on fol. 907a).

266. Shujâ'-aldîn Ghaḍanfar (on fol. 936a).

272. Maulânâ Faḍl instead of Afḍal (on fol. 945b).

300–301. Between these two one poet more is found in our copy, viz. Maulânâ 'Abdî (so to be read instead of عبدل) Sâkinî, died A. H. 965 = A. D. 1557, 1558 (on fol. 980b).

Aṣl II, in two faṣls: Poets of Iṣfahân. First faṣl, on fol. 981a; second, on fol. 1015a.

303. Ḥairatî is called here Ḥuznî (حزنی, on fol. 987b).

312. Here called Shâhakî Zamânî (of Zamân, in the district of Iṣfahân, on fol. 1007a).

313. Âḳâ Malik Ma'rûf (on fol. 1008a).

322. Abû Ṭâlib (on fol. 1016a).

339–340. Between both one poet more is found, viz. Maulânâ Ḥarîmî (حریمی), died A. H. 968 = A. D. 1560, 1561 (on fol. 1023a).

340. Maulânâ Ḳâsim Zârî (on fol. 1023a).

Aṣl III: Poets of Ḳumm and neighbourhood, on fol. 1029a.

356–357. Between both Maulânâ Mashrabî (on fol. 1037b).

Aṣl IV: Poets of Sâwa and environs, on fol. 1048b.

367. Called here Sûzanî (on fol. 1050b).

Aṣl V: Poets of Ḳazwîn, on fol. 1055a.

379. Precedes here 378 (on fol. 1060b).

381. Mirzâ Sulaimân (on fol. 1062b).

386–394 are found here in the following order: 391, 392, 386, 388, 389, 393, 390, 387, 394 (on ff. 1066b–1069b); between 387 and 394 appears another poet, not found in Sprenger, viz. Imâm Ḳulîbeg Fusânî (still alive in the author's time, on fol. 1068b).

Aṣl VI: Poets of Gîlân, on fol. 1071b.

406. Precedes here 405 (on fol. 1076a).

411 is wanting here.

634–636. Headings omitted.

637. Here correctly: Mîr Muḥammad Kaskanî.

638. Mîr 'Alî Kaskanî, brother of the preceding poet (on fol. 1257b).

641–642. Between both appears another poet, viz. Maulânâ Fâ'iḍî (فائضی, on fol. 1258a).

643–648. Headings omitted.

650. The takhalluṣ here seems to be Dardî (on fol. 1261a).

651. Heading omitted.

651–652. Between both Khwâjah Kamâl-aldîn, son of Ḥâfiẓ Ḥusain Ṭabîb (on fol. 1261b).

653–654. Headings omitted.

The tadhkirah ends on fol. 1264b. Ff. 1265b–1347 contain a list of those contemporary poets who sent their poetical specimens to the author after the completion of his work, in alphabetical order. It is undoubtedly the same list which Sprenger mentions as forming an appendix to the second edition (see Catal., p. 14), and which W. Pertsch, Berlin Catal., p. 612, wrongly represents as not having been mentioned by Sprenger. Pertsch, loc. cit., enumerates the poets in full. It begins, as in Pertsch, with Maulânâ Abû-alḥasan of Abîward. Bibliotheca Leydeniana.

No. 2561, ff. 1–453, No. 2562, ff. 454–901, No. 2563, ff. 902–1347, ll. 15; very incorrectly written in Nasta'lîḳ; size, 10½ in. by 7½ in.

Khâtima-i-Khulâṣat-alash'âr (خاتمهٔ خلاصة الاشعار).

This is undoubtedly the same copy of the Khâtimah or appendix to Taḳî Kâshî's tadhkirah which, according to A. Sprenger, Catal., p. 15, formerly belonged to Mr. Hall, of Banâras, and which was copied in the very year of its completion, viz. A. H. 993, in the month Jumâdâ-althânî (A. D. 1585, June), by 'Abd-alfattâḥ bin Shams-aldîn Muḥammad alkâshânî. It represents the first and fuller edition of Taḳî Kâshî's work, with all the poetical extracts, which are not to be found in the more common abridgment of the second edition. The first leaf is missing; a full index on the fly-leaves, and a second index on the last two pages.

The twelve asls are found here:

1. Poets of Kâshân (beginning with Muḥtasham), on fol. 3a.
2. Poets of Iṣfahân, on fol. 92a.
3. Poets of Kumm and neighbourhood, on fol. 144a.
4. Poets of Sâwa and environs, on fol. 162a.
5. Poets of Ḳazwîn, on fol. 173b.
6. Poets of Gîlân, on fol. 180b.
7. Poets of Tabrîz and adjacent districts, on fol. 186b.
8. Poets of Yazd and Kirmân, on fol. 198b.
9. Poets of Shîrâz, on fol. 230a.
10. Poets of Hamadân and environs, on fol. 238a.
11. Poets of Rai and neighbouring cities, on fol. 253a.
12. Poets of Khurâsân, on fol. 259a.

A short conclusion (ذيل), on fol. 309a.

No. 3112, ff. 310, 4 coll., each ll. 24; clear Nasta'lîḳ; very much worm-eaten throughout; size, 12½ in. by 7½ in.

Tadhkira-i-Naṣrâbâdî (تذكرهٔ نصرابادى).

Biographies of contemporary poets by Muḥammad Ṭâhir Naṣrâbâdî (or Naṣîrâbâdî), who began to compile this work A. H. 1083 (A. D. 1672, 1673), and divided it into a muḳaddimah, five sections (صنف), and a khâtimah. Various copies contain additions up to A. H. 1089 (A. D. 1678), and even to A. H. 1092 (A. D. 1681), comp. Bodleian Catal., No. 373; Rieu i. p. 368; W. Pertsch, Berlin Catal., p. 616; A. Sprenger, Catal., pp. 88–108, and Bland, in Journal of the Royal Asiatic Society, ix. pp. 137–140.

Muḳaddimah: Poetry of kings and princes, on fol. 5a.

Section I: Poetry of the Amîrs, Khâns, and wazîrs of Îrân and Hindûstân, on fol. 9a, in three firḳas or classes.

Section II: Poetry of the Sayyids, Najîbs, etc., on fol. 64a.

Section III: Poetry of wise and learned men, calligraphers, faḳîrs, etc., on fol. 100b, in three firḳas.

Section IV: Poetry of professional poets in 'Irâḳ, Khurâsân, Transoxania, and Hindûstân, on fol. 142b (the heading is forgotten here), in three firḳas.

Section V: Poetry of relations of the author himself. The beginning of this section is not marked. The author's own biography begins on fol. 320a, last line.

Khâtimah, containing chronograms, logogriphs, riddles, etc., on fol. 328a.

Beginning: سرسبزئ نهال خامه از طراوت الخ.

No. 2565, ff. 376, ll. 17; careless Nasta'lîḳ; size, 10½ in. by 5½ in.

Kalimât-alshu'arâ (كلمات الشعرا).

The words of the poets, a tadhkirah of the Persian poets of India, flourishing in the reigns of Jahângîr, Shâhjahân, and 'Âlamgîr, by Mirzâ Muḥammad Afḍal with the takhalluṣ Sarkhwush, who died at Dihlî, A. H. 1127 (A. D. 1715), according to the Khazâna-i-'âmirah (Bodleian Cat., No. 381, 60), or A. H. 1126 (A. D. 1714), according to the Khulâṣat-alafkâr (Bodleian Cat., No. 391, 135); even A. H. 1125 (A. D. 1713) is given as date of his death, comp. Rieu i. p. 369; W. Pertsch, Berlin Cat., p. 617; Bland, in Journal of the Royal Asiatic Society, ix. p. 168; A. Sprenger, Catal., p. 108 sq., where a detailed account of this tadhkirah is given. The title of the book (see fol. 3b, l. 6) is a chronogram, giving the date of composition as A. H. 1093 (A. D. 1682). It is arranged alphabetically, and begins (on fol. 3b) with Mîr Ilâhî (who died, according to the Khulâṣat-alafkâr, Bodleian Cat., No. 391, 36, A. H. 1060=A. D. 1650; others give the date of his death as A. H. 1057, 1063, or 1064=A. D. 1647, 1653, or 1654, see Rieu ii. p. 687, iii. p. 1091b, and A. Sprenger, Catal., p. 436); the last poet is Mîr Yaḥyâ Kâshî (who died A. H. 1074 =A. D. 1663, 1664), on fol. 103b.

Beginning: سخن جانست و ديگر گفتگو جانان زمن بشنو — اگر هر لحظه جانی تازه خواهی ابن سخن بشنو الخ.

Dated Dhû-alḳa'dah, A. H. 1154 (24th year of Muḥammadshâh's reign)=A. D. 1742, January.

No. 2003, ff. 108, ll. 12–13; written for the greater part in Shikasta; size, 6½ in. by 4½ in.

671

Another copy of the same.

Beginning as in the preceding copy; title on fol. 3b, l. 5.

The first biography, Ilâhî of Hamadân, begins on fol. 3b; the last, Yaḥyâ Kâshî, on fol. 126b, last line.

No date. 12th–13th century of the Hijrah.

No. 3169, ff. 132, ll. 12; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 7½ in. by 4½ in.

672

A fragment of the same.

This fragment of the Kalimât-alshu'arâ breaks off on fol. 36b in the specimens of a poet with the takhalluṣ Sayyid, i.e. Mîr Sayyid 'Alî (beginning on fol. 36a=fol. 51b in the preceding copy). The last words, گيسو ... مسلسل را, correspond to fol. 52b, l. 4 in the same copy. Ff. 37b and 38a contain (in a different handwriting) a few Rekhta ghazals. Bibliotheca Leydeniana.

No. 2773, ff. 1–38, ll. 16; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 8½ in. by 5½ in.

Mirât-alkhayâl (مرآة الخيال).

Biographies of renowned Persian poets and poetesses, by Shîrkhân ibn 'Alî Amjadkhân Lûdî, who completed this work in A.H. 1102 (A.D. 1690, 1691), comp. Bodleian Cat., Nos. 374 and 375, where a complete list of the biographies is given; Rieu i. p. 369b sq.; W. Pertsch, Berlin Cat., p. 618; Bland, in Journal of the Royal Asiatic Society, ix. pp. 140 and 142; A. Sprenger, Cat., p. 115, and J. Aumer, p. 3. Printed Calcutta, 1831, and Bareilly, 1848.

Beginning: ای زتو بند بر زبان نطق سخن سرای را الخ.

The first of the ancient poets is Rûdagî, on fol. 10b; the first of the modern poets Jâmî, on fol. 48a; the tadhkirah of the poetesses begins on fol. 217a.

Dated the 1st of Ṣafar, A.H. 1147 (the sixteenth year of Muḥammadshâh's reign)=A.D. 1734, July 3.

An index of the whole work is found on the fly-leaves.

No. 2011, ff. 220, ll. 17; unequal Nasta'lîḳ; size, 9 in. by 6¼ in.

674

Another copy of the same.

Beginning as in the preceding copy. The tadhkirah of poetesses is entirely missing here. No date.

No. 226, ff. 225, ll. 15; Shikasta; many damaged leaves have been carefully mended; size, 8¾ in. by 4¾ in.

675

Hamisha Bahâr (همیشه بهار).

Eternal Spring, a tadhkirah of Persian poets who flourished in India from the time of Jahângîr to the accession of Muḥammadshâh (A.H. 1131=A.D. 1719), by a Khatrî Kishanćand Ikhlâṣ, who completed this work in A.H. 1136 (A.D. 1723, 1724), see fol. 7b, ll. penult. and ultim. Compare the complete list of poets in this tadhkirah in A. Sprenger, Catal., p. 117 sq.; see also Rieu iii. p. 1086b.

Beginning, on fol. 5b: ای ذکر تو گلفروش بازار سخن الخ.

The first poet mentioned in this copy is Mîr Ilâhî (see above in No. 670), on fol. 8a, not, as in Sprenger's list, Amirkhân Anjâm, who follows here as second, on fol. 9b; the last is Aḥmad Yârkhân Yaktâ, as in Sprenger. This copy is dated A.H. 1139 (ninth year of Muḥammadshâh's reign), the 9th of Dhû-alḳa'dah (A.D. 1727, June 28), by Muḥammad Majîd, at Shâhjahânâbâd. The remark on the fly-leaf, that it was copied A.H. 1231 (A.D. 1816), is consequently wrong; there are besides seals of former owners, for instance, of Mîr Ghulâm, bearing the date A.H. 1222 (A.D. 1807, 1808). The Hamisha Bahâr fills ff. 5–173; the first leaves, ff. 1–4, and the last, ff. 174–191, contain various specimens of Persian poetry, mostly in oblique or diagonal lines. On the margin of ff. 5–29 there are additional verses also.

A former owner of this copy was Mr. Hall (Benares, 1851); see, besides, the remark of A. Sprenger, Catal., p. 117, note.

No. 3163, ff. 191, ll. 11 (in the main portion); Shikasta; size, 9¾ in. by 5¼ in.

Tadhkira-i-Nadrat (تذکرهٔ ندرت).

A large fragment of a tadhkirah of ancient and modern Persian poets, compiled by 'Alî Fiṭrat 'Aṭâ-allâh, with the takhallus Nadrat, in the nineteenth year of Muḥammadshâh's reign, A.H. 1149, 1150 (A.D. 1737), see fol. 32b, margin, ll. 11–12. It is divided into two چمن, seven گلشن, and one حدیقه or خاتمه; the former nine comprising the nine centuries of Persian poetry, from A.H. 200 to 1100 (A.D. 815–1689), the latter dealing with contemporary poets of the twelfth century. Of these ten subdivisions, only five are found in this copy, viz. Çaman I: Poets of the third century, from Rûdagî to 'Umârah, on fol. 33a; Çaman II: Poets of the fourth century, from Amîr Aḳâjî (or Aghâjî) to Abû-alfaraj Sijzî, on fol. 33b; Gulshan I and II (not separated here): Poets of the fifth and sixth centuries, from 'Unṣurî to Jamâl-aldîn 'Abd-alrazzâḳ of Iṣfahân, on fol. 34a, margin; Gulshan III: Poets of the seventh century, on fol. 61a, beginning with Kamâl-aldîn Isma'îl خلّاق المعانی, and breaking off abruptly in the account of Jalâl-aldîn Rûmî.

Beginning: ثنای فصاحت پیرا صانعی را سزاست که دندان سین سخن الخ.

Bibliotheca Leydeniana.

No. 2678, ff. 32–71, ll. 17 in the centre, ll. 34 on the margin; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 11¾ in. by 7¼ in.

677

Tadhkirat-alaḥwâl (تذکرة الاحوال).

The autobiography of Shaikh Muḥammad 'Alî Ḥazîn, who was born in Iṣfahân, in Rabî'-althânî, A.H. 1103 (A.D. 1691, December, to 1692, January), and died in Banâras, A.H. 1180 (A.D. 1766). He wrote this account of his life in A.H. 1154 (A.D. 1741), see fol. 159a, l. 7.

Beginning: نحمده و نسأله التقی و نعتصم بعروة الوثقی و نصلّی علی سیّدنا المصطفی و آله الخ.

The above title is found in Rieu i. p. 372. Other titles, given to this book, are تذکرهٔ شیخ محمّد علی حزین, in Bodleian Cat., No. 383; تاریخ احوال شیخ حزین, in A. Sprenger, Catal., p. 141; and حالات شیخ علی حزین, on the fly-leaf of this copy. An English translation of it was published by F. C. Belfour, London, 1830; the Persian text by the same, London, 1831.

Dated the 8th of Rabî'-alawwal, A.H. 1227 (A.D. 1812, March 23), at Lucknow, by پیدرو شویر بوئیس عیسوی بن فراسیکو شویر بوئیس مشتر(ا) بیلونهری, who copied it for College of Fort William, 1825.

No. 2141, ff. 1–160, ll. 11; large Nasta'lîḳ; size, 9¼ in. by 6¼ in.

Tadhkirat-almu'âṣirîn (تذکرة المعاصرین).

Biographies of one hundred contemporary poets of Persia, by the same Shaikh 'Alî Ḥazîn, compiled in India, A. H. 1165 (A. D. 1752); comp. Rieu i. p. 372; W. Pertsch, Berlin Cat., p. 621; Bland, in Journal of the Royal Asiatic Society, ix. p. 147; Garcin de Tassy, Mémoire sur la religion musulmane, p. 112, and A. Sprenger, Catal., pp. 135–141, where the full list of biographies is given.

Beginning: تعالى الله حمد بجوئيكه اوراق پريشان مجموعهٔ كون و مكانرا برشتهٔ ايجاد شيرازه الخ.

Dated by Muḥammad Anis (or as he is spelt here آنيس) the 29th of the month Sâwan, (ساون), in the year 1213 of the Bangâlî (Faslî) era (A. D. 1806, August 13).

Bibliotheca Leydeniana.

No. 2786, ff. 1–72[b], ll. 15; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 8⅝ in. by 6¼ in.

679

Another copy of the same.

Beginning as in the preceding copy. It was transcribed by the same who copied 'Alî Ḥazîn's autobiography (No. 677), and probably in the same year, viz. A. H. 1227 (A. D. 1812).

No. 2141, ff. 161–270, ll. 11; large Nasta'lîḳ; size, 9¼ in. by 6¼ in.

Majma'-alnafâ'is (مجمع النفائس).

The second half (جلد دوم) of the famous tadhkirah of Persian poets, completed A. H. 1164 (A. D. 1750, 1751), by Sirâj-aldîn 'Alî Khân Ârzû, who was born A. H. 1101 (A. D. 1690), and died A. H. 1169 (A. D. 1756); comp. A. Sprenger, Catal., p. 132; Bodleian Catal., No. 380. This copy, which is no doubt Mr. Hall's (see A. Sprenger, Catal., p. 134, note), begins with the letter ض, and ends with ى; the first poet mentioned is Ḍiyâ-aldîn Fârsî. Among the numerous works of Ârzû the most prominent are: سراج اللغة, a glossary of ancient poets; چراغ هدايت, a glossary of modern poets; تنبيه الغافلين, a criticism on Shaikh 'Alî Ḥazîn; غرائب اللغات, a glossary of Hindî words (comp. Rieu ii. p. 501, and iii. pp. 997, 1030, and 1070[b]), and خيابان گلستان, a commentary on the Gulistân (Bodleian Cat., No. 725; A. Sprenger, Catal., p. 551).

This copy is one of the oldest we have of Ârzû's work, transcribed from the author's autograph, A. H. 1166 (19th of Jumâdâ-alawwal, sixth year of Aḥmad-shâh's reign)=A. D. 1753, March 24, by Ârzû's pupil Mîr 'Ârif-allâh, known as Imâm-aldîn; it came into Kaikubâdjang's library, A. H. 1204, 2nd of Rabî'-alawwal (A. D. 1789, December 20).

No. 3116, ff. 344, ll. 17; Nasta'lîḳ, mixed with Shikasta; size, 12¼ in. by 6¼ in.

Muntakhab-i-Majma'-alnafâ'is (منتخب مجمع النفائس).

An abridgment of 'Alî Khân Ârzû's tadhkirah (منتخب تذكرهٔ خان آرزو), written in the shape of an album, and likewise identical with the one mentioned by A. Sprenger, Catal., p. 134, at the end of the note.

Ff. 2[a]–14[b] contain a complete alphabetical index of all the poets quoted in this work. On fol. 15[a] the real tadhkirah, or rather the anthology (for the biographical notices are either extremely short or left out altogether), begins with a rubâ'î by Bâyazîd Bisṭâmî. On fol. 1[b], a واسوخت in Rekhta is added.

This copy is dated the 1st of Ṣafar, A. H. 1243 (=A. D. 1827, August 24, the twenty-second year of Akbarshâh II, the son of Shâh 'Âlam and nominal emperor of Dihlî, from A. H. 1221 to 1253=A. D. 1806–1837).

No. 3117, ff. 137, 2 coll., in diagonal lines, with an additional long line between the columns; Nasta'lîḳ, mixed with Shikasta; size, 12 in. by 5½ in.

Maâthir alkirâm-i-ta'rîkh-i-Balgrâm (مآثر الكرام تأريخ بلگرام).

The first volume of the great biographical work on the famous men of Balgrâm in Audh and neighbourhood, and those other eminent Indians who were in some way or other connected with that district, by Mîr Ghulâm 'Alîkhân Ḥusainî Wâsiṭî Balgrâmî, with the takhalluṣ Âzâd, who was born in Balgrâm, A. H. 1116 (A. D. 1704, 1705), and died towards the end of A. H. 1200 (A. D. 1786, September); comp. on the author, who has been mentioned above as the first editor of the Maâthir-alumarâ, in No. 622 sq., and again in No. 655, Rieu i. p. 373; A. Sprenger, Catal., p. 142, and Bland, in Journal of the Royal Asiatic Society, ix. p. 150; and on the مآثر الكرام, Rieu iii. p. 971, and W. Pertsch, Berlin Cat., pp. 566–569, where a full list of the biographies in the second faṣl of the work (sixty-seven in the Berlin copy) is given.

The date of composition is A. H. 1166 (A. D. 1753), according to the chronogram ختامه مسك. The Maâthir-alkirâm is divided into two faṣls, the first dealing with the Fuḳarâ or Shaikhs and pious men, the second (beginning on fol. 71[b]) with the Fuḍalâ or learned men; there are seventy-seven biographies in the former, and seventy-two (five more than in the Berlin copy) in the latter. The author mentions himself in both, see ff. 65[b] and 121[a].

Beginning: نسائم المحامد سارية الى الحمى السرمدى و ازهار التصلية و التسليم الخ.

This copy was sent (according to a note in this MS.) by the author from Aurangâbâd, to Mr. Richard Johnson, at Ḥaidarâbâd, through 'Lutchmen-narain' (that is no doubt Laćhmi Narâyan, the author of the گل رعنا, a tadhkirah of Persian poets in India, composed A. H. 1181=A. D. 1767, 1768, and a faithful Ghulâm or servant of Âzâd, see Rieu iii. p. 977), the 1st of March, 1785; 100 rupees were sent in return.

No. 1320, ff. 123, ll. 21; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 9¾ in. by 5¾ in.

Sarw-i-Âzâd (سرو آزاد).

The second volume of Mîr Ghulâm 'Alî Âzâd's great biographical work on the famous men of Balgrâm and other parts of India, with the special title of Sarw-i-Âzâd, likewise composed A.H. 1166, according to the following three chronograms: نشاند ,ختم او احسن تحریر عالی کرد آزاد, and آزاد سرو سبز تازه, see the last page in this copy, and ff. 3a, ll. 6 and 7, and 158b, last two lines, in the following copy; compare on this work, A. Sprenger, Catal., p. 143, and Bland, in Journal of the Royal Asiatic Society, ix. p. 151. It is divided, like the first volume, into two faṣls: the first comprising 143 biographies of Persian poets; the second (on fol. 155b), eight biographies of Rekhta poets. At the end of the work, on fol. 165 sq., an extract is given from Mîr Ghulâm Nabî's (see A. Sprenger, Catal., p. 230, first line sq.) Hindûstânî treatise, انلك دربن, on the forms of poetry and music, composed A.H. 1154 (A.D. 1741, 1742). A complete index of all biographies on ff. 1b–4a.

Beginning, on fol. 5b: سرمایهٔ حمد نیاز مبدعی که ارواح معانی را با قوالب الفاظ آمیخت و سبعهٔ متعلّقهٔ افلاك را از در قدرت آویخت الخ.

In the preface of this (second) volume the author gives a detailed statement about the composition of the whole work; he says, that after having completed A.H. 1148 (A.D. 1735, 1736) his general tadhkirah of Persian poets, styled بد بیضا (see A. Sprenger, Catal., p. 142), he resolved upon writing a work on the literary men of his native town, which he divided into two volumes, the first to be styled مآثر الكرام الخ, and the second سرو آزاد (see fol. 6b, line 14 sq.).

No date.

No. 1852, ff. 172, ll. 21; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 9½ in. by 5½ in.

Majmû'a-i-shu'arâ (مجموعهٔ شعرا).

Selections from the poems of about 686 Persian poets, by Sirâj-aldîn Ḥusainî of Aurangâbâd, with the takhalluṣ Sirâj, also called دیوان منتخب or rather منتخب دیوانها, which gives as date of completion A.H. 1169 = A.D. 1756 (see fol. 3a, l. 7). A biography of the author and a list of those poets whose dates of death are mentioned are found in A. Sprenger, Catal., p. 148 sq.

Beginning of the preface, on fol. 1b: دیباچهٔ کتاب شرح و بیان حمد سخن آفرینی است که فهرست جمیع اسماء صفاتی الخ.

A complete index of the poets on ff. 4b–11a.

Beginning of the selections (in alphabetical order) on fol. 11b, with Shafî'â Athar (who died A. H. 1124 = A. D. 1712). Dated the 12th of Muḥarram, A. H. 1191 (A. D. 1777, February 20), and written for Mîr Ḍiyâ-aldîn Muḥammadkhân. This copy is obviously the same which was formerly in the possession of Mr. Hall, see A. Sprenger, Catal., p. 149, note.

No. 3166, ff. 234, 2 coll., each ll. 13; Nasta'lîḳ, mixed with Shikasta; size, 8¾ in. by 5¾ in.

A very large universal biography of Persian poets, with copious extracts, comprising, according to the index on ff. 1a–17a, 2200 names, by an anonymous author, without preface and colophon. This big volume, which is (to judge from the blank leaves left between chapters and single names) the first sketch of a tadhkirah only, must have been compiled between A. H. 1170 and 1180 (A. D. 1757–1766), for on fol. 95a the death of Sirâj-aldîn 'Âlîkhân Ârzû (see Nos. 680 and 681 above) is fixed in A. H. 1170 (contrary to the usual statement), and on fol. 663b Mîr Shams-aldîn Faḳîr, who died, according to A. Sprenger, Catal., p. 394, A. H. 1180 or 1181 (A. D. 1766, 1767), is spoken of as still alive. Perhaps we have got in this copy the very rare —and as yet never met with— تذكرهٔ بينظير, which was compiled A. H. 1172 or 1178 (A. D. 1758, 1759, or 1764, 1765), by Mîr 'Abd-alwahhâb Daulatâbâdî (see A. Sprenger, Catal., p. 144, No. 11). The arrangement is alphabetical; each letter forms a حديقه, and each حديقه is subdivided into three گلشن (ancient, middle, and modern poets), the last of which comprises again two چمن (viz. poets of Îrân and Tûrân, and poets of India). The first name on fol. 19b is Shaikh Abû-alḥasan Kharaḳânî. As for the old poets in particular, the biographical dates are very incorrect; Kharaḳânî's death, for example, being fixed in A. H. 352 (instead of A. H. 425), and Nâṣir bin Khusrau's even in A. H. 119 (!!).

No. 2415, ff. 936, 3 coll., ll. 15 in each; written by different hands in Nasta'lîḳ and Shikasta; size, 12¼ in. by 8 in.

Âtashkada (آتشكده).

The comparatively oldest copy of Ḥâjî Luṭf 'Alîbeg Iṣfahânî's famous collection of biographies of Persian poets, styled Âtashkada or the Fire-temple, and compiled during the years A. H. 1174–1193 (A. D. 1760–1779), comp. Bodleian Cat., Nos. 384–386, where a complete list of all the biographies is given; Bland, in Journal of the Royal Asiatic Society, vii. p. 345 sq.; Ricu i. p. 375; W. Pertsch, Berlin Cat., p. 624; A. Sprenger, Catal., p. 161, etc. The chapter on the 'royal and princely poets' has been edited by N. Bland, London, 1844; the whole work has been lithographed at Calcutta, A. H. 1249, and at Bombay, A. H. 1277. This copy, by far older than those in the Bodleian Library, the British Museum, and in Berlin, was made by Muḥammad Ḥasan almûsawî, at Shîrâz, for Mîrzâ Muḥammad, and finished in the month Jumâdâ-alawwal, A. H. 1196 (A. D. 1782, April–May), only three years after the completion of the original work itself.

Beginning: فروغ آتشكدهٔ دل و زبانهٔ اخگر زبان سپاس بيقياس قديمی است الخ

Complete index of poets on ff. 3b–5b.

First Censer (مجمرهٔ اولی), the older poets, subdivided into—

A flame (شعله), containing royal and princely poets, on fol. 5b.

A first firebrand (اخگر): the poets of Îrân, in five sparks (شرارهٔ): (a) Poets of Âdharbaijân and its dependencies, on fol. 14b; (b) Poets of Khurâsân, on fol. 29a; (c) Poets of Ṭabaristân, Jurjân, Lâhijân, Rasht, and Mâzandarân, on fol. 80a; (d) Poets of 'Irâḳ-i-'Arab and 'Irâḳ-i-'Ajam, on fol. 88b; (e) Poets of Fârs, on fol. 137a.

A second firebrand: the poets of Tûrân, in three sparks: (a) Poets of Balkh and its dependencies, on fol. 156b; (b) Poets of Khwârizm, on fol. 162b; (c) Poets of Transoxania, on fol. 166a.

A third firebrand: poets of India, in three sparks: (a) Poets of the Dakhan, on fol. 181b; (b) Poets of Dihlî, ib.; (c) Poets of Kashmîr, on fol. 184a, and a lustre (فروغ), containing poetesses, on fol. 184a.

Second Censer (مجمرهٔ ثانيه), modern and contemporary poets, subdivided into two rays (پرتو), viz.: (a) The modern poets, on fol. 185b; (b) Khâtimah and autobiography of the author himself, with extracts from his own works, on fol. 221b.

This copy was brought from Persia, 1801.

No. 2929, ff. 244, 4 coll., ll. 25; excellent, but small Nasta'lîḳ, the first two pages splendidly embellished; illuminated frontispiece; magnificent eastern binding; size, 11¾ in. by 7¾ in.

694

Another copy of the same.

This copy of the Âtashkada was written by the author's own son, 'Alî Muḥammad alshîrâzî alburûjirdî ابن المرحوم لطفعلی علی محمّد الشيرازی مسكنا البروجردی موطنا), in the reign of Fatḥ 'Alî Shâh of Persia, and finished in the month Ṣafar, A. H. 1215 (A. D. 1800, June, July). Index on ff. 3b–5b.

First Censer (مجمره), older poets, on fol. 5b.

The flame (شعله), on fol. 5b; first firebrand (اخگر), poets of Îrân, in five sparks (شراره), on ff. 14a (heading omitted), 28a, 77a, 85a, and 133a; second firebrand, poets of Tûrân, in three sparks, on ff. 152a, 157b (margin), and 161a (here must be read شرارهٔ ثالثه instead of ثانيه); third firebrand, poets of India, in three sparks, on ff. 175b (first and second شراره) and 177b margin (here again شرارهٔ ثالثه to be read instead of ثانيه).

The lustre (فروغ), poetesses, on fol. 178a.

Second Censer: modern and contemporary poets, on fol. 179a; Khâtimah (author's autobiography, etc.), on fol. 211b margin.

A geographical index on the fly-leaves at the end of the MS.

No. 3445, ff. 235, 4 coll., each ll. 17, and a fifth on the margin, ll. 34; neat, but very small Nasta'lîḳ; large illuminated frontispiece, the first two pages gorgeously embellished; size, 8½ in. by 5¼ in.

695

Lubb-i-Lubâb (لبّ لباب).

An epitome from the large and well-known tadhkirah رياض الشعرا, by 'Alî Ḳulîkhân, with the takhalluṣ Wâlih (which was completed A. H. 1161 = A. D. 1748, comp. Bodleian Cat., Nos. 377 and 378; Rieu i. p. 371; W. Pertsch, Berlin Cat., p. 622 sq.; Bland, in Journal of the Royal Asiatic Society, ix. p. 143; A. Sprenger, Catal., p. 132, No. 18, etc.), made by Ḳamar-aldîn 'Alî bin Sanâ-allâh alḥusainî alnâṣirî for Mr. Richard Johnson.

This copy is the compiler's autograph, and finished by him the 12th of Rajab, A. H. 1194 (A. D. 1780, July 14), at Lucknow.

Beginning: حمدی منزّه از وصمت انقطاع سزای بارگاه کلیمی است که الّه تذکرهٔ للمتّقین نعت کلام الخ.

It contains nearly all the same poets, who are quoted in the رياض, but much shorter, with a few biographical notices and a few specimens of their poetry; but in spite of its being only an abridgment, it is of some value as the author has made sometimes interesting additions, which are not found in the larger work. It is alphabetically arranged, and begins with Shaikh Abû Sa'îd bin Abû-alkhair.

No. 1013, ff. 236, ll. 15; Shikasta; size, 10½ in. by 6¾ in.

Khulâṣat-alafkâr (خلاصة الافكار).

Perhaps the fullest and most valuable copy extant of Abû Ṭâlib ibn Marḥûm (in the Bodleian MS. Maghfûr) Ḥâjî Muḥammad Begkhân Tabrizî alisfahânî's (born A. H. 1166 = A. D. 1753, died A. H. 1221 = A. D. 1806) important and rare tadhkirah of Persian poets, compiled in A. H. 1206 and 1207 (A. D. 1791–1793), comp. Bodleian Cat., No. 391, where the complete list of 494 poets is given; Rieu i. p. 378; Bland, in Journal of the Royal Asiatic Society, ix. pp. 153–158; A. Sprenger, Catal., p. 163; Elliot, History of India, viii. p. 298, etc.; see also Bodleian Cat., No. 1855, where the author's travels in Europe during A. H. 1213–1218 (A. D. 1799–1803) are described under the title of مسير طالبى فى بلاد افرنجى, and No. 1994, where his diwân is noticed. This copy was made, as an English letter inserted in this MS. informs us, by Mr. George Swinton, from the original work, and revised by the author in his own hand, when in Calcutta, 1804, after his return from England. Mr. Swinton gives, besides, the following particulars as to the fate of his copy: 'Having lent it afterwards to the late Dr. Leyden, it passed, with his own books, into the hands of his executors, who sold the Oriental portion of his collection to the Honourable Court of Directors (i. e. of the East India Company), in Leadenhall Street. I had quite lost sight of it until last year, when I accidentally learnt where it was. The Honourable Court were graciously pleased, on my application, to restore it to me, and I thus became once more possessor of a work to which I had attached a peculiar value for the sake of its author, under whom I had studied Persian in London, previously to my appointment to the Bengal Civil Service. Having now gratified my desire of having it again, I conceive that I cannot more appointedly manifest my regard for the memory of its author, as one of the most enlightened and noble-minded of the natives of India, nor better evince my grateful sense of the Honourable Court's liberality in placing the work at my disposal, than by replacing it on the shelves of their Library for the general benefit of Oriental scholars who, like myself, are admirers of the Persian Muse.'

This letter is dated '29th August, 1851, 4 Athol Crescent, Edinburgh.' The MS. was numbered 53 in the Bibliotheca Leydeniana, and is the same which Mr. Bland has described in No. xi of his valuable paper; the pages containing the description are annexed to this copy.

Beginning, on fol. 1b: لآلی منشور سپاس وستایش باستحقاق نثار دامن کبریای ناطمی تواند بود الخ.

The twenty-eight Ḥadîḳas, containing biographies and poetical specimens of 310 poets, begin, on fol. 8b, with Abû Sa'îd bin Abû-alkhair.

The ذَيْل or appendix, giving specimens of 159 (in Elliot 181: 160) other poets, begins on fol. 328a; the Khâtimah, with twenty-four more poets, including the author himself, on fol. 344b.

The five treatises begin on fol. 366a: 1. رساله در علم اخلاق (on ethics), on fol. 366a. 2. مصطلحات موسيقى (on music), on fol. 368b. 3. در علم عروض وقافيه (on prosody and rhyme), on fol. 370b. 4. مختصر در فنون خمسهٔ طبّ (on medicine), on fol. 376a. 5. لُبّ السِيَر وجهانتما (universal history, biography, and geography), on fol. 396a.

The fifth and last treatise, the longest of all, is subdivided into four bâbs, viz.: (a) در تبيين احوال انبيا (the ancient prophets); (b) وقائع خلفاء (the Khalifs), in seven faṣls; (c) in seven faṣls, on the wise men of Greece and Rome, the companions, etc., of the prophet (صحابه و تابعين), Shaikhs, 'Ulamâs, and poets of Islâm; (d) the other dynasties of the East, contemporary with and posterior to the 'Abbâside Khalifs; although the historical notices are very short and concise, they abound in many and very correct chronological dates; on fol. 418b, l. 4 ab infra, for instance, Rûdagî's death is fixed (and no doubt correctly) in A. H. 343 (A. D. 954, 955). This abridgment of universal history, which sometimes appears as a separate work (see Rieu iii. p. 895, and Bland, loc. cit., p. 47), was compiled A. H. 1208 (A. D. 1793, 1794). Beginning of the Lubb-alsiyar wa jahânnumâ: الحمد لله ربّ العالمين ..... امّا بعد ابجد خوان دبستان نادانى ابو طالب ابن محمّد تبريزى الخ.

The chronogram for the commencement of the whole work, viz. 1206, is جمع بكجا خلاصة الافكار.

Bibliotheca Leydeniana.

A few leaves (ff. 107–110) are unfortunately quite parched, and consequently almost crumbling to pieces.

No. 2692, ff. 473, ll. 23; small, neat, and very distinct Nasta'lîḳ; size, 12½ in. by 8¾ in.

697

Another copy of the same.

The list of poets begins on fol. 8b, and concludes on fol. 320b. The ذيل or appendix contains only sixteen names in this copy as compared with the 159 or 160 of other copies. The four treatises on ethics, music, prosody, and medical science are entirely missing here; but the fifth, viz. the abridgment of general history, لبّ السير و جهانتما, in four bâbs, is found here on ff. 322b–390.

Beginning as in the preceding copy. No date.

No. 3115, ff. 390, ll. 21; clear and distinct Nasta'lîḳ; size, 10½ in. by 7½ in.

Tadhkira-i-'Alî Ḥusainî Gardîzî (تذكرهٔ علی حسینی گردیزی).

A tadhkirah of Rekhta poets, by 'Alî alḥusainî algardîzî (see fol. 1b, l. 3 ab infra), compiled in Persian, A. H. 1165 (A. D. 1752), at Dihlî, comp. A. Sprenger, Catal., p. 178; Rieu iii. p. 1071; Garcin de Tassy, Littérature Hindouie, etc., 2nd ed. i. p. 523; Journal Asiatique, 5e série, ii. p. 369. It is arranged alphabetically, and contains, according to the index on ff. 70b and 71a, ninety-seven biographies. It begins with Sirâj-aldîn 'Alîkhân Ârzû (see above, Nos. 680 and 681), on fol. 3b, and ends with 'Abd-alwahhâb Yakrû, a pupil of Âbrû, on fol. 70b, l. 2.

Beginning: ابتدای سخن بحمد سخن آفرینی سزاست که سر لوح نسخهٔ کائنات را الخ.

This is the oldest of the India Office copies, dated A. H. 1180 (A. D. 1766, 1767), and belonged formerly to Mr. J. Edward Hall (Benares, 1851), who lent it to Dr. A. Sprenger, as we learn from the latter's Catal., p. 178, note. On ff. 71b and 72 there is added by another hand the index of some Hindûstânî medical work. A few Rekhta baits, on fol. 1a.

No. 3168, ff. 1–72, ll. 15; Nasta'lîḳ, written by two different hands (the first on ff. 1–31, the second in the handwriting of the colophon and date on ff. 32–71a); size, 8¼ in. by 4½ in.

Another copy of the same.

This copy, dated by Mu'în-aldîn Bhagalpûrî the first of Dhû-alḥijjah, A. H. 1216 (A. D. 1802, April 4), belonged originally to Tîpû's library. Later owners of it were: Ḥâfiẓ Aḥmad Kabîr, Maulawî Riḍâ Ḥasan-khân Bahâdur, and Mr. J. Edward Hall, who got it from the latter, the 22nd of October, 1848, at Calcutta.

This is the second of the two copies lent by Mr. Hall to Dr. A. Sprenger, see the latter's note in his Catal., loc. cit. The first biography, that of 'Alîkhân Ârzû, begins here on fol. 3b, last line; the last, that of 'Abd-alwahhâb Yakrû, on fol. 79b. There is no index in this copy.

Beginning as in the preceding copy.

No. 3170, ff. 79, ll. 13; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 8¾ in. by 5¾ in.

700

The same.

This copy, which contains, according to the index on ff. 32b and 33a, 108 poets, was transcribed in Calcutta by امجد (امجد ؟) علی بندوای, in the year 1213 of the Bangâli era (=A. D. 1805, 1806), and begins in the usual way, on fol. 33b. The author's name appears on fol. 34a, first line; the first biography ('Alîkhân Ârzû), on fol. 36a, l. 1; the last (Yakrû), on fol. 118b.

Bibliotheca Leydeniana.

Makhzan-i-Nikât (مخزن نكات).

The most valuable biography and anthology of the earlier Rekhta poets, written in Persian by Muḥammad Kiyâm-aldîn bin 'Alî, with the takhalluṣ Ḳâ'im of Čandpûr (see title and author's name here on fol. 2a, ll. 6 and 8), comp. A. Sprenger, Catal., p. 179 (it is one of the authorities used by Sprenger in his most valuable alphabetical list of Rekhta poets). The title is a chronogram, giving as date of composition A. H. 1168 (A. D. 1754, 1755), comp. also fol. 75a, ll. 3 and 4. The author died A. H. 1210 or 1207 (A. D. 1795, 1796, or 1792, 1793), comp. A. Sprenger, loc. cit.

Beginning: رنگینیٔ کلمات و دلنشینی فقرات بحمد سخن بناهی است که بنای الخ.

It is divided into three ṭabaḳas (see fol. 2b, ll. 2 and 3), viz.:

First ṭabaḳah (the older poets, در بیان اشعار شعرای متقدّمین), on fol. 2b, beginning with Sa'dî, on fol. 3a, and ending with Mîr Ja'far, with the takhalluṣ Ja'far, the contemporary of Bîdil (see A. Sprenger, Catal., p. 242, l. 21 sq.), on fol. 13b.

Second ṭabaḳah (the poets of the middle period, در ذکر کلام سخنوران متوسّطین), on fol. 14a, beginning with Shâh Mubârak, with the takhalluṣ Âbrû (A. Sprenger, Catal., p. 196, l. 5 sq.), on fol. 14b, and ending with the Afghân Kamtarîn (A. Sprenger, Catal., p. 247, l. 18 sq.), on fol. 35a.

Third ṭabaḳah (the modern poets, در بیان اشعار و احوال شعرای متأخّرین), on fol. 35a, beginning with Mîr Shams-aldîn Faḳîr (A. Sprenger, Catal., p. 223, l. 21 sq.), on fol. 36a, and ending with Kiyâm-aldîn 'Alî (bin 'Alî ?) Ḳâ'im, the author of this work.

No date.

No. 3522, ff. 86, ll. 11; clear and distinct Nasta'lîḳ; size, 8¼–8¾ in. by 6¼–6¾ in.

702

'Iyâr-alshu'arâ (عیار الشعرا).

The touchstone of poets, a very extensive, but utterly uncritical tadhkirah of Rekhta poets, by Khûb Čand bin Bhawânî Čand bin Râi Salâmatrâi bin 'Ajâ'ib Râi Kâyath, with the takhalluṣ Dhakâ (acumen), or, as Sprenger reads, Dhukâ (sun), see fol. 2a, ll. 3 and 4, and fol. 137a, l. 9, a native of Dihlî, who lived in Sikandarâbâd, and compiled, or at least began to compile, this tadhkirah in A. H. 1208=A. D. 1793, 1794, or 1213=

A.D. 1798, 1799 (according to a rather ambiguous chronogram on fol. 2b, l. 8), at the request of his teacher Mîr Naṣîr-aldîn Naṣîr, see fol. 138a, l. 7. The title appears on fol. 2b, l. 3. According to A. Sprenger, Catal., pp. 184 and 185, he must have been engaged in this work more than thirty years, since a date as late as A.H. 1247 is found in it. He died A.H. 1262 (A.D. 1846). In the preface, on fol. 2a, l. 3 ab infra, he mentions his previous work, the دیوان ذکا.

Beginning: حمد بیحدّ داوری را سزد که به کلك قدرت نقش وجود انسان را بر کرسی الخ.

The tadhkirah is arranged alphabetically, beginning with Áftâb, that is, the emperor Shâh 'Âlam, on fol. 2b.

The author's own biography, with copious extracts from his Rekhta poems, begins on fol. 137a.

No date.

No. 3131, ff. 474, ll. 15; careless Nasta'lîḳ, mixed with Shikasta; size, 9¼ in. by 6 in.

703

Gulshan-i-Hind (گلشن هند).

A tadhkirah of the most famous Rekhta poets, written in Hindûstânî by Mirzâ Luṭf, A.H. 1215 (A.D. 1800, 1801), at the request of Mr. Gilchrist (see fol. 2a, l. 4 ab infra, and fol. 2b, l. 12).

Beginning: رعنائی اور زیبائی دلبران سخن‌رو اس زینت آفرین کی حمد سی حاصل هی الخ.

The first poet of this alphabetical tadhkirah is Áftâb, on fol. 4a; the last, Yakrang, on fol. 195a.

No date. On the inner side of the binding is an entry from A.H. 1265 (A.D. 1849). Comp. A. Sprenger, Catal., p. 184.

No. 3126, ff. 196, ll. 17; the larger portion is written in Shikasta; ff. 42–79 and 81–104 in large and stiff Nasta'lîḳ; fol. 76b and parts of fol. 133 left blank; a few pages in diagonal lines; size, 11¼ in. by 6¼ in.

f. Miscellaneous.

Majâlis-almu'minîn (مجالس المؤمنین).

Biographies of famous Shî'ites, from the beginning of Islâm to the rise of the Ṣafawî dynasty, and the triumph of the Shî'ah faith as the acknowledged state religion in Persia, A.H. 905 (A.D. 1499), composed between A.H. 993–1010 (A.D. 1585–1602), by Nûr-allâh bin Sharîf alḥusainî almar'ashî alshûshtarî, and entitled Majâlis-almu'minîn (see fol. 2b, ll. 6 and last but one); comp. Bodleian Cat., Nos. 367–370; Rieu i. p. 337; W. Pertsch, Berlin Cat., p. 564 sq.; Goldziher, Beiträge zur Literaturgeschichte der Shî'a und der sunnitischen Polemik, Wien, 1874; O. Loth, Zeitschrift der D. M. G., vol. 29, p. 676. Printed in Ṭaharân, A.H. 1268.

The work is divided into an introduction (فاتحه) and twelve sections (مجلس), viz.:

فاتحه در تحقیق تعریف مطلق شیعه و شیعهٔ امامیّهٔ اثنا عشریّه (on the Shî'ah in general and the Imâmiyyah or Ithnâ-'ashariyyah sect in special), on fol. 2b, last line.

مجلس اوّل در ذکر بعضی از اماکن لطیفه و مواطن شریفه که آنرا با ائمّهٔ طاهرین و شیعهٔ با اخلاص ایشان اختصاص خاصّ حاصل است (on places connected with the Shî'ah and the Imâms), on fol. 10a.

مجلس دوم در بیان طائفهٔ چند که بتشیّع مشهور و در سلك اهل ایمان مذکورند (on some Shî'ah tribes), on fol. 51b.

مجلس سیوم در ذکر اکابر شیعه از اصحاب حضرت سیّد الانام (on the great Shî'ites among the Aṣḥâb or companions of the prophet), on fol. 66a.

مجلس چهارم در ذکر اکابر دین و افاضل مؤمنین از زمرهٔ تابعین (on the Tâbi'în or followers of the Aṣḥâb), on fol. 129a.

Ṭabaḳât-i-Shâhjahâni (طبقات شاهجهاني).

A large collection of succinct biographies of all the great Sayyids, Shaikhs, Saints, Ḥakîms, 'Ulamâs, and poets, who flourished from the beginning of Timûr's reign down to the reign of the emperor Shâhjahân, compiled about A. H. 1046 (A. D. 1636, 1637) by Muḥammad Ṣâdiḳ, and dedicated to Shâhjahân (A. H. 1037–1068=A. D. 1627–1658), comp. Rieu iii. p. 1009; Elliot, History of India, vii. p. 133. It is divided into ten ṭabaḳât (every one containing three bâbs), viz.:

Ṭabaḳah I: Famous men in Timûr's reign (A. H. 770–807=A. D. 1369–1405), on fol. 6a (bâb II, on fol. 23b; bâb III, on fol. 30a).

Ṭabaḳah II: Famous men, who lived under Mirzâ Mîrânshâh and died under Sulṭân Shâhrukh (A. H. 807–850=A. D. 1405–1447), on fol. 40a (bâb II, on fol. 63a; bâb III, on fol. 75b).

Ṭabaḳah III: Famous men under Sulṭân Muḥammad bin Mirzâ Mîrânshâh and Mirzâ Ulughbeg bin Mirzâ Shâhrukh (A. H. 850–853=A. D. 1447–1449), on fol. 85b (bâb II, on fol. 95a; bâb III, on fol. 102b).

Ṭabaḳah IV: Famous men, who lived and died under Sulṭân Abû Sa'îd Gûrgân (A. H. 854–873=A. D. 1450–1469), on fol. 109a (bâb II, on fol. 118a; bâb III, on fol. 124a).

Ṭabaḳah V: Famous men, who lived and died under Mirzâ 'Umar Shaikh Bahâdur, son of Sulṭân Abû Sa'îd Gûrgân (A. H. 873–899=A. D. 1469–1494), on fol. 133b (bâb II, on fol. 147a; bâb III, on fol. 156b).

Ṭabaḳah VI: Famous men under Sulṭân Bâbar (A. H. 900–937=A. D. 1495–1530), on fol. 161b (bâb II, on fol. 179b; bâb III, on fol. 187a).

Ṭabaḳah VII: Famous men under Sulṭân Humâyûn (A. H. 938–963=A. D. 1531–1556), on fol. 192a (bâb II, on fol. 205b; bâb III, on fol. 215b).

Ṭabaḳah VIII: Famous men under Sulṭân Akbar (A. H. 963–1014=A. D. 1556–1605), on fol. 223b (bâb II, on fol. 261b; bâb III, on fol. 284b).

Ṭabaḳah IX: Famous men under Sulṭân Jahângîr (A. H. 1014–1037=A. D. 1605–1627), on fol. 348a (bâb II, on fol. 369a; bâb III, on fol. 380a).

Ṭabaḳah X: Famous men, contemporary with Sulṭân Shâhjahân, from A. H. 1037–1046=A. D. 1627–1636, 1637, on fol. 395a (bâb II, on fol. 415b; III, on fol. 424a).

After fol. 434 two leaves are missing. Worm-eaten and slightly injured throughout.

Beginning: آغاز سخن بسپاس و ستایش خداوند بی نیاز الخ.

No. 259, ff. 435, ll. 15; Nasta'lîḳ; illuminated heading on fol. 1b; size, 7¾ in. by 4¼ in.

706

The autobiography of a modern Persian, who occupied various positions, in the reign of Fatḥ 'Alî Shâh (A. H. 1212–1250=A. D. 1797–1834), but conceals his name with the greatest care. He was born the 16th of Jumâdâ II, A. H. 1197, at Iṣfahân (A. D. 1783, May 19), see fol. 5a, ll. 4 and 3 ab infra, and began to note down the events of his life, at the request of some true friends and companions, in the month Dhû-alḥijjah, A. H. 1239 (A. D. 1824, August), see fol. 2b, l. 4 sq. He mentions incidentally his grand-uncle 'Abd-alraḥîmkhân (fol. 41b, l. 6), and three brothers of his, viz. Mirzâ 'Alî Akbar, Mirzâ 'Alî Riḍâ, and Fatḥ-allâhkhân (fol. 42b). If the last-mentioned brother should be identical with Fatḥ-allâhkhân, son of Luṭf 'Alikhân, the last reigning prince of the Zand dynasty (who was defeated, captured, and murdered in A. H. 1209=A. D. 1795), the anonymous author would of course be a son, and probably the youngest son, of that unfortunate ruler also, but الله اعلم!

The biography itself is divided into four bâbs, with the following headings:

1. در کیفیّت نسب, on fol. 3b (the author traces his genealogy back to Ḥâjî Ḳiwâm-aldîn Shîrâzî, a contemporary of Shâh Shujâ'-i-Muẓaffarî, A. H. 760–786=A. D. 1359–1384).

2. از زمان ولادت الی اوان مغضوب شدن از سلطان جهانیان و قبلهٔ عالم و عالمیان, on fol. 5a.

3. در انحراف مزاج مبارک سلطانی و اثبات حقّیّت احکام قضا نظام بادلّه و براهین عقلیّه بتقدیر قادر سبحانی, on fol. 25a.

4. تفصیل احوال بعد از سیاست و یاسا و اعطاف زیاده از حدّ و احصی و الطاف شاهنشاه معدلت گستر ذرّه پرور, on fol. 38a.

On fol. 53a there is inserted a poetical description of the earthquake of Shîrâz, some years before the composition of this autobiography, by Mirzâ Kûćak, of Shîrâz, a famous penman and calligrapher (see Rieu ii. p. 786b), entitled: مرزا کوچك در باب زلزلهٔ شیراز.

On ff. 61a–139 a historical treatise by the author himself is added, a concise account of old Persian kings, entitled: گفتار در ذکر مختصری از وقائع اوضاع و احوال ملوك پسندیده شیم عجم کبار چهار طبقه, divided into the customary four ṭabaḳât, viz.: 1. Pishdâdians, on fol. 61b; 2. Kayânians, on fol. 80b; 3. Ashkânians, on fol. 93b; and 4. Sâsânians, on fol. 101a.

Beginning of the autobiography, on fol. 1b: بس بگردید و بگردد روزگار دل بدنیا در نبندد هوشیار الخ

Dated the 29th of Ramaḍân, A. H. 1253 (A. D. 1837, Dec. 27), by Abû-alḳâsim bin 'Abd-alriḍâ, of Ḳazwin.

No. 3399, olim 16. J. 13, ff. 139, ll. 9; clear Nasta'lîḳ; size, 6 in. by 4¼ in.

IX. Geography, Cosmography, and Topography.

Tarjuma-i-almasâlik wa-almamâlik (ترجمهٔ المسالك و الممالك).

The same Persian adaptation of the famous geographical work by Abû Isḥâḳ Ibrâhîm bin Muḥammad al-Fârisi, better known as al-Iṣṭakhri, called مسالك الممالك, and probably completed A.H. 340 (A.D. 951, 952), as a revised and enlarged edition of Abû Zaid Aḥmad bin Sahl al-Balkhi's (died A.H. 322 = A.D. 934) صور الاقاليم or اشكال البلاد, which is described in G. Flügel ii. 424 and 425, and begins: الحمد لله مبدئ (مبتدئ) النعم و ولى الحمد و صلّى الله على سيّد المرسلين وآله اجمعين امّا بعد چنين گويد خداوند سخن كه مراد ما از تصنيف اين كتاب الخ.

It is besides identical with the one noticed in H. Khalfa, v. p. 509, No. 11869. On the very intricate question of the relationship between Abû Zaid Balkhi's and Iṣṭakhri's respective works and the frequent mixture of both, as well as on the different Persian paraphrases extant, comp. especially De Goeje's splendid article on the 'Istakhri-Balkhi Frage' in the Zeitschrift der D. M. G. vol. xxv, pp. 42–58, and Rieu i. p. 416; other versions are noticed in H. Khalfa iv. p. 112; W. Pertsch, p. 61; B. Dorn, Das Asiatische Museum, p. 666; Rieu, loc. cit., etc. An abridged Persian translation is contained in Sir W. Ouseley's 'Oriental Geography of Ebn Haukal,' London, 1800; a fuller version in the صور البلدان by Muḥammad bin As'ad bin 'Abdallâh, see Bodleian Cat., No. 396. The title given to the work on fol. 1b, l. 11 in the present copy, is, just as in Flügel's: مسالك و ممالك. Unfortunately our MS. is very defective; there is a large lacuna of, at least, fourteen leaves after fol. 1b, comprising the greater part of the preface and the beginning of the geography itself, and at the end the copy is incomplete also. On ff. 2a–3a a part of the ذكر دريای پارس is found; on fol. 3b the ذكر ديار مغرب begins. The copy breaks off on fol. 95b, in the middle of a chapter, styled: مسافات شهرهای سغد و سمرقند.

No. 1026, ff. 95, ll. 17; good old Naskhi; many maps; some leaves injured; size, 10¼ in. by 6¼ in.

Ṣuwar-alaḳâlim (صور الاقاليم).

A geographical compendium, styled both in the colophon and on fol. 1a صور الاقاليم, and identical with that described by Rieu i. p. 420 sq. The compiler, whose name is not mentioned, was a servant of Amîr Mubâriz-alḥaḳḳ wa-aldunyah wa-aldîn Muḥammad (see fol. 2b, l. 6), the founder of the Muẓaffarî dynasty (blinded by his son Shâh Shujâ', A.H. 760 = A.D. 1359). According to a passage in one of the British Museum copies this little book was composed A.H. 748 (A.D. 1347, 1348); comp. also Mélanges Asiatiques, vols. iv. p. 54, vi. p. 574, and vii. p. 43.

Beginning: الحمد لله ربّ العالمين ..... قال الله تبارك تعالى سنريهم آياتنا فى الآفاق و فى انفسهم حتّى يتبيّن لهم انّه الحقّ امّا بعد در تواريخ آمده كه چون سكندر بن فيلقوس الخ.

It is divided into two bâbs:

The first, subdivided into two faṣls, viz.:

فصل اوّل در ذكر كرهٔ زمين و مقدار و مساحت آن و معرفت طول و عرض بلدان و خواصّ مواضع (the terrestrial globe, its dimensions, etc.), on fol. 3b.

فصل دوم در ذكر آفاق جنوبى و خطّ استوا و ما يتعلّق و ينسب اليه (the southern hemisphere, the equator, etc.), on fol. 12b.

The second is subdivided into seven faṣls, each dealing with one of the seven climates, on ff. 22b, 41a, 51a, 84a, 107a, 113a, and 117a.

Dated the 12th of Ṣafar, A.H. 1220 (A.D. 1805, May 12).

Bibliotheca Leydeniana.

No. 2725, ff. 1–130, ll. 12; Nasta'liḳ; Arabic quotations in Naskhi; size, 8¼ in. by 6¼ in.

Mirât (مرآت).

The first two bâbs of the earliest Persian adaptation, as it appears, of the first part of the Arabic cosmography of Zakariyyâ bin Muḥammad bin Maḥmûd al-Ḳazwini (died A.H. 682 = A.D. 1283), the well-known عجائب المخلوقات و غرائب الموجودات (Arabic text edited by Fr. Wüstenfeld, Göttingen, 1848, German translation by Dr. H. Ethé, first volume, Leipzig, 1868), in the form of a mathnawi, by Shaikh Jalâl-aldîn Ḥamzah Âdhuri (or Âdhari) of Asfarâ'in (the author's name is left out in this copy, but appears in the following one), who flourished in the reign of Shâhrukh, and died A.H. 866 (A.D. 1461, 1462, comp. A. Sprenger, Catal., p. 315 sq., and Rieu i. p. 43). Its proper title is مرآت, the mirror, or according to a colophon, on fol. 38a, عجائب و غرائب, wonderful and curious things (in Daulatshâh, A. Sprenger, Catal., p. 316, and in the colophon of the present copy, عجائب الغرائب; in Sir Gore Ouseley's Catal., p. 2, and W. Pertsch, Berlin Cat., p. 161, عجائب المخلوقات, in the latter also عجائب الدنيا), and it consists of four distinct bâbs, viz.: 1. طامّت الكبرى; 2. غرائب الدنيا; 3. عجائب الاعلى; 4. كتاب سعى وصفا. Besides Ḳazwini's cosmography, which is usually styled here عجائب الدنيا, sometimes also عجائب المخلوق, other works have furnished materials for this poem, for instance, a كتاب جواهر بركات, a كتاب حيات, and others; comp. fol. 5a, ll. 1–11:

چون خط وخال وغمزهٔ معشوق ـ هست يكسر عجائب المخلوق
از تواريخ وز كتاب حيات ـ وز كتاب جواهر بركات
از جميع حديث وز تفسير ـ وانچه از تحفه بود عقل پذير
وز كتاب عجائب الدنيا ـ نتوان كرد جمله را احصا
صورت جمله آفرينش دوست ـ شد درينجا عيان چو مغز از پوست
هست صورت نماى موجودات ـ زان سبب نام كردمش مرآت
مشتمل شد چو بر چهار ابواب ـ چار نام آمدش زچار كتاب

اوّلین نسخه طامّت الکبراست ـ دومینش[1] عجائب الدنیاست
سیومینش عجائب الاعلی ـ نام چارم کتاب سعی وصفا
لیاك فحوای این خجسته کتاب ـ بعد حمد مفتّح الابواب
هست تفصیل علم موجودات ـ معرفت در کمال مخلوقات

That the author intended his work for instruction and not for amusement, he clearly states in several passages, for instance, on fol. 4b, last line:

اصل این نسخه بر حکایت نیست
غیر تأویل علم و حکمت نیست

on fol. 5a, l. 12:

معرفت دان بنای اصل کتاب ـ کان بود فرض بر اولوا الباب and on fol. 42b, last line:

حرفهای حقائق عالم ـ اندرین لوح برده ام بقلم

Our copy contains only the first two bâbs, viz.:

1. طامّت الکبری, on ff. 1b–38a, beginning:

خالق الخلق و هو مولانا ـ ذکره بالتقدّم اولی

This first bâb is a kind of introduction or preliminary discourse on the creation in general, and contains, after the usual praises of God, Muḥammad, etc., and an account of the reasons the author had for writing this poem, the following sections:

تفصیل مراتب عالم عُلْوی و سُفْلی, on fol. 6b.
تبیین اسرار مخلوقات, on fol. 7a.
بیان حکما در اصل خلقت عالم کون, on fol. 8b.
سخن بعضی از علما در تحقیق ایجاد عالم and سخن بعضی از اهل توحید, on fol. 9a.
اقوال مختلفه از هر طائفه در مادّهٔ ایجاد عالم, on fol. 10a.
تحقیق حال بر سخن ارباب وحدت and تمثیل در باب اختلافات اشیا, on fol. 10b.
رجوع بکمالات قدرت الهی که نامتناهی است, on fol. 12b.
کیفیّت صفات در مراتب موجودات, on fol. 13b.
در حکمت وجود آدم که خلاصهٔ عالم است, on fol. 14b.
حکایت پسر روستائی و سرگذشت او, on fol. 20b.
ذکر خاصّیّت ترتیب در اشیا از حکمت حق تعالی, on fol. 27b.
مناسبت آفاق با انفس و کیفیّت حال آدمی, on fol. 30a.
تمثیل در حقیقت حال انسان و کیفیّت اطوار, on fol. 32b.
حکایت آن دوست که آئینه از برای حضرت یوسف برده, on fol. 34a.
آغاز غرائب عالم و عجائب بنی آدم, on fol. 35a.

2. غرائب الدنیا, on ff. 39b–233a, beginning:

ابتدا میکنم به بسم الله ـ کوست بر کلّ کائنات گواه

The second bâb, two other copies of which are preserved in the Bodleian Library, see the full description of them in the Bodleian Cat., Nos. 402 and 403 (where by a confusion of this second bâb with the third, which has not yet been found anywhere, as title in the colophon is given غرائب الاعلی), corresponds upon the whole to the muḳaddimah and the second maḳâlah of Ḳazwini's cosmography (فی السُفلیّات), whereas the first maḳâlah of that work (فی العُلویّات) is the subject of the third bâb, the عجائب الاعلی. After a praise of God and Muḥammad there follows here an explanation of the terms غریب and عجیب, after which the poetical description of all the sublunar things begins, in about the same order, as in Ḳazwini's work; the first section, on fol. 55a, deals with the غرائب جمادات, or the wonders of the inanimate things, general geography, longitude and latitude, mountains, wells, lakes, seas, islands, minerals, etc.; the following sections treat of plants, birds, huge beasts, Ghûls, monkeys, different sorts of men, and finally of man himself.

Last verse:

چون غرائب نداشت او انجام ـ ختم کردیم و الصلوة و السلام

Dated the first of Rabî'-alâkhar, A.H. 1135 (A.D. 1723, January 9).

No. 78, ff. 233, 2 coll., each ll. 15; clear and distinct Nasta'lîḳ; size, 9 in. by 4½ in.

710

Another copy of the second bâb of the Mirât.

The second bâb of the Mirât, with its proper title, غرائب الدنیا (which appears correctly here, on fol. 1a, whilst it is in other places incorrectly styled غرائب الدنیا و عجائب الاعلی, as if the copy included the third bâb also), quite agreeing with ff. 39b–233a in the preceding copy. Copied by Sayyid 'Abd-alkarim Rajâ'i; the year is omitted, only the 9th of Dhû-alḥijjah is given. Ff. 6–23 are misplaced; their right order is: 6, 15–22, 7–14, and 23.

No. 191, ff. 129, 2 coll., each ll. 21; clear Nasta'lîḳ; size, 9 in. by 5¼ in.

A defective copy of the same.

The same second bâb of the Mirât in a shorter redaction (with omission of various passages and verses) and incomplete besides in consequence of a lacuna between ff. 21 and 27, comprising ff. 19a, l. 8—21a, l. 5 of the preceding copy. The proper order of the leaves is: ff. 1, 2, 26, 16–21, 27–94. Beginning on fol. 26b, the same as in the preceding copies. An index on ff. 1a–2b.

On the fly-leaf and the back of the binding the copy is incorrectly styled عجائب الدنیا.

Dated the 20th of Rajab, A.H. 1074 (A.D. 1664, February 17), at Shâhjahânâbâd.

No. 611, ff. 1a–2b, 16–21, and 26b–94a, 3–4 coll., each ll. 12–21, partly in diagonal lines; careless Nasta'lîḳ; size, 8½ in. by 4½ in.

712

'Ajâ'ib-almakhlûḳât wa gharâ'ib almaujûdât (عجائب المخلوقات وغرائب الموجودات).

The same literal Persian prose-translation of the first part of Kazwíní's cosmography which is described in G. Flügel ii. pp. 506–508 (styled there تحفة الغرائب); the Bodleian Cat., Nos. 397 and 398; Rieu ii. p. 462 sq., and W. Pertsch, Berlin Cat., p. 367 sq.; comp. also Ḥ. Khalfa iv. p. 188; Cat. des MSS. et Xylographes, p. 258; De Sacy, Chrestomathie Arabe, 1st ed., iii. p. 414 sq. Beginning the same as in the Arabic original, and in the copies of Vienna, the British Museum, and the Bodleian Library, viz.: العظمة لله و الكبرياء لجلالك اللّهمّ الخ. According to the colophon of the second Vienna copy this translation was completed in the month Jumádá I, A. H. 890 (A. D. 1485, May, June). Kazwíní's name runs here as in most of the above-mentioned copies: زكريّا بن محمّد بن محمود الكمونى القزوينى. The dedication to 'Izz-aldín Sháhpúr bin 'Uthmán, mentioned by Rieu, loc. cit., is found neither in this nor in the following copy. This Persian version has been printed in Ṭaharán, A. H. 1264 (A. D. 1848).

[1] That is a mere mistake for غرائب الدنیا, comp. fol. 38a, l. 11:
شد بانجام طامّت الکبرا ـ بعد ازین در غرائب الدنیا and likewise ff. 41a, l. 10, and 41b, l. 1.

No date.

No. 1919, ff. 259, ll. 25; Nasta'líḳ, profusely illustrated throughout; illuminated frontispiece; size, 11 in. by 6¼ in.

713

A defective copy of the same.

No date. A lacuna of six leaves after fol. 273, corresponding to the preceding copy, fol. 237a, l. 6 to fol. 243a, l. 7 (which agrees with the middle of line 2, on fol. 274a). Parts of ff. 17 and 24 torn away. The last leaf supplied later. The whole copy is, like the preceding one, profusely illustrated; in some places blanks are left which have not been filled in.

Beginning: ربّ يسّر بسم الله الرّحمٰن الرّحيم العظمة (و) لله و الكبرياء لجلالك الخ.

'Ajá'ib-almakhlúḳát wa ghará'ib-almaujúdát (عجائب المخلوقات و غرائب الموجودات).

One of the finest specimens of modern Indian calligraphy and illuminating art, written at the request of Mr. Charles Raikes, Commissioner and Superintendent of Láhúr, under the supervision of Mufti 'Alí-aldín of Láhúr, by Faḍl-aldín bin Muḥammad Bakhsh Ṣuḥḥáf of Láhúr, and completed the 21st of September, A. D. 1854 (see the title-page, fol. 1a). According to a note by Mr. Raikes himself, fastened to the first fly-leaf, this MS. was sent to the Imperial Exhibition at Paris, for works of art and industry, by the Punjab Committee at Lahore. The India Office Library received it from Dr. Royle, July, 1856.

The Persian translation of the first part of Kazwíní's cosmography, contained in this copy, is the more modernized one, which was made under Abú-almuẓaffar Ibráhím 'Ádilsháh I (see fol. 5a, l. 6), who reigned from A. H. 941 to 965 (A. D. 1534–1558), and completed in the beginning of Sha'bán, A. H. 954 (see ff. 8b, last line, and 9a, l. 1) = A. D. 1547, second half of September; it is described in Rieu ii. p. 464b. This version has been lithographed at Lucknow, A. H. 1283 (A. D. 1866).

Beginning like the Arabic original, on fol. 3b: العظمة لله و الكبرياء لجلالك اللهمّ يا قائم الذات و مفيض الخيرات واجب الوجود الخ.

Beginning of the translator's preface, on fol. 4b: امّا بعد در عهد خلافت و ايّام سلطنت پادشاه عالميجاه عالم پناه گردون سلطنت و خلافت دستگاه الخ.

The name of the author of the Arabic original appears on fol. 5b, ll. 2 and 3, in this form: عماد الدين زكريّا بن محمّد بن محمود الكمونى القزوينى (?)'.

The four muḳaddimas appear here on ff. 9a (در عجب), 19b (در تقسيم مخلوقات), 21b (در معنىٔ و معنىٔ آن غريب), and 26a (فى تقسيم الموجودات). A complete index on ff. 27a–30a.

Beginning of the main portion of the work on fol. 30b, corresponding to the Arabic original, p. 10, of Wüstenfeld's edition: الحمد لله خالق الاشياء مدبّر الكلّ الخ. First maḳálah, on fol. 31a; second maḳálah, on fol. 145a.

It is profusely illustrated throughout with first-class drawings. The greater part of the margin is covered partly with short explanatory glosses or tracts closely related to the text of Ḳazwíní's work,—as for instance a زكى نامه on lucky and unlucky days, on fol. 33b; اختيارات قمرى, on fol. 35b; تسخير كواكب, on ff. 36a and 36b; a روزنامچهٔ ستارها, on fol. 42b; دعاء بر كشتى نشستن, on fol. 70a; روز نامه, on fol. 109b; اختيارات ساعات, on fol. 112a, etc.; كيفيّت تقسيم زمين, on fol. 229b sq.; تركيب برس, on fol. 293a; عمل زعفران, on fol. 296a sq.; عمل تنكار (borax), on fol. 302a; خواصّ گل ارمنى, on fol. 304a; صاف مروارىد and خواصّ مروارىد, on fol. 313a; and a great number of other explanations of mineral and botanical matters; a botanical glossary, on fol. 378a sq.; خواصّ جغرات, on fol. 481a; خواصّ شيرهاء جانوران, on fol. 481b, etc.; نرم كردن دندان فيل and تسخير فيل مست, on fol. 510a, etc. etc. (talismans in great variety being scattered throughout the margin),—partly with independent treatises of various kinds, in a smaller, but equally neat hand. The larger sections of these marginal additions are as follows:

1. Ff. 4b–17a: A treatise on simple drugs (رساله در كلّيّات تحقيقات ادويهاى مفرده) in nine faṣls (not eight as is stated in the beginning, since there appears on fol. 10b a فصل نهم در حاجتمندىٔ طبيبان بساختن ادويهٔ مركّب). Fol. 10b of this tract must be immediately followed by fol. 12a, since ff. 11a and 11b are mere repetitions of ff. 10a and 10b. Beginning: امّا بعد حمد خدا ونعت محمّد مصطفى صلّى الله عليه و سلّم اين رساله ايست در كلّيّات ..... فصل اوّل بدانكه ادويهاى مفرده سه جاى مبدى ميشود معدنى و نباتى و حيوانى الخ. This treatise is followed on ff. 13a–15a by an appendix on the names of all the diseases of the various parts of the human body, and on ff. 15ᵃ–17ᵃ by a series of mystic mathnawi-baits, taken for the greater part from the گلشن راز.

2. Ff. 18ᵇ–19ᵃ: Two فالنامه, the first styled فالنامهٔ حضرت شاه شرف الدين احمد بن يحيى منيرى (see the Maṭlûb-alṭâlibîn, 16th maṭlab, No. 41 in the list of pupils); the second فالنامهٔ حضرت امير المؤمنين على.

3. Ff. 19ᵇ–20ᵇ: A story of Nimrûd, and some metaphysical maxims, styled معتقدات حكما.

4. Ff. 21ᵇ–22ᵃ: ديباچهٔ مجمل للحكمة, beginning: سپاس و منّت موجوديرا كه واجب الوجود است و هر چه جزويست ممكن الوجود است الخ.

5. Ff. 48ᵃ–51ᵇ: Two treatises on music, the first (در علم موسيقى) being an abstract of a work مفتاح السرور (probably مفتاح السرود, a work on Indian music by Ḳâḍî Ḥusain, composed A. H. 1084 = A. D. 1673, 1674, see W. Pertsch, Berlin Cat., p. 84); the second (on fol. 49ᵃ) simply styled در موسيقى, and beginning: بدانكه موسيقى تأليف است و وضع حكماست و نهاد آن روحست الخ.

6. Ff. 73ᵇ–75ᵇ: Mathnawi-baits (simply styled منظوم), by Shâh Faḍl Ni'mati, beginning:

هرچه در آفاق بود انچنان — هست ورا نقش چو بيني عيان followed, on fol. 75ᵃ, by short extracts from Dârâ Shukûh's مجمع البحرين (the confluence of the two seas, composed A. H. 1065 = A. D. 1655, see Bodleian Cat., No. 1241, 13).

7. Ff. 87ᵃ–93ᵇ: رساله در حقيقت عالم, a cosmographical tract, beginning: بايد دانست كه جملهٔ عالم كه موجود است يازده گروهست و آفتاب در ميانست الخ. The metaphysical part of it begins on fol. 90ᵃ, with a مقدّمهٔ روح, followed by a مقدّمهٔ نفس, etc., and concluding with an علامت قيامت (on fol. 92ᵃ); appended to it are a short chapter: خواصّ دابّة الارض (with reference, as it seems, to a verse of the Ḳurân, Sûrah 34, 13), a series of mathnawi-baits, headed در بيان حقيقت روح, and some further lines in prose on the same subject.

8. Ff. 96ᵇ–100ᵇ: Short tracts on mystical and religious matters in general, viz. رسالهٔ فقر, مقدّمهٔ معراج, مقدّمهٔ بهشت ودوزخ (twice), در مفاصلهٔ سنين, احوال دوزخ, در بيان, در حقيقت خلفاى راشدين, در ميان پيغمبران, مقدّمهٔ كراماً كاتبين (Sûrah 82, 11), در بيان مذاهب, ايمان, مقدّمهٔ صراط ميزان و سؤال, and در بيان توبه.

9. Ff. 101ᵃ–102ᵃ and 103ᵃ–109ᵃ: Prayers, invocations, and Ḳurân-verses.

10. Ff. 123ᵇ–126ᵃ and 128ᵇ: Two other فالنامه.

11. Ff. 137ᵃ–140ᵇ: A treatise on the peculiarities of special months and days.

12. Ff. 143ᵃ–148ᵇ, 141ᵛ–142ᵇ, and 149ᵃ–154ᵃ: Three night-discourses (سمر, so to be read instead of شمر; the only correct spelling is found on fol. 145ᵃ, l. 3), properly beginning on fol. 144ᵃ, since fol. 143ᵃ is merely a repetition of this; a treatise on the foreboding palpitation of the limbs, on fol. 145ᵃ; a tract on physiognomy (رسالهٔ قيافه), on fol. 146ᵃ; a longer treatise on health, abridged from a work of Sayyid Ismâ'îl Ḥusainî Jurjânî (the author of the ذخيرهٔ خوارزمشاهى, see Bodleian Cat., Nos. 1576–1578, died A. H. 531 = A. D. 1136, 1137), styled حفظ الصحّة (on hygiene), in sixteen bâbs, viz. 1. در تدبير هوا, on fol. 147ᵇ; 2. در تدبير فصلهاى سال, on fol. 148ᵃ; 3. در تدبير شهر و خانه و مسكن, on fol. 148ᵇ; 4. در تدبير پارچهٔ جامه پوشيدن, ib.; 5. در تدبير غذا, ib.; 6. در تدبير آب, on fol. 141ᵃ (the order of the margins is wrong here, although that of the centre-column is quite correct); 7. در تدبير شراب, on fol. 141ᵇ; 8. در خواب و بيدارى, on fol. 142ᵃ; 9. در تدبير استفراغ طبعيّت, حركت و سكون, ib.; 10. يعنى دواى مسهل خوردن, on fol. 142ᵇ; 11. Here styled by mistake باب پنجم, to conceal the confusion of the margins: در تدبير قى كردن, on fol. 149ᵃ; 12. در تدبير فصد, on fol. 149ᵇ; 13. در تدبير استفراغها, on fol. 150ᵃ; 14. در انقراض نفسانى, on fol. 151ᵃ; 15. در تدبير پيران, on fol. 152ᵃ; 16. اندر ترتيب و تدبير مسافران, on fol. 152ᵇ; and some mathnawi baits on hygienic matters, on ff. 152ᵇ–154ᵃ, divided into the following sections: در علامات, در مقدّمهٔ قارورة, در مقدّمهٔ نبض شناختن, در تدبير صحّت, and در تدبير احكام پيران, خير و شر.

13. Ff. 163ᵃ–187ᵇ: A series of longer and shorter tracts on various interesting points of Ṣûfism, as عشق, طريق, etc., mostly without any heading; the few sections which bear a distinct title, are:

رساله در شرح بيت مولوىٔ روم, commentary on a verse of Jalâl-aldîn Rûmî, on fol. 164ᵇ, beginning:

بيزارم از آنكه خدائى كه تو دارى
هر لحظه مرا تازه خدائى دگرست

من رموزات شيخ عبد الجامل لكنوى, on fol. 172ᵇ, beginning: بعد حمد خدا ودرود مصطفى و آل و اصحابه بدانكه نزديك صوفيهٔ محقّقين در راه خدا چهار منزلست شريعت و طريقت و حقيقت و معرفت الخ.

رسالهٔ طريقهٔ نقشبنديّه, on fol. 180ᵃ, beginning:

سررشتهٔ دولت اى برادر بكف آر
وين عمر كرامى بخسارت مگذار

چند سؤال و جواب, on fol. 181ᵇ, and

رسالهٔ حضرت خواجه عبد الله انصارى (invocations to God, by the famous Shaikh 'Abdallâh Anṣârî of Harât, who died A. H. 481 = A. D. 1088, comp. the Safînat-alauliyâ, No. 300), on fol. 185ᵃ, beginning: اى كريمى كه بخشندهٔ عطائى — واى حكيمى كه پوشندهٔ خطائى.

14. Ff. 193ᵃ–196ᵃ: Extracts from Niẓâmî's خسرو وشيرين, beginning with سؤال و جواب چند خسرو پرويز با بزرگ اميد.

15. Ff. 196ᵃ–199ᵃ: رساله در ورد ماهيّت هر چيز, a kind of metaphysical tract in form of a vocabulary, beginning: بدانكه اين رساله ايست در تحقيقات معنىٔ

چیزها که حکماء غور نموده بر آوردند شروع از عقل نموده شد بدانکه عقل اسمیست مشترک الخ

16. Fol. 208a: تواریخ حضرتان, a few chronological dates about great Shaikhs, beginning with Bâyazid Bisṭâmi (died A.H. 261 = A.D. 875) and ending with Aḥmad-i-Jâm (died A.H. 536 = A.D. 1141, 1142), see the Safînat-alauliyâ, Nos. 66 and 308.

17. Ff. 227b–229b: Extracts from Niẓâmi's اسکندر نامهٔ بحری, beginning with سؤال سکندر ذو القرنین از حکما در مقدّمهٔ پیدایش خلقت اوّل آسمان و زمین و بیان نمودن هریك موافق علم خود.

18. Ff. 239a–246a: A treatise on the peculiarities of women (رساله در خاصّیّت زنان), beginning: بباید دانست که زنان بر چهار نوع اند الخ, with a special chapter, entitled: در معرفت کیفیّت رحم و شناختن اوقات, on fol. 240b sq.; after this treatise there follow, on fol. 243a sq., several traditions and a great number of charms.

19. Ff. 246b–248a: An arithmetical tract, styled قاعده, beginning: بعضی قواعد علم تکسیر بدانکه مربّع دو قسم است الخ.

20. Ff. 248a–255a: A short medical tract, ascribed to Avicenna (رسالهٔ بو علی سینا در امراض بعضی دوا), and a number of arithmetical pieces, one of which is headed (on fol. 249b): مقدّمات حساب هندسه, or introduction to astronomical calculations. The rest are without special headings.

21. Ff. 255b–266b: Arts and games, consisting of—

(a) A kind of game, in which any possible combination of two letters of the Persian alphabet is explained by a Persian fard, for instance, در کف دست: ش‌ا خویش زر داری, on fol. 255b.

(b) Two treatises on archery, the first (on fol. 256a), styled: خواصّ چند مقدّمهٔ تیر اندازی, and beginning: اوّل بدانکه ابتدای نزول تیر و کمان آنست که چون آدم الخ; the second (on fol. 258b): رقعه بر (تیر) اندازی.

(c) An introduction into geomancy (در مقدّمهٔ رمل), on fol. 259b.

(d) Introduction to card-playing and chess (مقدّمهٔ گنجفه and مقدّمهٔ شطرنج), on fol. 263b.

(e) Various forms of chirography (در بیان انواع خطّها), on fol. 264a.

(f) A tract styled ترکیب سیاهی و روشنائی, on fol. 265a.

22. Ff. 267a–275b: خلاصهٔ تواریخ, an abridgment of a general history in various ṭá'ifas, from the creation down to the emperor Bahâdurshâh, beginning: منتخب در تواریخ و مشاهیر سیر از احوال ابو البشر آدم صفی الله صلوات الله علیه تا خیر البشر محمّد رسول الله الخ. The comparatively more detailed portion ends, on fol. 273b, with the seventh ṭá'ifah, on the descendants of Cingizkhân; the remainder consists of mere lists of the Indian Râjahs, taken from the راجاولی (so to be read instead of the wrong spelling راجاونی, see Nos. 205 and 206 in this Cat.), and of the emperors of Dihli. As a sort of appendix a list of all the battles is added (on fol. 275a) which Muḥammad fought against the unbelievers; they are sixty-five altogether; twenty-seven he conducted personally; in thirty-eight only his army was engaged.

23. Ff. 403a–404a: Luḳmân's advice to his son (پندنامهٔ لقمان حکیم بفرزند خود), beginning: بعد از حمد ملك ملك علّام و درود بر محمّد علیه السّلام و متابعت اهل اسلام چند پند سودمند است که لقمان حکیم بفرزند خود فرمود' ای فرزند خدا شناس و هر چه از پند و نصیحت گوئی الخ. Sair-albilâd (سَيْر البلاد).

A literal Persian translation of the second part of Ḳazwînî's great cosmographical work, the آثار البلاد واخبار العباد or geographical section, by Muḥammad Murâd bin 'Abd-alraḥmân, who dedicated it to Nawwâb Mûsawîkhân (with his original name Mîr 'Alî Aṣghar, who died A. H. 1054 = A. D. 1644, 1645, see Rieu iii. p. 991b, where extracts from this work are noticed), see fol. 10b, ll. 1, 3, and 14. It must have been composed between A. H. 1037, the year of Shâhjahân's accession, who is mentioned as reigning sovereign, and A. H. 1054 (A. D. 1628–1645, see Rieu, loc. cit.).

Beginning, on fol. 9b: حمد عالی اساس و سپاس بیرون از حدّ و قیاس مالك الملکی را درخور و سزاست الخ.

The translation begins with the first muḳaddimah, on fol. 10b, corresponding to the Arabic text, ed. Wüstenfeld, p. ۴. First Iḳlîm, on fol. 14b; second, on fol. 52b; third, on fol. 98b; fourth, on fol. 188a; fifth, on fol. 314a; sixth, on fol. 368a; seventh, on fol. 387a. On ff. 1b–8b an index of the whole work, divided into two sections, the first of which gives all the geographical names, the second, beginning on fol. 6a, lin. penult., and incomplete at the end, the names of Imâms, Shaikhs, etc., mentioned in the book. Another complete copy of this translation is in the Bodleian Library, see Bodleian Cat., No. 400.

No date. The original part of the MS. comprises ff. 53–372, all the leaves before and after that have been supplied by the same later hand.

No. 2547, ff. 394, ll. 21; large Nasta'lîḳ, by two different hands; size, 11 in. by 6¾ in.

Tuḥfat-al'ajâ'ib (تحفة العجائب).

An older but greatly abridged Persian translation or rather adaptation of the same second volume of Ḳazwînî's cosmography, the آثار البلاد, called here سبعة الاقاليم, and composed by 'Alî Ṭâhirî (Ṭâ'irî in Rieu iii. p. 1059a), A. H. 928 (A. D. 1522), see fol. 2b, ll. 9–11; fol. 3a, l. 9; and fol. 196b, l. 1 (in Rieu, loc. cit., A. H. 948).

Beginning: حمد بیحدّ صانعی را کہ عجائب و غرائب عالم آثار ارقام قدرت اوست و منتهای بی منتها الخ.

The first Iḳlîm begins on fol. 4a; the second, on fol. 32b; the third, on fol. 53a; the fourth, on fol. 94a; the fifth, on fol. 144b; the sixth, on fol. 172a; the seventh, on fol. 187a, last line. A khâtimah or epilogue of the translator is found on fol. 194a, last line sq.

Copied in the month Ramaḍân, A. H. 1056 (A. D. 1646, October, November), at Multân.

No. 3138, ff. 196, ll. 15; very large and distinct Nasta'lîḳ; splendid binding in gold and green; size, 12¼ in. by 7¼ in.

'Ajâ'ib-alaḳâlim (عجائب الاقاليم).

A compendium of cosmography by an anonymous author, written, as Rieu i. p. 417 proves, about A. H. 908 or 909 (A. D. 1502, 1503), and dedicated to the wazir Ghiyâth-almillah wa aldunyâ wa-aldîn Ḥabîb-allâh (see here, fol. 114a, ll. 12 and 13). It is divided into a muḳaddimah, on geometry (در بیان آشنائی کہ مقاصد برآن موقوفست), on fol. 114a, last line; two maḳâlas, 1. Measurement and division of the globe and detailed account of the seven climates (در مساحت سطح ارض و تعیین اقالیم و آنچہ بدان متعلّق است), on fol. 116a; 2. Measurement of the spheres and stars, etc. (در معرفت مساحت افلاك و كواكب و آنچہ بدان متعلّقست), on fol. 155a; and a khâtimah on the times of prayers and the Ḳiblah (در ملحقات), on fol. 160b.

Beginning: الحمد لله الذی زیّن السماء بزینة الكواكب و نوّر وجه الغبراء الخ.

Dated by Malik Muḥammad ibn Ḥâjî, end of Rajab, A. H. 1024 (A. D. 1615, August 25).

No. 3033, ff. 113–165, ll. 20; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 10 in. by 5¾ in.

718

A compendium of cosmography without title and author's name. It begins forthwith with the muḳaddimah, which is subdivided into the following ten faṣls (compare fol. 145a, ll. 4 and 5):

Jadhb-alḳulûb ilâ dâr-almaḥbûb (جذب القلوب الى دار المحبوب).

Another Persian history and topography of Madînah, likewise based on Samhûdî's researches, but chiefly on the larger work of the Arabic historian, viz. the وفاء الوفى باخبار دار المصطفى, which, as is stated here, is itself already an extract from a still larger, but unfinished work of Samhûdî, entitled امضاء الوفا (correctly اقتناء الوفا or اقتفاء الوفا, see W. Pertsch, Berlin Cat., p. 512, where another complete copy of the Jadhb-alḳulûb is described, and Ḥ. Khalfa vi. p. 450, No. 14294), and composed A. H. 886 (A. D. 1481), by 'Abd-alḥaḳḳ bin Saif-aldîn alturk aldihlawi albukhârî (the well-known author of the تاريخ حقّى, see above, No. 290; Bodleian Cat., Nos. 195–198; Rieu i. p. 223, etc.; the اخبار الاخيار, see above, No. 640, and many other works, died A. H. 1052 = A. D. 1642, 1643), who also made use of Samhûdî's smaller publications, the خلاصة الوفا باخبار دار المصطفى (see the previous copy), and a رسالہ on the burning and rebuilding of the mosque in Madînah. 'Abd-alḥaḳḳ began his Persian adaptation A. H. 998 (A. D. 1590) in Madînah, and completed it A. H. 1001 (A. D. 1593) in Dihlî, compare also Elliot, History of India, vi. p. 176, and Rieu iii. p. 1055a. It is divided into the following seventeen bâbs:

1. در عدد اسماء ابن بلدۂ عظیم الشان, on fol. 6b.

2. ذکر در بیان فضائل و محامد این بلدهٔ عظیمهٔ شریفه الخ, on fol. 11b.

3. در بیان اخبار سُکّان این بقعهٔ کرمت نشان در قدیم الزمان تا وقت قدوم کرامت لزوم حضرت سیّد انام, on fol. 33a, last line.

4. در انبعاث باعثهٔ قدوم سیّد کائنات بدین بلدهٔ جامع البرکات, on fol. 39a.

5. در هجرت نمودن حضرت سیّد المرسلین از مکّهٔ مکرّمه و رسیدن بارض مدینهٔ مطیّبه, on fol. 42b.

6. در بیان عمارت مسجد معظّم حضرت ختم الانبیا و منبر عالی رتبت الخ, on fol. 66a.

7. در بیان تغییرات و زیادات که بعد از رحلت آنحضرت شریف از ائمّه وامرا و سلاطین وقوع یافت و ذکر این اوضاع و احوال علی سبیل الاختصار و الاجمال که بعد زمان آنحضرت واقع شده, on fol. 79a, last line.

8. ذکر بعضی از فضائل مسجد شریف و خصائص روضهٔ منیف الخ, on fol. 88b.

9. در ذکر تأسیس مسجد قبا و سائر مساجد مأثورهٔ نبوی که مشاهدهٔ انوار مصطفی اند الخ, on fol. 93b.

10. ذکر بعضی آبار مبارکه که بحضور فائض النور آنحضرت مشهور اند و مأثور, on fol. 107a.

11. در بعضی اماکن منقبه و مشاهد شریفه که در طریق مکّهٔ معظّمه و مدینهٔ منوّره مأثور و مشهوراند, on fol. 113a.

12. ذکر مقبرهٔ شریفهٔ بقیع و بیان فضائل و ذکر مقابر متبرّکه (که) در وی مشهور ومعلوم اند, on fol. 116b.

13. در بیان فضل جبل احد که محبّ و محبوب سیّد الانبیاست الخ, on fol. 134b.

14. در فضائل زیارت حضرت سیّد المرسلین ..... و اثبات حیات انبیا الخ, on fol. 139a.

15. در بیان زیارت قبر مکرّم سیّد المرسلین از وجوب (و) استحباب ..... و توسّل و استمداد بدین حضرت منقبت ذیاب (read ئیاب) الخ, on fol. 152a.

16. در آداب زیارت فیض بشارت حضرت خیر الانام و اقامت مدینهٔ (ابمدینهٔ) مطیّبه ..... و رجوع بوطن بالخیر والسّلام, on fol. 164a.

17. در ذکر فضائل و آداب صلوات بر سیّد کائنات الخ, on fol. 178b.

Haft Iḳlîm (هفت اقلیم).

A good and complete copy of Amîn Aḥmad Râzî's famous geographical and biographical encyclopædia, entitled Haft Iḳlîm or the seven climates, and completed A. H. 1002 (A. D. 1594), according to the chronogram: تصنیف امین احمد رازی, on fol. 20b, line 6, comp. Bodleian Cat., Nos. 416–420; Rieu i. p. 335 sq.; Sitzungsberichte der bayr. Academie, philosoph.-philol. Classe, 1873, p. 626.

Beginning, on fol. 19b:

خرد هر نجا گنجی آرد پدید - بنام خدا سازد آنرا کلید الخ

Iḳlîm I, on fol. 21a; II, on fol. 30b; III, on fol. 54a; IV, on fol. 203b; V, on fol. 466a; VI, on fol. 503b; VII, on fol. 548b. A double index of this work is found on ff. 1b–18b; the first short one, comprising only the names of the countries and cities, is incomplete, and begins in the middle of the 3rd Iḳlîm, on fol. 1a; the second larger one, containing the names of all the renowned men, is complete, and begins on fol. 2a. The last twelve leaves are seriously damaged. This copy was finished the 10th of Jumâdâ-alawwal, A. H. 1086 (A. D. 1675, Aug. 2), at Aḥmadâbâd.

List of the countries and towns, and of the Amîrs, Shaikhs, 'Ulamâs, and poets mentioned in each of them.

First Iḳlîm: Yaman, on fol. 21a:

1. Suhail-i-Yamani Khwâjah Uwais Karnî, a saint of the prophet's time (Safinat-alauliyâ, No. 18), on fol. 26b.

2. Abû 'Abdallâh Wahab, a companion of 'Abdallâh 'Abbâs, quoted in the تاريخ يافعى, on fol. 27b.

3. Shaikh Muḥammad, quoted in the نفحات الانس, contemporary with Najîb-aldîn 'Alî bin Buzghush, whose Pîr was Shaikh Shihâb-aldîn Suhrawardî (Safinat-alauliyâ, Nos. 148 and 150), in the time of Abûbakr, ruler of Shîrâz (i. e. Abûbakr bin Sa'd, Atâbeg of Fârs, reigned A. H. 623–658 = A. D. 1226–1260), on fol. 27b.

4. Shaikh 'Îsâ Bîniyâz (بى نياز), quoted in the نفحات الانس, on fol. 28a.

5. Shaikh Abû-alghaith Jamîl, originally a highwayman, on fol. 28b.

6. Shaikh Sa'îd Ḥaddâd (the blacksmith), on fol. 28b.

7. Shaikh Aḥmad bin al-Ja'd (الجعد), contemporary with Shaikh Sa'îd, on fol. 28b.

Bilâd-alzanj, on fol. 28b, last line; Nubia, on fol. 29a; China, on fol. 29b; Sarândîb, on fol. 30a; Jâbulsâ, on fol. 30b.

Second Iḳlîm: Makkah, on fol. 30b:

8. Abû Khâdim, one of the Tâbi'în, on fol. 32a.

9. Abû-alwalîd 'Abd-almalik bin 'Abd-al'azîz, died A. H. 105 (probably A. H. 150, as the following copy has, = A. D. 767), on fol. 32a.

10. 'Umar bin 'Uthmân alsûfî (Safinat-alauliyâ, No. 202), the spiritual guide of Manṣûr (more correctly: Ḥusain bin Manṣûr) Ḥallâj, author of a گنج نامه (or rather ترجمهٔ گنج نامه according to the following copy), on fol. 32a.

11. Abû Ṭâlib Muḥammad bin 'Alî, author of the قوت القلوب, a work on Ṣûfism (در دقائق طريقت), on fol. 32a.

12. Amîr al'amîd Fakhr-aldîn Tâj-alafâḍil Khâlid bin Rafî' (رفيع; in the index on fol. 2a, and in the following copy, Rabî' ربيع), a friend of Anwarî's and protégé of 'Alâ-aldîn, the ruler of the province of Jibâl, quoted by 'Aufî, on fol. 32a, last line.

13. Abû-almuẓaffar Ibrâhîm, under the Âl-i-Nâṣir, i. e. the Ghaznawide dynasty (see A. Sprenger, Catal., p. 3, No. 20), on fol. 33a.

Madînah, on fol. 33a:

14. Sa'd bin-al'Ibâd, a companion of the prophet, was killed in the battle against the Aḥzâb (the confederates against Muḥammad), on fol. 34a.

15. Abû Ayyûb Anṣârî, in whose house the prophet stayed, in the first year of the Hijrah, seven months (comp. the Safinat-alauliyâ, No. 300), on fol. 34a.

16. Ḳais bin Sa'd bin 'Ubâdah, one of the four سادات طلس (طلس is explained here كسى كه در روى وى عرب اصلاً موى نباشد) and a faithful companion of the prophet; the other three سادات طلس are 'Abdallâh bin Zubair, Aḥnaf bin Ḳais, and Shariḥ (شريح) Ḳâḍî, on fol. 34b.

17. Jâbir bin 'Abdallâh al-Sullamî, one of 'Alî's companions, on fol. 34b.

18. Ḥassân bin Thâbit, one of the Anṣâr, and panegyrist of the prophet, on fol. 34b.

19. Abû Muḥammad Sa'îd bin Muḥammad المسيّب almaḥrûmî (others: almaḥzûmî), one of the seven lawyers (فقهاى سبعه) of Madînah, a friend of 'Abdallâh 'Abbâs, 'Abdallâh 'Umar, Zaid bin Thâbit, and Sa'd Waḳḳâṣ; he performed the pilgrimage forty times during his life, on fol. 34b.

20. Abû 'Abdallâh bin Muḥammad bin 'Umar bin Wâḳid alaslamî, author of a كتاب الردّة (در ذكر ارتداد و قتل عرب), on fol. 35a.

21. Muḥammad bin Isḥaḳ, the first who wrote a كتاب سير, died A. H. 151 (A. D. 768), on fol. 35a.

22. Rabî'ah bin 'Abd-alraḥmân (Abû 'Abd-alraḥmân in the following copy), on fol. 35a.

Yamâmah, on fol. 35a:

23. Musailamah Kadhdhâb (the liar, Muḥammad's rival in the prophetic mission, slain in the battle of Yamâmah, A. H. 11 = A. D. 633), on fol. 35a.

24 and 25. Ḥajjâj bin Yûsuf Thaḳafî, the great champion of the Umayyade Khalifs, especially of 'Abd-almalik bin Marwân and his son Walîd (not وعيد, as the name is spelt here, on fol. 37a, first line), who besieged Makkah A. H. 73 (A. D. 692, 693), and killed the pretender 'Abdallâh bin Zubair; and 'Abd-alraḥmân bin Muḥammad Ash'ath, on fol. 35b. Ḥajjâj's death is fixed here in Shawwâl, A. H. 109, in the 54th year of his age, under Walîd bin 'Abd-almalik (the correct date is A. H. 95 = A. D. 714, June, as Walîd died A. H. 96).

26 and 27. The two renowned Arabian poets, Jurair (here wrongly spelt جزير) bin 'Aṭiyyah and Farazdaḳ, on fol. 37a. The death of both is fixed here in A. H. 112 (در سال صد و دوازده هجرى), contrary to the usual date, viz. A. H. 110 = A. D. 728, 729 (comp. De Sacy, Chrestomathie Arabe, first ed., tome iii. p. 516 sq.).

Hurmûz, on fol. 38a:

28. Ra'îs Nûr-aldîn, with the takhalluṣ Nûrî, on fol. 38b.

29. Fahmî, on fol. 38b.

The Dakhan, on fol. 39a, and its rulers, from Sulṭân 'Alâ-aldîn Khiljî, A. H. 695–716 (A. D. 1296–1316), to A. H. 999 (A. D. 1591); Aḥmadnagar, on fol. 47b; Patan, on fol. 48a; Daulatâbâd, on fol. 48a; Jûnîr, on fol. 48a; Jubbâl, on fol. 48a; Tilingâna, with its capital Gulkunda and its rulers, from Sulṭân Ḳulî Ḳuṭb-almulk (died A. H. 950 = A. D. 1543, 1544) to Muḥammad Ḳulî Ḳuṭb-shâh (A. H. 988–1020 = A. D. 1580–1612), on fol. 48b.

177. Shaikh 'Abdallâh Bâkûr (باكور, here in the text باكو), a great traveller; Khwâjah 'Abdallâh Anṣârî had culled from him 30,000 stories and 30,000 traditions, on fol. 88b.

178. Ibn Muḳlah, the wazir of the Khalîf Alḳâhir (A. H. 320–322 = A. D. 932–934), whom he helped to dethrone (first with the assistance of Mu'nis and Balik, who were however put to death by Alḳâhir) and to replace by Muḥammad bin Muḳtadir, who assumed as Khalîf the name of Al-Râḍî (A. H. 322–329 = A. D. 934–941); he was later on mutilated by Ibn Râ'iḳ (usually called Ibn Râ'iḳ) and died A. H. 327 = A. D. 939 (compare on this interesting and adventurous character, Weil, Geschichte der islamitischen Völker, Stuttgart, 1866, pp. 200–214). He was the first to develope the style of writing, called ثُلث, out of the old Kûfic, on fol. 88b.

179. Abû-alfatḥ Manṣûr bin Dârâ (or Dârâsp داراسپ as other copies have), originally attached to Abû Kâlinjâr Dailamî, afterwards wazir of the Khalîf Alḳâ'imbillâh (A. H. 422–467 = A. D. 1031–1075), who gave him the honorary title of Amîn-aldaulah Majd-alwuzarâ; he was deposed through the jealousy of 'Amîd-aldaulah, the wazir of Ṭughrulbeg Saljûḳî, on fol. 89a.

180. Aḥmad bin 'Abd-alṣamad, was first a high official of Altûntâsh, and became, after Aḥmad bin Ḥasan Maimandî's death, wazir of Sulṭân Mas'ûd I of Ghazna, who summoned him from Khwârizm; he is stated here to have been twenty years wazir of Mas'ûd (which is simply impossible, as Mas'ûd I only reigned from A. H. 421–432 = A. D. 1030–1041) and two years wazir of Mas'ûd's son and successor, Maudûd; he was at last arrested and poisoned at the instigation of the Amîrs of Sulṭân Maudûd, on fol. 89b.

181. 'Abd-alḥamîd bin Aḥmad bin 'Abd-alṣamad, was twenty-two years wazir of Sulṭân Ibrâhîm of Ghazna (A. H. 451–492 = A. D. 1059–1099) and sixteen years wazir of Ibrâhîm's son and successor, Mas'ûd III (A. H. 492–508 = A. D. 1099–1114); he was killed in Sulṭân Bahrâmshâh bin Mas'ûd's reign (A. H. 512–547 = A. D. 1118–1152), on fol. 89b.

182. Naṣr-allâh bin 'Abd-alḥamîd, son of the preceding wazir, himself wazir under Sulṭân Khusrau Malik bin Bahrâmshâh (A. H. 555–583 = A. D. 1160–1187), best known by his translation of Kalîlah and Dimnah, on fol. 89b.

183. Alṣâḥib-alkabîr Ḳiwâm-almulk Niẓâm-aldîn Haibat-allâh, wazir under Sulṭân Ibrâhîm, on fol. 90a.

184. Abû-alḳiyâm Muslim bin Maḥmûd, was in the service of Malik Nâṣir (A. H. 698–741 = A. D. 1299–1341) in Egypt; to him the work عجائب الاسفار و غرائب الاخبار was dedicated, on fol. 90a.

185. Tâj-aldîn, who was first wazir of Muẓaffar-aldîn Sunḳur bin Maudûd (the Atâbeg of Fârs, who became virtually independent about A. H. 543 = A. D. 1148, 1149) and later on wazir of Sulṭân Mas'ûd Saljûḳî (A. H. 527–547 = A. D. 1133–1152), on fol. 90a.

186. Khwâjah Ḳiwâm (or as the text here reads Ḳiyâm) -aldîn, wazir of Jalâl-aldîn Shâh Shujâ' (A. H. 760–786 = A. D. 1359–1384), on fol. 90a.

187. Khwâjah Ghiyâth-aldîn Sayyidî Aḥmad, wazir of Mirzâ Shâhrukh (A. H. 807–850 = A. D. 1405–1447), on fol. 90a.

188. Ḍiyâ-aldîn Fârsî, who came from Fârs to Khurâsân under the first Saljûḳs, a poet, whose productions were collected in a diwân, but did not become very widely known; he had poetical contests with many contemporaries, for instance, Shihâb-aldîn Nâmî and Shams-aldîn Nâmî. In one of his poems quoted here, he sings the praise of Niẓâm-aldîn (who is perhaps identical with No. 183), on fol. 90a.

189. Rafî'-aldîn Marzubân, who was according to some authorities a contemporary of Ḥanẓalah Bâdaghîsî and Abû Salîk Gurgânî, two of the predecessors of Rûdagî, but belongs more likely to the time of the Saljûḳs, on fol. 91b.

190. Badr-aldîn, a poet, on fol. 92a.

191. Shaikh Sharaf-aldîn Muṣliḥ bin 'Abdallâh al-Sa'dî, the great didactic poet, who studied first in the Niẓâmîyyah in Baghdâd under Abû-alfaraj bin Jauzî and became afterwards in mystical science the pupil of Shaikh 'Abd-alḳâdir Jîlânî, in whose company he performed the pilgrimage; in one of his sea-voyages he travelled with the great Shaikh Shihâb-aldîn Suhrawardî; he died, 110 years old, A. H. 690 (A. D. 1291), on fol. 92b.

192. Khwâjah Majd-aldîn Hamgar, king of poets under the Atâbegs of Fârs and intimate friend of Khwâjah Bahâ-aldîn, the Ṣâḥib-Dîwân and son of the famous Shams-aldîn, on fol. 94b.

193. Farîd Fârsî, a poet, on fol. 96a.

194. Nâṣir of Bajjah (بجّه, a place near Râmjird in Fârs), contemporary with Sa'dî, on fol. 96a.

195. Zangî, a relation of the Atâbeg Muẓaffar-aldîn Zangî (A. H. 557–571 = A. D. 1162–1175), on fol. 96a.

196. Maulânâ Ḳuṭb-aldîn 'Allâmah, pupil of Khwâjah Naṣîr-aldîn Ṭûsî, lived from the time of Hûlâgû-khân (A. H. 654–663 = A. D. 1256–1265) to that of Sulṭân Muḥammad Khudâbanda (A. H. 703–716 = A. D. 1304–1316); works: تحفهٔ شاهى (on astronomy), شرح كلّيّات قانون, and شرح مفتاح العلوم (the مفتاح العلوم is probably Sakkâkî's (died A. H. 626 = A. D. 1229) encyclopædical work, and Ḳuṭb-aldîn was the first to write a commentary on it); he was a friend of Sa'dî, on fol. 96b.

197. Ḳuṭb Muḥyî, author of a dîwân and of مکتوبات, on fol. 96b.

198. Faḍl-allâh Waṣṣâf, author of the تأريخ مُعْجَم (this is a glaring mistake, by which Faḍl-allâh Ḳazwînî, the real author of the history in question, see Nos. 534 and 535 in this Cat., has been confounded with Faḍl-allâh Shîrâzî, the father of the famous historian Waṣṣâf, comp. Rieu i. p. 162a and ii. p. 811b), on fol. 96b.

199. Ibn Naṣûḥ, under Sulṭân Abû Sa'îdkhân (the Îlkhânî ruler, A.H. 716–736=A.D. 1316–1335), wrote occasionally poetry, especially rubâ'îs, on fol. 97a.

200. Khwâjah Ḥâfiẓ, the great lyrical poet, whose death is fixed here in A.H. 792, although the ta'rîkh quoted immediately after it, viz. خاك مصلّى, clearly gives the more correct date, A.H. 791 (A.D. 1389), on fol. 97a.

201. Abû Isḥâḳ Ḥallâj, a poet, on fol. 98a.

202. Sa'd Gul, another poet, on fol. 98b.

203. Amîr Ṣadr-aldîn Muḥammad, died some time after Sulṭân Ya'ḳûb (i.e. Ya'ḳûbbeg Âḳ-ḳoyunlû, who reigned A.H. 883–896=A.D. 1478–1491); the exact date of his death is not fixed, but according to the Majâlis-almu'minîn it took place in A.H. 903 (A.D. 1497, 1498); among his writings there are enumerated here: حاشيهٔ شمسيّه و مطالع, رسالهٔ تحقيق علم و اثبات واجب, and حاشيهٔ تجريد (see on the Tajrîd No. 167 above), on fol. 98b.

204. Amîr Ghiyâth-aldîn Manṣûr, son of the preceding Shaikh, died according to the chronogram of Maulânâ 'Alî Ḥasan Kharrâs: عقل حادى عشر نماند, i.e. A.H. 949=A.D. 1542, 1543 (the usual date, given in the Majâlis-almu'minîn, is A.H. 948). Two honorary epithets were given to him by the scholars of his time, viz. Ustâd-albashar (the master of men, a title, given according to a marginal note in the following copy, fol. 98b, to Khwâjah Naṣîr-aldîn Ṭûsî also) and 'Akl-i-ḥâdî 'ashar (the eleventh reason), on fol. 98b.

205. Maulânâ Shams-aldîn 'Alî Fârsî, a great scholar in the time of Mirzâ Sulṭân Abû Sa'îd Gurgânî, reigned A.H. 854–873=A.D. 1450–1469), professor at the Madrasa-i-Ghiyâthiyyah; after Sulṭân Abû Sa'îd's death he was engaged in a تأريخ وقائع ابو الغازى سلطان حسين ميرزا (Sulṭân Ḥusain Mirzâ reigned A.H. 873–911=A.D. 1469–1506), and died in the fortress of Shâdmân, on fol. 98b.

206. Maulânâ Niẓâm-aldîn Abû Yazîd, lived in Shîrâz at the time of Maulânâ Jalâl-aldîn Muḥammad Dawânî (born A.H. 830=A.D. 1426, 1427, died A.H. 908=A.D. 1502, 1503), and died in Sulṭân Ya'ḳûb's reign (see Nos. 167 and 203 in this list), on fol. 98b.

207. Maulânâ Sharaf-aldîn 'Alî Shîftagî, author of a تفسير آيات احكام قرآنى, a شرح محرّر, and a شرح ارشاد, on fol. 99a.

208. Amîr Sayyid Aṣîl-aldîn 'Abdallâh, author of the دُرَج الدُّرَر (a life of Muḥammad, mentioned in Ḥ. Khalfa iii. p. 222, and in Rieu iii. p. 1061b; a marginal note in the following copy mentions besides a میلاد نامهٔ مصطفى by him, which he dedicated to Sulṭân Shâhrukh, but it is not clear whether that is a separate work or partly identical with the Durj-aldurar) and the مزارات هراة; in Sulṭân Abû Sa'îd's time he moved at the Sulṭân's request from Shîrâz to Harât; the date of his death is not given here; it was A.H. 883=A.D. 1478, 1479, see Rieu i. p. 147, on fol. 99a.

209. Amîr Jamâl-aldîn (so correctly instead of Jalâl-aldîn in the following copy) 'Aṭâ-allâh, nephew of the preceding Shaikh and author of the well-known history of Muḥammad, his family and disciples, styled روضة الاحباب (see Nos. 145–157 in this Cat.), on fol. 99a.

210. Khwâjah Jamâl-aldîn Maḥmûd, a pupil of Maulânâ Jalâl-aldîn Muḥammad Dawânî (see Nos. 167 and 206 in this list), who after his Pîr's death and that of Mîr Ṣadr-aldîn Muḥammad (No. 203 in this list) became the most renowned spiritual teacher of his time; among his greatest pupils were Maulânâ Aḥmad Ardabîlî, Maulânâ 'Abdallâh Shushtarî, Maulânâ 'Abd-alwâḥid Shushtarî, Maulânâ 'Abdallâh Yazdî, Khwâjah Afḍal Tarikah (died about A.H. 1000=A.D. 1592, see Rieu ii. p. 669b), Maulânâ Aḥmad Kurd, Amîr Fakhr-aldîn Samâkî (سماكى, in the following copy شماكى), Shâh Abû Muḥammad Shîrâzî, Maulânâ Mîrzâ Jân, and Amîr Fatḥ-allâh Shîrâzî, on fol. 99a.

211. Maulânâ Lisânî, the well-known poet, lived the greater part of his life in Tabrîz, and died there A.H. 941 (A.D. 1534, 1535), on fol. 99a.

212. Bâbâ Fighânî, an equally famous poet, who had originally the takhalluṣ of Sakkâkî; in Tabrîz, where he had settled for some time, he gained the favour of Sulṭân Ya'ḳûb (see No. 203 in this list), and received from him the honorary title of Bâbâ (i.e. Bâbâ-i-shu'arâ); after that Sulṭân's death he went to Khurâsân (Abîward and Mashhad in particular, see Rieu ii. p. 651), and died there A.H. 925 (A.D. 1519), on fol. 99b.

213. Maulânâ Ahlî, also a renowned poet; from Fârs he went to Harât, where he composed his famous artificial ḳaṣîdah (قصيدهٔ مصنوع) in imitation of one of Khwâjah Salmân's (of Sâwah, died A.H. 778 or 779 =A.D. 1376, 1377, see Bodleian Cat., Nos. 807–810), in honour of Mîr 'Alîshîr (see a detailed description of this ḳaṣîdah in Bodleian Cat., No. 807, 8); after his return from Harât he became a favourite of Shâh Isma'îl Ṣafawî (A.H. 909–930=A.D. 1504–1524), and died, according to the chronogram: پادشاه شعرا بود اهلى, A.H. 942 (A.D. 1535, 1536), on fol. 101a.

214. Maulânâ Yârî, went to Harât in Sulṭân Ḥusain Mirzâ's reign (see No. 205 in this list), where he was saved from a disgraceful punishment by the exertions of Mîr 'Alîshîr, on fol. 102a.

215. Kamâl ibn Ghiyâth, a poet, on fol. 102a.

216. Maulânâ Mu'înî (in the following copy Mu'în), a poet of Sulṭân Ḥusain Mirzâ's time, on fol. 102a.

217. Maulânâ Mânî, a poet who was in his later years attached to Shâh Isma'îl Ṣafawî, but fell a victim to the jealousy of the other courtiers and was put to death, on fol. 102a.

218. Malik Ḳâsim Nakḳâsh, calligrapher, illustrator, and poet, on fol. 102b.

219. Amîr Sayyid Sharîf-aldîn (so correctly in the following copy; here is written throughout the paragraph Sharaf instead of Sharîf) 'Alî, a grandson of Mîr Sharif-aldîn 'Alî Jurjânî (the author of the Ṣarf-i-Mîr, see Bodleian Cat., Nos. 1653–1656; the Risâlat-alkubrâ fi-almanṭik, see Rieu ii. p. 812[a], and other scientific treatises; died A. H. 816 = A. D. 1413, 1414), and therefore styled Amîr Sayyid Sharif-i-thânî; he was twice prime-minister of Shâh Isma'îl Ṣafawî, on fol. 102[b].

220. Amîr Sayyid Sharîf Bâḳî, son of the preceding Amîr, was wazîr of 'Irâḳ-i-'ajam under Shâh Ṭahmâsp (A. H. 930–984 = A. D. 1524–1576), later on Ḳâḍî and prefect of Shîrâz; an enmity between him and the governor of Fârs, Ibrâhîmkhân, compelled him to resign that place and to content himself with the wazîrship of Dârâbjird; but his fame increased, he obtained at last the grandwazîrship and took his revenge on Ibrâhîmkhân by dismissing him summarily; soon after he died and left two sons, Amîr Mu'în-aldîn Ashraf, known as Mirzâ Makhdûm, and Mirzâ Amîr, on fol. 102[b].

221. Mirzâ Amîr or Mirzâ Mîr, the younger son of the preceding Amîr, was in Shâh Sulṭân Muḥammad's (A. H. 985–995 = A. D. 1577–1587) reign, through the enmity of Mirzâ Salmân, imprisoned in the fortress of Iṣṭakhr, where he died, on fol. 103[a].

222. Amîr Mu'în-aldîn, with the takhalluṣ Ashraf, the elder son of Amîr Sayyid Sharif Bâḳî, became a great favourite of Shâh Isma'îl II (A. H. 984–985 = A. D. 1576–1577), but withdrew after Isma'îl's death, for safety's sake, from Ḳazwîn to Baghdâd; in Rûm he was greatly appreciated, and he died at last as Ḳâḍî-alḳudât of Makkah, on fol. 103[a].

223. Amîr Muḥibb-aldîn Ḥabîb-allâh, brother of Amîr Sayyid Sharif-i-thânî (No. 219 in this list), was for some time Ḳâḍî, prefect, and Shaikh-alislâm of Shîrâz, and constructed the 'new place' (دقعهٔ جدید) of Imâmzâda Sayyid Amîr Aḥmad, as well as the maidân, the caravanserai, the baths, shops, and the nakḳârakhâna (i. e. the place where the kettle-drums are beaten) connected therewith, on fol. 103[a].

224. Shâh Wajîh-aldîn Khalîl-allâh, eldest son of the preceding Amîr, on fol. 103[a].

225. Amîr Sharaf-aldîn Ibrâhîm, on fol. 103[b].

226. Shâh Ḥaidar, another brother of Amîr Sayyid Sharif-i-thânî, was under Shâh Ṭahmâsp chief justice of Khurâsân and under Shâh Sulṭân Muḥammad some time Ḳâḍî-alḳudât of Fârs, on fol. 103[b].

227. Amîr Sulṭân Ibrâhîm, on fol. 103[b].

228. Mîr Murtaḍâ Sharîfî, who studied already in his fourteenth year the حاشیهٔ مطالع; he was appointed chief justice of Khurâsân, but resigned this post later, and went on a pilgrimage to Makkah and Madînah; on his way back he went to India, but died on arriving there; he left a كافیهٔ منظوم and a dîwân of ghazals, on fol. 103[b].

229. Shâh Abû Muḥammad, on fol. 103[b].

230. Maulânâ Mirzâ Jân, author of the following glosses: حاشیه بر شرح مختصر اصول, حاشیهٔ اشارات, حاشیه بر الیات, حاشیهٔ مطالع, حاشیه بر حاشیهٔ قدیم واجب, and حاشیه بر مطوّل, on fol. 103[b].

231. Mîr Fatḥ-allâh, frequented first the company of the Ṣûfic recluse Mîr Shâh Mîr, later on he applied himself to the more exact sciences under Khwâjah Jamâl-aldîn Maḥmûd (No. 210 in this list), afterwards he went to the Dakhan and became a great favourite of the Wâlî of Bijâpûr (i. e. 'Âdil Shâh), after whose death he came to Akbar's court, rose to high honours there, and received the title of 'Aḍud-aldaulah; in A. H. 997 (A. D. 1589) he died (in Kashmîr, see Rieu iii. p. 1053[b], where other details are given, and Blochmann, 'Â'în-i-Akbarî, p. 33), on fol. 103[b].

232. Mîr Taḳî-aldîn Muḥammad, alive at the time of the composition of this book, on fol. 104[a].

233. Ḥakîm 'Imâd-aldîn Maḥmûd, a famous physician, author of a رسالهٔ در فائدهٔ چوب چینی (on the China-root), a رساله در خواص افیون (on opium), a رساله در تشریح (on anatomy), and a commentary on some much discussed points in Avicenna's Canon (شرحی در بعضی مباحث قانون); see on these and other treatises of 'Imâd-aldîn Maḥmûd, Bodleian Cat., Nos. 1595–1597, and Rieu ii. pp. 474 and 844. He died about A. H. 1000 = A. D. 1592 (no date of death is given here), on fol. 104[a].

234. Ḥakîm Kamâl-aldîn, another clever physician, author of a commentary on the رسالهٔ طبّ by Amîr Ghiyâth-aldîn Manṣûr (No. 204 in this list), on fol. 104[a].

235. Mirzâ Muḥammad Ḥakîm, also a clever physician, on fol. 104[a].

236. Ḳâsimbeg, a renowned physician who flourished from the time of Burhân Niẓâmshâh (A. H. 911–961 = A. D. 1505–1553) to the end of Murtaḍâ Niẓâmshâh's reign (A. H. 972–996 = A. D. 1565–1588, see No. 449 in this Cat.), on fol. 104[b].

237. Shâh Manṣûr, rose to the rank of wazîr under Akbar, but was calumniated and killed by order of Mirzâ Muḥammad Ḥakîm, who came from Kâbul to subdue Lâhûr, A. H. 989 = A. D. 1581 (ta'rîkh of his death ثانی منصور حلاج), on fol. 104[b].

238. 'Abdîbeg, a great Siyâḳ-writer and poet, author of a Khamsah and a dîwân, containing over 10,000 baits, on fol. 104[b].

372. Shaikh 'Abd-alṣamad, Ḥâjî Fatḥ-allâh's son, still alive, on fol. 140a.

373. Maulânâ Jauhar, on fol. 140a.

374. Maulânâ Bâyazîd (these two appear also to have been contemporaries of the author), on fol. 140a.

375. Maulânâ Ṣafâ'î, a great calligrapher and occasional poet, on fol. 140a.

376. Maulânâ Khâkî, wrote a few verses, on fol. 140b.

Hânsî, on fol. 140b:

377. Shaikh Jamâl-aldîn Khaṭîb, the Khalîfah of Shaikh Farîd-aldîn Ganj-i-shakar (see No. 19 in the Sawâṭi'-alanwâr and No. 113 in the Safînat-alauliyâ), on fol. 140b.

378. Shaikh Ḳuṭb-aldîn Munawwar (a grandson of the preceding Shaikh, see the Sawâṭi'-alanwâr, Nos. 19 and 23, and the Maṭlûb-alṭâlibîn, maṭlab 16, No. 3 of the first ten Khalîfas), the Khalîfah of Shaikh Nizâm-aldîn Auliyâ, on fol. 140b.

379. Maulânâ Mughîth, a well-known poet, on fol. 140b.

Thanîsar, on fol. 141a:

380. Shaikh Jalâl, a great Pîr, on fol. 141a.

381. Shaikh Nizâm bin Shaikh 'Abd-alshakûr (in the index 'Abdallâh alshakûr), the Khalîfah of the preceding Shaikh and contemporary with the author of this work; he wrote many works on Ṣûfism and also a تفسیر or commentary on the Ḳurân, on fol. 141a.

382. Fardî, on fol. 141a.

Pânîpat, on fol. 141b:

383. Shaikh Sharaf-aldîn, known as Abû 'Alî Ḳalandar, originally of 'Irâḳ, but rose to renown and died in Pânîpat; he had enjoyed the companionship of Shams Tabrîz and Mullâ-i-Rûm (i.e. the great Jalâl-aldîn Rûmî), and lived twenty years in Dihlî in religious austerity, before he applied himself to deeper Ṣûfic meditations; he exchanged rubâ'îs with Sulṭân Muḥammad Tughluḳ (who ascended the throne of Dihlî A.H. 725=A.D. 1325, see the Maṭlûb-alṭâlibîn, maṭlab 9, No. 7), and wrote a famous letter to Sulṭân 'Alâ-aldîn Khiljî (who died after a reign of twenty years, A.H. 715 or 716=A.D. 1316, see loc. cit., No. 4), on fol. 141b.

384. Ḳâdirî, a verse-writer, on fol. 142a.

Dihlî, on fol. 142a:

385. Muḥammad bin Aḥmad bin 'Alî, known as Shaikh Nizâm-aldîn Auliyâ, born in Badâ'ûn, lived in Dihlî, pupil of Farîd-aldîn Ganj-i-shakar in Ajwadhan, etc. (see his full biography in the Maṭlûb-alṭâlibîn). His death is stated here to have taken place the 13th (in the following copy the 18th) of Rabî'-alawwal (the usual date is the 18th of Rabî'-alâkhar, see the Maṭlûb-alṭâlibîn and the Safînat-alauliyâ, No. 114), A.H. 725 (A.D. 1325, Febr. 27, March 4 or April 3), on fol. 142b.

386. Maulânâ Badr-aldîn Isḥâḳ, pupil, Khalîfah, and son-in-law of Farîd-aldîn Ganj-i-shakar (see the Sawâṭi'-alanwâr, No. 20, and the Maṭlûb-alṭâlibîn, 15th maṭlab, No. 1), on fol. 143a.

387. Maulânâ Shams-aldîn Yaḥyâ, a pupil and Khalîfah of Nizâm-aldîn Auliyâ (see the Sawâṭi'-alanwâr, No. 23, j, and the Maṭlûb-alṭâlibîn, 16th maṭlab, No. 2 in the list of Khalîfas), on fol. 143b.

388. Maulânâ Fakhr-aldîn Zarâdî (so here distinctly, see the Sawâṭi'-alanwâr, No. 23, d, and the Maṭlûb-alṭâlibîn, 16th maṭlab, No. 5), another Khalîfah of Nizâm-aldîn Auliyâ and author of two risâlas در اباحت سماع, on fol. 143b.

389. Maulânâ 'Alâ-aldîn Nâilî, another Khalîfah of Nizâm-aldîn Auliyâ, who however never exercised his Khilâfat and never took any pupils (see the Sawâṭi'-alanwâr, No. 23, f, and the Maṭlûb-alṭâlibîn, 16th maṭlab, No. 6). He is stated here to have collected at the end of his life the ملفوظات or sayings of Nizâm-aldîn in the فوائد الفؤاد (a work that is usually ascribed to Amîr Ḥasan, the poet, see the Sawâṭi'-alanwâr, No. 23, n, and Rieu iii. p. 972), on fol. 143b.

390. Maulânâ Burhân-aldîn Gharîb, another pupil and Khalîfah of Nizâm-aldîn, died in Diwgîr (according to the Maṭlûb-alṭâlibîn, 16th maṭlab, No. 7 in the list of Khalîfas, in Daulatâbâd; comp. also the Safînat-alauliyâ, No. 117, and the Sawâṭi'-alanwâr, No. 23, g), on fol. 143b.

391. Amîr Khusrau, the great poet, son of Amîr Lâjîn of the Hazâras of Balkh, who came to India and settled in Patyâlî; when Amîr Khusrau was four years of age, his father went from Patyâlî to Dihlî, and died there; the child's education was then taken in hand by his uncle (see a different statement in Rieu i. pp. 240 and 241, which is taken from Amîr Khusrau's own account of his life). Amîr Khusrau became afterwards the pupil of Nizâm-aldîn Auliyâ, and served seven kings from Ghiyâth-aldîn Balban to Sulṭân Muḥammad Tughlukshâh (comp. the Maṭlûb-alṭâlibîn, 9th maṭlab). When Sulṭân Muḥammad, Balban's son, was killed between Lâhûr and Multân by Tâtars and Moghuls, Amîr Khusrau, who had attached himself to that prince, was taken prisoner and carried off to Balkh; but after two years he succeeded in escaping from Khurâsân to Dihlî and entered Sulṭân Balban's service, after whose death he served his six successors; he died six months after his Pîr Nizâm-aldîn, A. H. 725 =A. D. 1325 (ta'rikhs of his death: عديم المثل and طوطی شکر مقال). Mirzâ Baisunghar bin Mirzâ Shâhrukh collected, as is stated by Daulatshâh, 120,000 verses of Amîr Khusrau, but according to the poet's own remark in one of his risâlas, he had composed between 400,000 and 500,000. His Khamsah contains 18,000 baits, the عشقيّه 4,000, the قران السعدين likewise 4,000, the نه سپهر again 4,000, the تغلق نامه 3,000. His four diwâns are entitled respectively تحفة الصغر, وسط الحيات, غرّة الكمال, and بقيّة نقيّه. Among his kasîdas are particularly famous the elegy on the death of Balban's son, prince Muhammad, and the مرآة الصفا, in Khâkânî's style, the latter of which is quoted here in full, on fol. 143b.

392. Khwâjah Hasan, with the epithet Najm-aldîn, the Sa'dî of India, as he is styled here, likewise a pupil of Nizâm-aldîn; towards the end of his life he went by request of Sultân Muhammad Tughluk to Diwgîr, where he died, on fol. 146a.

393. Shaikh Jamâlî, went in the reign of Sultân Husain Mirzâ to Khurâsân, and stayed there almost to the end of his life; when he felt his death approaching, he returned to Dihlî, and was buried there. The ta'rikh of his death is given here as خسرو هند, A. H. 925= A. D. 1519 (see on the impossibility of this date the Siyar-al'ârifîn, No. 637 in this Cat.), on fol. 147a.

394. Maulânâ 'Alî Ahmad, under Akbar, on fol. 147a.

395. Maulânâ 'Abd-alhakk, on fol. 147b.

396. Azharî, under Akbar; the original home of his family was Mausil, but he was born in Dihlî, on fol. 147b.

Âgra, on fol. 147b:

397. Shaikh Abû-alfadl, son of Shaikh Mubârak Nâgûrî, the famous wazîr of Akbar and author of the Akbarnâma, etc., on fol. 148a.

398. Shaikh Abû-alfaid Faidî, the great poet and brother of Abû-alfadl, king of poets in Akbar's court and author of the نوادر الكلم (more correctly according to the following copy موارد الكلم) on ethics, the سواطع الالهام, a commentary on the Kurân (in both works no letters with diacritical points appear), a diwân of 15,000 baits, the epic poem نل و دمن, and an unfinished Khamsah, on fol. 148a.

399. Wahshî, a poet, on fol. 148b.

400. Sarâbî, wrote verses too, on fol. 149a.

Lakhnau, on fol. 149a:

401. Sayyid Shâhî, a poet, on fol. 149a.

Audh (or as it is distinctly pointed here Awadh), on fol. 150a:

402. Shaikh Nasîr-aldîn, called Cirâgh-i-Dihlî, the second (according to others, the first) Khalîfah of Nizâm-aldîn Auliyâ (see the Sawâti'-alanwâr, No. 22, Matlûb-altâlibîn, 16th matlab, No. 1 in the list of Khalîfas, and Safînat-alauliyâ, No. 116), on fol. 150a.

403. Amîr Sayyid 'Alâ-aldîn, on fol. 150a.

Kâlpî, on fol. 150a:

404. Shaikh Abû Sa'îd, on fol. 150a.

General account of the history of Hindûstân and the Muhammadan rulers of Dihlî from Amîr Nâsir-aldîn Sabuktagîn (died A. H. 387=A. D. 997, after a reign of 20 years) to the emperor Akbar, on ff. 150b–179a. Other renowned personages belonging to, or connected with the Moghul dynasty in India are—

405. Mirzâ Kâmrân, the second son of the emperor Bâbar, was governor of Kandahâr in his father's time, and got Lâhûr and Kâbul in addition at the accession of his brother Humâyûn; his subsequent repeated revolts, his final punishment by being blinded, and his withdrawal to Makkah are related here in full; he died in Makkah in Dhû-alhijjah, A. H. 964 (A. D. 1557, Sept., Oct.); the proper ta'rikh for his death is در شاه محروم مکه ماند; the other ta'rikh, quoted here, viz. بادشاه کامران بکعبه مرد, would give the wrong date 968 (the wording of this ta'rikh in the following copy, بادشاه کامران در مکه بمرد, is quite impossible); Mirzâ Kâmrân composed both Persian and Turkish poetry, on fol. 179a.

406. Mirzâ Abû-alkâsim, the only son of Mirzâ Kâmrân, used as poet the takhallus Shaukatî; he was put to death in the fortress of Gwâliyâr, A. H. 974 (در نهصد و هفتاد و چهار), or more correctly according to the ta'rikh, نماند از کامران نام و نشانی, A. H. 973 (A. D. 1565, 1566), on fol. 180b.

407. Mirzâ 'Askarî, the third son of Bâbar, was once pardoned by Humâyûn for his rebellious behaviour, but repeated it and was imprisoned; at last he succeeded in escaping to Balkh, and went from there on a pilgrimage to the holy cities (so the account here, differing in several particulars from the usual statement); he died in a wâdi between Syria and Makkah. He also wrote occasional poetry, on fol. 180b.

408. Mirzâ Hindâl, the youngest son of Bâbar, born A. H. 924 (A. D. 1518), killed A. H. 958 (A. D. 1551) during a night attack of his brother Mirzâ Kâmrân on Humâyûn's army; the ta'rikh of his death is شبخون (night attack); he also composed verses, on fol. 181a.

409. Alamîr ala'zam Muhammad Bairamkhân, with the honorary title of Khânkhânân, son of Saif 'Alîbeg bin Yârbeg bin Pîr 'Alîbeg bin 'Alî Shakarbeg Bahârlû (the Bahârlû dynasty in Hamadân, Dinawar, and Kurdistân was a branch of the Karâ-koyunlû Turkmâns), born in Badakhshân, went after his father's death to Balkh and entered in his 16th year the service of the emperor Humâyûn, who after his return to India conferred upon Bairamkhân first the governorship of Kandahâr; he received the title of Khânkhânân, and from Akbar that of Khitâbkhân Bâbâ; in the first five years of Akbar's reign he was the supreme head of the government of India, but in A. H. 967 (A. D. 1560) Akbar, feeling himself strong enough to exercise his sovereign power, dispensed with Bairamkhân's services. An attempt at rebellion on Bairamkhân's part was speedily suppressed, and Bairamkhân had to implore the emperor's pardon, which was willingly granted him. He then set out for the pilgrimage, but was assassinated, A. H. 968 (A. D. 1561, ta'rikh: شهید شد محمّد بیرام), near Patan in Gujarât by Mubârak Nûhânî (read Lûhânî), whose father had been slain by the Moghuls (so here; according to the usual statement, by Bairamkhân himself) in battle. Bairamkhân was a good ḳaṣîdah and ghazal writer, on fol. 181b.

410. Alamîr alajall Sipahsâlâr 'Abd-alraḥîm Mirzâkhân, with the same honorary epithet of Khânkhânân (see above, No. 277), son of Bairamkhân, at whose death he was four years old. For the conquest of Gujarât he received the title of Khiṭâbkhân Khânân and the dignity of a Panjhazâr; he also subdued Sind, and is at the present moment (i. e. A. H. 1002, the date of this work) engaged in the conquest of the Dakhan; in his poetry he uses the takhalluṣ Raḥîm, on fol. 183b.

411 and 412. 'Alî Ḳulî Khânzamân and Muḥammad Sa'îd Bahâdurkhân, two brothers, sons of Ḥaidar Sulṭân Uzbeg, who was one of Humâyûn's Amîrs. They also entered Humâyûn's service and rose by degrees to high dignities. Under Akbar they became twice rebellious, and when at last attacked by the emperor, they both fell in the battle A. H. 974 (A. D. 1567); the two ta'rîkhs, however, for their death, quoted here, give A. H. 975, viz. دو خون شد and فریاد زدست قلنج بی بنیاد. Both occupied themselves with poetical compositions, but Khânzamân, who chose Sulṭân as takhalluṣ, with greater success than his brother, on fol. 184a.

413. Mirzâ Jânî, the last ruler of Tattah in Sind, who succeeded his grandfather Muḥammad Bâḳî (A. H. 993=A. D. 1585, as we learn from W. Morley, p. 73). Muḥammad Bâḳî was the son of Mirzâ 'Îsâ, who had seized the reins of government A. H. 962 (A. D. 1555), when Mirzâ Shâh Ḥusain, of the Arghûn dynasty, had died without a son and successor. Muḥammad Bâḳî had two sons, Mirzâ Muḥammad Ṣâliḥ, who was slain, and Mirzâ Pâyanda, who being himself unable to govern, handed the supreme power over to his son Mirzâ Jânî. Sind was at last subjugated to Akbar's power by 'Abd-alraḥîm Khânkhânân, Mirzâ Jânî capitulated (A. H. 1001=A. D. 1592), and became a loyal servant of Akbar, who confirmed him as governor of Tattah (see also No. 436 in this Cat.), on fol. 185a.

414. Zainkhân Kûkultâsh, a faithful servant of Akbar, who gave him the governorship of Kâbul and its dependencies; he was a great connoisseur in Indian Râgs, and a poet also, on fol. 185b.

415. Ḳilij Muḥammadkhân, of the Jânî Ḳurbânî tribe, one of Akbar's Amîrs; his ancestors had been in the service of the Caghatâi Sulṭâns, his grandfather in that of Abû-alghâzî Sulṭân (Ḥusain) Mirzâ; he used Ulfatî (according to the following copy Lâmi'î) as takhalluṣ in his poetical compositions, on fol. 186a.

416. Khân 'Âlam, son of Hamdam Kûka (who was together with Murâd Kûka a foster-brother of Mirzâ Kâmrân, see above, No. 405, and a poet); he was in Akbar's service and made himself conspicuous in the war against the Afghâns, on fol. 186a.

417. Thânîkhân, another of Akbar's Amîrs, on fol. 186b.

418. 'Ishḳikhân, held for some time a generalship in Akbar's army, but was removed from his office, on fol. 186b.

419. Saḳḳâi Caghatâi, wrote Persian and Turkish poetry, died on a journey to Sarândîb, on fol. 186b.

420. Muḥammad Yûsuf, was some years in Akbar's service, wrote some poetry, and died young, A. H. 970 =A. D. 1562, 1563 (ta'rîkh: کجا شد یوسف مصر ای عزیزان, so correctly in the following copy), on fol. 186b.

421. Khwâjah Muḥammad 'Abd-alraḥîm (in the following copy Muḥammad Raḥîm) 'Ahdî, was first one of Akbar's secretaries, afterwards a warrior; he wrote besides some poetry, on fol. 187a.

422. Maulânâ Yâdgâr Ḥâlatî, a poet of the same time, on fol. 187a.

423. Muḥammad Ḥusain, son of the preceding poet, with the takhalluṣ Baḳâ'î; he became insane, poisoned his father, and was killed himself, on fol. 187a.

Syria, on fol. 187a; Jerusalem (بیت المقدس), on fol. 187b; Damascus (دمشق), on fol. 188b:

424. Shaikh Abû Sulaimân 'Abd-alraḥîm Dârânî (comp. the Safînat-alauliyâ, No. 169), styled, 'the sweet basil of hearts' (ریحان القلوب), quoted in the تذکرة الاولیا, on fol. 189a.

425. Abû 'Umar (see the Safînat-alauliyâ, No. 220), on fol. 189a.

426. Ibrâhîm bin Dâ'ûd (see the Safînat-alauliyâ, No. 224), on fol. 189a.

427. Kafshîrî, on fol. 189b.

428. Shaikh Sulaimân Turkmân (see the Safînat-alauliyâ, No. 347), on fol. 189b.

429. Shaikh 'Alî Kurdî, had many pupils and followers and performed many miracles, on fol. 189b.

430. Dâ'ûd bin Aḥmad Dârânî, on fol. 189b.

431. Aḥmad bin Abî aljawârî (more correctly alḥawârî, see the Safînat-alauliyâ, No. 172), on fol. 189b.

432. Abû 'Abdallâh Makḥûl Hudbî, on fol. 189b.

433. Muḥammad bin Ḥasan al-Shaibânî, cousin of Farrâ, was for many years Ḳâḍî-alḳuḍât, on fol. 189b.

434. Shams-aldîn 'Abdallâh, known as Ibn-allassân (ابن اللسان), on fol. 189b.

435. Jalâl-aldîn Maḥmûd, the first Khaṭîb of Damascus, was Ḳâḍî-alḳuḍât of Syria in the time of Malik Nâṣir (the Mamlûk-Sulṭân who died A. H. 741=A. D. 1341), on fol. 189b.

436. Abû-alḳâsim 'Alî bin al-Ḥasan bin 'Asâkir, author of a تاريخ, in seventy-two volumes, on fol. 189b.

437. Abû-alma'âlî Muḥammad bin Abî-alḥasan, Ḳâḍî of Damascus, on fol. 189b.

438. 'Alâ-aldîn 'Alî ibn alḥarâm (read: ibn Abî-alḥazm) alḳurashî, a physician, especially famous throughout Egypt and Syria, author of the Mûjaz or epitome (with its full title مُوجَز القانون في الطبّ, edited Calcutta, 1828); he is usually known as Ibn-alnafîs, and died A. H. 687 (A. D. 1288), on fol. 189b.

439. Abû Nuwâs Ḥasan bin Hânî (not Hâfî هافي, as both here and in the following copy is written by mistake), the famous poet under Hârûn-alrashîd, on fol. 189b.

Ba'lbak, on fol. 189b:

440. Mu'adhdhin (مؤذّن), one of the companions of Marwân Ḥimâr (i. e. Marwân II, with the honorary title of the 'ass of Mesopotamia'), the last Umayyade Khalîf (who was defeated and slain A. H. 132=A. D. 750); he was summoned together with 'Abd-alḥamîd Kâtib and Salâm Ḥâdî, two other companions of the unfortunate Khalîf, before Abû Ja'far Manṣûr (who ascended the throne as second 'Abbâside Khalîf after the death of his brother Abû-al'abbâs al-Saffâḥ, A. H. 136=A. D.

754), to be sentenced to death, but succeeded in obtaining Manṣûr's pardon and favour, on fol. 190a.

Ghazza, on fol. 190b:

441. Abû 'Abdallâh Muḥammad bin Idrîs, known as Shâfi'î, the great legal Imâm, under Hârûn-alrashîd, the Pîr of Aḥmad bin Ḥanbal (see on both the Safinat-alauliyâ, Nos. 23 and 24), died A. H. 204 (A. D. 820), on fol. 190b.

Ḥalab, on fol. 191a:

442. Abû-albaḳâ Ya'ish (or more correctly Ibn Ya'îsh) bin 'Alî, with the epithet of Muwaḳḳif-aldîn, the grammarian, author of the famous commentary on Zamakhsharî's Mufaṣṣal (lately edited by Jahn) and a commentary on the تفسير ملوكى, on fol. 191a.

Manbij (between Ḥalab and the Euphrates), on fol. 191a:

443. Abû 'Ubâdah Walîd bin 'Ubaidah (or according to others 'Ubaid), known as Buḥturî (بحترى, so in the following copy), or Bukhturî (بختترى, so here, comp. on this double spelling G. Flügel, Cat., i. p. 436), the famous Arabic poet, whose death is fixed here in A. H. 286 (A. D. 899); it is said here, that the poets of Arabia likened his poems to a 'golden chain' (اشعر بحترى را شعراء عرب بسلسلهٔ زر تشبيه كردة اند), on fol. 191a.

'Askalân, on fol. 191b:

444 and 445. Abû Ya'ḳûb Kharrâṭ (the turner) and Shaikh Abû-alkhair, on fol. 191b.

455. Abû Shu'aib al-Maḳna', performed the pilgrimage on foot seventy times, on fol. 196b.

456. Abû-alḥasan of Ḳarâfah (comp. the Safinat-alauliyâ, No. 229), contemporary with Abû Sulaimân Nîlî (or Nailî), on fol. 196b.

457. Shaikh Nûr-aldîn 'Abd-alraḥmân, got his investiture from Shaikh Jamâl-aldîn Yûsuf Kûrânî after less than twenty days' tuition, on fol. 196b.

458. Shaikh Abû-al'abbâs of Damanhûr (on the way to Alexandria, see Wüstenfeld, Jâcût's Reisen, loc. cit., p. 468), on fol. 196b.

459. Abû 'Abdallâh albarḳî, on fol. 197a.

460. Abû Ja'far Ḥaddâd, the pupil of Ibn 'Aṭâ, called Ṣaghîr-i-Miṣrî, to distinguish him from another Shaikh of the same name, who is called Kabîr-i-Baghdâdî, on fol. 197a.

461. Akhî 'Alî, lived a great deal in Rûm and Syria, had many pupils, but never enjoyed a Pîr's tuition, until he heard of 'Alâ-aldaulah's fame (see the Safinat-alauliyâ, No. 132); he then with all his pupils became a disciple of that Shaikh, on fol. 197a.

462. Nabân 'Abdallâh Shaibânî (so in the following copy; the present one makes two distinct Shaikhs out of the one, viz. Nabân 'Abdallâh and Shaibân), on fol. 197a.

463. Abûbakr (رقاق, probably misspelt for دقّاق Dakḳâḳ, see the Safinat-alauliyâ, No. 198), the spiritual guide of Abûbakr Dakḳâḳ-i-ṣaghir (so according to the following copy, on fol. 217b, l. 4; here this Shaikh is left out).

464. Abûbakr Maghâribî (so probably to be read instead of معاربى in the text), the spiritual guide of Sîrwânî (سيروانى), on fol. 197a.

465. Shaikh 'Imrân Thulthî (ثلثى), on fol. 197a.

466. Abû Ibrâhîm Isma'îl bin Yaḥyâ Mâzinî, a contemporary and disciple of Shâfi'î, wrote various works on Shâfi'ite law, especially one مختصر, which is one of the most difficult books to read, on fol. 197a.

467. Muḥammad bin 'Abdallâh bin 'Abd-alḥaḳîm, another disciple of Shâfi'î, and contemporary with the preceding Shaikh; he was born A. H. 182 (A. D. 798) and died, 80 years old, A. H. 262 (A. D. 876), on fol. 197b.

468. Abû Ya'ḳûb Yûsuf bin Yaḥyâ al-Bûṣîṭî or Bûsiṭî, likewise a disciple of Shâfi'î, and the greatest legal authority after his master's death, was summoned by the 'Abbâside Khalîf Alwâthiḳ-billâh (A. H. 227–232 = A. D. 842–847) to Baghdâd, to solemnly declare the Ḳurân as مخلوق or created, which he refused to do; he was thereupon put in chains and died in his prison in Baghdâd, A. H. 232 (A. D. 846, 847), on fol. 197b.

469. Abûbakr Muḥammad bin Aḥmad bin Ja'far Kitâbî (comp. the Safinat-alauliyâ, No. 223), known as Ibn Ḥaddâd, ḳâḍî and professor, among whose works is particularly renowned the كتاب الفروع, commented upon by Ḳaffâl of Marw, Abû Ṭayyib Ṭabarî and Abû 'Alî Sinjî (see Al-Moschtabih, ed. De Jong, p. ٢٥٣), on fol. 197b.

470. 'Abd-almalik bin Abû-alḳâsim, known as al-Masîḥî, was in the service of Ḥâkim bin 'Azîz Isma'îlî and wrote thirty works, among which are most prominent a تأريخ, containing many strange and wonderful stories, and filling 13,000 leaves; a كتاب الغرب والشرق, containing 200 leaves; a قصص الانبيا, on 1,500 leaves; and a كتاب المفاتحة والمناكحة (on sexual intercourse), on 1,200 leaves; he was born A.H. 366 and died A.H. 423 (A.D. 966, 967–1032), on fol. 198a.

471. 'Abd-alraḥmân alkhaulânî (الخَوْلاني), ḳâḍî of Miṣr, got every year a stipend of 1,000 dinârs, and reached the age of 83 years, on fol. 198a.

472. Salîm bin Yaḥyâ, was also ḳâḍî of Miṣr, died 75 years old, on fol. 198a.

473. Haibat-allâh (the present copy seems rather to read Hibat-allâh هبة الله) bin 'Alî, on fol. 198a.

474. Ḳuṭb-aldîn bin 'Abd-alkarîm (in the following copy bin is omitted) bin Abd-alnûr, author of the تأريخ مصر and a commentary on Bukhârî's صحيح, died A.H. 733 (A.D. 1332, 1333), on fol. 198a.

475. Abû-alḥasan (in the following copy, Abû-alḥusain) bin Yaḥyâ bin Abî 'Alî, a great calligrapher and Inshâ-writer at the court of the Egyptian rulers, composed also good poetry, on fol. 198a.

476. Abû-al'izz (العِزّ or الغِرّ Abû-alghirr) Muẓaffar bin Ibrâhîm Ghailânî (غيلاني), a famous blind poet, died A.H. 623 (A.D. 1226), on fol. 198a.

477. Ṭûlûn, the ancestor of the Ṭûlûnides in Egypt, on fol. 198b.

478. Aḥmad Ibn Ṭûlûn, the first of the Ṭûlûnides who was an almost independent governor of Egypt (died A.H. 270=A.D. 884), on fol. 198b.

479. Abû-aljaish, his son, i.e. Khumârawaih (died end of A.H. 282=A.D. 896), on fol. 198b. After a short remark on this ruler there follows a very brief history of the Ikhshîdîs, viz. Muḥammad (died 66 years old, A.H. 334=A.D. 945, 946), his two sons, Abû-alḳâsim and Abû-alḥasan (died A.H. 354=A.D. 965), and Abû-almisk Kâfûr (A.H. 354–356=A.D. 965–967), to A.H. 361 (A.D. 972), when the Fâṭimide dynasty was firmly established in Egypt.

480. Al-Mu'izz lidinillâh, the first of the Fâṭimides who conquered Egypt and established his residence in Ḳâhirah, A.H. 361 (or, according to Wüstenfeld's Geschichte der Fatimiden-Chalifen, p. 119, A.H. 362=A.D. 972 or 973); he died A.H. 365 (A.D. 976), on fol. 199a.

481. Nizâr al-'Azîz-billâh, son and successor of Al-Mu'izz, reigned 21 years and died, 42 years old, A.H. 386 (A.D. 996), on fol. 199b.

482. Al-Ḥâkim biamrillâh, son and successor of Nizâr al-'Azîz, reigned 25 years, and was assassinated A.H. 411 (A.D. 1021), on fol. 199b.

483. Al-Ẓâhir lidinillâh (or rather li'zâz dinillâh), son and successor of Al-Ḥâkim, reigned 16 years, and died A.H. 427 (A.D. 1036), on fol. 199b.

484. Al-Mustanṣir-billâh, son and successor of the preceding monarch, ascended the throne in his seventh year; Nâṣir bin Khusrau and Ḥasan Ṣabbâḥ are stated here to have been in his service; his general, Basâsîrî, entered Baghdâd (A.H. 450=A.D. 1058), deposed (but did not imprison, as is stated here) the 'Abbâside Khalîf Alḳâ'im billâh, and had for about a year the Khuṭbah read in Mustanṣir's name. Mustanṣir appointed first his eldest son, Al-Muṣṭafâ lidinillâh Nizâr, and later on his youngest (here wrongly called his second) son, Al-Musta'lî-billâh Aḥmad, as heir to the throne; after his death (in A.H. 487=A.D. 1094, end of December) the latter ascended the throne, had his brother Muṣṭafâ killed (or rather immured alive, see Wüstenfeld, loc. cit., p. 273), and reigned 7 years and 2 months; he was assassinated by Muṣṭafâ's adherents, A.H. 495 (A.D. 1101), on fol. 200a.

485. Al-Âmir biaḥkâm-illâh bin al-Musta'lî-billâh, succeeded his father, when 5 years old; in his reign Ḥasan Ṣabbâḥ grew powerful, and in A.H. 515 (A.D. 1121) his murderous devotees assassinated Âmir's commander-in-chief, Malik Afḍal (see the proper version of this story in Wüstenfeld, loc. cit., p. 289), who left behind him 600,000 (in Wüstenfeld 6,000,000) gold dinârs, 250 ارب (read according to Wüstenfeld اردبّ, bushels) of silver dirhems, 75,000 atlas-robes, 500 boxes with wearing-apparel, an inkstand set with jewels, 12,000 dinârs in value, besides innumerable horses, camels, oxen, buffaloes, and milk-goats; the milk of which yielded 1,000 dinârs per annum. After a reign of 9 years, A.H. 524 (A.D. 1130), Âmir was assassinated by the same followers of Ḥasan Ṣabbâḥ, on fol. 200a.

486. Al-Ḥâfiẓ lidinillâh bin Mustanṣir-billâh (according to Wüstenfeld he was a grandson, not a son, of Mustanṣir), who got his son Ḥasan poisoned by a Jewish physician (this and the other incidents told here about Al-Ḥâfiẓ's wazîrs are wild distortions of the real facts, see Wüstenfeld, loc. cit., p. 306 and the previous pages); he reigned 20 years, and died A.H. 544 (A.D. 1149), on fol. 200b.

487. Al-Ẓâhir (الظاهر, so here and in the following copy; correctly, according to Wüstenfeld, Al-Ẓâfir, الظافر) billâh, son of Al-Ḥâfiẓ, had intimate friendship with Naṣr, son of 'Abbâs, the wazîr of the realm, but was betrayed by him, and murdered in his, Naṣr's, house after 5 years' reign, A.H. 549 (A.D. 1154), on fol. 200b.

488. Al-Fâ'iz (الفائز, so correctly in the following copy; here he is called al-Ḳâbiḍ القابض) binaṣrillâh, son of Al-Ẓâfir, reigned 6 years and a few months, and died A.H. 555 (A.D. 1160), only 11 years and 6 months old, on fol. 200b.

489. Al-'Âḍid lidinillâh, here foolishly called a son of the preceding child, whereas he was (see Wüstenfeld, loc. cit., pp. 310, 321, and 325) a son of Yûsuf bin al-Ḥâfiẓ, the brother of Al-Ẓâfir, and consequently a cousin of Al-Fâ'iz, the last of the Fâṭimides, who died A.H. 567 (A.D. 1171), on fol. 200b. After a short summary of his wars and negotiations with the Crusaders, his affairs with Nûr-aldîn bin 'Imâd-aldîn Zangî, Asad-aldîn Shîrkûh, etc., his final deposition and the gradual rise of Amîr Ṣalâḥ-aldîn Yûsuf bin Najm-aldîn Ayyûb, a nephew of Asad-aldîn Shîrkûh, to independent power in Egypt (A.H. 581=A.D. 1185), the continuation of the story is interrupted by an enumeration of the three predecessors of Al-Mu'izz lidînillâh (see No. 480 above), who were the founders of the independent dynasty of the Fâṭimides in Maghrib, otherwise styled 'Alides, or, as here, Isma'ilis, viz.:

490. Abû-alḳâsim Muḥammad bin 'Abdallâh, called Mahdî (a mixture of the name of the twelfth Imâm Mahdî, see Safînat-alauliyâ, No. 16, and the real name of the first Fâṭimide ruler who renounced his allegiance to the 'Abbâside Khalifs, viz. 'Ubaid-allâh al-Mahdî, who is by Shî'ite writers frequently represented as the resuscitated twelfth Imâm); his genealogy is traced back, as usual, to Isma'îl, the son of the sixth Imâm Ja'far alṣâdiḳ (comp. Wüstenfeld, loc. cit., p. 14); according to Sunnite and Maghribî versions, which are given here too, he was an offspring of 'Abdallâh bin Sâlim Baṣrî; according to 'Irâḳî versions a descendant of 'Abdallâh bin Maimûn Ḳaddâḥ (see ib., pp. 5 and 6); he established his rule in Maghrib either A. H. 296 or 299 (297 in Wüstenfeld, loc. cit., p. 38 = A. D. 910), reigned 26 years and died A. H. 322 (=A. D. 934, so correctly in the following copy; the present copy has a wrong 332), 62 years old, on fol. 201a.

491. Al-Ḳâ'im biamrillâh Aḥmad bin Muḥammad (again a confusion of the son with the father; the Kunyah of al-Ḳâ'im was Abû-alḳâsim and his real name Muḥammad, see Wüstenfeld, loc. cit., p. 70), son and successor of al-Mahdî; he had to contend against the sectarian Abû Yazîd, who besieged him in the fortress of Mahdiyah, and died, after a reign of 12 years, A. H. 334 (A. D. 946), on fol. 201a.

492. Al-Manṣûr bikuwwatillâh Isma'îl, son and successor of Al-Ḳâ'im; he finally conquered and killed Abû Yazîd, and died after a reign of 7 years, A. H. 341 (A. D. 953), 39 years old, on fol. 201b. His son and successor was Al-Mu'izz lidînillâh (see No. 480 above).

493. Ṣalâḥ-aldîn (the Saladin of European writers), the powerful founder of the Ayyûbite dynasty in Egypt and Syria; he died A. H. 589 (A. D. 1193), on fol. 202a.

494. Malik 'Azîz Abû-alfatḥ Uthmân, Ṣalâḥ-aldîn's son and successor, who had been governor of Egypt during his father's lifetime; he deprived his brother Malik Afḍal of the governorship of Damascus, but after his own death, in A. H. 595 (A. D. 1198, November), Afḍal returned and established his rule in Damascus (this statement again is wrong: Malik Afḍal did not succeed in regaining Damascus, see Weil, Geschichte der islamitischen Völker, 1866, p. 364), on fol. 202a.

495. Malik 'Âdil Abûbakr, the brother of Ṣalâḥ-aldîn, and uncle of Malik 'Azîz and Malik Afḍal (who first acted as guardian of 'Azîz's minor son Al-Manṣûr, but soon asserted his own independence); he drove Malik Afḍal from Damascus (see the previous statement in No. 494) and relegated him to Samosata, where he stayed until his death in A. H. 622 (A. D. 1225); 'Âdil distributed his realm in the following way: to his eldest son, Malik Kâmil, he gave Egypt; to his second son, Malik Mu'aẓẓam, Damascus; to his third son, Malik Ashraf, Mesopotamia; and to his fourth son, Malik Auḥad, with the name of Ayyûb, Khilâṭ (or Akhlâṭ) in Armenia (according to Weil, loc. cit., p. 365, it was Ashraf, the third son, who got the government of Khilâṭ in addition to Mesopotamia). 'Âdil's death is by a strange confusion fixed here in A. H. 598 instead of 615 (=A. D. 1218), on fol. 202a.

496. Malik Kâmil bin Malik 'Âdil, who reigned till A. H. 635 (A. D. 1238); in A. H. 625 (A. D. 1228) he annexed Yaman and Ḥijâz to his Egyptian and Syrian dominions, drove his brother Malik Mu'aẓẓam (correctly: Mu'aẓẓam's son Dâ'ûd, see Weil, loc. cit., p. 367, since Mu'aẓẓam had died a year before) from Damascus and gave it to Malik Ashraf; Mu'aẓẓam's son (in the text again Mu'aẓẓam) had to be satisfied with the fortresses of Karak, Shaubak, and Nâblus (here نابلس). Malik Ashraf's death is fixed here in the same year as that of his brother Kâmil, on fol. 202b.

497. Malik 'Âdil II, Kâmil's son and successor, reigned only one year in Egypt and was then deposed and imprisoned by his brother, Malik Ṣâliḥ, on fol. 202b.

498. Malik Ṣâliḥ Ayyûb, son of Kâmil; the vicissitudes of his reign are here related in the following way (there is in this, as well as in the previous accounts, scarcely any mention of the wars and struggles with the Crusaders): when he lost his hold on Egypt, he went to Damascus and summoned his uncle Isma'îl (who had likewise the epithet of Malik Ṣâliḥ) from Ba'lbak; the latter obeyed, but having obtained help from the governor of Ḥims, he put his nephew to flight, who betook himself to Karak, but was imprisoned there by the governor of that fortress. Meanwhile 'Âdil II had escaped from prison, had taken a second time possession of Egypt, and offered Malik Nâṣir, the governor of Karak, 100,000 dinârs for the extradition of Malik Ṣâliḥ. But the former swore allegiance to Malik Ṣâliḥ, and went with him to Egypt, where the latter succeeded a second time in seizing the reins of government, and in imprisoning his brother 'Âdil for the remainder of his life. He died A. H. 647 (A. D. 1249), on fol. 202b.

499. Malik Mu'aẓẓam, son and successor of Malik Ṣâliḥ (i. e. Tûránshâh), who was killed (A. H. 648 = A. D. 1250) by the Mamlûks or slaves (غلامان, as they are called here), on fol. 203a. With him the dynasty of the Ayyûbites ended, and 'Izz-aldîn Aibak, the Mamlûk, who declared himself Sulṭân in A. H. 652 (A. D. 1254, more correctly A. H. 650 = A. D. 1252) and assumed the title of Malik Mu'izz, founded the dynasty of the Mamlûks.

Fourth Iḳlîm. Marw-i-Shahijân, on fol. 203b:

500. Khwâjah Bashar Ḥâfî (so called, because he always walked barefooted, see Safînat-alauliyâ, No. 171), on fol. 204a.

501. 'Abdallâh (bin) Mubârak, contemporary with Sufyân Thaurî and Fuḍail bin 'Iyâḍ (see Safînat-alauliyâ, No. 165); he was honoured by the titles of Amîr-i-ḳalam u balârak (lord of the pen and the sword) and Imâm-alislâm, and alternately performed one year the pilgrimage, engaged in warfare the next, and applied himself to commercial pursuits the third, on fol. 204a.

502. Fatḥ bin Shakhraf (Safînat-alauliyâ, No. 189), here spelt سنجرف, on fol. 204a.

503. Shaikh Manṣûr bin 'Ammâr, on fol. 204a.

504. Shaikh Abû 'Alî Siyâh (Safînat-alauliyâ, No. 291), on fol. 204a.

505. Shaikh Abû 'Alî Shab-bûî (the tuberose), on fol. 204a.

506. Abû-al'abbâs Sayyârî (Safînat-alauliyâ, No. 240), on fol. 204b.

507. Ḥakîm Buzurjmihr, on fol. 204b.

508. Ḳaffâl-i-Marwazî (the locksmith of Marw, i.e. Abûbakr 'Abd-alraḥmân bin Aḥmad bin 'Abdallâh, the great Shâfi'ite lawyer, who is stated here to have been consulted by Sulṭân Maḥmûd of Ghazna as to a choice between the Shâfi'ite and the Ḥanafite legal doctrines, and died A.H. 419, A.D. 1028, see Barbier de Meynard, Dictionnaire géographique, etc., pp. 531 and 532), on fol. 204b.

509. Muḥammad bin Naṣr, a lawyer and traditionist, on fol. 204b.

510. Ibrâhîm bin Aḥmad, a Shâfi'ite lawyer, wrote a commentary on the مختصر of Mazanî (مزنی, so correct in the following copy; here the name is spelt مازنی, but the مختصر, the standard work on Shâfi'ite doctrines, is composed by Abû Ibrâhîm Isma'îl bin Yaḥyâ al-Mazanî, a disciple of Shâfi'î, who died A.H. 264, A.D. 878); his full name, according to Barbier de Meynard, loc. cit., was Abû Isḥâḳ Ibrâhîm bin Aḥmad bin Isḥâḳ, and his death is fixed there in A.H. 340 (A.D. 951, 952); comp. also Safînat-alauliyâ, No. 237, where he is stated to have died A.H. 342 (A.D. 953, 954), on fol. 204b.

511. 'Îsâ bin Muḥammad allughawî, on fol. 204b.

512. Abû Manṣûr 'Umârah (in the index of this and the text of the following copy wrongly 'Ammâr, عمّار, see Ethé, Rûdagî's Vorläufer und Zeitgenossen, No. 21) bin Aḥmad (according to 'Aufî, bin Muḥammad), under the Sâmânides and first Ghaznawides, on fol. 204b.

513. Ḥakîm Kisâ'î (see Ethé, Die Lieder des Kisâ'î, Sitzungsberichte der Münchener Akademie, philos.-philol. Classe, 1874, pp. 133–148), born the 26th of Shawwâl, A.H. 341 (A.D. 953, March 16), lived till the beginning of Maḥmûd of Ghazna's reign, on fol. 205a.

514. Abû Naẓar 'Abd-al'azîz bin Manṣûr al-'Asjadî, a panegyrist of Sulṭân Maḥmûd of Ghazna; he wrote a ḳaṣîdah in honour of the conquest of Sûmanât in India by that ruler, on fol. 205b.

515. Shaikh-alislâm Ḥârithî, the second Luḳmân, wrote some famous rubâ'is, on fol. 206a.

516. Fakhr-aldîn Mubârakshâh, panegyrist of Malik Saif-aldîn Ghûrî, and his successor Ghiyâth-aldîn Ghûrî (A.H. 552, according to others 558–599 = A.D. 1157 or 1163–1203), on fol. 206a.

517. Shams-aldîn Muḥammad Daḳâ'iḳî, author of a dîwân, on fol. 206b.

518. Alḥakîm Maḥmûd bin 'Alî al-Samâ'î (or al-Samâwî, the celestial one), panegyrist of Sulṭân Sanjar (A.H. 511–552 = A.D. 1117–1157), on fol. 206b.

519. Shihâb-aldîn Abû-alḥasan Ṭalḥah, likewise a panegyrist of Sulṭân Sanjar, on fol. 207a.

520. Sayyid Abû 'Alî bin al-Ḥusain, a rubâ'î of whom is quoted here, on fol. 207b.

521. Athîr-aldîn Al-Futûḥî, had munâẓarât or poetical contests with Adîb Ṣâbir (see No. 573 below) and Anwarî, on fol. 207b.

522. Khwâjah Ḥusain, who was in intellectual matters a disciple of Maulânâ 'Iṣâm-aldîn Ibrâhîm, and in legal matters of Shaikh Ibn Ḥajar, the mufti of 'Arabistân and the holy cities of Makkah and Madînah; he wrote a famous ta'rîkh on the birth of Sulṭân Salîm, the eldest son of the emperor Akbar (afterwards the emperor Jahângîr), and his brother Shâh Murâd, on fol. 208b.

523. Maulânâ Mushfiḳî, was born and died in Bukhârâ, on fol. 208b.

524. Wâṣilî, on fol. 208b.

Mahnah, on fol. 209a:

525. Shaikh Abû Sa'îd Faḍl-allâh bin Abû-alkhair, the great rubâ'î writer, was a pupil of Abû-alfaḍl Sarakhsî (see No. 544 below), but got by order of that Pîr his investiture from Shaikh 'Abd-alraḥmân Sullamî (see Safînat-alauliyâ, No. 294, and Ethé, Die Rubâ'is des Abû Sa'îd bin Abulkhaîr, in Sitzungsberichte der Münchener Akademie, philos.-philol. Classe, 1875, pp. 145–168, and 1878, pp. 38–70), on fol. 209a.

526. Aḥmad bin Shâdân, the wazîr of Sulṭân Tughrulbeg bin Mikâ'îl Saljûḳî (the first independent ruler of that dynasty, died A.H. 455 = A.D. 1063), on fol. 209b.

527. As'ad of Mahnah, who, according to Daulatshâh, had one day in the majlis of Sulṭân Muḥammad bin Malikshâh (A.H. 498–511 = A.D. 1104–1117) a contest with Imâm Muḥammad Ghazâlî (who died A.H. 505 = A.D. 1111), on fol. 209b.

528. Auḥad-aldîn Anwarî, the great panegyrist of Sulṭân Sanjar; his death is fixed here in A.H. 580 (or according to others even 547); the proper date is either A.H. 585 or 587 (A.D. 1189 or 1191, see Bodleian Cat., No. 543 sq.), on fol. 210a.

529. Khwâjah Mu'ayyad, a descendant of Abû Sa'îd bin Abû-alkhair, on fol. 211a.

530. Shaikh Abû Naṣr, likewise a descendant of Abû Sa'îd, on fol. 211a.

Abîward, on fol. 211a:

531. Fuḍail bin 'Iyâḍ (Safînat-alauliyâ, No. 96), on fol. 211a.

532. Bâbâ Saudâ'î, was in the service of Mirzâ Shâhrukh's son, Mirzâ Baisunghar (who died A.H. 837 = A.D. 1434), on fol. 211a.

533. Maulânâ Aḥmad, went at an early age to Transoxania and joined the ascetics (مجرّد مَنِشان) of Bukhârâ; later on he went to the 'Irâḳ and stayed in Kâshân, where he got a professorship; but when Amîr Jamâl-aldîn Astarâbâdî became wazîr of that town, he was deprived of his stipend, and only his death saved him from the imprisonment which the wazîr had resolved upon, on fol. 211b.

534. Maulânâ Abû-alḥasan Dânishmand, who in his fourteenth year could explain the commentary of the تجريد (no doubt the metaphysical work of that title by Naṣîr-aldîn Tûsî, who died A.H. 672 = A.D. 1274) with glosses, and in his twenty-fifth lectured on the Almagest; he had also a prodigious memory. Among his numerous works the most prominent ones are: كتاب حسنات (or perhaps كتاب حُسْنا), كتاب مشارق, glosses on the شمسيّه (the work on logic by Najm-aldîn 'Alî bin 'Umar alḳazwînî al-Kâtibî, who died A.H. 693 = A.D. 1294), and the تهذيب (i.e. تهذيب المنطق والكلام, another work on logic by Sa'd-aldîn Mas'ûd bin 'Umar al-Taftazânî, who died

A.H. 791 or 792=A.D. 1389 or 1390, see No. 541 below), a رسالة اثبات واجب, and a شرح فرائض; he also wrote poetry, on fol. 212a.

535. Maulânâ Ḳunburî (قنبری, both in text and index here; in the following copy he is styled Munyarî, منیری), a poet, attached to 'Abd-almu'min Sulṭân, the son of the Wâlî of Tûrân, 'Abdallâhkhân (the chief of the Uzbegs, who died A.H. 1006=A.D. 1597, 1598, see No. 574 in this Cat.), on fol. 212b.

Nasâ, on fol. 212b:

536. Imâm Ẓahîr-aldîn Nasawî, a poet, on fol. 212b.

537. Al-Ḳâḍî Imâm Majd-aldîn, who greeted the newly-installed Ḳâḍî of Nasâ, Ḳâḍî Shams-aldîn, with a famous extempore rubâ'î, on fol. 212b.

538. Shams-aldîn Muḥammad Mu'akkad, a rubâ'î-writer, on fol. 213a.

539. Muḥammad bin Badî', was under 'Imâd-aldîn Zangî (who died A.H. 540 or 541=A.D. 1145 or 1146) chief secretary of Nasâ, on fol. 213a.

540. Majd-aldîn Muḥammad albânîrî (البانیری or bin albânîrî, as the following copy reads), court-poet of Sulṭân Sikandar, and author of a mathnawî, entitled شاهنامه, on the history of the Khwârizmshâhs, on fol. 213a.

541. Maulânâ Sa'd-aldîn Mas'ûd bin 'Umar al-Taftâzânî (see No. 534 above), began his authorship in his sixteenth year with a commentary on the صرف زنجانی, after which followed the مُطوّل (a commentary on the تلخیص المفتاح, completed A.H. 748=A.D. 1347, see J. Aumer, Arabic Cat., pp. 310 and 311, and the edition of Constantinople, A.H. 1260), dedicated to Malik Ḥusain Kurt; he then took his abode in Khwârizm and wrote the مختصر تلخیص, dedicated to Jânibeg; when Timûr conquered Khwârizm, he made the Maulânâ his companion; his death is fixed here, and in the following copy, wrongly in A.H. 752, instead of 791 or 792; he was buried in Sarakhs, on fol. 213a.

542. Maulânâ Shams-aldîn Muḥammad, son of the preceding scholar, on fol. 213b.

543. Maulânâ Ḳuṭb-aldîn Muḥammad, son of Shams-aldîn, filled from the last years of Shâhrukh's reign (who died A.H. 850=A.D. 1447) to the beginning of Ḥusain Mirzâ's reign (A.H. 873=A.D. 1469) the post of Shaikh-alislâm, on fol. 213b.

Sarakhs, on fol. 213b:

544. Shaikh Abû-alfaḍl, the Pîr of Shaikh Abû Sa'îd bin Abû-alkhair (see No. 525 in this list), and the pupil of Abû Naṣr Sarrâj (Safînat-alauliyâ, No. 271), on fol. 213b.

545. Shaikh Luḳmân, the mad one, contemporary with Abû Sa'îd bin Abû-alkhair (comp. Ethé, Rubâ'îs des Abû Sa'îd, loc. cit., p. 149), on fol. 213b.

546. Khwâjah Aḥmad Ḥammâdî (mentioned in the كشف المحجوب and Jâmî's نفحات), on fol. 214a.

547. Sayyid-al-ajall Ẓahîr-aldîn Tâj-alkuttâb, author of works in prose and verse, mentioned by 'Aufî, on fol. 214a.

548. Alṣadr-alajall Tâj-aldîn, whose diwân is not extant, on fol. 214a.

549. Ustâd Abû-alḥasan 'Alî al-Bihrâmî, a poet in Sulṭân Maḥmûd of Ghazna's time, and author of the خجسته نامه on prosody, on fol. 214b.

550. Imâm-alajall Fakhr-aldîn Muḥammad al-Zarkhânî, of whom two rubâ'îs are quoted here, on fol. 214b.

551. Maulânâ Ḳuṭb-aldîn, father of Nâṣir-aldîn, on fol. 215a.

Balkh, on fol. 215a:

552. Shaikh Abû Isḥaḳ Ibrâhîm bin Adham (or Ibrâhîm Adham, Safînat-alauliyâ, No. 97), got his investiture from Fuḍail bin 'Iyâḍ (ib., No. 96), on fol. 215b.

553. Abû 'Alî Shaḳîḳ, contemporary with the preceding Shaikh (Safînat-alauliyâ, No. 167), on fol. 216a.

554. Ḥâtim-i-aṣamm, pupil of Abû 'Alî Shaḳîḳ and Pîr of Aḥmad bin Khiḍrawaih (Safînat-alauliyâ, No. 173), on fol. 216a.

555. Aḥmad bin Khiḍrawaih (Safînat-alauliyâ, No. 174), had 1,000 disciples, on fol. 216b.

556. Shaikh Abûbakr Warrâḳ (Safînat-alauliyâ, No. 264), on fol. 216b.

557. Shaikh Bahâ-aldîn Walad, with the epithet Sulṭân-al'ulamâ, grandson of Shâh 'Alâ-aldîn Muḥammad, the uncle of Sulṭân Muḥammad Khwârizmshâh, and father of the great Jalâl-aldîn Rûmî (Safînat-alauliyâ, No. 136; see also the Manâḳib-al'ârifîn, No. 630 in this Cat.); he had in Baghdâd a meeting with Shaikh Shihâb-aldîn Suhrawardî; after performing the pilgrimage he settled fifteen years in Âdharbaijân and Lârinda, and afterwards repaired to Ḳûniyah (Iconium), where he died, A.H. 628 (A.D. 1231), on fol. 216b.

558. Maulânâ Jalâl-aldîn Muḥammad, known as Maulawî al-Rûmî, the great mystical poet (Safînat-alauliyâ, No. 137), who left his native town Balkh in his father's company, when he was six years old, and met on his way to Makkah in Nishâpûr Farîd-aldîn 'Aṭṭâr, who presented him with a copy of his mystical poem اسرار نامه; he enjoyed for nine years the tuition and friendship of Bahâ-aldîn Walad's pupil Sayyid Burhân-aldîn Tirmidhî, and after his death that of Shams-aldîn Tabrîzî; when the latter had disappeared (as it is called here) he associated himself with Ṣalâḥ-aldîn Zarkûb, and later on with Ḥusâm-aldîn. He was born A.H. 604, and died A.H. 672 (A.D. 1207–1273), on fol. 217a. Between this and the following Shaikh there is inserted here, on ff. 219b–220b, a short sketch of the history of the Barmakîs, beginning with Ja'far Barmak, who was originally a Parsee, but embraced the Muḥammadan creed, went to Damascus and rose to the dignity of a wazîr under the Umayyade Khalîf Sulaimân (his son Khâlid became wazîr of Abû-al'abbâs), and ending with the final extirpation of the whole race under the Khalîf Hârûn-alrashîd, A.H. 187 (A.D. 803).

559. Shaikh Abû 'Alî Ibn Sînâ (the famous Avicenna), on fol. 220b.

560. Shaikh Abû-alḥasan Shahîd, the Sâmânide poet and contemporary of Rûdagî (see Ethé, Rûdagî's Vorläufer, etc., No. 5), on fol. 221a.

561. Abû-alḳâsim Ḥasan 'Unṣurî, the king of poets at the court of Sulṭân Maḥmûd of Ghazna; besides his ḳaṣîdas there are mentioned here three of his mathnawîs, viz. جنگ بت وسرخ بت, وامق وعذرا, نهر وعین (which are no longer extant), on fol. 221b.

562. Alḳâḍî alimâm Ḥamîd-almillah wa aldîn 'Umar bin Maḥmûd, well known by his مقامات, which have been praised by the poet Anwarî; he flourished under Sulṭân Sanjar, on fol. 223a.

563. Malik-alkuttâb Rashîd-aldîn al-Waṭwâṭ, the well-known poet and chief secretary (صاحب ديوان انشاء) of Atsiz, the Khwârizmshâh (who succeeded his father Ḳuṭb-aldîn Muḥammad as governor of Khwârizm, A.H. 521 = A.D. 1127, became independent A.H. 535 = A.D. 1140, 1141, and died A.H. 551 = A.D. 1156). When Sulṭân Sanjar captured the fortress of Hazârasp, he was made prisoner and condemned to a painful death but pardoned through the intercession of Muntakhab-aldîn (in the following copy Muntajab-aldîn, which means practically the same) Badî' Kâtib, the Sulṭân's secretary; after Atsiz' death he served 17 years more under his son and successor Îl Arslan (A.H. 551–567 = A.D. 1156–1172), at whose death he was more than 80 years old. He died, 98 (in the following copy more correctly 97) years old, A.H. 578 (A.D. 1182), and left besides his dîwân various prose-works, among them the famous حدائق السحر on the art of poetry, on fol. 223b, last line.

564. Imâm Shams-aldîn albâḳilânî, contemporary with Khwâjah Niẓâm-almulk, the great wazir of the Saljûḳs, on fol. 226a.

565. Sirâj-aldîn, a poet who lived at the court of the Khwârizmshâhs, on fol. 226a.

Ćîčiktû and Maimana (near Balkh), on fol. 226b:

566. Ẓahîr-aldîn Ṭâhir bin Muḥammad (better known as Ẓahîr Fâryâbî), renowned as poet, astronomer, and philosopher (therefore called by his contemporaries صدر الحكما); he was first a panegyrist of the kings of Mâzandarân, but attached himself afterwards to the Atâbegs of Âdharbaijân, Muḥammad bin Îlduguz, the so-called Jahânpahlawân (A.H. 568–582 = A.D. 1172–1186), and his brother and successor Ḳizil Arslân (A.H. 582–587 = A.D. 1186–1191); at last he fled from the court of the latter and joined that of the Atâbeg Abûbakr (i.e. Nuṣrat-aldîn Abûbakr, the son of Muḥammad bin Îlduguz). At the end of his life he retired from the world, and died A.H. 592 (so here and in the following copy; the usual and no doubt more correct date is A.H. 598 = A.D. 1201, 1202); he was buried in the cemetery of Surkhâb, in Tabrîz, by the side of Khâḳânî, on fol. 226b.

Andakhud (between Balkh and Marw), on fol. 228a:

567. Sayyid Jamâl-aldîn Barakah (as the following copy adds), the teacher of Amîr Timûr Gûrgân, on fol. 228a.

568. Imâm-alajall Iftikhâr-ala'immah Mas'ûd bin Muḥammad bin 'Alî, scholar and poet, on fol. 228a.

569. Maḥmûd bin Mas'ûd, son of the preceding Shaîkh, author of Persian and Arabic works, among which is the زبدة الزمان, on fol. 228a.

Tirmidh, on fol. 228a:

570. Shaîkh Muḥammad 'Alî Ḥakîm, a great Ḳurân-interpreter and traditionist, on fol. 228b.

571. Abûbakr Warrâḳ, was acquainted with the Pentateuch, the Psalms, and the Gospels, and wrote verses too, on fol. 228b.

572. Ḳidwat-alshu'arâ Abû-alḥasan, a poet, known by the name of منجيك (probably منجنيك Manjanîk), on fol. 228b.

573. Shihâb-aldîn Adîb Ṣâbir, one of the most renowned among the earlier poets and favourite of Sulṭân Sanjar; he was drowned in the Oxus by order of Atsiz, whose murderous design against Sanjar the poet had communicated to the latter, A.H. 547 (A.D. 1152, 1153; other tadhkiras give as date A.H. 546, and even 540), on fol. 229b.

574. Shâh Nâṣir Khwâjah, a poet, went at an early age to India; he was the companion of the Khânzamân (i.e. 'Alî Ḳulikhân) in his rebellious attempt against Akbar (A.H. 974 = A.D. 1567, see No. 411 above), was made prisoner and put to death, on fol. 231a.

575. Mir Sayyid 'Alî Muṣawwir (the painter), was in the emperor Humâyûn's service and honoured by the epithet of Nâdir-almulk Humâyûnshâhî; towards the end of his life he undertook the pilgrimage to Makkah, and remained there until his death, on fol. 231a.

Ḥiṣâr-i-Kûhistânî (Ḥiṣâr Shâdmân in the Âtashkada, Bodleian Cat., col. 287), on fol. 231a:

576. Maulânâ 'Aishî, who had first the takhallus Miḥnatî, which he was requested to exchange for 'Aishî, when he had the honour of being received among the servants of the Shâhinshâh (i.e. Akbar), on fol. 231b.

577. Fatḥî, a poet, on fol. 231b.

582. Maulânâ Shams-aldîn Muḥammad, born according to the حبيب السير in a place called Anjuman (انجمن), on fol. 232b.

583. Mirzâ Ibrâhîm, the son of Mirzâ Sulaimân Badakhshî (see No. 579) and author of a dîwân. He was born A.H. 941 = A.D. 1534, 1535 (ta'rîkh: نخل اميد پدر), and slain A.H. 967 = A.D. 1559, 1560 (ta'rîkh: كو نخل اميد پدر), on fol. 232b.

584. Muḥammad Ḳâsimkhân Mauji, a poet, who grew up under the protection of the emperor Humâyûn and was raised at last to the rank of a Khân, on fol. 232b.

585. Mirzâ 'Alîbeg or Mirzâ 'Alîbeg Akbarshâhî, because the emperor Akbar showed great favour to him from the moment of his arrival in India, both on account of his poetical talent and his warlike prowess; he was still alive at the time of the composition of this work, on fol. 233a.

586. Ḥâfiẓ Khaṭîb, another poet of the same time, on fol. 233a.

587. Maulânâ Abtarî (ابترى, so correct in the following copy; the present one reads both in text and index تبرى), also a poet of Akbar's time, on fol. 233a.

588. Maulânâ Badakhshî, a poet of the same time, on fol. 233a.

589. Maulânâ Niyâzî, likewise under Akbar, whose kindness he badly rewarded by leaving him and going to Gujarât, where he joined the rebellious Mirzâs (see Elphinstone, History of India, 5th ed., p. 504 sq.), after whose fall he was imprisoned for a long time; at last he escaped and stayed in Kâbul, where later on he attached himself first to Mirzâ Shâhrukh (or better, Shâhrukh Mirzâ, the son of Mirzâ Ibrâhîm, see No. 583, who after being driven out of his kingdom of Badakhshân which he had wrested from his grandfather Mirzâ Sulaimân, see No. 579, in A.H. 983= A.D. 1575, entered Akbar's service A.H. 993=A.D. 1585, and commanded the army sent against Kashmîr) and then to Mirzâ Yûsufkhân (who completed the conquest of that country), with whom he went to Kashmîr; in consequence of the rebellion of Yâdgâr (the nephew of the former king of Kashmîr, Yûsufshâh, who in A.H. 1000=A.D. 1592 raised a rebellion against Akbar, but was very soon slain by some of his own followers), in which he appears to have been implicated, he was arrested and imprisoned, and in A.H. 1002, when this work was composed, he was a prisoner still, on fol. 233a.

590. Nadimî, on fol. 233b.

Kâbul, on fol. 233b:

591. Abû Ḥanîfah Nu'mân bin Thâbit, the Imâm-i-a'żam (Safînat-alauliyâ, No. 21); his father Thâbit was a native of Kâbul, but had afterwards settled in Kûfah, where Abû Ḥanîfah was born; he belonged to the Tâbi'în, was a friend of Imâm Ja'far Ṣâdiḳ and the spiritual guide of Fuḍail bin 'Iyâḍ, Ibrâhîm Adham, Dâ'ûd Ṭâ'î, and Bashar Ḥâfî (Safînat-alauliyâ, Nos. 96, 97, 163, and 171). The dates of his birth and death as well as the length of his life (viz. A.H. 80 and 150 =A.D. 699–767, and 70 years) are contained in the following ta'rîkh:

سال هشتاد بو حنیفه بزاد - در جهان داد علم فقه بداد
سال عمرش کشید تا هفتاد - در صد و پنجه اش وفات افتاد on fol. 234b.

592. Ḍiyâ-aldîn Maḥmûd, on fol. 235a.

602. Shaikh Ya'ḳûb, Ṣûfî and poet, on fol. 238a

603. Maulânâ Mażharî, a good poet, went at an early age to Irân, but returned later to Kashmîr and entered, after the conquest of his country by Akbar, the service of this great monarch, who raised him to the rank of Mîrbaḥr, or admiral. At the time of the composition of this work he had retired with a pension and lived in his native country, on fol. 238a.

604. Ḥamîdî, a poet, on fol. 238b.

605. Âujî, another poet, on fol. 238b.

606. Bâhirî (باهری, so in the index of this copy; in the text the name has been left out; in the following copy it is distinctly spelt Mâhirî ماهری), likewise a poet, on fol. 238b.

607. Maulânâ Nâmî, better known as a grammarian than as a poet, on fol. 239a.

Gharjistân, on fol. 239a:

608. Badî'-alzamân 'Abd-alwâsi' aljabalî, a renowned poet, who went from his native mountains to Harât, and afterwards to Ghazna, where he was patronised by Bahrâmshâh (the Ghaznawide who reigned A.H. 512–547=A.D. 1118–1152); four years later he gained by a ḳaṣîdah the favour of Sulṭân Sanjar, when the latter came for Bahrâmshâh's support to Ghazna, and went with him to Marw, on fol. 239a.

Ghûr, on fol. 240b:

609. Fakhr-alsâdât wa al'ârifîn Ḥusain bin Ḥasan (or as the following copy reads, Ḥasan bin Ḥusain, both wordings being incorrect, the proper designation is Ḥusain bin 'Âlim bin Abî Ḥusain or Ḥasan, see Safînat-alauliyâ, No. 154, and Rieu i. p. 40a) al-Ḥusainî, a great Ṣûfî and poet, who was according to some a pupil of Shaikh Rukn-aldîn bin Shaikh Ṣadr-aldîn bin Shaikh Bahâ-aldîn Multânî (Safînat-alauliyâ, No. 156; usually the grandfather himself, Bahâ-aldîn Zakariyyâ Multânî Safînat-alauliyâ, No. 152, is mentioned as Fakhr-alsâdât Ḥusainî's Pîr), according to others of Shaikh Shihâb-aldîn Suhrawardî (Safînat-alauliyâ, No. 148). He was the author of the Ṣûfic works: كنز الرموز, سی نامه, نزهة الارواح, زاد المسافرين, طرب المجالس, روح الارواح, and صراط مستقيم, and of a dîwân of ghazals; he died A.H. 717 (A.D. 1317; others place his death in A.H. 718 or even 719), on fol. 241a.

610. Malik Shams-aldîn, the first of the Kurt kings (who are said by some to be descendants of the Ghûrides, by others to be related to Sulṭân Sanjar; by some again, on the authority of the تاريخ مباركشاهی (see Rieu iii. p. 1010), to be the offspring of a certain سجور or سبور who came from Khaṭâ and settled in Ghûr; this dynasty ruled altogether 116 years, and was represented by eight kings), contemporary with Abaḳâ-khân (who succeeded his father Hûlâgûkhân A.H. 663 =A.D. 1265); his death is fixed here, quite at variance with the usual date (viz. A.H. 676=A.D. 1278), in A.H. 665, and he is stated to have been poisoned, on fol. 242a.

611. Malik Shimâl-aldîn, a descendant of the Kurt kings, composed some poetry, on fol. 242a.

Bâdaghîs, on fol. 242b:

612. Ḥanṭalah (probably correctly Ḥanżalah, see Ethé, Rûdagî's Vorläufer und Zeitgenossen, p. 38, No. 1), the only Persian poet under the Ṭâhirides, on fol. 243a.

Asfizâr (nowadays called Sabzâr سبزوار, so correctly in the following copy; the present text has wrongly شیراز), on fol. 243b:

613. Imâm Rashîd-aldîn Muḥammad bin Maḥmûd, a poet, on fol. 243b.

614. Alajall Majd-aldîn ibn Rashîd al'azîzî, likewise a poet, on fol. 243b.

615. Alajall Muhadhdhib-aldîn Sayyid-alkuttâb Manṣûr bin 'Alî, a third poet, on fol. 244a.

Fûshanj, on fol. 244a:

616. Shaikh Abû-alḥasan, on fol. 244a.

617. Shaikh Abû-allaith, on fol. 244a.

618. Maẓhar-aldîn, a poet, a rubâ'î of whom is quoted here, on fol. 244a.

Harât, on fol. 244b:

619. Abû Isma'îl 'Abdallâh bin Abî-almanṣûr Muḥammad al-Anṣârî, the Shaikh-alislâm (Safînat-alauliyâ, No. 300), pupil of Shaikh Abû-alḥasan Kharaḳânî (Safînat-alauliyâ, No. 67); besides his Persian and Arabic poetry there are mentioned two renowned works of his, a تفسیر قرآن and the منازل السائرین, on fol. 245a.

620. Muḥammad Ćarkhgar (the cutler), one of the Abdâls, on fol. 245b.

621. Shaikh 'Ammû (this nickname was given to him by Shaikh Abû-al'abbâs Nahâwandî, see also Safînat-alauliyâ, No. 295), on fol 245b.

622. Khwâjah Abû Muḥammad (more correctly in the following copy Abû Aḥmad) Abdâl, see also Safînat-alauliyâ, No. 102), the real founder of the Ćishtî order, on fol. 245b.

623. Abû-alwalîd Aḥmad bin-alrajâ, many traditions of whom are reported in al-Bukhârî's Ṣaḥîḥ, on fol. 245b.

624. Abû 'Abdallâh Mukhtâr (Safînat-alauliyâ, No. 190), on fol. 245b.

625. Ajall-alḥakîm Sharaf-alzamân Abû-almaḥâsin Abûbakr Azraḳî, the renowned poet; he was one of the confidential friends of the Saljûḳ ruler of Nishâpûr, Shams-aldaulah wa-aldîn Ṭughânshâh (the nephew of Ṭoghrulbeg and Ćakarbeg, who associated with a number of poets of that time, for instance: 'Abdallâh Kurashî, Shujâ' Nasawî, Aḥmad Badîhî, Ḥaḳîḳî, Nasîmî, and others; this Ṭughânshâh I, the patron of Azraḳî, is not to be confounded with Ṭughânshâh II (of the same house of Saljûḳ, who lived in the time of Sulṭân Sanjar, was for some time ruler of Persia after Sanjar's death, but was defeated and killed by the Khwârizmshâhs, A. H. 581=A. D. 1185; this latter Ṭughânshâh was an early patron of Ẓahîr Fâryâbî). Besides his poetry (mostly ḳaṣîdas in honour of Ṭughânshâh), he wrote for the same Sulṭân a work on sexual intercourse, الفیه وشلفیه, on fol. 246a.

626. Fakhr-aldîn Khâlid, an intimate friend of Sulṭân Sanjar and a rubâ'î-writer; among the rubâ'îs quoted here there is one, composed A. H. 543=A. D. 1148, when Sanjar after his heavy defeat by Gûrkhân, the Ḳarâkhiṭâ'î ruler, received in 'Irâḳ from Bahrâmshâh, his nephew, the welcome news of the conquest of Ghazna and the death of the Ghûride Saif-aldîn Sûrî, on fol. 247b.

627. Abû Manṣûr 'Abd-alrashîd, also a rubâ'î-writer, on fol. 247b.

628. 'Abd-alrâfi' bin al-Fatḥ, a poet, friend and companion of Muḥammad Sâm (i.e. Shihâb-aldîn Muḥammad Ghûrî, who was killed A. H. 602=A. D. 1206), on fol. 248a.

629. Abû 'Abdallâh Muḥammad bin Abîbakr bin 'Uthmân al-Imâmî (generally known by his takhallus Imâmî), under Abaḳâkhân (see No. 610), lived most of his time in Kirmân, and was contemporary with Majd-i-Hamgar, the king of poets of that time; his dîwân is still extant, on fol. 248a.

630. Maulânâ Sa'îd, a panegyrist of Khwâjah 'Izz-aldîn Ṭâhir alfaryûmadî (of Faryûmad near Sabzwâr, see Rieu ii. p. 752a and foot-note), the wazîr of Khurâsân under the Sulṭâns of the Ćingizkhânî line; his dîwân is still extant, on fol. 248b.

631. Maulânâ Rukn-aldîn, known as Rukn Ṣâ'in, a contemporary and companion of Amîr Muẓaffar (i.e. Mubâriz-aldîn Muḥammad al-Muẓaffar, the founder of the Muẓaffarî dynasty of Fârs); and also of Shâh Shujâ', his son, who together with his brother Shâh Maḥmûd deposed and blinded his father in A. H. 760 (A. D. 1359). He was also at some time in the service of Ṭughâ Timûrkhân, who reigned in Khurâsân A. H. 737–753 (A. D. 1336–1352), and had the misfortune to be imprisoned by him; his dîwân is still extant, on fol. 248b.

632. Abû-alfaḍl 'Uthmân, of whom one rubâ'î is quoted, on fol. 249b.

633. Mas'ûdî, a poet, on fol. 249b.

634. Maulânâ Ḥasanshâh, a poet, who was first attached to Sulṭân Muḥammad bin Mîrzâ Baisunghar (put to death in A. H. 855=A. D. 1452), on fol. 249b.

635. Maulânâ Bannâ'î, a contemporary of Mîr 'Alîshîr, whose jealousy he had roused by his clever verses; when he once addressed a ḳaṣîdah to him and got no reward for it, he substituted the name of Sulṭân Aḥmad Mîrzâ (the son of Abû Sa'îd Mîrzâ, after whose death in A. H. 873=A. D. 1469, he ascended the throne of Samarḳand) for that of Mîr 'Alîshîr; after which he betook himself to Tabrîz and attached himself to Sulṭân Ya'ḳûb (i.e. Ya'ḳûbbeg of the Âḳ-ḳoyunlû dynasty, who reigned A. H. 883–896=A. D. 1478–1491). After the Sulṭân's death he returned to Harât, but as Mîr 'Alîshîr was still powerful there, he went to Transoxania and entered the service of the rulers of that country (i.e. of Sulṭân 'Alî Mîrzâ, the son of the above-mentioned Aḥmad Mîrzâ); he was killed in Samarḳand A. H. 918 (A. D. 1512), on fol. 250a.

636. Mîram Siyâh, a poet (no indication of the time in which he flourished being given here, but from No. 1029 in the Bodleian Cat. it becomes evident that he flourished under Sulṭân Ḥusain Mîrzâ and under Humâyûn, and that he was moreover a pupil of the following Shaikh 'Alîshâh Abdâl), on fol. 251a.

637. Bâbâ 'Alîshâh, one of the Abdâls of his time, contemporary with Jâmî; he had been for years so wholly absorbed in pious meditations, that all the stirring events in Harât and Khurâsân from the death of Mîrzâ Shâhrukh (A. H. 850=A. D. 1447) to the accession of Sulṭân Ḥusain Mîrzâ (A. H. 873=A. D. 1469) had passed absolutely unnoticed by him; he wrote occasionally poetry, on fol. 251a.

638. Shaikh Abû-alwâḥid Fârighî, a great Ṣûfî and occasional poet, on fol. 251b.

639. Mîr Sayyid Muḥammad Jâmabâf (the cloth-weaver), a great rubâ'î-writer; he came to India A. H. 969 (A. D. 1561, 1562), found favour with Akbar and died A. H. 973 (A. D. 1565, 1566); the ta'rîkh on his death is میر رباعی سفر نمود, on fol. 251b.

640. Mîr Dauri, was kâtib-almulk (imperial secretary) under Akbar, and a great calligrapher, on fol. 252a.

641. Ṣâliḥî, a munshî of Akbar's time, and likewise a great calligrapher, on fol. 252a.

642. Ghazâlî جنبلك (correctly according to A. Sprenger, Catal. p. 45, No. 648 جنبك Junbak, who died A. H. 967=A. D. 1559, 1560), great in poetical contests and munâżarât, on fol. 252b.

643. Nûrî, the grandson of Maulânâ Ḥasanshâh (see No. 634), renowned by his jests and pleasantries, on fol. 252b.

644. Maulânâ Khâtimî, came after long wanderings to India; he afterwards resolved upon performing the pilgrimage, but died on his way to Makkah, on fol. 252b.

645. Maulânâ Fatḥ-allâh, contemporary with Maulânâ Mushfiḳî (probably Mushfiḳî Bukhârî, who was born A. H. 945=A. D. 1538, 1539; see A. Sprenger, Catal. p. 508), with whom he had continual contests, on fol. 253a.

646. Maulânâ Âṣî, lived nearly 60 years in Kashmir, on fol. 253a.

647. Mîr Amânî, a good poet, who spent most of his time in Kâbul, on fol. 253a.

648. Maulânâ Farḳî, a poet, who was, like the following four poets, still alive at the time of the composition of this work, on fol. 253a.

649. Maḳṣûd Tîrgar (the arrow-maker), on fol. 253b.

650. Shâdî Rammâl (the soothsayer), on fol. 253b.

651. Zulâlî, on fol. 253b.

652. Ismî, on fol. 253b.

Bâkharz (between Nishâpûr and Harât), with its dependency Tâbyâd, on fol. 253b:

653. Maulânâ Zain-aldîn Abûbakr Tâbyâdî (Safînat-alauliyâ, No. 351), on fol. 253b.

654. Shaikh Saif-aldîn Bâkharzî, a pupil of Shaikh Najm-aldîn Kubrâ (Safînat-alauliyâ, Nos. 127 and 124), who appointed him afterwards his Khalîfah and sent him to Bukhârâ; according to some he died A. H. 648 =A. D. 1250 (the usual date of his death is A. H. 657 or 658=A. D. 1259 or 1260); he lived in the time of Hûlâgûkhân (who became sole master of Persia A. H. 654, and died A. H. 663=A. D. 1256–1265) or in that of Mangû Ḳâ'ân, Hûlâgû's elder brother (who died A. H. 654=A. D. 1256), which comes practically to the same thing. Mangû Ḳâ'ân's mother, who was a Christian, is said to have founded a madrasah in Bukhârâ and to have made Saif-aldîn governor of that institution; a number of verses from his كلمات القدسيّة are quoted here, on fol. 253b.

655. Abû-alḳâsim 'Alî bin al-Ḥusain (in the following copy bin al-Ḥasan) bin Abî al-Ṭayyib, was first secretary to Sulṭân Rukn-aldîn Ṭoghrulbeg (who died A. H. 455=A. D. 1063), but afterwards retired from the world, on fol. 254a.

656. Tâj-aldîn Ismâ'îl, a poet, on fol. 254b.

Khedâf, on fol. 254b:

657. Shâh-i-Sanjân, i. e. Rukn-aldîn Maḥmûd, a pupil of Khwâjah Maudûd Ċishtî (Safînat-alauliyâ, Nos. 107 and 105), a great Ṣûfî and rubâ'î-writer, on fol. 255b.

658. Shaikh Zain-almillah wa-aldîn, on fol. 256a.

659. Amîr Ḳiwâm-aldîn, on fol. 256a.

660. Khwâjah Ghiyâth-aldîn Pîr Aḥmad, who was for 40 years wazîr of Mirzâ Shâhrukh, and afterwards wazîr of Mirzâ 'Alâ-aldaulah (Shâhrukh's grandson and successor in Harât A. H. 850=A. D. 1447) and his brother Sulṭân Muḥammad (who was defeated and put to death by another of his brothers, Bâbar, A. H. 855= A. D. 1452); he died in the reign of Mirzâ Bâbar (A. H. 853–861=A. D. 1449–1457), on fol. 256a.

661. Khwâjah Majd-aldîn Muḥammad, son of the preceding Khwâjah, was first munshî under Sulṭân Abû Sa'îd Mirzâ (the son of Sulṭân Muḥammad Mirzâ, reigned A. H. 854–873=A. D. 1450–1469) and afterwards wazîr of Sulṭân Ḥusain Mirzâ (Abû Sa'îd Mirzâ's successor, A. H. 873–911=A. D. 1469–1506), on fol. 256a.

662. Maulânâ Majd, author of the روضة الخلد, an imitation of Sa'dî's Gulistân, and of a versified adaptation of the جواهر اللغة by Jâr-allâh 'Allâmah (Zamakhsharî?), on fol. 256b.

663. Maulânâ Muẓaffar, under Malik Ghiyâth-aldîn Kurt (probably Ghiyâth-aldîn II, the last of the Kurt dynasty who reigned over Harât, Ghûr, etc., A. H. 771–783=A. D. 1370–1381, and was defeated and put to death by Timûr); after a quarrel with Ghiyâth-aldîn he stayed for some time at the court of Shâh Shujâ' the Muẓaffaride (A. H. 760–786=A. D. 1359–1384), but afterwards returned to Harât; he was called the second Khâḳânî on account of his great poetical genius, but is said to have thrown his diwân into the water shortly before his death, because no one after him would be able to estimate his poetry at its full value, on fol. 256b.

664. Ḳiwâmî, a poet, on fol. 257a.

665. Khwâjah Majd-aldîn, another poet, on fol. 257a.

666. Ḳâsimî, lived some time in Harât and went then to Sistân, where he gained the favour of the kings of that country; he also fell in there with Maulânâ Walî (probably the poet Walî Dasht Bayâḍî), who showed him great respect; he died in Farâh, on fol. 257a.

Jâm, on fol. 257b:

667. Shaikh-alislâm Aḥmad Jâmî (i. e. Aḥmad Nâmaḳî, see Safînat-alauliyâ, No. 308), father of Shaikh Ẓuhûr-aldîn (in the Safînat-alauliyâ Ẓahîr-aldîn) 'Îsâ, who in his رموز الحقائق gives an account of his father's life. Aḥmad Jâmî left 39 sons and 3 daughters, and wrote 14 important Ṣûfic works, among which are particularly renowned: انيس التائبين, رسالهٔ سمرقندی, سراج السائرين, مفتاح النجات, بحار الحقيقه, and a book of poetry (كتاب اشعار); these books are still extant and enjoy a wide circulation among the Ṣûfîs; all his other writings have been lost, on fol. 257b.

668. Pûrbahâ, was in his younger years a pupil of Khwâjah Wajîh-aldîn Ṭâhir Faryûmadî, and obtained afterwards the favour of the Ṣâḥib-dîwân or prime-minister Khwâjah Shams-aldîn Muḥammad (the same wazîr of Hûlâgû and Hûlâgû's successors, to whom Sa'dî dedicated his كتاب صاحبيّه and who was executed A.H. 683=A.D. 1284 under Arghûnkhân, the son of Abaḳâkhân and grandson of Hûlâgûkhân, who reigned from A.H. 683 to 690=A.D. 1284–1291); he was a good poet, on fol. 258a.

669. Imâm-alajall Nizâm-aldîn al-Kitâb (al-Kitâbî), wrote poetry also, on fol. 258b.

670. Maulânâ Nûr-aldîn 'Abd-alraḥmân Jâmî, the last great classical poet of Persia, whose death is fixed here in A.H. 899 (contrary to the usual date 898=A.D. 1492; see Safînat-alauliyâ, No. 90); he reached the age of 81 years, which has been expressed by the word كاس (synonymous with جام) in a ta'rîkh by Maulânâ 'Abd-alghafûr Lârî (Safînat-alauliyâ, No. 91); he was a pupil of Shaikh Sa'd-almillah wa aldîn Kâshgharî. His grandfather Maulânâ Shams-aldîn Muḥammad Dashtî had migrated from Dasht, near Iṣfahân, to Jâm, on fol. 258b.

671. Maulânâ 'Abdallâh Hâtifî, the nephew of Jâmî and renowned epic poet, who died A.H. 927=A.D. 1521 (ta'rîkh شد شاعران); extracts are given here from three of his mathnawîs, viz. the ظفرنامهٔ تیموری, the هفت منظر, and the خسرو و شیرین, on fol. 260a.

672. Maulânâ Dhauḳî, a poet, on fol. 260b.

Turbat, with its dependencies Zâwa and Junaid, on fol. 260b:

673. Shaikh Ḳuṭb-aldîn Ḥaidar, the founder of the Ḥaidarî order, called the Shâh of the Abdâl (شاه ابدالان); Shâh-i-Sanjân (No. 657) wrote a famous rubâ'î about him; he died (or, as is stated here, mysteriously disappeared) in A.H. 618 (A.D. 1221), on fol. 260b.

674. Abû 'Abdallâh Muḥammad bin 'Abdallâh al-Junaidî, a poet, on fol. 261a.

675. Shams-aldîn Junaidî, another poet, on fol. 261a.

676. Riyâḍî, one of the famous poets of the time of Sulṭân Ḥusain Mirzâ, whose exploits he celebrated in an epic poem; when Shâh Isma'îl Ṣafawî conquered Khurâsân, he fixed this event by the highly complimentary ta'rîkh, امیر المؤمنین حیدر علی ابن ابی طالب (=A.H. 918, A.D. 1512); he attached himself to the latter Shâh and commenced an epic poem on his conquests also (comp. Rieu iii. p. 1074, where his death is fixed in A.H. 921=A.D. 1515), on fol. 261a.

677. Fardî, imitated Ḥâfiẓ for some time, and became at last blind; he also attempted an imitation of the مخزن الاسرار, on fol. 261b.

678. Nawîdî, on fol. 261b.

679. Żuhûrî, on fol. 261b.

680. Mîr Ḥusain Kufrî, a good Shikasta-writer and poet, on fol. 261b.

681. Maulânâ Sulṭân Ḥusain, a clever man and occasional poet, on fol. 262a.

Mashhad-i-muḳaddas (formerly Ṭûs), on fol. 262a:

682. Aḥmad bin Masrûḳ, one of the Aḳṭâb (Safînat-alauliyâ, No. 206, where he is called Aḥmad bin Muḥammad bin Masrûḳ), on fol. 262a.

683. Abû Naṣr Sarrâj (Safînat-alauliyâ, No. 271), called the طاؤس الفقرا, on fol. 262a.

684. Ma'shûḳ Ṭûsî, one of the demented sages (از عقلای مجانین) who never prayed; he was contemporary with Abû Sa'îd (probably Abû Sa'îd bin Abû-alkhair, Safînat alauliyâ, No. 294), on fol. 262a.

685. Shaikh Abûbakr bin 'Abdallâh al-Nassâj (Safînat-alauliyâ, No. 120), one of the companions (respectively pupils) of Abû-alḳâsim Gurgânî (who died A.H. 450=A.D. 1058, Safînat-alauliyâ, No. 71), on fol. 262b.

686. Ḥujjat-alislâm Muḥammad bin Aḥmad (correctly, bin Muḥammad) al-Ghazâlî (Safînat-alauliyâ, No. 303), a Shâfi'ite, who studied under the Imâm-alḥaramain Abû-alma'âlî Juwainî (died A.H. 478, Rabî'-alâkhar=A.D. 1085, August); the great wazîr Nizâm-almulk appointed him professor in the مدرسهٔ نظامیّه; later on he renounced the world and gave himself up to divine speculations only. In Ṣûfic lore he had as teacher Abû 'Alî Fârmadî (Safînat-alauliyâ, No. 72); he made the pilgrimage to Makkah and Madînah, stayed on his return from the holy places some time in Damascus and wrote there the two renowned works, احیاء علوم الدین and جواهر القرآن, went afterwards to Jerusalem and from thence to Egypt; on his return to Ṭûs he founded there a madrasah and a Ṣûfic convent, and died A.H. 505 (A.D. 1111); he is stated here to have written 999 works, on fol. 262b.

687. Shaikh Aḥmad Ghazâlî, brother of the preceding Ḥujjat-alislâm (Safînat-alauliyâ, No. 121) and pupil of Abûbakr Nassâj (see No. 685); he wrote many risâlas, one of which is entitled سوانح, and has suggested to Shaikh Fakhr-aldîn 'Irâḳî (who died A.H. 688=A.D. 1289; see Safînat-alauliyâ, No. 153) the main lines on which he composed his famous لمعات, on fol. 262b.

688 and 689. Abû 'Abdallâh Targhidî (ترغیدی) and Bâbâ Maḥmûd Ṭûsî, two holy men, whose lives are fully described in the نفحات, on fol. 263a.

690. Khwâjah Nizâm-almulk, the great wazîr of the Saljûḳ kings Alp Arslan and Malikshâh, who was assassinated by a follower of Ḥasan Ṣabbâḥ in Ramaḍân A.H. 485 (A.D. 1092, October); the news of his death reached Malikshâh in Baghdâd the 24th of Ramaḍân, he handed the wazîrship over to Khwâjah Tâj-almulk and went hunting; but on the 3rd of Shawwâl he fell ill, returned to Baghdâd, and died there about the middle of that month (only 18 days after Nizâm-almulk's assassination, as is stated here; but that is evidently incorrect; it may have been only 18 days after Malikshâh was informed of the death of his wazîr); some verses of Nizâm-almulk are quoted here, on fol. 263a.

691. Firdausî, with his real name Abû-alḳâsim Manṣûr, son of Fakhr-aldîn Aḥmad, born in Shâdâb, near Ṭûs, the immortal author of the Shâhnâma (some particulars given here with regard to the poet's life, and a number of short lyrical poems quoted here, have been published in text and translation in Ethé's 'Firdûsî als Lyriker,' Sitzungsberichte der Münchener Academie, philos.-philol. Classe, 1873, pp. 628 sq. and 632), on fol. 264a.

692. Asadî, usually designated as Firdausî's teacher and as author of the Garshâspnâma (but comp. Bodleian Cat., No. 507), on fol. 265b.

693. Khwâjah Manṣûr (in the index Abû Manṣûr), was in the service of the Amîr Khudâidâd and wrote occasionally poetry, on fol. 266b.

694. Maulânâ Sulṭân 'Alî, a great calligrapher and occasional poet; in calligraphy he was the pupil of Maulânâ Azhar, whose teacher Ja'far had been, the disciple of Mîr 'Alî Tabrîzî, who laid the foundation of the Naskh-Ta'lîḳ; Sulṭân 'Alî had many disciples, among them Maulânâ 'Alâ-aldîn, Maulânâ Sulṭân Muḥammad Khandân, Maulânâ Sulṭân Muḥammad Nûr, Ḳalandar Kâtib, and Maulânâ Zain-aldîn Maḥmûd, who was the teacher again of Maulânâ Mîr 'Alî (comp. on several of these calligraphers Bodleian Cat., Nos. 1896 and 1900; Maulânâ Sulṭân 'Alî died A.H. 919=A.D. 1513; Maulânâ Mîr 'Alî, usually called Mîr 'Alî al-Kâtib, died A.H. 950=A.D. 1543; Mîr 'Alî Tabrîzî, son of Ilyâs, was a contemporary of Kamâl Khujandî, who died A.H. 803=A.D. 1400, 1401, and made a fine copy of three of Khwâjû Kirmânî's mathnawîs in A.H. 798=A.D. 1396, see Rieu ii. pp. 621[b] and 622[a]), on fol. 267[a].

695. Maulânâ 'Abd-alṣamad, likewise calligrapher and poet; a copy of Jâmî's diwân is from his pen, on fol. 267[a].

696. Mirzâ Aṣghar, a poet, on fol. 267[a].

697. Maulânâ Mâûl, a favourite of Abû-alḥasan Mirzâ, the son of Sulṭân Ḥusain Mirzâ Baiḳarâ, and a good poet, on fol. 267[a].

698. Ashrafkhân Munshî, calligrapher and occasional poet, on fol. 267[b].

699. Aḥmad Mîrak Ṣâliḥî, went in his youth to 'Irâḳ and attached himself afterwards to Shâh Ṭahmâsp Ṣafawî (who reigned A.H. 930–984=A.D. 1524–1576); at last he rose to the dignity of a wazîr of his native province of Mashhad, on fol. 267[b].

700. Muḥammad Mîrak Ṣâliḥî, brother of Aḥmad Mîrak, and a good poet, on fol. 268[a].

701. Maulânâ Ghazâlî, went first to the Dakhan and became then a companion of 'Alî Ḳulikhân, the Khanzâmân; he stayed with him a considerable time and composed during that period a mathnawî, نقش بدیع; after the Khanzâmân had been slain by Akbar's troops (A.H. 974=A.D. 1567) he became a favourite of Akbar himself and was raised to the rank of king of poets; he died in Aḥmadâbâd, in Gujarât, and was buried there in a place called Sarkîḥ (the ta'rîkh for his death is: احمدآباد خان سرکیم=A.H. 980, A.D. 1572). He was born, according to Rieu ii. p. 661[b], A.H. 936 (A.D. 1529, 1530). His diwân and his mathnawîs contain altogether 70,000 verses, and he wrote besides the following prose-works: اسرار مکتوم, رشحات الحیات, and مرآت الکائنات, on fol. 268[a].

702. Maulânâ Ibn 'Alî, with the takhalluṣ Wâḳifî, was some time governor of the Dakhan, on fol. 269[a].

703. Shaikh Rubâ'î, a good writer in verse and prose, on fol. 269[b].

704. Mîr 'Arabshâh, wrote occasionally poetry, on fol. 269[b].

705. Mîr Bâḳir (in the following copy Mîr Bâḳî), also composer of some poetry, on fol. 269[b].

706. Maulânâ 'Abd-al'alî Najâtî, a poet, on fol. 269[b].

707. Darwîsh Niẓâm, a rubâ'î-writer, on fol. 270[a].

708. Ḳâsim Arslân, calligrapher, ta'rîkh-writer, and poet, on fol. 270[a].

709. Muḥammad Hâshim Mardumî, a poet, on fol. 270[a].

710. Maulânâ Muḥammad Riḍâ, a poet, on fol. 270[a].

711. Aḳdasî, author of a Sâḳînâma and other poetry, on fol. 270[b].

712. Taḳî Pirzâda, author of a famous rubâ'î, on fol. 270[b].

713. Mîr 'Azmî, who composed some sweet verses, on fol. 270[b].

714. Nisbatî, lived most of his time in Tabrîz, and wrote some pleasant poetry, on fol. 271[a].

715. Mîr 'Arab, with the takhalluṣ Badîhî, on fol. 271[a].

716. Ulfatî, quite a young poet at the time when this work was written, on fol. 271[a].

717. Nâdirî, a poet, who came two years before the composition of this work for a short time to India, but nobody knows where he is gone to since, on fol. 271[a].

Nishâpûr, on fol. 271[a]:

718. Abû Ḥafṣ Ḥaddâd (Safînat-alauliyâ, No. 184), on fol. 271[b].

719. 'Uthmân Ḥîrî (correctly Abû 'Uthmân Ḥîrî, see the next line in this and the following copy, and Safînat-alauliyâ, No. 205), a great Ṣûfî; it is said that there have been four men quite unequalled in mystic lore, viz. Abû 'Uthmân in Nishâpûr, Junaid in Baghdâd, (No. 40 above), Abû 'Abdallâh bin al-Jallâ in Syria (No. 47 above), and 'Abdallâh in Rai, on fol. 272[a].

720. Ḥamdûn Ḳaṣṣâr (Safînat-alauliyâ, No. 188), on fol. 272[a].

721. Abû 'Alî Daḳḳâḳ (Safînat-alauliyâ, No. 283), contemporary with Amîr 'Alî, the governor of Kirmân, who once asked him for advice, on fol. 272[a].

722. Abû-alḳâsim Naṣrâbâdî, or, as in the text here, Nagirâbâdî (Safînat-alauliyâ, No. 267), on fol. 272[a].

723. Aḥmad Ḥarb, who enjoyed such a reputation as a saint, that Yaḥyâ bin Ma'âdh Râzî (Safînat-alauliyâ, No. 183) stipulated in his last will, that when he died his head should be laid on the foot of that great Shaikh, on fol. 272[a].

724. Abû Muḥammad Murta'ish (Safînat-alauliyâ, No. 227), on fol. 272[b].

725. Abû Ḥamzah, contemporary with Junaid, as it seems, on fol. 272[b].

726. Abûbakr Farrâ (Safînat-alauliyâ, No. 265), on fol. 272[b].

727. Abû 'Umar (in the following copy Abûbakr) Zanjîd, another renowned Shaikh, on fol. 272[b].

728–732. Amîr Nishâpûrî, Khâlûî Nishâpûrî, Ḥusain bin Muḥammad al-Sullamî, Shaikh Abû 'Abd-alraḥmân Sullamî (Safînat-alauliyâ, No. 284), and Shaikh Abû 'Alî Thaḳafî (Safînat-alauliyâ, No. 226), five other great saints whose biographies are found in the نفحات الانس, on fol. 272[b].

733. Shaikh Farîd-aldîn 'Attâr, the great mystic poet, who got his first tuition, according to the مجالس العشاق, from Shaikh Ḳuṭb-aldîn Ḥaidar (No. 673), to whom he afterwards dedicated his حیدر نامه; later on he spent some time with Shaikh Rukn-aldîn Kâf, then made the pilgrimage, and became afterwards a pupil of Shaikh Majd-aldîn Baghdâdî, from whom he received his investiture. He was born A.H. 513 (A.D. 1119) under Sulṭân Sanjar and put to death during the general massacre of the inhabitants of Nishâpûr by the Moghuls of Cingizkhân, A.H. 627 (A.D. 1230; another date, given by some biographers, viz. A.H. 619, is evidently incorrect), 114 years old. His mathnawîs are said to contain upwards of 120,000 baits, his diwân, containing ḳaṣîdas, ghazals, and rubâ'îs, 40,000 baits. Of his mathnawîs (he is reputed here to have written 40 of them) there are mentioned here: الهی نامه, اسرار نامه, مصیبت نامه, وصیّت نامه (in the following copy وصلت نامه, both titles being correct, as there are two distinct mathnawis, 'the book of the last will,' and 'the book of union,' by 'Attâr, see Bodleian Cat., No. 624, 6 and 17), بلبل نامه, جواهر نامه (perhaps identical with the پند نامه, حقائق الجواهر or الحقائق الجواهر, see A. Sprenger, Catal., p. 348, which is, however, not a mathnawi, but a collection of kaṣîdas and tarji'bands), ولد نامه, خسرو نامه, بیسر نامه, جواهر الذات (otherwise styled جوهر الذات, or more correctly still جوهر ذات, comp. Rieu ii. p. 576b sq., and W. Pertsch, Berlin Cat., p. 780 and foot-note), مظهر العجائب (wrongly styled in the extracts given further below مظهر آثار), منطق الطیر, گل ومُرمز (probably the same poem that is usually styled خسرو وگل or گل وخسرو, an abstract of the above-mentioned خسرو نامه, which relates the love adventures of Gul and Hurmuz, see A. Sprenger, Catal., p. 352, and Rieu ii. p. 576b), and شرح القلب (in the following copy with the silly title of شرح الکلب). In the verses quoted from the poet's mathnawis there are also found extracts from the لسان الغیب which is not mentioned in this list. Of 'Attâr's prose-works appear here the تذکرة الاولیا and the اخوان الصفا (the latter probably identical with the alleged mathnawi, شرح القلب, as A. Sprenger, Catal., p. 348, mentions a prose-work of 'Attâr with the title of شرح قلوب اخوان الصفا), on fol. 272b.

734. Imâm-ala'immah Muḥammad bin Yaḥyâ, who was frequently consulted by Sulṭân Sanjar, on fol. 277a.

735. Imâm-al'âlam Muḥammad bin Aḥmad bin Maḥmûd; when Sulṭân Sanjar marched to Ghazna to chastise Bahrâmshâh, the latter sent the Imâm as ambassador to him, who succeeded, by some clever verses, in quieting the anger of Sanjar; among the Imâm's works are the تفسیر بصائر یمینی, the رای آرای (a translation of غرر و سیر), and the صحیفة الاقبال (a controversy between sword and pen), on fol. 277b.

736. Muḥammad bin 'Abdallâh, known as Ibn al-muḳanna' (ابن المقنّع, in the following copy Ibn almanî' (ابن المنیع), made great travels and wrote many works, among them a صحاح, on fol. 277b.

737. Muslim bin Ḥajjâj al-Ḳushairî, the author of the great collection of traditions, styled صحیح (or الجامع الصحیح), which rivals in every respect Al-Bukhârî's better-known work of the same title; Muslim died A.H. 261=A.D. 875; Al-Bukhârî A.H. 256=A.D. 870), on fol. 278a.

738. Shaikh Abû Naṣr Isma'îl bin Ḥammâd al-Jauharî, the famous lexicographer and author of the صحاح or صحاح اللغة (died A.H. 393=A.D. 1002), on fol. 278a.

739. Shaikh Isḥaḳ bin Râhûyah Ḥanṭalî (or perhaps Ḥanẓalî; the present copy also adds Tha'labî to the name, which properly belongs to the following Shaikh), who knew 70,000 traditions by heart, on fol. 278a.

740. Abû Isḥaḳ Aḥmad Tha'labî, here represented as author both of a Ḳurân-commentary (the تفسیر ثعلبی) and of the قصص الانبیا, or the oldest among the more or less fabulous histories of the prophets (in Nos. 739 and 740 there may possibly be some confusion between two or three different writers; for the author of the قصص الانبیا is in the best copies of that work distinctly called Isḥaḳ bin Ibrâhîm bin Manṣûr bin Khalaf of Nîshâpûr, see No. 590 in this Cat.; Rieu i. p. 143; W. Pertsch, Berlin Cat., p. 978, etc.; on the other hand, Beale in the Oriental Biogr. Dictionary, p. 13b, styles him Abû Isḥaḳ Aḥmad or Abû Isḥaḳ Ibrâhîm bin Isma'îl, and evidently identifies him with Abû Isḥaḳ Tha'labî, as he fixes his death in A.H. 427=A.D. 1036), on fol. 278a.

741. Abû-alma'âlî Mas'ûd bin Muḥammad, author of the کتاب الهادی, on fol. 278a.

742. Muḥammad bin Musayyab الارعیالی (in the following copy الارعیانی, in the index of the present copy الاعیانی Ala'yânî), on fol. 278a.

743. Muḥammad bin Ibrâhîm Faḳîh, on fol. 278a.

744. Abû-alḥasan 'Alî bin Aḥmad, author of an elementary and an intermediate commentary on the Ḳurân, (correctly تفسیر بسیط ووسْطا (ووُسْطی), and of an explanation of the names of God (شرح اسماء الله), on fol. 278a.

745. 'Abd-almalik (i.e. Abû Manṣûr 'Abd-almalik bin Muḥammad bin Isma'îl al-Tha'âlibî, who was born A.H. 350=A.D. 961, and died A.H. 429=A.D. 1038), the author of the یتیمة الدهر, on fol. 278a.

746. Ustâd-ala'immah Raḍî-aldîn, a great legal authority and panegyrist of Ḳîlîj Ṭamghâjkhân of Turkistân, who resided in Samarḳand (about A.H. 558=A.D. 1163, see Rieu iii. p. 1093b); he generally used Banda as takhallus (in Beale's Oriental Biogr. Dictionary, p. 224b, his death is fixed in A.H. 598=A.D. 1202), on fol. 278a.

747. Malik-alshu'arâ Iftikhâr-alsâdât Amîr Mu'izzî, the court-poet of Sulṭân Malikshâh (A.H. 465–485=A.D. 1072–1092) and Sulṭân Sanjar, who conferred upon him the rank of a king of poets. His father Burhânî had been a court-poet of Alp Arslân (A.H. 455–465=A.D. 1063–1072). Amîr Mu'izzî was introduced to Malikshâh by the Amîr 'Alî (i.e. Alî bin Farâmurz, the ruler of Yazd, see Rieu ii. p. 552b, here called the Sulṭân's son-in-law; in reality he was the brother-in-law of Alp Arslân); he was killed by a stray arrow from Sanjar's bow (A.H. 542=A.D. 1147); his diwân comprises more than 15,000 baits, on fol. 280a.

748. Sayyid-alajall Ṣadr-aldîn, author of the تاریخ خوارزمشاهی (not تاریخ مبارکشاهی, as the present copy wrongly reads), and poet, on fol. 282b.

749. Imâm Shams-aldîn Muḥammad al-Dhâtî, a poet, on fol. 282b.

750. Ḥujjat-alḥaḳḳ Imâm 'Umar Khayyâm, the great astronomer, freethinker, and rubâ'î-writer, on fol. 282b.

751. Shâhfûr, a renowned Inshâ-writer under Sulṭân Jalâl-aldîn (the Khwârizmshâh who reigned from A.H. 617=A.D. 1221, or according to Rieu ii. p. 581a, A.H. 621=A.D. 1224, to A.H. 628=A.D. 1230, 1231) and author of a work on letter-writing and correspondence, styled رسالهٔ شاهفوریّه, on fol. 283b.

752. Khabbâzî (otherwise and probably more correctly called Khabbâz, see Ethé, Rûdagî's Vorläufer, etc., No. 11), baker and poet, under the Sâmânides, on fol. 283b.

753. Kâtibî, the well-known poet, was first in the service of Shâhrukh Mirzâ's son Baisunghar Mirzâ (who died A.H. 837=A.D. 1434), but, disappointed there, went to Shirwân, and remained for some years at the court of Amir Ibrâhîm, the ruler of that country; he fell at last a victim to the plague at Astarâbâd (A.H. 838 or 839=A.D. 1434 or 1435; see a fuller biographical account in Rieu ii. p. 637, and A. Sprenger, Catal., pp. 457–458; see also on his poetical works Bodleian Cat., Nos. 867–870), on fol. 283b.

754. Ibn Jalâl, wrote poetry occasionally, on fol. 285a.

755. Jalâl-aldîn Ṭabîb, physician and poet under the Muẓaffaris (died A.H. 795=A.D. 1393, see Bodleian Cat., No. 855), on fol. 285a.

756. Maulânâ Luṭf-allâh, a good writer in verse and prose and a renowned Ṣûfî, on fol. 285a.

757. Saifî, a poet, on fol. 285b.

758. Ḳunburî, a panegyrist of Mirzâ Bâbar (comp. No. 660), on fol. 285b.

759. Maulânâ Amîr Ḥusain, contemporary with Jâmî, a great composer of riddles and author of a رساله در فنّ معمّا (or as it is usually called رساله فی المعمّا, see Bodleian Cat., Nos. 1353–1356; Amîr Ḥusain bin Muḥammad alḥusainî died A.H. 904=A.D. 1498, 1499); the first riddle quoted here is on the name of Muḥammad Mu'min Mirzâ, on fol. 286a.

760. Mirzâkhân, wrote poetry occasionally, on fol. 286a.

761. Khwâjah Ḥusain Thanâ'î (in the text here wrongly spelt سنائی), seems to be identical with the well-known poet Ḥusain Thanâ'î, who is called Mashhadî in most tadhkiras and died A.H. 996=A.D. 1588 (see Bodleian Cat., Nos. 1045–1049); he was chiefly renowned by his ḳaṣîdas, in one of which, quoted here, he praises Khwâjah or Shâh Manṣûr, who is no doubt Akbar's wazîr Shâh Manṣûr Shîrâzî (put to death on account of alleged correspondence with Akbar's rebellious brother Mirzâ Muḥammad Ḥakîm, A.H. 989=A.D. 1581), on fol. 286a.

762. Muhammad Mu'min, a good musician and poet, on fol. 287b.

763. Mîr Muḥammad Sharîf Wuḳûʿî, a good poet, went to India and attached himself first to Shihâb-aldîn Aḥmadkhân and after his death to the Sipahsâlâr 'Abdalraḥîm Khânkhânân (the translator of Bâbar's memoirs, see Nos. 216–218 in this Cat.); later on he entered the service of Akbar, on fol. 287b.

764. Maulânâ Naẓîrî, another poet of Akbar's time, who had come to India and entered, like the preceding poet, the service of the Khânkhânân 'Abd-alraḥîmkhân; he was (probably at the time when this work was written) contemplating a pilgrimage to Makkah (which he carried out, according to later tadhkiras, in A.H. 1012=A.D. 1603, 1604, see Rieu ii. p. 817b), on fol. 288a.

765. Mîr Ṣaifî (in the following copy, Mîr Ṣafî), was for years police-superintendent (محتسب) of Kirmân, on fol. 289b.

766. Nûrî (in the following copy Nawîdî), wrote, like the preceding Mîr Ṣaifî or Ṣafî, poetry occasionally, on fol. 289b.

767. Dânahî, wrote poetry in his native dialect (the dialect of Nishâpûr), on fol. 289b.

768. Âgahî, another dialectical poet, on fol. 290a.

Sabzwâr, on fol. 290a:

769. Amîr Yamîn-aldîn Ṭughrâ'î, originally of Turkistân, settled in Faryûmad in Khurâsân and became a friend of Khwâjah 'Alâ-aldîn Muḥammad, who was in the time of Sulṭân Abû Sa'îd (i.e. Sulṭân Abû Sa'îd Bahâdurkhân Îlkhânî, the son and successor of Sulṭân Muḥammad Khudâbanda, who reigned A.H. 716–736=A.D. 1316–1335) wazîr of Faryûmad, on fol. 291a.

770. Amîr Maḥmûd bin Amîr Yamîn-aldîn, commonly known as Ibn Yamîn, the son of the preceding Amîr and a famous ḳiṭ'ah-writer (he died A.H. 745=A.D. 1344, 1345, see Bodleian Cat., Nos. 790–792), on fol. 291a.

771. Amîr Shâhî, a descendant of the minor dynasty of the Sarbadârs, was attached to Mirzâ Baisunghar, the son of Mirzâ Shâhrukh (comp. No. 753), and in great favour with him; he also received his ancestral estates back through his patron's kindness; his dîwân, comprising 1000 baits, is still extant, on fol. 291a.

772. Amîr Sulṭân Mas'ûd, son of Amîr Shams-aldîn 'Alî, who was himself a grandson of Amîr Shams-aldîn 'Alî alnaḳîb almajafî alkûfî; his mother was the granddaughter of Sulṭân Abû Sa'îdkhân's cousin Mirzâ Maḥmûd Khwâjah (belonging, like the elder Amîr Shams-aldîn, to the Mukhtârî order of mystic shaikhs, who traced their genealogy back to the Imâm Zain-al'âbidîn); Shams-aldîn 'Alî II (Mas'ûd's father) had succeeded in making himself master of a vast territory in Sabzwâr, and when 'Ubaid-allâhkhân, the Uzbeg ruler, took possession of Harât (A.H. 943, 27th of Ṣafar=A.D. 1536, Aug. 15, see Rieu iii. p. 1089b), and the whole of Khurâsân paid homage to him, Shams-aldîn alone refused to do so; after 'Ubaid-allâh's defeat by Shâh Ṭahmâsp in the same year 943, the latter conferred the title of Sulṭân upon Shams-aldîn and formally assigned the territory of Sabzwâr to him; Amîr Sulṭân Mas'ûd wrote poetry occasionally, on fol. 291b.

773. Amîr Muḥammad Kaskanî, devoted himself to a religious life and wrote some poetry, on fol. 292a.

774. Amîr Ḥusain Ḳudsî Karbalâ'î, whose father had migrated from Karbalâ to Khurâsân and settled in Sabzwâr; Amîr Ḥusain himself went, towards the end of his life, to Harât in consequence of a favour shown to him by the governor of that place, Muḥammadkhân; he wrote some pretty verses, on fol. 292b.

775. Mîr 'Alî 'Arab Fikrî, brother of the preceding Amîr; only a few verses are preserved of him, on fol. 292b.

776. Nawâ'î, nephew of Amîr Ḥusain Karbalâ'î (on his brother's side) and writer of verses, who went to India and found favour with Akbar, on fol. 293a.

777. Figârî, another nephew of Amîr Ḥusain Karbalâ'î (on his sister's side), also a poet, on fol. 293a.

778. Shuhûdî, a poet, on fol. 293a.

779. Muḥammad Taḳî, likewise a poet, on fol. 293a.

780. Kâmî, was at the time when this work was composed, in the service of 'Abd-alraḥîm Khânkhânân

(see Nos. 763 and 764); he wrote poetry too, on fol. 293b.

781. Kamâlî Afṣaḥ, a good ḳaṣîdah-writer, on fol. 293b.

782. Ḥâjî Kamâl, contemporary with Kamâlî Afṣaḥ, to whom he addressed a rubâ'î, on fol. 294a.

783. Nâṭiḳî, a good writer in verse and prose, on fol. 294a.

784. Ḥaidarî, on fol. 294a.

785. Sayyid Muḥammad, on fol. 294a.

Asfarâ'în, on fol. 294a:

786. Shaikh Nûr-aldîn 'Abd-alraḥmân, contemporary with and Pîr of Shaikh Ruḳn-aldîn 'Alâ-aldaulah Simnânî (Safînat-alauliyâ, Nos. 131 and 132), on fol. 294a.

787. Alṣadr alajall 'Imâd-aldîn Mu'ayyad bin Aḥmad Kâtib, of whom a rubâ'î has been preserved, on fol. 294b.

788. Shaikh Âdhurî or Âdharî, with his real name Ḥamzah, son of Khwâjah 'Alî Malik, who was a man of importance under the Sarbadârians in Asfarâ'în (comp. Nos. 709–711 in this Cat.); Âdhurî rose to the rank of a king of poets in the reign of Shâhrukh; when he afterwards renounced the world and gave himself up to a religious life, he became first a pupil of Shaikh Muḥyî-aldîn Ṭûsî and then of Sayyid Ni'mat-allâh Walî, from whom he received his investiture. He then made extensive travels, performed the pilgrimage and went to India, where he stayed some time at the court of Sulṭân Aḥmadshâh Bahmanî (i.e. Shihâb-aldîn Abû-alghâzî Aḥmadshâh I, who reigned A.H. 825–838= A.D. 1422–1435, see No. 449 in this Cat.). After his return to his native town he lived there thirty years in seclusion, and died A.H. 866 (A.D. 1461, 1462), eighty years old (the usual statement is eighty-two years), at Asfarâ'în (as the following copy has, or at Asfizâr, as is distinctly written in this). The ta'rîkh for his death is خسرو; extracts are given here only from his lyrical poems, on fol. 294b.

789. Shaikh 'Izz-aldîn Pûr-i-Ḥasan (or Pûr-i-Ḥusain according to the following copy), a saint and occasional poet, on fol. 296a.

790. 'Izz-aldîn Râfi'î, writer of charming verses, on fol. 296a.

791. Saif-aldîn, a poet, on fol. 296a.

792. Amîr Humâyûn, a writer of verse and prose, on fol. 296a.

793. Ḳâḍî Aḥmad Fîgârî, a poet, on fol. 296a.

Juwain, on fol. 296b:

794. Muḥammad bin Ḥummûyah (i.e. Shaikh Abû 'Abdallâh Juwainî, see Safînat-alauliyâ No. 306), author of the Ṣûfic work سلوة الطالبين, on fol. 296b.

795. Shaikh Sa'd-aldîn Ḥummû'î (the following copy has, less correctly, Abû Sa'd bin Ḥummûyah, see Safînat-alauliyâ, No. 126), another great Ṣufic authority, author of the محبوب كتاب and the كحل الارواح; he also wrote poetry occasionally, for instance, rubâ'îs, some of which are found in his كتاب محبوب, on fol. 296b.

796. Abû-alma'âlî, known as Imâm-alḥaramain, in great favour with Sulṭân Malikshâh Saljûḳî (comp. under Muḥammad al-Ghazâlî, No. 686), had controversies continually with Imâm Ḳushairî (Safînat-alauliyâ, No. 299), on fol. 296b.

797. Khwâjah Shams-aldîn Muḥammad Ṣâḥib-dîwân, to whom Sa'dî's كتاب صاحبيّه was dedicated, the prime-minister of Hûlâgû and his son Abâḳâkhân (who reigned A.H. 663–680=A.D. 1265–1282), executed by order of Arghûnkhân for the alleged crime of having poisoned Abâḳâkhân A.H. 683=A.D. 1284 (comp. No. 668 above); he was an accomplished poet and wrote some well-known rubâ'îs at the death of his son Bahâ-aldîn Muḥammad, on fol. 297a.

798. Maulânâ Mu'în-aldîn, a pupil of Shaikh Sa'd-aldîn Ḥummû'î (so spelt here both in this and the following copy, see No. 795) and author of the نگارستان, an imitation of the گلستان (composed A.H. 735=A.D. 1334, 1335, comp. Bodleian Cat., Nos. 1447–1449), on fol. 297b.

Khabûshân, on fol. 297b:

799. Abû-albarakât Najm-aldîn, at whose suggestion Sulṭân Ṣalâḥ-aldîn (the Ayyûbite of Egypt, who died A.H. 589=A.D. 1193, see No. 493 above) founded a madrasah in the precincts of Shâfi'î's tomb (in Miṣr) and appointed Najm-aldîn professor of the same; the latter was buried afterwards in the same tomb, on fol. 297b.

800. Alṣadr-alajall Zain-aldîn Ṣâ'id, with the honorary epithet of Ḥâtim-alzamân; he wrote occasionally rubâ'îs, on fol. 297b.

801. Shaikh Ḥâjî Muḥammad, who was a disciple of Mîr Sayyid 'Alî Hamadânî (Safînat-alauliyâ, No. 135) in the fourth generation, and had himself thirty-seven Khalîfas, among whom are the most renowned: Shaikh 'Imâd-aldîn Faḍl, Maulânâ Muḥammad Zâhid, who lived a long time in Balkh, Ṣadr-aldîn Harawî, also in Balkh, Shaikh Nûr-aldîn Muḥammad Khwâfî, and his grandson Shaikh 'Abd-allaṭîf (or rather Nûr-aldîn 'Abd-allaṭîf, as the following copy reads) in Khwârizm; Shaikh Ḥâjî also composed poetry, on fol. 298a.

802. Maulânâ Nau'î, a poet, who at the time of the composition of this work was in the service of prince Dânyâl (the third son of the emperor Akbar), on fol. 298a.

Tarshîz, on fol. 298a:

803. Khwâjah Mîr 'Alî (in the following copy Shîr 'Alî), a poet, who was in the service of Muḥammad Jûgî Bahâdur, the son of Mirzâ Shâhrukh, in whose honour he wrote all his verses, on fol. 298b.

804. Ahlî, a poet, who got enamoured with prince Faridûn, the son of Sulṭân Ḥusain Mirzâ, on fol. 298b.

805. Maulânâ Ṭûṭî, a ḳaṣîdah-writer in the reign of Abû-alḳâsim Bâbar, the grandson of Shâhrukh (Bâbar died A.H. 861=A.D. 1457, see No. 660); he died, according to a ta'rîkh by Mîr 'Alîshîr:

کہ تاریخ شد فوت اورا خروس

A.H. 866 (A.D. 1462), on fol. 298b.

806. Mîr Ṣadr-alislâm, a very shrewd and sagacious man and an occasional poet, on fol. 299a.

807. Nâdirî, another poet, on fol. 299a.

Junâbâd (also Gûnâbâd and Junâbid), on fol. 299a:

808. Mas'ûd alnûḳî, a poet in Sulṭân Bahrâm's time, on fol. 299a.

809. Mirzâ Ḳâsim, i.e. Mirzâ Muḥammad Ḳâsim Ḳâsimî, the author of a شاهنامه (the شاهنامهٔ تاسمی, which celebrates the exploits of Shâh Isma'îl Ṣafawî and was dedicated to Shâh Ṭahmâsp, see the Bodleian Cat., Nos. 513–517), a كار نامه, a ليلى و مجنون (not نگار نامه as the following copy reads), and a شاهرخ نامه, extracts from all of which are given here (comp. besides the Khulâṣat-alkalâm, Bodleian Cat., No. 390, 58), on fol. 299b.

810. Maulânâ 'Abdî, a good mathnawî-writer, on fol. 300a.

811. Mîr 'Abd-albâḳî, a good rubâ'î-writer, on fol. 300a.

812. Shitâbî, a poet, on fol. 300b.

Ṭûn, on fol. 300b:

813. Maulânâ Mu'în 'Allâmah, founded a madrasah and a Ṣûfic convent in his native town, on fol. 300b.

814. Maulânâ Ḥasan, from whose mathnawî some baits are quoted here, on fol. 300b.

815. Mîr Ḥâjj, contemporary with Mîr 'Alîshîr, lived in seclusion for almost forty years; he left some poetry, on fol. 301a.

816. Maulânâ Ḥairatî, a poet, who left his native town and went to 'Irâḳ; he wrote a famous ḳaṣîdah in honour of Shâh Ṭahmâsp, on fol. 301a.

817. Muwâlî, a good physician and occasional poet; he spent most of his time in Yazd as companion of Shâh Nûr-aldîn Ni'mat-allâh Bâḳî, on fol. 302a.

818. Maulânâ Nithârî, a good astronomer, and author of a mathnawî, styled سرو وتذرو (cypress and pheasant), as well as of a dîwân, on fol. 302a.

819. Hawâ'î, wrote rubâ'îs, on fol. 302a.

820. Dhauḳî, another poet, on fol. 302a.

821. Âfatî, likewise a poet, on fol. 302a.

Ḳuhistân (in the following copy Ḳâ'in, which is the name of the chief town of Ḳuhistân), on fol. 302a:

822. Shams-aldîn Muḥammad bin Amîn-aldîn, a renowned Shaikh and Saint who died in Harât, on fol. 302b.

823. Nizârî, a Ṣûfî, and according to the حبيب السير an Isma'îlî who chose his takhalluṣ in honour of Almuṣṭafâ lidîn-allâh Nizâr, the eldest son of Almustanṣir billâh Isma'îlî, who had originally been designated heir to the throne, but was afterwards repudiated by his father, who appointed as his successor his younger son Almusta'lî-billâh; thereupon after Almustanṣir's death the Isma'îlîs split into two factions, one of which adhered to the Imâmship of Nizâr, as Nizârî did himself; he was a poet of considerable power (his death is fixed in A.H. 720=A.D. 1320, see A. Sprenger, Catal., p. 524), on fol. 302b.

824. Kûshkkî (كوشككي), an intimate friend and panegyrist of Sulṭân Sanjar, on fol. 303a.

825. Ra'îs Ḥasan Ṣalâḥ Birjandî (Birjand is one of the boroughs of Ḳuhistân), wrote poetry occasionally, on fol. 303b.

826. Maulânâ Muḥammad bin Ḥusâm, commonly known as Ibn Ḥusâm, the author of the خاور نامه (a mathnawî celebrating the exploits of 'Alî bin Abî Ṭâlib, in imitation of Firdausî's Shâhnâma, composed A.H. 830=A.D. 1427, see Bodleian Cat., No. 512) and of a dîwân, on fol. 303b.

827. Maulânâ Faṣîḥ-aldîn Muḥammad Nizâmî, a great mathematician and astronomer, author of a commentary on Jaghmînî's مُلَخَّص, on fol. 304a.

828. Maulânâ Jalâl-aldîn Muḥammad Wâ'iẓ, on fol. 304a.

829. Maulânâ Jamshîd, one of the wazîrs of Sulṭân Ḥusain Mirzâ, on fol. 304a.

830. Maulânâ 'Abd-al'alî Birjandî, an astronomer, who for eighty years drew up the annual calendar, in order to support his children, on fol. 304a.

831. Maulânâ Afḍal, one of the great 'Ulamâs of this time (i.e. the time when this work was composed), on fol. 304a.

832. Âṣafî, son of Khwâjah Ni'mat-allâh, who was some time wazîr of Sulṭân Abû Sa'îd (died A.H. 873=A.D. 1469, see No. 635); Âṣafî himself was some time a favourite of Niẓâm-aldîn Mîr 'Alîshîr, and some other time he was enjoying the companionship of Badî'-alzamân Mirzâ (Sulṭân Ḥusain Mirzâ's eldest son, who died A.H. 920 or 921=A.D. 1514, 1515). His death is fixed by a ta'rîkh of Amîr Sulṭân Ibrâhîm Amînî, viz. زبرات آمد روز دوم, in A.H. 923 (A.D. 1517); he left a dîwân, on fol. 304a.

833. Maulânâ Walî, greatly esteemed in Khurâsân and particularly in Sistân; he was the author of a dîwân, on fol. 304b.

834. Khusrawî, in the service of prince Salîm (Akbar's son, who assumed as emperor the title of Jahângîr), a great expert in archery and a poet, on fol. 305a.

835. Baḳâ'î, a poet, on fol. 305b.

Bisṭâm, on fol. 305b:

836. Sulṭân-al'ârifîn Shaikh Abû Yazîd Ṭaifûr bin 'Îsâ bin Sarûsân (سروسان, in the Safînat-alauliyâ, No. 66, Sarûshân), one of the greatest Shaikhs and Saints, who lived thirty years in the Syrian desert sleepless and starving, and enjoyed the tuition of 113 Pîrs; the statement, however, that he also was a disciple of the Imâm Ja'far Ṣâdiḳ, must be a mistake, as the latter died A.H. 148=A.D. 765 (Safînat-alauliyâ, No. 10), and Abû Yazîd Bisṭâmî A.H. 261 (A.D. 875); the second of the two rubâ'îs, quoted here as from this Shaikh's pen, is identical with one usually ascribed to Abû Sa'îd bin Abû-alkhair (viz. No. 41 in Ethé's Rubâ'îs des Abû Sa'îd bin Abulkhair, Sitzungsberichte der bayrischen Academie, philos.-philol. Classe, 1878, p. 44), on fol. 305b.

837. Shaikh Abû-alḥasan Kharaḳânî (Safînat-alauliyâ, No. 67), contemporary with Abû 'Alî ibn Sînâ; Kharaḳân is a borough in the district of Bisṭâm, on fol. 306b.

838. Shaikh Ḍiyâ-aldîn 'Umar, on fol. 307a.

Dâmaghân, on fol. 307b:

839. Abû Ja'far, a great Ṣûfî, who was met by one of the saints in Madînah during the life-time of Shaikh Abûbakr Kitâbî (who died in Makkah A.H. 322=A.D. 934, see Safînat-alauliyâ, No. 223), on fol. 307b.

840. Minûchihrî, the great panegyrist of Sulṭân Maḥmûd of Ghazna, and his successors, with the nickname of Shaṣtgalla (died A.H. 483=A.D. 1090, see the edition of his dîwân with translation, notes, and introduction by A. de Biberstein Kazimirski, Paris, 1887), on fol. 307b.

Iṣfahân, on fol. 308b:

841. Salmân Fârisî (Salmân the Persian, see Safînat-alauliyâ, No. 17), one of the companions of the prophet, with his original name Mâhiyah bin Badakhshân bin Âdrakhsh (آذرخش, or as the following copy reads, Âdhrakhsh or Âdharaksh, آذرخش); he is stated here, as in the Safînat, to have reached the age of 250, or, according to the majority of traditions, even of 350 years, on fol. 309b.

842. Shaikh 'Alî Suhail, contemporary with the Khalifs 'Umar and 'Uthmân, on fol. 310b.

843. Shaikh Najm-aldîn, lived for a long time in the holy precincts of Makkah, on fol. 310b.

844. Ibrâhîm bin 'Îsâ, a saint who could walk across the water, on fol. 310b.

845 and 846. Abû Gharîb and Abû 'Abdallâh, two other saints, the former great in performing miracles, the latter renowned because for forty years he did not lift up his head from the ground nor saw the sky, on fol. 310b.

847. Abû Muslim Marwazî, the great pioneer of the 'Abbâside cause; Ḥamzah of Iṣfahân calls him a descendant of Ḥamzah bin 'Ammâr, and traces his pedigree back to Gûdarz, the old Irânian king; others connect him with the great wazir Buzurjmihr, and others again with Salîṭ, the son of a concubine of 'Abdallâh bin 'Abbâs. He was born about A.H. 100 (A.D. 718, 719) in Iṣfahân, but brought up in Kûfah, and had an equal command over Persian and Arabic. From A.H. 120–128 (A.D. 738–746) he was governor of Khurâsân in Marw, where he proclaimed the 'Abbâsides as lawful heirs to the Khilâfat. He was put to death A.H. 137 (A.D. 755) by order of the Khalîf Al-Manṣûr, the second 'Abbâside (who reigned A.H. 136–158=A.D. 754–775), on fol. 310b.

848. Abû Ja'far Muḥammad bin 'Alî, with the epithet Jamâl-aldîn, was first attached to the court of Sulṭân Maḥmûd bin Muḥammad bin Malikshâh (who succeeded his father in A.H. 511=A.D. 1118); at a later period he became wazir of the ruler of Mauṣil, Atâbeg Zangî bin Âḳsunkar (a post he filled, according to Rieu ii. p. 560b, from A.H. 541–558=A.D. 1146–1163). He accompanied the poet Khâḳânî on his pilgrimage to Makkah and Madînah, and the latter dedicated to him as token of gratitude his famous mathnawî, تحفة العراقين (the date of this journey, given here as A.H. 466, is of course quite nonsensical). Jamâl-aldîn was deposed from his wazîrship by the Atâbeg Ḳuṭb-aldîn Maudûd A.H. 558, and died in prison one year later, A.H. 559 (A.D. 1164), on fol. 311a.

849. Abû-alḥasan, with the epithet of Jalâl-aldîn, son of the preceding wazir, on fol. 311b.

850. Abû 'Abdallâh Muḥammad bin Ṣafî-aldîn, with the epithet of 'Imâd-aldîn Kâtib, went in early youth to Baghdâd, and after completing his studies he entered the service of the wazir Yaḥyâ bin Hubairah, who appointed him superintendent (ناظر) of Baṣrah and Wâsiṭ. After one or two years' employment in this office he went to Damascus and became munshî of Sulṭân Nûr-aldîn of Syria (who reigned A.H. 541–569 =A.D. 1146–1173); after whose death he stayed in Mauṣil and also entered for some time Sulṭân Ṣalâḥ-aldîn's service. He survived the latter great monarch of Egypt (who died A.H. 589=A.D. 1193). His death, which is not fixed here, took place A.H. 597 (A.D. 1201). He is the author of the كتاب جريدة المقصود, the خريدة القصر و جريدة العصر (كتاب جريدة العصر, see J. Aumer, Arabic Cat., p. 210), the كتاب البرق الشامي (a history of Sulṭân Ṣalâḥ-aldîn in seven volumes), the كتاب الفتح in two volumes, the كتاب السبل على الذيل, the كتاب نصرة الفطرة (in the following copy نظرة), a history of the Saljûḳs, a ديوان رسائل, and a poetical diwân, in four volumes, on fol. 311b.

851. Laith bin Sa'd alfahmî, a great traditionist and legal authority, on fol. 312a.

852. Abû Sahl bin Salmân bin Muḥammad, known as Ṣa'lûkî, a great grammarian, born A.H. 296 (A.D. 908, 909), died A.H. 369 (A.D. 979, 980), on fol. 312a.

853. Ḥâfiẓ Abû Na'îm, an authority in traditions dealing with the Ahl-i-Bait, on fol. 312a.

854. Abû 'Abd-alraḥmân Nâfi', one of the seven Ḳurân-readers, died A.H. 169 (A.D. 785, 786), on fol. 312a.

855. Dâ'ûd bin 'Alî al-Ṭâhirî, traditionist, lived in Baghdâd, and had daily 400 disciples in his majlis, on fol. 312a.

856. Abûbakr Dâ'ûd, a legal authority and a good Arabic poet, author of the كتاب الزهرة, the كتاب الوصول الى معرفة الاصول, the كتاب الاعتبار, the كتاب الابتصار, and the كتاب الانذار (styled in the following copy كتاب الأندرار), on fol. 312a.

857. Yaḥyâ bin 'Abdallâh, author of the تأريخ اصفهاني (history of Iṣfahân), died A.H. 445 (A.D. 1053, 1054), on fol. 312b.

858. Shams-aldîn Maḥmûd, author of a شرح مختصر ابن حاجب (commentary on the مختصر المنتهى of Jamâl-aldîn Abû 'Amr 'Uthmân bin 'Umar Mâlikî, who died A.H. 646=A.D. 1248, 1249), of a شرح مطالع, a شرح تجريد (i.e. the شرح القديم on the تجريد القواعد by Naṣîr-aldîn Ṭûsî, who died A.H. 672=A.D. 1273, 1274), a شرح منهاج البيضاوى, and a شرح طوالع (i.e. مطالع الانظار فى شرح طوالع الانوار, a commentary on Naṣîr-aldîn 'Abdallâh bin 'Umar Baiḍâwî's (died A.H. 685=A.D. 1286) طوالع الانوار); he died A.H. 749 (A.D. 1348), see Loth, Arabic MSS., pp. 106 and 111; here the date of his death is not given, on fol. 312b.

859. Abû-alfaraj 'Alî ibn al-Ḥusain alḳurashî, grammarian, physician, astronomer, poet, musician, and traditionist, author of the famous كتاب الاغانى, which he collected in the course of fifty years; he was born A.H. 284 and died A.H. 356 (A.D. 897–967), on fol. 312b.

860. Aḥmad bin 'Abdallâh, the author of the حلية الاولياء and a تأريخ اصفهان, died A.H. 436 (A.D. 1044, 1045), on fol. 312b.

861. Abû 'Umar Mûsâ bin 'Abd-almalik, was first in the service of the 'Abbâsides, went then to the Maghrib and was greatly honoured by the Amîr Tamîm Mu'izz lidînillâh. If this Amîr is identical with Abû Tamîm Ma'add al-Mu'izz, the Fâṭimide Sulṭân who ruled over Egypt A.H. 341–365 (A.D. 953–975, 976), the date of Abû 'Umar's death, as given here, viz. A.H. 246, must at least be 100 years later, on fol. 312b.

862. Muḥammad bin Mu'ammar alḳurashî, on fol. 312b.

863. Ḥakîm Abû Mu'în Nâṣir bin Khusrau bin

Ḥârith bin 'Alî bin Ḥusain bin 'Alî bin Muḥammad bin 'Alî bin Mûsâ-alriḍâ (comp. Ethé, Nâṣir bin Khusrau's Leben, Denken und Dichten, in Travaux de la 6e session du Congrès international des Orientalistes à Leide, vol. ii. Leyden, 1884); the shortest and probably oldest version of his fictitious autobiography is given here in full; the correct dates of his birth and death are A. H. 394 (A. D. 1004) and 481 (A. D. 1088), on fol. 312b.

864. Abû-alma'âlî Naḥḥâs, who succeeded Muḥammad Ghailân in the lord-lieutenancy under Sulṭân Malikshâh, and rose towards the end of Malikshâh's reign (who died A. H. 485=A. D. 1092) to the rank of a muster-master or general (عارض) of the army of Sulṭân Barkiyâruḳ and Sulṭân Muḥammad, Malikshâh's sons; when a feud ensued between the two brothers, Abû-alma'âlî fled to Ḥillah, the governor of which became his pupil, and left to him the whole political and financial administration of the country. Through some cause Abû-alma'âlî was some time after imprisoned, but escaped after enduring many hardships and joined Barkiyâruḳ again, in whose service he died; he left a considerable amount of poetry, on fol. 316a.

865. Ṣadr-aldîn Khujandî, ḳâḍi-alḳuḍât of Iṣfahân, contemporary with Ẓahîr (Ẓahîr-aldîn Fâryâbî, who died A. H. 598=A. D. 1202 f); he wrote rubâ'is, on fol. 316b.

866. Jamâl-aldîn Khujandî, son of the preceding poet, on fol. 317a.

867. Imâm-al'âlam Sharaf-aldaulah wa-aldîn Muḥammad Shufurwah, a poet of the time of Sulṭân Arslân bin Ṭoghrul Saljûḳi (who reigned A. H. 556–571=A. D. 1161–1176), on fol. 317a.

868. Ẓahîr-aldîn 'Abdallâh Shufurwah, first cousin to the preceding poet, wrote poetry also, on fol. 318b.

869. Jamâl-aldîn bin 'Abd-alrazzâḳ, whose diwân is still extant; he was a panegyrist of the Ṣâ'idîs (according to Taḳi Kâshi he died A. H. 588=A. D. 1192, see A. Sprenger, Catal., pp. 445 and 446, and Rieu ii. p. 581a), on fol. 319a.

870. Kamâl-aldîn Isma'îl (with the epithet خلّاق المعانى, which is left out here), son of the preceding Jamâl-aldîn and still more renowned as poet than his father; a brother of his was Mu'în-aldîn 'Abd-alkarîm; he fell in the general massacre of the people of Iṣfahân by the Moghuls under Uktâi Ḳâ'ân (the usual date assigned is A. H. 635=A. D. 1237, 1238; here no date is given), on fol. 321a.

871. Rafî'-aldîn Mas'ûd (or bin Mas'ûd) Lunbâni, contemporary with Kamâl-aldîn Isma'îl, on fol. 324b.

872. Rafî'-aldîn 'Abd-al'azîz Lunbâni, another poet (whose death is fixed by Taḳi Kâshi in A. H. 603= A. D. 1206, 1207), on fol. 325b.

873. Farîd Aḥwal, a panegyrist of the Ṣâ'idîs like Jamâl-aldîn bin 'Abd-alrazzâḳ and Kamâl-aldîn Isma'îl, on fol. 325b.

874. Shaikh Auḥadî, who is wrongly called by others a native of Marâgha, pupil of Shaikh Auḥad-aldîn Kirmâni, author of the famous mathnawî جام جم, an imitation of Sanâ'î's Ḥadîḳah, and of a mystic diwân. He began to flourish under Arghûnkhân (A. H. 683–690=A. D. 1284–1291), and died A. H. 738=A. D. 1337–1338 (the date of death given here on the authority of Daulatshâh, viz. A. H. 697=A. D. 1298, is that of his teacher Auḥad-aldîn Kirmâni, with whom Auḥadî has frequently been confounded by Persian biographers; see Rieu ii. p. 619; Bodleian Cat., Nos. 785–789 and 1904, 19; and Safînat-alauliyâ, Nos. 333 and 349), on fol. 326a.

875. Kamâl-aldîn Ziyâd, a poet, on fol. 328a.

876. Shams-aldîn bin Fakhr-aldîn (i.e. Shams-i-Fakhrî), panegyrist of Shâh Abû Isḥâḳ of Fârs and 'Irâḳ (reigned A. H. 742–754=A. D. 1341–1353) and author of a Farhang or Persian dictionary, dedicated to the same monarch (i.e. the fourth part, علم لغت, of his encyclopædical work, ابو اسحاقى ومفتاح معيار جمالى, edited by Salemann, Kasan, 1887, under the title of 'Shams-i-Fachrii Ispahânensis Lexicon Persicum,' see also Mélanges Asiatiques, tome ix. p. 417 sq.), on fol. 328a.

877. Ḥamza-i-Iṣfahânî, with the epithet of Shahsuwâr-i-miḍmâr-i-nuktadânî (شهسوار مضمار نكتدانى, the champion horseman of the hippodrome of sagacity), the author of the famous تاريخ (completed A. H. 350= A. D. 961, edited by Gottwaldt, Leipzig, 1844), on fol. 328b.

878. Khwâjah Amîn-aldîn Ḥasan, contemporary with Ḥâfiẓ, who praises him in one of his ghazals, on fol. 328b.

879. Mirzâ Yâr Aḥmad, spent some time in companionship with Amîr Najm-aldîn Gîlâni, the wakîl or administrator of the realm, after whose death he was himself raised to that office by Shâh Isma'îl Ṣafawî (A. H. 909–930=A. D. 1503–1524) and honoured with the epithet of Najm-i-thâni (the second Najm); in a battle against the Uzbegs of Transoxania, he was taken prisoner and put to death by order of 'Ubaidallâhkhân the 3rd of Ramaḍân, A. H. 918 (A. D. 1512, November 12), on fol. 329a.

880–882. Mirzâ Kamâl-aldîn Shâh Ḥusain, who was Najm-i-thâni's successor in the office of wazîr or wakîl; he was assassinated by Mihtar Shâh Ḳuli, and his body was interred in Karbalâ; he left two sons, Mirzâ Isma'îl, who lived in Iṣfahân bent upon the pleasures of the chase, and Mirzâ Ẓahîr-aldîn Ibrâhîm, a studious man and a good calligrapher, who occasionally composed good rubâ'is, on fol. 329b.

883–885. Mirzâ Salmân (in the following copy spelt throughout Sulaimân), a good Inshâ-writer and poet; he was first appointed superintendent of public works under Shâh Ṭahmâsp; under Sulṭâns Isma'îl II (A. H. 984–985=A. D. 1576–1577) and Muḥammad Khudâbanda (A. H. 985–995=A. D. 1577–1587) he rose to the rank of wazîr; during the invasion of Khurâsân, when on the point of capturing Harât, he was assassinated by some discontented Amîrs; he left two sons, Mirzâ 'Abdallâh, who also wrote poetry occasionally, and Niẓâm-almulk, on fol. 330b.

886. Saif-aldîn Maḥmûd Rajâ'î, a good mathematician and astronomer and a clever satirist; among his pleasantries in verse (هزليّات) is an ايرنامه, some baits of which are quoted here, together with a few verses of a more serious character, on fol. 331a.

887. Khwâjah Afḍal-aldîn Muḥammad Tarikah, studied first in Kâshân under the tuition of Maulânâ Abû-alḥasan, then went in pursuit of theological as well as theosophical knowledge to the Arabian 'Irâḳ, to Syria and Ḥijâz, and returned at last to his native country, where he gained favour with Shâh Ṭahmâsp; he was twice, under Shâh Ṭahmâsp and under Shâh Muḥammad Khudâbanda, appointed wali of the sepulchre of 'Alî bin Mûsâ alriḍâ (his death took place about A.H. 1000=A.D. 1592, see Rieu ii. p. 669b); he was a good rubâ'i-writer, on fol. 331a.

888. Khalîfah Asad-allâh, on fol. 331b.

889. Amîr Shujâ'-aldîn Maḥmûd, a grandson of the preceding Khalîfah; his father, Khalîfah Sayyid 'Alî, was honoured by Shâh Ṭahmâsp with the epithet of Khalîfa-i-Sulṭânî, on fol. 331b.

890. Amîr Taḳî-aldîn, known as Mîr Shâh, went to the Dakhan and rose to the rank of a peshwâ or wakîl under Sulṭân Ibrâhîm Ḳuṭbshâh (A.H. 957–988=A.D. 1550–1580); when Sulṭân Muḥammad Ḳulî Ḳuṭbshâh (A.H. 988–1020=A.D. 1580–1612) ascended the throne he saw himself compelled to resign his office, and got leave to perform the pilgrimage, but on the way to the holy cities he died; he left some poetry, on fol. 332a.

891. Amîr Shams-aldîn, went to Bijâpûr and obtained there the honorary title of Ṣadrjahân; in his poetry he used the takhallus of Hâshimî, on fol. 332a.

892. Ḳâḍî Nûrî, a poet of considerable renown (according to Rieu ii. p. 669a, a pupil of Khwâjah Afḍal-aldîn Muḥammad Tarikah, No. 887 above); two of his best ḳaṣîdas are given here in full, on fol. 332a.

893. Ẓafar-alislâm Ṣâ'idî, another poet, on fol. 334a.

894. Amîr Jalâl-aldîn Ḥusain Ṣalâ'î, a poet, on fol. 334a.

895. Maulânâ Taḳî-aldîn Majd-alḥuznî, a poet, who died in the Panjâb, a little over 50 years old, on fol. 334b.

896. Maulânâ Ḍamîrî, the renowned poet, who first used Bâghbân as takhallus, but changed it into Ḍamîrî at the request of Shâh Ṭahmâsp Ṣafawî; he wrote altogether 100,000 baits, that is 70,000 in the form of ghazals, 12,000 in that of ḳaṣîdas, which are all in praise of the Imâms, and the rest in that of mathnawîs, viz. ناز ونیاز, وامق وعذرا, بهار وخزان, لیلی ومجنون, سکندر نامه, and حبس الاخیار (correctly in the following copy, جنّة الاخیار, see Bodleian Cat., No. 395, 1424). He imitated the diwâns of a number of famous poets, viz. Sa'dî's in his صیقل ملال, Amîr Khusrau's in his معشوق لا یزال, Khwâjah Ḥasan's in his حسن مآل (in the following copy حسن مالامال, in the Bodleian Cat., loc. cit. حسن مال), Shaikh Kamâl's in his احیای کمال, Ḥâfiẓ's in his عیون الزلال (in the Bodleian Cat. misspelt as عنوان), Jâmî's in his معراج الآمال, Bâbâ Fighânî's in his آئینهٔ خیال, Shâhî's in his سحر حلال, Bannâ'î's (according to the Bodleian Cat. Thanâ'î's) in his فراغیال, Ṣâliḥ's in his درر مثال, Âṣafî's in his سحاب جلال, Shahîdî's in his خجسته فال, Humâyûn's in his لوامع خیال, and Mirzâ Ashrafjahân's in his ترانهٔ وصال, on fol. 335a.

897. Maulânâ Muḥammad Sharîf Sarmadî, a poet, on fol. 336b.

898. Amîr Rûzbahân Ṣabrî, poet and musician, withdrew after a gay life into the Friday mosque of Iṣfahân, and spent there his remaining days in constant reading of the Ḳurân, on fol. 336b.

899. Maulânâ Shikîbî (in the following copy quite distinctly Maulânâ 'Îsâ), came to India and gained the favour of the Sipahsâlâr 'Abd-alraḥîm Khânkhânân (see Nos. 216–218 in this Cat.), in whose honour he wrote a ساقی نامه, for which he received 10,000 rupees; lengthy quotations are given here from this poem as well as from his ghazals and rubâ'is, on fol. 337a.

900. Âḳâ Shâhaki, a poet, on fol. 338b.

901. Shifâ'î, likewise a poet, son of Ḥakîm Maulânâ, a clever physician, on fol. 338b.

902. Maulânâ Bâbâshâh Kâtib, a famous calligrapher, who received for 1000 baits 3 tomans=100 rupees; he also composed original poetry, on fol. 339a.

903. Bâbâ Ṭâlib, lived about thirty years in Kashmîr, and when that country was conquered by Akbar, he gained the favour of that great monarch; he wrote verses occasionally, on fol. 339a.

904. Abû-alḳâsim Amrî, a poet, was imprisoned and blinded by order of Shâh Ṭahmâsp, whose panegyrist he had been for thirty years, because he was suspected of believing in metempsychosis (تناسخ), on fol. 339a.

905. Nikî, a poet, on fol. 339b.

906. Ṣafiyâ, another poet, on fol. 339b.

907. Ghiyâthâ, used in his poetry as takhallus Manṣab (منصب, according to the following copy, Munṣif, منصف), on fol. 339b.

908. Maulânâ Wafâ; among other specimens of his poetry portions of a ḳaṣîdah are quoted here, in which the description of a horse is given, on fol. 340a.

909. Maulânâ Dakhlî, a poet, on fol. 340a.

910. Dâ'î, son of Maulânâ Ḍamîrî (No. 896), dervish and verse-writer, on fol. 340b.

911. Ḥarfî, a nephew of Nikî (No. 905); this poet is left out in the present copy, and the bait quoted of him in the following copy is assigned here to Dâ'î.

912. Abû 'Alî, the son of Ḥakîm Khabbâz (whether this Ḥakîm Khabbâz is really identical with Khabbâzî, see No. 752 above, as has been assumed in Rûdagî's 'Vorläufer und Zeitgenossen,' Nos. 11 and 12, appears very doubtful now, as Khabbâzî was a native of Nishâpûr, and Abû 'Alî is classed here among the modern poets of Iṣfahân), on fol. 340b.

913. Wafâ'î Kûr, another modern poet, on fol. 340b.

914. Mîr Amânî, who had been nearly fifty years an opium-eater at the time when this work was composed, without impairing his brain-power, on fol. 340b.

915. Maulânâ Madhâḳî, a poet, on fol. 340b.

916. Maulânâ 'Alî Ṣûratkhân (صورتخان, correctly Ṣûratkhwân, صورتخوان, a sort of juggler, who produces forms of angels and human beings in the public square and tells their fate on the resurrection-day), was originally a cutler; some baits he wrote on the death of his son are quoted here, on fol. 340b.

917. Maulânâ (or Mîr) Nażar Zamânî, wrote poetry occasionally, on fol. 340b.

918. Mîr 'Alî Najjâr (the carpenter), of whom a rubâ'î is quoted, on fol. 341a.

919 and 920. Kalâmî and Salâmî, two brothers who made themselves favourably known by their verses, on fol. 341a.

921. Maulânâ Badhlî, an occasional poet, on fol. 341a.

Nafanz (in the province of Iṣfahân), on fol. 341a:

922. Shaikh Nûr-aldîn bin 'Abd-alṣamad, who was in Ṣûfic lore a pupil of Shaikh Najîb-aldîn 'Alî bin Buzghush of Shirâz (who died A. H. 678=A. D. 1279, 1280, Safînat-alauliyâ, No. 150); among his own disciples were Shaikh 'Izz-aldîn Maḥmûd and Shaikh Kamâl-aldîn 'Abd-alrazzâḳ, both of Kâshân (see Nos. 931 and 932 below), on fol. 341a.

923. Khwâjah Amîrbeg, a son of Shaikh Muḥammad Kajaḥî Tabrizî (Kajaḥ, كجح, is a village near Tabrîz, see W. Pertsch, Berlin Cat., p. 655, note 1) and a relative of Amîr Zakariyyâ; although his father lived in Tabrîz, he himself was born in Naṭanz; under Shâh Ṭahmâsp he was for some time wali of the sepulchre of the Imâm Alî bin Mûsâ alriḍâ (see No. 887 above) and also wazîr of Khurâsân, on fol. 341a.

924. Mirzâ Ḥisâbî, a good musician and poet (under the Ṣafawîs, it seems), on fol. 341b.

925. Âshûbî, poet and calligrapher, on fol. 342a.

Zawârah, on fol. 342a:

926. Maulânâ Muḥammad Murshidî, a good metaphysician, astronomer, and poet, on fol. 342a.

927. Mîr Manhî, a clever poet, on fol. 342a.

Ardastân, on fol. 342a:

928. Maulânâ Muḥammad, a good astronomer, mathematician, and geomancer; he was a contemporary and friend of Maulânâ 'Alî Ḳûshjî (who died A. H. 879=A. D. 1474, 1475, see Bodleian Cat., No. 1515 sq.) in the reign of Ulughbeg (who was assassinated A. H. 853=A. D. 1449), on fol. 342b.

929. Ḳâsimî, a poet, on fol. 343a.

930. Maulânâ Ghubârî, of whom a rubâ'î is quoted, on fol. 343a.

Kâshân, on fol. 343a:

931. Shaikh 'Izz-aldîn Maḥmûd (see No. 922 above), the author of the ترجمهٔ عوارف and a commentary on the تائيّهٔ of Ibn al-Fârid (Safînat-alauliyâ, No. 332); he also wrote a شرح مختصر or abridged commentary to the same ḳaṣîdah, and some rubâ'îs, on fol. 343b.

932. Shaikh Kamâl-aldîn 'Abd-alrazzâḳ (see also No. 922), author of the تفسير تأويلات (comp. Ḥ. Khalfa ii. p. 175, No. 2358), the كتاب اصطلاحات الصوفيّه (see G. Flügel iii. p. 371 sq.; the first part of it has been edited by Dr. A. Sprenger, Calcutta, 1845, under the title, 'Abdur-razzaq's Dictionary of the technical terms of the Sufies'), the شرح فصوص الحكم (a commentary on the فصوص الحكم by Ibn 'Arabî, who died A. H. 638=A. D. 1240, see Safînat-alauliyâ No. 60), the شرح منازل السائرين (a commentary on the منازل السائرين by Khwâjah 'Abdallâh Anṣârî, who died A. H. 481=A. D. 1088, see Safînat-alauliyâ, No. 300), and other works (in G. Flügel i. p. 463, a شرح التائيّة الكبرى, by the same 'Abd-alrazzâḳ Kâshânî, is described); he was a contemporary of Shaikh Ruḳn-aldîn 'Alâ-aldaulah Simnânî (who died A. H. 736=A. D. 1336, see Safînat-alauliyâ, No. 132), with whom he had many controversies on Ṣûfic topics; his death, the date of which is not mentioned here, took place in A. H. 730=A. D. 1329, 1330, on fol. 343b.

933. Nâṣiḥ-almulûk (the counsellor of kings, in the following copy ناصح) 'Azîz alḥaḍrat (biḥaḍrat in this copy) Abû Ṭâhir Ismâ'îl, was under Sulṭân Malikshâh, governor of Kâshân, and gave the inhabitants of that province a remission of taxes for four years, on fol. 344a.

934. Mu'în-aldîn Abû Naṣr, was originally munshî and auditor of Sulṭân Maḥmûd bin Muḥammad Saljûḳî (who succeeded his father Muḥammad, the second son of Malikshâh, A. H. 511=A. D. 1118); under Sulṭân Sanjar he was first appointed governor of Rai and afterwards wazîr of the realm; he was finally assassinated by one of the Ismâ'îlîs or followers of Ḥasan Ṣabbâḥ, on fol. 344a.

935. Fakhr-aldîn Ṭâhir, son of the preceding Mu'în-aldîn, was wazîr of Sulṭân Alp Arslân (correctly Arslânshâh) bin Ṭoghrul bin Muḥammad bin Malikshâh (who reigned A. H. 556–571=A. D. 1161–1176), but died young, on fol. 344a.

936. Sharaf-aldîn Anûshîrwân alkhâlidî, was for some years wazîr of the 'Abbâside Khalîf Al-Mustarshid-billâh (A. H. 512–529=A. D. 1118–1135); the further statement we find here, that after the Khalîf's death he entered the service of Sulṭân Maḥmûd bin Muḥammad Saljûḳî and was for seven years wazîr of that ruler, cannot be true, as Sulṭân Maḥmûd died A. H. 525 (A. D. 1131), four years before the Khalîf, comp. also Elfachrî, ed. Ahlwardt, pp. 354–355, where the death of Anûshîrwân (or as he is called there, Anûsharwân bin Khâlid) is fixed in A. H. 532 (A. D. 1138). It is the same wazîr for whom Ḥarîrî (died A. H. 516=A. D. 1122) composed his immortal Maḳâmât, on fol. 344a.

937. Ṣadr-alimâm alajall alfâḍil Afḍal-aldîn Muḥammad, the great rubâ'î-writer and author of a number of Ṣûfic tracts, as ترجمهٔ مدارج الكمال, رد انجام نامه, انشا نامه, عرض نامه, جاودان نامه, and others, the correct date of whose death is A. H. 707=A. D. 1307, 1308 (see Bodleian Cat., No. 749; Rieu ii. p. 829b). It is stated here in the beginning that Khwâjah Naṣîr-aldîn, i. e. Naṣîr-aldîn Ṭûsî (died A. H. 672=A. D. 1273, 1274), wrote verses in his praise, but, a few lines further on, the story of Muḥammad 'Aufî about a certain Khwâjah Afḍal in Sulṭân Maḥmûd's time is unscrupulously referred to the present Afḍal-aldîn Kâshî who lived 300 years later, on fol. 344b.

938. Alsayyid alajall Shams-aldîn Muḥammad bin 'Alî, a poet, on fol. 345b.

939. Ra'îs-ala'immah Nâṣir-aldîn, likewise a poet, on fol. 345b.

940. Aḳḍâ-alḳuḍât Maulânâ 'Imâd-aldîn, was according to Maulânâ Mu'în Juwainî's statement in his نگارستان (composed A. H. 735=A. D. 1334, 1335, see Bodleian Cat., Nos. 1447–1449) the confidant of the famous wazîr of Sulṭân Abû Sa'îd, Khwâjah Ghiyâth-aldîn Muḥammad bin Khwâjah Rashîd-aldîn (who rose to the rank of wazîr A. H. 728=A. D. 1328, and was put to death A. H. 736=A. D. 1336); he also wrote poetry, on fol. 346a.

941. Sayyid-alkalâm Sayyid Ashraf, a writer in verse and prose (probably identical with Sayyid Jalâl-aldîn Ashraf Kâshî, who flourished in the reign of Hûlâgû's son Abaḳâkhân, A. H. 663–680=A. D. 1265–1282, see A. Sprenger, Catal., p. 71, l. 3), on fol. 346a.

942. Afḍal-alshu'arâ Raḍî-aldîn alkhashshâb (the timber-merchant); besides other verses, some baits are quoted here which he composed in praise of Shaikh 'Umar Suhrawardi (who is probably identical with the well-known Shihâb-aldîn Suhrawardî, whose original name was 'Umar bin Muḥammad and who died A. H. 632=A. D. 1234, see Safînat-alauliyâ, No. 148), on fol. 346b.

943. Shaikh (or Sayyid) Jamâl-aldîn, contemporary with Abaḳâkhân and imitator of Sa'dî, on fol. 346b.

944. Maulânâ Kamâl-aldîn, a writer in verse and prose, on fol. 347a.

945. Maulânâ Kamâl-aldîn Ḥasan, author of a dîwân of ḳaṣîdas and ghazals, mainly in honour of the Amîr-almu'minîn 'Alî bin Abî Ṭâlib, on fol. 347a.

946. Maulânâ Shams-aldîn, author of a تأريخ غازان خان (Ghâzânkhân reigned A. H. 694–703=A. D. 1295–1304) and of a dîwân of ḳaṣîdas in praise of Khwâjah Bahâ-aldîn Walad (probably Bahâ-aldîn Sulṭân Walad, Jalâl-aldîn Rûmî's son, who died A. H. 712=A. D. 1312, see the Manâḳib-al'ârifîn, No. 630 in this Cat., faṣl vii, and Safînat-alauliyâ, No. 139; Jalâl-aldîn Rûmî's father, Shaikh Bahâ-aldîn Walad, who might be meant too, died A. H. 628=A. D. 1231), on fol. 347b.

947. Zain-aldîn Fâkhta (or Fâkhita, the ring-dove), a poet and author of the نصائح الاولاد, on fol. 347b.

948 and 949. Maulânâ Ghiyâth-aldîn Jamshîd and Maulânâ Mu'în-aldîn, two well-known astronomers under Mirzâ Ulughbeg (who was governor of Transoxania from A. H. 812–852=A. D. 1409–1448, and reigned as independent monarch from A. H. 852–853=A. D. 1449), whom they assisted in compiling his astronomical tables, the زيج جديد سلطانى, comp. Bodleian Cat., No. 1515 sq.; Rieu ii. pp. 456 and 869b. Ghiyâth-aldîn Jamshîd died shortly after A. H. 823 (A. D. 1420), on fol. 347b.

950. Maulânâ Muḥtasham, the well-known poet (died A. H. 996=A. D. 1588, see Bodleian Cat., No. 1050, and Rieu ii. p. 665), on fol. 348a.

951. Mîr Muḥammad Taḳî Marwârîd, lived in the Dakhan, a good calligrapher and poet, on fol. 348b.

952. Maulânâ Ḍiyâ-aldîn, wrote mostly rubâ'îs, on fol. 348b.

953. Rukn-aldîn Mas'ûd, a poet of the time of Shâh 'Abbâs I (he used, according to the Âtashkada, Bodleian Cat., col. 282, No. 589, the takhalluṣ Masîḥ, comp. also Rieu ii. p. 688), on fol. 349a.

954. Mîr Ḥaidar Rafîḳî (so distinctly in this and the following copy رفيقى, but the more correct takhalluṣ is Rafî'î, رفيعى), see Âtashkada, in Bodleian Cat., col. 282, No. 571, with the additional title of Mu'ammâ), famous by his ta'rîkhs and riddles; there are quoted here among others a ta'rîkh on Shâh Isma'îl II's accession and death (the last bait of which runs thus: the first three words of the first hemistich giving A. H. 984, the first three words of the second A. H. 985), and also a ta'rîkh on the completion of Shaikh Faiḍî's well-known تفسير غير منقوط or commentary on the Ḳurân, which contains no letters with diacritical points, viz. Sûrah 112, the numerical value of all the words of which is equal to 1002 (A. H. 1002=A. D. 1593, 1594). He is also renowned by the clever way in which he used to match words of exactly the same numerical value, for instance, عالم and فانى, 'world' and 'transitory' (both =141); اصفهان and قلمزن, 'Iṣfahân' and 'writer,' with reference to the great number of clever authors born there (both=227); يزد and زوجه, 'Yazd' and 'wife,' probably on account of the beauty of the women of that town (both=21); كاشان and عقرب, 'Kâshân' and 'scorpion,' scorpions abounding in that city according to Yâḳût (both=372); ساوه and پيس, 'Sâwa' and 'vile' (both=72); ساوجى and سگ, 'inhabitant of Sâwa' and 'dog' (both=80); محبوب and ناز, 'sweetheart' and 'coquetry' (both=58); شاه and قهّار, 'Shâh' and 'conqueror' (both=306); جهان پناه and طهماسپ, '(Shâh) Ṭahmâsp' and 'the world's refuge' (both=117); شاه and نجف شاه عبّاس, 'Shâh 'Abbâs' and 'Shâh of Najaf,' where the tomb of 'Alî, the Shî'ite sanctuary, is found (both=439); خواب and راحت, 'sleep' and 'rest' (both=609); ابو القاسم and ملك يوم الدين, 'Abû-alḳâsim' (probably Shaikh Najm-aldîn Abû-alḳâsim of Ḥillah, the great ecclesiastical authority amongst the Shî'ites, who died A. H. 676=A. D. 1277) and 'the king of the judgment-day' (both =241); مست and شرّ, 'drunk' and 'wicked' (both=500); عاق and عاصى, 'refractory' and 'rebellious' (both=171); سقرى and شيطان, 'the dweller in hell' and 'Satan' (both=370), on fol. 349b.

شهنشاه روى زمين گشت ثبت

شهنشاه زير زمين شد رقم

955. Amîr Muḥammad Hâshim, with the takhalluṣ Sanjar, son of the preceding Mîr Ḥaidar and superior to his father in the sweetness and eloquence of his poetry; he also wrote occasionally ta'rîkhs and riddles, on fol. 350a.

956. Amîr Ḥusainî, nephew of the same Mîr Ḥaidar (who is again called here distinctly Rafîḳî), wrote likewise poetry, on fol. 350b.

957. Mirzâ Rafî'-aldîn, a poet, on fol. 350b.

958. Maulânâ Ṣaifûr (صيفور distinctly here in text and index; more correctly in the following copy Ṭaifûr, طيفور), composed verses at the request of the Ṣafawî prince, Sulṭân Muṣṭafâ Mirzâ, on fol. 350b.

959. Dâ'î, the brother of Malik (see No. 999 below), a poet, on fol. 350b.

960. Maulânâ Fahmî, likewise a poet, on fol. 350b.

961. Maulânâ Ḥâtim, wrote some neat verses, on fol. 350b.

962. Shujâ', who towards the end of his life wrote a satire upon the governor of Khurâsân and was obliged to take to flight; he went to Iṣfahân, where he hid himself for the remainder of his days, on fol. 351a.

963. Maulânâ Ḥaidar Dhihnî, a poet who lived the greater part of his life in the Dakhan, on fol. 351b.

964. Riḍâ'î, a poet, on fol. 351b.

965. Adham, of whom a rubâ'î is quoted here, on fol. 352a.

966. Sharîf, a poet, on fol. 352a.

967. Maḳṣûd (in the following copy Maḳṣûdî), one of the gossiping writers of Kâshân, on fol. 352b.

968. Muḥammad Ḳâsim Kisrâ (كسرى), a grandson of Ahlî Shîrâzî (who died A. H. 942=A. D. 1535, 1536, see Bodleian Cat., Nos. 1027 and 1028), and poet, on fol. 352b.

969. Ḥayâti, wrote many poems in the dialect of Kâshân, on fol. 352b.

970. Ṣâni'i, a poet who led a very sad life; towards the end of his days he went to India, but died in Lâhûr before he could settle there, on fol. 352b.

Jarbâdḳân, on fol. 353a:

971. Najîb-aldîn, is stated here to have died under the (last) Saljûḳs and to have been a panegyrist of the Amîrs of the fortress of وساق (وشاق ? Washâḳ in the province of Iṣfahân); comp. on him A. Sprenger, Catal., p. 513, and W. Pertsch, Berlin Cat., p. 710, foot-note, where he is called a contemporary of Ẓahîr Fâryâbî (who died A.H. 598=A.D. 1202, see Bodleian Cat., Nos. 582–584), on fol. 353a.

972. Muḥammad Yûsuf, of whom one rubâ'î is quoted, on fol. 353b.

Kamrah, on fol. 353b:

973. Maulânâ 'Alî Naḳî, a poet, on fol. 353b.

974. Ulfatî, brother of 'Alî Naḳî, wrote also occasionally poetry, on fol. 354a.

Khwânsâr, on fol. 354a:

975. Shâh-i-Karam, a poet, on fol. 354b.

976. Zulâlî (the famous mathnawî-writer under Shâh 'Abbâs, who died A.H. 1025, 1026, or 1031=A.D. 1616, 1617, or 1622; see Bodleian Cat., Nos. 1081–1084; the Khulâṣat-alkalâm, No. 32, ib. col. 297; the Khulâṣat-alafkâr, No. 116, ib. col. 306, etc.); only a few baits are quoted here, and none of his mathnawîs is mentioned by name, on fol. 354b.

977. Ṭâbi'î, of whom some verses composed in the prime of his youth are quoted here, on fol. 354b.

978. Ṭâ'ati, a poet, of whom one rubâ'î is given, on fol. 354b.

979. Surûdî, musician and poet, on fol. 355a.

980. Bâbâ Shûkhî, excelled in various arts and handicrafts, was a clever stone-cutter, a good lute-player, and an occasional poet, on fol. 355a.

981. Shâh Murâd, a writer in prose and verse, on fol. 355a.

982. Tâjî (تاجی, so here in text and index, in the following copy Nâjî, ناجی), a poet, son of Maulânâ Ḥasan, who enjoyed a great reputation and authority among the people of Kâshân in the time of Sulṭân Muḥammad Ṣafawî (see Nos. 883–885 above), on fol. 355a.

983. Taṣnîfî, a rubâ'î-writer, on fol. 355b.

Farâhân, on fol. 355b:

984. Jalâl-aldîn bin Ja'far, a clever poet; the extracts quoted are from a mathnawî of his, on fol. 355b.

Tafrish, on fol. 356b:

985. Mîr Ḳudsî, a poet, like the two following ones, on fol. 356b.

986. Mîr 'Abd-alghanî, on fol. 356b.

987. Maulânâ Wajhî, on fol. 357a.

Ḳumm, on fol. 357a:

988. Shaikh Niẓâmî, the great epic poet, usually designated as Niẓâmî of Ganja, since he spent in the latter town almost his whole life; the large extracts given here are mainly taken from his dîwân (the authenticity of which has frequently been disputed, but see Bodleian Cat., Nos. 618 and 619), on fol. 357a.

989. Ḥakîm Taḳî-aldîn, one of the famous men of 'Irâḳ, wrote some poetry, on fol. 359b.

990. Khwâjah Mas'ûd, went under Sulṭân Ḥusain Mirzâ (A.H. 873–911=A.D. 1469–1506) from his native place to Harât, and wrote a mathnawî of about 10,000 baits on the exploits of that monarch; he is also the author of two munâẓarât or strife-poems: شمس و قمر, sun and moon, and تیغ وقلم, sword and pen, and of a dîwân, on fol. 359b.

991. Shahîdî, was king of poets under Sulṭân Ya'ḳûb (i.e. Ya'ḳûbbeg Âḳ-ḳoyunlû, who reigned A.H. 883–896 =A.D. 1478–1491); after the Sulṭân's death he had to flee, as he had made many enemies by his extreme conceit and the disregard he had shown to the verses of other poets; he went to India and settled in Gujarât, where he died; his dîwân of ghazals comprises about 4000 baits, on fol. 359b.

992. Gulkhanî, the nephew of Shahîdî and author of a dîwân, which, however, is not extant; he was a contemporary of Sulṭân Ḥusain Mirzâ, on fol. 360a.

993. Waḥîdî, a poet who went in his later years to Gîlân, and entered the service of the rulers of that country, on fol. 360a.

994–996. Ḳâḍî 'Alâ of Karahrûd (Karaj, see Barbier de Meynard, Dictionnaire géographique, etc., pp. 478 and 488), who occasionally wrote verses, and his two sons, the elder of whom was Ḳâḍî Jahân, who was denounced by calumniators as having fomented discontent against Shâh Ṭahmâsp, and consequently arrested, imprisoned, and taken from Harât to Ḳazwîn; he remained a prisoner in one of the fortresses to the end of his life; his younger brother, whose name is not given (he is merely designated as برادر کهتر or قاضی زادهٔ کرهرود), sought safety in flight and went to Najaf; from there he sent his famous ḳaṣîdah, bewailing man's fate on earth (در شکایت روزگار), to the Persian 'Irâḳ; this ḳaṣîdah, of which a considerable number of baits is quoted here, has throughout the word 'Najaf' as radîf, on fol. 360b.

997. Mîr Ḥudûrî, son of Mîr Sayyid 'Alî Muḥtasib (the police-superintendent), resided about thirty years in Mashhad in solitary seclusion from the world (in the reign of Shâh Ṭahmâsp); at the time of the accession of Shâh Ibrâhîm II (A.H. 984=A.D. 1576) he came for once to the Persian 'Irâḳ and wrote a very clever ta'rîkh on the date of Ṭahmâsp's death and the beginning of his successor's reign, from which sixteen times the numerical value of 984 can be extracted, viz.:

الحمد ایا طبع وفا گسترما
کامد مه یوسف منش آن دلبرما
شاه اسماعیل نامه (text incorrectly نام) وانصاف بعلم
طهماسپ منش مه همیون فرما

By counting either all the letters in each hemistich, or only those with diacritical points in any two hemistichs, or again only those which have no diacritical points in any two hemistichs, one obtains invariably the same number 984; other poetical specimens are quoted, on fol. 361a.

998. Amîr Ashkî, brother of the preceding poet, was attracted by the fame of Maulânâ Ghazâlî (i.e. Ghazâlî Mashhadî, who died A.H. 980=A.D. 1572, see Bodleian Cat., Nos. 1033–1035) to India, but never had an interview with him. His poems exceeded 10,000 baits, but Mîr Judâ'î, to whom he at the time of his death handed his diwâns that he might set them in order, appropriated those of his poems which appeared suitable to himself, and threw the remaining ones into the water, on fol. 362a.

999. Maulânâ Malik, lived at the time when this book was composed in the Dakhan, and wrote chiefly rubâ'is and a ساقی نامه, on fol. 362a.

1000. Hijrî Shamshîrgar (the sword-cutler), wrote clever verses, on fol. 363a.

1001. Âḳâ Muḥammad, son of Mîr Makkî, another poet, on fol. 363b.

1002. Ghadanfar of Karahjâr, had poetical contests with most of the contemporary poets, viz. Ḥâtim Kâshî (No. 961 above), Maulânâ Waḥshî (Waḥshî Bâfiḳî, who died A.H. 991 or 992=A.D. 1583 or 1584, see Bodleian Cat., Nos. 1039–1042), and wrote besides a diwân of ghazals, a mathnawî styled پیر وجوان, containing about 4000 baits, and a پیش‌آمد احوال (a kind of autobiography, as it seems), on fol. 363b.

1003. Mîr Ilâhî, a poet, on fol. 364a.

1004 and 1005. Bahârî and Ḥasan Wahmî, two other poets, on fol. 364a.

Sâwa, on fol. 364a:

1006. Shaikh 'Uthmân Sâwajî, died A.H. 695 (A.D. 1296), in the reign of Ghâzânkhân (who died A.H. 703=A.D. 1304), on fol. 364b.

1007. Ustâd-albashar 'aḳl-i-ḥâdî 'ashar (the eleventh reason) Khwâjah Naṣîr-aldîn Abû Ja'far Muḥammad bin Ḥasan (according to Rieu ii. p. 441, Muḥammad bin Muḥammad bin Ḥasan), the great scholar who is usually known as Naṣîr-aldîn Ṭûsî, because, although his family originally belonged to Sâwa, he himself was born in Ṭûs, the eleventh of Jumâdâ-alawwal, A.H. 597 (A.D. 1201, Feb. 17), and was 9 years and 5 months old, when Fakhr-aldîn Râzî (the great theologian who was born A.H. 544=A.D. 1150) died, A.H. 606 (A.D. 1210). In philosophy he was the pupil of Farîd-aldîn Dâmâd, whose teacher had been Ṣadr-aldîn Sarakhsî, who himself enjoyed the tuition of Bahmanyâr, a direct pupil of Abû 'Alî Ibn Sînâ. In Ḳuhistân, where he stayed for some time, he enjoyed the favour of the Isma'îlî governor Nâṣir-aldîn Muḥtasham (in the time of the 'Abbâside Khalîf Musta'ṣim, A.H. 640–656= A.D. 1242–1258), at whose request he wrote his famous اخلاق ناصری. An Arabic ḳaṣîdah in praise of Musta'ṣim which he sent to Baghdâd, and which Ibn 'Alḳamî, the Khalîf's wazîr, returned to Muḥtasham (died A.H. 655=A.D. 1257) with perfidious insinuations against Naṣîr-aldîn, was the cause of the latter's imprisonment till A.H. 654 (A.D. 1256), when he was released by Hulâgûkhân and became the favourite of that Moghul ruler. It is said by some, that at Naṣîr-aldîn's instigation the Khalîf Musta'ṣim was assassinated. He died the 18th of Dhû-alḥijjah, A.H. 672 (A.D. 1274, June 25), 77 years, 7 months, and 7 days old, in Baghdâd. As his principal works, besides the اخلاق ناصری, are mentioned here: شرح اشارات (i.e. a commentary on Ibn Sînâ's الاشارات والتنبیهات, composed A.H. 644=A.D. 1246, 1247, see Loth, Arabic MSS., p. 133b), تجرید (i.e. تجرید القواعد or more commonly تجرید العقائد, sometimes also styled تجرید الکلام, see Loth, ib., p. 106a), زبدة, نقد محصل, زیج خانی, تذکرهٔ در حکمت (usually styled زیج ایلخانی, see Bodleian Cat., No. 1513), مغیثیه, اوصاف الاشراف (on Ṣûfism), and تنسوق نامهٔ ایلخانی; he also composed Persian poetry, on fol. 364b.

1008. Khwâjah Salmân, son of Khwâjah 'Alâ-aldîn Muḥammad, and renowned as an epic and lyric poet, flourished under the Îlkânî rulers, especially under Sulṭân Uwais Îlkânî (A.H. 757–776=A.D. 1356–1374), and retired from the world at the end of his life. According to Jâmî's statement in the Bahâristân, he was a clever imitator of earlier ḳaṣîdah-writers, especially of Kamâl Isma'îl (see No. 870 above). He composed a diwân and two mathnawîs: جمشید و خورشید and فراق نامه, on fol. 365b.

1009. Muntakhab-aldîn, likewise a poet, on fol. 366b.

1010. Ḳâḍî Masîḥ-aldîn (in the following copy wrongly spelt Shaikh-aldîn) 'Îsâ, the minister and teacher of Sulṭân Ya'ḳûb (see No. 991 above), who complied with all orders the Ḳâḍî gave; for instance, when once the Sulṭân for the reception of the envoys of Egypt and Rûm in Tabrîz had put on a gold-embroidered garment and seated himself on the throne, the Ḳâḍî entering the majlis and perceiving that dress, declared in the presence of the whole assembly, that it was not lawful for men to dress in such a way, and requested his attendant, Sirâj-aldîn, to remove that garment from the Sulṭân's shoulders; the latter submitted to this ruling and showed no resentment. But immediately after Sulṭân Ya'ḳûb's death, A.H. 896 (A.D. 1491), he was put to death by order of the Amîr-alumarâ, Ṣûfî Khalîl. Some poetical specimens of the Ḳâḍî are quoted here, on fol. 367a.

1011. Ṭarîḳî, a poet who lived for about fifteen years at Akbar's court; then he got permission to perform the pilgrimage, and soon after died, on fol. 367b.

1012. Ṣarfî, poet and ta'rîkh-writer, went a couple of years before the composition of this book from the Dakhan to Lâhûr and composed a ḳaṣîdah in praise of Akbar; but since he found no opportunity to deliver it to the Sulṭân, he returned to the Dakhan, went on a pilgrimage to Makkah and died there; he left a diwân, on fol. 367b.

1013. Maḳṣadî, wrote, like the following two, some clever poetry, on fol. 368a.

1014. 'Ahdî, on fol. 368a.

1015. Ḥarîfî (called in the following copy by mistake again Ṭarîḳî), on fol. 368a.

Hamadân, on fol. 368a:

1016. Khwâjah Yûsuf Hamadânî (i.e. Yûsuf bin Ayyûb, the great Shaikh, Safînat-alauliyâ, No. 73), enjoyed in Baghdâd the tuition of Shaikh Abû Isḥaḳ Shîrâzî; he died A.H. 565 (خمس و ستین وخمسمائة =A.D. 1169, 1170; in the Safînat-alauliyâ, A.H. 535, in the Majma'-alauliyâ, 7th bâb, A.H. 555), on the way from Harât to Marw, and was buried in Marw, on fol. 368b.

1017. Abû-alfaḍâ'il (according to others Abû-al-ma'âlî, see Rieu i. p. 411) 'Abdallâh bin Muḥammad al-Miyânjî, with the honorary epithet of 'Ain-alḳuḍât (Safînat-alauliyâ, No. 307), the great mystic Shaikh, who was put to death by order of Ḳiwâm-aldîn Abû-alḳâsim Darguzînî, the wazîr of Sulṭân Sanjar, A.H. 533 (A.D. 1138, 1139). He excelled by his unrivalled works on Ṣûfism (کشف حقائق و شرح دقائق; one of these in Persian mixed with Arabic is described in the Bodleian Cat., No. 1247, under the title of زبدة الحقائق فی کشف الدقائق; his correspondence is noticed in Rieu, loc. cit.); he also wrote occasionally Persian poetry, on fol. 368b.

1018. Shaikh Fakhr-aldîn Ibrâhîm, known as 'Irâḳî (Safînat-alauliyâ, No. 153), the great Ṣûfic Shaikh and mystic poet, who went at an early age to India and enjoyed in Multân the tuition of Shaikh Bahâ-aldîn Zakariyyâ (died A.H. 666=A.D. 1267, see Safînat-alauliyâ, No. 152), with whom he stayed twenty-five years. He married his daughter (by whom he had a son, Kabîr-aldîn) and became finally his Khalîfah; after his death he performed the pilgrimage and afterwards went to Rûm (Asia Minor), where he became the pupil of Shaikh Ṣadr-aldîn Ḳûniyawî (Safînat-alauliyâ, No. 61, died A.H. 672=A.D. 1273, 1274), in consequence of whose lectures he composed his well-known لمعات (see Bodleian Cat., Nos. 1251–1254). Mu'în-aldîn Parwâna, the governor of Rûm, put himself under Fakhr-aldîn 'Irâḳî's spiritual guidance. After Mu'în-aldîn's death (in A.H. 677=A.D. 1278, 1279, see Rieu ii. p. 594a) he went to Egypt, where he was appointed Shaikh-alshuyûkh, and afterwards to Syria. In Damascus he stayed some time with his son Kabîr-aldîn, who had come from Multân to benefit by his father's spiritual advice, and died A.H. 688=A.D. 1289 (others give the wrong date of 707); his dîwân is still extant, on fol. 369b.

1019. Amîr Sayyid 'Alî bin Shihâb-aldîn bin Muḥammad, was first a disciple of Shaikh Sharaf-aldîn Maḥmûd bin 'Abdallâh of Mazdaḳân (in the province of Rai) and afterwards of Shaikh Taḳi-aldîn 'Alî Dûsti, after whose death he went back to his first Pîr; among his works are mentioned here: كتاب اسرار النقطه (so in the following copy; here كتاب الاسرار النقوط, correctly كتاب اسرار النُّقَط), شرح اسماء الله, شرح فصوص الحكم (commentary on Ibn 'Arabî's well-known work), شرح قصيدهٔ خمريّهٔ فارضيّه (commentary on Ibn Fârid's wine-ḳaṣîdah, with its proper title, مشارب الاذواق, see G. Flügel iii. p. 419), and ذخيرة الملوك (see Bodleian Cat., Nos. 1451–1453); he also composed Persian poetry. He died A.H. 786 (in Dhû-alḥijjah=A.D. 1385, January) in Kâbul and was buried in Khuttilân, on fol. 371a.

1020. Abûbakr, on fol. 371b.

1021. Shaikh Abû Barakah, contemporary with 'Ain-alḳudât (No. 1017), on fol. 371b.

1022. Abû 'Abdallâh جاوه يارى (?) Ṣûfî, contemporary with Abûbakr Daḳḳâḳ (who died A.H. 290=A.D. 903, Safînat-alauliyâ, No. 198), on fol. 371b.

1023. Aḥnaf, on fol. 371b.

1024. Shaikh Ḥâfiẓ Abû-al'ulâ Ḥasan bin Aḥmad 'Aṭṭâr, mentioned by Khâḳânî in his تحفة العراقين, on fol. 371b.

1025. Badî' of Hamadân, on fol. 372a.

1026. Abû-alḥusain bin al-Ḥadîm, author of the تحفة الاسرار, on fol. 372a.

1027. Ziyâd-alkabîr, on fol. 372a.

1028. Kahmas, on fol. 372a.

1029. Abû Ḥâfiẓ (in the following copy simply Ḥâfiẓ) Tamîmî, a great traditionist, on fol. 372a.

1030. Sarûḳ bin alakhda', on fol. 372a.

1031. Abû-alfaḍl Ja'far bin 'Alî al-Iskandarânî, traditionist and famous for his fatwâs, on fol. 372a.

1032. Al'amîd alajall Sa'd-aldaulah Mas'ûd bin Sa'd bin Salmân, the famous poet who went in early youth with his father to Ghazna and rose to high rank at the court of the Ghaznawides; the following bait from one of his ḳaṣîdas is quoted here (as a counter-proof to the two verses cited in Rieu ii. p. 548) to show that he was really a native of Hamadân and not of Ghazna:

گر دل بطمع بستم شعرست صناعت
ور احمقی کردم اصل از همدانست

He became a great favourite of prince Saif-aldîn Maḥmûd, the son of Sulṭân Ibrâhîm (see No. 181), in whose praise he wrote many ḳaṣîdas; but when the former became suspected of hostile intentions against his father and was arrested, Mas'ûd bin Sa'd bin Salmân was, as his alleged accomplice, imprisoned too, in the fortress of Nâi, A.H. 472 (A.D. 1079, 1080), not 572, as is here wrongly stated both in this and the following copy. He was released, after a very long captivity, under Sulṭân Mas'ûd III. The date of his death is not given here (it was probably A.H. 525=A.D. 1131, see Bodleian Cat., No. 526); he was a contemporary and disciple of Abû-alfaraj Rûnî (see Bodleian Cat., No. 523), whom he frequently praises in his poems, and left besides his Persian dîwân one in Arabic and one in Hindî or Hindûstânî; comp. A. Sprenger's article on 'Early Hindûstâny Poetry' in the Journal of the Asiat. Soc. of Bengal, vol. 22, pp. 442–444, on fol. 372a.

1033. Abû Sa'd (in the following copy Abû Sa'îd) bin Mas'ûd bin Sa'd bin Salmân, son of the preceding poet, was versed in poetry too and flourished under Sulṭân Bahrâmshâh (see No. 181), on fol. 376b.

1034. Alajall alkâfî Ẓafar-aldîn, a poet of the reign of Sulṭân Malikshâh (A.H. 465–485=A.D. 1072–1092); his dîwân is not extant, on fol. 376b.

1035. Athîr-aldîn Aumânî (Aumân is a village in the district of A'lam which belongs to Hamadân); before Hulâgû conquered Baghdâd he was a companion of Sulaimânshâh, one of the lieutenants of the last Khalîf Al-Musta'ṣim, and wrote panegyrics in his honour; in his later years he wrote a cutting satire on the Ḳâḍî of Hamadân, Majd-aldîn Ṭawîl; he also exchanged poetical epistles with Kamâl-aldîn Isma'îl (see No. 870), on fol. 377a.

1036. Hibat-allâh (in the following copy Haibat) bin Ibrâhîm, a poet, about whose lifetime nothing is known, on fol. 378b.

1037. Mîr Mughîth Maḥwî, a great ruba'î-writer (died A.H. 1016=A.D. 1607, 1608, see Rieu ii. p. 738), on fol. 378b.

1038. Ḍamîrî, the son of Ḥairânî (not to be confounded with Ḍamîrî of Iṣfahân, see No. 896), who was the author of the following mathnawîs: ناهيد و بهرام, شمع و پروانه, and آسمان و زمين, on fol. 379b.

1039. Halâkî, author of a dîwân; was in his earlier years attached to Sulṭân Ḥusain Mirzâ, the son of Bahrâm Mirzâ (Bahrâm Mirzâ was the fourth son of Shâh Isma'îl I Ṣafawî, and died A. H. 956=A. D. 1549, see Rieu i. p. 104b, or according to Beale, Oriental Biogr. Dict., p. 66a, A. H. 957=A. D. 1550), on fol. 379b.

1040. Rashkî, a poet who was so far reduced in his circumstances that at last he had to take the place of a night-watchman (عسسی), the most despised of all occupations, in Tabrîz, and was eventually killed there, on fol. 380a.

1041. Khwâjah Âḳâ Mîr (was wazîr under Shâh Ṭahmâsp, according to Taḳî Kâshî); one of his rubâ'is is quoted here, on fol. 380a.

1042. 'Abd-alghanî, merchant and poet, visited India, on fol. 380a.

1043. Malikî of Sarkân, a poet (died, according to Taḳî Kâshî, A. H. 1004=A. D. 1595, 1596), on fol. 380b.

1044. Ḳaiṣarî, a poet, on fol. 381a.

1045. Sharârî, Halâkî's nephew, came to India in the very year when this work was written, spent a short time at the court, and then became a dervish, on fol. 381a.

1046. Bazmî, on fol. 381a.

1047. Ḥaidarî, a poet who was for some time attached to Mîr Muḥammadkhân Anka (that is, either Shams-aldîn Muḥammad Ankakhân, with the honorary title of A'ẓamkhân, who was assassinated A. H. 969=A. D. 1562, or his brother Mîr Muḥammadkhân, see Nos. 351 and 352 above), but returned to his native country after his patron's death and died there, on fol. 381a.

1048. Mashrabî, a poet, on fol. 381a.

1049. Panâhî, a clever imitator in poetry, on fol. 381a.

Rai, on fol. 381a, and Ṭaharân, on fol. 382b:

1050. Shaikh-al'ârifîn Abû Zakariyyâ Yaḥyâ bin Ma'âdh (i.e. Yaḥyâ bin Ma'âdh Râzî, see Safinat-alauliyâ, No. 183), contemporary with Junaid (Safinat-alauliyâ, No. 29); he went from Rai to Balkh and Harât, on fol. 383a.

1051. Shâhbâz-i-Kaunain (the royal falcon of the two worlds) Ḳuṭb-i-waḳt Yûsuf bin al-Ḥusain (usually called Yûsuf bin Ḥusain Râzî, see Safinat-alauliyâ, No. 208), a pupil of Dhû-alnûn (No. 449) and contemporary with Abû 'Uthmân Ḥîrî (Safinat-alauliyâ, No. 205); his death is fixed here in A. H. 258 (A. D. 872) instead of the usual date, A. H. 303 or 304 (A. D. 915–917), on fol. 383b.

1052. Shaikh Najm-aldîn Dâya (Safinat-alauliyâ, No. 128), a pupil of Shaikh Majd-aldîn Baghdâdî (Safinat-alauliyâ, No. 125); during the invasion of the Moghuls he fled from Khwârizm to Rûm and spent some time there in the companionship of Jalâl-aldîn Rûmî and Shaikh Ṣadr-aldîn Ḳûniyawî (see No. 1018); he died A. H. 654 (A. D. 1256) and was buried in Baghdâd. His two chief works on Ṣûfism are مرصاد العباد (see Bodleian Cat., No. 1248) and تفسير بحر الحقائق; he also composed Persian poetry, on fol. 384a.

1053. Abûbakr Baḥlî (البحلی ?), contemporary with Shaikh Bundâr Ṣairafî (see above, No. 170, and Safinat-alauliyâ, Nos. 250 and 252); two of his rubâ'is are quoted in the مرصاد العباد (see the preceding Shajkh), on fol. 384b.

1054. Shaikh Abûbakr, on fol. 384b.

1055. Shaikh Abû-alḳâsim, on fol. 384b.

1056. Abû 'Abdallâh bin Ḥaddâd, on fol. 384b.

1057. 'Abdallâh bin 'Abd-alraḥmân, on fol. 384b.

1058. 'Abdallâh bin Muḥammad Kharrâz (the shoemaker), who lived many years in Makkah; he was a contemporary of Shaikh Yûsuf bin Ḥusain Râzî (No. 1051), on fol. 384b.

1059. Shaikh Dhar'ah (ذرعه, in the following copy درعه), on fol. 384b.

1060. Abû Muḥammad 'Abd-alraḥmân bin Abî Ḥâtim Ḥanṭalî (حنطلی or rather Ḥanẓalî حنظلی), who was born A. H. 240 and died A. H. 327 (A. D. 854–939), see Barbier de Meynard, Dictionnaire géogr., pp. 278 and 279, on fol. 384b.

1061. Abû Dhar'ah (in the following copy again درعه) 'Abdallâh ibn 'Abd-alkarîm alḳuraishî, on fol. 385a.

1062. Abû Mas'ûd Aḥmad bin al-Furât (الفرات), a great traditionist, died A. H. 258 (A. D. 872), on fol. 385a.

1063. Ṣâḥib Kâfî Isma'îl bin Ṭbâd (or 'Ubâd), a man of the sword and pen, was first wazîr of Mu'ayyid-aldaulah bin Rukn-aldaulah Ḥasan, the Bûyide Amîr of Rai and Iṣfahân (reigned A. H. 366–373=A. D. 976–983), and after his death of Fakhr-aldaulah; he died A. H. 385 (A. D. 995) or A. H. 390 (A. D. 1000; this latter date however cannot be right, as Fakhr-aldaulah, who died A. H. 387=A. D. 997, is represented here as having been present at the death-bed of his wazîr) and was buried in Iṣfahân; he wrote clever Arabic verses, on fol. 385a.

1064. Iftikhâr-al'ulamâ almutakallimîn Imâm Fakhr-aldîn, that is, Abû 'Abdallâh Muḥammad bin 'Umar bin Ḥusain alḳuraishî altamîmî albakrî, born A. H. 543 or 544 (A. D. 1148, 1149) in Rai, studied first under his father, after whose death he repaired to Khwârizm and later on to Transoxania, continually engaged in learned disputations; he died in Harât A. H. 606 (A. D. 1209, 1210). Among his numerous works there are mentioned here: التفسير الكبير (properly styled مفاتيح الغيب and completed A. H. 602=A. D. 1205, 1206, see Loth, Arabic MSS., p. 13b), مطالب عليّة, نهاية المعقول, كتاب الاربعين (with its full title كتاب الاربعين فی اصول الدين), محصل (probably a mistake for المحصول, or principles of jurisprudence, see Loth, loc. cit., p. 73a), مباحث مشرق, كتاب البيان و البرهان (or, as the following copy reads, probably more correctly مباحث مشرقيّة), مباحث عماديّة, تذهيب الدلائل, عيون المسائل, كتاب تحصيل الحقّ, اجوبة المسائل التجاريّة, ارشاد النظائر, ملخّص, معالم, الزبدة (in the following copy تلخيص), شرح اشارات (i.e. شرح الاشارات, a commentary on Ibn Sînâ's الاشارات والتنبيهات, see Loth, loc. cit., p. 133b), شرح عين الحكمة (correctly in the following copy شرح عيون الحكمة, a commentary on Ibn Sînâ's work on physics and metaphysics, عيون الحكمة, parts ii and iii, ib., p. 133a), شرح اسماء الله, شرح مفصّل, كليّات قانون, etc. (all of these are Arabic works; the well-known Persian encyclopædia by the same author, حدائق الانوار فی حقائق الاسرار, composed A. H. 574=A. D. 1179, see Bodleian Cat., Nos. 1481 and 1482, is not mentioned here). He also wrote occasionally Persian poetry, especially rubâ'is and ḳiṭ'as, on fol. 386a.

1065. Muḥammad bin Zakariyyâ Râzî, the great physician, and author of the كتاب الحاوى, the كتاب الجامع, the كتاب الاقطاب, and the كفاية منصور (or كفاية منصورى) which was dedicated to Abû Ṣâliḥ Manṣûr bin Isḥâḳ, the nephew of Amîr Isma'îl Sâmânî (A.H. 279–295=A.D. 892–907), who appointed him governor of Rai, when he himself went into the 'Irâḳ to repulse Muḥammad bin Hârûn, who had taken possession of Ṭabaristân. According to others, the work in question was dedicated to Abû Ṣâliḥ Manṣûr bin Nûḥ bin Naṣr bin Isma'îl (a suggestion which is scarcely possible, as this Manṣûr ruled A.H. 350–366=A.D. 961–976, and Muḥammad bin Zakariyyâ died A.H. 311 or 320=A.D. 923 or 932). Muḥammad devoted himself originally to musical studies, but exchanged them afterwards for medical ones, which he pursued chiefly under the guidance of Ḥakîm Abû-alḥasan 'Alî bin Zain alṭabarî, the author of the فردوس الحكمة, on fol. 387a.

1066. Abû Bashar Muḥammad bin Aḥmad bin Ḥammâd Anṣârî Râzî Daulâbî (Daulâb is a village in the district of Rai, adjoining Ṭahrân; other places of the same name are found, as is pointed out here: (a) in Yaman, usually called سوق الفرج; (b) near Ṭâ'if, with which the poet 'Abdallâh bin 'Umar bin 'Uthmân is connected; (c) between Makkah and Madînah; (d) in Ahwâz; (e) a quarter of Baghdâd), a great traditionist and writer of ta'rîkhs on the birth and death of renowned scholars; he died A.H. 320 (A.D. 932), on fol. 387b.

1067. Afḍal-almutaḳaddimîn Abû Zaid (in the index of this and the text of the following copy Abû Yazîd) Muḥammad al-'Aḍâ'irî (عضائرى; in the following copy 'Aṣâ'irî عصائرى); or, as others spell the name (and that is undoubtedly correct, see Âtashkada, No. 452, Bodleian Cat., col. 278), Ghaḍâ'irî (غضائرى, because his father was a كاسه‌گر=غضائر, i.e. a potter), the prince of the poets of 'Irâḳ and panegyrist of Sulṭân Maḥmûd of Ghazna; he also wrote ḳaṣîdas and ḳiṭ'as in honour of the house of 'Alî, on fol. 388a.

1068. Pindâr of Rai, favourite and panegyrist of Majd-aldaulah Abû Ṭâlib bin Fakhr-aldaulah Dailamî (the ruler of Iṣfahân and Rai, with the name of Rustam, who succeeded his father Fakhr-aldaulah Abû-alḥasan 'Alî A.H. 387=A.D. 997, and was deposed by Sulṭân Maḥmûd of Ghazna A.H. 420=A.D. 1029); he also wrote ḳaṣîdas in honour of the wazîr Ṣâḥib Isma'îl bin 'Ibâd (No. 1063), who had brought him up and shown him great kindness, on fol. 388b.

1069. Amlaḥ-alshu'arâ 'Imâdî alshahriyârî, who according to some authorities is identical with 'Imâdî Ghaznawî, the only one whom 'Aufî mentions in his tadhkirah, but of whom he quotes poetical specimens which in some of the most reliable copies are ascribed to 'Imâdî Shahriyârî (Shahriyâr is one of the bulûkât or districts of Rai); others maintain that the two poets were different persons (see about this question Butkhâna, No. 35, Bodleian Cat., col. 200; Rieu ii. p. 557, and A. Sprenger, Catal., p. 439). 'Imâdî Shahriyârî, according to the allusions made in his own poems, of which about 2000 baits have been preserved, flourished under Sulṭân Ṭughrul III Saljûḳî (A.H. 571–590=A.D. 1176–1194), whom he has eulogised in several ḳaṣîdas, on fol. 389a.

1070. Imâm-alajall 'Alâ-aldîn Khuwârî (Khuwâr is situated in the province of Rai), wrote a few verses, on fol. 391b.

1071. Malik-alkalâm Faḍl-allâh alkhuwârî, contemporary with the Khwârizmshâh Tukush (A.H. 568–596=A.D. 1172, 1173–1200); he composed occasionally poetry, on fol. 391b.

1072. Mafkhar-alshu'arâ Abû-almafâkhir, a poet of the time of Sulṭân Mas'ûd bin Muḥammad bin Malikshâh (A.H. 529–547=A.D. 1134–1152); according to Barbier de Meynard, Dictionnaire géogr., p. 213, he also was born in Khuwâr, on fol. 392a.

1073. Ashraf-alshu'arâ Badr-aldîn alḳiwâmî Râzî, a poet of the Saljûḳs (as 'Aufî states), who derived his takhalluṣ from Ḳiwâm-aldîn Ṭughrâ'î, to whom he was closely attached; his poetical compositions are very rare now, on fol. 392a.

1074. Mas'ûd Râzî, a panegyrist of Sulṭân Mas'ûd of Ghazna (A.H. 421–432=A.D. 1030–1040), on fol. 393a.

1075. Dihkhudâi Abû-alma'âlî, a panegyrist of the Saljûḳs, whose dîwân is no longer extant, on fol. 393b.

1076. Maulânâ Ḳuṭb-aldîn, under Sulṭân Abû Sa'îd Bahâdurkhân Îlkhânî (A.H. 716–736=A.D. 1316–1335), author of the شرح شمسيه, which he dedicated to the wazîr Khwâjah Ghiyâth-aldîn Muḥammad (see No. 940), the son of Khwâjah Rashîd (the author of the جامع التواريخ, see No. 17 in this Cat.), on fol. 394b.

1077. Sayyid Muḥammad Nûrbakhsh, came at an early age to Rai and settled in a village close by, where he rose to great influence and obtained many pupils and adherents, on fol. 394b.

1078. Sayyid Ja'far, eldest son of the preceding Sayyid, came to Harât under Sulṭân Ḥusain Mirzâ, where the Amîrs and other prominent men tried to retain him by the offer of splendid presents; but he refused and went to 'Arabistân, where he spent the remainder of his life in pious meditations; he also wrote occasionally poetry, on fol. 394b.

1079. Shâh Ḳâsim, another son of Muḥammad Nûrbakhsh, went likewise under Sulṭân Ḥusain Mirzâ to Khurâsân and found favour with that monarch; after some time he got permission to return to his native place, where he was greatly honoured by Shâh Isma'îl Ṣafawî. He had two sons, Shâh Shams-aldîn and Shâh Bahâ-aldaulah, on fol. 394b.

1080. Shâh Bahâ-aldaulah, son of Shâh Ḳâsim, went first to Harât and became a favourite of Sulṭân Ḥusain Mirzâ, after whose death he entered the service of Shâh Isma'îl Ṣafawî, on fol. 395a.

1081. Shâh Ḳiwâm-aldîn Muḥammad, son of Shâh Shams-aldîn ibn Shâh Ḳâsim (No. 1079), who rose to great spiritual renown and attracted many disciples, which by degrees made him haughty and overbearing; it was at his instigation that the poet Umidî of Rai was murdered (this event must have happened shortly before Shâh Isma'îl's death and Ṭahmâsp's accession, see No. 1112 below, and also Rieu iii. p. 1091[a], where the exact month is given in which the murder was perpetrated, viz. Rabî' I, A. H. 930=A. D. 1524, Jan. to Febr.). Immediately after Ṭahmâsp's accession Shâh Ḳiwâm-aldîn was brought in chains to Ḳazwîn, the capital of the Ṣafawî dynasty at that time, and remained a prisoner in one of the fortresses to the end of his life; he wrote occasionally poetry, on fol. 395[a].

1082. Shâh Ṣafî-aldîn Muḥammad, brother of Shâh Ḳiwâm-aldîn, author of a dîwân of about 1000 baits, on fol. 395[b].

1083. Shâh Ḳâsim bin Shâh Ḳiwâm-aldîn, who settled in Ṭurusht after the calamity that had befallen his father; he excelled in epistolography, as an epistle proves which he sent to Mîr Ghiyâth-aldîn Muḥammad the Mîr Mîrân of Yazd, on fol. 396[a].

1084. Amîr Sayyid Muḥammad, son of the preceding Shâh Ḳâsim, a poet, died young, on fol. 396[b].

1085. Amîr Shâh Riḍâ, also related to the Nûrbakhshî family, was a great chess-player, and wrote occasionally poetry, on fol. 396[b].

1086. Fikrî, related to the same family, went to the Dakhan in the time of Shâh Ṭâhir (Shâh Ṭâhir Ḥusainî Khwândî, on whose adventurous life compare Rieu i. p. 395; he died in Aḥmadnagar A. H. 952, 953 or 956=A. D. 1545, 1546 or 1549); he wrote occasionally poetry, on fol. 396[b].

1087. Ḳâḍî Muḥammad, one of the Sayyids of Warâmîn (a little town in the province of Rai), was afterwards in the service of the Ṣafawî Sulṭâns; he was a great ta'rîkh-writer and composed at the request of Shâh Ṭahmâsp a clever chronogram on the conversion of 'Îsâkhân, the son of Lawand Gurjî, to Islâmism by that monarch, A. H. 967 (A. D. 1559, 1560), the date being expressed by the hemistich عیسی لوند شد مسلمان از صدق, on fol. 397[a].

1088. Ḳâḍî 'Aṭâ-allâh, the brother of the preceding ḳâḍî, also renowned by ta'rîkhs; two of the best known are on the peace concluded between Shâh Ṭahmâsp and the Turks, A. H. 969 (A. D. 1561, 1562), expressed by the words الصلح خیر, and on the removal of the prime-minister Amîr Naḳî (in the following copy Taḳî) -aldîn Muḥammad Ṣadr from his post in consequence of illness or infirmity (علّت), skilfully worded in this way:

اگر تأریخ عزلش خواهی از من
برون کن از شریعت حرف علّت

(the حرف علّت is the weak letter ی, by the removal of which from the middle of the word شریعت the date A. H. 970=A. D. 1562, 1563, is obtained), on fol. 397[b].

1089. Ḳâḍî 'Abdallâh, eldest son of Ḳâḍî Muḥammad (No. 1087), lived some time at Shîrâz, but returned afterwards to his native place and lived there as a very successful dihḳân or landed proprietor; he was a good poet and musician, on fol. 397[b].

1090. Ḳâḍî Sadîd, another son of Ḳâḍî Muḥammad, on fol. 397[b].

1091. Mîr Rukn-aldîn, a poet, on fol. 397[b].

1092. Mîr Muḥammad Ḳâsim, a poet, who was for some time a companion of Âṣafkhân (probably the same who continued the تأریخ الفی, see Nos. 110–118 in this Cat.), on fol. 398[a].

1093. Ḳâḍî 'Ahdî, a rubâ'î of whom is quoted here, on fol. 398[b].

1094. Amîr 'Inâyat-allâh, one of the superintendents or overseers (متولّی) of the sepulchre or holy shrine of the Imâmzâda 'Abd-al'aẓîm, whose father Ḥasan bin Zaid bin Imâm Ḥasan (bin 'Alî bin Abû Ṭâlib the fourth Khalîf) had first been Amîr of Madînah, had then exercised his sway in Ṭabaristân for some time conjointly with his brother Isma'îl (usually called Dâ'î alkabîr or Dâ'î alawwal, the great or first missionary), and finally went to Rai, where he died. 'Inâyat-allâh wrote occasionally poetry, on fol. 398[b].

1095. Amîr 'Alîshâh, son of the preceding Amîr, wrote likewise verses, on fol. 398[b].

1096. Amîr Nûr-allâh, also one of the overseers of that shrine, and an occasional poet, on fol. 399[a].

1097. Amîr Ẓahîr-aldîn Ibrâhîm, a prominent member of the same body of mutawallîs or overseers of 'Abd-al'aẓîm's shrine, used as poet the takhalluṣ Waṣfî (in the following copy Waḍ'î), on fol. 399[a].

1098. Amîr Majd-aldîn Isma'îl, son of the preceding Amîr, used Majdî as takhalluṣ in his poetry, on fol. 399[a].

1099. Shaikh Shihâb-aldîn 'Alî, one of the superintendents or overseers of the shrine of the Imâmzâda Abû-alḥasan, one of the descendants of the seventh Imâm Mûsâ Ḳâẓim, in Andarmân (a village in the district of Rai); he wrote occasionally verses, on fol. 399[a].

1100. Shaikh Abû-alḳâsim, son of the preceding Shaikh, likewise an occasional poet, on fol. 399[b].

1101. Âḳâ Ghiyâth, son of the preceding Shaikh, died very young, on fol. 399[b].

1102. Ḳâḍî Mas'ûd, son of Ḳâḍî 'Abdallâh, who had come from Ḳazwîn to Rai and obtained the ḳâḍîship of that district; after his father's death he succeeded him in his office; he is the author of a work on epistolography, styled دستور قاضی, and also wrote occasionally poetry; he had nine renowned sons in Ṭahrân, on fol. 399[b].

1103. Ḳâḍîbeg, the eldest of Ḳâḍî Mas'ûd's sons; whilst in Îrân, he was a favourite of Shâh Ṭahmâsp; afterwards he went to Aḥmadnagar in the Dakhan and rose to the rank of a wakîl; when deposed from his office he set out on his return journey to his native place, but only reached Lâr, where he died, on fol. 400[a].

1104. Amîr 'Abd-alḳâdir, another of Ḳâḍî Mas'ûd's sons, was under Shâh Ṭahmâsp five years ḳâḍî of Tabrîz; A. H. 989 (A. D. 1581) he was killed in Rai (the ta'rîkh on his death, however, viz. آه شهید میر عبد القادر, gives A. H. 987=A. D. 1579), on fol. 400[a].

1105. Amîr Mu'izz-aldîn Malik, a third son of Ḳâḍî Mas'ûd and his successor in office, on fol. 400[a].

1106. Amîr Tâj-aldîn Ḥasan, a fourth son of Ḳâḍî Mas'ûd, studied first in Shîrâz under Mirzâ Jân (i.e. Ḥabîb-allâh Shîrâzî, who died A. H. 994=A. D. 1586), afterwards in Karbalâ and Najaf under Maulânâ Aḥmad Ardabîlî; he afterwards returned to his native town; he is the author of a حاشیهٔ مطالع (glosses on the مطالع الانوار on logic by Maḥmûd bin Abûbakr Urmawî, who died A. H. 682=A. D. 1283, 1284, a work on which also Mirzâ Jân, Tâj-aldîn's teacher, has exercised his ingenuity, see Loth, Arabic MSS., p. 145[a]) and of glosses on the اصول or dogmas (حاشیه بر علم اصول), on fol. 400[b].

1107. Amîr Ja'far, a fifth son of Ḳâḍî Mas'ûd and likewise a pupil of Mirzâ Jân; he excelled particularly in the art of divination, called جفر, on fol. 400[b].

1108. Amîr Ḳâḍî, a sixth son of Ḳâḍî Mas'ûd, went to India and entered Akbar's service; but as his career was not prosperous, he left for the Dakhan, where his eldest brother (No. 1103) occupied for some time a high position. Unsuccessful even there he returned to his native country; he was a clever poet, on fol. 400[b].

1109. Amîr Zain-al'âbidîn, a seventh son of Ḳâḍî Mas'ûd, wrote likewise now and then poetry, on fol. 401[a].

1110. Amîr Shams-aldîn 'Alî, an eighth son of Ḳâḍî Mas'ûd, was an occasional poet too, on fol. 401[a].

1111. Mîr Abû Turâb, the ninth and youngest son of Ḳâḍî Mas'ûd, a clever poet, on fol. 401[a].

1112. Maulânâ Umîdî, studied in Shîrâz; in A. H. 927 (A. D. 1521) he accompanied Dûrmishkhân to Harât, the capital of Khurâsân, and two years later he returned to Rai, where he soon after was murdered (see No. 1081 above); the ta'rîkh on his death by Maulânâ Nâmî, one of his pupils, as given here, represents the wrong date 925: آه از خون ناحق من آه; of Umîdî's poems there are still extant seventeen ḳaṣîdas, three ghazals, a ساقی نامه, and some ḳiṭ'as and rubâ'îs, on fol. 401[a].

1113. Khwâjah Muḥammad Ṭâhir, Umîdî's son, who also wrote occasionally poetry, on fol. 402[b].

1114. Khwâjah Muḥammad Sharîf Hijrî (according to Ilâhî a nephew of Umîdî, see A. Sprenger, Catal., p. 87), who went after his father's death to Khurâsân and became wazîr of the governor of that country, Muḥammadkhân Sharaf Ughlu Taklû (here designated as Tâtâr Sulṭân Walad Muḥammadkhân Sharaf-aldîn Ughlu, who was appointed to that post in A. H. 941 = A. D. 1534, 1535, comp. Rieu i. p. 15[b]); he served in the same capacity Muḥammadkhân's son, and after the latter's death he entered Shâh Ṭahmâsp's service, first for seven years as wazîr of Yazd, Abarḳûh, etc.; and later on as wazîr of Iṣfahân; the ta'rîkh of his death, composed by Ḍamîrî (of Iṣfahân), is: گردید یکی کم زملاذ وزرا (one to be deducted from the numerical value of ملاذ وزرا, which is 985 = A. H. 984, A. D. 1576, 1577); he left a dîwân, which the author of this book, however, had not seen; some specimens are quoted, on fol. 402[b].

1115. Khwâjah Ghiyâth-aldîn Muḥammad, son of the preceding wazîr and poet, still alive at the time when this work was composed (he was the father of the famous Nûrjahân, and under the title of I'timâd-aldaulah wazîr of the emperor Jahângîr), on fol. 403[a].

1116. Khwâjah Muḥammad Ṭâhir Waṣlî, another son of Muḥammad Sharîf Hijrî, likewise alive at that time; he composed some good poetry, on fol. 403[b].

1117. Khwâjah Mirzâ Aḥmad, brother of Muḥammad Sharîf and father of the author of this work, Amîn Aḥmad Râzî; he was in great favour with Shâh Ṭahmâsp and for some years kalântar or prefect of Rai, on fol. 403[b].

1118. Khwâjah Khwâjagî, another brother of Muḥammad Sharîf, wrote occasionally poetry, for instance, a rubâ'î in honour of Asadbeg Mustaufî Muḥammadkhân Sharaf-aldîn Ughlu (no doubt the same governor of Khurâsân mentioned above in No. 1114), on fol. 404[a].

1119. Khwâjah Shâpûr, son of Khwâjah Khwâjagî, a poet (who had first the takhallus Faribî or Firibî, according to Taḳî Kâshî Ḳaribî, and was a sister's son of Umîdî, see Bodleian Cat., No. 1072); besides lyrical poetry he wrote mathnawîs, an extract from one of which, در صفت فرهاد (or, as the same passage is styled in the Bodleian MS., داستان کوه کوفتن فرهاد), belonging to an epopee شیرین و خسرو, is quoted here; his death, which of course is not recorded here, took place about the same time as that of his protector Âṣafkhân, i.e. in or shortly after A. H. 1021 (A. D. 1613); comp. also Ethé, Firdausî's Yûsuf und Zalikhâ, in 'Verhandlungen des VII Internationalen Orientalisten-Congresses, Semitische Section,' Vienna, 1888, p. 32, on fol. 404[a].

1120. Khwâjah 'Abd-alriḍâ, a nephew of Muḥammad Sharîf, poet and ta'rîkh-writer; one of his ta'rîkhs is on the death of Shâh Ḳâsim (perhaps identical with No. 1083), expressed by وفات شاه قاسم (= A. H. 994, A. D. 1586), the other on the wedding of Maḥmûdbeg Nâmî, represented in this form: الهی عاقبت محمود گردان (= A. H. 992, A. D. 1584), on fol. 405[b].

1121. Khwâjah Muḥammad Riḍâ, son of the preceding 'Abd-alriḍâ, a poet, who died very young, on fol. 406[a].

1122. Khwâjah Muḥammad Muḥsin, nephew of 'Abd-alriḍâ, a poet, on fol. 406[a].

1123. Khwâjah Nizâm-almulk, wrote occasionally poetry, on fol. 406[b].

1124. Khwâjah Ja'far, a good physician, writer of riddles and occasional poet, on fol. 406[b].

1125. Maulânâ Afḍal Nâmî, was attached to Umîdî his whole lifetime and left a dîwân of ghazals, on fol. 407[a].

1126. Khwâjah Hidâyat-allâh Musharraf (or Mushrif), a poet, who excelled in writing parodies to verses of the Shâhnâma, Lailâ and Majnûn, and other poems, on fol. 407[a].

1127. Mirzâ Muḥammad (in the following copy 'Alî), with the takhallus Khulḳî, on fol. 407[a].

1128. Maulânâ Fahmî, had poetical contests with Maulânâ Sahmî of Bukhârâ; one of his ḳiṭ'as, quoted here, refers to Mîr Bâḳir of Astarâbâd, on fol. 407[a].

1129. Maulânâ Muḥammad Sairî, a cousin of the preceding poet, on fol. 407[b].

1130. Maulânâ Ghafûrî, on fol. 407[b].

1131. Maulânâ Câḍî (چاچی in the index, جاجی in the text; the following copy reads Ḥâjî), wrote occasionally poetry, like the two preceding Maulânâs, on fol. 407[b].

1132. Maulânâ Ḥisâbî, composer of well-measured verses, on fol. 407[b].

Damâwand, on fol. 407[b]:

1133. Amîr Ghiyâth-aldîn Muḥammad bin Amîr Yûsuf of Shakarâb (in the district of Damâwand), got his first instruction from his uncle Amîr Fakhr-aldîn, later on he studied under Saif-aldîn Taftâzânî; in Sulṭân Ḥusain Mirzâ's reign he became master in one of the madrasas (of Harât); after that ruler's death he gained the favour of Muḥammad Khân Shaibânî (A. H. 906–916=A. D. 1500–1510), and when Shâh Isma'îl Ṣafawî conquered Harât, he made him ḳâḍî of Khurâsân. Ghiyâth-aldîn was treacherously arrested by Amîrkhân, the Amîr-alumarâ of Khurâsân, and put to death, 56 years old, by his command A. H. 927=A. D. 1521 (one ta'rîkh on his death is قتل بندگان میرك, another, by Khwâjah Diyâ-aldîn Mîram, or, according to the following copy, Mîr, والله شهید و هو یحیی الموتی, out of which و must be dropped in order to give the required date); as poet he used the takhalluṣ Khulḳî; he is the same Ghiyâth-aldîn, at whose request Khwândamîr composed the حبیب السیر (comp. Rieu i. p. 98a), on fol. 408b.

1134. Maulânâ Sâ'il of Âh (in the district of Damâwand), he went in early youth to Hamadân and settled there for life; with the poet Ḥairatî (died A. H. 961=A. D. 1554) he had continual disputes and a continual rivalry in poetry, on fol. 408b.

1135. Maulânâ Saif-almulûk, originally of Damâwand, with the takhalluṣ Shujâ'î, a good poet and physician; in the latter capacity he attended Mîr Sayyid Muḥammad Jâmabâf (the distinguished Ṣûfî and rubâ'î-writer, see No. 639 above), on fol. 409a.

1136. Maulânâ Ḳurbî, a poet, on fol. 409b.

Simnân, on fol. 409b:

1137. Sakkâk, a companion of Shaikh Abû-alḥasan Bustî, on fol. 410a.

1138. Shaikh al-'Ârif Rukn-almillah wa aldîn 'Alâ-aldaulah (Safînat-alauliyâ, No. 132), the greatest Ṣûfic saint after Junaid; he was for some time in the service of the pâdishâh (i.e. Arghûnkhân, who reigned from A. H. 683 to A. H. 690=A. D. 1284–1291), but soon gave up all worldly affairs and devoted himself exclusively to a devotee's life. On his return, A. H. 689 (A. D. 1290), from the pilgrimage he went back to his native town; he died, 70 years old (other authorities give him 77), A. H. 736 (=A. D. 1336, not, as is wrongly stated here as well as in the following copy, A. H. 786), on fol. 410a.

1139. Abû-albarakât Taḳî-aldîn 'Alî Dûstî, a companion and friend of 'Alâ-aldaulah, on fol. 410a.

1140. Khwâjah 'Imâd-aldîn Mas'ûd, was for some time wazîr of Timûr, on fol. 410b.

1141. Khwâjah Ghiyâth-aldîn Sâlâr, was president of the council under Timûr, on fol. 410b.

1142. Khwâjah Shams-aldîn 'Alî, one of Shâhrukh's wazîrs, on fol. 410b.

1143. Khwâjah Ḳuṭb-aldîn Ṭâ'ûs, was for some time wazîr under Mirzâ Abû-alḳâsim Bâbar, the son of Baisunghar (A. H. 853–861=A. D. 1449–1457), and Sulṭân Abû Sa'îd (A. H. 854–873=A. D. 1450–1469), on fol. 410b.

1144. Khwâjah Niẓâm-aldîn Bakhtyâr, became wazîr in the first years of the reign of Sulṭân Ḥusain Mirzâ (the successor of Abû Sa'îd), on fol. 410b.

1145. Najm-aldîn, author of a few verses, on fol. 410b.

1146. Amîr Yamanî (or Yaminî, as the index has), a poet, on fol. 410b.

1147. Amîr Sayyid 'Alî, was engaged in writing a history of the Dakhan at the time when this work was composed; he also made verses, on fol. 410b.

1148. Farîbî, or Firîbî, a poet, on fol. 410b.

Astarâbâd, on fol. 410b:

1149. Shams-alma'âlî Ḳâbûs (i.e. Ḳâbûs bin Washmgîr, the ruler of Jurjân, A. H. 366–403=A. D. 976–1012), renowned by his Arabic and Persian writings; he wrote Persian verses and had poetical contests with Ustâd Abûbakr Khwârizmî; the best known among his prose-works is the كمال البلاغة, on fol. 411a.

1150. Abû Manṣûr Tha'âlibî, contemporary with Ḳâbûs and author of a work, styled سیر الملوك, on fol. 411b.

1151. Amîr 'Unṣur-alma'âlî Kaikâ'ûs bin Iskandar bin Ḳâbûs (the king of Ṭabaristân), author of the famous قابوس نامه (commenced A. H. 473 or 475=A. D. 1080–1083, comp. W. Pertsch, Berlin Cat., pp. 302 and 303) and of Persian verses, on fol. 411b.

1152. Amîr-almu'aẓẓam Nuṣrat-aldîn (in the index Naṣîr-aldîn) Kabûdjâma, rose to a high position under Sulṭân Tukush (the Khwârizmshâh A. H. 568–596=A. D. 1172–1200); he was at last denounced to his sovereign by his rivals and escaped death only by inducing those who arrested him, by means of rich gifts, to take him, before his execution, into the presence of the Shâh. There he succeeded by a clever impromptu poem in appeasing his anger, on fol. 412b.

1153. Alamîr alkabîr Fakhr-aldaulah Mas'ûd bin Nuṣrat-aldîn, son of Kabûdjâma, wrote Arabic and Persian poetry, on fol. 413a.

1154. Abû 'Alî Jurjânî, who gave a clever interpretation of the word بُخل, stinginess (the ب=بلا, the خ=خسران, the ل=لوم), on fol. 413a.

1155. Shaikh Abû-alḳâsim Jurjânî, on fol. 413a.

1156. Sayyid alḥukamâ Sayyid Isma'îl (i.e. Zain-aldîn Abû Ibrâhîm Isma'îl bin al-Ḥasan bin Muḥammad bin Aḥmad, or bin Aḥmad bin Muḥammad, see Bodleian Cat., No. 1576 sq., and Rieu ii. pp. 466 sq. and 475 sq.), the great physician and author of the ذخیرهٔ خوارزمشاهی, the كتاب اغراض (or اغراض الطبّ), here wrongly called an abridgment of the preceding work, the خفی علائی (which is the proper abridgment of the ذخیره), etc. These works are stated here to have been dedicated to Îl Arslân Khwârizmshâh (which is impossible, since that Shâh reigned A. H. 551–567=A. D. 1156–1172, and Sayyid Isma'îl died, according to the best authorities, A. H. 531=A. D. 1136, 1137; the correct name of the Shâh, in whose service he spent most of his time, is undoubtedly Ḳuṭb-aldîn Muḥammad Khwârizmshâh, who reigned A. H. 491–521 =A. D. 1098–1127, and was the father of Atsiz bin Khwârizmshâh, A. H. 521–551=A. D. 1127–1156, for whom, when still heir-apparent, most of these works were written), on fol. 413a.

1157. Ḥakîm Bâlîth (بالیث, in the following copy Bâlît بالیت), a poet who is said here to have been quoted in 'Auft's tadhkirah (in the only extant copy of that work in the Sprenger Coll. in Berlin his name, however, is not found), on fol. 413a.

1158. Abû Dharâ'ah, one of the Sâmânide poets (Ethé, Rûdagî's Vorläufer, etc., No. 15), on fol. 413b.

1159. Fakhr-aldîn As'ad, the author of the epopee ویس و رامین (completed between A. H. 434 and 447=A. D. 1042–1055, see Bodleian Cat., No. 522; Zeitschrift der D. M. G. xxiii. p. 375 sq.; edited in the Bibl. Indica), on fol. 413b.

1160. Lâmi'i, a poet, on fol. 414b.

1161. Faṣîḥî, the author of the romantic mathnawî وامق وعذرا, court-poet of Kaikâ'ûs (No. 1151), on fol. 414b.

1162. Amîr Sayyid Sharîf-aldîn 'Alî, was born A. H. 740 (A. D. 1339, 1340) in Ṭâghûn (طاغون) near Astarâbâd; became in A. H. 779 (A. D. 1377, 1378) acquainted with Shâh Shujâ' and was appointed professor in the Dâr-alshifâ or medical hospital of Shîrâz; he stayed there about ten years and wrote his Arabic glosses on the مطوّل (i.e. Sa'd-aldîn Taftâzânî's commentary on Jalâl-aldîn Muḥammad Ḳazwînî's تلخيص المفتاح, completed A. H. 748 =A. D. 1347, 1348, comp. Loth, Arabic MSS., p. 246). In A. H. 789 (A. D. 1387), when Timûr took possession of Shîrâz, Sayyid Sharîf-aldîn was ordered to Samarḳand, where he remained till Timûr's death. Then he returned to Shîrâz, where he died A. H. 816 (A. D. 1413, 1414), 76 years old. He had frequent scientific disputations with Sa'd-aldîn Taftâzânî (died A. H. 791 or 792=A. D. 1389 or 1390). In Samarḳand he wrote most of his famous Arabic glosses and commentaries, viz. حاشية شرح كشّاف, حواشيٌ شرح هداية حكمت ميرك, شرح مفتاح (glosses on Muḥammad bin Mubârak Shâh Bukhârî Mirak's commentary on the هداية of Mufaḍḍal bin 'Umar Abharî, who died A. H. 663=A. D. 1265, see Loth, Arabic MSS., pp. 136 and 137), حواشيٌ شرح حكمت العين ميرك (i.e. the حكمة العين by Najm-aldîn 'Alî bin 'Umar Kâtibî Ḳazwînî, who died A. H. 693 =A. D. 1294, see Loth, ib. p. 139), حواشيٌ تلويح (the تلويح is Sa'd-aldîn Taftâzânî's supercommentary on the توضيح, which is itself a commentary, composed on his 'principles of jurisprudence,' or تنقيح, by the author himself, 'Ubaid-allâh bin Mas'ûd Maḥbûbî Ḥanafî, who died A. H. 747=A. D. 1346, 1347, see Loth, ib. p. 79), شرح مواقف (commentary on the كتاب المواقف, or system of scholastic theology, by 'Aḍud-aldîn Îjî, who died A. H. 756=A. D. 1355, see Loth, ib. p. 114), حاشيةٌ شرح تجريد اصفهانى (or simply حاشية التجريد, glosses on Shams-aldîn Maḥmûd Iṣfahânî's (died A. H. 749=A. D. 1348) commentary on the تجريد القواعد, Naṣîr-aldîn Ṭûsî's compendium of metaphysics and Muḥammadan faith, see Loth, ib. p. 106), حاشيةٌ شرح طوالع اصفهانى (glosses on the same Iṣfahânî's commentary on the طوالع الانوار, or compendium of scholastic theology by Nâṣir-aldîn 'Abdallâh Baiḍâwî, who died A. H. 685=A. D. 1286, see Loth, ib. p. 111), حاشيه بر شرح مطالع مولانا قطب الدين رازى (Ḳuṭb-aldîn Muḥammad Râzî, see No. 1076 above, died A. H. 766= A. D. 1364, 1365), شرح تذكرة (commentary on Naṣîr-aldîn Ṭûsî's تذكرة, or elements of astronomy, see Loth, ib. p. 218), شرح چغمينى (a commentary on the ملخّص, or compendium of astronomy, by Maḥmûd bin Muḥammad bin 'Umar Caḳmînî, or Caghmînî, resp. Jaghmînî, see Loth, ib. p. 219), حاشيةٌ شرح اشارات (probably Naṣîr-aldîn Ṭûsî's commentary on Ibn Sînâ's الاشارات والتنبيهات), حواشيٌ متوسّط and حواشيٌ راضى (glosses on the middle commentary of Rukn-aldîn Ḥasan Astarâbâdî, who died A. H. 717 or 715=A. D. 1317 or 1315, on the كافية في النحو by Ibn Ḥâjib, who died A. H. 646=A. D. 1248, 1249, see Loth, ib. p. 258); he composed there besides a Persian commentary on the same Kâfiyah (فارسى در كافيه), a Persian treatise on logic (الرسالة الكبرى في المنطق, see Rieu ii. p. 812), and the well-known Persian work on Arabic inflections, styled صرف مير (Rieu ii. p. 522). After his return to Shîrâz he added to this list of publications the حاشيةٌ شرح مختصر اصول ابن حاجب (glosses on the commentary, probably 'Aḍud-aldîn Îjî's, on Ibn Ḥâjib's مختصر المنتهى, or principles of jurisprudence, see Loth, ib. p. 74) and the شرح فرائض سراجى (commentary on Sirâj-aldîn Muḥammad bin Muḥammad bin 'Abd-alrashîd alsajâwandî's work on the right of inheritance, commonly styled الفرائض السراجيّة or simply السراجيّة, see Loth, ib., p. 60), on fol. 414b.

1163. Amîr Jamâl-aldîn, prime minister of Shâh Ṭahmâsp, on fol. 415a.

1164. Amîr Saif-aldîn Muḥammad, son of the preceding Amîr, enjoyed likewise great influence in the majlis of the Shâh (i.e. Ṭahmâsp), on fol. 415a.

1165. Amîr Amîn-aldîn Ḥasan, brother of Amîr Saif-aldîn, on fol. 415a.

1166. Amîr Taḳî-aldîn Muḥammad, son of the preceding Amîr, became governor of Astarâbâd, on fol. 415a.

1167. Amîr Fakhr-aldîn Simâkî, was first teacher in and Shaikh-alislâm of Sabzwâr, afterwards prime-minister of Shâh Ṭahmâsp; among his works are mentioned حاشيةٌ هدايةٌ حكمت (see on the هداية, No. 1162), حاشيه بر تهذيب (or as this copy originally had and as the following one distinctly reads: حاشيه بر حاشيةٌ تهذيب, glosses on the glosses of Taftâzânî's تهذيب المنطق, see Loth, Arabic MSS., p. 146), and حاشيه بر شرح تجريد (comp. No. 1162), on fol. 415a.

1168. Maulânâ 'Imâd-aldîn Ḳârî, on fol. 415b.

1169. Maulânâ Nizâm, wrote ḳaṣîdas in honour of the house of 'Alî (must be different from the Maulânâ Nizâm, mentioned in the Âtashkada, No. 324, Bodleian Cat., col. 273, as author of a mathnawî, سليمان وبلقيس, since his death is fixed there in A. H. 921=A. D. 1515, and here is added the distinct statement that Nizâm's daughter, after his death, applied in a ḳiṭ'ah, quoted here, to Sulṭân Ḥusain Mirzâ, who died A. H. 911= A. D. 1506, for a tombstone on her father's grave), on fol. 415b.

1170. Hilâlî, of Turkish extraction, but born in Astarâbâd; he went in early youth to Harât; when 'Ubaid-allâhkhân conquered that city, he gained the favour of that Uzbeg invader by a ḳaṣîdah; but as Maulânâ Baḳâ'llang and Maulânâ Shams-aldîn Ḳuhistânî, who were in 'Ubaid-allâhkhân's service, grew envious of him and calumniated him as a heretic, he was put to death (A. H. 939=A. D. 1532, 1533, see Bodleian Cat., No. 1019 sq.), a rash deed, of which the Khân afterwards greatly repented; of Hilâlî's works are mentioned here only the two mathnawis, شاه و درویش and لیلی و مجنون, as well as a diwân of ghazals (the صفات العاشقین is omitted), on fol. 416a.

1171. Maulânâ Saḥâbî, settled in Najaf, particularly renowned as rubâ'i-writer (he died A.H. 1010=A.D. 1601, 1602, see the Khulâṣat-alafkâr, No. 130, Bodleian Cat., col. 307, and ib., col. 667), on fol. 416b.

1172. Mîr Muḥammad Mu'min, a poet, went to the Dakhan and rose to high favour at the court of Ibrâhîm Ḳuṭbshâh (who died A.H. 988=A.D. 1580); at the time when this work was composed he was in the service of Ibrâhîm's son and successor, Muḥammad Ḳulî Ḳuṭbshâh (A.H. 988–1020=A.D. 1580–1612), on fol. 417a.

1173. Maulânâ Sulṭân Muḥammad Ṣidḳî, a poet, lived many years in Kâshân, on fol. 417b.

1174. Maulânâ 'Alî Gul, a poet at the court of the Sulṭâns of the Dakhan; he died before the composition of this work, on fol. 418a.

1175. Maulânâ Mu'în, with the takhallus of Ladhdhat, a very subtle writer in prose and verse, on fol. 418a.

1176. Muḥammad Amîn Dhauḳî, died before the composition of this work; one of his baits is quoted here, on fol. 419a.

1177. Sayyid 'Abd-alḥaḳḳ, wrote some ḳiṭ'as, on fol. 419a.

1178. Mîr Murâdî, a poet (his death is fixed by Taḳî Kâshî in A.H. 976 or 979=A.D. 1568, 1569, or 1571, 1572), on fol. 419b.

1179. Raughanî, a poet who went to India and died there, on fol. 419b.

1180. Maulânâ Nâṭiḳî, died on his way back from India; two rubâ'îs of his are quoted here, on fol. 419b.

1181. Amîr Shams-aldîn 'Alî, a poet, on fol. 419b.

1182. Nasîm, a rubâ'î of whom is quoted here, on fol. 420a.

1183. Muḥammad Muḳîm, son of Sayyid Muḥammad Dânîyâl, was in India at the time when this work was composed, on fol. 420a.

1184. Ḳasamî or Ḳismî (according to the index, Ḳasîmî; the following copy reads distinctly Ḳismatî), spent his life in the companionship of Khwâjah Ḥusain Thanâ'î (of Mashhad, who died A.H. 996=A.D. 1588, see Bodleian Cat., No. 1045 sq.), an occasional poet like the preceding Muḳîm, on fol. 420a.

Ṭabaristân, on fol. 420a; Mâzandarân, on fol. 421a; Âmul, on fol. 421b:

1185. Shaikh Abû-al'abbâs Ḳaṣṣâb, the Shaikh of Âmul and Ṭabaristân, contemporary with Abû-alfawâris Kirmânshâhî, on fol. 421b.

1186. Shaikh Muḥammad Ḳaṣṣâb, pupil of the preceding Shaikh, lived in Dâmaghân, on fol. 421b.

1187. Abû Ja'far (Muḥammad) bin Jarîr al-Ṭabarî, the famous author of the تأريخ طبرى, the تفسير كبير (i.e. جامع البيان فى تأويل القرآن, the splendid commentary on the Ḳurân, see Loth in Zeitschrift der D. M. G., vol. 35, p. 588 sq.), and other works (died A.H. 310=A.D. 922), on fol. 421b.

1188. Muḥammad bin Maḥmûd Âmulî, author of a commentary on the كلّيّات or first book of Ibn Sînâ's Ḳânûn (شرح بر كلّيّات قانون, see Loth, Arabic MSS., p. 228) in Arabic, and of the نفائس العيون (correctly, نفائس الفنون فى عرائس العيون), an encyclopædia of Muḥammadan sciences in Persian, an imitation of Ḳuṭb-aldîn Shîrâzî's (died A.H. 710=A.D. 1310, 1311) درّة التاج (see on the latter Rieu ii. p. 434; the نفائس الفنون were completed between A.H. 736 and 742= A.D. 1336–1342, see Bodleian Cat., Nos. 1483–1491, and Rieu ii. p. 435 sq.), on fol. 421b.

1189. Shaikh 'Izz-aldîn Âmulî, author of the حسنيّه, a Shî'ite treatise on Muḥammadan faith and duties, dedicated to Ḥasan Nâmî (in the following copy, حسن نامى), one of the kings of Mâzandarân (see on the حسنيّه or رسالهٔ حسنيّه, W. Pertsch, Berlin Cat., p. 246, and Rieu i. p. 35, where no author's name is given), on fol. 422a.

1190. Abû-alfatḥ Âmulî, one of whose rubâ'îs is quoted here, on fol. 422a.

1191. Maulânâ Muḥammad Ṣûfî, a poet alive at the time when this work was composed and a devout follower of the mystic path, on fol. 422a.

1192. Maulânâ Ḳâ'imî, author of a mathnawî, on fol. 423a.

1193. Rafîḳî, a poet, on fol. 423a.

Rustamdâr, on fol. 423a:

1194. Maulânâ Muḥammad, lived in Mashhad, a great logician, who wrote occasionally poetry, on fol. 423a.

Gîlân, on fol. 423b:

1195. Shaikh Muḥyi-aldîn 'Abd-alḳâdir, the founder of the Ḳâdirî order (Safînat-alauliyâ, No. 36), born A.H. 471 (A.D. 1078, 1079), went 18 years old, A.H. 488 (A.D. 1095), to Baghdâd (he died A.H. 561=A.D. 1166), on fol. 423b.

1196. 'Ain-alzamân Jamâl-aldîn Kilakî (in the index and in the Safînat-alauliyâ, No. 124, Kilî), one of the Khalîfas of Shaikh Najm-aldîn Kubrâ (who died A.H. 618=A.D. 1221), on fol. 424a.

1197. Khwâjah Tâj-aldîn 'Alishâh, was first wazîr under Uljâ'itû Sulṭân (A.H. 703–716=A.D. 1303–1316) conjointly with Khwâjah Rashîd (the author of the Jâmi'-altawârikh, see No. 17 in this Cat.); after Rashîd's assassination under Uljâ'itû's successor, Abû Sa'îd, he combined all power in his own hand; he died A.H. 723 (A.D. 1323), on fol. 424a.

1198. Khwâjah Najm-aldîn Maḥmûd (i.e. Maḥmûd Gâwân bin Shaikh Muḥammad Gîlânî), known as Khwâja-i-Jahân, a title of honour, bestowed upon him by Sulṭân Muḥammadshâh of the Bahmanî dynasty in the Dakhan (who reigned A.H. 867–887=A.D. 1463–1482); he was falsely accused before the Sulṭân, who gave orders for his execution (A.H. 886=A.D. 1481). Among his writings a رسالهٔ در انشا is mentioned, by which no doubt the مناظر الانشا is meant, a treatise on refined prose-writing, see Bodleian Cat., No. 1348 (a collection of model letters, styled رياض الانشا, by the same author, is described ib., No. 1349); he used to send presents to renowned Shaikhs of the 'Irâḳ and Khurâsân, for instance, to the poet Jâmî, who thanked him in a ḳaṣîdah, on fol. 424b.

1199. Amîr Najm-aldîn Mas'ûd, one of the famous men of Rasht, who enjoyed afterwards the favour of Shâh Isma'îl Ṣafawî and rose to the rank of a wakîl, on fol. 425a.

1200. Bâbâ Naṣîbî, a poet who was brought under the notice of Sulṭân Ya'ḳûb of the Âḳ-ḳoyunlû dynasty by Bâbâ Fighânî of Shîrâz (see Nos. 203 and 212); he died according to A. Sprenger, Catal., p. 510, A.H. 944=A.D. 1537, 1538, on fol. 425a.

1201. Kârkiyâkhân Aḥmad, the king of Gîlân, who was, after a reign of thirty-one years, deposed and imprisoned by Shâh Ṭahmâsp Ṣafawî, A.H. 974 (A.D. 1566); after Shâh Muḥammad's accession (A.H. 985=A.D. 1577) he was released from his twelve years' imprisonment and reinstated in his kingdom; but he proved himself a very bad ruler, and when Shâh 'Abbâs after his accession summoned him to his court, he did not obey, but began secret negotiations with the Turkish Sulṭân. Thereupon 'Abbâs got infuriated against him and set out to punish him, but he escaped in a ship and went towards Shîrwân. He finally abandoned his project of an alliance with the Turks, and repaired to Najaf and Karbalâ, where he led a contemplative life at the time when this work was composed. During his imprisonment he had exchanged rubâ'îs with Shâh Isma'îl II Ṣafawî, who had been confined by his father Ṭahmâsp in the same fortress of Ḳahḳah as he; he also wrote ghazals, on fol. 425b.

1202. Shaikhzâda, with the takhallus Fidâ'î, son of Shaikh Muḥammad Lâhîjî, the author of a commentary on the گلشن راز (i.e. the مفاتیح الاعجاز فی شرح گلشن راز, commenced A.H. 877=A.D. 1473); Shaikhzâda was a poet of considerable power (Muḥammad Lâhîjî, the father, with his full name, Shaikh Shams-aldîn Muḥammad bin Yaḥyâ Lâhîjî Nûrbakhshî, was a renowned poet too, with the takhallus of Asîrî, see Rieu ii. p. 650; Shaikhzâda died A.H. 927=A.D. 1521), on fol. 426a.

1203. Ḳâḍî 'Abdallâh Yaḳînî, belonged on his father's side to the Nûrbakshî order, and was on his mother's side a nephew of Shaikh Aḥmad Lâhîjî; he wrote some verses, on fol. 426b.

1204. Ḳâḍî Yaḥyâ, nephew of the preceding Ḳâḍî, Ṣûfî and poet, on fol. 426b.

1205. Maulânâ Yaḥyâkhân (in the following copy Yaḥyâ Jân), son of Maulânâ Aḥmad Ṭabîb, a famous physician in Shâh Isma'îl's reign; he was for a long time wazîr of Gîlân, and died in Ḳazwîn A.H. 967 (A.D. 1559, 1560); he wrote occasionally poetry, on fol. 427a.

1206. Ḳâḍî Shams-aldîn, was originally the teacher of Shâh Isma'îl and became prime-minister under Shâh Ṭahmâsp, on fol. 427a.

1207. Maulânâ Niẓâm-aldîn Aḥmad, a great astronomer, on fol. 427a.

1208. Ḥakîm Ni'mat-allâh of Dailamân, a clever physician, had 300 Turkish and Hindû slaves, on fol. 427a.

1209. Bîlah (or Pîlah) Faḳîh, was for some years prime-minister of Gîlân, on fol. 427a.

1210. Ḥakîm Ṣadr-alsharî'ah, son of the preceding Bîlah (or Pîlah) Faḳîh, a physician, on fol. 427a.

1313. Shaikh Imâm Ja'dah (جعدة), on fol. 450b.

1314. Amîr Sayyid Ḳâsim-i-Anwâr (Safînat-alauliyâ, No. 356), the renowned poet, with his original name Mu'în-aldîn 'Alî, of Sarâb near Tabrîz, got his tuition from Shaikh Ṣafî-almillah wa aldîn Ardabîlî (so according to the Ḥabîb-alsiyar) or from Ḳuṭb-alauliyâ Ṣadr-aldîn Mûsâ ibn Shaikh Ṣafî-aldîn (so according to the Jahânârâ). In Jâmî's نفحات it is stated that he was afterwards a pupil of Shaikh Ṣadr-aldîn 'Alî Yamanî. He lived under Sulṭân Shâhrukh several years in Harât, but repaired to Samarḳand in consequence of the advice given him by Mîrzâ Baisunghar; ultimately he returned and settled in Kharjird near Jâm, where he died A.H. 837 (A.D. 1433, 1434), on fol. 450b.

1315. Ḥakîm alajall Ḳaṭrân bin Manṣûr Ajalî, another renowned poet, author of the epic poem قوس نامه, which he dedicated to the Amîr Muḥammad bin Amîr Ḳumâj, governor of Balkh; among the lyrical specimens quoted here, is a ḳaṣîdah in praise of Kiyâ Bû Ṭâhir bin Marzubân (in Taḳî Kâshî's tadhkirah, see A. Sprenger, Catal., p. 16, No. 10, Ḳaṭrân's death is fixed in A.H. 485 = A.D. 1092), on fol. 450b.

1316. Amîn-aldîn Dâd, a poet, on fol. 457a.

1317. Khwâjah Humâm, a contemporary of Sa'dî and imitator of that poet in his ghazals, on fol. 452b.

1318. Îraj, another poet, on fol. 453a.

1319. Ḳuṭb-aldîn 'Atîḳî, a poet, on fol. 453b.

1320. Jalâl-aldîn 'Atîḳî, son of the preceding poet, was in the great wazîr Rashîd-aldîn's service (see No. 1249 above); he wrote some poetry, on fol. 453b.

1321. Maulânâ Muḥammad 'Aṣṣâr, author of the epopee مهر ومشترى (died A.H. 784 = A.D. 1382), on fol. 453b.

1322. Badî'î, a poet, on fol. 454a.

1323. Khwâjah Ghiyâth-aldîn, another poet, on fol. 454a.

1324. Malik Maḥmûd, son of Malik Muẓaffar-aldîn, a writer of verses, on fol. 454b.

1325. Shams-aldîn 'Ubaidî, on fol. 454b.

1326. Khwâjah 'Alî, a traditionist, on fol. 454b.

1327. Maulânâ Mu'în-aldîn, prime-minister of Mirzâ Sulṭân Abû Sa'îd (Gurgânî, A.H. 854–873 = A.D. 1450–1469), on fol. 454b.

1328. Maulânâ Mîr 'Alî, a great calligrapher, on fol. 454b.

1329. Maulânâ Ja'far, a good scribe, on fol. 454b.

1330. Amîr 'Abd-alwahhâb, was Shaikh-alislâm under Sulṭân Ya'ḳûb (i. e. Ya'ḳûbbeg Âḳ-ḳoyunlû, A. H. 883-896=A. D. 1478-1491; this Amîr is left out in the following copy), on fol. 454b.

1331. Ḳâḍî (in the following copy Amîr, by a confusion with the preceding 'Abd-alwahhâb) 'Abd-alraḥmân, was about twenty years ḳâḍî-alḳuḍât of Tabrîz under Shâh Isma'îl Ṣafawî, on fol. 454b.

1332. Shaikh Ṣan'-allâh, flourished from the time of Sulṭân Ya'ḳûb to that of Shâh Isma'îl, on fol. 454b.

1333. Maulânâ 'Abd-alṣamad, on fol. 454b.

1334. Maulânâ Mîrak Kitâbî, well versed in Ḳurân interpretation, on fol. 454b.

1335. Sharîf, author of a dîwân, under Shâh Ṭahmâsp; the chief quotations given here are extracts from a satirical ḳaṣîdah, written against Ghiyâth Kahrah, one of Ṭahmâsp's mustaufis or head-clerks, and another ḳaṣîdah, addressed to the same as an apology for the satirical one, on fol. 454b.

1336. Ḥaidarbeg Anîs, likewise under Shâh Ṭahmâsp, who imprisoned him and put him to death as the alleged accomplice of the rebellious wazîr of Tabrîz, Ḳâḍî Muḥammad Musâfirî, who had gained his position through the influence of Ḥaidarbeg; a few of his verses have been preserved, on fol. 456a.

1337. Ḥasanbeg Shakar Oghlû (شكر اغلى), was on his father's side a great-grandson of 'Alî Shakar of the Baḥârlû tribe, and on his mother's related to Jahânshâh, the Turkmân pâdishâh (who was killed in battle A. H. 872=A. D. 1467); he was a good poet and musician and used as takhallus Muḳîmî, on fol. 456a.

1339. Maḥmûdbeg Fusûnî, originally of Shîrâz, but brought up in Tabrîz and reckoned among the poets of that district; he was besides a good astronomer and arithmetician, on fol. 457b.

1340. Maulânâ Muḥammad 'Alî, son of Maulânâ Ghiyâth-allâh, who was some time Shaikh-alislâm of Âdharbaijân; after his father's death Muḥammad 'Alî succeeded to the dignity of Shaikh-alislâm; he also wrote occasionally poetry, on fol. 458a.

1341. Maulânâ Muḥammad Ḥusain, another son of Maulânâ Ghiyâth-allâh; he was a good calligrapher and occasional poet, on fol. 458a.

1342. Maulânâ Nithârî, a poet, who wrote a ḳaṣîdah in honour of Ḳâḍî Muḥammad Musâfirî, the governor of Tabrîz (see No. 1336 above); but as he was not rewarded for it, he wrote a satire against him instead, and then betook himself to the 'Irâḳ, where he died, on fol. 458a.

1343. Mîr 'Abd-albâḳî, one of the pupils of Maulânâ Mirzâ Jân (No. 230 above); when his teacher went to Tûrân he betook himself to India and entered the service of 'Abd-alraḥîm Khânkhânân (No. 410 above), in which he was still at the time of the composition of this work, on fol. 458b.

1344. Maulânâ Ḥaidarî, went at an early age to India and gained the favour of Muḥammad Ḳâsimkhân Nishâpûrî; when he paid a second visit to India he wrote a ḳaṣîdah in honour of A'ẓamkhân and was introduced to Akbar through Mîr Muḥammadkhân Anka (see No. 352 above); he is the author of a dîwân of ghazals and of a mathnawî in imitation of Sa'dî's Bûstân, on fol. 458b.

1345. Sâmirî, son of the preceding poet, wrote verses too, on fol. 459a.

1346. Wuḳû'î, son of a blacksmith, wrote good poetry, on fol. 459a.

1347. Faṣîḥî, another poet, on fol. 459b.

1348. Ṣabûrî, son of Ḳarâbeg the goldsmith, good writer in verse and prose, on fol. 459b.

1349. Maulânâ 'Urfî Kamângar (the bow-maker), wrote 130 ḳaṣîdas in praise of Shâh Ṭahmâsp, on fol. 459b.

1350. Maulânâ Luṭfî, son of the preceding poet, wrote verses too; he went to India and was at the time when this work was written in attendance on Zainkhân Kûkultâsh (No. 414 above), on fol. 460a.

1351. Maulânâ Ṭûbâ (طوبى), a good poet, on fol. 460a.

1352. Khwâjah Fânî, was an occasional poet, on fol. 460b.

1353. Ḥaḳîrî, wrote a few verses, on fol. 460b.

1354. Faḳîrî, composed some poetry too, on fol. 460b.

1355. Sahwî, good calligrapher and occasional poet, on fol. 460b.

1356. Naẓmî, a poet, on fol. 460b.

1357. Ja'farî, an expert in divination and occasional poet, on fol. 460b.

1358. Ẓarfî (in the following copy Ẓarifî), wrote also some verses, on fol. 460b.

Ardabîl, on fol. 460b:

1359. Shaikh Ṣafî-almillah (alḥaḳḳ in the following copy) wa aldîn Abû-alfatḥ Isḥaḳ, a descendant of the seventh Imâm Mûsâ Kâẓim in the twenty-first generation, and ancestor of the Ṣafawîs; his complete genealogy is as follows: Shaikh Ṣafî-aldîn Isḥaḳ bin Shaikh Amîn-aldîn Jabra'îl bin Shaikh Ṣâliḥ bin Ḳuṭb-aldîn bin Ṣalâḥ-aldîn Rashîd bin Muḥammad al-Ḥâfiẓ bin 'Iwaḍ bin Fîrûzshâh bin Muḥammad bin Sharafshâh bin Muḥammad bin Ḥasan bin Muḥammad bin Ibrâhîm bin Ja'far (Muḥammad Ja'far in the following copy) bin Muḥammad bin Isma'îl bin Muḥammad bin Aḥmad A'râbî bin Abû Muḥammad al-Ḳâsim bin Abû-alḳâsim Ḥamzah bin al-Imâm Mûsâ-alkâẓim; yearning for instruction in Ṣûfism he went, under the plea of meeting his brother Ṣalâḥ-aldîn Rashîd, who lived in Fârs, to Shîrâz and settled down in the convent of Shaikh Abû 'Abdallâh bin Khafîf (Safînat-alauliyâ, No. 144); he also enjoyed there the friendship of Sa'dî; through Mîr 'Abdallâh Fârsî he succeeded at last in being received among the pupils of Shaikh Zâhid Jîlânî; at the request of this Pîr (who also gave him his daughter, Bibî Fâṭimah, in marriage) he afterwards established his spiritual authority in Ardabîl; he died A. H. 735, 17th of Dhû-alḥijjah (A. D. 1335, Aug. 8); his life, teachings, and miracles are fully described in the صفوة الصفا (see Rieu i. pp. 345 and 346), on fol. 461a.

1360. Shaikh Ṣadr-aldîn Mûsâ, son and spiritual successor of the preceding Shaikh and grandson of Shaikh Zâhid; most of the reigning princes of his time had enjoyed his tuition, for instance, Jânibegkhân and his son Turdibegkhân, Amîr Timûr Gurgân, etc.; he died, according to the Ḥabîb-alsiyar (see Rieu i. p. 346), A.H. 758 (A.D. 1357), on fol. 461b.

1361. Shaikh Khwâjah 'Alî, son and spiritual successor of Shaikh Ṣadr-aldîn Mûsâ, on fol. 462a.

1362. Shaikh Ibrâhîm, son of Shaikh Khwâjah 'Alî, who at the end of his life undertook the pilgrimage to Ḥijâz and appointed Ibrâhîm his deputy; Khwâjah 'Alî died on the way back, and Ibrâhîm became his Khalîfah, on fol. 462a.

1363. Sulṭân Junaid, Shaikh Ibrâhîm's son and spiritual successor, who by his popularity roused the jealousy and suspicion of Mirzâ Jahânshâh, the ruler of the two 'Irâḳs and Âdharbaijân (No. 1337 above), and had to leave Ardabîl for Diyârbakr, where he married Khadîjah, the sister of the governor Abû-alnaṣr Ḥasanbeg. After some time he was again compelled to leave Diyârbakr, and on his way to Gurjistân he got, in Shirwân, into conflict with Khalîl-allâh (the Shirwânshâh), and was killed by him (A.H. 860=A.D. 1456, as we learn from other sources), on fol. 462a.

1364. Sulṭân Ḥaidar, son and spiritual successor of Sulṭân Junaid and nephew of Amîr Ḥasanbeg; the latter, after his victory over Mirzâ Jahânshâh and Sulṭân Abû Sa'îd (i.e. Abû Sa'îd Mirzâ Gurgânî, who reigned A.H. 854–873=A.D. 1450–1469), married his daughter, Ḥalîmahbegî Âghâ, to Sulṭân Ḥaidar; the issue of this marriage was three sons, one of whom was Shâh Ismâ'îl, the first independent ruler of the Ṣafawî dynasty; Sulṭân Ḥaidar fell, like his father, in a fight with the then Shirwânshâh (the son of Khalîl-allâh) and his ally, Sulṭân Ya'ḳûb (see No. 1330 above). This event took place (according to other sources) A.H. 893 (A.D. 1488), on fol. 462a.

1365. Shaikh Abû Zar'ah (see Barbier de Meynard, Dictionnaire géogr. etc., p. 22, foot-note), accompanied Shaikh 'Abdallâh Khafîf (Abû 'Abdallâh bin Khafîf? see Safînat-alauliyâ, No. 144) on his pilgrimage to Ḥijâz, on fol. 462b.

1366. Maulânâ Ḥusain, a relation of Sulṭân Ḥaidar (No. 1364), at whose suggestion he went for his studies to Khurâsân; he also wrote poetry occasionally, on fol. 462b.

1367. Maulânâ Aḥmad, on fol. 463a.

1368. Khân Mirzâ, son of Ma'ṣûmbeg, the wakîl of Shâh Ṭahmâsp Ṣafawî; he was a good lawyer and occasional poet, on fol. 463a.

1369. Nizârî, a good poet, on fol. 463a.

1370. Maulânâ Ya'ḳûb, another poet, on fol. 463a.

1371. Wârithî, likewise a poet, on fol. 463b.

1372. Jâmî, author of a few verses, on fol. 463b.

1373. Fardî, wrote also occasionally verses, on fol. 463b.

Khalkhâl, on fol. 463b:

1374. Maulânâ Shaikh Aḥmad Fanâ'î (so probably correct in the following copy and in Barbier de Meynard, loc. cit., p. 211; this copy reads, both in text and index, فناری), Ṣûfî and poet, a grandson of Shaikh Abû Yazîd Khalkhâlî; he enjoyed the tuition of Amîr Ghiyâth-aldîn-manṣûr, Maulânâ Aḥmad Abîwardî, Maulânâ Shams-aldîn Muḥammad Ḥuṣrî, and Maulânâ Kamâl-aldîn Ḥusain Lârî (in the following copy Dârî); he died in Ḳazwîn, A.H. 975 (A.D. 1567, 1568), on fol. 463b.

1375. Maulânâ Faḍl (in the following copy Afḍal), brother of the preceding Shaikh, likewise Ṣûfî and poet, on fol. 464a.

1376. Maulânâ Malik Sa'îd, a poet, on fol. 464a.

1377. Imâmî, one rubâ'î of whom is quoted here, on fol. 464a.

1378. Maulânâ Ḥusain, author of various glosses (حاشیه); the most important are the glosses on the تهذیب المنطق والكلام by Taftâzânî (who died A.H. 791 or 792=A.D. 1389, 1390, see No. 534), on fol. 464a.

Urdûbâd, on fol. 464a:

1379. Mirzâ Kâfî, occupied the post of Munshî-almamâlik for years, on fol. 464b.

1380. Khwâjah Hâtimbeg, a cousin of Mirzâ Kâfî, was first wazîr of Yaktâshkhân, the ruler of Kirmân; after the overthrow of the latter by Shâh 'Abbâs I, he gained the favour of that monarch and became, after the dismissal of Mirzâ Luṭfî, wazîr of the realm, a post he still held at the time when this work was composed, on fol. 464b.

1381. Mirzâ Ṣâdiḳ, nephew of Mirzâ Kâfî, went after the completion of his studies to the Dakhan, where he stayed ten years in middling circumstances till he rose under Murtaḍâ Nizâmshâh (A.H. 972–996=A.D. 1565–1588) to the rank of a wakîl or chief administrator of the realm; but he soon lost both this position and his life; three of his rubâ'îs are quoted here, and one of Mullâ Ẓuhûrî respecting Ṣâdiḳ's fate, on fol. 464b.

1382. Ḳâḍî Muḥammad, with the takhalluṣ Naṣîrî, a good poet, on fol. 465a.

1383. Fikrî, also a poet, on fol. 465a.

Marâgha, on fol. 465a:

Fifth Iḳlîm: Shirwân, with its principal towns of Bâkû, Ars (or Arsh), Shamâkhî, and Ḳabalah, on ff. 466a and b:

1385. Sulṭân-alshu'arâ Ḥassân-al'ajam Afḍal-aldîn Badîl (the substitute, i.e. of the great poet Sanâ'î) Khâḳânî, the famous panegyrist; his real name is given here as Afḍal-aldîn ibn 'Alî alshirwânî; when he wanted to retire into solitary life and could not obtain the Khâḳân's permission to do so, he took flight to Bailaḳân, but was arrested on the road and imprisoned. After seven months' confinement in prison he was released through the intercession of the mother of the Khâḳân, and now went on a pilgrimage to Makkah. This journey he turned to a poetical account in his تحفة العراقين. His death is fixed here in A.H. 582 (A.D. 1186), a date which is impossible, as Rieu ii. p. 559 has conclusively proved; he probably died about A.H. 595 (A.D. 1199). The Khâḳân, who was chiefly the object of Khâḳânî's praise (as here stated), was the Khâḳân-i-Kabîr Minûćihr of Shirwân, who according to the جهان آرا of Ḳâḍî Aḥmad Ghaffârî traced his pedigree back to Anûshirwân in the following way: Abû-almuẓaffar Minûćihr bin Kasrâu bin Kâwus bin Shahriyâr bin Garshâsp bin Afrîdûn bin Farâmurz bin Sâlâr bin Zaid bin Jûn bin Marzubân bin Hurmuz bin Anûshirwân ('Abdallâh Baiḍâwî, on the other hand, in his نظام التواريخ traces the king's genealogy back to Bahrâm Ćûbîn, the rebellious general of Hurmuz IV, who reigned A. D. 578–590). The author inserts here a short account of the successors of Minûćihr, viz. Farrukhzâd, Gushtâsp, Farâmurz, Farrukhzâd bin Farâmurz, Kaiḳubâd, Kâwus (died A. H. 774=A. D. 1372, 1373), Hûshang (died A. H. 784=A. D. 1382, 1383), Shaikh Ibrâhîm bin Sulṭân Muḥammad, the contemporary of Timûr (died A. H. 820=A. D. 1417), Sulṭân Khalîl bin Shaikh Ibrâhîm (died A. H. 867=A. D. 1462, 1463, comp. No. 1363 above; his name Sulṭân Khalîl is a chronogram for his accession, viz. 820), Farrukh Yasâr bin Khalîl the Shirwânshâh (Shirwânshâh is here said to be a chronogram for his accession, which accordingly would have taken place in A. H. 863=A. D. 1459, apparently four years before his father's death; he was killed by Shâh Isma'îl Ṣafawî A. H. 906=A. D. 1500, 1501), Bahrâmbeg bin Farrukh Yasâr (died A. H. 907=A. D. 1501, 1502), Ghâzîbeg bin Farrukh Yasâr (died A. H. 908=A. D. 1502, 1503), Shaikh Ibrâhîm, known as Shaikh Shâh bin Farrukh Yasâr (died A. H. 930=A. D. 1524), Sulṭân Khalîl bin Shaikh Shâh (died A. H. 942=A. D. 1535, 1536), Shâhrukh bin Sulṭân Farrukh bin Shaikh Shâh (nephew of Khalîl and last independent ruler of Shirwân, taken prisoner by Shâh Ṭahmâsp A. H. 945=A. D. 1538, 1539, and died one year after, A. H. 946=A. D. 1539, 1540), on fol. 467[a].

1386. Afṣaḥ-aldîn Falakî, a poet who is said by Ḥamd-allâh Mustaufî to have been Khâḳânî's teacher, but, according to Shaikh Âdhurî in his جواهر الاسرار, both Khâḳânî and Falakî were pupils of Abû-al'alâ Ganjawî, a statement which seems corroborated by some allusions in Khâḳânî's elegy on Falakî's death (A. H. 577=A. D. 1181, 1182, comp. Âtashkada in Bodleian Cat., col. 266, No. 133), on fol. 472[b].

1387. Sayyid Dhû-alfaḳâr, the great ḳaṣîdah-writer (see Bodleian Cat., No. 1333, col. 821, and Âtashkada, ib., col. 266, No. 131; Zeitschrift der D. M. G. xv. p. 755 sq.); some verses from a very elaborate ḳaṣîdah in praise of the wazîr of Shirwân, Muḥammad almâstawî (الماستوى so in this and the following copy; in Âtashkada and Zeitschrift loc. cit. Mâstarî), are quoted here among other specimens. Dhû-alfaḳâr went afterwards, as is stated here, to the 'Irâḳ and became a favourite of Sulṭân Muḥammad bin Tukush, the Khwârizmshâh (A. H. 596–617=A. D. 1200–1220), who commissioned him to celebrate his exploits in an epic poem in the metre of the Shâhnâma (comp. on the doubtfulness of this statement Zeitschrift loc. cit. p. 756); the date of his death, as usually given, was A. H. 689 (A. D. 1290), on fol. 474[b].

1388. 'Izz-aldîn, a poet (was according to Âtashkada, loc. cit., No. 132, contemporary with Khâḳânî), on fol. 475[a].

1389. Abû Ṭâhir, wrote some poetry (this poet is mentioned in the index, but not in the text; the following copy, however, contains this item).

1390. Sayyid Ḥasan Wâ'iẓ, a good calligrapher and occasional poet, on fol. 476[a].

1391. Maulânâ Mas'ûd, one of the court-poets of the Sulṭân Ḥusain Mirzâ, on fol. 476[a].

1392. 'Abdî, of whom a few verses are quoted, on fol. 476[a].

1393. Amir Jalâl-aldîn, wazîr of Amir 'Alî Pâdishâh, on fol. 476[a].

1394. Maulânâ Amîr Kamâl-aldîn Mas'ûd, well versed in logic and author of glosses (حاشية) on the شرح حكمة العين (a commentary by Shams-aldîn Muḥammad bin Mubârak Shâh Bukhârî, commonly called Mîrak, on the حكمة العين, a work on metaphysics and physics, by Kâtibî Kazwînî, who died A. H. 693=A. D. 1294, see above, No. 1244, and Loth, Arabic MSS., p. 139), on fol. 476[a].

1395. Maulânâ Pîr Muḥammad, in Akbar's service, on fol. 476[a].

Arrân, on fol. 476[a]:

1396. Shaikh Abû-al'abbâs, with his real name, Aḥmad bin Muḥammad bin Hârûn alṣûfî, on fol. 476[b].

Tiflis, on fol. 476[b]; Ganja, on fol. 476[b]:

1397. Abû-al'alâ, was king of poets in Shirwân under the Shirwânshâh-i-Kabîr Jalâl-aldîn wa aldunyâ Akhtasân or Akhsatân Minûćihr (so distinctly both here and in the following copy, a mixture of two royal personages, father and son, Akhsatân being the son of Minûćihr, according to Rieu ii. pp. 559 and 567; but in the index, ib. iii. p. 1165[b], the order is reversed and Minûćihr represented as son of Akhsatân; in the list of Shirwânshâhs above, No. 1385, no Akhsatân appears, the name of Minûćihr's son and successor being given as Farrukhzâd); he married his daughter to Khâḳânî, on fol. 576[b].

1398. Ibn Khaṭîb, contemporary with Sulṭân Maḥmûd of Ghazna, exchanged many مناظرات with his sweetheart Mahistî, on fol. 478[a].

1399. Mahistî, according to some of Nishâpûr, according to others—and that seems the correct version—of Ganja, Ibn Khaṭîb's sweetheart, wrote pleasant verses, on fol. 478[b].

Bailaḳân, on fol. 478[b]:

1400. Mujîr-aldîn, court-poet of the Atâbegs of Âdharbaijân, especially of Kizil Arslân (A. H. 582–587=A. D. 1186–1191), who, however, roused the poet's jealousy and anger by bestowing greater favour on Athîr-aldîn Akhsîkatî and Jamâl-aldîn Ashharî. Mujîr-aldîn thereupon addressed a famous ḳiṭ'ah to Ḳizil Arslân. He also attached himself for some time to Sulṭân Ṭughrul bin Arslân Saljûḳî (A. H. 571–590=A. D. 1176–1194). Later on he was sent to Iṣfahân as revenue-collector, where he exchanged bitter satires with Sharaf-aldîn Shufurwah and Jamâl-aldîn 'Abdalrazzâḳ. He was assassinated by an excited mob in a bath of that town (A. H. 594=A. D. 1198, see Bodleian Cat., No. 559). Amir Khusrau in the preface to his غرّة الكمال places him as poetical genius above Khâḳânî, whose pupil he is said to have been, on fol. 479[a].

Khwârizm, on fol. 481[a]:

1401. Shaikh Najm-aldîn Kubrâ, with the Kunyah Abû-aljanâb, and his real name, Aḥmad bin 'Umar

(Safînat-alauliyâ, No. 124), died A. H. 618 (A. D. 1221); among his pupils and disciples are mentioned here: Majd-aldîn Baghdâdî, Sa'd-aldîn Ḥummû'î, Kamâl Jandî, Raḍî-aldîn 'Alî Lâlâ, Saif-aldîn Bâkharzî, Najm-aldîn Râzî, Jamâl-aldîn Kilî, and Maulânâ Bahâ-aldîn Walad (comp. on these Shaikhs, Safînat-alauliyâ, Nos. 125–129 and 136); a number of rubâ'îs by Najm-aldîn Kubrâ are quoted here, on fol. 482b.

1402. Shaikh Majd-aldîn Baghdâdî, pupil of the preceding Shaikh, with the Kunyah Abû Sa'îd and his real name Sharaf bin al-Mu'ayyad; according to some he was originally of Baghdâd, in so far as Sulṭân Muḥammad Khwârizmshâh (see No. 1387 above) called by permission of the Khalîf Majd-aldîn's father, a clever physician, from Baghdâd to his court. Majd-aldîn was first in the service of the Kurd kings and of the Khwârizmshâh, but later on renounced all worldly appointments and became a pupil of Najm-aldîn Kubrâ; after fifteen years he was raised to the dignity of a Shaikh-alshuyûkh of Khwârizm. He was killed during the invasion of Ċingizkhân either A. H. 607 or 616 (A. D. 1210, 1211, or 1219); he composed a number of rubâ'îs, on fol. 483b, last line.

1403. Shaikh 'Alâ-aldîn, on fol. 485a.

1404. Naṣîr-aldîn Maḥmûd bin Muẓaffar, a great Shâfi'ite lawyer, to whom Ḳâḍî 'Umar bin Sahlân of Sâwa dedicated his work on philosophy and logic, entitled مصابر نصيرى; he occupied for a considerable time the post of wazîr of Sulṭân Sanjar; but was eventually imprisoned and put to death together with his son, Shams-aldîn 'Alî, in consequence of unfounded charges against the latter, on fol. 485a.

1405. Ṣâḥib Maḥmûd Balwâj, left his native town in Sulṭân Muḥammad Khwârizmshâh's time and attached himself to Ċingizkhân, who employed him on an embassy to the Khwârizmshâh, and afterwards appointed him his wazîr; after Ċingizkhân's death (A. H. 624=A. D. 1227) Uktâi Ḳâ'ân confirmed him in his post, and after the conquest of Khaṭâ made him governor over that province; he held that position until his death in the reign of Mangû Ḳâ'ân (who died A. H. 656=A. D. 1258), on fol. 485b.

1406. Mas'ûdbeg, son of Maḥmûd Balwâj, was (in the name of Ċaghatâikhân, the son of Ċingizkhân and brother of Uktâi Ḳâ'ân) governor of Transoxania and Turkistân during the reigns of Uktâi Ḳâ'ân, Kuyûkkhân and Mangû Ḳâ'ân, the first three successors of Ċingizkhân; when Alghû, the grandson of Ċaghatâikhân, asserted his authority over those realms, he was appointed wazîr, and continued to be at the head of affairs under Burâḳkhân, who sent him A. H. 666 (A. D. 1267, 1268) on an important mission to Abâḳâkhân; after Burâḳkhân had been defeated by Abâḳâkhân, Mas'ûdbeg left him and attached himself to Ḳaidûkhân, who, after the utter destruction of Bukhârâ and Mas'ûdbeg's madrasah there together with its library by Abâḳâkhân's army, despatched Mas'ûdbeg thither to rebuild it, a task in which he wonderfully succeeded, on fol. 485b.

1407. Iftikhâr-alafâḍil Abû-alḳâsim Maḥmûd bin 'Umar Jâr-allâh Zamakhsharî, the great Arabic scholar, (Zamakhshar is a village in the district of Khwârizm), who obtained his honorary title of 'neighbour of God' through his long residence in Makkah. Principal works: كتاب المفصّل (the famous work on Arabic grammar), اساس البلاغة (on lexicography), ربيع الابرار, الرائض, فصوص الاخيار (on legal and religious ordinances), رؤس المسائل (on jurisprudence), شرح ابيات سيبويه, سوائر, همم العربيّة, المستقصى (on Arabic proverbs), القسطاس, شقائق النعمان, ديوان التمثّل, الاسلام (on prosody), ديوان, مقدّمة الادب, المنهاج, معجم الحدود, ديوان الشعر, الرسائل, and الكشّاف (the well-known commentary on the Ḳurân, edited by Colonel Nassau Lees). After his return from Makkah Zamakhsharî went to Baghdâd. He was born A. H. 467 (A. D. 1074, 1075, the following copy has 462=A. D. 1069, 1070) and died A. H. 538 (A. D. 1143, 1144), on fol. 486b.

1408. Abû-alfatḥ Nâṣir bin al-Makârim (correctly bin Abû-almakârim) al-Muṭarrizî, a great lawyer, grammarian, poet, etc., died A. H. 610 (A. D. 1213, 1214) in Khwârizm, where he was known as the Khalîfah of Zamakhsharî; more than 700 elegies were composed on his death. Among his works are mentioned here: كتاب المغرب, شرح مقامات حريرى, and كتاب ازهدى (the well-known مصباح, see Loth, Arabic MSS., p. 252b, is omitted here), on fol. 487a.

1409. Abûbakr Muḥammad bin 'Abbâs, nephew of Abû Ja'far bin Jarîr al-Ṭabarî (the great historian, comp. Nos. 2–13 in this Cat.); he was himself called طبرخيز (originating in Ṭabaristân), his mother being a native of that country, whereas his father belonged to Khwârizm; he died A. H. 383 (A. D. 993), on fol. 487a.

1410. Imâm 'Alâ-aldîn, a poet, quoted in 'Aufî's tadhkirah, on fol. 487b.

1411. Khwâjah Abû-alwafâ (so correctly in the following copy; the present one has Abû-albaḳâ, a reading which is besides refuted by the immediately following paragraph), a great Ṣûfî and saint of Khwârizm, died A. H. 835 (A. D. 1431, 1432); he wrote a number of rubâ'îs, on fol. 487b.

1412. Maulânâ (Kamâl-aldîn) Ḥusain, a pupil of the preceding Khwâjah, author of the مقصد الاقصى (with its full title, المقصد الاقصى فى ترجمة المستقصى, composed according to Rieu i. p. 144 and iii. p. 1081a between A. H. 829 and 834=A. D. 1426–1431) and of a commentary on the بُردة (by Muḥammad bin Sa'îd Bûṣîrî, who died A. H. 694, 696, or 697=A. D. 1295, 1297, or 1298, see Loth, Arabic MSS., p. 237b); he wrote poetry occasionally, and died (according to Rieu, loc. cit.) A. H. 839 (A. D. 1435, 1436), on fol. 487b.

1413. Pahlawân Maḥmûd Bûriyâ, author of the كنز للحقائق (containing stories in verse) and of some rubâ'îs, on fol. 487b.

1414. Ḥusâmî Ḳarâkûll, a poet, on fol. 488a.

1415. Zulâlî (left out by mistake in the following copy), was a seller of vinegar in Harât, and wrote poetry occasionally, on fol. 488a.

Mâwarâ-alnahr (Transoxania), on fol. 488a; Samarḳand, on fol. 488b:

1416. Abû-alḳâsim bin Samâsh, on fol. 488b.

1417. Abû-alḳâsim alḥakim, a great adherent of Shaikh Abûbakr Warrâḳ (No. 556 above), on fol. 489b.

1418. Hâshimi Sughdi (سغدی, so in the following copy; the present one has, both in text and index, Sa'di, سعدی), a pupil of Abûbakr Warrâḳ, on fol. 489b.

1419. Ḥâfiẓ Abî 'Abdallâh bin 'Abd-alraḥmân bin Abû-alfaḍl Bahrâm aldârami (الدارمی), a great traditionist, born A.H. 181, died in Samarḳand A.H. 275 (A.D. 797–888, 889), on fol. 489b.

1420. Shaikh Abû Manṣûr Mâturidi (Mâturid is a place near Samarḳand), one of the أئمة كلام who split into two sections, the Mâturidiyyah, originating with Abû Manṣûr, and the Ash'ariyyah (according to A. Sprenger, Catal., p. 574, he was the spiritual guide of Sûzani, see below, Nos. 1427 and 1461), on fol. 489b.

1421. Farîd-aldîn Abû 'Abdallâh Muḥammad al-Rûdagi, the earliest classic poet of Persia (see Ethé, Rûdagi der Sâmânidendichter, in 'Göttinger Nachrichten,' 1873, pp. 663–742), born blind in Rûdag near Samarḳand, panegyrist of Amîr Naṣr II (so to be read instead of نصير) bin Aḥmad bin Isma'îl Sâmâni (who reigned A.H. 301–331=A.D. 913–942); he died A.H. 330 or 343 (A.D. 941, 942 or 954, 955), see Ethé, loc. cit., p. 673, on fol. 489b.

1422. Ẓahîr- (in the following copy Ẓahîr-aldîn) alkuttâb Muḥammad bin 'Alî al-Kâtib, author of the سندباد نامه, the اغراض السياسة (with a commentary), and the سمع الظهير فی جمع الظهر (see on these three works Ḥ. Khalfa iii. p. 620, i. p. 368, and iii. p. 629 respectively; comp. also Rieu ii. p. 748, where the title of the third work is given as سمع الظهير فی جمع الظهير); he also wrote some poetry, and flourished in the middle of the sixth century of the Hijrah, on fol. 492b.

1423. Malik-alkalâm 'Umar bin Muḥammad alḥartâbâdî (or, as the following copy reads, alḥarnâbâdî), went to Khurâsân and settled in Balkh, author of letters (رقعه) and rubâ'is, on fol. 492b.

1424. Abû Sa'îd Aḥmad bin Muḥammad almanshûrî, a poet of the time of Sulṭân Maḥmûd of Ghazna (see A. Sprenger, Catal., p. 3, No. 19), on fol. 493a.

1425. Sayyid-alshu'arâ Ustâd Abû Muḥammad al-Rashîdî, author of the زينت نامه (on the art of poetry), exchanged letters and entered into poetical contests with Mas'ûd bin Sa'd bin Salmân (No. 1032 above), who sent him his dîwân as a present; he entered the service of the Khâḳân-i-'aẓîm Khiḍr bin Ibrâhîm, at whose court 'Am'aḳ (of Bukhârâ, see No. 1474 below) occupied the position of 'king of poets,' and a number of other poets flourished at that time, viz. Lu'lû, Kalâmi, Najîbî, Sipihrî (or 'Alî Sipihrî, as he is called further down on fol. 512b, l. 5 ab infra, under ''Am'aḳ''), Jauharî, Sa'dî, 'Alî Shaṭranji, 'Alî Ṭâyidî, Yaḥyâ Farghâni, Bukhârî Sâghirjî, etc. Besides other ḳaṣîdas, some in praise of the Khâḳân Ḳadrkhân Abû-alma'âlî Jabrîl bin Aḥmad are quoted here; the Âtashkada (see Bodleian Cat., col. 287, No. 738), however, calls him a panegyrist of Malikshâh, and mentions a mathnawî of his, مهر و وفا, on fol. 493a.

1426. Niẓâm-aldîn Aḥmad bin 'Alî al'arûḍî (usually known as Niẓâmî 'arûḍî), author of mathnawîs, of the مجمع النوادر and the چهار مقاله, in prose; according to 'Aufî he was attached to the Saljûḳ Sulṭân Ṭughrul III bin Arslân (A.H. 571–590=A.D. 1176–1194); but he himself in his چهار مقاله states that he was forty-five years in the service of the kings of Ghûr, and praises especially 'Alâ-aldîn Abû 'Alî bin Ḥasan bin Ḥusain, with the epithet of Jahânsûz (comp. also Âtashkada in Bodleian Cat., col. 288, No. 745), on fol. 495a.

1427. Ḥamîd-aldîn al-Jauharî (al-Mustaufî, as is added in the following copy), who had poetical contests with Ḥakîm Sûzani (died A.H. 569=A.D. 1173, 1174, see Bodleian Cat., No. 541), on fol. 496a.

1428. Mu'ayyid-aldîn, author of the پهلوان نامه, on fol. 496b.

1429. Ajall-alafḍal Shihâb-aldîn Aḥmad bin al-Mu'ayyid, son of the preceding poet and a good ḳaṣîdah-writer, on fol. 496b.

1430. Ajall-almuḥtarim Bahâ-aldîn al-Karimi, a poet who spent the later part of his life in Nimrûz and Sijistân, where he was greatly honoured by the ruler of that country, Malik Shams-aldîn, on fol. 497b.

1431. Malik-alkalâm Sayyid Ḥasan Ashrafi, the well-known poet (died A.H. 595=A.D. 1199, see Âtashkada in Bodleian Cat., col. 287, No. 733), on fol. 498a.

1432. Ajall-alḥukamâ Abû 'Alî Shaṭranji (see above, No. 1425, where he is called 'Alî Shaṭranji), court-poet of the Khâḳân, on fol. 500a.

1433. Afṣaḥ-alkalâm Amîr Rûḥâni, a poet who was first in the service of Sulṭân Bahrâmshâh (A.H. 512–547=A.D. 1118–1152), and afterwards in that of Atsiz the Khwârizmshâh (A.H. 521–551=A.D. 1127–1156), on fol. 500b.

1434. Maulânâ Jamâl (in the following copy Jamâli), a poet, on fol. 501b.

1435. Khwâjah Karîm-aldîn, a pupil of Shaikh Niẓâm-aldîn Auliyâ (see the Maṭlûb-alṭâlibîn, No. 653 in this Cat.), after whose death Sulṭân Muḥammad Tughluḳ (A.H. 725–752=A.D. 1325–1351) made him Shaikh-alislâm of the realm and bestowed upon him the honorary title of Anwâr-almulk, on fol. 501b.

1436. Maulânâ Ṣadr-aldîn Ibrâhîm, was for some time prime-minister of Mirzâ Shâhrukh (A.H. 807–850=A.D. 1405–1447), on fol. 501b.

1437. Khwâjah 'Abd-almalik, wrote glosses on the هداية (either Abhari's, who died A.H. 663=A.D. 1264, 1265, or Marghinâni's, who died A.H. 593=A.D. 1197), on fol. 501b.

1438. Maulânâ Fâḍil, wrote glosses on the شرح تحرير القواعد المنطقيّة فی شرح الرسالة الشمسيّة, the commentary of Ḳuṭb-aldîn Râzi Taḥtâni, who died A.H. 766=A.D. 1364, 1365, on the famous treatise on logic, styled الرسالة الشمسيّة by Kâtibî Ḳazwîni, see No. 534 above), on fol. 501b.

1439. Khwâjah Faḍl-allâh, a second Abû Ḥanîfah in jurisprudence and a second Ibn Ḥâjib in Arabic philology, on fol. 501b.

1440. Maulânâ Kamâl-aldîn 'Abd-alrazzâḳ, the author of the famous history of the Timûrides, مطلع السعدين (see Nos. 192–195 in this Cat.), on fol. 501b.

1441. Bisâṭi, a panegyrist of Sulṭân Khalîl bin Mirânshâh Gurgân (who died A.H. 814=A.D. 1411), on fol. 501b.

1442. Riyâḍi, a poet (who was drowned A.H. 884=A.D. 1479, 1480, see Bodleian Cat., Nos. 890 and 891), on fol. 501b.

1443. Jauhari, an expert in the arts of prosody and rhyme and author of a poetical version of the سیَر النبی, which he made at the request of Mir 'Alishir, on fol. 501b.

1444. Mir Ḳuraishi, wrote some poetry, on fol. 502a.

1445. Khwâjah Ḥâji Muḥammad, wrote likewise some verses, on fol. 502a.

1446. Maulânâ Abû-alkhair, a great expert in philosophy and medicine and a good poet, went at the end of Sulṭân Ḥusain Mirzâ's reign to Harât and stayed there till Muḥammadkhân Shaibâni, the Uzbegkhân, invaded Khurâsân and took Harât (A.H. 913=A.D. 1507); he then returned with the Khân to Transoxania and was greatly honoured by him; at the time of the second invasion of Khurâsân, Kaskanḳarâ Sulṭân, the ruler of Balkh, obtained from the Uzbegkhân permission to call Maulânâ Abû-alkhair to his court, which he did, on fol. 502a.

1447. Maulânâ Ḳâsim Kâhî, with his real name Najm-aldîn Muḥammad, and the Kunyah Abû-alḳâsim; in his fifteenth year he became a pupil of 'Abd-alraḥmân Jâmi, the great poet and Ṣûfi, and later on attached himself to Hâshimi Kirmâni, who had the honorary name of Shâh Jahângir (see No. 291 above); afterwards, in Akbâr's reign, he went to India, stayed some time in Banâras with Bahâdurkhân, the brother of the Khânzamân (see Nos. 411 and 412 above), and settled at last in Âgra, where he died, 110 years old, A.H. 988, the 2nd of Rabî'-althâni (A.D. 1580, May 17), a date which is ingeniously expressed by Faiḍi in the chronogram, دویم از ماه ربیع الثانی (not دوم as the word is wrongly spelt here and in the following copy; comp. Rieu iii. p. 1093a, where he is called Kâbuli and not Samarḳandi); another ta'rîkh on his death is by Maulânâ Ḳâsim Bukhâri, one of Ḳâsim Kâhî's pupils: رفت ملا قاسم کاهی; a third by Maulânâ 'Ârifî: زجهان رفته قاسم کاهی; a fourth by Mîr Yûsuf Astarâbâdi, خوش طبع, only gives 987. Maulânâ Ḳâsim Kâhî was a great musician and poet, on fol. 502a.

1448. Maulânâ Ṣâdiḳ Ḥalwâ'î, a descendant of the great saint Ḥalwâ'î, called the شمس الائمّة حلوائی, went after the performance of the pilgrimage to India, and stayed awhile in Lâhûr; on his way back to Samarḳand he was detained by Muḥammad Ḥakîm Mirzâ in Kâbul, who gradually handed the whole management of governmental affairs to him; after some years' stay in Kâbul Maulânâ Ṣâdiḳ finally returned to his native town, where he was still at the time when this work was composed; he wrote occasionally poetry, on fol. 504a.

1449. Badî'i, known as Maulânâzâda, wrote some verses, on fol. 504b.

1450. Turdî rûda (تردی رودی, in the following copy تروددی رود), whose father belonged to Harât and was one of the clerks of Sulṭân Ḥusain Mirzâ; he himself went to India and rose to an important position; he specially excelled in the composition of ta'rikhs, for instance, on the capture of Barwaj (بروج) in Gujarât by Mirzâ Yân in A.H. 977 (A.D. 1569, 1570), فتح بروج کردند; on the death of Lâćin Nâmi in A.H. 976 (A.D. 1568, 1569), حیف زلاچین شه دین پرور, on fol. 504b.

1451. Figâri, a poet who lived from the time of 'Ubaid-allâhkhân Uzbeg (A.H. 939–946=A.D. 1532–1539) to that of 'Abdallâhkhân (who succeeded his father in Samarḳand A.H. 990 = A.D. 1582, see No. 574 in this Cat.), on fol. 504b.

1452. Manẓari, a poet who gained the favour of the Khânkhânân Bairamkhân (see No. 409 above), on fol. 504b.

1453. Mir Ḥâshim Muḥtarim, lived in India at the time of the composition of this work; he knew the whole Mahâbhârata by heart, and wrote verses occasionally, on fol. 504b.

1454. Ṣâliḥ Nidâ'î, a poet who wrote a mathnawi, styled عبد الله خان نامه, in praise of the deeds of 'Abdallâhkhân Uzbeg, which, however, did not meet with particular favour, on fol. 504b.

Kash (twenty farsangs south of Samarḳand), also called Ḳubbat-alkhaḍrâ and Sarsabz (سرسبز, correctly Shahr-i-sabz, شهرسبز, as the following copy reads, comp. Vullers, Lexicon, ii. p. 836b), on fol. 505a:

1455. Abû Isḥaḳ, on fol. 505a.

1456. Khwâjah Abû-albarakah, wrote some poetry, on fol. 505a.

1457. Khwâjah Bahâ-aldîn, son of the preceding Khwâjah, wrote likewise verses, on fol. 505a.

1458. Khwâjah Ayyûb, another son of Khwâjah Abû-albarakah and a good poet, on fol. 505a.

Nasaf (eighteen farsangs from Samarḳand), on fol. 505b:

1459. Alṣadralimâm Sharaf-almillah wa-aldîn Ḥusâm-ala'immah Muḥammad bin Abîbakr, who, on his way to Makkah, had an interview in Rai with the poet Khâḳâni and with 'Umar Nûḳâni, the chief Ḳurân-reader of that town; Sharaf-aldîn Ḥusâm (as he is usually called) wrote several kiṭ'as and a famous ḳaṣîdah in praise of Ḳilij Ṭamghâjkhân Ibrâhîmkhân bin al-Ḥusain of Turkistân, who resided in Samarkand (about A.H. 558=A.D. 1163, see No. 746 above), on fol. 505b.

1460. Alsayyid alajall Mufti-al'aṣr Shams-aldîn (in the following copy Shams-aldâ'i) alḥusaini, an occasional poet, of whom one rubâ'i is quoted here, on fol. 507a.

1461. Tâj-alshu'arâ Muḥammad bin 'Alî al-Sûzani, the well-known ḳaṣîdah-writer and satirical poet (who died A.H. 569=A.D. 1173, 1174, see Bodleian Cat., No. 541); he chose his takhallus Sûzani, because, when studying in Bukhârâ, he got enamoured with a young needle-maker (سوزنگر) and became himself in consequence an apprentice of that trade; besides other poems there is quoted here in full one of his best ḳaṣîdas on the unity of God (در توحید), on fol. 507a.

1462. Ḥakîm Jannati, contemporary with the wazîr 'Alâ-almulk, wrote some poetry, on fol. 509a.

Bukhârâ, on fol. 509b:

1463. Shaikh-almuḥaddithîn Abû 'Abdallâh Muḥammad bin Isma'îl bin Ibrâhîm, the great traditionist and author of the famous صحيح, born A.H. 194 (A.D. 810), died A.H. 256 (A.D. 870, comp. No. 737 above, and Zeitschrift der D. M. G. iv. p. 5 sq.), on fol. 509b.

1464. Abû Khâlid Yazid bin Hârûn, on fol. 509b.

1465. Abûbakr Muḥammad bin 'Abdallâh Audanî (اودني), a Shâfi'ite lawyer, died A.H. 385 (A.D. 955) in Kalâbâd, one of the quarters of Bukhârâ (see Safinat-alauliyâ, No. 274, where his father is called Ibrâhîm), on fol. 509b.

1466. Ḥâfiẓ Abû Naṣr Aḥmad bin Muḥammad bin Ḥasan, a traditionist, belonging to the same quarter of Bukhârâ, on fol. 510a.

1467. Jamâl-aldîn Maḥmûd bin Aḥmad Naṣîrî, was professor at the مدرسة نوريّة in Damascus, and died there A.H. 636 (A.D. 1238, 1239), on fol. 510a.

1468. Daḳîḳî, the Sâmânide poet, who began the poetical composition of the 'Book of Kings' under Amîr Nûḥ II bin Manṣûr (A.H. 365–387=A.D. 976–997) and wrote 1000 baits (comp. Ethé, Rûdagî's Vorläufer und Zeitgenossen, No. 19), on fol. 510a.

1469. Amîr Abû-alḥasan 'Alî alaghâḳî, the contemporary of Daḳîḳî, equally renowned as a valiant knight and as a poet (see Ethé, loc. cit., No. 20), on fol. 510b.

1470. Alshaikh alajall Sa'd-aldîn As'ad bin Shihâb, scholar and poet, on fol. 510b.

1471. Alṣadr alkabîr Burhân-alislâm Tâj-almillah wa-aldîn 'Umar bin Mas'ûd, a poet who greeted by a clever rubâ'î the accession of Arslânkhân, the son of Sulṭân Ibrâhîm (of Ghazna, who reigned A.H. 451–492=A.D. 1059–1099), to the throne of Samarḳand, and also wrote an elegy on Ibrâhîm's death in form of a string of rubâ'îs; a ḳaṣîdah in honour of Ḳilîj Arslân Khâḳân (by whom the same Arslânkhân, son of Ibrâhîm, seems to be meant) is likewise quoted here, on fol. 511a.

1472. Alṣadr alajall Nizâm-almillah wa aldîn Muḥammad bin 'Umar bin Mas'ûd, son of the preceding poet and occasional poet himself, on fol. 511b.

1473. Sulṭân-al'ulamâ Ṣadr-alsharî'ah, wrote verses occasionally, on fol. 512a.

1474. Alajall Shihâb-aldîn 'Am'aḳ, who composed a mathnawî, يوسف و زليخا, which can be read in two metres (the statement, given here, that 'Am'aḳ's poem was the first adaptation of the biblical story in Persian verse is, of course, wrong, see Ethé, Firdausî's Yûsuf und Zalikhâ, in Verhandlungen des VII internationalen Orientalisten-Congresses, Semitische Section, pp. 25 and 33, Wien, 1888). According to 'Aufî, 'Am'aḳ belonged to the panegyrists of the Saljûḳ rulers, but in Nizâmî 'Arûḍî's چهار مقاله it is stated that he was king of poets at the court of the Khâḳân Khidr bin Ibrâhîm, the ruler of Turkistân and Transoxania (see No. 1425 above). The date of his death, which is not given here, was A.H. 543 or 544=A.D. 1148, 1149 (see also Butkhânâ in Bodleian Cat., col. 200, No. 41, and Âtashkada, ib. col. 287, No. 723), on fol. 512b.

1475. Amîr-i-'amîd Kamâl-aldîn Jamâl-alkuttâb, an intimate friend of Sulṭân Sanjar, on fol. 515b.

1476. Ma'nawî, one of the old poets (see Ethé, Rûdagî's Vorläufer, etc., No. 10), on fol. 515b.

1477. Alajall Sa'd-aldîn Sharaf-alḥukamâ Kâfî-alnajâ (النجا here both in text and index; the following copy reads Bukhârî, بخارى), a poet of the Khwârizmshâhs, on fol. 515b.

1478. Sa'd-aldîn As'ad, another poet, on fol. 516a.

1479. Ḥakîm Samanî (so here سمنى, in the following copy Shamanî شمنى) ala'raj, engaged in many poetical contests; he wrote a satirical ḳiṭ'ah against Sirâj-aldîn 'Ârif, on fol. 516a.

1480. Bahâ'î Bukhârî, of whom one rubâ'î is quoted here, on fol. 516a.

1481. Jauharî (called in the Âtashkada, Bodleian Cat., col. 286, No. 717, and in Beale's Oriental Biogr. Dict., p. 136a, Jauharî Zargar, the goldsmith), originally of Bukhârâ and contemporary with Athîr-aldîn Akhsikatî (see No. 1528 below); he grew up, however, in 'Irâḳ and composed at the request of Sulaimânshâh, the son of Sulṭân Muḥammad, the son of Sulṭân Malikshâh (of the Saljûḳs of 'Irâḳ, who ascended the throne in A.H. 547=A.D. 1152), an epic poem styled حكايت امير احمد و مهستى; after the death of Sulṭân Muḥammad (the successor of Malikshâh) in A.H. 555 (A.D. 1160) Sulaimânshâh ascended the throne, but only reigned a little over six months; being very much addicted to pleasure and wine he renounced the crown and handed it over to Arslânshâh bin Ṭughrul bin Muḥammad bin Malikshâh (who reigned A.H. 556–571=A.D. 1161–1176); some of Jauharî's lyrical poems are quoted here, on fol. 516b.

1482. Sa'd-aldîn Mas'ûd Daulatyâr, a poet, of whom one rubâ'î is quoted, on fol. 517a.

1483. Raunaḳî, a poet (who flourished under the last Sâmânides and the first Ghaznawides, comp. Ethé, Rûdagî's Vorläufer, etc., No. 17), on fol. 517a.

1484. Majd-aldîn Fahmî, a poet, on fol. 517a.

1485. Shâkirî, one of the older poets; Hindûshâh in his فرهنگ الصحاح العجميّة (i.e. صحاح عجم or, see W. Pertsch, Berlin Cat., p. 204 sq., and Rieu ii. p. 515a) quotes a few of his verses, on fol. 517a.

1486. Khwâjah 'Abd-alkhâliḳ Ghujdawânî, son of 'Abd-aljamîl (see Safinat-alauliyâ, No. 76); his father had come from Rûm to Ghujdawân (near Bukhârâ); when Khwâjah Yûsuf Hamadânî (see No. 1016 above) came to Bukhârâ, 'Abd-alkhâliḳ enjoyed his tuition. He had four Khalîfas or spiritual successors, viz. Khwâjah Aḥmad Ṣadîḳ, Khwâjah Auliyâi Kalân, Khwâjah Sulaimân Karminî, and Khwâjah 'Ârif Riwgarî (Riwgar is six farsangs from Bukhârâ, see Safinat-alauliyâ, No. 77, where 'Ârif is called a pupil of 'Abd-alkhâliḳ instead of merely his fourth Khalîfah). Khwâjah 'Ârif Riwgarî, whose disciple Khwâjah Bahâ-aldîn Nakshband (Safinat-alauliyâ, No. 82) is here said to have been, had likewise four Khalîfas, one of whom was Khwâjah Maḥmûd (Safinat-alauliyâ, No. 78). Among the four Khalîfas of Khwâjah Maḥmûd one is again mentioned, viz. Khwâjah 'Alî Râmînî (رامينى, so both here and in the following copy; Safinat-alauliyâ, No. 79, reads Râmtinî), with the epithet of 'Azizân, who lived 130 years and was buried in Khwârizm, on fol. 517a.

1487. Khwâjah Muḥammad Bâbâ-i-Samâsî (so correctly in the following copy, comp. Safînat-alauliyâ, No. 80; here he is wrongly called, both in text and index, Bâbâ Humâ'î), the Khalîfah of 'Azizân, on fol. 518a.

1488. Sayyid Amîr Kulâl, the Khalîfah of the preceding Khwâjah (Safînat-alauliyâ, No. 81) and spiritual guide of Bahâ-aldîn Naḳshband; he had been twenty years under Bâbâ-i-Samâsî's tuition, on fol. 518a.

1489. Khwâjah Bahâ-aldîn Naḳshband, died A.H. 791 (A.D. 1389); he wrote rubâ'îs occasionally, on fol. 518a.

1490. Khwâjah 'Alâ-aldîn 'Attâr, one of Khwâjah Bahâ-aldîn's companions (Safînat-alauliyâ, No. 85), on fol. 518b.

1491. Khwâjah Ḥasan 'Aṭṭâr, son of the preceding 'Alâ-aldîn, on fol. 518b.

1492. Khwâjah Muḥammad Pârsâ (Safînat-alauliyâ, No. 83), another of Bahâ-aldîn's companions and author of the فصل الخطاب (see Rieu ii. pp. 863 and 864, and W. Pertsch, Berlin Cat., p. 294), on fol. 518b.

1493. Khwâjah Abûnaṣr Pârsâ, son of the preceding Khwâjah (Safînat-alauliyâ, No. 84), on fol. 518b.

1494. Sayyid Burhân-aldîn Khâwandshâh, who traced his pedigree back to Zaid, the son of the fourth Imâm Zain-al'âbidîn (Safînat-alauliyâ, No. 8); after his father's death he went first to Balkh and then to Harât, where he enjoyed the tuition of many great Shaikhs, especially of Shaikh Bahâ-aldîn 'Umar; after the latter's death he returned to Balkh, where he died A.H. 871 (A.D. 1466, 1467), and was buried opposite the tomb of Aḥmad bin Khiḍrawaih (see No. 555 above). He left three sons: (a) Amîrkhwând Muḥammad (usually called Mirkhwând or Mirkhond), the author of the روضة الصفا (see Nos. 24–75 in this Cat.), who died A.H. 903 (A.D. 1498); (b) Sayyid Niẓâm-aldîn, the prime-minister of Badî'-alzamân Mirzâ (the son of Sulṭân Ḥusain Mirzâ, see No. 832 above); (c) Sayyid Ni'mat-allâh, on fol. 518b.

1496. Nâṣir Bukhârî, author of a dîwân (died A.H. 772=A.D. 1370, 1371, see Bodleian Cat., No. 801), on fol. 519a.

1497. Khwâjah 'Iṣmat, son of Khwâjah Mas'ûd, who traced his origin back to Ja'far, the son of 'Alî bin Abî Ṭâlib; he was a favourite of prince Khalîl Sulṭân (Mîrânshâh's son, who died A.H. 814=A.D. 1411); when the intrigues of jealous courtiers separated him from his patron, he wrote a famous ghazal at the time of parting, a few verses of which, besides other lyrical poetry, are quoted here (he died A.H. 829=A.D. 1426, or according to a chronogram in the Makhzan-algharâ'ib, A.H. 840=1436, 1437, see Bodleian Cat., No. 861, and col. 351, No. 1545), on fol. 519b.

1498. Maulânâ Barandaḳ, a poet and favourite of Mirzâ Baiḳarâ (slain A.H. 819=A.D. 1416), Sulṭân Ḥusain Mirzâ's grandfather (not brother, as he is strangely called here, he being the son of 'Umar Shaikh Mirzâ, and the grandson of Timûr, see Âtashkada in Bodleian Cat., col. 286, No. 715), on fol. 520a.

1499. Maulânâ Khayâlî, a poet (who died in Ulughbeg's reign, A.H. 850–853=A.D. 1446–1449, see Bodleian Cat., No. 871), on fol. 520b.

1500. Maulânâ Saifî (i.e. Saifî 'Arûḍî, who died A.H. 909=A.D. 1503, 1504, see Bodleian Cat., No. 984), went to Harât for study and obtained the favour of Mîr 'Alî-shîr; after his return he became tutor of Mirzâ Baisunghar bin Mirzâ Sulṭân Maḥmûd bin Sulṭân Abû Sa'îd (who ruled over Samarḳand A.H. 900–905=A.D. 1495–1500), after whose assassination by Khusraushâh he settled in Bukhârâ, where he died a few years after, on fol. 520b.

1501. Wâṣilî, wrote some verses, on fol. 520b.

1502. Khwâjah Hâshimî, a descendant of Khwâjah 'Iṣmat (No. 1497) and grandson of Khwâjah Muḥammad Pârsâ (No. 1492), a poet in the time of 'Ubaid-allâh-khân Uzbeg (A.H. 939–946=A.D. 1532–1539); he is not to be confounded with Shâh Jahângîr Hâshimî, the author of the مظهر الآثار (see No. 291 above), as has been done in the Âtashkada (Bodleian Cat., col. 287, No. 726, where Hâshimî of Bukhârâ is stated to have written the مظهر الانوار, which is clearly a mistake for مظهر الآثار, comp. ib., col. 271, No. 257), on fol. 520b.

1503. Niyâzî, a poet who went first to Harât, where he got acquainted with the clever musician Shâh Muḥammad Surnâ'î (سرنائی); he repaired afterwards to Balkh, which he had to leave on account of a satire on the inhabitants of that town who threatened to murder him, and began now a wandering and restless life, going to Kûlâb (the capital of Khatlân, see col. 420 above), where he fell in love with Mîr Ḥaidar 'Alî bin Sulṭân Uwais, thence to Badakhshân, Kâbul, Kandahâr, where he failed to obtain the favour of Muḥammad Bairamkhân Khânkhânân (see No. 409 above), and Sind. There again he was unable to get an admission to Mirzâ Shâh Ḥusain's court, and lived for some time in dire want, till after Shâh Ḥusain's death his son, Mirzâ Bâḳî, gave him some assistance. His desire to approach Sulṭân Akbar, however, remained unfulfilled; and when at last, through the intercession of Shâh Khwâjah, the son of Dûst Khâwand, a summons to appear in the imperial court was sent to Niyâzî, the poet had already breathed his last, on fol. 520b.

1504. Raunaḳî, was first attached to Mirzâ Kâmrân (No. 405 above), and afterwards in the service of Mirzâ Ibrâhîm bin Mirzâ Sulaimân (No. 583 above) in Badakhshân, where he died A.H. 964 (A.D. 1557); some verses of a ḳaṣîdah of his, in honour of Maulânâ Muḥammad Zâhid, are quoted here, on fol. 521b.

1505. Kathîrî, of whom one rubâ'î is quoted here, on fol. 521b.

1506. Darwîsh Maḳṣûd Tîrgar (the arrow-maker), a poet, on fol. 521b.

1507. Maulânâ 'Ahdî Ḳarâḳûlî, wrote some rubâ'îs, on fol. 521b.

1508. Raḥmî (as in the index of this and the text of the following copy; the present text reads Raḥîmî), wrote some poetry too, on fol. 522a.

Farghâna, on fol. 522a:

1509. Shaikh Muḥammad Sâḥirî, one of the Abdâls, on fol. 522a.

1510. Shaikh Aḥmad Juwâlgar (the bag-maker), a friend of the preceding Shaikh, details of whose life are given in the نفحات الانس, on fol. 522a.

1511. Bâb-i-Farghânî, a great Shaikh, contemporary with the author of the كشف المحجوب (i.e. Abû-alḥasan 'Alî bin 'Uthmân bin Abî 'Alî aljulâbî alhujwîrî, who died after A.H. 465=A.D. 1073, see Bodleian Cat., No. 1245), who once visited him, on fol. 522a.

1512. Shaikh Sa'd-aldîn (Muḥammad bin Aḥmad, see Ḥ. Kalfa vi. p. 158), author of the مناهج العباد الى المعاد, on fol. 522b.

1513. 'Abdallâh bin Muḥammad al-'Ubaidî (or, as Ḥ. Khalfa iv. p. 169 calls him, Burhân-aldîn 'Ubaidallâh bin Muḥammad 'Ubaidalî Sharîf Farghânî, commonly called 'Ubrî, who died A.H. 743=A.D. 1343, 1344), a Ḥanafite and Shâfi'ite lawyer, author of a شرح طوالع (a commentary on Nâṣir-aldîn 'Abdallâh bin 'Umar Baiḍâwî's طوالع الانوار من مطالع الانظار, see Loth, Arabic MSS., p. 110b), a شرح المصباح and a شرح المنهاج (i.e. منهاج الوصول الى علم الاصول by Baiḍâwî, see Ḥ. Khalfa vi. p. 217), on fol. 522b.

Andijân (in the middle of Farghâna), on fol. 522b:

1514. Sayyid Shams-aldîn Muḥammad, with the epithet, Mîr Sayyid Sarbarahna (the bare-headed), came in Sulṭân Ḥusain Mirzâ's reign to Harât and occupied there for twenty years the post of a superintendent of the tomb or shrine of Shaikh Luḳmân Paranda. Finally he was removed from that office in consequence of a charge of lavish expenditure brought against him. But through a clever ḳaṣîdah addressed to Mîr 'Alîshîr he obtained again the post of wazîr, which he held for some time till he retired from the world, on fol. 522b.

1515. Amîr Niẓâm-aldîn Kalân Khwâjah, wrote some poetry, on fol. 522b.

1516. Sipâhî, grandson of Khwâjah Kalân (or Kalân-beg, as he is called here), a poet who died very young, on fol. 523a.

1517. Ṣafâ'î, a clever man, who also wrote verses occasionally, on fol. 523a.

1518. Hijrî, an expert in the art of prosody and rhyme, and occasional poet, on fol. 523a.

1519. Ḳâḍî 'Abd-alsamî' (عبد السميع), a pupil of Maulânâ Aḥmad Jand, and a descendant of the author of the هداية (probably the work of that title on Ḥanafite law, by Burhân-aldîn Abû-alḥasan 'Alî bin Abûbakr bin 'Abd-aljalîl Marghînânî, whose death is commonly fixed in A.H. 593=A.D. 1197, see No. 1437 above and comp. Ḥ. Khalfa vi. p. 479, No. 14366; G. Flügel iii. p. 202; Loth, Arabic MSS., p. 54; W. Pertsch, Berlin Cat., p. 247; edited Calcutta, A.H. 1234, translated into English by C. Hamilton, London, 1790, second edition by S. G. Grady, London, 1870); he was, at the time when this work was written, in India by order of the Ḳâḍî-alḳuḍât, on fol. 523a.

Ûsh (south-east of Andijân), on fol. 523a:

1520. Khwâjah Quṭb-aldîn Bakhtyâr (see Safînat-alauliyâ, No. 112; Maṭlûb-alṭâlibîn, 15th maṭlab, No. 2, and Sawâṭi'-alanwâr, No. 16), the spiritual successor of Khwâjah Mu'în-aldîn Sijzî (No. 301 above), died A.H. 633 (A.D. 1235), on fol. 523a.

1521. Bahâ-aldîn, lived most of his time in India and was on intimate relations with Sulṭân Ḳuṭb-aldîn Aibak (who reigned in Dihlî A.H. 602–607=A.D. 1206–1210), on fol. 524a.

Marghînân (seven farsangs to the west of Andijân), on fol. 524a:

1522. Shaikh Ẓahîr-aldîn Abû-al'alâ, born A.H. 511 (A.D. 1117, 1118), died A.H. 573 (A.D. 1177, 1178), author of a هداية on Ḥanafite law, than which, as here is stated, no clearer work ever was written (we suppose this هداية is identical with the one mentioned in No. 1519, and both author's name and date of his death corrupted through some mistake on the part of the compiler of the Haft Iḳlîm), on fol. 524a.

1523. Malik-alkalâm Bahâ-aldîn, a poet concerning whose lifetime nothing has been ascertained; a long ḳaṣîdah of his is quoted here, on fol. 524a.

Isfara or Isfarang, the mountainous district nine farsangs to the south-west of Marghînân, on fol. 525a:

1524. Malik-alkalâm Saif-aldîn, a poet who went in early youth to Khwârizm and spent some time in the service of the Khwârizmshâh Îl Arslân (A.H. 551–567=A.D. 1156–1172); a famous ḳaṣîdah which he recited in the majlis of that prince, in imitation of one of Khâḳânî's by mere change of rhyme, is given here, in an abridged form, together with other specimens of his great lyrical power, on fol. 525a.

Khujand (five farsangs to the west of Andijân), on fol. 526b:

1525. Shaikh Kamâl, the well-known poet (Safînat-alauliyâ, No. 354), who, according to Jâmî's Bahâristân, imitated, but at the same time surpassed, Khwâjah Ḥasan of Dihlî (No. 392 above); after performing the pilgrimage to Makkah he settled in Tabrîz, where he stayed all his life, except four years which he spent at Sarâi in Dasht-i-Ḳipčâḳ, the capital of the Khân of Ḳipčâḳ, Tughtamish, who had taken him with him after his attack upon Tabrîz (A.H. 787=A.D. 1385, see Rieu ii. p. 632b). After his return from Sarâi Kamâl Khujandî enjoyed in Tabrîz the favour of Sulṭân Ḥusain bin Uwais (this statement must be corrected in so far as the favour of Sulṭân Ḥusain, who reigned A.H. 776–784=A.D. 1374–1382, was bestowed upon the poet before he went to Sarâi, whereas at the time of his return to Tabrîz the ruler of that town was Mîrânshâh bin Timûr, who likewise granted him his patronage, see Rieu, loc. cit.). He had a lively correspondence with Ḥâfiẓ of Shîrâz, and died A.H. 803 (A.D. 1400, 1401), on fol. 527a.

1526. 'Ajîbî, a poet concerning whose lifetime nothing is known, on fol. 527b.

1527. Shihâbî Ghazâlî, another poet, on fol. 528a.

Akhsîkat (here wrongly spelt Akhtî اختى, and in the following copy Akhsî اخسى; another form is Akhsîtak or Âkhsitak, see W. Pertsch, Berlin Cat., p. 1225, footnote, the largest town of Farghâna, after Andijân, nine farsangs from the latter place), on fol. 528a:

1528. Afḍal-almutaḳaddimîn Athîr-aldîn, the great poet, who, attracted by the fame of Khâḳânî, went to 'Irâḳ and attached himself in Hamadân to Sulṭân Arslân bin Ṭughrul (A.H. 556–571 = A.D. 1161–1176). He had many poetical contests with Khâḳânî, but retired at last from the world and settled down to a solitary life of pious meditation in Khalkâl (see above, col. 479); he died A.H. 608 = A.D. 1211, 1212 (see Bodleian Cat., No. 620), on fol. 528a.

Shâsh (or Châch, the modern Tâshkand, also called Banâkit), on fol. 530b:

1529. Muḥammad bin 'Alî bin Isma'îl alḳaffâl (the locksmith), derwish, traditionist, poet, and Imâm, who spread the Ḥanafite law in Transoxania; Shaikh Abû Isḥaḳ Shîrâzî gives a detailed account of him in his طبقات الفقها; he was born A.H. 291 (A.D. 904), and died A.H. 330 (A.D. 941, 942), on fol. 530b.

1530. Abûbakr Muḥammad bin Aḥmad bin Ḥusain bin 'Umar, known as al-Mustaẓhir, with the epithet of Fakhr-alislâm, a Shâfi'ite lawyer, studied law first under 'Abdallâh Kâzarûnî and Abû Manṣûr Ṭûsî, and afterwards in Baghdâd under Shaikh Abû Isḥaḳ, and Abû Naṣr bin Ṣâ' (صاع), with whom he read his (Abû Naṣr's) own work on jurisprudence, called الشامل. After Abû Isḥaḳ's death Abûbakr became the head of the Shâfi'ite lawyers, and wrote several works on Shâfi'ite law, for instance, the حلية العلما, dedicated to the 'Abbâside Khalîf Almustaẓhir-billâh (A.H. 487–512 = A.D. 1094–1118), and therefore sometimes styled مستظهرى. He was afterwards appointed professor in the مدرسهٔ نظاميّه in Baghdâd, and died A.H. 507 (A.D. 1113, 1114), 78 years old, since he was born A.H. 429 (A.D. 1037, 1038), on fol. 530b.

1531. Fakhr-aldîn Banâkitî (i.e. Abû Sulaimân Dâ'ûd), poet and historian, author of the تأريخ بناكتى, which he dedicated to Sulṭân Abû Sa'îdkhân, A.H. 717 = A.D. 1317 (see No. 18 in this Cat.), on fol. 531a.

1532. Badr Shâshî (or commonly Badr-i-Châch), the panegyrist of Sulṭân Muḥammad bin Tughluḳ (A.H. 725–752 = A.D. 1325–1351, see Maṭlûb-alṭâlibîn, 9th maṭlab, No. 7), comp. Bodleian Cat., No. 793, on fol. 531a.

1533. Khwâjah Nâṣir-aldîn 'Ubaid-allâh (Safînat-alauliyâ, No. 87), better known as Khwâjah Aḥrâr, whose detailed biography is found in the نفحات انس لحيات (Nos. 633–635 in this Cat.), the greatest Shaikh of Turkistân and Transoxania, pupil of Maulânâ Ya'ḳûb Carkhî (No. 346 above) and Maulânâ Niẓâm-aldîn Khâmûsh (Safînat-alauliyâ, No. 88); his death, which took place in Samarḳand, is fixed here (contrary to all other statements, which give A.H. 895) in A.H. 896 (A.D. 1491), according to the following chronogram by Mîr 'Alishîr: خلد برين, on fol. 531a.

1534. Kamâl Shaikh, contemporary with Khwâjah Aḥrâr, on fol. 531b.

1535. 'Abd-alghaffâr, known as Maulânâzâda, wrote poetry occasionally, on fol. 531b.

1536. Ḳâḍî Ghaḍanfar, wrote some poetry too, on fol. 531b.

1537. Ḥuznî, a pupil of Ḳâsim Kâhî (No. 1447 above), on fol. 531b.

Sixth Iḳlîm: Turkistân, on fol. 532a; Fârâb, on fol. 533a:

1538. Abû Naṣr Muḥammad bin Muḥammad alturkî (i.e. Abû Naṣr Fârâbî, or Alfarabius, the great philosopher, see Wüstenfeld, Geschichte der arabischen Aerzte und Naturforscher, p. 53 sq., and Dieterici, Alfârâbîs Philosophische Abhandlungen, Leiden, 1890, German translation, ib. 1892), spoke originally only Turkî, but learnt the Arabic tongue in Baghdâd, whither he had gone from his native country; he studied there under Abûbashar bin Yûnus, with whom he read various works of Aristotle; he was a contemporary of prince Saif-aldaulah, Mutanabbî's great friend and patron, who died A.H. 356 (A.D. 966, 967), on fol. 533a.

1539. Isma'îl bin Ḥammâd al-Jauharî, the author of the الصحاح فى اللغة, the famous Arabic dictionary, died A.H. 393 (A.D. 1002, 1003), comp. Flügel, Grammatische Schulen, p. 253 sq., on fol. 534a.

1540. Isḥaḳ bin Ibrâhîm, another Arabic scholar, on fol. 534a.

Jand, on fol. 534a:

1541. Bâbâ Kamâl, a pupil of Shaikh Najm-aldîn Kubrâ (see No. 1401 above), on fol. 534a.

1542. Shaikh Mu'ayyad, a disciple of Ṣadr-aldîn, on fol. 534a.

Kâshghar, on fol. 534b; Yârkand, on fol. 534b; Khotan, on fol. 535a. In this chapter (on ff. 535b–540a) a detailed account of the Amîrs of Kâshghar is inserted, who were vassals of the Khâns of Jatah or Moghûlistân, from the time of Tughluḳtimûrkhân (A.H. 748–764 = A.D. 1347–1363), according to the تأريخ رشيدى (comp. on this work Rieu i. p. 164b sq., and W. Erskine, History of India under Baber and Humâyun, pp. 38–192, etc.), beginning with (1543) Amîr Tûluk, to whom Tughluḳtimûrkhân entrusted the governorship of Kâshghar. Tûluk had four brothers, viz. Mîr Bûlâjî (Erskine: Yûlâjî), Shams-aldîn, Ḳamar-aldîn, and Amîr Shaikh Daulat. After Tûluk's death (1544) Mîr Bûlâjî was raised to the governorship, and after him his son (1545) Amîr Khudâidâd. The latter's uncle, Ḳamar-aldîn, who had in vain requested Tughluḳtimûrkhân to appoint him governor instead of his little nephew, revenged himself after the Khân's death by killing the latter's children and usurping himself the Khânship. But one of Tughluḳtimûr's sons, who was still a baby, Khiḍr Khwâjah, had, together with his mother, been rescued by Khudâidâd and safely hidden in Badakhshân, and after Ḳamar-aldîn's death Khudâidâd reinstated him in his father's Khânship. Amîr Khudâidâd made, at the end of his life, a pilgrimage to Makkah and Madînah, and died in the latter town. He was succeeded by his son (1546) Amîr Muḥammadshâh, who lost Kâshghar and Khotan in consequence of the conquest of these countries by Timûr. But Muḥammadshâh's son (1547), Mîr Sayyid 'Alî, kept an eye upon these provinces, and sought an opportunity to regain the governorship. After three invasions and successful battles against Ḥâjî Muḥammad Shâyista and Pîr Muḥammad Barlâs, the successive governors appointed by Mirzâ Ulughbeg, to whom his father, Mirzâ Shâhrukh, had given Transoxania, Turkistân, and Farghâna, he at last made himself master of Kâshghar again, and ruled twenty-four years. His elder son (1548), Sâtsiz Mirzâ (in the following copy distinctly spelt Sânsiz Mirzâ), succeeded him, and reigned seven years. After his death in A. H. 869 (A. D. 1464, 1465) the younger brother (1549), Muḥammad Ḥaidar Mirzâ, assumed the government of Kâshghar, as the two sons of Sâtsiz, Abûbakr Mirzâ and 'Umar Mirzâ, were still too young for such a position, and reigned twenty-four years. Abûbakr Mirzâ (1550), when attaining manhood, subdued Yârkand and Khotan, and at last attacked his uncle Muḥammad Ḥaidar Mirzâ himself. A long war ensued between these two relatives, Ḥaidar Mirzâ being supported by Yûnuskhân, the ruler of Moghûlistân, till finally, after many changes of fortune, Ḥaidar Mirzâ and Yûnuskhân perished, and Abûbakr Mirzâ became sole master of the country. He was in his turn overthrown by (1551) Sulṭân Abû Sa'idkhân, the grandson of the before-mentioned Yûnuskhân and brother of Manṣûrkhân (who, after his father Aḥmadkhân, Yûnuskhân's son, had acceded to the throne of Moghûlistân). Abû Sa'idkhân, after many vicissitudes, succeeded, in Rajab, A. H. 920 (A. D. 1514, August, September), in conquering Yârkhand, the capital of Kâshghar; he died A. H. 939 (A. D. 1532, 1533), and his son (1552), 'Abd-alrashîdkhân, seized the reins of government (the date, given here for his accession, viz. 950, must be a mistake for 940, as he succeeded his father immediately). He was twenty-five years old when he became sovereign ruler, and his reign lasted nearly thirty-three years (till A. H. 971 = A. D. 1564). He was a clever writer in prose and verse, and left thirteen sons, viz.: (a) 'Abd-allaṭîfkhân, who was killed; (b) 'Abd-alkarîmkhân, who succeeded his father, and was still ruler of Kâshghar when this work was written; he was a great expert in archery and music; (c) 'Abd-alraḥîm Sulṭân, who was killed; (d) 'Abd-al-'azîz, who died sixteen years old; (e) Adham Sulṭân, known as Ṣûfi Sulṭân, who was sixteen years deputy-ruler of Kâshghar during his father's reign and then died; (f) Muḥammad Sulṭân; (g) Muḥammad Bâḳî; (h) Ḳuraish Sulṭân, who, being offended by his brother 'Abd-alkarimkhân, went to India and entered the service of Akbar; after some years he died there, and left five sons, who were all alive at the time when this work was written; (i) Abû Sa'îd Sulṭân; (k) 'Abdallâh Sulṭân, who likewise went to India, and left two sons behind him at his death; (l) Ulûs Sulṭân; (m) 'Ârif Sulṭân; and (n) 'Abd-alraḥîm Sulṭân. Among the learned men of Kâshghar are mentioned here:

1553. Jamâl-almillah wa-aldîn Ṣâ'id bin Muḥammad, known as Maulânâ Jamâl-aldîn Turkistâni, on fol. 540b.

1554. Taghârbeg bin Muḥammad bin Sulaimân, was first a merchant, but rose soon to the dignity of a wazîr in one of the towns of Turkistân; afterwards he became wazîr of Sulṭân Sanjar, and was greatly praised by the poets of that time, for instance, by Amîr Mu'izzî (No. 747 above), on fol. 540b.

1555. Maulânâ Sa'd-aldîn (Safînat-alauliyâ, No. 89), was first a pupil of Maulânâ Niẓâm-aldîn Khâmûsh and afterwards, at the latter's request, took Shaikh Zain-aldîn Khwâfî (No. 658 above) as his spiritual guide. On his pilgrimage to Makkah he enjoyed the companionship of Shâh Ḳâsim-i-Anwâr (No. 1314 above), Abû Yazid Pûrânî (see Safînat-alauliyâ, No. 359), Zain-aldîn Khwâfî, and Shaikh Bahâ-aldîn 'Umar, on fol. 540b.

1556. Maulânâ 'Alâ-aldîn, on fol. 541a.

1557. Mirzâ Ḥaidar, the grandson of Muḥammad Ḥaidar Mirzâ and author of the تاريخ رشيدى (see above under Kâshghar), who, by order of Sulṭân Abû Sa'idkhân (see No. 1551 above), carried out a victorious invasion of Kashmîr (A. H. 938–939 = A. D. 1531, 1532), and afterwards, when returning from India, went a second time to Kashmîr and there set himself up for seven years as independent ruler. He was killed there A. H. 958 (A. D. 1551), on fol. 541a.

1558. Amîr Aḥmad Ḥâjî, was for a few years governor of Harât under Sulṭân Ḥusain Mirzâ, and also for some time exercised power in Samarḳand; he wrote poetry occasionally, on fol. 541a.

Ṭarâz, on fol. 541b; Ċigil (چگل), on fol. 541b; Khallukh, on fol. 541b; Tâtâr, on fol. 541b (the Tâtars are stated here to trace their origin back to Yâfeth Oghlân, i. e. Turk bin Yâfeth, who, after a life of 240 years, left the kingdom to Alanjakhân, after whom followed Datîbâḳûi, and then Kûk. The latter had two sons, Tâtâr and Moghûl, between whom the realm was divided; Tâtâr's successors were Baghûkhân, Maliḥakhân (so in the following copy, the present has سحى خان), Îlikhân, Atsizkhân, Urdûkhân, Aidukhân, under whom the Tâtars and Moghuls, who had hitherto lived in friendly intercourse, fell out with one another, and Sûtij or Sûnijkhân); Rûs (Russia), on fol. 542a; Bughrdj, on fol. 543a; Kîmâk (or Kaimâk, also called Kîmâs and Kîmiyâs, in Ḳipċâḳ), on fol. 543a; Khazar, on fol. 543a; Isfîjâb (or Isfanjâb, as it seems to be spelt here, in Turkistân), on fol. 543b; Ḳusṭanṭaniyyah (Constantinople), on fol. 543b.

On ff. 544a–547b, a short account of the 'Uthmânî Sulṭâns from Ertoghrul, the father of 'Uthmân I (who died, 90 years old, A. H. 687 = A. D. 1288), to Sulṭân Muḥammad III bin Murâd III (who ascended the throne in A. H. 1003 = A. D. 1595, a proof that some parts of the Haft Iḳlim were written after A. H. 1002, the usual date of its completion). Rûmiyah (Rome), left out here in consequence of a small lacuna after fol. 547b; Shlashwîn or Shlashwîḳ (شلشوين, شلشوق, or even شلشون, Schleswig, comp. Ḳazwînî ed. Wüstenfeld ii. p. ٣٠٣, and G. Jacob, Ein arabischer Berichterstatter etc., Berlin, 1890, p. 12), on fol. 548a; Ḳirishna or Kirishna (قرشنه or كرشنه, on French or Frankish territory, از بلاد فرنج, where the faces of the people are half white and half black, perhaps the Grisons?), on fol. 548a; Zirigarân and Tirsarân (زرّه گران وتيرسران, two districts near the Caspian gates, peopled by tall armour-makers, see Ḳazwînî ed. Wüstenfeld ii. p. ٣٦٦ sq.), on fol. 548a.

Seventh Iḳlîm: Bulghâr, on fol. 548b:

1559. Khwâjah Aḥmad, who lived in Ghazna, and to whom Sanâ'î dedicated his غريب نامه (a mathnawî of Sanâ'î not known otherwise, unless it is identical with the third mathnawî in No. 3346 of the India Office Collection, which bears no title there, see further below in this Cat. under 'Sanâ'î' in the poetical part), on fol. 549a.

Saḳlâb, on fol. 549a:

1560. Yâjûj and Mâjûj (Gog and Magog), on fol. 549a.

Bâṭiḳ (a town in Rûm), on fol. 549a; Bâṭin-alrûm (where a great number of Christians dwell), on fol. 549b; Jâbulḳâ (at the furthest end of Maghrib), on fol. 549b.

No. 49, ff. 550, ll. 21; Nasta'lîḳ; illuminated frontispiece on fol. 19a; size, 9 in. by 5¼ in.

Another splendid copy of the Haft Iḳlîm.

This splendid copy is without an index. Beginning the same as in the preceding copy. Iḳlîm I, on fol. 3a; II, on fol. 14a; III, on fol. 42b; IV, on fol. 224b; V, on fol. 554a; VI, on fol. 638a; VII, on fol. 658b. Fol. 474 must be inserted between ff. 448 and 449.

Dated, by Shaikh Muḥammad Islâm of Aḥmadâbâd, the 21st of Rabî'-althânî, A.H. 1089 (A.D. 1678, June 12). This copy was purchased from the executors of the Marquis of Hastings.

No. 3143, ff. 662, ll. 21; clear and distinct Nasta'lîḳ; illuminated frontispiece; many marginal additions; splendid binding in green and gold; size, 10¼ in. by 5¾ in.

An incomplete copy of the same.

This copy opens abruptly in the third Iḳlîm with the words: واو بخدمت خواجه حسن رفته, corresponding to fol. 60b, l. 5, in the preceding copy. Iḳlîm IV, on fol. 131a; V, on fol. 408b; VI, on fol. 480a; VII, on fol. 498b.

Dated A.H. 1093 (A.D. 1682) by 'Abd-alraḥmân bin Muḥammad Ṭâhir bin Khwâjah Aḥmad. There are 48 leaves missing in the beginning.

No. 1653, ff. 501, ll. 25; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 12 in. by 7 in.

Intikhâb-i-Haft Iḳlîm (انتخاب هفت اقليم).

An abridgment of the Haft Iḳlîm, made by Faiḍ-allâh Anṣârî Jaunpûrî, with the takhallus Himmat (see fol. 4b, l. 1), and dedicated to Wajih-aldîn 'Alîkhân Bahâdur, who is called the master of the sword and pen (صاحب السيف و القلم), see fol. 4a, l. 1 sq. A date of this compilation, which simply gives the geographical accounts of the Haft Iḳlîm in a condensed form, omitting all the biographical details, is not found.

Beginning: ستايش وآفرين آفرينندهٔ را كه معمورهٔ هفت اقليم الخ

Iḳlîm I, on fol. 5b; II, on fol. 11b; III, on fol. 22a; IV, on fol. 78a; V, on fol. 102a; VI, on fol. 113b; VII, on fol. 127b.

No date. This rather modern copy belonged formerly to Mr. Richard Johnson.

No. 1366, ff. 132, ll. 13; Shikasta; worm-eaten; size, 8¼ in. by 4¼ in.

728

Historical and geographical extracts.

Contents:

1. A few extracts from a تأريخ مير ابراهيم الحسينى الموسوى (not met with hitherto), on ff. 8a–15b, 22 and 23, consisting of short accounts of the emperors Akbar, Jahângîr, Shâhjahân, etc.

2. Extracts from the Haft Iḳlîm, beginning with a ذكر هفت اقليم (a general account of the seven climates, somewhat like the preceding انتخاب), on ff. 99a–151b, and concluding with a مجملئ سلاطين دهلى كه در هفت اقليم آورده بتحرير مى آرد (the general account of the Muḥammadan rulers of Dihlî, which is found on fol. 153a, first line sq. in No. 724, col. 406 above), on ff. 153a–176b.

3. Another extract from the تأريخ مير ابراهيم, containing a تعريف امصار (description of cities), and beginning with Akbarâbâd, ff. 177a–190b.

An index of these miscellanies is found on ff. 2b–7a.

No. 611, ff. 2b–15, 22, 23, 99–190, ll. 21; careless Nasta'lîḳ; size, 8¼ in. by 4¼ in.

Bahjat-al'âlam (بهجة العالم).

A modern work on general geography, by Ḥakîm Maḥâratkhân of Iṣfahân, styled بهجة العالم (see fol. 2a, l. 2 and colophon). It is the first volume (مجلّد اوّل) of a larger work; a second volume, entitled روضة الافراح, and comprising Persian translations of several Arabic works, for instance, جريدة العجائب, تحفة الالباب, and others, is promised in the preface of this book. The author lived at the time of the emperor Bahâdurshâh, whose death in A.H. 1124 (A.D. 1712) appears as a recent event, and must have compiled this volume about A.H. 1130 (A.D. 1718), comp. the short extract from it described in Rieu iii. p. 992. The present MS. contains:

1. A general part, dealing with the seven climates, in an arrangement similar to the Haft Iḳlîm, but without any biographical notices. Iḳlîm I, on fol. 2b; II, on fol. 7a; III, on fol. 16b; IV, on fol. 51b; V, on fol. 87b; VI, on fol. 93b; VII, on fol. 102a.

2. A special part, dealing with particular points of geographical interest in detail. The chief subdivisions of this part are:

(a) ذكر بعضى از بلاد متفرّقه, on fol. 104b, beginning with a description of the countries of Rûm (ممالك روم), taken from the Hasht Bihisht (No. 571 above); followed by an account of India, according to the fourth volume of the Akbarnâma (see fol. 121a, first line), i.e. the آئين اكبرى, which is usually called the third book (see Nos. 264–270 above), but which, on account of the usual division of the first book into two separate parts, may very well be called the fourth; miscellaneous notes on various towns and provinces (see fol. 126b), extracted from a work styled انيس العارفين, etc.

(b) ذكر بعضى از عجائب جزائر, on fol. 144b, taken chiefly from Ḳazwînî's عجائب المخلوقات (Nos. 712–714 above).

(c) ذكر بعضى از عجائب جبال يعنى كوها, on fol. 151b.

(d) ذكر بعضى از عجائب انهار, on fol. 156a.

(e) ذكر بلاد مغرب زمين, on fol. 159a, last line.

Beginning: الحمد لله .... وبعد چون دريافت غرائب مبرعات و عجائب مصنوعات حكيم قدير الخ.

Dated the 17th of Rajab, A.H. 1211 (A.D. 1797, Jan. 16). Bibliotheca Leydeniana.

No. 2409, ff. 171, ll. 19; distinct Nasta'lîḳ; size, 13¾ in. by 8¾ in.

Ḥadîḳat-alaḳâlim (حديقة الاقاليم).

A large modern geographical encyclopaedia, with many historical and literary records, following in the main the system of the Haft Iḳlim, but considerably richer in detail with regard to India in general and to the more modern periods of Indian history in particular, compiled by Ḳâḍî Murtaḍâ Ḥusain, known as Allâhyâr 'Uthmânî Bilgrâmî, who was born A.H. 1132 (A.D. 1720), entered A.H. 1142 (A.D. 1729, 1730), in his tenth year, the service of Muḥâriz-almulk, the Ṣûbadâr of Gujarât, and was till A.H. 1187 (A.D. 1773, 1774) in the train of many other distinguished Indian Amîrs, who are enumerated in detail in Rieu iii. pp. 992–994. In A.H. 1190 (A.D. 1776) he became munshî of Capt. Jonathan Scott, and at his request began to compile the present work, on the basis of the most renowned books, written on geography and history. The conclusion of the work was written by him A.H. 1202 (A.D. 1787, 1788). A detailed account of its contents is given in the Bodleian Cat., No. 422; comp. also W. Pertsch, Berlin Cat., pp. 414–417; Elliot, History of India, viii. pp. 180–183. Lithographed in Lucknow, 1879 and 1881.

Beginning, on fol. 1b: حمد بيحدّ مر خداى عزّ وجلّ را كه لسان عالميان الخ.

Iḳlim I, on fol. 4a; II, on fol. 24b; III, on fol. 133b; IV, on fol. 428b; V, on fol. 492b; VI, on fol. 507a; VII, on fol. 549a. Khâtimah (احوال دنيا نو), on fol. 558a.

No date.

No. 2643, ff. 581, ll. 22; careless Nasta'lîḳ; size, 15½ in. by 9½ in.

Aḥwâl-i-'Imârât-i-Mustaḳirr-alkhilâfah (احوال عمارات مستقرّ الخلافه).

A topographical and historical account of the principal public buildings, mausoleums, mosques, and gardens of Akbarâbâd, i.e. Âgra, especially those built by Akbar and Shâhjahân, compiled, from various sources, by a pupil of the Âgra Government College, Sîl Chand (سيلچند), see fol. 6b, l. 4, and colophon, at the request of Mr. James Stephen Lushington (مستر جمس اسفين لسكين), comp. ff. 5a, l. 2, and 6a, ll. 7 and 8; and Rieu iii. p. 1031. This gentleman, who was acting collector and magistrate in Âgra, 1825 and 1826, had issued an appeal to the Government College, to supply him with such topographical accounts, and he received besides the present work a smaller treatise on the same subject, by Mânik Chand, headed احوال شهر اكبرآباد, see Rieu iii. p. 958.

Beginning: سبحان الله ذرّهٔ بيتاب را بحضور خورشيد دستگاه عجز طرازى است الخ.

On fol. 4a a eulogium of the Governor-General of India.

Among the numerous chapters we mention as the most interesting ones:

Fortress of Âgra, with a table of inscriptions, on fol. 24a.

Môtî Masjid, with illustration, on fol. 30b.

Tâj Maḥall, with illustration, on fol. 51b sq.

Letters and firmâns of Shâhjahân, 'Âlamgîr, Dârâ Shukûh, etc., on fol. 59b sq.

Mausoleum of I'timâd-aldaulah, with illustration, on fol. 104a.

Account of Nûr Jahân Begam, on fol. 120a.

Akbar's mausoleum at Sikandra, with illustration, on fol. 193b.

Mosque at Fathpûr, with illustration, on fol. 210b, last line sq.

This Kitâb-i-'Imârat (كتاب عمارت), as it is styled in the colophon (another title given to it is حالات اكبرآباد, see Rieu, loc. cit.), was transcribed from the original copy of Sîl Chand, who was a student at the Madrasah of Âgra, by وسشن ضلع, for Mr. James Davidson (مستر جمس ديودسن); no date. The copy was purchased of Madden & Co., 1st of August, 1843. Special works on the topography of the Tâj Maḥall are noticed in Rieu i. p. 430 and iii. p. 958b; Mehren, Cat., p. 47, and W. Pertsch, Berlin Cat., p. 520.

No. 2450, ff. 218, ll. 17; Nasta'lîḳ; five excellent full-page illustrations and a table of inscriptions; size, 9¼ in. by 6 in.

Masâfat-i-Shahrhâi Hindûstân (مسافت شهرهاى هندوستان).

Tables showing the distance of the different provinces, districts, and towns of India from one another, according to the statistic survey under the Moghul emperors, especially under Shâhjahân (see fol. 4b sq.). It begins with a short index of the provinces of Irân. The principal portion of this little book, dealing with India proper, begins on fol. 3b.

This copy was made for Mr. Richard Johnson by Muḥammad Bakhsh, A.H. 1194 (A.D. 1780), at Lucknow.

No. 1718, ff. 28; Shikasta; size, 9 in. by 5½ in.

X. Romances and Tales.

Tarjumat-alfaraj ba'd-alshiddah (ترجمة الفرج بعد الشدّة).

A large collection of stories, relating cases of wonderful deliverance from danger, translated by Ḥusain bin As'ad bin alḥusain aldihistânî (see fol. 5a) from the Arabic work الفرج بعد الشدّة و الضيقة, which is here (on fol. 5b) and in all the other copies wrongly ascribed to Abû-alḥasan 'Alî bin Muḥammad almadâ'inî (who died in Baghdâd, A. H. 224 or 225=A. D. 839 or 840). The real author of the Arabic original, often mentioned in this translation, is Abû 'Alî al-Muḥassin, called Kâḍî al-Tanûkhî, who died A. H. 384 (A. D. 994), comp. Rieu ii. p. 752a; W. Pertsch, Berlin Cat., p. 982; J. Aumer, p. 56; Cat. des MSS. et Xylographes, p. 408; G. Flügel iii. p. 451, etc. Some of the stories are printed in the appendix of Chodźko's Persian Grammar, new ed., Paris, 1883. The present translation was made at the request of 'Izz-aldîn Ṭâhir bin Zangî, probably about the middle or in the second half of the sixth century of the Hijrah, at any rate before 'Aufî, who quotes this work in his جوامع الحكايات (see No. 600 sq. in this Cat.). A corroboration of Abû 'Alî al-Muḥassin's authorship of the original is found in the list of authorities, given in the preface of the زينة المجالس, where it is styled كتاب فرج بعد الشدّة ابو مُحَسِّن, see W. Pertsch, Berlin Cat., p. 979.

Beginning: حمد و ثنای قيّومی كه عجز عقول ذرّيات آدم از ادراك الخ.

Index, on ff. 6a–18b; the thirteen bâbs into which the work is commonly divided are found here: Bâb I, on fol. 19a; II, on fol. 31b; III, on fol. 47a; IV, on fol. 76b; V, on fol. 101a; VI, on fol. 154b; VII, on fol. 185a; VIII, on fol. 293a; IX, on fol. 322a; X, on fol. 339b; XI, on fol. 350b; XII, on fol. 371b; XIII, on fol. 407b.

Dated by Shaikh Muḥammad Fâḍil at Lâhûr, the 29th of Rajab, A. H. 1027 (A. D. 1618, July 22).

No. 1664, ff. 472, ll. 15; large and distinct Nasta'lîḳ; size, 11½ in. by 7 in.

734

Another copy of the same.

Beginning: حمد و ثنا قيّومی را كه عجز عقول ذرّيات آدم را از ادراك الخ.

Index, on ff. 5v–14b.

Bâb I, on fol. 14b; II, not marked; III, on fol. 33b; IV, on fol. 59a; V, on fol. 81b; VI, on fol. 130a; VII, on fol. 152a; VIII, on fol. 247a; IX, on fol. 273a; X, on fol. 290a; XI, on fol. 300b; XII, on fol. 319b; XIII, on fol. 352b. No date. A great number of headings in the single ḥikâyas are quite incorrect.

No. 1425, ff. 413, ll. 19; clear and distinct Nasta'lîḳ; size, 10¾ in. by 5½ in.

A slightly defective copy of the same.

This copy, which is not dated, lacks one leaf in the beginning; the first words on fol. 1a, و محض صدق يقينست لقوله الخ, correspond to fol. 2a, last line in the following copy (No. 774). Index, on ff. 3a–10b.

Bâb I, on fol. 10b; II, on fol. 19a; III, on fol. 26a; IV, on fol. 46a; V, on fol. 63a; VI, on fol. 100a; VII, on fol. 119b; VIII, on fol. 190b; IX, on fol. 209a; X, on fol. 220b; XI, on fol. 228a; XII, on fol. 242a; XIII, on fol. 266a.

No. 1857, ff. 309, ll. 24–25; Naskhî; size, 9½ in. by 5 in.

Another still more defective copy of the same.

This copy is defective at the end, breaking off on fol. 557b with the words: ..... و عذرها شرمسار گشتند, corresponding to the preceding copy, fol. 307a, l. 11. There is besides a large lacuna in the middle of fol. 105b, between ll. 5 and 6, comprising the remaining part of bâb IV, from the twelfth story on to the end, as well as the beginning of bâb V, nearly to the end of the eighth story (corresponding to ff. 55a, l. 15–77a, l. 8, in the preceding copy).

Index, on fol. 6b. Bâb I, on fol. 19b; II, on fol. 33b; III, on fol. 53b; IV, on fol. 88b; V, missing; VI, on fol. 149a; VII, on fol. 186a; VIII, on fol. 326b; IX, on fol. 361b; X, on fol. 385a; XI, on fol. 400a; XII, on fol. 427a; XIII, on fol. 473b.

The copy, which is not dated, is somewhat worm-eaten throughout, but in most places carefully mended. The last leaves are seriously damaged. Instead of فرج there is everywhere written فرح, as in the Munich copy (see J. Aumer, loc. cit.).

No. 774, ff. 557, ll. 17; large Nasta'lîḳ; size, 9½ in. by 5½ in.

Tarjuma-i-Kitâb-alfaraj ba'd-alshiddah.

An apparently different and, as it seems, enlarged translation, or rather adaptation of the same Arabic original, designated moreover in the following copy as 'the second half' (نصف ديگر) only, and made, according to the preface, at the request of the Sulṭân of Sind, Nâṣir-aldîn Ḳubâcah (A. H. 607–625 = A. D. 1210–1228). It belongs therefore to a somewhat later period than the preceding version. A translator's name does not appear anywhere. A conjecture on the fly-leaf of the following copy suggests as such Muḥammad 'Aufî, the author of the جوامع الحكايات and the لباب الالباب (the latter of which is in fact dedicated to Ḳubâcah's wazir, 'Ain-al-mulk Ḥusain al-Ash'arî, see Rieu ii. p. 749).

Beginning: حمد و ثناء مكرّمی كه انس را أُنس بخشيد وجان را جان داد ونسيم روان را درچمن تن روان گردانيد و عقل را عاقلهٔ قالب ساخت و معرفت ذات همچون خويش بدو حوالت .....; here follows a large blank, after which the preface continues in this way: قدر فرمان ملك معظّم خسرو اعظم مالك رقاب امم مولیٰ ملوك الترك و العجم ناصر الدنيا و الدين غياث الاسلام و المسلمين اعدل الملوك و اكرم السلاطين سلطان ارض الله ناصر عباد الله حافظ بلاد المؤيّد بنصر الله محرّز ممالك الدنيا مظهر العليا ابو الفتح قباچه الخ.

As to the subdivision into bâbs, there can be traced the following ones:

باب ششم در ذكر جماعتی كه در ورطهٔ هلاك افتادند و فضل حق تعالی ايشانرا خلاص داد.

Bâbs VII and VIII are not found anywhere.

باب نهم در ذكر جماعتی كه

چنگ (بچنگ) سماع افتادند و پروردگار جلّ جلاله ایشانرا خلاص داد.

Bâb X, on fol. 126a: باب دهم در عاقبت دادن از امراض و اسقام بامر ملك علّام.

Bâb XI, on fol. 135a: باب یازدهم در ذکر جماعتی که از دست شریران فتّان خلاص یافتند.

Bâb XII, on fol. 149a: باب دوازدهم در بیان حال جماعتی که از پیش بلا گریختند و در دام محنت نیاویختند.

Bâb XIII, on fol. 174a: باب سیزدهم جماعتی که ببلای هوا درماندند عاقبت بمقصود رسیده اند.

Bâb XIV, on fol. 256a: باب چهاردهم در ذکر جماعتی که بالفاظ وافی و جوابهای شافی از خشم ملوك و سلاطین روزگار خلاص یافته اند.

Bâb XV, on fol. 285a: باب پانزدهم[1] در ذکر جماعتی که از حبس و بند خلاص یافته اند واز زحمت خلاص گشته اند.

Bâb XVI, on fol. 352b: باب شانزدهم در ذکر جماعتی که در خواب بشارت نجات شنیده اند و در بیداری از سر صدق دیده اند.

Bâb XVII, on fol. 392b: باب هفدهم در ذکر جماعتی که بمدد اتّفاق خوب از مکروه خلاص یافته اند و به نیل مقصود ومراد رسیده اند.

Dated the 22nd of Ramaḍân, in the year تسعه ثمانین و خمسین (? perhaps misspelt for تسعه مائه و ثمانین وخمس, A. H. 985=A. D. 1577, Dec. 3), in كرخ near Baghdâd. A seal of Muḥammad Farrukhsiyar (died A. H. 1131=A. D. 1719), on fol. 1a.

No. 1432, ff. 459, ll. 15; Nasta'lîḳ; illuminated frontispiece; size, 10½ in. by 5½ in.

Another copy of the same translation.

Beginning the same (but without the prefixed praise of God): قدر فرمان ملك معظّم خسرو اعظم الخ. The bâbs which can be traced here (but all without number and heading) are: VI, on fol. 53a; IX, on fol. 89a; X, on fol. 111a; XI, on fol. 119b; XII, on fol. 132a; XIII, on fol. 153a; XIV, on fol. 223b; XV, on fol. 254a; XVI, on fol. 315b. Fol. 211b corresponds to fol. 242a in the preceding copy, and 330a, first line, to fol. 369a, l. 5 there. Fol. 84b is left blank.

Dated the 17th of Ramaḍân, A. H. 1057 (A. D. 1647, Oct. 16).

No. 720, ff. 420, ll. 17; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 8¼ in. by 4¾ in.

Kiṣṣa-i-ćahâr darwish (قصّهٔ چهار درویش).

The Persian version of the story of the Sulṭân of Rûm, Âzâdbakhsh, his son Bakhtyâr, and the four dervishes, popularly ascribed to the greatest Persian poet of India, Amîr Khusrau of Dihlî, who died A. H. 725 (A. D. 1325), comp. Bodleian Cat., No. 443; Rieu ii. p. 762; A. F. Mehren, p. 32; Eastwick, translation of the Bâgh-o-Bahâr, Hertford, 1852, p. vii.

Beginning: امّا بعد راویان اخبار و ناقلان آثار و طوطیان شکر شکن الخ.

Dâstân I, story of the first Dervish, on fol. 6a.

Dâstân II, story of the second Dervish, on fol. 32b.

Dâstân III, story of the Sulṭân, on fol. 56b.

Dâstân IV, story of the third Dervish (here called درویش چهارم by mistake), on fol. 100b.

Dâstân V, story of the fourth Dervish, on fol. 120b.

Epilogue or final story (داستان اخیر), on fol. 135b.

The book ends on fol. 141a; the remaining two pages and a half are filled with a detailed colophon, in which the transcriber, who does not mention his name, gives a short historical account of the circumstances under which he made this copy, in A. H. 1188, the sixteenth year of Shâh 'Âlam's reign (A. D. 1774, 1775).

Bibliotheca Lugdeniana.

No. 2480, ff. 142, ll. 18–19, but the greater number of pages are written in diagonal lines; Shikasta; size, 8⅔ in. by 3½ in.

740

Another copy of the same.

Beginning as usual. Story of the first Dervish, on fol. 5b; of the second, on fol. 32a; of the Sulṭân, on fol. 58b; of the third Dervish, on fol. 100b; of the fourth, on fol. 121a. The epilogue is not marked by any special heading.

No date. Bibliotheca Lugdeniana.

No. 2813, ff. 139, ll. 15; Naskhî, mixed with Shikasta; size, 7⅓ in. by 5¼ in.

741

The same.

Beginning: الحمد لله الذی اشرف الانسان بالكرم و فضّل نفوسهم علی جزیل النعم وامتحن قلوبهم ..... امّا بعد راویان اخبار و ناقلان آثار و طوطیان شیرین الخ.

Story of the first Dervish, on fol. 6a, last line; of the second, on fol. 39b; of the third, on fol. 138a; of the fourth, on fol. 167b. The epilogue is not marked.

There seems to be a lacuna after fol. 159.

No date. A former owner was G. Swinton.

No. 2626, ff. 190, ll. 12; Shikasta; ff. 1–9 supplied by another hand in Nasta'lîḳ; partly worm-eaten; size, 8¼ in. by 5¼ in.

No. 475, ff. 104, ll. 17–21; written very unequally, partly in Nasta'lîḳ, partly in Shikasta; a little worm-eaten here and there; size, 8¼ in. by 4¾ in.

Ṭûṭînâma (طوطی نامه).

The older and larger version of the famous 'Tales of a Parrot,' by Ḍiyâi Nakhshabî (or Ḍiyâ-aldîn Nakhshabî), containing fifty-two stories, and composed A. H. 730 (A. D. 1330); comp. Bodleian Cat., Nos. 444–448; Rieu ii. p. 753; W. Pertsch, Berlin Cat., p. 985, and Zeitschrift der D. M. G., vol. xxi. p. 505 sq.; J. Aumer, pp. 53 and 54; Cat. Codd. Or. Lugd. Bat. i. pp. 355 and 356; Göttinger Gelehrte Anzeigen, 1858, p. 529, etc. Translated into English by M. Gerrans, London, 1792. On the Turkish version see W. Pertsch, Berlin Turkish Cat., p. 439.

[1] Here wrongly styled یازدهم.

Beginning: الحمد لله ربّ العالمين والعاقبة للمتّقين و الصلوات الخ. The usual beginning of most other copies (but with the omission of the first two words, مناجات بحضرت) appears here on fol. 2a: رازق الثعاب فى عشّه الخ. The book concludes on fol. 242b. On fol. 243a the date is given, viz. 4th of Jumâdâ-alûlâ, in the first year of 'Âlamgîr's reign (=A.H. 1069, A.D. 1659, Jan. 28). On ff. 243b–245a a ḳaṣîdah by Shâh Ni'mat Wali-allâh (or more commonly Ni'mat-allâh Walî, who died A.H. 834 =A.D. 1431, see Rieu ii. p. 634b) and some arithmetical tables are added. Many pages slightly injured.

No. 3496, olim 8. J. 26, ff. 245, ll. 15–19; Nasta'lîḳ; ff. 1–6, 33–36, 39–42, 181, 188–245 supplied by various other hands; size, 8¾ in. by 5½ in.

Another copy of the same.

Beginning as usual: مناجات بحضرت رازق الخ.

Dated the 23rd of Shawwâl, A.H. 1137 (A.D. 1725, July 5). Occasional corrections on the margin. On the last page there appears the fragment of a letter, written by Mirzâ 'Alî Ḳulîbeg, the son of 'Alî-marwân-khân, to 'Umdat-i-Umarâi Rafi'-alshân Nawwâb Muḥammad Aminkhân (who is probably identical with Muḥammad Aminkhân, son of Mîr Jumlah, who died A.H. 1093=A.D. 1682).

No. 3367, olim 8. J. 28, ff. 263, ll. 15; very unequal Nasta'lîḳ; size, 8½ in. by 4¾ in.

Beginning as in No. 3496 (743 above): الحمد لله ربّ العالمين و العاقبة للمتّقين و الصلوات على نبيّ محمّد و آله اجمعين' میگوید قائل این رسائل الخ. This copy, which is dated the 18th of Sha'bân, in the twenty-sixth year of Shâh 'Âlam's reign (=A.H. 1198, A.D. 1784, July 7), contains only fifty-one stories (the second and third not being separated from one another).

No. 1587, ff. 217, ll. 15; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 9¼ in. by 5¾ in.

The same.

Beginning: مناجات بحضرت رازق النعمات الخ. It contains the usual fifty-two stories, and ends on fol. 172b, dated the 27th of Rabî'-alawwal, A.H. 1199 (A.D. 1785, Feb. 7). Fol. 173a contains a تأريخ روضهٔ منوّرهٔ مغفور میان غلام شاه, in eleven mathnawî-baits, containing a chronogram for A.H. 1186 (A.D. 1772, 1773). On the fly-leaves there is written by another hand a rather illegible short story of Bikramajît (Vikramâditya). Presented by Mr. Madly, 23rd August, 1809.

No. 3383, olim 8. J. 25, ff. 173, ll. 17; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 9¼ in. by 6¼ in.

Beginning: مناجات بحضرت رازق النعات (!) فى غشّه كه رازق وحوش و طیور الخ.

No date. Bibliotheca Leydeniana.

No. 2533, ff. 171, ll. 21; Nasḵhî, by two different hands, the older of which comprises ff. 28–154 and 156–159, undoubtedly a portion of the original copy, the missing portions of which have been supplied later on. Several pages of the original part, for instance, ff. 64, 129, etc., are greatly injured; size, 12¾ in. by 6¾ in.

751

The same.

This copy begins with nine mathnawî-baits, the first of which runs thus:

خدایا اهل دل را ذوق دل ده ــ ضیاء نخشبی را شوق دل ده

On the top of fol. 1b the usual beginning of this work is supplied by a different hand, as it seems, viz.: مناجات بحضرت رازق النُعَات (!) فى عُشّه كه رزق وحوش و طیور نِعَم عمیم اوست الخ.

No date. Collated. Bibliotheca Leydeniana.

No. 2712, ff. 329, ll. 13; clear Nasta'lîḳ; small illuminated frontispiece; size, 8¾ in. by 5 in.

752

Ṭûṭînâma.

The later and abridged version of the 'Tales of a Parrot' made by Muḥammad Ḳâdirî in the 17th century of the Christian era. It has been edited and translated into English by Gladwin, Calcutta, 1800, and London, 1801; German translation by Iken, Stuttgart, 1822; comp. Bodleian Cat., Nos. 1975 and 2028; Rieu ii. p. 754; J. Aumer, p. 54.

Beginning: بعد از جنس جنس ثنا و صفت پیدا کنندهٔ آسمان و زمین الخ

This abridgment contains, like the British Museum copy, only thirty-five stories. No date. Modern copy. College of Fort William, 1825.

On other Persian and Turkish versions (for instance, the one mentioned in H. Khalfa iv. p. 172), and on the Hindûstânî version of Ḳâdirî's abridgment, the 'Totâ-Kahânî,' see W. Pertsch, loc. cit. (No. 743 above), and Bodleian Cat., No. 444.

No. 2331, ff. 77, ll. 12–13; Nasta'lîḳ; worm-eaten; size, 7¼ in. by 5 in.

The same.

Another copy of Muḥammad Ḳâdirî's abridged version of the Ṭûṭînâma, numbering here thirty-eight stories, the first being headed حکایت طوطیٔ تاجر, the last حکایت دختر قیصر روم.

The preface is wanting. It begins at once with the introductory story, thus: آورده اند که در شهری از شهرهای هند بازرگانی بود مبارک نام مال بسیار داشت الخ

No date. Bibliotheca Leydeniana.

No. 2556, ff. 337–402, ll. 13; large Nasta'lîḳ; size, 9¼ in. by 6¼ in.

754

A fragment of Ḳâdirî's abridged version.

This copy, slightly differing in wording from the usual copies of Ḳâdirî's abridgment of Nakhshabî's Ṭûṭînâma, contains only eight داستان, that is the first eight nights, ending with the story of the prince and the seven wazîrs (which begins here on fol. 66a), comp. W. Pertsch, Ueber Nachschabî's Papageienbuch, in Zeitschrift der D. M. G., vol. xxi. p. 520. In the colophon the work is styled کتاب ترجمهٔ طوطی نامه, as if this redaction was a retranslation into Persian from some other version, a supposition, however, which is at variance with the few introductory lines on fol. 16b, where it is expressly stated, that this is the عبارت سلیس, the plain version, of Muḥammad Khudâbanda Ḳâdirî.

Beginning: پس از ثنا و صفت خداوند آسمان و زمین حقیقت این است چون داستان گفتهٔ حضرت نخشبی.

Copied A.H. 1217 (A.D. 1802, 1803) at Seringapatam. Bibliotheca Leydeniana.

No. 2469, ff. 16–103, ll. 11; large Nasta'lîḳ; size, 8½ in. by 6 in.

Nigâristân (نگارستان).

A collection of moral anecdotes in imitation of Sa'dî's Gulistân, treating of matters of practical philosophy and ethics, interspersed with verses and short tales, by Mu'în-aldîn alasfarâ'inî aljuwainî, who composed it A.H. 735 = A.D. 1334, 1335 (see fol. 13a, line 1), and dedicated it to Sulṭân Abû Sa'îd Bahâdurkhân (who reigned A.H. 716–736 = A.D. 1316–1335), comp. fol. 6a; H. Khalfa vi. 381, No. 13981; Bodleian Cat., Nos. 1447–1449; Rieu ii. p. 754; Mélanges Asiatiques, iii. p. 732.

It is divided into seven bâbs (a fihrist is found on fol. 19a, last line sq.), viz.:

باب اوّل در مکارم اخلاق, on fol. 19b.
باب دویم در صیانت و پرهیزگاری, on fol. 59a.
باب سیم در حسن معاشرت, on fol. 92b.
باب چهارم در عشق و محبّت, on fol. 125a.
باب پنجم در وعظ و نصیحت, on fol. 159b.
باب ششم در فضل و رحمت, on fol. 198a.
باب هفتم در فوائد متفرّقه, on fol. 237a.

Beginning: شکر و ستایش خدای را که ازلیّتش از سمت بدایت الخ

The first half collated and annotated. Copied A.H. 977 (A.D. 1569, 1570) at Samarkand by Khwâjah Khwâwand bin Khwâwand Mîrak. The Nigâristân concludes on fol. 277b. Fol. 278 is filled by another hand with a satire of Khwâjah Abû-albarakah on the Ḳâḍî of Nîshâpûr.

Beginning: چو دور شد زرخ دهر جعد طرّهٔ جور الخ

No. 56, ff. 278, ll. 17; small but distinct Nasta'lîḳ; the first two pages splendidly illuminated; size, 9¼ in. by 6 in.

756

Another copy of the same.

Beginning: حمد و ستایش مر خدایرا که ازلیّتش از سمت بدایت منزّه است الخ

In the index the usual order of the seven bâbs is changed in this way, that the seventh, viz. در فوائد متفرّقه, appears as third, the third therefore as fourth, and so on (see fol. 81a), but in the text the arrangement agrees with that in the preceding copy: bâb I, on fol. 81a; II (not marked), on fol. 118b; III (not marked), on fol. 149a; IV, on fol. 178b; V (not marked), on fol. 236a; VI, on fol. 271a; VII, on fol. 304a. No date; rather modern copy, bought (together with the Bahâristân, which forms the first part of this MS.) by Adam Clarke, for four guineas, 1817, from Mr. Henry George Keene, who acquired it in 1803.

Received into the library, April 10, 1877.

No. 3183, ff. 63–342, ll. 17; large and distinct Nasta'lîḳ; size, 11¼ in. by 6¼ in.

Anwâr-i-Suhaili (انوار سهیلی).

The Persian translation of Kalilah and Dimnah, by Ḥusain bin 'Alî al-Wâ'iẓ alkâshifî, who died A.H. 910 (A.D. 1505); comp. Bodleian Cat., Nos. 431–437; Rieu ii. p. 756; W. Pertsch, Berlin Cat., p. 970 sq.; J. Aumer, p. 46; Cat. des MSS. et Xylographes, p. 409; H. Khalfa v. p. 239; Zenker i. pp. 83 and 84. Edited Calcutta, 1804, 1816, 1824, etc.; Hertford (by Ch.

Stewart), 1805, by J. W. Ouseley, 1851; lithographed A.H. 1270; translated into English by E. B. Eastwick, Hertford, 1854, by A. N. Wollaston, London, 1878. Parts of the Anwâr-i-Suhailî have been printed in text and translation in the Asiatic Journal, vol. v, in Langlès' Chrestomathy (see on this very rare publication Pertsch, Berlin Cat., p. 442, note 2), and in Spiegel's Chrestomathia Persica, pp. 23–40. The latter have been translated into German by H. Ethé (Morgenländische Studien, Leipzig, 1868, pp. 147-166); some miscellaneous verses from the Anwâr-i-Suhailî have been published in English translation in A. Rogers' Persian Anthology, London, 1889, pp. 35–47. The composition of this modernized version of Naṣr-allâh bin Muḥammad bin al-Ḥamîd's older Persian translation of Al-Muḳaffa's' Arabic text (which was made about A.H. 539 = A.D. 1144, 1145, see Bodleian Cat., No. 430) was suggested to the author by Niẓâm-aldîn Amîr Shaikh Aḥmad al-Suhailî, who died A.H. 907 or 908 (A.D. 1501–1503). It contains fourteen chapters.

Beginning: حضرت حکیم علی الاطلاق جلت حکمته وعلا وظائف الخ.

This copy, which is very much soiled, is dated the 8th of Shawwâl, A.H. 1097 (A.D. 1688, Aug. 28). A few various readings on the margin.

No. 3458, olim S. J. 23, ff. 235, ll. 21; careless Nasta'lîḳ; size, 9½ in. by 5 in.

758

Another copy of the same.

Beginning the same. Dated by Muḥammad 'Âbid, son of a ḳâḍî in the district of Shâhjahânâbâd, who wrote it for سریرام امین برکنه دیهه, A.H. 1114 (here called the 47th year of 'Âlamgîr's reign), the 2nd of Ṣafar (A.D. 1702, June 28).

No. 342, ff. 290, ll. 19; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 12 in. by 7½ in.

The same.

Dated the 19th of Sha'bân, A.H. 1139 (here called the ninth year of Muḥammadshâh's reign) = A.D. 1727, April 11, by کوبندرام; some pages slightly injured.

No. 3137, ff. 154, ll. 23–24; Nasta'lîḳ; illuminated frontispiece; size, 10½ in. by 6½ in.

760

The same.

Dated the 7th of Rajab, A.H. 1168 (A.D. 1755, April 19).

No. 3268, olim S. J. 3, ff. 314, ll. 17; very unequal Shikasta, probably written by different hands; size, 12 in. by 7⅝ in.

761

The same.

Dated the 29th of Rajab, A.H. 1202 (A.D. 1788, May 5).

No. 442, ff. 328, ll. 17–18; Shikasta; size, 8⅝ in. by 4½ in.

A slightly defective copy of the same.

The first leaf of this copy is missing; it begins abruptly thus: . . . وای راه نمایندهٔ آدمیان الخ, corresponding to No. 3458 (757 above), fol. 2a, l. 6.

Dated the 27th of Sha'bân, A.H. 1103 (A.D. 1692, May 14), by Muḥammad Akram al-Kâtib.

No. 70, ff. 303, ll. 20; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 8½ in. by 5½ in.

763

A still more defective copy of the same.

It opens abruptly thus: باد رفتار بر جای خشك آید آتش زده گشت کوه و کان هم الخ, corresponding to No. 3458 (757 above), fol. 8a, ll. 9 and 10; the first twenty leaves or more are greatly injured and partly destroyed by worms.

No date; end of the twelfth century of the Hijrah.

No. 2701, ff. 330, ll. 16; very clear and distinct Nasta'lîḳ; size, 10½ in. by 7⅝ in.

Another defective copy of the same.

No date. A lacuna on fol. 146b, corresponding to No. 3458 (757 above), fol. 168a, l. 6, to fol. 176a, l. 12. The right order of ff. 155–201 is: 155, 157, 156, 158, 159, 161, 160, 162–184, 193–200, 188, 187, 186, 185, 192, 191, 190, 189, 201.

No. 182, ff. 306, ll. 17; Nasta'lîḳ; illuminated frontispiece; size, 11 in. by 6 in.

Another very defective copy of the same.

There is a large lacuna after fol. 81, corresponding to No. 3458 (757 above), fol. 59b, l. 4 ab infra to fol. 81b, l. 9, and a smaller one between the last two leaves; the end of fol. 379b corresponds to No. 3458, fol. 332b, l. 18, and the third line on fol. 380a to fol. 335b, l. 6, in the same copy.

No. 3366, olim S. J. 24, ff. 380, ll. 16–18; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 8½ in. by 4½ in.

An incomplete copy of the same.

This copy breaks off in the tenth chapter with the words: . . . ملازمت خواهی نمود, corresponding to the preceding copy (No. 3366), fol. 305b, l. 13. To disguise this incompleteness the transcriber has added: و بر همین صفت این کتاب کلیله ودمنه از ملك حافظ فقیر الله است. Occasionally various readings on the margin.

No. 3472, olim S. J. 22, ff. 273, ll. 19; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 9½ in. by 5½ in.

Iyâr-i-dânish (عیار دانش).

A later modernized Persian version of Kalîlah and Dimnah, in which the flowery style of the Anwâr-i-Suhailî has been toned down to a more sober and plain language, and the two introductory chapters, omitted by Ḥusain Wâ'iẓ, have been restored, on the basis of the older version of Naṣr-allâh, by Abû-alfaḍl bin Mubârak, the great prime-minister of the emperor Akbar and author of the Akbarnâma (see Nos. 235–270 in this Cat.). He completed this work, which was written at the emperor's request, the 15th of Sha'bân, A.H. 996 (A.D. 1588, July 10 = 19 Tirmâh-i-ilâhî in the year 33 = 22 Tirmâh-i-jalâlî in the year 51 = 14 Ádharmâh-i-ḳadimî in the year 967 or, according to other copies, 957 of the Yazdajird era = 17 Mâh-i-Aspâr in the Hindû year 1645 = Mâh-i-rûmî in the year 1899 of the Iskandarî era); comp. Bodleian Cat., Nos. 438–440; Rieu ii. p. 756b; W. Pertsch, Berlin Cat., p. 974 sq.; J. Aumer, p. 47; G. Flügel iii. p. 286; Notices et Extraits, x. p. 197 sq. (where extracts in text and translation are given by De Sacy). The Hindûstânî translation of this version is the خرد افروز. The 'Iyâr-i-dânish contains sixteen chapters and a khâtimah.

Beginning: سپاس ازل و ابد خداوندی را که کران تا کران از آشکارو پنهان پرتو آفتاب عالمتاب جمال اوست الخ

All the headings are unfortunately omitted in this copy, which is the oldest among the dated ones of the India Office Library, viz. completed the 9th of Rabî'-alawwal, A.H. 1090 (the twenty-second year of 'Âlamgîr's reign) = A.D. 1679, April 20. The right order of ff. 37–44 is: 37, 39–43, 38, 44.

No. 3506, olim 8. J. 2, ff. 271, ll. 16–19; large, unequal Nasta'lîḳ; size, 9¾ in. by 5½ in.

768

Another copy of the same.

This copy is a little spoiled by damp, but upon the whole good and useful, all the headings are found here distinctly written.

Bâb I, on fol. 6b: در گفتار بزرجمهر وسخنان که باین کتاب مناسبتی دارد; II, on fol. 9a: در احوال بوزرویهٔ (read بزرویهٔ); III, on fol. 30b: در گوش ناکردن سخنان طبیب; IV, on fol. 80b: در سزا یافتن بد کاران و سخن چینان; V, on fol. 103b: در فوائد دوستی و بد سرانجامیء آنها; VI, on fol. 121b: در اندیشیدن کاروبار یکدلیء دوستان; VII, on fol. 148b: دشمنان و ایمن نابودن از فریب ایشان در زیان بیخردی و از دست دادن مقصود و دیر شتافتن در آن; VIII, on fol. 160a: در زیان شتاب‌زدگی در کارها; IX, on fol. 164a: در دور اندیشی و بفریب آزاد شدن از چنگ دشمن; X, on fol. 171b: در پرهیز نمودن از کینهٔ داران و بچاپلوسیء ایشان اعتماد نا کردن; XI, on fol. 180a: در بخشیدن گناهان که خوشترین صفتی است پادشاهان را; XII, on fol. 194b: در پاداش کارها; XIII, on fol. 200b: در افزون طلبیدن واز کار خود باز ماندن; XIV, on fol. 204b: در بزرگی و دانش و گرانباری و آهستگی درکارها; XV, on fol. 216b: در بیان پرهیز نمودن پادشاهان از سخنان بیوفایان و بد اندیشان; XVI, on fol. 221b: بر التفات نانمودن بر گردش روزگار; Khâtimah, on fol. 229b.

Dated the 9th of Dhû-alḳa'dah, A.H. 1152 = A.D. 1740, Feb. 7 (here called by mistake the twenty-seventh year of Muḥammadshâh's reign, instead of the twenty-first), by Laṭîf-allâh bin Khair-allâh 'alawî, at 'Aẓîmâbâd.

No. 1692, ff. 232, ll. 17–18; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 9½ in. by 5½ in.

769

The same.

Another very good and distinctly written copy, quite agreeing in its chapter-headings with the preceding copy.

Bâb I, on fol. 8b; II, on fol. 11b; III, on fol. 45a; IV, on fol. 116a; V, on fol. 148a; VI, on fol. 171a; VII, on fol. 206b; VIII, on fol. 222a; IX, on fol. 227b; X, on fol. 238a; XI, on fol. 255a; XII, on fol. 268a; XIII, on fol. 275b (the heading of this bâb is left blank); XIV, on fol. 282b; XV, on fol. 299b; XVI, on fol. 307a; Khâtimah, on fol. 317b.

No date. The proper order of ff. 297–304 is: 297, 299, 298, 300, 301, 303, 302, 304.

No. 548, ff. 321, ll. 16–17; distinct Nasta'lîḳ; illuminated frontispiece; size, 8½ in. by 5¾ in.

770

The same.

Another good copy, with distinct chapter-headings.

Bâb I, on fol. 7a; II, on fol. 9b; III, on fol. 32a; IV, on fol. 80b; V, on fol. 102a; VI, on fol. 121b; VII, on fol. 147b; VIII, on fol. 160b; IX, on fol. 164a; X, on fol. 171b; XI, on fol. 181a; XII, on fol. 196a; XIII, on fol. 202a; XIV, not marked; XV, on fol. 220b; XVI, on fol. 226b; Khâtimah, on fol. 234a.

No date.

No. 1403, ff. 236, ll. 21; distinct Nasta'lîḳ, by several hands; illustrations on ff. 22b, 23a and b, 24b, 28a, 30a, 33b, 34b, 35b, 36b, 37a and b, 39a, 40a, 106b, 107a, 114b, 129a, 141b, 142a, 143a and b, 154a and b, 155a, 157a, 158b, 159b, 167a and b, 168b, 170a, 172b, 173a, 174a, 183b, 194a, 206b, 219b, and 232a; numerous other blanks left for pictures which have not been filled in; size, 12½ in. by 6½ in.

771

The same.

Beginning: سپاس از ازل و ابد خداوندی را که کران تا کران از آشکارا و نهان پرتوء (read پرتو) آفتاب عالمتاب الخ

Index, on fol. 9b.

Contents (agreeing upon the whole with those in the three preceding copies): Bâb I, on fol. 10a; II, on fol. 14a; III, on fol. 50a; IV, on fol. 133b; V, on fol. 172a (در فوائد یکدل بودن با دوستان); VI, on fol. 203a; VII, on fol. 247a; VIII, on fol. 266a (headed here less correctly در زیان و شتاب‌زدگی); IX, on fol. 273a (here از چنگ دشمن instead of از دشمن); X, on fol. 285b (در پرهیز نمودن از کینهٔ داران وتکیه ناکردن بر چاپلوسیء ایشان); XI, on fol. 299b (in the text the heading of bâb X is repeated here by mistake; in the index the wording is correct, only صفت instead of صفتی); XII, on fol. 325a (در بیان پاداشتن الخ); XIII, on fol. 335a (در حرز افزون طلبیدن الخ); XIV, on fol. 344a (در بزرگیء

(دانش و گرانباری و آهستگی در کارها خصوصًا پادشاهان را); XV, on fol. 365b; XVI, on fol. 376a.

No date. College of Fort William, 1825.

No. 2055, ff. 394, ll. 13; large Nasta'lîḳ; the older portion of the copy comprises ff. 39–378; ff. 1–38 and 379–394 are of a more recent date; size, 9 in. by 5½ in.

772

The same.

No date. Khâtimah, on fol. 232a.

No. 1539, ff. 235, ll. 21; Nasta'lîḳ, ff. 9–16 supplied by another hand, ll. 20; illuminated frontispiece; size, 11⅞ in. by 5½ in.

773

The same.

No date. Khâtimah, on fol. 424b, last line.

No. 1816, ff. 430, ll. 14; large and distinct Nasta'lîḳ; ff. 1–67, 410–419 and 426–430 supplied by a modern hand; size, 9¾ in. by 5¼ in.

774

A defective copy of the same.

This copy, which is not dated, opens abruptly thus: . . . دانایان پیشین است چه از کوهها دانایان خواسته اند الخ, corresponding to No. 1692 (768 above), fol. 2a, lin. penult. Index, on ff. 7b–8a.

Bâb I, on fol. 8b; II, on fol. 12b; III, on fol. 53b; IV, on fol. 147a; V, on fol. 190b (با در فوائد یکدلی دوستان); VI, on fol. 225a; VII, on fol. 275b; VIII (beginning wanting, as there are seven leaves entirely torn away between ff. 295 and 296, comprising fol. 159a, l. 7 to fol. 162a, l. 11 in No. 1692; half of fol. 294 is likewise torn away); IX, on fol. 300a; X, on fol. 314b, first line; XI, on fol. 330b, first line (heading omitted); XII, on fol. 358b; XIII, on fol. 370a; XIV, on fol. 380a (در بزرگیء دانش الخ); XV, on fol. 404a; XVI, on fol. 416b (در اکتفا ننمودن بر گردش روزگار); Khâtimah, on fol. 432b.

No. 3209, ff. 438, ll. 15; Nasta'lîḳ; pencil-notes in English throughout; size, 8¾ in. by 5¼ in.

A still more defective copy of the same.

This copy opens abruptly, on fol. 1a, with these words: . . . . . گشاده اند نظم درین بستان زبان باید الخ, corresponding to No. 1692 (768 above), fol. 1a, l. 6.

Bâb I, on fol. 9a; II, on fol. 12a; III, on fol. 44b (in this bâb there are three lacunas, viz. one after fol. 55, corresponding to No. 1692, fol. 38b, l. 6, to fol. 39a, end of l. 11; the second after fol. 56, corresponding to fol. 39b, last line, to fol. 40b, l. 8 in the same copy; the third after fol. 58b, corresponding to fol. 42a, l. 8, to fol. 42b, l. 3 ab infra in the same copy); IV, on fol. 114b; with the heading of bâb V, on fol. 148b: باب پنجم در فوائد یکدل بودن با دوستان (No. 1692, fol. 103b, l. 3), this copy breaks off. A portion of fol. 74 is torn away at the bottom.

No. 2732, ff. 148, ll. 15; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 9¼ in. by 5¼ in.

Another fragmentary copy of the same.

This very incomplete copy is besides in a state of helpless confusion. So far as we have been able to rearrange the leaves, their proper order appears to be: ff. 1–8, large blank, 129–136, 121–128, 113–120, 105–112, 97–104, 89–92, lacuna, 37–40, 25–32, 17–24, 9–16, blank and lacuna, 93–96, 81–88, 73–80 (between ff. 79 and 80 probably a small blank), 65–72, 57–64, 49–56, 41–48, 33–36. The only headings which appear are those of the third bâb on fol. 97a and of the fourth on fol. 37a.

No. 1186, ff. 136, ll. 15; Nasta'lîḳ; the first eight leaves added by a more recent hand; size, 8¼ in. by 5¼ in.

Another disorderly copy of the same.

This most peculiar copy agrees in the preface and the first bâbs, although they are without headings, entirely with the preceding ones (index on fol. 9a, first bâb on fol. 10a), but further on a great disorder begins, and the copy differs altogether from the usual ones; for instance, there suddenly occurs, on fol. 52b, another first bâb: باب اوّل در اجتناب نمودن از قول ساعی و نمّام; on fol. 102b, a third bâb (comp. bâb V in the usual copies): باب سیم در موافقت دوستان و فوائد معاضدت ایشان; on fol. 220b, a fourth bâb: باب چهارم در ملاحظه کردن احوال دشمنان و ایمن نا بودن از مکر و حیلهٔ ایشان (comp. bâb VI in the usual copies). Then follows, on fol. 280b, a tenth bâb: باب دهم در بیان خرابیّ اعمال بطریق مکافات; an eleventh bâb, on fol. 290a: باب یازدهم در مضرّت افزون طلبیدن و از کار خود باز ماندن (comp. bâb XIII in the usual copies); a twelfth bâb, on fol. 303a: باب دوازدهم در فضیلت حلم الخ; a thirteenth bâb, on fol. 340b: باب سیزدهم اجتناب کردن ملوك از قول غدر و خیانت (comp. bâb XV in the usual copies); a fourteenth bâb, on fol. 362b: باب چهاردهم در عدم انقلاب زمان. This chapter is the last in the copy, which was presented by J. Wombwell, Esq., the 10th of April, 1804.

No. 1550, ff. 381, ll. 15; written by different hands very unequally and incorrectly in Nasta'lîḳ and Shikasta; size, 9¾ in. by 6 in.

Laṭâ'if-alṭawâ'if (لطائف الطوائف).

Jests and witty stories about the different classes of mankind, compiled by 'Alî bin Ḥusain alwâ'iẓ alkâshifî (the son of the author of the Anwâr-i-Suhaili), better known as Ṣafî (not Nasafi, as is wrongly written here), and completed shortly after A.H. 939 (A.D. 1532, 1533), in Gharjistân, where he had betaken himself after many hardships and a year's captivity in Harât, at the court of Naṣîr-aldaulah wa Ẓahir-almillah Shâh Muḥammad, the Sulṭân of Gharjistân; comp. Bodleian Cat., Nos. 454–457; Rieu ii. p. 757 sq.; W. Pertsch, Berlin Cat.,

p. 975 sq. Another title, sometimes given to this work, is لطائف الظرائف. It is divided into fourteen bâbs, viz.:

I. در بیان استحباب مزاح و ذکر بعضی از مطائبات پیغمبر باصحابه الخ (about Muḥammad), in eight faṣls, on fol. 3b.

II. در ذکر بعضی از نکات شریفه و حکایات لطیفهٔ ائمّهٔ معصومین (about the Imâms), in twelve faṣls, on fol. 15b.

III. در ذکر حکایات لطیفهٔ ملوك و نکات ظریفهٔ سلاطین (about kings), in ten faṣls, on fol. 33a.

IV. در لطائف امرا و مقرّبان و ظرائف وزرا و ارباب دیوان (about Amirs, favourites, wazirs, and other high state dignitaries), in six faṣls, on fol. 43b.

V. در لطائف ادیبان و منشیان و ندیمان و سپاهان و دلیران در مناظرهٔ پادشاهان (about men of letters, Munshis, courtiers, officers, etc.), in six faṣls, on fol. 52b.

VI. در لطائف اعراب و نکات فصحا و بلغا و ذکر بعضی از حکم و امثال ایشان (about Bedouins, grammarians, orators, etc.), in five faṣls, on fol. 61a.

VII. در لطائف مشایخ و علما و فضلا و فقها و اصحاب تذکیر (about Shaikhs, 'Ulamâs, legal men, etc.), in eight faṣls, on fol. 74b.

VIII. در لطائف حکماء متقدّمین و متأخّرین و حکایات عجیبهٔ اطبّا و معبّرین و منجّمین (about philosophers, old and new, physicians, interpreters of dreams, and astrologers), in eight faṣls, on fol. 85b.

IX. در لطائف شعرا و بدیهه گفتن ایشان در محلّها و ذکر بعضی از عجائب صنائع شعری و غرائب بدائع فکریّ ایشان (about poets, etc.), in nine faṣls, on fol. 97b.

X. در لطائف ظریفان از مردان و زنان (about male and female wags), in eleven faṣls, on fol. 127b.

XI. در حکایات و لطائف بخیلان و پرخوران و طفیلیان (about misers, gluttons, and parasites), in five faṣls, on fol. 149b.

XII. در لطائف طامعان و دزدان و گدایان و کوران و کران (about greedy men, thieves, beggars, blind and deaf men), in eight faṣls, on fol. 156b.

XIII. در لطائف کودکان و غلامان و کنیزکان زیرك و تیز فهم (about clever children and slaves), in seven faṣls, on fol. 160b.

XIV. در لطائف و حکایات ابلهان و کذّابان و مدّعیان نبوت و دیوانگان (about silly people, liars, and impostors), in seven faṣls, on fol. 174b.

Beginning: بعد از ادای لطائف تحمیدات الهی و وظائف صلوات حضرت رسالت پناهی علیه و آله صلوات الخ.

Dated the 11th of Sha'bân, A. H. 1191 (A. D. 1777, September 14).

No. 1359, ff. 1–185, ll. 17; clear Nasta'lîḳ, on fol. 78a a second hand seems to commence; size, 8¾ in. by 4¾ in.

779

Another copy of the same.

Beginning as in the preceding copy.

Bâb I, on fol. 3a; II, on fol. 12b; III, on fol. 27a; IV, on fol. 35b; V, on fol. 43a; VI, on fol. 50a; VII, on fol. 61a (here wrongly styled فصل instead of باب); VIII, on fol. 71b; IX, on fol. 83b; X, on fol. 111a; XI, on fol. 131b; XII, on fol. 137b; XIII, on fol. 146b; XIV, on fol. 154b. The title given to it in the colophon is لطائف الظرائف (see the remark in the preceding copy); the proper title لطائف الطوائف appears on fol. 2b, last line, and fol. 3a, first line.

The first owner of this copy, which is not dated, was Mirzâ Muḥammad Ḥasan bin Ghaḍanfarkhân 'Âlamgîrshâhî.

No. 1804, ff. 164, ll. 17; clear and distinct Nasta'lîḳ; small illuminated frontispiece; size, 10½ in. by 6 in.

Ḳiṣṣa-i-Ḥâtim Ṭâ'î (قصّهٔ حاتم طائی).

The Persian romance of Ḥâtim Ṭâ'î, the model of liberality and generosity in the East, beginning, exactly as No. 451 in the Bodleian Cat.: سپاس بی قیاس مر پروردگاریرا جلّ شانه و هزاران نعمت بر آن سرور کائنات حضرت ..... راویان اخبار و ناقلان آثار چنین روایت میکنند در بیان تولّد حاتم بن طی بن کهلان الخ.

Comp. Bodleian Cat., Nos. 449, 2–451; Rieu ii. p. 764; J. Aumer, p. 55; W. Pertsch, Berlin Cat., p. 991; A. F. Mehren, p. 33. This romance has been translated into English by Duncan Forbes, London, 1830; the Calcutta edition by J. Atkinson, 1818, contains only an abridgment of it. Other editions, Constantinople, 1840, and Bombay. A different version of the same story, made by Ḥusain al-Wâ'iẓ alkâshifî, A. H. 891 (A. D. 1486), is described in Bodleian Cat., No. 452, and W. Pertsch, Berlin Cat., p. 992. This copy is severely damaged by worms in many places, and not dated.

No. 2472, ff. 160, ll. 13; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 8¾ in. by 6 in.

781

Another copy of the same.

The same story of Ḥâtim Ṭâ'î, styled here قصّهٔ حاتم طائی و حسن بانو. No date.

Beginning as in the preceding copy.

No. 750, ff. 119, ll. 17; large and distinct Nasta'lîḳ; worm-eaten; size, 11½ in. by 7¾ in.

782

A short fragment of the same.

Beginning as in the preceding copies. On fol. 380a, the first faṣl begins (فصل اوّل در بیان سرگذشت حسن بانو دختر برنغ بازرگان و اخراج کردن از شهر پادشاه خراسان الخ).

The last words on fol. 413b agree practically (of course the exact wording differs, as in all popular romances, considerably in the various copies) with the beginning of fol. 12a, in the preceding copy.

Copied in the beginning of the present century.

No. 2383, ff. 371–413, ll. 11; large Nasta'lîḳ; size, 8¼ in. by 5¼ in.

Ḳiṣṣa-i-Ḥâtim Ṭâ'î.

A much fuller and greatly enlarged redaction of the romance of Ḥâtim Ṭâ'î, more than twice as large as the preceding copies and as all the other editions of this work, hitherto known. It consists of two different portions, the first of which is styled هفت سَیْر حاتم طی (see the same additional title in Rieu, loc. cit.), and begins exactly in the same manner as the preceding copies, besides being nearly the same length as that, viz.: سپاس بیقیاس مر پروردگاری را جلّ شانه و هزاران نعت بر آن محمّد مصطفی الخ.

The second part is styled هفت انصاف حاتم طی, and begins on fol. 170a: راویٔ ذو فنون بمضمون موزون معروف بمتی بعبارت صاف هفت انصاف حاتم طی را بیان میکند که چون حاتم طی از آن سفرها که بسبب حسن بانو الخ.

Ḳiṣṣa-i-Amîr Ḥamzah (قصّهٔ امیر حمزه).

An incomplete copy of the romance of Amîr Ḥamzah, the son of 'Abd-almuṭṭalib and uncle of the prophet, in a version similar, as it seems, to that in the copy of the Bodleian Library (Bodleian Cat., No. 473), and the second and third copy of the British Museum (Rieu ii. p. 761). It begins thus: الحمد لله ..... امّا بعد قصّهٔ داستان مرد میدان پهلوان روی زمین عمّ رسول آخر الزمان امیر حمزه بن عبد المطّلب بن هاشم بن مناف قریشی که مبارزان عالم را حلقهٔ بندگی بگوش انداخته چنین آورده اند که در قرن ماضیه که در ایران زمین پادشاهی بود در شهر مدائن الخ.

This copy breaks off at the end of the fifty-eighth dâstân, which deals with the battle of Uḥad, and begins on fol. 159a. The whole work contains, according to the various copies, from seventy to eighty dâstân. On the possible authorship of Mullâ Jalâl Balkhî, comp. Rieu, loc. cit., and Garcin de Tassy, Histoire de la littér. Hind., 2nd ed., vol. i. p. 236; on Turkish versions of the Ḥamzanâma, Fleischer, Kleinere Schriften, iii. p. 228; Bodleian Cat., No. 2108; and G. Flügel ii. p. 29. Another copy of this romance is noticed in J. Aumer, p. 55. Lithographed in Lucknow.

No date. Bibliotheca Leydeniana.

No. 2567, ff. 165, ll. 21; Naskhî, mixed with Shikasta; size, 8¾ in. by 6 in.

Portion of an enlarged version of the same.

The incomplete romance, contained in this most incorrect copy, and styled on fol. 1a, both (!) قصّهٔ امیر همزه and قصّهٔ امیر عرب, seems to be an enlarged and greatly modified redaction of the original Ḥamzanâma, resembling that defective copy of the رموز حمزه (or as it is styled with the same mistake in spelling as here: رموز همزه), which is described in Rieu ii. p. 761 (Add. 24,418). A great number of the first chapters are apparently missing here; the portion preserved in our copy contains thirty short داستان (on ff. 1b, 8b, 12b, 16a, 19b, 29b, 33a, 39b, 42b, 47a, 59b, 62b, 65a, 68a, 69b, 77b, 82b, 91a, 99b, 104a, 108a, 113a, 119a, 130a, 136b, 143a, 145b, 163a, 173a, and 184b), every one of which begins with the phrase (read سر) آمدم بر سری داستان. Among the prominent characters that appear here are, besides Ḥamzah himself (called امیر عرب or عرب همزهٔ (!)) and the prophet Muḥammad, شاهزادهٔ بدیع, زمرّدشاه, عاص بن انوس, بابا عمر عیار, ایرج الزمان, etc.

Beginning of this copy, after the standard phrase which introduces every chapter: امّا للمین آرایان بساطین (read بساتین) اخبار و نحل پیرایان فرداس (read فردوس) اشعار گلدستهٔ سخن تازه تر ازو نسترین (از نسرین or read نسترین) ازین باغ کهن چنین به بزم بیان آورده اند که بابا عمر عیار بر دری (read در) بارگاه زمرّدشاه رسید الخ.

No date. The رموز حمزه have been printed in seven vols., Ṭahrân, A.H. 1274.

No. 942, ff. 186, ll. 19; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 8¼ in. by 5¼ in.

Ḳiṣṣa-i-Shâh-i-mardân 'Alî (قصّهٔ شاه مردان علی).

Another very large, but likewise incomplete, Persian romance of similar character and similar contents as the preceding one, and therefore styled, in a note, on fol. 1a, قصّهٔ حمزه; but whether it is merely another enlarged version of the Ḥamzanâma or rather an independent romance, dealing with heroic deeds of the same period, is difficult to say; at any rate, the chief hero here is 'Alî bin Abî Ṭâlib, Muḥammad's son-in-law and fourth Khalîf, not Ḥamzah, the prophet's uncle; every paragraph begins with the words امّا در محلّ و زمانی که, and closes with the phrase یا علی مدد. On the other hand, several characters appearing in the preceding copy of the Ḥamzanâma, are found here too, for instance, زمرّدشاه. In spite of its excessive length, this copy is by no means complete; it begins abruptly thus: امّا در محلّ و زمانی که نقاب وار گوهربوش طهماسب را گرفت زمرّدشارا گرفت نقاب وار از عقب عمر الخ, and a great number of leaves are missing at the end; there is also a blank between the middle of fol. 6a and that of fol. 7a, and portions of ff. 8, 650, and 651 are torn away. Neither date nor author's name appears anywhere. The same note on fol. 1a which gives to this romance the title of قصّهٔ حمزه also states that it was copied A.H. 1083 (A.D. 1672, 1673).

No. 897, ff. 664, ll. 17; distinct Nasta'lîḳ; size, 10 in. by 5½ in.

Dârâbnâma (دارابنامه).

A slightly incomplete copy of one of the numerous historical romances or collections of romantic stories, founded on Persian legends, by Abû Ṭâhir of Ṭarsus (or with his full name, Abû Ṭâhir Muḥammad bin Ḥasan bin 'Alî bin Mûsâ Ṭarṭûsî or Ṭarsûsî), the fruitful author of prose-epopees in imitation of Firdausî's Shâhnâma, comp. Mohl, Livre des Rois, i. préface, pp. 74 and 75. Other works of Abû Ṭâhir are the Ḳahramânnâma (also called Dâstân-i-Ḳahramân or Ḥikâyat-i-Ḳahramân-i-Ḳâtil, see W. Pertsch, Berlin Cat., p. 993; and on the Turkish translation of the same, W. Pertsch, Berlin Turkish Cat., p. 460 sq., and Fleischer, Cat. Lips., p. 522) and the Ḳirân-i-Ḥabashî (in Turkish translation in Bodleian Cat., No. 2101; Rieu, Turkish Cat., p. 219 sq., etc.). Abû Ṭâhir's original version of the present romance on Darius and Alexander had, according to the conclusion, on fol. 444a, been preserved in the library of the emperor Akbar and put into its present form by Kaikubâd bin Mihyâr, at the request of another eminent Persian, Nûshirwân bin Bahmânshâh. From the brouillon of that compiler, the present copy was made by 'Abd-alraḥmân, and finished the 8th of Jumâdâ-alawwal, A.H. 1026 (A.D. 1617, May 14). The beginning is missing; it opens in the middle of the mythical account of Dârâb's youth, in the usual manner of all Oriental fairy tales.

The first and several other leaves are greatly injured.

No. 980, ff. 444, ll. 25 on ff. 1–94 with many blanks, ll. 21 on ff. 95–443; written by two different hands in Naskhî; size, 11¼ in. by 7¼ in.

Ḳiṣṣa-i-Saif-almulûk wa Badî'-aljamâl (قصّهٔ سيف الملوك و بديع الجمال).

The love-story of prince Saif-almulûk and princess Badî'-aljamâl, a tale from the Arabian nights in Persian translation or adaptation; the redaction of the story in the present copy is the common or second one, agreeing with No. 461 in the Bodleian Cat., Rieu ii. p. 764 (Egerton 1018), and W. Pertsch, Berlin Cat., p. 996 (No. 1044), and beginning: سپاس و ستایش بیقیاس مر صانعی را که بقلم صنع خود این همه صورتهای عجب..... امّا بعد چنین گویند (Bodl. copy گویند) راویان اخبار و ناقلان آثار و حکیمان و بزرگان روزگار که در ایّام محمود غازی الخ

Comp. also G. Flügel ii. p. 27. An Eastern Turkish version in mathnawî-baits, composed A.H. 960 in Rabî'-alawwal (A.D. 1553, Febr.–March) is preserved in No. 2824, ff. 1–85, of this collection.

Dated the 19th of Ramaḍân in the seventeenth year of Muḥammadshâh's reign (A.H. 1148=A.D. 1736, Febr. 2).

No. 536, ff. 67, ll. 17; Nasta'lîḳ; very curious and comical illustrations on ff. 4a, 5a, 14a, 14b, 17a, 17b, 21a, 23b, 25b, 26a, 31b, 34a, 34b, 36b, 38a, 39b, 41b, 51a, 52a, 54b, 55a (the full page), 59b, 60a (again the full page), 63b, 64a (the full page), 66b and 67a (one picture, filling the two pages); size, 8 in. by 4½ in.

789

Another copy of the same.

The same redaction of the story, as in the preceding copy.

Beginning: آغاز داستان قصّهٔ سيف الملك (sic!) وبديع الجمال، سپاس و ستایش بیقیاس مر صانعی را الخ

No date; the original part of the MS., in bold Naskhî, is considerably old and much damaged.

Bibliotheca Leydeniana.

No. 2197, ff. 1–67, ll. 14–15; Naskhî, except ff. 1–5, 11, and 51–67, which have been added by a much more modern hand, on white paper in Nasta'lîḳ, ll. 10–11; size, 8½ in. by 5 in.

790

The same.

The same redaction again, beginning: سپاس و ستایش الخ; this modern copy was finished the 8th of Jumâdâ-alawwal, A.H. 1217 (A.D. 1802, September 6), at Patna. Bibliotheca Leydeniana.

No. 2383, ff. 1–126, ll. 11; large Nasta'lîḳ; size, 8½ in. by 5½ in.

A shorter redaction of the same story.

This redaction, considerably shorter and differing much in the wording (comp. Bodleian Cat., Nos. 462 and 463, and Rieu ii. p. 765), begins: راویان اخبار و ناقلان آثار و خوانندگان تواریخ ..... چنین آورده اند که سلطان محمود پادشاه را الخ

Dated the 11th of Rabî'-althânî, A.H. 1120 (A.D. 1708, June 30).

No. 1197, ff. 41b–73, ll. 15; Shikasta, partly written in diagonal lines; size, 8½ in. by 4½ in.

Another short redaction of the same.

Title: قصّهٔ سيف الملك (sic!) و بديع الجمال و گلستان ارم (see W. Pertsch, loc. cit.) و ساعد و شهباز بادشاه پریان و غیر این من منشی نواز.

Beginning: بدانکه چنین آورده اند راویان اخبار و ناقلان اثرار (sic! instead of آثار) و گذارندگان سخنان که در زمین پیشین شهنشاه عادل سلطان محمود سبکتگین رحمة الله علیه بخدمت سلطنت پناهی سرفراز گشت الخ

Dated the 3rd of Rabî'-alawwal (the year is left out).

No. 3083, ff. 10–48, ll. 13; Naskhî, mixed with Shikasta; size, 7¾ in. by 5½ in.

Ma'dan-aljawâhir (معدن الجواهر).

A collection of moral tales and anecdotes in twenty-two bâbs and a conclusion, or اختتام, made by Mullâ Ṭarzî, A.H. 1025=A.D. 1616 (see author's name and ta'rîkh, viz. تاریخ او کتاب جهانگیر بادشاه, on fol. 206a, l. 12 sq.), and dedicated to the emperor Jahângîr.

This copy, which is not dated, but contains among the MSS. of the India Office collection the fullest redaction of the work, begins: جهان جهان نیایش جهانداری را سزد که رایات جهانگیری فرمان روایان والا شکوه بر اوج گنبذ گردان الخ.

Comp. on this collection Bodleian Cat., Nos. 464 and 465 (containing the shorter redaction in seventeen bâbs, see No. 795 below); W. Pertsch, Berlin Cat., p. 983 (also the shorter redaction); J. Aumer, p. 60; and Rieu iii. p. 1038.

Index, on fol. 11a. Bâb I (در بیان درجهٔ شهادت و قدرتی الخ), on fol. 11b; II (در عشق و محبّت), on fol. 17b; III (در جود و سخاوت), on fol. 62a; IV (در فضیلت توکّل و قناعت), on fol. 84a; V (در فضیلت اکل حلال وصدق مقال), on fol. 89b; VI (در بیان بخشایش الهی الخ), on fol. 94a; VII (در بیان استغنای ایزدی الخ), on fol. 97b; VIII (در وفا و حقیقت و نتیجهٔ آن), on fol. 101b; IX (در بیوفائی و بیحقیقی و ثمرهٔ آن), on fol. 113b; X (در بیان پاداش تهمت و افترا الخ), on fol. 130a; XI (آنکه طینت آدمی‌زاد بآب غم سرشته), on fol. 135b; XII (در فضیلت دیانت و امانت), on fol. 141a; XIII (در نتیجهٔ بیدیانتی و کفران نعمت), on fol. 145b; XIV (در معدلت و انصاف), on fol. 150b; XV (در نتائج نتیجهٔ), on fol. 156b; XVI (پرستی و دغابازی اندیشهٔ تباه در بارهٔ مردم بیگناه), on fol. 158a; XVII (در بیان گوش کردن اندرز خیر سگالان صواب اندیشه), on fol. 179a; XVIII (در بیان احوال ستاره شناسان الخ), on fol. 183a; XIX (در بیان حقیقت سرود و سماع), on fol. 187a; XX (در بیان شگفتهای تقدیر), on fol. 190a; XXI (در مذمّت فقر اضطراری), on fol. 191b; XXII (در نگارش تلبیس زنان مکارهٔ بدکاره), on fol. 195a. Conclusion (در بیان احوال خویش و نیاکان رفیع الشان), on fol. 205a.

No. 1559, ff. 206, ll. 14–17 (ff. 195–204, ll. 13 on different paper); Nasta'lîk, by various hands; size, 9¾ in. by 5¾ in.

Another copy of the same.

This copy, dated the 4th of Dhû-alḳa'dah, A. H. 1102 (A. D. 1691, July 30), contains the same twenty-two bâbs, but lacks the conclusion or اختتام, just as the first Munich copy (No. 189 in J. Aumer, loc. cit.).

Beginning as in the preceding copy. Index, on fol. 8a, l. 9 sq.

No. 3158, ff. 215, ll. 15; Nasta'lîk; illuminated frontispiece; size, 7¾ in. by 4½ in.

795

A shorter redaction of the same.

This copy contains the text of the Ma'dan-aljawâhir in that shorter form in which it is found in the two Bodleian copies, the second Munich copy (J. Aumer, No. 190), and the Berlin copy, viz. in seventeen bâbs only, to which are added between the second and third two other bâbs, corresponding to the twenty-second and the third in the preceding copies (beginning here respectively on ff. 63a and 85b), and the same conclusion as in No. 793, exhibiting the name of the author, Ṭarzi, and the chronogram for A. H. 1025. The seventeen bâbs of this copy correspond to those in No. 793, as follows: Bâb I, on fol. 8b=1st; II, on fol. 13a=2nd; III, on fol. 97a=9th; IV, on fol. 113b=12th; V, on fol. 118a=8th; VI, on fol. 126b=10th; VII, on fol. 134a=14th; VIII, on fol. 138a=4th; IX, on fol. 141b=5th; X, on fol. 144b=7th; XI, on fol. 147b=6th; XII, on fol. 150a=11th; XIII, on fol. 153a=21st; XIV, on fol. 157a=20th; XV, on fol. 161b=19th; XVI, on fol. 164b=18th; XVII, on fol. 169a=16th. Conclusion, on fol. 170b. Entirely missing are consequently bâbs 13, 15, and 17 of the larger redaction.

No date.

No. 1527, ff. 172, ll. 17; Nasta'lîk; size, 11¾ in. by 8 in.

796

Two short stories, on ff. 203–206a and ff. 206a–216 respectively; the first alleged to have been taken from the preceding معدن الجواهر and beginning: یکی از عارفان حقیقی بگذارش آورده که جوانی از ممالک هندوستان بفضائل گوناگون الخ.

The second, without a heading, opens thus: در نامهای باستانی بنظر درآمده که در ولایت گیلان الخ.

The last pages a little injured.

No. 95, ff. 203–216, ll. 15; Shikasta; size, 8¼ in. by 4¾ in.

Jâmi'-alḥikâyât (جامع الحکایات).

A collection of Persian stories, compiled from various sources in prose, interspersed with verses, by an anonymous author. Beginning, on fol. 2b:

ای خامهٔ سحرسنج بخرام — در راه سخن‌وری بنه گام.

Fol. 1 contains a useful index. The title of this collection appears on fol. 2b, l. 6. Both the contents, and the few dates of composition which are found at the end of some of these stories, viz. Rajab, A. H. 1028 (A. D. 1619, June, July), on fol. 21b, l. 3 ab infra; and 4th of Sha'bân, A. H. 1025 (A. D. 1616, Aug. 17), on fol. 41b, last line (A. H. 1046=A. D. 1636, 1637, at the end of the whole work is probably the date of the copy), show, clearly enough, that this collection has nothing in common with 'Aufi's well-known work of a similar title (see Nos. 600–604 in this Cat.).

The order of leaves, which are misplaced in a rather bewildering manner, is as follows: ff. 1–172, 217–228, 201–216, 173–200, 229–400.

Contents:

1. حکایت پادشاه که در تلاش مرد بیغم سعی کرد, on fol. 2b.
2. حکایت شاهزاده که در حیات پدر سفر اختیار کرد, on fol. 11b.
3. حکایت مردی منعم از شهر حلب, on fol. 21b.
4. حکایت حجّاج بن یوسف ثقفی (styled at the end حکایت مسعود دمشقی و حجّاج), on fol. 24b.

5. حکایت خشت زن شهرکازرون, on fol. 41b, last line.

6. حکایت ملك فارس عزّالملك و پسر او مجد الملك, on fol. 52a.

7. حکایت عزیز و زن, on fol. 74a (this story corresponds to the ninth in a collection of Persian tales in the Bodleian Cat., No. 477, col. 438).

8. حکایت بازرگان که در کاروان‌سرای نیشاپور فرود آمده بود, on fol. 79a.

9. حکایت هشام بن عبد الملك (this tale, which is not marked in the index, is taken from Ahmad bin A'tham al-Kûfî's كتاب فتوح in the Persian translation, described in Nos. 131–133 of this Cat.), on fol. 82a.

10. حکایت هارون الرشید وجوان سگ پرست, on fol. 84b.

11. حکایت شیخ صنعان و مریدان, on fol. 97b (compare Bacher, Karl der Grosse und seine Tochter Emma in Zeitschrift der D. Morgenl. Gesellschaft, vol. 34, p. 614).

12. حکایت چهار مرد (at the end: حکایت شهر بیجانان), on fol. 114b.

13. حکایت پری و شاهزاده (in the index: حکایت پادشاه و پسر), in three قصّه, on ff. 119b, 123b, and 124b.

14. حکایت شاهزادهٔ جوان و جوان بخت (in the index: حکایت پادشاه بلاد مغرب و سه پسر او), on fol. 125b.

15. حکایت بهرام گور و کنیزك (دلآرام), on fol. 141a.

16. حکایت شاهزادهٔ نوجوان و دختر شاه یمن (in the index: حکایت پادشاه ولایت خطا), on fol. 146b.

17. حکایت دختر شاه کشمیر وشاهزادهٔ قنوج, on fol. 163b.

18. حکایت رضوان شاه وپری و چشمه و آهو, on fol. 222a.

19. حکایت هارون الرشید واسحق موصلی, on fol. 204b.

20. حکایت آن شاهزاده که مادر و پدر بفروخت و با دختر ملك چین مناظره کرد, on fol. 209a. (It is in substance identical with the original of Gozzi's and Schiller's Turandot, comp. another incomplete copy of the same story in No. 798; at the end the same moral inferences, which are given in the following copy.)

21. حکایت پادشاه شمشیر بند, on fol. 183a (corresponding to the eighth story in the above-mentioned collection, Bodleian Cat., No. 477, col. 438).

22. حکایت مرد و زن, on fol. 195b.

23. حکایت مرد و زن جمیل, on fol. 195b.

24. حکایت مرد مطرب و زن صاحب جمال, on fol. 196a.

25. حکایت ابو بکر رقّاق, on fol. 196a.

26. حکایت پادشاه و دختر سپه سالار, on fol. 196b.

27. حکایت مرد بنا ومهندس و زن مستوره, on fol. 229b.

28. حکایت آن پادشاه‌زاده که در خواب بر دختری عاشق شد که سه خال بر روی داشت, on fol. 243b.

29. حکایت خالد جوهری (در شهربصره) و پسرش منصور و یوسف حجّام, on fol. 270b.

30. داستان آن پادشاه که زن پری‌زاد خواست و قصّهٔ مار سیاه وسفید, on fol. 303b.

31. داستان سعد و سعید و شمعون جهود و مرغ سعادت, on fol. 307a.

32. حکایت پادشاه دریا بار و صد پسر, on fol. 316a.

33. حکایت داستان شاهزاده و حصیرباف, on fol. 324b.

34. داستان ماهی‌گیر و پسر, on fol. 326a.

35. حکایت پادشاه شهر بغداد, on fol. 332a.

36. داستان بازرگان بصره, on fol. 333a. (This and the following eight stories are in substance identical with the tales of the Bakhtyâr-nâma, comp. Sir W. Ouseley's edition of it, London, 1801.)

37. حکایت پادشاه حلب, on fol. 336b.

38. داستان مرد صابر, on fol. 339b.

39. حکایت پادشاه یمن, on fol. 344a.

40. حکایت پادشاه بلاد طبرستان, on fol. 347b.

41. حکایت پادشاه حبشه, on fol. 352b.

42. حکایت مرد جواهرشناس بغداد, on fol. 358a.

43. حکایت ابو تمام, on fol. 361b.

44. حکایت پادشاه حجاز, on fol. 364b.

45. حکایت منصور دمشقی و گنج یافتن, on fol. 367b (corresponding to the fourth story in the above-mentioned collection, Bodleian Cat., No. 477, col. 438).

46. حکایت پادشاه و پسر عاقل, on fol. 374b (corresponding to the third story in the same).

47. حکایت قاضی که از خرمن گل بزیر افتاد, on fol. 379a.

48. حکایت خشت زن و خلیفهٔ بغداد, on fol. 380b.

49. حکایت مرد ابطال در شهر کوفه, on fol. 384b.

50. حکایت مردی در عهد عضد الدوله در شهر بغداد, on fol. 390b.

51. A story without any heading, effaced in many places, dealing with an incident in 'Alî's Khilâfat, on fol. 393a.

52. حکایت تاجر مصری, on fol. 395a.

The collection ends on fol. 399a; but the following pages down to fol. 401a contain an additional story, written by another hand in diagonal lines and dated A.H. 1055, the 2nd of Dhû-alḳa'dah (A.D. 1645, Dec. 20). Bibliotheca Leydeniana.

No. 2541, ff. 401, ll. 17: Nasta'lîḳ, written by two principal hands, the one on ff. 1–172 and 201–228, the other on ff. 174–200, 229–268, and 271–399; a third and fourth hand, the latter especially approaching Shikasta, on ff. 173 and 269–270, ll. 18–20; size, 11 in. by 6¼ in.

Another, incomplete, copy of the same story, contained in No. 20 of the preceding collection, the story of the daughter of the Faghfûr or emperor of China, who puts certain critical questions to all her lovers, and kills them if they are not able to give the correct reply. A number of leaves are missing in the beginning, but the main portion of the story is complete. At the end a number of moral inferences are drawn, for instance: 1. در پادشاهی اعتمادی نیست. 2. پادشاهی و گدائی وراحت و رنج برکس جاوید نماند. 3. از فرزند قابل آسایش دنیا و اخرت است. 4. در کارها فکر و تأمّل خوبست, etc.

No date. Comp. Behrnauer, 'Der junge Perser und die griechische Prinzessin' in 'Johannes-Album.'

Chemnitz, 1857, Prosaische Beiträge, pp. 55–70, where a much older version of the Turandot story is given, taken, as is stated there, from 'Aufi's original جامع الحكايات (or rather جوامع الحكايات). No date.

No. 1239, ff. 20, ll. 16; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 9 in. by 5¾ in.

Afsânat-alghará'ib (افسانت الغرائب).

Another collection of Persian stories, without preface or conclusion, similar in character and sometimes in contents also to those in the جامع الحكايات in No. 797 (comp., for instance, Nos. 21 and 22 of this compilation with Nos. 15 and 4 in the preceding one). The above title is found on the fly-leaf, and there is also the name of the author quoted, viz. Mullâ Tayammuni Rûmi (ملّا تيمّنى رومى). It contains the following tales:

1. قصّهٔ اسكندر ذو القرنين, on fol. 1b. 2. قصّهٔ منظرشاه, on fol. 38a. 3. حكايت برهمن, on fol. 55a. 4. حكايت پادشاه كشمير, on fol. 78b. 5. حكايت دهقان فارس, on fol. 81a. 6. حكايت روباهى گرسنه, on fol. 85a. 7. حكايت مرد مسافر, on fol. 88b. 8. حكايت دمنه, on fol. 93a. 9. قصّهٔ بوزينه, on fol. 95a. 10. حكايت سه جوان, on fol. 97a (see a similar story in W. Pertsch, Berlin Cat., p. 988, No. 2). 11. حكايت موش و گربه (W. Pertsch, loc. cit., No. 8), on fol. 105b. 12. حكايت عادلخان, on fol. 112a. 13. حكايت پادشاه سمرقند, on fol. 132a. 14. حكايت قاسم ديوانه, on fol. 137b. 15. حكايت گل ترك, on fol. 151b. 16. حكايت عبد الله, on fol. 152a. 17. حكايت مرد پيرى هيمه كش, on fol. 156a. 18. حكايت عظيم الملك, on fol. 165b. 19. حكايت پادشاه بصره, on fol. 178a. 20. حكايت رئيس موصل, on fol. 193b. 21. قصّهٔ حجّاج, on fol. 204a. 22. حكايت شهزاده بهرام و گل اندام, on fol. 216b. 23. حكايت مرد نيشابور در بلاد عراق, on fol. 239b. 24. حكايت خاورشاه پادشاه, on fol. 247a.

Beginning: واقعهٔ تولّد ذو القرنين بدانكه اسكندر اصل از مغرب است ليكن بسبب آنكه مادر او از روم است اورا اسكندر رومى گويند الخ.

No date. Fol. 2 a little injured.

No. 810, ff. 264, ll. 17; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 8¼ in. by 4¾ in.

Maḥbûb-alḳulûb (محبوب القلوب).

A collection of moral tales by Barkhwurdâr bin Maḥmûd Turkmân of Farâh, with the takhallus Mumtâz, see fol. 1b, l. 2, and fol. 72a, l. 3. The title appears on fol. 72a, l. 6. It is in substance the same work as noticed in Rieu ii. p. 767 sq., but differs in so far as it is considerably smaller in extent and lacks the preface quoted there. The beginning (which differs from that in Rieu's copy) is exactly the same as that of the Berlin copy (noticed by W. Pertsch, Berlin Cat., p. 317, No. 289), viz.: چهرهٔ پرداز عرائس حريم عجز و نياز و مصوّر نگارخانهٔ فرنگ آب الخ.

The short introduction on ff. 1b–2b, in which there is only mention of the author's stay in Harât (fol. 2a, l. 12), refers exclusively to the first story of our collection, which begins on fol. 2b, and bears as title (see fol. 2a, l. 8): حكايت فيروزشاه مصرى و گنجور عابد (given as general title to the whole collection on the fly-leaf). The subdivisions consist of حكايت and باب, the latter nine in number (on ff. 22b, 38a, 40b, 50b, 61a, 66a, 69a, 71b, and 165a); the last bâb contains, as in Rieu's copy, the story of Ra'nâ and Zibâ (باب از كتاب رعنا و زيبا). The author flourished under Minûčihrkhân's governorship of Mashhad (A.H. 1034–1074=A.D. 1625–1664), see Rieu iii. p. 1093b.

No date. The Maḥbûb-alḳulûb has been printed in Bombay, A.H. 1268. Bibliotheca Leydeniana.

No. 2852, ff. 197, ll. 18; Nasta'lîḳ, by different hands, mixed with Shikasta; size, 12¼ in. by 7¼ in.

Kitâb-i-Ra'nâ wa Zibâ (كتاب رعنا و زيبا).

Another copy of the story of Ra'nâ and Zibâ, the last part of the preceding Maḥbûb-alḳulûb, beginning: طرّاح قطعات رنگين گلشن اين مقاله و مفسّر آيات صحائف اين رساله برخوردار ولد محمود تركمان فراهى كه گلستان ابواب اين نسخه را الخ.

Dated by 'Abdallâh the 28th of Jumâdâ-alawwal, A.H. 1159 (A.D. 1746, June 18).

No. 1843, ff. 27–136, ll. 15; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 8¾ in. by 5 in.

802

Dâstân-i-Maḥbûb-alḳulûb (داستان محبوب القلوب).

Another portion of the same Maḥbûb-alḳulûb, beginning: در مراعات جانب دوستان صادق موافق و مذمّت آشنائى بيگانگان رسم وراء آدميّت الخ.

Dated by the same 'Abdallâh as the preceding copy, the last of Jumâdâ-alawwal, A.H. 1159 (A.D. 1746, June 20).

No. 1843, ff. 136b–260, ll. 15; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 8¾ in. by 5 in.

Three short Persian romances.

1. Ḳiṣṣa-i-Fîrûzshâh (قصّهٔ فيروزشاه), on fol. 1b, different from the حكايت فيروزشاه in the Maḥbûb-alḳulûb (No. 800 above), and beginning: راويان اخبار حاكيان اسمار در نقل چنين آورده اند كه در شهر بدخشان پادشاه بود الخ.

This story of the son of the king of Badakhshân is ascribed on the fly-leaf of the following copy (No. 804) to 'Alî Naurûzkhân (who might be identical with Naurûz 'Alîbeg Shâmlû, one of the more modern poets quoted in the Makhzan-alghará'ib, Bodl. Cat., col. 388, No. 2830, and in the Ṣuḥuf-i-Ibrâhîm in W. Pertsch, Berlin Cat., p. 663, No. 205).

2. Ḳiṣṣa-i-Ḥusnârâ (قصّهٔ حسن آرا), on fol. 30b, beginning: بعد از حمد و ثناى حضرت ذو الجلال و قادر قدرت بى شبه وبى مثال الخ.

3. Ḳiṣṣa-i-Madhumálat (قصّهٔ مدهمالت), on fol. 49b, beginning: جواهر زواهر محمدت ولآلیٔ لوالیٔ منقبت نثار مر جناب تقدّس الخ. This love-story of princess Madhumálat or Madhûmálat is stated to have been taken from a poetical version of the same subject, which may be either 'Âḳilkhân Râzi's مهر وماه, composed A.H. 1065 (A.D. 1655), see Rieu ii. p. 699a, or the قصّهٔ منوهر و مدهومالت, the Persian version of a Hindû poem, completed A.H. 1059 (A.D. 1649), see Rieu ii. pp. 700a and 803b. Stories nearly related to this are میکا و منوهر, see further below, No. 824, and the mathnawí پدماوتی و منوهر, described in W. Pertsch, Berlin Cat., p. 929.

The proper order of ff. 1–16 is: 1–9, 12, 10, 11, 14, 15, 13, and 16.

No. 1421, ff. 79, ll. 17; large Nasta'líḳ; size, 11 in. by 7⅝ in.

Ḳiṣṣa-i-Fírúzsháh (قصّهٔ فیروزشاه).

Another copy of the same short romance, which forms the first part of the preceding copy, beginning in the same way as there. English notes and rubrics, partly in pencil, partly in ink, on the margin throughout. Dated the 10th of Ramaḍán, A.H. 1198 (A.D. 1784, July 28, Bangálah era, 1191), at Calcutta. The first owner of this copy was C. Macaulay (1785), a later one Alex. Falconer.

No. 3074, ff. 56, ll. 13; Shikasta; size, 8¾ in. by 5¼ in.

Ḳiṣṣa-i-Mihr u Máh (قصّهٔ مهر و ماه).

A Persian romance, styled, 'sun and moon,' or the love-story of prince Mihr, son of Khâwarshâh and princess Máh, beginning: ..... الحمد لله ربّ العالمین روایت میکنند که در دیاری (read دیار) مشرق پادشاهی بود نام او خاورشاه بود الخ.

See other copies of the same story in the Bodleian Cat., No. 1241, 1, in Rieu ii. p. 765, and in Cat. des MSS. et Xylographes, p. 410, comp. also Garcin de Tassy, Histoire de la littérature Hindouie etc., 2nd ed., ii. p. 550, where several Hindûstâní mathnawís, written on the same subject, are noticed.

Dated the 29th of Rajab in the nineteenth year of (جلوس والا, probably 'Álamgír's reign, which would be A.H. 1087=A.D. 1676, Oct. 7).

No. 1533, ff. 73, ll. 15; size, 10⅝ in. by 5¼ in.

Bahár-i-dánish (بهار دانش).

A collection of tales, the framework of which is formed by the story of Jahándár Sulṭán and Bahrawar Bánú, composed A.H. 1061 (A.D. 1651) by Shaikh 'Ináyat-alláh Kanbú (see fol. 3a, l. 8), who died in Jumádá-alawwal, A.H. 1082 (A.D. 1671, September); see Bodleian Cat., Nos. 466–472, and No. 1976; Rieu ii. p. 765, and iii. p. 1093b; W. Pertsch, Berlin Cat., pp. 999 and 1000; J. Aumer, pp. 54 and 55; A. F. Mehren, p. 32. The collection is preceded by a preface of the author's younger brother and pupil, Muḥammad Ṣáliḥ Kanbú, the author of the 'Amal-i-Ṣáliḥ (see Nos. 332–336 in this Cat.). The present copy, although undated, appears upon the whole the best in the India Office collection.

Beginning: فاتحهٔ کتاب مستطاب آفرینش وبیرایهٔ صحیفهٔ دانش و بینش حمد خداوند خرد بخش سخن آفرین الخ.

The work itself begins on fol. 6b. On complete editions of the text in Delhi, Lucknow, Bombay, etc., comp. Zenker ii. p. 627; Bodleian Cat., No. 1976; and Rieu, loc. cit. Part of the text has been published in the 'Selections for the Use of the Students of the Persian Class,' vol. ii, Calcutta, 1809, and in the 'Classical Selections from some of the most esteemed Persian Writers,' vol. i, Calcutta, 1828. English translations by Alexander Dow, London, 1768, and by Jonathan Scott, 3 vols., Shrewsbury, 1799; German translation, by A. Th. Hartmann, Leipzig, 1802. On a French translation by Lescallier, and the printed text which is found on the margin of Niẓámí's Sikandarnáma, Bombay, A.H. 1261, see Zenker ii. p. 631, and W. Pertsch, loc. cit.

No. 1408, ff. 374, ll. 15; large and distinct Nasta'líḳ; illuminated frontispieces on ff. 1b and 6b; pictures and drawings on ff. 10a, 12b, 13a, 17a, 21b, 25a, 32a, 32b, 37a, 40b, 41a, 42a, 45b, 57b, 67a, 69b, 72a, 74a, 75b, 76a, 79b, 81b, 83a, 84a, 85b, 87b, 88a, 90a, 91a, 93b, 97a, 99b, 101a, 104a, 104b, 106a, 110b, 111a, 112b, 113b, 114a, 114b, 117b, 118a, 120b, 121a, 124b, 126b, 127a, 129a, 129b, 133a, 133b, 136a, 136b, 139a, 139b, 144a, 144b, 148a, 148b, 151a, 151b, 155a, 155b, 161a, 161b, 165a, 165b, 170a, 170b, 173b, 174a, 178a, 182a, 191a, 191b, 197a, 199a, 204a, 210b, 211a, 215b, 216a, 221b, 222a, 226a, 231b, 232a, 244b, 245a, 249b, 250a, 257b, 258a, 266b, 267a, 271a, 275b, 276a, 280a, 282b, 283a, 288b, 289a, 292a, 295b, 296b, 299a, 302a, 308b, 309a, 314a, 322a, 326a, 333b, 334a, 337a, 357b, 358a, 358b, 359a, 361b, 364b, 371a, and 372a; size, 12 in. by 7⅝ in.

Another copy of the same.

This copy of the Bahár-i-dánish, the oldest of the dated ones among the complete copies, is very rudely written, greatly injured, worm-eaten and dirty. It is collated. Beginning the same as in the preceding copy. The work itself opens on fol. 5a. Dated the 27th of Jumádá-althání, A.H. 1145 (A.D. 1732, Dec. 15). College of Fort William, 1825.

No. 2654, ff. 310, ll. 17; Shikasta, many pages written in diagonal lines; size, 9¼ in. by 5¼ in.

The same.

Beginning as usual; the work itself opens on fol. 4b. The Arabic paging is wrong from fol. 141 onwards, but the text is uninterrupted and the copy complete. Dated at Aḥmadnagar Farrukhábád the 26th of Muḥarram, A.H. 1182 (A.D. 1768, June 12), in Sháh 'Álam's reign. It belonged formerly to Mr. James Ballantyne. Collated.

No. 3217, ff. 234, ll. 17; Nasta'líḳ; size, 9 in. by 5¼ in.

The same.

The work itself begins on fol. 8a. Dated by Shaikh Walí-alláh Ṣadíḳí Khíshti, an inhabitant of Jamálpúr, in the district of Shâhjahânâbâd, at Banâras, in the seraglio of Shaikh Salîm, the 24th of Rajab, A.H. 1185 (thirteenth year of Shâh 'Âlam's reign)=A.D. 1771, Nov. 2.

No. 1818, ff. 216, ll. 18-22; unequal and often careless Nasta'lîḳ; size, 9½ in. by 5½ in.

The same.

This modern, but very good and correct copy is dated by Muḥammad A'ẓam the 14th of Dhû-alḥijjah, A.H. 1204 (A.D. 1790, Aug. 25). It was made at the request of Ratanji, son of Bahmanji Wâriyâ (رتن جی ولد بهمن جی واریا).

No. 576, ff. 289, ll. 15; excellent, large, and distinct Nasta'lîḳ; size, 11½ in. by 6½ in.

811

The same.

The work itself begins on fol. 9b. Dated the first of Muḥarram, A.H. 1207 (A.D. 1792, Aug. 19).

No. 1870, ff. 322, ll. 15; rude Nasta'lîḳ; size, 8½ in. by 5½ in.

812

The same.

The work itself begins on fol. 7a. No date.

No. 2757, ff. 392, ll. 13; careless Nasta'lîḳ; size, 8½ in. by 4½ in.

813

The same.

The work itself begins on fol. 11a. No date.

No. 1549, ff. 372, ll. 15; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 9½ in. by 5½ in.

814

The same.

The work itself begins on fol. 7b (but without any special indication). Ff. 169–175 are misplaced; their right order is: 169, 173, 174, 170–172, 175. No date.

No. 409, ff. 229, ll. 18-19; Nasta'lîḳ; ff. 1, 226, and 229 supplied by a later hand; size, 9½ in. by 6½ in.

815

The same.

No date. Quite modern copy.

No. 3432, olim S. J. 1, ff. 337, ll. 16; Shikasta; ff. 1, 2, 41, 334–337, and a few leaves in the middle written by other hands; size, 8½ in. by 5½ in.

816

A defective copy of the same.

This copy is incomplete at the beginning (the whole preface being left out). The first words, حسن .... صورت و جمال ظاهر گشتن الخ, correspond to No. 3217 (808 in this Cat.), fol. 6b, l. 9.

Copied in Rajab of the year 1169 of the Bangâlah era (fourth year of Shâh 'Âlam's reign=A.H. 1176, A.D. 1763, Jan.-Febr.).

No. 2485, ff. 380, ll. 13; Shikasta; size, 9½ in. by 5½ in.

A very incomplete copy of the same.

Beginning as usual; the work itself opens on fol. 7b. A lacuna after fol. 7b, corresponding to No. 3217 (808 in this Cat.), fol. 4b, l. 3 ab infra, to fol. 9a, l. 7. A second, much larger, lacuna after fol. 210b, corresponding to No. 3217, fol. 171a, l. 5, to fol. 212b, l. 8.

This copy is dated the 1st of Rabî'-alawwal, A.H. 1122 (A.D. 1710, April 30). Collated.

No. 2072, ff. 230, the main portion of the MS. in careful Nasta'lîḳ, ll. 17; ff. 1–6 by a more recent hand in careless Nasta'lîḳ, mixed with Shikasta, ll. 15; ff. 21–26 by a third hand in pure Shikasta, ll. 17–18; size, 9½ in. by 5½ in.

Bahâr-i-dânish-i-manẓûm (بهار دانش منظوم).

A poetical paraphrase of the Bahâr-i-dânish in mathnawî baits, incomplete at the end, by Ḥasan 'Alî with the takhalluṣ 'Izzat, who lived in the reign of Tîpû Sulṭân (reigned in Maisûr or Mysore, A.H. 1197–1213=A.D. 1783–1799), to whom this work is dedicated.

Beginning: بنام آنکه جان را داد در خاک
زانجم ساخت روشن سقف افلاک

No. 153, ff. 247, ll. 10–19; Shikasta, the first five leaves supplied by a later hand, as it seems, ll. 9–12; size, 11½ in. by 7½ in.

819

Kiṣṣa-i-Gul u Ṣanaubar (قصهٔ گل و صنوبر).

The story of Gul and Ṣanaubar (rose and pine tree) in Persian prose, beginning: راویان اخبار و ناقلان آثار چنین روایت کنند که در خاور زمین پادشاهی بود که آنرا سمن شاه نعلپوش میگویند الخ

See the same story, but in an apparently shorter version and with different beginning, noticed in Rieu ii. p. 764b, found in a MS. written in the seventeenth century. A Hindûstânî adaptation of the same was published by Hidâyat 'Alî of Islâmâbâd, 1847, at Calcutta, and translated into French by Garcin de Tassy, in 'Revue orientale et americaine,' tom. vii, 1862, pp. 69–130; another Hindûstânî translation in verse was made by Aḥmad 'Alî of Sarâwah, comp. Garcin de Tassy, Histoire de la littér. Hindouie etc., 2nd ed., i. 157, and ibidem about the Dakhnî and Urdû-Bangâlî translations of the same story; a third poetical translation into Hindûstânî by Nem Cand was published at Calcutta, 1827, and at Lucknow, 1845.

No. 675, ff. 54, ll. 13; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 8½ in. by 5½ in.

820

Another copy of the same.

This version of the story of Gul and Ṣanaubar (here headed as in Rieu's copy: قصهٔ گل با صنوبر) begins: خردمندان رموز بیانی و نقش بندان نگارستان معانی چنین روایت کنند روز سلطان السلاطین شاه ابو العبّاس در محفل فردوس مشاکل متمکّن الخ

No date. End of the twelfth century of the Hijrah. Bibliotheca Leydeniana.

No. 2827, ff. 13b-61b, ll. 11; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 7½ in. by 3½ in.

Ḳiṣṣa-i-Kâmrûp (قصّهٔ کامروپ).

The same prose version of the story of Kâmrûp and Kâmlatâ as in Rieu ii. p. 763 sq., where it is ascribed to the poet Muḥammad Kâẓim, that is no doubt Mîr Muḥammad Kâẓim Ḥusainî, with the takhalluṣ Karîm, who was in the service of 'Abdallâh Ḳuṭbshâh (reigned in Ḥaidarâbâd A.H. 1035–1083 = A.D. 1626–1672, see No. 465 in this Cat.); see Rieu ii. p. 683, and A. Sprenger, Catal., p. 456. Another copy of the same story is described in W. Pertsch, Berlin Cat., p. 995. It has been translated into English by W. Franklin, under the title of 'The loves of Camarûpa and Camalatâ,' London, 1793. A poetical version of the same story is Muḥammad Murâd's دستور همّت, composed A.H. 1096 (A.D. 1685), see Rieu ii. p. 697.

Beginning: قصّه پردازان غرائب آثار و دستان سرایان سوانح روزگار الخ.

No date. Twelfth century of the Hijrah. Bibliotheca Leydeniana.

No. 2774, ff. 103, ll. 14; Shikasta; size, 8½ in. by 5½ in.

822

Another copy of the same.

This modern and undated copy of the same version begins as in the preceding copy. The proper order of ff. 1–9 is: 1, 3–8, 2, 9. This MS. belonged formerly to John G. Plunkin (?), Bengal, 1806.

No. 3037, ff. 151, ll. 11 (ll. 14 on ff. 1, 3, and 4); Nasta'lîḳ; size, 8¾ in. by 5¾ in.

Shakaristân (شکرستان).

The sugar-chest, an imitation of Sa'dî's Gulistân and Jâmî's Bahâristân, containing moral stories and anecdotes frequently mixed with verses, see the title on fol. 6a, l. 4. The author is the well-known poet and calligrapher Mîr Muḥammad Mu'min, with the takhalluṣ 'Arshî (عرشی), son of Jahângîr's famous calligrapher Amîr 'Abdallâh Mushkinḳalam alḥusainî altirmidhî, see fol. 6b, l. 7; comp. Rieu i. p. 154, and ii. p. 782a, where the poet's death is fixed in A.H. 1091 (A.D. 1680); A. Sprenger, Catal., p. 335 sq., and W. Pertsch, Berlin Cat., p. 928. This work must have been one of the first literary attempts of 'Arshî, since the date of composition (contained in the title) is A.H. 1031 (A.D. 1622), and his other poetical works which are mentioned in A. Sprenger and W. Pertsch, loc. cit. (مهر و وفا, شاهد عرشی, etc.), are written at a much later period, the latter A.H. 1053 (A.D. 1643, 1644), the former A.H. 1069 (A.D. 1658, 1659). He was, moreover, according to Ârzû, panegyrist of Shâhjahân's eldest son, prince Dârâ Shukûh.

The book is divided into the following six bâbs:

1. در بیان احوال اجداد و مرشدان پاك نهاد, on fol. 9a.

2. در سیرت پادشاهان و سریرت وزیران, on fol. 22a.

3. در تربیت فرزندان پادشاهان عالیشان که خلیفة الاسلام اند, on fol. 42b.

4. در بیان عارفان حقّ و عاشقان شاهد مطلق, on fol. 56a.

5. در بیان آداب و حکایات فقرا, on fol. 61b.

6. در بیان لطائف و ظرائف و خاتمه, on fol. 70b.

The index found on fol. 7a differs a little from the arrangement in the book itself, in so far as the fifth bâb appears there as fourth and is headed: در آداب صحبت با عزیزان از ایّام شباب تا شیب. We conclude from this fact and also from the whole aspect of the copy, that it is the author's autograph and probably the first sketch of the work.

Beginning: بنام آنکه نامش برزبانهاست ـ بوصف نام او شیرین بیانهاست الخ.

On fol. 6a, l. 7, the mystical mathnawî نان و حلوا, by Bahâ-aldîn Muḥammad 'Âmilî, with the takhalluṣ Bahâ'î (who died A.H. 1030 = A.D. 1620, 1621), is mentioned, comp. on that poem Bodleian Cat., Nos. 1085–1088.

No. 1757, ff. 82, ll. 13; Nasta'lîḳ; worm-eaten throughout and spoiled in many places; size, 8 in. by 4¾ in.

Mikâ u Manûhar (میکا و منوهر).

The love-story of Mikâ (or Minkâ) and the Râja Manûhar, a Persian romance, stated here to have been composed by Mâdhodâs of Gujarât in A.H. 1098 (A.D. 1687), see the chronogram on fol. 5b, l. 7: گلبن طبع عزیزان نوبهاری یافته.

Beginning: سخن است که آدمی‌زاد را از حضیض حیوانی بانسانی رسانیده الخ.

Another copy of the same story in the Bodleian Cat., No. 478; comp. on some nearly related romances in prose and verse, No. 803 in this Cat.

Dated the 1st of Jumâdâ-althânî in the fiftieth year of 'Âlamgîr's reign (= A.H. 1118, A.D. 1706, Sept. 10).

No. 1854, ff. 178, ll. 15; irregularly written in bad Shikasta; size, 9¼ in. by 5 in.

Gushâyishnâma (گشایش نامه).

Stories of remarkable escapes, compiled A.H. 1101 (A.D. 1689, 1690), according to the chronogram on fol. 5a: دهد حقا گشایش‌های بیشك, comp. Rieu ii. p. 767, where A.H. 1100 is given as date of composition. The present copy differs from that in the British Museum in two points, firstly it contains seven gushâyish (instead of the six there), and secondly, the authorship of the book is assigned to two Hindûs (instead of one), viz. Râjkarn (Khwâjah Râjkarn in Rieu, loc. cit.) and Bakrân Khâyath.

Beginning: قربان آن قادر بیچون که فضای افلاك را با این همه نقوش متلوّن منقّش نموده وتصدّق الخ.

Dated the 17th of Jumâdâ-althânî, A.H. 1184 (A.D. 1770, Oct. 8), by Gauhar 'Alî.

No. 2077, ff. 67, ll. 15; Shikasta, almost illegible in many places; size, 8¼ in. by 6 in.

826

An incomplete story, from A.H. 1118 (A.D. 1706), related by Amân-allâh, the grandson of Shaikh Sa'd-allâh Munshi, and beginning: سخنت خواهی که بیاید آب قبول ـ آغاز کن از حمد حق ونعت رسول ـ زان پس بر سان تحفهٔ صلوات وسلام الخ.

No. 212, ff. 84b–86b, ll. 18–19; Shikasta; size, 9¼ in. by 6 in.

Tuḥfat-alḥikâyât (تحفة الحكايات).

A short collection of stories, containing seven tales, and therefore also styled هفتگانه, by Brahman Ḥiṣârî, beginning: دربن ایّام بحسب آنخورد الخ.

Dated the 29th of Dhû-alḥijjah in the sixth year of the reign of the emperor Bahâdurshah (Ḳuṭb-aldîn Muḥammad Mu'aẓẓamshâh 'Âlam Bahâdur)=A.H. 1123 (A.D. 1712, Febr. 7), at Shâhjahânâbâd.

No. 944, ff. 37, ll. 17–22; Shikasta; worm-eaten; size, 8¾ in. by 5 in.

Bakâwalî (بکاولی).

The story of prince Tâj-almulûk, Bakâwalî and her rose, translated from Hindûstânî into Persian by Shaikh 'Izzat-allâh Bangâlî, who had commenced this story in or before A.H. 1134 (A.D. 1722) at the request of a friend of his, Muḥammad, and completed it after the latter's sudden death (the first of Dhû-alḥijjah, A.H. 1134=A.D. 1722, Sept. 12), obeying the earnest entreaty of some other friends, although he himself, in his first bitter grief, would have wished to do away with his work altogether.

Two other copies of this story are described in W. Pertsch, Berlin Cat., p. 996, where the fuller title, قصهٔ گل بکاولی, is given, and the author's name appears as 'Ināyat-allāh Bangālī. This Persian version has again been translated into Hindûstânî by Nihâl Cand, under the title of مذهب عشق ('Gooli Bukawulee,' Hindustani, by Nihal Chund, preface by J. Gilchrist, Calcutta, 1804, translated into French by Garcin de Tassy in the 'Revue d'Orient,' 1858), see W. Pertsch, loc. cit., and Zenker ii. 3920 sq. Another, still more modern, Hindûstânî adaptation of the same story is the گلزار نسیم, the rose-garden of Nasim, in verse, composed A.H. 1254 (A.D. 1838), by Pandit Dayâ Shankar Nasim, see A. Sprenger, Catal., p. 629.

Beginning (different from that in the Berlin copy): گلزار همیشه بهار حمد و ثنای باغبان حقیقی را سزد که این طرفه بوستان جهان از انواع حسن الخ.

No date. Worm-eaten.

No. 1413, ff. 76, ll. 17; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 10½ in. by 8 in.

829

Another copy of the same.

The beginning of this copy differs from that in the preceding one, but agrees in the main with that of the Berlin copy, viz. زینت دیباچه وسخن بنام سخن آفرین که قفل گنجینهٔ دلهارا بمفتاح الخ.

The author's name appears on fol. 6a, last line; the date, A.H. 1134, on fol. 8a, l. 9. The colophon is partly torn away.

No. 2474, ff. 141, ll. 11; Nasta'lîḳ, mixed with Shikasta; several pages slightly injured; size, 8¾ in. by 5¾ in.

830

Two Persian romances, in prose, by anonymous authors:

The first, on ff. 1b–49b, without any title, divided into ten bâbs and beginning: راویان اخبار و ناقلان آثار و محدّثان روزگار و سخن گویان کهن ..... چنین آورده اند که مشتمل بر ده باب است باب اوّل در بیان آنکه در ملك سیستان پادشاهی بود صاحب تاج و تخت و نامش آزاد بخت جاه الخ.

The second, on ff. 50b–105b, is styled قصهٔ ملك محمّد (according to the following copy: قصهٔ ملك محمّد وگیتی افروز), the love-story of Malik Muḥammad and Giti-afrûz, beginning: راویان اخبار و ناقلان آثار..... چنین آورده اند که در زمان حضرت شیخ صنعان در طرف زمین مغرب شهری بود که آنرا ابیض می گفتند الخ.

No date. The second story greatly damaged by worms.

No. 1183, ff. 105, ll. 13; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 8¼ in. by 5¾ in.

Ḳiṣṣa-i-Malik Muḥammad u Giti afrûz (قصهٔ ملك محمّد وگیتی افروز).

Another copy of the same story which forms the second part of the preceding collection, beginning in the same way. Lacunas after ff. 1 and 80. Dated the 14th of Rajab, A.H. 1151 (A.D. 1738, Oct. 28). Bibliotheca Lugdeniana.

No. 2629, ff. 81, ll. 12–15; Shikasta; worm-eaten throughout; size, 9¾ in. by 5½ in.

Ḳiṣṣa-i-Giti Ârâ (قصهٔ گیتی آرا).

Another Persian romance without any date or author's name, beginning: راویان اخبار و ناقلان آثار چنین روایت میفرمایند که در ولایت چین پادشاهی بود عالی جاه انجم سپاه و پسری داشت با حسن و کمال آراسته الخ.

No. 202, ff. 176, ll. 17; clear and distinct Nasta'lîḳ, the first and the last two pages supplied later by another hand in Shikasta, ll. 19–20; size, 9¾ in. by 6¼ in.

Bûstân-i-Khayâl (بوستان خیال).

The first Bahâr or the first two volumes (جلد) of one of the largest and most famous Persian romances, the Bûstân-i-Khayâl or 'garden of imagination,' by Mir Muḥammad Taḳî alja'farî alḥusainî of Aḥmadâbâd in Gujarât, with the takhallus Khayâl, who wrote this vast collection of tales, in which historical legends are blended with the adventures of Jinns and Peris, at the request of his noble patron, Nawwâb Rashîdkhân Bahâdur, wherefore, as is stated in the Berlin copy (W. Pertsch, Berlin Cat., p. 993), the work is also sometimes styled فرمایش رشیدی, and died A.H. 1173 (A.D. 1759, 1760); see A. Sprenger, Catal., p. 193, and Rieu ii. p. 770 sq. It comprises altogether fifteen volumes (جلد), divided into three Bahâr (spring), the second and third of which have the additional title of a first and second Gulistân, comp. the detailed description of this bulky romance in the Bodleian Cat., No. 480 (Caps. Or. D. 9–23, the most complete copy of the work extant, in which only one of the fifteen volumes is missing). This first Bahâr, which bears besides the special title of Mahdînâma (مهدی‌نامه), was commenced A.H. 1155 (A.D. 1742, 1743), at Shâhjahânâbâd, and serves as a sort of muḳaddimah or introduction to the whole work, relating the life and adventures of Sulṭân Abû-alḳâsim Muḥammad Mahdî and the other ancestors and predecessors of Sulṭân Mu'izz-aldîn (i.e. the Khalîf Alḳâ'im biamrillâh, the hero of the second Bahâr or first Gulistân); the last or fifteenth volume of the whole work (the end of the third Bahâr or second Gulistân) was commenced A.H. 1169 and completed in the month Dhû-alḥijjah of the same year (A.D. 1756, September), at Murshidâbâd, see Bodleian Cat., loc. cit.

Beginning of the first volume (No. 1773), on fol. 1b: تبارك الذى جعل فى السماء بروجا وفعل فيها سراجًا قمرًا منيرًا الخ.

Beginning of the second volume (No. 1774), on fol. 1b: ذكر رفتن سلطان ابو القاسم محمّد مهدى و پادشاهزادگان و بعضى امراء عرب بزيارت حرمين و عتبات عاليّات و بيان وقائع آن نقل (Bodl. copy correctly نقلهٔ) اين اخبار از شائبهٔ تحقيق چنين آورده (Bodl. copy correctly تشابه) اند الخ.

Copied A.H. 1202 (A.D. 1787, 1788), as a comparison with No. 1770 (839 below), which is written by the same hand, proves.

No. 1773, ff. 295; No. 1774, ff. 183; large and distinct Nasta'lîḳ, by the same hand, ll. 19 in each page: size, 12⅝–12½ in. by 8⅝ in.

834

A short fragment of the same first Bahâr of the Bûstân-i-Khayâl.

Part of the first volume of the first Bahâr or Mahdînâma, only comprising forty-eight pages, and beginning as in the preceding copy: تبارك الذى جعل فى السماء بروجًا الخ.

The author's name appears on ff. 7b, last line, and 8a, first line; the title on fol. 12b, l. 7. The date of the commencement of the work, viz. A.H. 1155, is found here on fol. 12b, last line but two. The last words, with which this copy breaks off on fol. 48b, run thus: ..... واكثرى خليفهٔ اوّل وثانى را دوست ميداشتند و از سيوم, corresponding to No. 1773, fol. 27b, l. 6.

No. 2442, ff. 1–48, ll. 17; large and clear Nasta'lîḳ; size, 12⅝ in. by 8 in.

Bûstân-i-Khayâl.

The muḳaddimah (or first volume) of the second Bahâr or first Gulistân of the Bûstân-i-Khayâl, that is the third volume of the whole work. This second Bahâr, which relates the adventures of Mu'izz-aldîn or Alḳâ'im-biamrillâh (see the preceding copy), bears the special titles of Mu'izznâma معزّزنامه, Ḳâ'imnâma قائمنامه, or even Ṣâḥibḳirânnâma صاحب قرانامه, and is subdivided into a muḳaddimah and two Gulshan, each Gulshan containing two Gulzâr.

Beginning: هرگونه ستايشى كه در دل هر ستايش كننده بگذرد و زبان (Bodl. copy correctly بر زبان) او جارى گردد سزاوار جناب خداوندىست الخ.

Conclusion: مناسب چنان نمود كه مقدّمهٔ بهار دويم را كه عبارت از دفتر قائمنامه باشد درين مقام باختتام رسانيده شروع در گلستان اوّل از بهار دويم از بوستان خيال نمايد الخ.

The designation given to this volume in the colophon, viz. تمام شد جلد ثالث مهدينامه, is incorrect, since the Mahdînâma comprises only the first two volumes.

No date.

No. 1932, ff. 152, ll. 16; clear and distinct Nasta'lîḳ; size, 10⅝ in. by 6⅝ in.

836

Bûstân-i-Khayâl.

The first Gulshan (in two Gulzâr or two volumes) of the second Bahâr or first Gulistân, corresponding to the fourth and fifth volumes of the whole work; see another copy of this first Gulshan together with the muḳaddimah (contained in the preceding copy), in J. Aumer, p. 57 (No. 185). Parts of this second Bahâr are also contained in the first British Museum copy (Add. 16,689).

Beginning (differing from that in the Bodleian copy): نخلبندان حدائق اخبار و گلشن آرايان شقائق آثار الخ.

Colophon as in J. Aumer, p. 58: گلشن اوّل يعنى دفتر اوّل از گلستان (supply اوّل) يعنى جلد اوّل از بوستان خيال (supply از بهار دويم).

Copied A.H. 1202 (A.D. 1787, 1788), see No. 833 above and No. 839 below.

No. 1771, ff. 319, ll. 19; clear and distinct Nasta'lîḳ, written by the same hand as Nos. 1773 and 1774 (833 above); size, 12½ in. by 8⅝ in.

837

Bûstân-i-Khayâl.

The first Gulzâr of the second Gulshan of the second Bahâr or first Gulistân, corresponding to the sixth volume of the whole work. Beginning: حمدى كه اگر تمام درياهاى روى زمين مركّب شود و جميع شاخهاى درختان ربع مسكون الخ.

Copied A.H. 1202 (A.D. 1787, 1788), see the preceding copy.

No. 1772, ff. 148, ll. 19; clear and distinct Nasta'lîḳ, by the same hand as Nos. 1773, 1774, and 1771 (833 and 836 above); size, 12½ in. by 8⅝ in.

Bûstân-i-Khayâl.

The second Gulzâr of the second Gulshan of the second Bahâr or first Gulistân, corresponding to the seventh volume of the whole work. It is incorrectly styled on fol. 1a: دفتر سیوم از بهار دویم از جلد سیوم معزّنامه بوستان خیال, and گلستان سیوم مسمّی معزّنامه; the same wrong designation of گلستان سیوم is given to this copy in the colophon. Another copy of the whole second Gulshan of the second Bahâr is noticed in J. Aumer, p. 58 (No. 186). Beginning:

بنام خدای که از مشت خاك ـ پدید آورد گوهر تابناك

Copied A. H. 12 ٢ (1202 ?=A. D. 1787, 1788).

No. 1930, ff. 337, ll. 16; clear and distinct Nasta'lîḳ; size, 10¼ in. by 6¼ in.

Bûstân-i-Khayâl.

The first daftar or jild of the third Bahâr or second Gulistân of the Bûstân-i-Khayâl, corresponding to the eighth volume of the whole work. This third Bahâr (the largest of the three), which relates the adventures of Ṣâḥib Ḳirân-i-Akbar Shâhzâda Mu'izz-aldîn, Ṣâḥib Ḳirân-i-A'ẓam Shâhzâda Khurshid Tâjbaksh, and Ṣâḥib Ḳirân-i-Aṣghar Shâhzâda Badr-i-munîr, bears the special title of Khurshîdnâma (خورشیدنامه), and is subdivided into seven books (جلد or دفتر) or eight volumes, the last two of which (the fourteenth and fifteenth, together with the Khâtimah) are missing in this collection. This first daftar begins: ادای حمد و سپاس ربّ العالمین حکیم علیم و نعت درود سیّد المرسلین رسول کریم و مدح و منقبت الخ.

In l. 6 this heading appears: آغاز گلستان دوم بهار سیوم از کتاب بوستان که موسوم است بخورشیدنامه' امّا راویان اخبار و ناقلان آثار و محدّثان این حدیث شیرین بیان و مخبر این داستان رنگین الخ (Bodl. copy correctly مخبران).

Conclusion: ان شاء الله تعالی بعد ازین احوال صاحبقران اعظم و صاحبقران اصغر در دفتر دویم مذکور کرده (read کرد) خواهد شد الخ.

Dated the 7th of Muḥarram, A. H. 1202 (A. D. 1787, Oct. 19).

No. 1770, ff. 388, ll. 19; clear and distinct Nasta'lîḳ; size, 12¼ in. by 8¼ in.

Bûstân-i-Khayâl.

The second daftar or jild of the third Bahâr or second Gulistân, corresponding to the ninth volume of the whole work (جلد نهم از کتاب بوستان خیال موسوم جلد دویم از بهار سیوم). This second book has been supplemented afterwards by an extensive appendix, subdivided into two shaṭr (شطر), or as the second British Museum copy (Add. 24,935) calls them, saṭar (سطر), and bearing the special title of Shâhnâma-i-Buzurg (شاهنامهٔ بزرگ); according to Rieu's copy this appendix is also designated as سطر الجلد, see the following two copies.

Beginning: بعد از سپاس و ستایش خداوند غفوررحیم و الصلوة (read والصلوات) نامیات بر رسول واجب التعظیم وآل و اصحاب او ..... چنین گوید .... که چون احوال صاحب قران اصغر در جلد اوّل از بهار سیوم بجای که مذکور شد رسانید شروع در تحریر جلد دویم بهار سیوم نمود و ابتدای این جلد از احوال صاحب قران اکبر شاهزاده معزّ الدین الخ.

No date.

No. 1933, ff. 367, ll. 16; clear and distinct Nasta'lîḳ; size, 10¼ in. by 6¼ in.

841

Bûstân-i-Khayâl.

The first shaṭr of the preceding second daftar, forming, as it seems, together with the following copy of the second shaṭr, the tenth volume of the whole work. From a colophon in the Bodleian copy it would appear as if these two shaṭr, which now form together with the preceding copy a single daftar or jild, although two distinct volumes, were originally meant to appear as third daftar; in this way some of the conflicting statements found in the Bodleian copy, the third British Museum copy (Add. 4939), and our present copies might easily be reconciled.

Beginning: نیکوترین محامد و عالیترین الفیه سزاوار جناب حضرت خالق البریّه است که مخلوقات ارض و سماء و ما فیهما بذکر حمد و ثنای او خود را مشغول می نماید الخ.

No date.

No. 159, ff. 338, ll. 16; clear and distinct Nasta'lîḳ; size, 10¼ in. by 6¼ in.

842

Bûstân-i-Khayâl.

The second shaṭr of the preceding second daftar, beginning: آغاز دفتر دوم از کتاب شاهنامهٔ بزرگ که مشتملست بر احوال ظفر مآل صاحبقران اعظم شاهزاده خورشید تاج بخش بلبل اقبال الخ.

In the colophon the author makes this statement (agreeing verbatim with that in the Bodleian copy): مسوّد این اوراق رنگین سیاق مناسب چنان دانست که شطر دوم از جلد دویم از بهار سیوم کتاب بوستان خیال که خورشیدنامه نام دارد درین مقام باتمام رساند و جلد سیوم الخ.

Copied A. H. 1202 (A. D. 1787, 1788).

No. 1769, ff. 330, ll. 19; clear and distinct Nasta'lîḳ, by the same hand as Nos. 1770–1774 (833, 836, 837, and 839 above); size, 12¼ in. by 8¼ in.

843

Bûstân-i-Khayâl.

The third daftar or jild of the third Bahâr, as it seems, although both on fol. 1a and at the end it is designated as second jild (a confusion, probably arising from a similar mistake as that noted in No. 841), and therefore corresponding to the eleventh volume of the whole work (which is missing in the Bodleian copy). Beginning: امّا راویان اخبار و ناقلان آثار روایت کرده اند که چون صاحبقران اکبر (ا قصّهٔ صاحبقران اکبر و) قصّهٔ صاحبقران اعظم را بداستان صحّت رسانیده اند حسن عالی بر خواست الخ.

Copied A. H. 1202 (A. D. 1787, 1788).

No. 1929, ff. 205, ll. 16; clear and distinct Nasta'lîḳ; size, 10¾ in. by 6½ in.

844

Bûstân-i-Khayâl.

The fourth daftar or jild of the third Bahâr, corresponding to the twelfth volume of the whole work. Beginning: زبان انسان شمع انجمن وقتی تواند شد که بقدر مقدور و حمد خداوند غفور الخ.

In l. 4 the author makes the following statement: چون جلد سیوم بهار سیوم کتاب بوستان خیال باتمام رسید شروع در تحریر جلد چهارم نمودم الخ; and further down: مخفی و مستتر نماند که جلد اوّل تمام و کمال مشترك باحوال صاحبقران اکبر و اعظم و اصغر مع توابعات بود و جلد دوم تمام و کمال مشتمل بر احوال صاحبقران اکبر شاهزاده معزّ الدین تاجور و جلد سیوم همگی باحوال صاحبقران اعظم که شاهزاده خورشید تاج بخش مع متعلّقاته بقلم آمده الخ.

In the colophon he says: الحمد لله والمنّة که جلد چهارم از بهار سیوم که فقط بر احوال صاحبقران اصغر شاهزاده بدر منیر مشتمل بود باتمام رسید باقی احوال مهتر توفیق و احوالات دیگر در جلد دیگر الخ.

Copied A. H. 1202 (A. D. 1787, 1788).

No. 1775, ff. 386, ll. 19; large and distinct Nasta'lîḳ, by the same hand as Nos. 1769–1774 (833, 836, 837, 839, and 842 above); size, 12½ in. by 8¼ in.

845

Bûstân-i-Khayâl.

The fifth daftar or jild of the third Bahâr, corresponding to the thirteenth volume of the whole work. Beginning: بعد از حمد وثنای حضرت کریم کارساز بنده نواز خداوند جهان الخ.

Colophon: تمام شد جلد سیزدهم بوستان خیال.

No. 1931, ff. 393, ll. 16; clear and distinct Nasta'lîḳ; size, 10¾ in. by 6¼ in.

846

A large fragment of an anonymous Persian romance, defective both at the beginning and end, with a large lacuna (comprising, according to the Arabic paging, fifty-eight leaves) after fol. 22. On the back of the binding it is styled جوامع التواریخ, but on the last page more correctly, as it seems, دفتر دوم مجمع البدائع, the second book of a novel, entitled Majma'-albadâ'i', or the collection of wonderful and surprising things. At the beginning seventeen leaves are missing, as the Arabic paging shows. The style of this work is about the same as in the preceding Bûstân-i-Khayâl, combining heroic legends and fairy tales. The copy is a correct and tolerably old one.

No. 2453, ff. 240, ll. 21; clear Nasta'lîḳ; size, 9¾ in. by 7¼ in.

Ajîb-alḳiṣaṣ (عجیب القصص).

A fairy tale, relating the adventures of an Indian prince who is designated in many different ways (once, for instance, یوسف جمال), and his love affairs with the princess Badî'-aljamâl, entirely different from the قصّهٔ سیف الملوك و بدیع الجمال (see Nos. 788–792 above).

Beginning: سرسبزیٔ بوستان سخن بآبیاریٔ (بآبیاری) ستایش چمن آرائی است که گلشن عشق الخ.

The title is distinctly given on fol. 7b, l. 10. The story is dedicated to the emperor Shâh 'Âlam (who reigned A. H. 1173–1221 = A. D. 1759–1806), see fol. 3b, l. 1: شاه عالم پناه دولت و دین. The author's name does not appear anywhere.

Copied at Lucknow during the wazirship of Nawwâb Âṣaf-aldaulah Bahâdur, and finished the 25th of Jumâdâ-althânî, A. H. 1209 (A. D. 1795, Jan. 17). Bibliotheca Leydeniana.

No. 2462, ff. 152, ll. 15; Nasta'lîḳ, rather difficult to read through the absence of many diacritical points; size, 9¾ in. by 6¼ in.

848

Ḳiṣṣa-i-Malik Muḥammad u Shahrbânû (قصّهٔ ملك محمّد و شهربانو).

The romance of prince Malik Muḥammad and Shahrbânû (according to the Bodleian Cat., No. 482, Shamshabânû), which was translated from Hindûstânî at the request of the emperor Shâh 'Âlam, see here fol. 4b sq. According to the Bodleian copy the Persian translator's name is Munshî Ghayûrî; Lachman Singh, who appears here on fol. 4b, is no doubt the author of the original. According to the same copy the proper title of the romance is Shu'la-i-âh (شعلهٔ آه).

Beginning: شگفتگیٔ گلشن قصّه پردازی و تازگیٔ چمن افسانه طرازی شایستهٔ حمد جهان آرائیست که گل رعنای حبّ و محبّت را بنسیم روح پرور قدرت بالغه الخ.

No. 1481, ff. 152, ll. 9; Shikasta; size, 8¼ in. by 5¼ in.

849

Ḳiṣṣa-i-Bahrâmgûr u Bânui-Ḥasan (قصّهٔ بهرامگور و بانوی حسن).

A Persian romance, the love-story of Bahrâmgûr and the fair princess, the daughter of the king of the Peris.

Beginning: راویان اخبار و ناقلان آثار و طوطیان شکر

شکن شیرین گفتار و مهندسان سخن و گوشه نشینان کهن چنین روایت کرده اند که در شهر فارس پادشاهی بود بعدل و داد تمام خلق و بغایت خوش روی الخ.

A shorter version of the same story is noticed in W. Pertsch, Berlin Cat., p. 989, No. 12, in the first line.

Dated the 8th of Jumádá-althání, A. H. 1198 (A. D. 1784, April 29).

No. 780, ff. 50, ll. 17; large and distinct Nasta'líḳ; size, 8¼ in. by 5¾ in.

850

Another copy of the same.

Beginning as in the preceding copy. No date.

No. 1009, ff. 58, ll. 17; large and distinct Nasta'líḳ; size, 9¼ in. by 6 in.

851

The same.

A much shorter version of the same story, beginning: راویان اخبار و ناقلان آثار و طوطیان شکر شکن شیرین گفتار چنین روایت کرده اند که در زمان قدیم در شهر فارس الخ.

Dated the 9th of Ramaḍán, A. H. 1184 (A. D. 1770, December 27). Bibliotheca Leydeniana.

No. 2808, ff. 72–93, ll. 13; Nasta'líḳ, mixed occasionally with Shikasta; size, 8¾ in. by 6¼ in.

852

Two Persian tales.

1. Story of Sulṭán Maḥmúd, who rambles in disguise through the streets of his capital (قصّهٔ سلطان محمود غزنوی پادشاه), on fol. 1b, beginning: پادشاه عادل بود یك روز در خاطر سلطان گذشت الخ.

Collection of tales and historical sketches.

This copy contains:

A. A main part on ff. 1a–70a, consisting of—

1. Ff. 1a–16a: Kiṣṣa-i-Tamîm Anṣârî, identical with that in the preceding copy, but styled on the fly-leaf عمرنامه, or 'story of a woman soliciting justice of the Khalîf 'Umar,' by 'Alî Muḥammad. Beginning, on fol. 1a: اندر خبر آورده اند که در وقت امیر المؤمنین عمر خطّاب رضی الله عنه روزی امیر المؤمنین رضی الله عنه نماز بامداد گذارده بود الخ

2. Ff. 17a–63a: Bakhtyârnâma, in a similar redaction as No. 475, 3, in the Bodleian Cat. (col. 436), but divided into ten bâbs, like the enlarged version, No. 476, 1, in the same Cat. It was edited by Sir W. Ouseley, text and translation, London, 1801. Beginning, on fol. 17a: الحمد لله . . . . بدانکه این کتاب یادگار پادشاهان است و بختیارنامه که فاضلان تصنیف کرده اند تا طالبان را و خوانندگانرا پند حاصل آید و این مختصر بر ده باب است و در هر بابی حکمتها گفته است آغاز داستان بختیار نامه این است چنین روایت میکنند که در دیار عجم پادشاه بود با داد و عدل و شکوه الخ

3. Ff. 64a–70a: Fatḥnâma, that is, Sulṭân Muḥammad III's campaign against Hungary in A.H. 1005 (A.D. 1596, 1597), identical with the 'Fatḥnâma-i-Khûnkâr-i-Rûm' in No. 572 above. It is translated from Turkish, see the title here: ترجمهٔ فتحنامهٔ حضرت بادینی پناه و شاه خونکار روم که بترکی نوشته الخ Beginning: الحمد لمن لا نصر الّا من عنده و الصلوة و السّلام علی حبیبه الخ

As date (probably of composition) appears at the end A.H. 1012 (A.D. 1603, 1604).

B. An appendix, by two different hands, on ff. 71a–79a, consisting of—

4. Ff. 71a–77a: Account of the district of اودگیر Ûdgîr, that is, Oodagherry in Telingana.

5. Ff. 78a–79a: A short account of Dhundia Wâgh, or as he is called here, Dhûndûji Wâgh (دهوندوجی واگه), the famous freebooter of Mysore, who was at last subjugated and killed by the English in 1800, see Beale, Oriental Biogr. Dict., p. 81.

No. 3053, ff. 79, ll. 13 (on ff. 71–77, ll. 9–10); written by three different hands, the greater part in Naskhî, mixed with Shikasta; size, 8 in. by 5¾ in.

B. POETRY.

I. Epic, Lyric, and Didactic Poetry.

Poets who died between A.H. 400 and 500.

1. Firdausî and Imitators (Nos. 860–901).

a. Copies of the Shâhnâma with the older preface.

Shâhnâma (شاهنامه).

Firdausî's great epic poem, 'the book of kings,' in four books, preceded by the older preface, anterior to the so-called Bâisunghari recension, and designated by Mohl (i. p. xv) as 'préface No. II;' see Rieu ii. p. 534a; W. Pertsch, Berlin Cat., p. 732 sq.; Bodleian Cat., No. 497; Rosen, Persian MSS., p. 169; J. Aumer, p. 6 (where it is wrongly ascribed to Bâisunghar), etc. This preface has been translated by M. de Wallenbourg in his 'Notice sur le Shahnamé,' Vienna, 1810, and begins here, on fol. 1b: سپاس و آفرین مر خدایرا که آن جهان و این جهان الخ

First book (جلد اوّل) of the poem, on fol. 6b, beginning:

بنام خداوند جان و خرد ـ کزین برتر اندیشه بر نگذرد and going down to Bahrâm's death.

Second book (جلد دویم), on fol. 151b, beginning:

بنام خداوند خورشید و ماه ـ که دلرا بنامش خرد داد راه and concluding with Isfandiyâr's message of victory to his father Gushtâsp.

Third book (جلد سوم), on fol. 290b, beginning:

خداوند پیروزی و فرّهی ـ خداوند دیهیم و شاهنشهی and ending with the accession of Nûshirwân.

Fourth book (جلد چهارم), on fol. 407b, beginning exactly as the second book and comprising the rest of the poem.

Firdausî (Abû-alḳâsim Ḥasan or Manṣûr) was born about A.H. 321 or 322 (A.D. 933 or 934) in Shâdâb, near Ṭûs, completed the Shâhnâma, according to the usual statement, A.H. 400 (A.D. 1009, 1010), according to a rare epilogue, found only in one copy of the British Museum (Rieu, ii. p. 535a) and in No. 878 below, already A.H. 389 (A.D. 999), and according to some verses in the same copy of the British Museum, even as early as A.H. 384 (A.D. 994), and died A.H. 411 (A.D. 1020; other dates of his death are A.H. 416=A.D. 1025, and A.H. 421=A.D. 1030); comp. on the poet's biography and special incidents of his life, besides the Catalogues mentioned above, W. Pertsch, p. 68; G. Flügel i. p. 492 sq.; A. Sprenger, Catal., p. 405 sq.; Ouseley, Biogr. Notices, pp. 54–99; Ethé, Firdûsi als Lyriker, in Sitzungsberichte der bayr. Academie, philos.-philol. Classe, 1872, pp. 275–304, and 1873, pp. 623–653; 'A Sketch of the Life and Writings of Ferdusi,' London, 1876; and Ethé, Die höfische und romantische Poesie der Perser, Hamburg, 1887, p. 25 sq. Best text editions by Turner Macan, in 4 vols., Calcutta, 1829 (of the earlier Calcutta edition of 1811, by Lumsden, only one volume has appeared), reproduced in the lithographed eastern texts of Bombay, 1849 and 1856, Cawnpore, 1874, Ṭahrân, A.H. 1245 and 1267, etc.; J. Mohl (with a complete prose translation in French), Paris, 1838–1878; and J. A. Vullers, Leyden, 1877–1884. Parts of the poem have been published in J. Atkinson's Soohrab, a poem (Persian and English), Calcutta, 1814; Vullers, Chrestomathia Shahnamiana, Bonn, 1833; H. S. Jarrett, Selections from the Shah Namah, Calcutta, 1880; I. Pizzi, Antologia Firdusiana, second edition, Leipzig, 1891; in various Persian Chrestomathies, for instance, Spiegel (Leipzig, 1846), Pizzi (Manuale della lingua Persiana, Leipzig, 1883, and Chrestomathie Persane, Turin, 1889), and others, and in Salemann und Shukovski, Persische Grammatik, Berlin, 1889; compare also Zenker, No. 526 sq., and ii. 489 sq. Chief translations by Champion (the first eight books), 1788; St. Weston, Episodes from the Shah Nameh, 1815; J. Bayer in 'Zeitschrift für vergl. Litteraturgeschichte, etc.,' Berlin, 1891, pp. 322–342. On the question of the origin of certain parts of the poem, see Nöldeke's 'Persische Studien II,' Sitzungsberichte der kais. Acad. der Wissenschaften in Wien, 1892, vol. 126.

The present copy was transcribed by Muḥammad Ḥâfiẓ Cishtî. Book I is dated A.H. 1007, first of Ramaḍân (A.D. 1599, March 28); Book II, A.H. 1007, the 18th of Shawwâl (A.D. 1599, May 14); Book III has no date; Book IV is dated A.H. 1008, the 16th of Rajab (A.D. 1600, Febr. 1). Fol. 421 (٣٢٢ according to the Arabic paging) is left blank. Many small blanks besides.

No. 2118, ff. 532, 4 coll., each ll. 25; small, but very neat and clear Nasta'lîḳ; splendid illuminations on the first two pages of each book; size, 13¾ in. by 10¼ in.

Another copy of the same.

Contents:

The older preface on fol. 1b, beginning as in the preceding copy.

Genealogical index of all the Persian kings, quoted by Firdausi, on fol. 7a.

Another genealogical index in verse (فهرست منظوم شاهنامه), on fol. 9a.

Alphabetical index of the Pahlawi (and other uncommon) words, used by Firdausi in his epopee, on fol. 10b.

The poem itself is divided into two halves, viz.:

First half, on fol. 12b, beginning: بنام خداوند جان وخرد الخ.

Second half, on fol. 318b, beginning with Gushtâsp's reign: چو گشتاسپ را داد لهراسپ تخت الخ.

The first half is dated by Ḥâfiẓ Aḥmad bin Muḥammad the 23rd of Ramaḍân, A.H. 1009 (A.D. 1601, March 28); the second is not dated.

No. 118, ff. 596, 4 coll., each ll. 25; Nasta'lîḳ; vignettes on ff. 1a, 12a, and 318a; illuminated frontispieces on ff. 1b, 12b, and 318b; pictures on ff. 338a, 365a, and 430b. Part of ff. 58a, 79a, 102b, and 180b left blank; many headings and single verses missing or injured; ff. 487 and 556 supplied by a more modern hand; size, 13¾ in. by 9¾ in.

Another copy of the first half of the poem.

This copy, with the older preface on fol. 1b, contains only the first half, respectively the first two books of the Shâhnâma; Book I begins on fol. 8b, Book II on fol. 163b; the first goes down to Afrâsiyâb's hearing of the flight of the Irânians; the second to Arjâsp's death by the hand of Isfandiyâr. All the rest of the poem is wanting. No date. The copyist was Muḥammad Fâḍil, known as ادها بنی اسرائیل کولوی. A few various readings on the margin.

No. 3267, olim 11. J. 6, ff. 325, 4 coll., each ll. 25; good and clear Nasta'lîḳ; size, 11¾ in. by 6¾ in.

b. Copies of the Shâhnâma with the Bâisunghari preface.

Shâhnâma.

The Bâisunghari preface (dated A.H. 829 = A.D. 1426, see on the rather fictitious character of the same, and the whole question of the so-called Bâisunghari recension, the excellent remarks of M. James Darmesteter in the 'Revue Critique,' October 20, 1890, pp. 215 and 216), on ff. 1b–13b, beginning: افتتاح سخن آن به که کنند اهل کمال الخ. At the end: تمّت الدیباجة الموسومة ببایسنغری.

This preface is designated by Mohl as 'préface No. I,' and is printed with a few omissions in Macan's Introduction to the Shâhnâma, pp. 11–61.

Beginning of the poem, on fol. 13b: بنام خداوند جان و خرد الخ.

The Shâhnâma is divided into two parts, the second of which begins with Luhrâsp's reign (headed: کتاب چو لهراسپ بنشست بر تخت داد الخ), on fol. 270b: لهراسپ نامه. This splendid copy was made by Ḥasan bin Muḥammad Aḥsan and finished at Shîrâz the 18th of Dhû-alḳa'dah, A.H. 967 (A.D. 1560, August 10); it was given as a present to Ḳâsimbeg the 1st of Dhû-alḥijjah,

A. H. 971 (A. D. 1564, July 11), according to a note on fol. 1a.

No. 133, ff. 538, 4 coll., each ll. 25; excellent Nasta'lîḳ; ff. 1b and 2a gorgeously illuminated in gold and blue arabesques, mixed with a variety of other colours; similar illuminations and an excellent frontispiece on ff. 270b and 271a; all the headings throughout neatly embellished; well-executed pictures on ff. 5b, 16b, 32a, 54a, 76b, 96a, 113b, 127b, 150b, 184b, 203a, 227b, 250a, 270b, 271a, 304a, 321b, 349b, 372a, 389a, 418b, 445b, 483a, and 519a; size, 14¾ in. by 8¾ in.

864

The same.

The Bâisunghari preface begins here as in the preceding copy, and is concluded by a short chronological index and list of kings.

Beginning of the poem, on fol. 12b. It is divided into four books; Book I ends with Rustam's return from Turkistân and Afrâsiyâb's flight; Book II, beginning on fol. 200b, with Gushtâsp's accession; Book III, beginning on fol. 315b, goes down to the accession of Nûshirwân; and Book IV, beginning on fol. 461b, comprises the rest. Dated by Majd-aldîn bin Ibrâhîm Ḥâfiẓ, A. H. 1012, the 29th of Muḥarram (A. D. 1603, July 9).

No. 3340, olim 11. J. 7, ff. 586, 4 coll., each ll. 25; small Nasta'lîḳ; illuminated frontispieces on ff. 1b and 12b; adorned headings on ff. 200b and 315b. Small pictures on ff. 15a, 15b, 17a, 19a, 24b, 42a, 48b, 50a, 55a, 65b, 73b, 77b, 92b, 106b, 120b, 134a, 149a, 156a, 158b, 164a, 180b, 190a, 198b, 200a, 212b, 214a, 243b, 254b, 267b, 279a, 280b, 296b, 297a, 315b, 325b, 332a, 332b, 333b, 334b, 337a, 353a, 355a, 358b, 370a, 371a, 377a, 385b, 388b, 393a, 395b, 399b, 410a, 418b, 420b, 422a, 424a, 425b, 429a, 435a, 439b, 460b, 489a, 494b, 516a, 534b, 552b, 561a, 563b, 572b, 576b, 583a, and 585b; size, 8¾ in. by 4¾ in.

The same.

The Bâisunghari preface, on fol. 1a. Beginning of the poem, on fol. 10b. It is divided into four books, which agree in their contents entirely with those in the preceding copy, except that Books II and III (beginning on fol. 144b) are not separated here. Book IV begins on fol. 338b. Small blanks on many pages, apparently left for the insertion of headings or pictures. Book I (جلد اوّل) is dated A. H. 1111, the 16th of Ṣafar (called here the 44th year of 'Âlamgîr's reign)=A. D. 1699, August 13; Book IV, the 8th of Dhû-alḥijjah, in the same year=A. D. 1700, May 27, by Muḥammad Ḥiṣârî. The first two leaves are supplied by another hand, perhaps by Warren Hastings, whose name appears at the top of the preface.

No. 3259, olim 11. J. 5, ff. 427, 4 coll., each ll. 25, and a fifth on the margin, ll. 40; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 11¾ in. by 7¾ in.

The same.

The Bâisunghari preface, on fol. 1b. Beginning of the poem, on fol. 15b. No subdivision into books. This copy was made for J. H. Peile, Esq., of the Madras Civil Service (مستر پیل صاحب بهادر والا مناقب), at Seringapatan (سرنگاپتن در سلطنت انگریز), and is dated A. H. 1220, the 26th of Muḥarram (A. D. 1805, April 26). It was presented by Mr. Peile to the Library on the 19th of September, 1818.

No. 3255, olim 11. J. 3, ff. 542, 4 coll., each ll. 21; large and clear Nasta'lîḳ; illuminated frontispieces on ff. 1b and 15b; size, 14½ in. by 8¾ in.

The same.

An extremely splendid and magnificent copy of the Shâhnâma, in two volumes, with a beautiful eastern binding; written by Hidâyat-allâh of Shîrâz, but not dated.

The Bâisunghari preface begins here, on fol. 2b, thus:

ای در صف اهل نظم استاد سخن
شد تازه و محکم از تو بنیاد سخن
فردوس مقام بادت ای فردوسی
انصاف که نیك دادهٔ داد سخن
افتتاح سخن آن به که کند اهل کمال الخ

The full text of the satire against Sulṭân Maḥmûd is found here on fol. 9b sq.

Beginning of the first volume, on fol. 13b; of the second volume, on fol. 344b, with Luhrâsp's accession:

چو لهراسپ بنشست بر تخت عاج الخ.

Nos. 741 and 742, ff. 668, 4 coll., each ll. 25; excellent Nasta'lîḳ; illuminated frontispieces on ff. 2b, 13b, and 344b; the whole copy luxuriously embellished throughout; full-size pictures on ff. 1b, 2a, 40a, 94b, 140b, 185b, 215a, 232a, 252b, 326a, 355b, 385b, 412b, and 529b; size, 16 in. by 10 in.

868

The same.

The Bâisunghari preface, beginning here with the same verses as in No. 704 of W. Pertsch's Berlin Cat. (p. 735):

فریدون و جمشید خورشید شان
بامرش درین گنبد آمد روان

This beautiful copy is divided into two halves, the first of which begins on fol. 10b, the second on fol. 332b, with the accession of Luhrâsp. No date.

No. 1256, ff. 622, 4 coll., each ll. 25; excellent Nasta'lîḳ; illuminated frontispiece at the beginning of the preface and of both halves of the poem; the first four pages luxuriously embellished, on the first two a long inscription as heading of the whole work; pictures on ff. 13a, 29a, 42b, 52b, 57b, 70b, 79a, 102b, 120b, 138b, 150b, 175b, 186a, 189a, 196b, 207a, 220b, 233b, 276b, 321b, 361b, 384b, 421b, 460b, 496a, 529a, 552a, and 580b; size, 17 in. by 10¾ in.

A slightly defective copy of the same.

The Bâisunghari preface breaks off on fol. 10b, in consequence of a lacuna after fol. 10, through which also the beginning of the poem is missing. The last words of the preface correspond to No. 3259 (865 in this Cat.), fol. 8b, l. 5, middle; the first words of the poem, on fol. 11a, یکی آتشی بر شد تابناك, to fol. 10b, l. 7, on the margin of the same copy. The poem is divided into four books: Book II begins, on fol. 201b, with the story of Bîzhan (بیژن); Book III, on fol. 310b, with Luhrâsp's accession; Book IV, on fol. 470b, with the reign of Nûshirwân. All the larger headings are left blank throughout; some smaller blanks besides. Ff. 586–589 are turned upside down. This defective copy, somewhat injured in the beginning too, was finished in the month Dhû-alḥijjah, A.H. 987 (A.D. 1580, January–February).

No. 341, ff. 596, 4 coll., each ll. 25; Nasta'lîḳ; the first two pages embellished; size, 11⅞ in. by 7⅞ in.

Another more defective and incomplete copy of the same.

A large lacuna in the Bâisunghari preface after fol. 2, corresponding to fol. 3ª, l. 12–fol. 10ᵇ, l. 9 in No. 3255 (866 in this Cat.); at the end of the preface the genealogical list of kings in mathnawi-baits (see No. 861 above). Beginning of the poem, on fol. 5ª. It consists here of three bâbs only, and goes down to the death of Farâmurz, the son of Rustam; all the rest of the poem is wanting. Book II begins, on fol. 314ᵇ, with Gushtâsp's accession; Book III, on fol. 368ᵇ, with the story of Farámurz. No date.

No. 3263, olim 11. J. 2, ff. 456, 4 coll., each ll. 25–31; Nasta'lîḳ; illuminated frontispiece at the beginning of each book; pictures (some of which are full-sized) on ff. 47ᵇ, 76ª, 89ᵇ, 113ª, 130ᵇ, 149ᵇ, 155ª, 196ᵇ, 213ᵇ, 216ᵇ, 241ᵇ, 255ᵇ, 288ᵇ, 318ª, 322ᵇ, 326ᵇ, 330ᵇ, 334ᵇ, 343ᵇ, 353ᵇ, 356ᵇ, and 398ᵇ; size, 15⅝ in. by 10½ in.

Dibâċa-i-Shâhnâma (دیباچهٔ شاهنامه).

Another copy of the Bâisunghari preface, beginning: افتتاح سخن آن بد کہ کند اهل کمال الخ, and ending with the short chronological list of the Pîshdâdian, Kayânian, Ashkânian, and Sâsânian kings of Persia. No date.

No. 3056, ff. 44–66, ll. 11; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 8¼ in. by 6⅝ in.

c. Copies of the Shâhnâma with another preface.

Shâhnâma.

This copy has the same preface as Add. 27,302 in the British Museum (Rieu ii. p. 536ᵇ) and No. 497 in the Bodleian Cat., which begins thus: حمد و ستایش مر خدای را عزّوجلّ کہ خدای هر دو جهان است الخ, and contains a legendary biography of Firdausi, with a short genealogical account at the end. The poem is, as in many of the preceding copies, divided into four books. Book I, on fol. 9ᵇ; II, on fol. 192ᵇ; III, on fol. 333ᵇ; IV, on fol. 452ᵇ. The first book goes down to Rustam's slaying the dîw Akwân (see Bodleian Cat., No. 500), the second to Kuhram's falling into the hand of Isfandiyâr, and the third to the beginning of Nûshirwân's reign; the fourth comprises the rest. Many headings are left blank. Ff. 1 and 8 are supplied by another hand. This copy was finished in Ramaḍân, A.H. 991 (A.D. 1583, September–October).

No. 453, ff. 576, 4 coll. (except the last two pages which have only two), each ll. 25; small Nasta'lîḳ; illuminated frontispiece at the beginning of each book; size, 9 in. by 5⅝ in.

873

The same.

The same preface as in the preceding copy: حمد و ستایش مر خدایرا الخ, with the short genealogical account at the end. The first 6½ lines of this preface are repeated on ff. 6ᵇ and 7ª.

Beginning of the poem, on fol. 7ᵇ. No subdivision into books; the copy is slightly injured in several places, especially towards the end.

Dated by Âdina of Bukhârâ, A.H. 1008, the 10th of Sha'bân (A.D. 1600, February 25), at Samarḳand.

No. 301, ff. 375, 4 coll., each ll. 35; excellent Nasta'lîḳ; vignettes on ff. 1ª and 6ª; illuminated frontispieces on ff. 1ᵇ and 7ᵇ; ff. 6ᵇ and 7ª splendidly embellished; pictures on ff. 51ᵇ, 52ᵇ, 68ª, 73ª, 91ᵇ, 97ª, 100ª, 103ᵇ, 122ª, 135ᵇ, 136ᵇ, 142ª, 169ᵇ, 185ᵇ, 186ª, 192ª, 223ª, 229ª, 237ᵇ, 247ª, 269ᵇ, 281ᵇ, 297ª, 349ª, and 370ᵇ; size, 14½ in. by 9 in.

874

The same.

The same preface. Beginning of the poem on fol. 6ᵇ. No subdivision into books. Many pages are rather effaced, others slightly injured at the inner corners. The date cannot be deciphered either; the copyist's name was Ḥaidar Ḳuli of Harât.

No. 3265, olim 11. J. 1, ff. 610, 4 coll., each ll. 25; Nasta'lîḳ; the first two pages splendidly adorned; an illuminated frontispiece besides on fol. 6ᵇ; large pictures on ff. 9ᵇ, 15ᵇ, 24ᵇ, 29ª, 34ª, 65ᵇ, 74ᵇ, 77ᵇ, 84ª, 97ᵇ, 106ᵇ, 116ª, 129ª, 135ᵇ, 139ª, 179ª, 188ᵇ, 198ª, 201ª, 213ᵇ, 238ᵇ, 325ª, 340ª, 361ª, 374ᵇ, 386ᵇ, 391ᵇ, 454ª, 459ª, 464ª, 480ᵇ, 523ᵇ, 535ª, 564ª, 573ᵇ, 582ᵇ, 602ª, 606ᵇ, and 609ª; size, 14⅝ in. by 9 in.

d. Copies of the Shâhnâma without any preface.

Shâhnâma.

This copy, which is dated by Ya'ḳûb bin Isḥaḳ A.H. 1009, 10th of Rabî'-alawwal (A.D. 1600, September 19), is divided into two halves, the first beginning on fol. 1ᵇ, the second on fol. 270ᵇ, with Luhrâsp's accession: چون لهراسب بنشست بر تخت داد الخ.

No. 315, ff. 510, 4 coll., each ll. 25; clear and distinct Nasta'lîḳ; rich illuminations on ff. 1ª, 1ᵇ, and 2ª, and an illuminated frontispiece besides at the beginning of the second half; size, 13⅝ in. by 8⅝ in.

876

The same.

A beautiful copy, without any subdivision, dated A.H. 1012, 1st of Ramaḍân (A.D. 1604, February 2).

No. 966, ff. 523, 4 coll., each ll. 25; clear Nasta'lîḳ; splendid frontispieces and other illuminations on ff. 1ᵇ and 2ª; pictures on ff. 4ᵇ, 8ᵇ, 14ᵇ, 18ª, 26ª, 33ᵇ, 44ª, 45ª, 54ᵇ, 56ª, 57ª, 62ª, 63ª, 64ᵇ, 66ª, 68ᵇ, 71ª, 74ª, 77ᵇ, 79ª, 88ª, 97ª, 110ª, 113ᵇ, 127ᵇ, 145ª, 147ª, 157ᵇ, 169ª, 171ᵇ, 177ᵇ, 180ª, 186ᵇ, 189ª, 197ᵇ, 200ᵇ, 212ᵇ, 216ª, 229ª, 232ᵇ, 243ᵇ, 254ª, 269ª, 275ª, 277ª, 279ª, 297ª, 307ª, 314ᵇ, 318ᵇ, 323ᵇ, 335ª, 358ª, 360ª, 371ᵇ, 378ᵇ, 389ª, 403ᵇ, 408ª, 428ᵇ, 453ᵇ, 475ª, and 505ª; size, 14½ in. by 9¼ in.

877

The same.

Another good copy of the Shâhnâma, with excellent and numerous marginal notes and various readings, which give quite an exceptional value to it. It is divided into two daftars, the second of which begins, on fol. 271b, after Bahrâm's death, with the struggle between Rustam and Kâmûs:

بنام خداوند خورشید وماه
که دلرا بنامش خرد داد راه

comp. No. 860 above.

The first daftar was finished A.H. 1053, last of Muharram (A.D. 1643, April 20); the second, the 25th of Rabî'-alâkhar in the same year (A.D. 1643, July 13).

Bibliotheca Leydeniana.

No. 2564, ff. 434, 4 coll., each ll. 25; Nasta'lîk, mixed with Shikasta; illuminated frontispiece on fol. 271b; fol. 136 partly effaced; size, 11½ in. by 7½ in.

878

The same.

This copy, which is not dated, is likewise divided into two halves, the first on ff. 1b–305b, the second beginning, on fol. 307b, with Gushtâsp's accession:

چو گشتاسپ را داد لهراسپ بخت
فرود آمد از تخت وبر بست رخت

Fol. 306 is left blank; there seem also to be small lacunas after ff. 241, 243, 586, and 587, as the catch-words do not agree with the beginning of the first line in the next pages.

This copy contains the very rare epilogue, quoted in Rieu ii. p. 535a (see No. 860 above), and beginning here:

چو شد ایزدی (اسپری Rieu) داستان بزرگ سخنهای آن خسروان بزرگ

in which as date of completion for the Shâhnâma A.H. 389 (A.D. 999) is given: (read یا) نهم سال هشتاد تا سیصدست.

This copy was transcribed by Mahdî 'Alî Kashmîrî; it may belong to the tenth century of the Hijrah.

No. 2593, ff. 602, 4 coll., each ll. 23; small, but clear Nasta'lîk, the first two pages splendidly illuminated; a portion of the text at the top of the last two leaves torn away; size, 9¾ in. by 5¼ in.

879

The same.

This copy is likewise divided into two halves, the second of which begins, on fol. 292a, with Luhrâsp's accession:

چو لهراسپ بنشست بر تخت شاد الخ

see Nos. 863, 867–869, and 875 above. All the headings throughout are left blank. No date. Bound together with this MS. is a letter of W. Jones to Richard Johnson, to whom this copy once belonged and who had lent it to Mr. Jones.

No. 165, ff. 626, 4 coll., each ll. 21; clear Nasta'lîk; illuminated frontispiece; the first two pages richly adorned; size, 11¾ in. by 7¾ in.

880

The same.

Good copy, slightly injured in several places. No subdivision; no date.

No. 3254, olim 11. J. 4, ff. 371, 4 coll., each ll. 25; the first two pages luxuriously adorned; pictures on ff. 29b, 37b, 40b, 75b, 89b, 98b, 110a, 116b, 130b, 138b, 145b, 150b, 168b, 172a, 176a, 182b, 187b, 192a, 198a, 199b, 202a, 205a, 211b, 216b, 218a, 225b, 230b, 231a, 233b, 243b, 252b, 255b, 260b, 270b, 272a, 274a, 281a, 284a, 288a, 292a, 294a, 295a, 300a, 317a, 324b, 341a, 343a, 347b, and 359b; size, 12⅝ in. by 8 in.

881

An incomplete copy of the same.

This copy breaks off in the story of Khusrau Parwîz; the last verse:

پراگنده شد لشکر شهریار
سیه گشت روز و تبه گشت کار corresponds to fol. 576b, first line, in No. 118 (861 in this Cat.). Many small injuries throughout.

No. 119, ff. 554, 4 coll., each ll. 25; Nasta'lîk; a vignette on fol. 1a; ff. 1b and 2b luxuriously illuminated; at the beginning and end of the MS. two large pictures; size, 13¾ in. by 8½ in.

c. Abridgments of the Shâhnâma and other works relating to the poem.

Intikhâb-i-Shâhnâma (انتخاب شاهنامه).

A kind of abridgment of the Shâhnâma, with the above title given to it in the colophon on fol. 207a; it may perhaps be identical with the اختیارات or 'selections from the Shâhnâma,' made by the poet Khwâjah Mas'ûd bin Sa'd bin Salmân, who died A.H. 525 (A.D. 1131), see A. Sprenger, Catal., p. 406, and No. 908 in this Cat.; but this copy is unfortunately in such an extremely bad state, defective at the beginning, with a very large lacuna after fol. 8, and so severely injured throughout, that it is impossible to give any more detailed account of its character or purpose. There is scarcely one leaf undamaged, whole portions of many pages are torn away (particularly in the beginning), and where catch-words are found, they seldom agree with the initial verse of the following page. On fol. 207a, where the title occurs, the copy apparently concludes and is dated by Asad-allâh, A.H. 945, month of Rabî'-alawwal (A.D. 1538, August); but on ff. 207b and 208a again some extracts from the Shâhnâma are found, and on the latter page, written by another hand, is another colophon, dated A.H. 966, 18th of Jumâdâ-alawwal (A.D. 1559, February 26).

No. 2454, ff. 208, 4 coll., each ll. 28; Nasta'lîk; ff. 33 and 208 written by other hands; size, 10¼ in. by 6¼ in.

Muntakhab-i-Shâhnâma (منتخب شاهنامه).

This is the oldest copy in the India Office Collection of the well-known extracts from the Shâhnâma, compiled with a connecting narrative in prose by Tawak-kulbeg bin Tûlakbeg (according to one copy in the British Museum, Tawakkul Muḥammad bin Tûlak Muḥammad al-Ḥusainî), an officer of the prince Dârâ Shukûh, at the request of the governor of Ghazna, Shamshîrkhân, comp. Bodleian Cat., No. 504; Rieu ii. p. 539 sq.; W. Pertsch, Berlin Cat., p. 740; A. F. Mehren, p. 540; Mohl, Le livre des rois, vol. i, préface, p. lxxix, etc. Unfortunately this copy is very illegible in many places, as a great number of different hands have been engaged in transcribing the MS.

Beginning: حمد بیغایت و ثنای بینهایت مر حضرت کبریاء واجب الوجودی را کہ جناب قدسیٔ هویّت جلالش را از ادراك افهام الخ.

The date of composition, viz. A. H. 1063 (26th year of Shâhjahân's reign=A. D. 1653), appears here on fol. 1b, l. 3 ab infra; the name of the author on fol. 2a, l. 2, and that of the governor, Shamshîrkhân, on fol. 2a, l. 5. As title is given here, besides the منتخب شاهنامه, both on fol. 2b, l. 6, and in the colophon, خلاصهٔ شاهنامه (see Rieu, loc. cit.). The usual title, تأریخ دلگشای شمشیرخانی, is not found in this copy. At the end of Ardashîr's reign, on ff. 168a–171b, the usual additions, list of the Sâsânian kings, biography of Firdausî, and the satire against Sulṭân Maḥmûd. Dated the 25th of Ṣafar in the 46th year of 'Âlamgîr's reign (=A. H. 1114, A. D. 1702, July 21). Bibliotheca Leydeniana; a former owner was Robert Watherston.

This work was translated into English by J. Atkinson, in 'The Shahnamah of Firdausi,' London, 1832. An abridged translation of the same in rekhta verse, styled شاهنامهٔ موجند, was made by Mûlcand Munshî of Lakhnau, who lived in Dihlî, and dedicated his work to the Sulṭân of Dihlî, Shâh Abû Naṣr Akbarshâh (i. e. Akbar II, who reigned A. H. 1221–1253=A. D. 1806–1837), A. H. 1225 (A. D. 1810), according to the chronogram قصّهٔ خسروان عجم (in a copy of this book in No. 3128 of the India Office Collection, fol. 6b, ll. 7 and 8, and fol. 351a, ll. 5 and 6, comp. Garcin de Tassy, Histoire de la littérature Hindouie etc., 2nd ed., ii. p. 586 sq., and A. Sprenger, Catal., p. 627, where the wrong date, 1220, is given; printed Calcutta, 1846; lithographed at Dihlî and Kânpûr, A. H. 1268, also at Lakhnau).

No. 2755, ff. 171, ll. 14–21; written by at least half-a-dozen hands in various styles of careless Nasta'lîḳ and Shikasta; size, 9½ in. by 5½ in.

Another copy of the same.

This copy, the colophon of which styles the work تواریخ شمشیرخانی, is dated the 3rd of Rajab in the first year of the reign of Rafi'-aljalâlat (probably meant for Rafi'-aldarajât, who reigned about three months between Farrukhsiyar and Muḥammadshâh, A. H. 1131 =A. D. 1719, May 22), by Sayyid Nûr Muḥammad. Beginning as in the preceding copy. The extracts end on fol. 215a and are followed on the remaining pages by the usual additions.

No. 1578, ff. 219, ll. 19; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 8½ in. by 4½ in.

885

The same.

Beginning as usual. The title, منتخب شاهنامه, appears on fol. 2a, l. 9, but at the top of fol. 1a and in the colophon the book is designated as لبّ لباب منتخب شاهنامه or simply لبّ لباب. The extracts end on fol. 267b, followed by the usual additions. Dated by Muṭî'-allâh Chishtî alrashîdî aljaunpûrî, A. H. 1170, 9th of Shawwâl (A. D. 1757, June 27). From the library of Sir Charles Wilkins.

No. 2361, ff. 274, ll. 15; Naskhî, mixed with Shikasta; worm-eaten throughout; size, 7¾ in. by 4¾ in.

886

The same.

Beginning: حمد بیغایت و ثنای بینهایت مر حضرت کبریای واجب الوجود ربوبیّت جلالش از ادراك افهام الخ.

The date of composition is here (on fol. 1b, l. 8) wrongly given as A.H. 1061 instead of 1063, although it is distinctly stated that it was the 26th year of Shâhjahân's reign. The title, تأریخ دلگشای شمشیرخانی, appears on fol. 3a, first line. Copied in the fifth year of Shah 'Âlam's reign (=A. H. 1177, A. D. 1763, 1764).

No. 175, ff. 296, ll. 16; large and distinct Nasta'lîḳ; illuminated frontispiece; size, 11⅝ in. by 6½ in.

887

The same.

Beginning: حمد بیغایت و ثنای بینهایت مر حضرت کبریای واجب الوجود را کہ جناب قدسیٔ جلالش از ادراك الخ.

Dated the 5th of Jumâdâ-althânî, A. H. 1186 (A. D. 1772, September 3); the right order of ff. 283–286 is: 283, 285, 284, and 286.

No. 66, ff. 304, ll. 13; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 8¼ in. by 5¼ in.

888

The same.

Another very modern copy, transcribed (according to a note on the fly-leaf at the end of the MS.) by Ḥasan Muḥammad in the present century. The extracts end on fol. 195a, followed by the usual additions. This copy was sent to the Imperial Exhibition at Paris for works of art and industry by the Punjab Committee at Lahore; it was received into the Library from Dr. Royle, July 1856.

No. 3227, ff. 198, ll. 17; splendid Nasta'lîḳ; many blanks left, probably for the insertion of illustrations; size, 11 in. by 6½ in.

The same.

The beginning of this copy differs in the first four and a half lines from the usual text: ستایش و نیایش مر حضرت قادری کہ چون را سزد کہ عالم گوناگون را از پردهٔ کتم الخ, but from the fifth line onwards it agrees verbatim with that of the preceding copies: کہ امارت وایالت . . . . پناہ حشمت واجلال الخ, corresponding to fol. 2a, l. 7 sq.

in No. 175 (886 in this Cat.). Author's name and date of composition are missing in this preface, but the governor's name, Shamshîrkhân, and the title, تأريخ دلگشای شمشيرخانی, appear here on ff. 1b, last line, 2a, first line, and 2b, last line. No date. The copy was transcribed by Ḥâfiẓ Yár Muḥammad and Ḥâfiẓ Muḥammad Murâd.

No. 117, ff. 302, ll. 13; Nasta'lîḳ, all the margins throughout embellished with gold arabesques; size, 8¾ in. by 4¾ in.

A defective copy of the same.

Some leaves are missing at the beginning of this copy; the first words, on fol. 1a, بزرگی و دينار و افسر دهد الخ, correspond to No. 175 (886 in this Cat.), fol. 3a, l. 10 second hemistich. No date. On the fly-leaf the incorrect title, محمود نامه تصنيف فردوسی, is given to this work.

No. 92, ff. 198, ll. 14–20; written very unequally and sometimes almost illegibly by different hands in various kinds of Nasta'lîḳ and Shikasta; size, 9 in. by 5 in.

Ganjnâma dar ḥall-i-lughât-i-Shâhnâma (گنجنامه در حلّ لغات شاهنامه).

A special dictionary for Firdausî's Shâhnâma, compiled at the request of Riḍâ Ḳulîbeg, with the epithet Nîkâmkhân (see fol. 3a, ll. 8 and 9), by 'Alî almakkî Ibn Ṭaifûr albisṭâmî (see fol. 3b, l. 10), and completed the 7th of Jumâdâ-althânî, A.H. 1079 (A.D. 1668, November 12). It is arranged alphabetically according to the first and second letters, and begins on fol. 9a with آباد. An introduction or آغاز precedes the dictionary, and is subdivided into the following three paragraphs (مضمون):

1. در بيان طلاق اسم پارس بر ملك ايران و آنكه در زمان قديم و عهد باستان از كجا تا كجارا پارس مخواندند, on fol. 4b.

2. در تعداد زبان پارسی كه چند است, on fol. 5b.

3. در بيان فضيلت ابنای پارس و فصاحت زبان پارسی, on fol. 7a.

Beginning (as in Firdausî's poem):

بنام خداوند جان و خرد — كزين برتر انديشه در نگذرد

This copy was made a short time after the completion of the work in the same year, 1079, by Ibn Raḥmat-allâh alḥusainî Ibrâhîm, and finished the 14th of Shawwâl (A.D. 1669, March 17). It belonged formerly to Robert Ireland, Fort William in Bengal (1781). There is another entry on the fly-leaf: the 16th June, 1773, Calcutta, and the book is called there نعت شاهنامه, and 'A definition of many hard phrases made use of in the Shâhnâma.'

No. 1798, ff. 205, ll. 15: Shikasta; illuminated frontispiece; size, 11¾ in. by 6¾ in.

Fihrist-i-Shâhnâma (فهرست شاهنامه).

A curious composition in form of a ḳaṣîdah, with the same rhyme in ا running through the whole book, giving a versified index of the contents of the Shâhnâma, compiled by Shîrîn Parand (شيرين پرند) for the sake of a better recollection of the principal incidents in Firdausî's masterpiece.

It opens with a rubâ'î, beginning thus:

اين نامه بشاهنامه انداخته است الخ

This copy is defective, going down only to the end of Kaikhusrau's reign.

Copied A.H. 1166 (A.D. 1753), according to a note on fol. 1a.

No. 1990, ff. 22, 2 coll., each ll. 12; Nasta'lîḳ, much damaged and many lines almost effaced; size, 8¼ in. by 4¾ in.

f. Imitations of the Shâhnâma.

Garshâspnâma (گرشاسپ نامه).

The exploits of Garshâsp, prince of Sistân and ancestor of the chief hero of Firdausî's poem, Rustam, the oldest epopee composed in imitation of the Shâhnâma, and generally ascribed to the poet Asadî, Firdausî's teacher; but since all the copies of this rather rare mathnawî give unanimously as date of completion A.H. 458 (A.D. 1066), see here fol. 284a, l. 16, and old Asadî died in the reign of Sulṭân Mas'ûd bin Maḥmûd (A.H. 421–432 = A.D. 1030–1040), i.e. at least twenty-six or twenty-seven years before the composition of the Garshâspnâma, the latter must needs be the work of a later author, who most likely was 'Alî bin Aḥmad al-Asadî al-Ṭûsî, with the two Kunyas Abû-alḥasan and Abû-almanṣûr, the son of the older Asadî; see on this intricate question Dr. Ethé, 'Ueber persische Tenzonen,' in 'Abhandlungen des fünften Internationalen Orientalisten-Congresses zu Berlin, 1881;' Zweiter Theil, erste Hälfte, p. 64 sq., and the Bodleian Cat., Nos. 507 and 508; comp. also Rieu iii. p. 1088b; Mohl's preface to the 'Livre des rois,' and Turner Macan's edition of the Shâhnâma, vol. iv, appendix, pp. 2109–2133, where a portion of the text of the Garshâspnâma is published. Besides the two Bodleian copies and the Paris copy there are also recently four new ones added to the collection of the British Museum (Or. 2780, 2878, 2926, and 2976).

Beginning of the poem:

سپاس از خدا ايزد رهنمای
كه از كاف و نون كرد گيتی بنای

According to the last verse but one it contains 9000 baits (see the same statement in Elliott 141 of the Bodleian Library, whereas Elliott 140 of the same collection gives 10,000). Copied A.H. 1003 (A.D. 1594, 1595). This copy is in a very precarious state; many leaves are extremely injured and damaged by worms; there are besides many small blanks and omissions. Some leaves are misplaced, but as most of the catch-words are missing, we can set right only ff. 168–177, the proper order of which is: 168, 176, 170–175, 169, and 177.

No. 276, ff. 285, 2 coll., each ll. 19; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 8¼ in. by 4¼ in.

Jahângîrnâma (جهانگيرنامه).

Another of the older imitations of the Shâhnâma, by an anonymous author, celebrating the life and adventures of Rustam's son Jahângîr, who, like his unfortunate brother Suhrâb, engages in a fight with his father, without knowing him, until at last father and son recognise each other. Beginning:

كنون باز كردم نگار سخن — بگويم حديث جهان كهن

On fol. 1b the poem is styled: آغاز داستان جهانگير بن رستم نامه كه منتخب شاهنامه است.

Very probably it is found like the Garshâspnâma, the Sâmnâma and others, interpolated in some copies of the Shâhnâma. Dated A.H. 1112, 29th of Dhû-alḥijjah (A.D. 1701, June 6), at Akbarâbâd.

No. 628, ff. 166, 2 coll., each ll. 16–32, written very unequally in different kinds of Shikasta; size, 9 in. by 5¼ in.

Futûḥ-alsalâṭîn (فتوح السلاطين).

A poetical history of the rulers of India from the rise of the Ghaznawide dynasty to A.H. 750 (A.D. 1349, 1350), the date of this composition (see fol. 333a, l. 8), by 'Iṣâmî (عصامى), see fol. 21b, l. 3 ab infra; fol. 25a, l. 7; fol. 331b, l. 13 and the colophon. This imitation of Firdausi's Shâhnâma, which is styled فتوح السلاطين (see fol. 331b, l. 4) and is mentioned by the author of the Ṭabaḳât-i-Akbarî as one of his authorities (compare Rieu i. p. 220), was dedicated by the poet, who is probably identical with Khwâjah 'Abd Malik 'Iṣâmî, mentioned by A. Sprenger, Catal., p. 81, to 'Alâ-alduwayah wa aldîn Abû al-Muẓaffar Bahmanshâh Sulṭân (see fol. 18a sq.), that is, 'Alâ-aldîn Ḥasan, the first Bahmanî king of the Dakhan, who, according to the statement here, assumed sovereignty in A.H. 748=A.D. 1347 (see fol. 299a, but compare No. 449 in this Cat.).

A complete index of the contents is given on ff. 1–13.

Beginning of the poem, on fol. 14b:

بنام خداوند هر دو جهان
كنند ابتدا نامه كار آگهان

A short account of the old Persian kings, on fol. 27a.

Rise of Islâm and story of Muḥammad, on fol. 28b.

Rise of the Ghaznawide dynasty, on fol. 29a.

General account of Indian rulers, on fol. 30a.

Beginning of the main portion of the poem with the birth of Sulṭân Maḥmûd of Ghazna, on fol. 31a.

Death of Maḥmûd and reign of his successors, on fol. 46a sq.

History of the house of Ghûr, on fol. 58a sq.; followed in a more detailed manner by that of the Slave kings, the house of Khiljî, and the house of Tughluḳ.

Beginning of 'Alâ-aldîn Ḥasan Bahmanî's reign, on fol. 299a.

Many pages are spoiled by worms; half of fol. 267 is torn away, half of fol. 327 left blank, and parts of verses occasionally omitted. No date. Tenth century of the Hijrah. This copy belonged formerly to Charl. Boddam (Calcutta, May 1st).

No. 3089, ff. 333, 2 coll., each ll. 19; small but distinct Nasta'lîḳ; size, 7¾ in. by 4¾ in.

Khâwarnâma (خاورنامه).

The exploits of 'Alî and his companions, a mathnawî composed in imitation of the Shâhnâma by Muḥammad bin Ḥusâm-aldîn of Khûsaf in Ḳuhistân, usually called Ibn Ḥusâm, with the epithet of فردوسى ثانى 'the second Firdausî,' A.H. 830 (A.D. 1427), see fol. 183a, l. 8. It is generally styled خاورنامه, but the poet himself calls it here (fol. 183a, l. 9) خاورانتامه. According to the colophon it is also sometimes designated by the simple title شاهنامه; compare Bodleian Cat., No. 512; Rieu ii. p. 642; A. Sprenger, Catal., p. 432; G. Flügel ii. p. 450, and Haft Iḳlîm, No. 826 (col. 437 in this Cat.). The poet died A.H. 875 (A.D. 1470) according to Taḳî Kâshî (other, less correct, dates are A.H. 892, see Ḥ. Khalfa iii. p. 129, and 893, see Ḥabîb-alsiyar, vol. iii. Juz 3, p. 336). The introduction, found in the Bodleian copy, is missing in all the copies of this collection.

Beginning of the poem:

نخستين برين نامهٔ دلگشاى
سخن نقش بستم بنام خداى

Dated A.H. 965, month of Jumâdâ-alawwal (A.D. 1558, February–March), by Maḥmûd bin 'Abd-alraḥmân. Worm-eaten in many places. Bibliotheca Leydeniana. A translation of this epopee in Dakhnî verses was made by a poet with the takhalluṣ Rustamî, who excelled both in Persian and Dakhnî poetry, for Khadijah Sulṭân Shahrbânû, the sister of Sulṭân 'Abdallâh Ḳuṭbshâh (who ascended the throne of Gulkundah A.H. 1035=A.D. 1626, see No. 464 in this Cat.), the wife of Abû Manṣûr Sulṭân Muḥammad 'Âdilshâh bin Ibrâhîmshâh (who reigned A.H. 1037–1067, A.D. 1627–1656, see Nos. 454 and 455 in this Cat.), and the mother of Manṣûr Bakhtiyâr (a copy of this translation with gorgeous illustrations is preserved in No. 834 of the India Office Collection).

No. 2557, ff. 184, 4 centre-coll., each ll. 20 (except ff. 1 and 2, with ll. 25 in a page), and from fol. 3a on a fifth column on the margin, ll. 44: Nasta'lîḳ, by three different hands; size, 10¾ in. by 6¾ in.

897

Another copy of the same.

This most magnificent copy of the Khâwarnâma is about 200 years old (undated) and illustrated with 156 gorgeous pictures, most of them nearly full-sized, in the richest variety of colours.

Beginning as usual:

نخستين برين نامهٔ دلگشاى
سخن نقش بستم بنام خداى

One leaf is missing between ff. 206 and 207 (the lacuna corresponding to fol. 104a, margin-column, l. 12 ab infra, to fol. 104b, margin-column, l. 5 in the preceding copy). On one of the fly-leaves at the end of the MS. a Persian note, written by 'Alî Ibrâhîmkhân in 1789, gives the title and author's name of this poem, fixes correctly his death in A. H. 875, in the reign of Shaikh 'Umar Mîrzâ ibn Amir Timûr, and alleges two peculiar reasons why it was styled خاورنامه, viz. (1) because خاوران is a place in Khurâsân, and the author, Ibn Ḥusâm, lived in Khurâsân, namely in Ḳuhistân; (2) because خاوران means 'east and west' (مشرق و مغرب), and the wonderful exploits of the hero of this poem are said to have taken place in the west (مغرب)! He further states, that this poem is especially renowned in Iṣfahân and Khurâsân, although the stories related are devoid of historical truth, that it contains 23,735 baits and 157 illustrations on 362 folios. He adds, that it must have been copied for a king or Amîr. An English translation of this Persian note by H. T. Prinsep, Esq., is affixed to a fly-leaf in the beginning of the MS. Another English note, but by a different hand and without signature, is stuck to one of the fly-leaves at the end, and runs thus:

'I am not skilful in ascertaining the age and value of a Persian manuscript, but I should think, as well from the handwriting as from the pictures, that this copy was made in the north of India, and not in Persia, and that the artists were natives of India who have taken old Persian paintings for their models. I should therefore place this MS. in the third or fourth rank as a mere work of art. But it appears, from the little that I have had time to look into, to be very correct, and the handwriting is very distinct, which give it additional value: and I have no doubt but it was made with great care and a vast expense. I know nothing of the character of the work; for this is the first copy I have ever met with: nor have I found any reference to the author in other works. He has used the measure and seems to have copied the style of Firdûsî in his celebrated Shâh-Nâmah, but I am not sufficiently acquainted with the two works to make any further comparison.'

No. 3443, ff. 361, 4 coll., each ll. 19; large and distinct Nasta'lîḳ; each column is separated from the other by a large gold stripe; splendid frontispieces on ff. 1b and 35b; ff. 1b, 2a, 35b, and 36a richly illuminated; pictures on ff. 4a, 7a, 8a, 12a, 13a, 14b, 15b, 17b, 19b, 22b, 26a, 28a, 29a, 30b, 32b, 35a, 37a, 39a, 41a, 43a, 46a, 47b, 49a, 51b, 52b, 54b, 57b, 59b, 62b, 64b, 66b, 69b, 73a, 75a, 77a, 79b, 81a, 82b, 84a, 85b, 87a, 89a, 90b, 93a, 94b, 96b, 99a, 102a, 104b, 107b, 110a, 113b, 115b, 118a, 121a, 123b, 127a, 128b, 130b, 132b, 136a, 138a, 140b, 142a, 143a, 146b, 147b, 150a, 152b, 154b, 156b, 159a, 161a, 163a, 164b, 166b, 168a, 170a, 172b, 174b, 176a, 178a, 180a, 184b, 187a, 190a, 192b, 194b, 198b, 201b, 204a, 206a, 208a, 210a, 212a, 215a, 216b, 219a, 223b, 226b, 228a, 230a, 231b, 233b, 236b, 237b, 240b, 243a, 245a, 247a, 249a, 251b, 252b, 253b, 254b, 258a, 261a, 263a, 264a, 267a, 270a, 272b, 275a, 279a, 282a, 285b, 287a, 288b, 290a, 292b, 296a, 298b, 301b, 304a, 306b, 309a, 312b, 313b, 316b, 318b, 321b, 324a, 327a, 330a, 331b, 332b, 334a, 336b, 339a, 341a, 345a, 348a, 351b, 358a, 359a, and 361a; solid eastern binding; size, 13¾ in. by 10¾ in.

A defective copy of the same.

Beginning as usual. No date. This copy is in a very bad state, worm-eaten and damaged in many places; there are besides several lacunas and misplaced leaves, for instance, the proper order of ff. 183–202 is: 183, 196, 197, 195, 201, 194, 200, 198, 199, 202; the intervening leaves 184–193 are not quite consecutive, 185–192 and 184 and 193 respectively belong together, but between both these series there are lacunas.

No. 658, ff. 536, 2 coll., ll. 16–23; written very unequally by different hands in various styles of Nasta'lîḳ; size, 8¼ in. by 4¼ in.

A short fragment of the same.

Part of the episode of Gulandâm's deliverance, from the Khâwarnâma, agreeing in substance, but not in wording, with fol. 118 sq. in No. 2557 (896 in this Cat.). It contains only six leaves and is incomplete at the end.

Heading: ابن حسام گوید رفتن فتّاح بطلب گل اندام وخلاص نمودن ویافتن اورا در آن کوه و مژده دادن ابو المعجن را.

Beginning: چو خورشید بنهفت و بنمود ماه الخ.

Last verse:

بپرسیدش ازگردش روزگار — سروشش شنید حیدر نامدار

Bibliotheca Leydeniana.

No. 2486, ff. 195–200, 2 coll., each ll. 15; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 8¼ in. by 4¼ in.

Ḥamla-i-Ḥaidarî (حملهٔ حیدری).

Another imitation of the Shâhnâma, in the form of a poetical biography of Muḥammad and 'Alî, a kind of rhymed paraphrase of Mu'în-almiskîn's معارج النبوّة (Nos. 138–144 in this Cat.), by Muḥammad Rafî'khân, with the takhalluṣ Bâdhil, who died A.H. 1123 (A. D. 1711), but left the work unfinished, which was completed twelve years after, A. H. 1135 (A. D. 1723), by Najaf, who added an older poem on the same subject, by Sayyid Abû Ṭâlib of Iṣfahân, to the end of Bâdhil's epopee, see Bodleian Cat., Nos. 390 (Khulâṣat-alkalâm, Nos. 9 and 10), 518 and 519; Rieu ii. p. 704; A. Sprenger, Catal., p. 368; W. Pertsch, Berlin Cat., p. 533, and Mohl, préface to the 'Livre des rois,' p. lxxvii note. It must not be confounded with another quite modern epopee of the same title, حملهٔ حیدری, and in the same metre, composed by Mullâ Ḥamûn'Alî Kirmânî, with the takhalluṣ Râjî, A.H. 1220 (A. D. 1805), and lithographed in Bombay, A. H. 1264, etc.; see Rieu, loc. cit.; A. Sprenger, Catal., p. 540, and W. Pertsch, Berlin Cat., p. 534. According to the last-named Catal., the original work of Bâdhil was concluded in A.H. 1119 (A. D. 1707, 1708), after fifty years' labour. It has been lithographed in Lucknow, A. H. 1267.

The poem is divided here into two parts, the first beginning, on fol. 1b:

بنام خداوند بسیار بخش
خرد بخش و دین بخش و دینار بخش

the second, on fol. 147b:

بنام برآرندهٔ کامها — از آغاز دانای انجامها

The first heading in the second part is: داستان خیبر و وقائع سال هفتم وامر فرمودن سیّد کائنات مهیّا شدن لشکر اسلام را.

This copy is larger than Ouseley 357 in the Bodleian Library (Bodleian Cat., loc. cit.), the last chapter of that copy being found here on fol. 283b. Copied by Muḥammad A'ẓam bin Muḥammad Ṣâdiḳ. No date.

No. 139, ff. 346, 4 coll., each ll. 20; excellent Nasta'lîḳ; illuminated frontispieces on ff. 1b and 147b; size, 12 in. by 7¼ in.

Shâhinshâhnâma (شاهنشاهنامه).

One of the most modern imitations of the Shâhnâma in honour of the exploits of Fatḥ 'Alî Shâh, king of Persia (A.H. 1212–1250=A.D. 1797–1834), by the poet laureate Fatḥ 'Alî Khân Kâshî, with the takhalluṣ Ṣabâ (who died, according to Rieu iii. p. 1082a, and Schefer, Ambassade au Kharezm, A.H. 1238=A.D. 1822, 1823), see Bodl. Cat., No. 520; G. Flügel i. p. 603; W. Pertsch, Berlin Cat., p. 957; Fundgruben des Orients, vi, Heft iv. p. 341 sq.; and Wiener Jahrbücher, Anzeigeblatt, vol. 6, p. 29 sq.; vol. 7, pp. 273 and 281; vol. 9, p. 1 sq.; vol. 17, p. 32 sq.; vol. 18, p. 44 sq.; and vol. 70, p. 71.

Introduction by the author, on ff. 1b–9b, beginning: نخست چون بنگری جهانی بینی پر از چون وچند همی بست و گشاد بینی و ستم و داد الخ.

Beginning of the epopee, on fol. 10b:

بنام خداوند آموزگار ـ نگارندهٔ نامهٔ روزگار

This most superb and splendidly executed copy was made by order of Fatḥ 'Alî Shâh himself, and finished by the transcriber, Mahdi alḥusainî alfarâhânî, the Kâtib of the royal residence, the first of Rajab, A.H. 1225 (A.D. 1810, August 2). Received from Comm. of Corresp., 28th March, 1816.

No. 3442, ff. 451, 4 coll., each ll. 20; excellent Nasta'lîḳ; gorgeous frontispieces on ff. 1b, 10b, and 11b; ff. 1b, 2a, 10b, and 11a magnificently illuminated; smaller illuminations on ff. 313a, 314a, and the last two pages; very fine pictures on ff. 28a, 32a, 37a, 44b, 56a, 64b, 78b, 88a, 97b, 102b, 110a, 111a, 112a, 113a, 114a, 115b, 116b, 130b, 145b, 150b, 153b, 156b, 201a, 212b, 218b, 235a, 239a, 245a, 263a, 280a, 317b, 339a, 343a, 354a, 382a, 387b, 389b, and 396b; splendid eastern binding with flowers; size, 15⅝ in. by 9½ in.

2. Poets contemporary with and subsequent to Firdausî.

Dîwân-i-Farrukhî (دیوان فرّخی).

The very rare dîwân of the court-poet of Sulṭân Maḥmûd of Ghazna, Ustâd Abû-alḥasan 'Alî bin Jûlû' (or Ḳûlû') Farrukhî, a native of Sistân, whose death is fixed by Taḳî Kâshî in A.H. 470 (A.D. 1077, 1078); see A. Sprenger, Catal., pp. 3, No. 22, and 15, No. 3; compare besides Âtashkada, No. 198 (Bodleian Cat., col. 269, where a work on poetry and rhetorical art, ترجمان البلاغة, is ascribed to him); Khulâṣat-alafkâr, No. 207 (ib., col. 309, where he is called a pupil of 'Unṣurî, the king of poets at Sulṭân Maḥmûd's court); Makhzan-alghara'ib, No. 1839 (ib., col. 358); Haft Iḳlîm, No. 302 (col. 399 in this Cat.), and Bodleian Cat., col. 823. But a much earlier and—as it seems—more correct date for his demise is given in Riḍâ Ḳulikhân's very reliable work, the مجمع الفصحا, vol. i. p. 439, viz. A.H. 429 (A.D. 1037, 1038); see also Schefer, Chrestomathie Persane, vol. ii. pp. 242–246, and pp. ٢٤٧–٢٥٢, where a few select poems in Persian text are given. There are two other complete copies of this dîwân in the British Museum (Or. 2945 and 3246). The present copy is unfortunately much damaged, whole portions of the first thirteen leaves having been torn away. The dîwân consists chiefly of ḳaṣîdas and tarji'bands, with a few ḳiṭ'as and rubâ'îs at the end.

Beginning: زبهر تهنیت عید بامداد بگاه الخ.

The second hemistich of this initial bait is partly destroyed.

The second ḳaṣîdah, on fol. 2a, alludes to Sulṭân Maḥmûd's conquest of Ḳannûj, viz.:

توئی کنندهٔ دین محمّد مختار
بمین دولت محمود قاهر کفّار
چو باز گشت بفیروزی از در قنّوج الخ

No date.

No. 1841, ff. 200, 2 coll., each ll. 22–23; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 8¼ in. by 5 in.

903

Dîwân-i-Nâṣir-i-Khusrau (دیوان ناصر خسرو).

The dîwân or rather one of the dîwâns of Abû Mu'în Nâṣir bin Khusrau, with the takhalluṣ Ḥujjat, who was born in Ḳubâdiyân near Balkh, A.H. 394, Dhû-alḳa'dah (A.D. 1004, August–September), and died in Yumgân A.H. 481 (A.D. 1088); see on the life and works of this truly wonderful man, whose real character has so long been shrouded in mystery, and whose very identity with the author of the Safarnâma has been hotly disputed until a very recent date, especially Fagnan, Note sur Nâçir ibn Khosrou (Journal Asiatique, vii série, tome 13, 1879, pp. 164–168); Rieu i. pp. 379–381, and iii. p. 1086b; Schefer, Sefer Nameh, Paris, 1881, Introduction; and Ethé, Nâṣir bin Khusraus Leben, Denken und Dichten (compare Haft Iḳlîm, No. 863, col. 441 in this Cat.), and Die mystische, didaktische und lyrische Poesie, etc. der Perser, Hamburg, 1888, pp. 13–19. Copies of this dîwân are described in A. Sprenger, Catal., p. 428; G. Flügel i. p. 496, and W. Pertsch, Berlin Cat., p. 741; there are also two copies lately added to the British Museum Collection (Or. 2845 and 3323); large extracts are found in the Butkhâna (Bodleian Cat., No. 366, ff. 36b–66b), and a peculiar tasmîṭ in the Daḳâ'iḳ-alash'âr (ib., No. 1333, col. 802); a lithographed edition appeared in Tabrîz, A.H. 1280. Selections from Nâṣir's dîwân, with German metrical translation, have been edited by Ethé in the Göttinger Nachrichten, 1882, pp. 124–152, and in the Zeitschrift der D. M. G., vol. 36, pp. 478–508; one poem of his has also been published by W. Shukowskij in Sapisski, iv. pp. 386–393, 1890. Other works of the poet are:

(1) the Rûshanâ'înâma, see below, No. 904: (2) the Sa'âdatnâma (edited by Fagnan in the Zeitschrift, vol. 34, pp. 643–674; compare also Dr. Teufel's critical remarks on it, ib., vol. 36, pp. 106–114); (3) the Safarnâma (edited with French translation and valuable notes by Schefer, Paris, 1881; see also A. R. Fuller in the Journal of the Roy. Asiat. Society, 1872, pp. 142–164; and Guy Le Strange, Nâṣir-i-Khusrau, Diary of a Journey through Syria and Palestine, London, Palest. Pilgrims' Text Soc., 1888); (4) the Zâd-almusâfirîn (here styled in the very short biographical introduction زاد المسافر), which is in the private collection of M. Schefer (comp. his Chrestomathie Persane, vol. i, Paris, 1883, p. 182); (5 and 6) the كتاب وجه الدين and the كتاب دليل المتحيّرين (ib., p. 111), neither of which seems to be extant now.

Beginning of the present copy, on fol. 97b:

خداوندی که در وحدت قدیمست از همه اشیا
نه اندر وحدتش کثرت نه محدث را ازو تنها

This diwân, which forms the sixth and last part of a very old and precious collection of Persian diwâns, formerly belonging to Shâh Isma'îl Ṣafawî and bearing his seal in many places (see W. Morley, p. 7, note 1), was copied A.H. 714 in Dhû-alḳa'dah=A.D. 1315, February, by 'Abd-almu'min al'alawî-alkâshî (the other five diwâns are those of Amîr Mu'izzî, Athîr-aldîn Akhsîkatî, Adîb Ṣâbir, Niẓâm-aldîn Maḥmûd Ḳamar Iṣfahânî, and Shams-aldîn Maḥmûd al-Ṭabasî). It is unfortunately greatly damaged in many places and particularly towards the end.

No. 132, ff. 97–112, 6 coll., each ll. 40; written in a very peculiar and striking style of Naskhî; small illuminated frontispiece on fol. 97b, and a vignette on fol. 97a; miniature paintings of a rather funny character throughout; size, 15⅔ in. by 11 in.

Rûshanâ'înâma (روشنائی نامه).

The oldest didactic mathnawî of the Persians, 'the book of enlightenment,' by the same Nâṣir bin Khusrau; it has been edited with German metrical translation and an introduction by Ethé in the Zeitschrift der D. M. G., vol. 33, 1879, pp. 645–665, and vol. 34, 1880, pp. 428–464 and 617–642 (compare Dr. Teufel's critical remarks on it, ib., vol. 36, pp. 96–106); the other four copies of this poem are in Gotha (W. Pertsch, p. 13), Leyden (Cat. Codd. Or. Lugd. Bat. ii. p. 107), and Paris (No. 781, A. du suppl., and in the private collection of M. Schefer); as date of composition appears in the Gotha codex, A.H. 420 (A.D. 1029), in the other three A.H. 343 (A.D. 954, 955), and in the present copy on fol. 57b, l. 7, A.H. 323 (A.D. 935); the correct date seems to be A.H. 440 or 441 (A.D. 1048–1050), see Zeitschrift der D. M. G., vol. 34, p. 638, note 5.

Beginning:

بنام کردگار پاک داور
که هست از عقل و وهم وفکر برتر

corresponding to v. 163 in Ethé's edition (the 162 verses of the introduction are wanting here as in all copies except that of Gotha). Dated A.H. 1061 (A.D. 1651).

No. 1430, ff. 36b–54b, 2 coll., each ll. 12; large and clear Nasta'lîḳ; size, 10⅝ in. by 6 in.

Dîwân-i-Abû-alfaraj Rûnî (دیوان ابو الفرج رونی).

Lyrical poems by Abû-alfaraj bin Mas'ûd al-Rûnî, who was born in Lâhûr (see the Haft Iḳlim, No. 358), and flourished in the reigns of Sulṭân Ibrâhîm of Ghazna (A.H. 451–492=A.D. 1059–1099) and his son and successor Sulṭân Mas'ûd III (A.H. 492–508=A.D. 1099–1114), to both of whom he addressed panegyrics. He is not to be confounded with an older poet, Abû-alfaraj Sijzî, who was attached to the court of the Amîr Abû 'Alî Simjûr, the governor of Khurâsân under the Sâmânides (see Haft Iḳlim, No. 303), and whose pupil 'Unṣurî was. The usual dates, assigned to Abû-alfaraj Rûnî's death, viz. A.H. 482 or 489 (A.D. 1089 or 1096), cannot be authentic, as the poet styles Sulṭân Mas'ûd III, the reigning sovereign in various ḳaṣîdas; compare Bodleian Cat., Nos. 366 (Butkhâna, No. 1), 523, and 1333 (col. 823); Rieu ii. p. 547, and A. Sprenger, Catal., p. 308. This diwân, which is incomplete at the end, contains chiefly ḳaṣîdas, with a few ghazals, ḳiṭ'as, and rubâ'îs.

Beginning:

سپهر دولت و دین پادشاه هفت (in other copies آفتاب)
اقلیم ابو المظفّر شاه مظفّر ابراهیم

The copy breaks off on fol. 429b; ff. 430b–432 contain a short extract from Sa'dî's Bûstân, written by another hand. Dated by 'Abd-alraḳîb the 24th of Shawwâl, A.H. 1069 (A.D. 1659, July 15).

No. 328, ff. 378–432, 2 coll., each ll. 18; clear Nasta'lîḳ; size, 10¼ in. by 5½ in.

Poets who died between A.H. 500 and 600.

Rubâ'iyyât-i-'Umar Khayyâm (رباعیّات عمر خیّام).

The quatrains of the famous astronomer, mathematician, and freethinker, Maulânâ Abû-alfatḥ 'Umar bin Ibrâhîm al-Khayyâm (or al-Khayyâmî), whose death is generally fixed in A.H. 517 (A.D. 1123), see the fullest account of his life and the tendencies of his poetry in Whinfield's Introduction to his edition of 'The Quatrains of Omar Khayyam,' and C. J. Pickering, 'Umar of Nishapur,' in the National Review, 1890, December; comp. also Meinsma, Omar Chajjam van Nishapoer etc. in De Gids, 1891, iii. pp. 504–535. Other copies are found in the Bodleian Library (Bodleian Cat., Nos. 524 and 525), the British Museum (Rieu ii. p. 546), in Gotha (W. Pertsch, p. 25), Berlin (W. Pertsch, Berlin Cat., p. 86), Vienna (G. Flügel i. p. 496), Calcutta, (Asiatic Society, No. 1548), Paris (two MSS.), and Cambridge; see also A. Sprenger, Catal., p. 464; Garcin de Tassy in Journal Asiatique, 5e série, vol. ix. p. 548, etc. Eastern editions: Calcutta, A.H. 1252 (A.D. 1836); Ṭahrân, A.H. 1278 (A.D. 1861, 1862), and Lucknow, 1878 and 1883; also a fragmentary edition (containing sixty-two rubâ'is) by H. Blochmann. European editions by J. B. Nicolas (a reprint of the Ṭahrân text with French translation), Paris, 1867; by E. H. Whinfield (with English metrical translation), London, 1883; and by the Oriental Faculty of the University of St. Petersburg, 1888 (lithographed after a copy made A. H. 1285 by Mîr Ḥusain in Tabriz). English translations (without the text) by E. Fitzgerald, London, 1859, 1868, 1872, 1879, and 1890; E. H. Whinfield, London, 1882; J. Leslie Garner, Milwaukee, 1888; McCarthy (selections in prose), London, 1889; also some selections in verse in the appendix to the 'Dialogue of the Gulshan-i-Raz,' London, 1887. German translations in verse by A. F. Schack, Stuttgart, 1878, and by Bodenstedt, Breslau, 1881.

The present copy begins with a short biographical notice of the poet: رباعیّات افصح المتقدّمین ملك الحکما مولانا عمر خیّام رحمة الله علیه در تأریخ قدما مسطور و مذکور است که وفات الخ.

Beginning of the first rubâ'î (the same as the initial poem in Bodl. 367):

ای سوختهٔ سوختهٔ سوختنی
وی آتش دوزخ زتو افروختنی

(=No. 488 in Whinfield's edition).

The third rubâ'î is identical with the initial one in Rieu's first copy:

آمد سحری ندا زمیخانهٔ ما الخ

(=No. 1 in Whinfield).

This modern copy, dated 1811, contains 512 rubâ'is in alphabetical order, except the first.

Bibliotheca Leydeniana.

No. 2420, ff. 212–264, 5 rubâ'is in a page; distinct Nasta'lîḳ; size, 9¼ in. by 6 in.

907

Another copy of the same.

The same short biographical notice as in the preceding copy; beginning of the rubâ'is on fol. 159ᵃ, also the same. No date. This copy contains 362 rubâ'is in alphabetical order, except the first.

Bibliotheca Leydeniana.

No. 2486, ff. 158–194, 5 rubâ'is in a page; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 8¼ in. by 5 in.

Diwân-i-Mas'ûd-i-Sa'd-i-Salmân (دیوان مسعود سعد سلمان).

A slightly defective copy of the lyrical poems of Sa'd-aldaulah Mas'ûd bin Sa'd bin Salmân, who was born in Hamadân, according to 'Aufî and the Haft Iḳlîm (No. 1032, col. 454 in this Cat.), where a bait of his in corroboration of this statement is quoted. Rieu, on the other hand (ii. p. 548), cites two other baits to show that his native place was Ghazna. He died probably A. H. 525 (A. D. 1131), according to others A. H. 515 (A. D. 1121). Besides his Persian diwân he wrote two others, an Arabic and a Hindûstânî one, compare Bodleian Cat., No. 526; Butkhâna, No. 4 (ib., col. 197), and Daḳâ'iḳ-alash'âr (ib., col. 822); A. Sprenger, Catal., p. 485, and Journal of the Asiat. Soc. of Bengal, vol. xxii, p. 442 sq.; see also Journal Asiatique, 5ᵉ série, vol. ii (1853), p. 356 sq., and J. Aumer, p. 8.

Contents:

Ḳaṣîdas, ḳiṭ'as, and ghazals, all mixed together, defective in the beginning.

The first bait, on fol. 1ᵃ, runs thus:

در کان زشرم چشمهٔ یاقوت سرخ شد
وین خرده ایست نیکو خاطر بدین گمار

Rubâ'is, on fol. 245ᵃ, beginning:

چون مار فلك بست بافسون مارا
وز خانهٔ خود کشید بیرون مارا

That this is really Mas'ûd's diwân and not Khâḳânî's, as is wrongly stated on the fly-leaf, is proved by the frequent occurrence of the takhalluṣ, for instance, on fol. 9ᵇ, l. 6; fol. 76ᵇ, l. 11; fol. 117ᵇ, l. 8; fol. 195ᵇ, l. 1, etc. Some pages are a little injured. No date.

No. 1424, ff. 282, 2 coll., each ll. 17; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 11¼ in. by 6¼ in.

Diwân-i-Azraḳî (دیوان ازرقی).

Lyrical poems by Abû-almaḥâsin Abûbakr Zain-aldîn Azraḳî, the panegyrist of the Saljûḳ prince Ṭughânshâh I, see Haft Iḳlîm, No. 625 (col. 423 in this Cat.); Khazâna-i-'âmirah, No. 2 (Bodleian Cat., col. 256); Âtashkada, No. 286 (ib., col. 272), where he is called a pupil of 'Abdallâh Anṣârî; Khulâṣat-alafkâr, No. 9 (ib., col. 303); and Makhzan-algharâ'ib, No. 23 (ib., col. 317). He died A. H. 527 (A. D. 1132, 1133). Other copies are described in A. Sprenger, Catal., p. 366, and W. Pertsch, Berlin Cat., p. 742. The earliest poetical version of the سندباد نامه in Persian is ascribed to Azraḳî, comp. Rieu ii. p. 749ᵃ, and W. Pertsch, loc. cit.

The present copy of Azraḳî's diwân contains:

Ḳaṣîdas, on fol. 177ᵇ, beginning:

زنور قبّهٔ زرّین آینه تمثال
زمین تفته فرو پوشد آتشین سربال

Rubâ'is, on fol. 212ᵇ, margin, beginning:

ای رای تو با ضمیر گردون شده جفت
ظاهر بر تو هر چه فلك راست نهفت

No date.

No. 609, ff. 177ᵇ–214ᵇ, 2 centre-coll., each ll. 15, and a third on the margin, ll. 24–28; Nasta'lîḳ; illuminated frontispiece; the first two pages splendidly adorned; size, 9¼ in. by 5¼ in.

910

Diwân-i-Aḥmad Nâmaḳî (دیوان احمد نامقی).

The lyrical poems of the great Shaikh-alislâm Abû Naṣr Aḥmad bin Abû-alḥasan (or, according to others, Abû-alḥusain) Nâmaḳî Jâmî, usually called Aḥmad-i-Jâm, with the epithet of Zhandapîl (ژنده پیل), who was born in Nâmaḳ, a village near Jâm, A. H. 441 (A. D. 1049, 1050), and died A. H. 536 (A. D. 1141, 1142), see the Safînat-alauliyâ, No. 308, and the Haft Iḳlîm, No. 667; compare besides Rieu ii. p. 551; A. Sprenger, Catal., p. 323; Nafaḥât-aluns, pp. 405–417; Muntakhab-alash'âr, No. 16 (Bodleian Cat., col. 241); Âtashkada,

No. 155 (ib., col. 267); Khulâṣat-alafkâr, No. 3 (ib., col. 302), and Makhzan-algharâ'ib, No. 3 (ib., col. 317); the third poetical specimen, quoted in the last-named tadhkirah, is found in this copy on fol. 24b, last line.

Contents:

Ghazals and a few ḳaṣidas, arranged alphabetically, except the first, on fol. 1b, beginning:

ای جمالت تابشی در انس وجان انداخته
پرتو روی تو نوری در جهان انداخته

Two short mathnawîs (of forty-five and eighty-nine baits respectively), on fol. 99a, the first celebrating the Ḳalandar or wandering monk, and having as first word in each hemistich the word قلندر, begins thus:

قلندر پرتو نور الهیست ــ قلندر مطلع انوار شاهیست

the second, on fol. 101a, begins:

خداوندی که آن پیدا و پنهانست
جمالش بین که در هر ذرّه تابانست

The rubâ'îs, found in Rieu's and Sprenger's copies, are wanting here. No date. Ff. 54–63 are misplaced, their right order being: 54, 61, 62, 55–60, 63.

No. 329, ff. 104, 2 coll., each ll. 12; large Nasta'lîḳ; illuminated frontispiece; size, 11 in. by 6¼ in.

911

Dîwân-i-Adîb Ṣâbir (دیوان ادیب صابر).

Lyrical poems by Jalâl-aldîn (as he is called here instead of the usual Shihâb-aldîn) Aḥmad bin Isma'îl Adîb (or Sharaf-aladibbâ) Ṣâbir of Tirmidh, the panegyrist of Sulṭân Sanjar (A.H. 511–552 = A.D. 1117–1157), who was drowned in the Oxus by order of Atsiz the Khwârizmshâh (A.H. 521–551 = A.D. 1127–1156). The date of his death is, according to Taḳî Kâshî (A. Sprenger, Catal., p. 16, No. 11), A.H. 540 (A.D. 1145, 1146); other tadhkiras fix it in A.H. 544 or 546, see the Âtashkada, No. 728 (Bodleian Cat., col. 287); Butkhâna, No. 8 (ib., col. 197); Khulâṣat-alafkâr, No. 10 (ib., col. 303); and Makhzan-algharâ'ib, No. 1291 (ib., col. 344); the Haft Iḳlîm, No. 573, give A.H. 547 (A.D. 1152, 1153), compare Rieu ii. p. 552; A. Sprenger, Catal., pp. 313–315, and W. Pertsch, Berlin Cat., p. 709 and foot-note, in which, as the most probable date of the poet's death, A.H. 538 (A.D. 1143, 1144) is suggested according to Price, Chronological Retrospect, ii. p. 391.

This dîwân contains ḳaṣidas, ḳiṭ'as, and rubâ'îs, and begins on fol. 48b:

جود ازین برکشیده ایوانست
کی برء مشتری و کیوانست

It forms the third part of the old collection of six Persian dîwâns (see No. 903 above), and is dated end of Muḥarram, A.H. 714 (A.D. 1314, May 16), by 'Abd-almu'min al'alawî alkâshî.

No. 132, ff. 48–75, 6 coll., each ll. 40; striking old Naskhî; small illuminated frontispiece on fol. 48b, and a vignette on fol. 48a; funny miniature paintings throughout; size, 15¾ in. by 11 in.

Dîwân-i-Mu'izzî (دیوان معزّی).

The complete lyrical poems of Amîr Abû 'Abdallâh, or Abûbakr Mu'izzî, the panegyrist of Sulṭân Malikshâh and king of poets at Sanjar's court. His original name was Muḥammad bin 'Abd-almalik, and his father, 'Abd-almalik Burhânî, had been a court-poet of Alp Arslân Saljûḳî, Malikshah's father and predecessor (A.H. 455–465 = A.D. 1063–1072); three places compete for the honour of being his native town, viz. Nishâpûr (see Butkhâna, No. 9, in Bodleian Cat., col. 198; Khazâna-i-'âmirah, ib., col. 259; Makhzan-algharâ'ib, No. 2247, ib., col. 370; Khushgû's Safînah, Haft Iḳlîm, No. 747, and the short biographical notice prefixed to the following copy), Nasâ (in Daulatshâh and the tadhkirah described in W. Pertsch, Berlin Cat., p. 479, No. 132), and Samarḳand (in Taḳî Kâshî, see A. Sprenger, Catal., p. 16, No. 12, and Âtashkada, No. 744 in Bodleian Cat., col. 287). He was killed by a stray arrow from Sanjar's bow, A.H. 542 (A.D. 1147, 1148). Other copies of his dîwân are described in Rieu ii. p. 552b; A. Sprenger, Catal., pp. 501 and 502, and G. Flügel i. p. 497; comp. also the Khulâṣat-alafkâr, No. 240 (Bodleian Cat., col. 310), and the Daḳâ'iḳ-alash'âr (ib., col. 822).

This dîwân consists chiefly of ḳaṣidas, intermixed with some tarkîbbands, a few ḳiṭ'as, ghazals, and rubâ'îs.

Beginning:

زمشرق تا حد مغرب شناسد هر که دین دارد
که دین رونق بتایید امیر المؤمنین دارد

An additional series of rubâ'îs, on fol. 367a, beginning:

ای رایتو بر کشیده بر ایوان سر
گردونت نهاده بر خط پیمان سر

Dated the 1st of Dhû-alḥijjah, A.H. 1046 (A.D. 1637, April 26).

No. 360, ff. 379, 2 coll., each ll. 21; distinct Nasta'lîḳ; much worm-eaten and damaged in the first half, which contains many various readings and marginal glosses; illuminated frontispiece; size, 10¾ in. by 6 in.

A very old, but much shorter copy of the same.

This copy, which forms the first part of the six old Persian dîwâns (see Nos. 903 and 911 above), and is written A.H. 713 or 714 (A.D. 1313, 1314), contains only a select number of Mu'izzî's poems, chiefly ḳaṣidas, with a few ḳiṭ'as and rubâ'îs at the end. Beginning the same as in the preceding copy. A short biographical notice at the top of fol. 1b.

No. 132, ff. 1–18, 6 coll., each ll. 40; Naskhî; small illuminated frontispiece on fol. 1b, a vignette on fol. 1a; miniature paintings throughout; size, 15¾ in. by 11 in.

Sanâ'î (Nos. 914–928).

914

Seven mathnawîs by Sanâ'î.

This is the fullest collection, as yet met with, of the mystical and didactic mathnawîs of Ḥakîm Sanâ'î of Ghazna, with his full name, Abû-almajd Majdûd bin

Âdam Sanâ'î, who probably died A.H. 545 (A.D. 1150), the date given by Taḳî Kâshî and the Âtashkada (the latter stating, that Sanâ'î wrote an elegy on the death of Amir Mu'izzî, who died A.H. 542=A.D. 1147, 1148, comp. Bodleian Cat., col. 287, No. 744); how to reconcile this date with Muḥammad bin 'Alî al-Raffâ's and Jâmî's statement, that the poet died in A.H. 525 (A.D. 1131), is not clear, but as the second mathnawî of this collection was composed A.H. 528 (A.D. 1134), and as many good copies of the حديقه give A.H. 534 or 535 (A.D. 1139–1141) as the date of composition for that mathnawî, there seems to be very good evidence for the correctness of the view taken by the two above-mentioned tadhkiras. Another, still later date for the poet's death, is given by Daulatshâh and Ḥ. Khalfa in his chronological tables, viz. A.H. 576 (A.D. 1180, 1181); compare on these conflicting statements, and on the life and works of Sanâ'î in general, Bodleian Cat., Nos. 528–537; Rieu ii. p. 549 sq.; W. Pertsch, Berlin Cat., p. 747 sq.; Ouseley, Biogr. Notices, p. 184; Ḥ. Khalfa iii. p. 40; A. Sprenger, Catal., p. 557 sq.; G. Flügel i. p. 498; Cat. des MSS. et Xylographes, p. 326; J. Aumer, p. 9; Haft Iḳlim, No. 333, etc.

The seven mathnawîs contained in this collection are:

1. Ḥadîḳat-alḥaḳîḳah wa Sharî'at-alṭarîḳah (حديقة الحقيقه و شريعة الطريقة), usually called Ḥadîḳah, in ten bâbs (a detailed statement about the contents of which is given in the Bodleian Cat. and in W. Pertsch, loc. cit.). As date of composition appears generally A.H. 525 (A.D. 1131); other copies give A.H. 534 or 535, see above; another title of this mathnawî is Kitâb-alfakhrî, or alkitâb-alfakhrî, also Fakhrinâma, see W. Pertsch, loc. cit. Beginning of Bâb I, on fol. 1b:

ای درون پرور برون آرای
وی خرد بخش بخرد بخشای

Bâb II, on fol. 54b; III, on fol. 65a; IV and V, not marked; VI, on fol. 143b; VII, on fol. 168a; VIII, on fol. 189a; IX, not marked; X, on fol. 264b.

2. Ṭarîḳ-altaḥḳîḳ (طريق التحقيق), composed A.H. 528 (A.D. 1134), see No. 926 below. It begins on fol. 278b:

ابتدای سخن بنام خداست
آنکه بی مثل وشبه و بی همتاست

3. Another mathnawî, without title, which may be the Gharîbnâma (غريبنامه), mentioned on col. 498, l. 4 ab infra. It begins on fol. 302b:

اینچنین گفت راوئ همدان (همه دان=)
که بعهد قدیم در همدان

4. Sair-al'ubbâd ilâ alma'âd (سير العبّاد الى المعاد), also styled كنوز الرموز, see No. 927 below (both titles therefore designating one mathnawî only, see A. Sprenger, Catal., p. 558). It begins, on fol. 326b:

مرحبا ای برید سلطان وش
تخفت از آب و تاجت از آتش

Portions of this mathnawî are also found in Elliott 108 of the Bodleian Library (Bodleian Cat., No. 537, fol. 282b sq.).

5. Kârnâma (كارنامه), here without a title, but identified by comparison with Nos. 916 and 927 below. It begins, on fol. 347b:

وبحك ای نقشبند بر خامه ـ قاصد رایگان بی نامه

6. 'Ishḳnâma (عشقنامه), beginning, on fol. 360b:

عشق مرغ نشیمن قدم است
قُوت او گه وجود و گه عدم است

7. 'Aḳlnâma (عقلنامه), here without a title, but identified by comparison with No. 915 below. According to No. 927 below it has the additional title of سنائی آباد. It begins, on fol. 377b:

ابتدا میکنم بنام خدا
آنکه هست از صفات نقص جدا

No date. The first nine leaves supplied later.

No. 3346, olim 13. J. 24, ff. 392, 2 coll., each ll. 19; small Nasta'lîḳ; illuminated frontispiece at the beginning of each of the last six mathnawîs; size, 6¾ in. by 3¼ in.

Another defective copy of three mathnawîs by Sanâ'î. Contents:

1. Ḥadîḳah, with the preface of the poet himself. Beginning of this preface (in which the poet's name appears on fol. 2b, ll. 17 and 18: روزی من که مجدود سپاس وستایش مبدعی است که آدم سنائی ام), on fol. 1b: بسخن پاك كلمهٔ كن سخندان و سخنگوی را ابداع كرد الخ. It is styled in the colophon خطبهٔ حديقهٔ حكيم سنائی.

Beginning of Book I of the mathnawî itself, on fol. 11b: ای درون پرور الخ; Book II, on fol. 67b; III, on fol. 122b; IV, on fol. 132a; V, on fol. 136b (between ff. 141b and 142a one single bait is missing, indicated by the catchword: خويشتن بين الخ, corresponding to No. 2481 (918 in this Cat.), fol. 146b, l. 7); VI, on ff. 147–151 and 296–311b (the leaves are misplaced and there is a considerable lacuna between ff. 151 and 296, corresponding to No. 2481, fol. 177a, l. 6–fol. 188b, l. 1); VII, on ff. 311b–315 and 152–155b (likewise incomplete, the lacuna between ff. 315 and 152 comprising fol. 214a, l. 11–fol. 215b, l. 2 in No. 2481); VIII, on fol. 155b; IX, on fol. 159b; X, on fol. 187a. On fol. 294a there is added (by another hand in Shikasta) the famous fatwâ of the Khalîf's court at Baghdâd, vindicating Sanâ'î's orthodoxy (see Bodleian Cat., No. 528, col. 464), and beginning: الحمد لله ربّ العالمين و الصلوة على خير خلقه محمّد و آله اجمعين در بعضی آثار است كه دو چيز در عمر الخ. Marginal glosses on the first seventy-seven leaves; on fol. 1a the author's name is misspelt as ثنائی.

2. 'Ishḳnâma, beginning, on fol. 332b: عشق مرغ الخ.

3. 'Aḳlnâma, beginning, on fol. 348b: ابتدا میکنم الخ.

This part was transcribed at the end of Muḥarram, A.H. 1061 (A.D. 1651, Jan. 23); in the colophon of the preface of the Ḥadîḳah appears as date the 2nd of Muḥarram, A.H. 1054 (which seems, however, a mere alteration of the original 1061). Ff. 316–331 do not belong to any of these three mathnawis of Sanâ'î, but contain a portion of the Bâgh-i-Iram (باغ ارم), also called Bahrâm and Bihrûz (بهرام و بهروز), by Maulânâ Kamâl-aldîn Bannâ'î, with the takhalluṣ Ḥâlî, who died A.H. 918 (A.D. 1512, 1513), see Bodleian Cat., No. 987; A. Sprenger, Catal., p. 372; Rieu i. p. 351b.

No. 1991, ff. 362, 2 coll., each ll. 19; Nasta'lîḳ; small illuminated frontispieces on fol. 1b and 11b; size, 9½ in. by 4½ in.

916

A very defective copy of three mathnawis by Sanâ'î.

This very old copy of portions of three of Sanâ'î's mathnawis is unfortunately not only greatly injured, but also in hopeless confusion as to the proper order of leaves, most of the catchwords being missing.

Contents:

1. Ḥadîḳah, beginning, on fol. 77b, with a fihrist of the ten bâbs (فهرست الابواب, comp. W. Pertsch, Berlin Cat., p. 748, where it is given in full), thus:

باب اوّل ثنا و تحمیدست

محض تنزیه و صرف توحیدست

This fihrist consists of ten baits and is immediately followed by the usual initial bait of Book I of the poem: ای درون پرور الخ. This mathnawî breaks off on fol. 93b, but a number of leaves in the other portions of the MS. seem also to belong to it.

2. Sair-al'ubbâd ilâ-alma'âd or Kunûz-alrumûz, on ff. 108a–116a, the only complete one, as it seems, of the three poems contained in this copy. Beginning: مرحبا ای برید الخ.

3. Kârnâma, beginning, on fol. 116b: ای وبحك نقشبند الخ. The conclusion of this mathnawî is found on fol. 76a (تمام شد کارنامه الخ), but whether it is complete, and how many of the other leaves really belong to it, is absolutely impossible to say. Copied in the month Jumâdâ II, A.H. 637 (A.D. 1240, Jan.), by Faḍl-allâh bin Muḥammad bin 'Umar bin 'Uthmân alṣûfî.

No. 1444, ff. 33–76b, 77b–93b, and 108a–137b, 4 coll., each ll. 25; good old Naskhî; size, 9½ in. by 6 in.

A defective copy of two mathnawis by Sanâ'î.

Contents:

1. Sair-al'ubbâd ilâ-alma'âd (here styled رسالهٔ سیر العبّاد), beginning, on fol. 2b: مرحبا ای برید الخ.

2. Ḥadîḳah, incomplete and much curtailed; Book I, on fol. 30a, beginning: ای درون پرور الخ; Book II, on fol. 93b; III, on fol. 107a, last line (the chapter not being numbered); IV, on fol. 157b; V, on fol. 166b; VI, on fol. 198b. The sixth bâb agrees with No. 2481 (918 in this Cat.) as far as fol. 202b, l. 6 (=fol. 175a, last line but two in that copy); but from thence there is no further agreement. Bâb VII, on fol. 241a, is entirely different from the corresponding 7th in No. 2481; after fol. 249 a very large lacuna; fol. 250a opens in Bâb X with the bait:

با دو عاقل هوا نیامیزد ــ یك هوا از دو عقل بگریزد

but the exact words are not found in No. 2481; the agreement begins again on fol. 255b, first line (= fol. 383a, first line, in No. 2481). The usual date of A.H. 525 appears here in the last bait:

پانصد و بیست و چار رفته زعام

پانصد و بیست و پنج گشت تمام

Copied by Ḳiwâm bin Muḥammad of Shîrâz; no date appears. On fol. 1a appears the same wrong spelling of Sanâ'î's name (ثنائی) as in No. 915 above.

No. 825, ff. 262, 2 coll., each ll. 14; Nasta'lîḳ; two luxuriously illuminated title-pages on ff. 1b and 2a; illuminated frontispieces on ff. 2b and 30a; ff. 2b, 3a, 29b, and 30a splendidly adorned; size, 8 in. by 5 in.

918

Ḥadîḳah (حدیقه).

Another excellent and complete copy of Sanâ'î's Ḥadîḳah, written at Iṣfahân, A.H. 1027 (A.D. 1618). Beginning as usual.

Bâb I, on fol. 1b; II, on fol. 73b; III, on fol. 139b; IV, on fol. 152a; V, on fol. 158a; VI, on fol. 171a; VII, on fol. 208b; VIII, on fol. 220a; IX, on fol. 225b; X, on fol. 260b.

Occasionally short glosses on the margin.

No. 2481, ff. 395, 2 coll., each ll. 15; Nasta'lîḳ; the last four pages written by another hand; size, 9½ in. by 5½ in.

919

Another complete copy of the Ḥadîḳah.

This copy was finished the 26th of Shawwâl, A.H. 1077 (not ١٠٨٨, as is written at the end, since the transcriber distinctly says in words: سنهٔ سبع و سبعین و الف)=A.D. 1667, April 21. Beginning as usual.

Bâb I, on fol. 1b; II, on fol. 56a; III, on fol. 100a; IV, on fol. 120a; V, on fol. 145b; VI, on fol. 154b; VII, on fol. 166a; VIII, on fol. 183b (here called by mistake باب سادس instead of باب ثامن); IX, on fol. 190b; X, on fol. 203a. Date of composition, A.H. 525.

Damaged by worms in many pages. College of Fort William, 1825.

No. 2235, ff. 270, 2 coll., each ll. 19; Nasta'lîḳ, by two different hands, the first on ff. 1–152, the second on ff. 153–270; illuminated frontispiece; size, 12½ in. by 7 in.

920

The same.

No date. Beginning as usual.

Bâb I, on fol. 1b; II, on fol. 62a; III, on fol. 73a; IV, on fol. 128b; V, on fol. 138b; VI, on fol. 167b; VII, on fol. 196a; VIII, on fol. 223b; IX, not marked; X, on fol. 301b (this last bâb is extremely short in this copy).

No. 1224, ff. 315, 2 coll., each ll. 17; Nasta'lîḳ; illuminated frontispiece; size, 7½ in. by 4½ in.

A defective copy of the same.

This copy is defective both at the beginning and end, and is besides in quite a hopeless state of confusion as to the proper order of the leaves. They are misplaced or misbound, and as most of the catchwords are missing, it is not possible to set them right. The copy begins in the middle of a prose preface, which winds up with a fihrist of the ten bâbs, and appears to be that of Muḥammad bin 'Alî al-Raffâ (alias Muḥammad bin 'Alî Raḳḳâm, see Rieu ii. p. 550[b]), on fol. 1[a]. On fol. 3[a] begins Sanâ'î's own preface: سپاس و ستایش الخ, but in an abridged form. The mathnawî itself begins on fol. 6[b]; on fol. 37[b] appears the beginning of Bâb VIII, on fol. 50[a] that of Bâb IX, on fol. 86[b] that of Bâb X, on fol. 193[a] that of Bâb V, on fol. 246[b] that of Bâb VI, on fol. 250[a] that of Bâb VII, and on fol. 270[b] that of Bâb II. No other headings are to be found. Slight injuries here and there.

No. 3418, olim 13. J. 22, ff. 300, 2 coll., each ll. 17; Nasta'lîḳ; small illuminated frontispiece on fol. 6[b]; size, 6¾ in. by 4¼ in.

Another defective copy of the same.

This copy is in the same hopeless confusion as the preceding one, is defective at the end, and injured in many places. On fol. 11[a] margin begins Bâb IX, on fol. 24[a] Bâb X, on fol. 51[b] Bâb II, on fol. 58[a] margin Bâb III, and on fol. 86[b] margin Bâb VIII; all the other headings are missing.

No. 3342, olim 13. J. 23, ff. 136, 2 coll., each ll. 15, and a third on the margin, ll. 28; small Nasta'lîḳ; size, 7¼ in. by 3¾ in.

Sharḥ-i-Ḥadîḳah (شرح حدیقه).

The revised and collated edition of Sanâ'î's Ḥadîḳah with a commentary and marginal glosses by 'Abd-allaṭîf bin 'Abdallâh al-'Abbâsî, who is best known by his revised and annotated edition of Jalâl-aldin Rûmî's mathnawî (see Nos. 1088–1090 in this Cat.), his commentaries on the same poem, entitled لطائف المعنوی and مرآة المثنوی (see Nos. 1101 and 1102 in this Cat.), and a special glossary (see Nos. 1091–1097 in this Cat.); he died A. H. 1048 or 1049 (A. D. 1638, 1639) in Shâhjahân's reign. The present copy, which is the author's autograph (comp. fol. 1[a]: حرّره و سوّده عبد اللطیف بن عبد الله الخ), was finished by him the 20th of Jumâdâ-alawwal, A. H. 1044 (A. D. 1634, Nov. 11), and represents an abridgement from a larger commentary of his, the لطائف الحدائق, from which also the glosses are taken (marked by لط). According to the dibâ'a he began the larger work A. H. 1040 and completed it A. H. 1042 (A. D. 1630–1633), supported by his friend Mîr 'Imâd-aldîn Maḥmûd al-Ḥamadânî, with the takhallus Ilâhî, the author of the well-known tadhkirah of Persian poets, the خزینهٔ گنج (see A. Sprenger, Catal., p. 66 sq.). Sprenger's remarks in the note on p. 558 of his Catal., that 'Abd-allaṭîf borrowed the copy, described there, in A. H. 1035=A. D. 1625, 1626, transcribed, collated, and annotated it, can only refer therefore to the very beginning of the author's critical labours on Sanâ'î's text, from which afterwards the two exegetical works in question sprung.

Contents:

Sanâ'î's preface, on fol. 1[b], beginning: سپاس و ستایش الخ, introduced by a few lines from 'Abd-allaṭîf's pen, on fol. 1[a]: این دیباچه است که صاحب طبع سلیم الخ.

Editor's preface, styled دیباچهٔ مختصر بر شرح ابیات (the meaning of which is explained on fol. 11[a]: دیباچهٔ مختصر که از جملهٔ چهار چمن شرح لطائف الحدائق بر چمن نخستین شرح ابیات تحریر یافته), on fol. 11[b], beginning: بر ناقدان بصیر و صیرفیان خبیر رستهٔ بازار ملك صورت و معنی مخفی و مستور نماند که الخ.

Short account of Ilâhî's share in this work and two ta'rikhs on the date of its completion by the same Ilâhî, on fol. 13[b], beginning: چون پاکیزه میوهٔ باغ اصطفا و کرامی گوهرکان اجتبا سامی نتیجهٔ دودمان الخ.

Beginning of Bâb I of the Ḥadîḳah, on fol. 17[b]: ای درون الخ, again introduced by a few lines from the editor's pen, on fol. 17[a], in which he enumerates his authorities, viz. the Ḳâmûs, the Ṣurâḥ, and other famous Arabic and Persian dictionaries, grammars, etc. (لغات عربی و فرهنگهای معتمد فارسی و قواعد نحوی و قوانین صرفی). The first words of the commentary itself run thus: قول امام جعفرست رضی الله عنه هذه قبّة النّاس و لله قبب کثیرة یعنی این قبّه که کنایه از آسمانست الخ.

Bâb II, on fol. 112[b]; III, on fol. 213[a]; IV, on fol. 234[b]; V, on fol. 241[a]; VI, on fol. 256[a]; VII, on fol. 298[a]; VIII, on fol. 310[a]; IX, on fol. 316[a]; X, on fol. 348[a]. The date of composition is given here as A. H. 535:

پانصد وسی وچار رفته زعام
پانصد وسی وپنج گشت تمام

but the margin gives the various readings بیست و چار and بیست و پنج.

The fatwâ, on fol. 472[b], beginning as usual, introduced by the editor in this manner (comp. Bodleian Cat., No. 528): این فصلی است که بر سلطان اعظم مالك البرّ و البحر ابو الحارث بهرامشاه بن مسعود بن ابراهیم انار الله برهانه نوشته است الخ.

No. 344, ff. 474, ll. 19; clear and distinct Nasta'lîḳ; illuminated frontispieces on ff. 1[b], 11[b], and 17[b]; size, 10¾ in. by 6 in.

924

Another copy of the same.

The prefaces, both of the poet and his editor, the account of Ilâhî's share, the short introductions, and the fatwâ are wanting in this copy, which begins at once with the initial bait of Bâb I of the Ḥadîḳah; beginning of the commentary as in the preceding copy. It is rich in original glosses and notes, which make this copy especially valuable. The first gloss is: درون سالکان بنور عرفان و برون بنور شریعت.

Bâb II, on fol. 60b; III, on fol. 126a; IV, on fol. 140a; V, on fol. 143b; VI, on fol. 153a; VII, on fol. 177b; VIII, on fol. 185a; IX, on fol. 188b; X, on fol. 207a. The date of composition is again A. H. 535, but (as a various reading) there is written بیست above the word سی. On fol. 1a the poet is again called by mistake ثنائی.

This copy was made in Muḥammadshâh's reign, at the request of Mîr Mu'min Ghulâm-i-Ḥasan wa Ḥusain (میر مؤمن غلام حسن و حسین), by Shaikh Jamâl Muḥammad Ḳuraishî alhâshimî. The year is omitted, only the 22nd of Rabî'-alawwal is given as date.

No. 898, ff. 276, ll. 19 (the verses in 4 coll.); Nasta'lîḳ; size, 10¼ in. by 6 in.

Intikhâb-i-Ḥadîḳa-i-Ḥakim Sanâ'î (انتخاب حدیقهٔ حکیم سنائی).

Extracts from Sanâ'î's Ḥadîḳah, made by Farîd-aldîn 'Aṭṭâr (who died A. H. 627=A. D. 1230), and arranged under certain headings, as: فی نعت الرسول, on fol. 174a; فی التوحید, on fol. 174b; فی المعرفة, ib.; فی التجلّی, on fol. 175b; فی الاستناد, on fol. 176a; فی الوحدة, on fol. 176b; فی القدرة و الحکمة, on fol. 178a; فی العنایة, on fol. 179a; فی الهدایة, on fol. 179b; فی الرزق, on fol. 180a; فی العلم و الجهل, on fol. 180b; فی الجسم و الروح, on fol. 184a; فی نفس الامارة, ib.; فی نفس المطمئنّة, on fol. 184b; فی القلب, on fol. 185b; فی الایمان, on fol. 186a; فی العشق, on fol. 187b; فی الشوق, on fol. 189a; فی علامات الطریق, on fol. 190a; فی المجاهدة, on fol. 190b; فی الریاضة, on fol. 191a, etc. etc. Other copies of the same extracts in Bodleian Cat., No. 536; A. Sprenger, Catal., p. 353; G. Flügel i. p. 501; W. Pertsch, Berlin Cat., p. 750; and Cat. des MSS. et Xylographes, p. 328.

No date. Beginning: حمد و شکر خدا علی الاطلاق ذات حق را سزد باستحقاق الخ.

No. 2832, ff. 173–203; written in diagonal lines, Nasta'lîḳ; size, 7 in. by 4¼ in.

926

Ṭarîḳ-altaḥḳîḳ (طریق التحقیق).

Another complete copy of Sanâ'î's mathnawî Ṭarîḳ-altaḥḳîḳ, beginning as in No. 3346 (914 above), fol. 278b. On the last page appears the date of composition, A. H. 528:

پانصد و بیست و هشت زآخر سال
بود کین نظم نغز یافت کمال

Dated the 15th of Jumâdâ-althânî, A. H. 1061 (A. D. 1651, June 5).

No. 1430, ff. 153b–188b, 2 coll., each ll. 12–13; large Nasta'lîḳ; size, 10¼ in. by 5¼ in.

927

Ash'âr-i-Sanâ'î (اشعار سنائی).

A large collection of Sanâ'î's poetical works, but arranged in a somewhat confusing manner.

Contents:

A prose preface (دیباچه), which is apparently that of Muḥammad bin 'Alî al-Raffâ (or bin 'Alî Raḳḳâm, see above in No. 921), as the beginning is the usual one of that preface, viz.: الحمد لله الخبیر بخفیّات الضمائر العلیم بحقیّات السرائر المنزّه عن الامثال (Rieu بخبیّات) و النظائر المتعالی عن العشیره و العشائر الخ; but at the end of this preface, on fol. 7a, the following statement appears, that this collection of Sanâ'î's poetical works is entitled: کتاب الحدائق فی الحقائق, and consists of ten ḳisms, viz.:

قسم اوّل در نامها و جوابها که وی نوشته است.
قسم دویم در توحید ربّ العالمین جلّ جلاله.
قسم سیوم در نعت پیغمبر محمّد مصطفا صلوات الله و سلامه.
قسم چهارم اندر موعظه وزهد و حکمت.
قسم پنجم در مدحیّات و مراثی.
قسم ششم در غزلیّات.
قسم هفتم فی المقطّعات و المراثی و الهزلیّات.
قسم هشتم در رباعیّات.
قسم نهم در مراتب حال انسانی که آنرا کنوز الرموز خوانند و سیر العبّاد الی المعاد نیز خوانند.
قسم دهم در کارنامه که ببلخ نوشته بود و سنائی آباد فی الزهد و الموعظة و السلوک و العشق.

In the collection itself these separate ḳisms are not forthcoming, except the first, ninth, and tenth. The first (in prose) begins, on fol. 7b, l. 1: بیش از آنکه لطف دیمومیّت و حکمت ربوبیّت الخ.

Then follows a large series of ḳaṣîdas, ḳiṭ'as, ghazals, and rubâ'îs, mixed together without any order, on fol. 23b, beginning:

قد شهد الله جلّ ذکراه — بأنّه لا اله الّا هو

At the end of this series is written: (sic!) تمّت الکتاب الحدائق فی الحقائق الخ; and it is dated the 17th of Ṣafar, A. H. 1000 and (the second number is missing). On fol. 244a there is found a ḳaṣîdah in honour of Shaikh Abû-almafâkhir Muḥammad bin Manṣûr; on fol. 245a a new series of ḳaṣîdas begins, the first bait of which runs thus: ای نهاده پای همّت بر سراوج سما الخ, followed by ḳiṭ'as, on fol. 283b, and a string of ghazals in alphabetical order, except the first six, on fol. 295a. Beginning of the first alphabetical ghazal, on fol. 296a:

ای همه خوشی در آغوش شما
قبلهٔ جانها بُناگوش شما

The ninth ḳism begins on fol. 365a and contains, quite in agreement with the above index, the mystical mathnawí كنوز الرموز, otherwise styled سير العبّاد الى المعاد (see No. 914 above).

The tenth ḳism begins on fol. 380a and contains the second mathnawí mentioned in the index, the كارنامه (see Nos. 914 and 916 above), the heading of which runs here thus: آغاز كارنامهٔ كه خواجه سنائی از بلخ بفرنين (بغزنين read) فرستاد بجماعت دوستان و باران مذكور الخ.

At the end of the copy, on ff. 393b–411, a third mathnawí is found, viz. the عقلنامه (see Nos. 914 and 915 above), introduced by a short preface in prose, beginning: الحمد لله حمدًا بكافی نعمه الخ; this mathnawí is, according to the index and the colophon on fol. 411a, also styled سنائی آباد.

No. 2722, ff. 411, 2 coll., each ll. 15–24; written by different hands in various forms of Nasta'líḳ; some of the last pages injured; size, 9¼ in. by 6–6½ in.

Díwán-i-Sanâ'í (ديوان سنائی).

A small collection of the lyrical poems of Sanâ'í (for copies of the complete díwán see Bodleian Cat., No. 537, and Rieu ii. p. 551a), containing chiefly ḳaṣídas, interspersed with a few ghazals and ḳiṭ'as. Beginning:

ای در دل مشتاقات از عشق تو بوستانها
از حجّت بیچونی از صنع تو برهانها

Ff. 9–13 are misplaced; the right order is 9, 12, 10, 11, 13; there seems besides to be a lacuna after fol. 23b. No date.

No. 609, ff. 1–48a, 2 coll., each ll. 15, and a third on the margin, ll. 28; Nasta'líḳ; illuminated frontispiece: the first two pages splendidly adorned; a drawing on fol. 1a and a picture on fol. 48a; size, 9¼ in. by 5¼ in.

929

Two mathnawís by Mu'ayyid alnasafí.

Two old mystical mathnawís in the very form and style of the minor didactic poems of Sanâ'í, by a poet called Mu'ayyid alnasafí (who is no doubt identical with Mu'ayyid-aldín Samarḳandí, see Haft Iḳlím, No. 1428, col. 486 in this Cat., and W. Pertsch, Berlin Cat., p. 659, No. 305), apparently a contemporary or disciple of the author of the Ḥadíḳah, whom he closely imitated.

1. نسيم الصبا الى الصبا, on ff. 24b–32b, beginning:

ای مصابیح آسمان هدی — وی مفاتیح جنّة المأوی

2. پهلوان نامه, on ff. 94a–107b, beginning:

مرحبا ای رفیق همدم من
بشنو این سرگذشت پر غم من

The title of this second mathnawí appears at the bottom of fol. 32b, and again at the end of the poem, on fol. 107b, l. 13; the name of the poet, on fol. 32b, l. 4, and in the title itself. The Pahlawánnáma is divided into fourteen short maḳálas, dealing with various ethical and mystical topics, and a khátimah.

Copied in Jumádá I, A.H. 637 (A.D. 1239, Dec.), by the same scribe who wrote No. 916 above, Faḍl-alláh bin Muḥammad bin 'Umar bin 'Uthmán alṣúfí.

No. 1444, ff. 24–32 and 94–107, 4 coll., each ll. 25; good old Naskhí; many pages greatly injured; size, 9¼ in. by 6 in.

Díwán-i-Ḥaḍrat Ghauth-althaḳalain (ديوان حضرت غوث الثقلين).

Lyrical poems of the great founder of the Ḳádirí order, Sháh Muḥyí-aldín Sayyid 'Abd-alḳádir aljílí, with the honorary epithet of Ghauth-althaḳalain or Ghauth ala'ẓam, who was born in Ramaḍán, A.H. 470 or 471 (A.D. 1078 or 1079), and died in Rabí' II, A.H. 561 (A.D. 1166, Febr.), see Safínat-alauliyá, No. 36. They are in alphabetical order and begin:

گر بیائی بسر تربت ویرانهٔ ما
بینی از خون جگر آب زده خانهٔ ما

Copied from a MS. of Nawwáb Bihrúzkhán. No date. Presented by Sir Barry Close, 14th May, 1813.

No. 1430, ff. 1–35, 2 coll., each ll. 12; Nasta'líḳ; collated; size, 9¼ in. by 5¼ in.

931

Díwán-i-Ḥasan Ghaznawí (ديوان حسن غزنوی).

The lyrical poems of the great panegyrist of Bahrámsháh of Ghazna (who reigned A.H. 512–547 = A.D. 1118–1152), Sayyid Ashraf-aldín Ḥasan bin Náṣir 'alawí (so his name is given in 'Aufí and Taḳí Káshí, see A. Sprenger, Catal., p. 5, No. 72, and p. 16, No. 18, comp. also Rieu iii. p. 999b; in the preface of this copy, on fol. 2a, l. 4, he is called Abú al'alí Ḥasan bin Muḥammad alḥusainí; in the Haft Iḳlím, No. 335, col. 401 in this Cat., and the Khuláṣat-alafkár, Bodleian Cat., col. 305, No. 76, Sharaf-aldín Ḥasan bin Náṣir 'alawí). He died in Juwain, A.H. 565 (A.D. 1169, 1170), see A. Sprenger, Catal., p. 16; Butkhána, in Bodleian Cat., col. 198, No. 13; and Átashkada, ib., col. 270, No. 231; comp. also No. 933 below.

A prose preface, beginning, on fol. 1b: الحمد لله ربّ العالمين و الصلوة على رسوله محمّد وآله الطاهرين و سلّم تسليمًا كثيرًا كثيرًا واجبست بر ارباب عقل و فطنت الخ.

Tarjí's, tarkíbbands, ḳaṣídas, ghazals, and ḳiṭ'as, all mixed together without any order, on fol. 4a, beginning:

يا رب این مائیم و این صدر رفیع مصطفاست
يا رب این مائیم و این فرق عزیز مجتباست

It agrees with the first quotation in the Makhzan-alghará'ib, No. 562 (Elliott Coll. 395, fol. 92b), see Bodleian Cat., col. 327.

Rubâ'is, on fol. 163b, beginning:

مقصود زآفرینش ما جانست
وین گوهر پاك را حقیقت کانست

This copy, although not dated, has been put before the following two as being comparatively the fullest.

No. 236, ff. 187, 2 coll., each ll. 14; clear and distinct Nasta'lîḳ; illuminated frontispiece; size, 9¼ in. by 5½ in.

932

Another copy of the same diwân.

No prose preface. The copy contains, like the preceding one, tarji's, tarkibbands, ḳaṣîdas, ghazals, and ḳiṭ'as without any order, and a series of rubâ'is at the end, on ff. 274b–294. Beginning the same as in the preceding copy.

Dated the 24th of Shawwâl, A.H. 1069 (A.D. 1659, July 15), by 'Abd-alraḳîb.

No. 328, ff. 150–294, 2 coll., each ll. 18; clear Nasta'lîḳ; size, 10½ in. by 5½ in.

933

The same.

This copy of Ḥasan Ghaznawî's diwân begins with a prose preface, which is entirely different from that in No. 931. It begins, on fol. 245b: اوصاف بزرگواری و فضیلت سخنگذاری او اظهر من الشمس است الخ.

On fol. 248a margin, the date of Ḥasan's death is correctly fixed in A.H. 565. Beginning of the diwân itself, on fol. 249b, the same as in the preceding copies.

No date.

No. 609, ff. 245b–304, 2 coll., each ll. 13–15, and a third on the margin, ll. 24–28; Nasta'lîḳ; two illuminated frontispieces on ff. 243a and 249b; the first two pages both of preface and diwân splendidly adorned; size, 9¼ in. by 5½ in.

934

Diwân-i-Ẓahîr-aldîn Shufurwah (دیوان ظهیر الدین شفروه).

According to the short prose preface, on fol. 1b: امام عالم بارع افضل اکمل ظهیر الدین شفروه اصفهانی روّح الله روحه مردی بی نظیر و حکیم بوده است و مستجمع جمیع علوم و واعظ نیز در عهد سلطان ارسلان بوده ومدح او وپسرش طغرل گفته الخ, this copy contains the extremely rare diwân—not met with in any other collection—of Ẓahîr-aldîn 'Abdallâh Shufurwah of Iṣfahân, who was a cousin of the better-known Sharaf-aldîn Muḥammad Faḍl-allâh or 'Abd-almu'min Shufurwah (see Haft Iḳlîm, Nos. 867 and 868, col. 441 in this Cat.; Âtashkada, Nos. 391 and 406, Bodleian Cat., cols. 276 and 277; and A. Sprenger, Catal., p. 17, No. 35), and, like him, a panegyrist of Sulṭân Arslân bin Ṭughrul Saljûḳî (A.H. 556–571 = A.D. 1161–1176) and of his son and successor, Sulṭân Ṭughrul III (A.H. 571–590 = A.D. 1176–1194); comp. also the Makhzan-algharâ'ib, No. 1492 in Bodleian Cat., col. 349, where he is praised as an expert in law, tradition, and Ḳurân-interpretation, and where some poetical extracts are given, which, however, cannot be traced in this copy. The diwân consists of ḳaṣîdas, intermixed with a few ghazals, ḳiṭ'as, and four rubâ'is.

Beginning of the diwân, on fol. 1b:

ای هستیٔ بی نشان نشانت — بیخود خرد از علوّ شانت

No date.

No. 240, ff. 1–88, 2 coll., each ll. 15; Nasta'lîḳ; worm-eaten; size, 8⅝ in. by 4¾ in.

Anwarî (Nos. 935–949).

Diwân-i-Anwarî (دیوان انوری).

The complete lyrical poems of Auḥad-aldîn 'Alî Anwarî, commonly called the greatest ḳaṣîdah-writer of Persia, who was the panegyrist of Sulṭân Sanjar, and died probably A.H. 585 or 587 (A.D. 1189 or 1191); the Haft Iḳlîm (see above, col. 416, No. 528) fix his death in A.H. 580 (A.D. 1184); all the earlier dates given in tadhkiras, as for instance 540 or 547, are absolutely impossible; comp. on this question and on Anwarî's life and poetical achievements in general, Rieu ii. p. 554 sq.; Bodleian Cat., Nos. 543–558, and 1980; W. Pertsch, p. 83, and Berlin Cat., p. 743 sq.; A. Sprenger, Catal., p. 331 sq.; G. Flügel i. p. 502; Cat. des MSS. et Xylographes, p. 319; J. Aumer, p. 10; Krafft, p. 62; Rosen, Persian MSS., p. 170; and the Russian monograph of V. Joukowski or Shukovski, St. Petersburg, 1883 (see also W. Pertsch in the 'Literaturblatt für orientalische Philologie,' ii. pp. 10–18). The poet was born in Mahnah, in the Dasht-i-Khâwarân, near Abiward, and therefore used as first takhalluṣ Khâwarî. His diwân has been printed, resp. lithographed in Tabriz, A.H. 1260 and 1266; in Lucknow, 1880.

Contents:

A short preface, in prose, on fol. 1b, beginning: مهتر شغلی که اصحاب نطق و دراست بدان نازند و ارباب فهم و فراست آنرا دستور سازند الخ.

Ḳaṣîdas and tarji'bands in alphabetical order, except the first, on fol. 2b.

Beginning of the initial poem:

مقدّری نه بالآت بقدرت مطلق
کند بشکل بخاری چو گنبذ ازرق

Beginning of the first alphabetical poem, on fol. 3b:

باز این چه جوانی و جمال است جهانرا

Ḳiṭ'as, arranged alphabetically, on fol. 188b, beginning:

ایا صدری که از روی بزرگی — فلك را نیست با قدر تو بالا

Ghazals, also in alphabetical order, on fol. 271a, beginning:

از دور بدیدم آن پری را — آن رشك بتان آزری را

Short satirical mathnawis (sometimes called هزليّات or, as in the following copy, مثنويّات در هجو), on fol. 323a, beginning:

حبّذا گير قاضیٔ گيرنگ ـ آنكه دارد زسنگ خارا ننگ

Rubá'is, in alphabetical order, on fol. 327a, beginning:

ای هجر مگر نهايتی نيست ترا
وی وعدهٔ وصل غايتی نيست ترا

Anwarí's diwân ends on fol. 352b, and is dated by Mu'izz-aldín Ḥasaní, the 7th of Muḥarram, A.H. 1061 (A. D. 1650, Dec. 31). On ff. 353–359 there is written by another hand a series of anonymous mathnawí-baits, beginning abruptly:

بشنو نكته گر اهل هوشی
خويش را به كه سگ بفروشی

Some of the last pages are damaged; large water-spots throughout the whole copy.

No. 2677, ff. 359, 2 coll., each ll. 19; Nasta'líḳ; ff. 216 and 353–359 supplied by other hands; size, 11½ in. by 7 in.

936

Another copy of the same diwân.

Contents:

Ḳaṣídas etc. in alphabetical order, except the first; beginning of the initial poem, on fol. 1b: مقدّری نه الخ.

Beginning of the first alphabetical ḳaṣídah, on fol. 2b: باز اين الخ.

Ḳiṭ'as, on fol. 215b, arranged alphabetically, beginning, on fol. 215b: ابا صدری الخ.

Short satirical mathnawis, beginning, on fol. 296a: حبّذا گير الخ.

Ghazals, in alphabetical order, beginning, on fol. 300b: از دور بديدم الخ.

The same satirical mathnawis, repeated on ff. 351b–355b.

Rubá'is, in alphabetical order, beginning, on fol. 355b: ای هجر الخ.

No date. Numerous glosses and various readings on the margin and between the lines.

No. 1530, ff. 381, 2 coll., each ll. 19; Nasta'líḳ; size, 10½ in. by 6¾ in.

937

The same.

Contents:

Ḳaṣídas and tarjí'bands, without any order, on fol. 1a, beginning as in the two preceding copies.

Ḳiṭ'as, with the short satirical mathnawis at the end, beginning, on fol. 156a:

دوش خوابی ديده ام كو نيك ديدی نيك باد
خواب نی بل حالتی كان از كرامت برتر است corresponding to fol. 228a in the preceding copy.

Ghazals, in alphabetical order, beginning, on fol. 238a: از دور بديدم الخ.

Rubá'is, on fol. 277b, without any order, beginning:

آنی كه كفت ضامن ارزاق آمد
وانی كه درت قبلهٔ آفاق آمد corresponding to fol. 361a, last line but two, in the preceding copy.

No date. This copy was presented by J. Wombwell, Esq., 10th April, 1804.

No. 440, ff. 302, 2 coll., each ll. 21; Nasta'líḳ; illuminated frontispiece; size, 8¾ in. by 4¾ in.

938

The same.

Another complete copy of the same diwân (styled on fol. 1a: كلّيّات انوری), without a date. It contains ḳaṣídas, ḳiṭ'as, ghazals, and rubá'is, all mixed together without any order. Beginning as usual: مقدّری نه الخ.

No. 391, ff. 331, 2 coll., each ll. 17; Nasta'líḳ; the first two pages splendidly illuminated; size, 10½ in. by 6 in.

939

A slightly defective copy of the same.

This copy is the oldest in the India Office Collection, dated Rabí'-alawwal, A. H. 987 (A.D. 1579, May), by Niẓám Faḍl-alláh, but unfortunately somewhat defective in the middle.

It contains:

A short laudatory introduction in prose, on fol. 1b, beginning: اين جريدهٔ نامی و نسخهٔ كرامی كه از مشاهدهٔ صفحاتش ارباب بينش را منظور ديده در نظرست الخ.

A first collection of ḳaṣídas, ghazals, ḳiṭ'as, tarjí'bands, etc., all mixed without any alphabetical order, beginning, on fol. 2a: مقدّری نه الخ.

A second collection, equally mixed and unalphabetical, beginning abruptly with the last four baits of a poem with the radíf انداخته, which cannot be traced in the other copies, on fol. 69a (the lacuna after fol. 68 comprises, according to the Arabic paging, one leaf only).

Rubá'is, beginning, on fol. 211a: ای تيغ ترا نهاده سرها گردن الخ.

Worm-eaten; occasional notes on the margin.

No. 3515, ff. 233, 2 coll., each ll. 15; large, excellent Nasta'líḳ; splendid binding in red and gold; size, 9½ in. by 6¼ in.

940

Another more defective copy of the same.

Contents:

Ḳaṣídas and tarjí'bands, first collection, in alphabetical order, except the first, on fol. 1b: مقدّری نه الخ.

Beginning of the first alphabetical ḳaṣídah, on fol. 3a:

سپهر رفعت و كوه وقار و بحر سخا
بهار دولت ودين آن جهان قدر و بها corresponding to fol. 8a in No. 1530 (936 above).

Ḳaṣídas etc., second collection, interspersed with ghazals, likewise in alphabetical order, but only beginning in the letter ر, on fol. 180ᵃ:

ای بهمّت برتر از چرخ اثیر — وز بزرگی دین یزدان را ظهیر corresponding to fol. 78ᵃ, first line, in No. 1530. This is owing to a lacuna after fol. 179. The last ḳaṣîdah, which begins, on fol. 179ᵇ, ای بردهٔ زشاهان, corresponds to fol. 195ᵇ in No. 1530, and breaks off with the 13th bait (=No. 1530, fol. 196ᵃ, l. 10).

Ḳiṭ'as, with a few ghazals, concluded by the short satirical mathnawis, on fol. 237ᵃ, beginning:

ای فلک پیش طالع نیکت — کرده پرواز اختر بدرا corresponding to the fourth ḳiṭ'ah in No. 1530, fol. 216ᵃ.

Fol. 179 injured. No date. College of Fort William, 1825.

No. 2258, ff. 358, 2 coll., each ll. 15–16; Nasta'lîḳ, by at least four different hands; size, 8¼ in. by 4¼ in.

941

A third defective copy of the same.

Contents:

Ḳaṣîdas etc., without any order, on fol. 1ᵇ, beginning as usual.

Ghazals, arranged alphabetically, beginning, on fol. 134ᵇ:

ای عقل تو پیر و بخت برنا — خارست زمانه وتو خرما

Ḳiṭ'as, in alphabetical order, beginning, on fol. 184ᵃ:

زهی صدری الخ.

This part is incomplete at the end; the last ḳiṭ'ah on fol. 192ᵇ, which breaks off with the second bait, is found in No. 1530, fol. 247ᵇ, ll. 3 and 2 ab infra. There are besides lacunas after ff. 189 and 191. The ḳiṭ'ah ربع مسکون الخ, beginning on fol. 189ᵇ, corresponds to No. 1530, fol. 230ᵃ, the ḳiṭ'as on fol. 190ᵃ to ff. 243ᵇ and 237ᵇ respectively in the same copy (so that the end of letter ت, the whole letters ج, ح, and خ, and the beginning of the letter د are missing). The last ḳiṭ'ah, on fol. 191ᵇ, ای خداوندی الخ, is found on fol. 243ᵃ in No. 1530, the first ḳiṭ'ah, on fol. 192ᵃ, on fol. 245ᵇ, l. 5, in the same copy.

Small blanks on ff. 69ᵇ and 73ᵇ. The proper order of ff. 38–43 is: 38, 40, 39, 42, 41, and 43.

Various readings and many additions on the margin.

A great number of pages worm-eaten.

No. 1006, ff. 192, 2 coll., each ll. 21; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 10 in. by 5¼ in.

942

A fourth defective copy of the same.

This copy is in a very unsatisfactory state, worm-eaten throughout, more especially in the first half, and damaged besides in many places, whole parts of the first leaves being torn away or effaced. It is defective at the end.

Contents:

The same short prose preface as in No. 2677 (935 above); beginning: مهترشغلی که الخ. The poet's name is given here, on fol. 2ᵃ, l. 6, as 'Alî bin Maḥmûd bin Isḥaḳ al-Anwarî.

Ḳaṣîdas, without any order, on fol. 2ᵇ, beginning as usual.

Ḳiṭ'as, in alphabetical order, beginning, on fol. 185ᵇ: ایا صدری الخ.

Ghazals, on fol. 258ᵇ, beginning:

زعهد تو بوی وفا می نیاید الخ corresponding to fol. 319ᵇ in No. 1530 (936 above).

A few more ḳiṭ'as and ḳaṣîdas, on ff. 287ᵃ–289ᵃ.

Satirical mathnawis, beginning, on fol. 289ᵃ: حبّذا گیر الخ.

One ghazal and a few ḳiṭ'as on fol. 293ᵃ, followed by rubâ'is which break off on fol. 298ᵇ. The last rubâ'i, از خاك درت, corresponds to No. 1530, fol. 369ᵃ, l. 3 ab infra.

Many various readings and interesting glosses on the margin.

No. 3520, olim 3113*, ff. 298, 2 coll., each ll. 19; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 10 in. by 5¼ in.

A part of Anwarî's diwân.

This copy contains only:

Ḳaṣîdas etc., without alphabetical order, beginning on fol. 1ᵇ as usual.

Ḳiṭ'as, interspersed with a few ḳaṣîdas, ghazals, and rubâ'is (nineteen rubâ'is and one fard at the end), on fol. 182ᵇ, beginning:

نگر تا حلقهٔ اقبال ناممکن نجنبانی
سلیما ابلها لا بل که محروما و مسکینا

No date. Many various readings and glosses on the margin.

No. 2690, ff. 282, 2 coll., each ll. 17; large Nasta'lîḳ, by different hands as it seems; the first eight and the last three leaves supplied by a modern hand; size, 10¼ in. by 5¼ in.

Ḳaṣâ'id-i-Anwarî (قصائد انوری).

Anwarî's ḳaṣîdas in alphabetical order, except the first and the third; beginning of the initial ḳaṣîdah as usual. The second corresponds to No. 1530, fol. 6ᵃ, the third to fol. 194ᵇ, first line, and the fourth (or second alphabetical poem), beginning ای قاعدهٔ تازه زدست الخ, to fol. 4ᵇ, first line, in the same copy. Rich marginal glosses and notes.

Dated the first of Dhû-alḳa'dah, A.H. 1094 (A.D. 1683, Oct. 22), in the castle of Sûlâpûr, by Nâdirbeg, son of 'Abdallâhbeg ibn 'Ibâd-allâhbeg, a descendant of Aḥrâr (i.e. Shaikh 'Ubaid-allâh, see No. 633 in this Cat.) and inhabitant of Andijân.

No. 1926, ff. 226, 2 coll., each ll. 17; Nasta'lîḳ, size, 10 in. by 6 in.

Another copy of the same.

The same ḳaṣîdas, arranged alphabetically, beginning as usual. The second (or first alphabetical) ḳaṣîdah, on fol. 2ª, beginning: صبا بسبزه بیاراست باغ دنیی را الخ, is the second in the preceding copy too. Rich marginal notes.

Copied A.H. 1120 (A.D. 1708, 1709), in Bahâdur-shâh's reign, by 'Abd-alkhâliḳ Gharîb.

No. 514, ff. 239, 2 coll., each ll. 15; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 8¼ in. by 5½ in.

946

Intikhâb-i-dîwân-i-Anwarî (انتخاب دیوان انوری).

Extracts from Anwarî's dîwân, consisting of ḳaṣîdas, ghazals, and ḳiṭ'as, without any order. The initial poem is the same as the second in the preceding two copies: صبا بسبزه الخ.

No date.

No. 609, ff. 48ᵇ–81ª, 2 coll., each ll. 15, and a third on the margin, ll. 24–28; Nasta'lîḳ; illuminated frontispiece, the first two pages richly adorned; two pictures on ff. 80ᵇ and 81ª; size, 9¾ in. by 5½ in.

947

Sharḥ-i-dîwân-i-Anwarî (شرح دیوان انوری).

Explanation of the difficult verses in Anwarî's dîwân, especially his ḳaṣîdas, by Muḥammad bin Dâ'ûd bin Muḥammad bin Maḥmûd 'Alawî Shâdiyâbâdî, who flourished in the reign of Nâṣir-aldîn Khiljî, the ruler of Mâlwah (A.H. 906–916=A.D. 1500–1510), see Rieu ii. p. 556ª. He also wrote a commentary on Khâḳânî's poems, see Nos. 968–970 below. Beginning: سپاس بی قیاس مر صانع قدیم را کہ بامر کن جملهٔ مکوّنات را از نهان خانهٔ کتم عدم در صحراء وجود آورد الخ.

The first verse, explained, on fol. 2ª, is the initial bait usually found in copies of Anwarî's ḳaṣîdas: مقدّری نه الخ.

Dated the 24th of Muḥarram, A.H. 1056 (A.D. 1646, March 12), by Aminkhân ibn Shaikh 'Abdallâh of Shâhpûr.

No. 1126, ff. 1–88, ll. 16–19; Nasta'lîḳ, mixed with Shikasta; size, 9¼ in. by 5½ in.

Sharḥ-i-dîwân-i-Anwarî (شرح دیوان انوری).

Another commentary on Anwarî's ḳaṣîdas and ḳiṭ'as, by Abû-alḥasan Farâhânî (or as his contemporary Naṣrâbâdî in his tadhkirah, composed between A.H. 1083 and 1092=A.D. 1672–1681, see No. 669 in this Cat., calls him, Mîr Abû-alḥasan, a Ḥusainî Sayyid of Farâhân), see Bodleian Cat., No. 557; Rieu ii. p. 556ᵇ; A. Sprenger, Catal., pp. 332 and 333; Mélanges Asiatiques, iv. p. 54.

The commentary on the ḳaṣîdas begins, on fol. 1ᵇ: سپاسی کہ از روی گواهی الخ.

The first ḳaṣîdah commented upon is the second (or first alphabetical one) of the usual copies: باز این چه جوانی الخ.

The ḳaṣîdas conclude, on fol. 66ª, with the colophon: تمام شد شرح دیوان انوری, and are followed by the commentary on the ḳiṭ'as (شرح مقطّعات انوری از ابو الحسن فراهانی), beginning with this verse:

ای نام تو قالب عبارت را روح
در راه تو پای عقل و دانش مجروح

Dated the 19th of Ramaḍân, in the 19th year of 'Âlamgîr's reign (=A.H. 1087, A.D. 1676, Nov. 25). On fol. 1ª this copy is designated as الجزو الاوّل من شرح دیوان انوری.

No. 1910, ff. 91, ll. 18–19; Shikasta; size, 9 in. by 5½ in.

The first part of the same commentary.

Abû-alḥasan Farâhânî's commentary on Anwarî's ḳaṣîdas, beginning as in the preceding copy. No date.

No. 212, ff. 1–83, ll. 20; careless Nasta'lîḳ; size, 9¼ in. by 5½ in.

Khâḳânî (Nos. 950–970).

Kulliyyât-i-Khâḳânî (کلّیّات خاقانی).

The complete poetical works of Afḍal-aldîn Badîl Ibrâhîm bin 'Alî Najjâr Khâḳânî of Shîrwân, who had originally the takhalluṣ of Ḥaḳâ'iḳî, which he exchanged at the suggestion of his spiritual guide Abû al'alâ Gânjawî for Khâḳânî in honour of the Khâḳân-i-Kabîr Minûčihr and his son Akhsatân or Akhtasân, comp. on some points of difficulty connected with these Haft Iḳlîm, Nos. 1385 and 1397, cols. 480 and 482 in this Cat. Khâḳânî died probably A.H. 595 (A.D. 1199); another possible date is A.H. 590 (A.D. 1194), but quite impossible is A.H. 582 (A.D. 1186); see on Khâḳânî's life and poetry especially Khanykov, Mémoire sur Khacani, in Journal Asiatique, 6ᵐᵉ série, vol. iv. p. 137 sq. (1864), and vol. v. p. 296 sq. (1865), and Salemann's introduction to his Russian edition of Khâḳânî's rubâ'is, St. Petersburg, 1875; comp. besides Bodleian Cat., Nos. 560–581; Rieu ii. p. 558 sq.; W. Pertsch, Berlin Cat., p. 768 sq.; A. Sprenger, Catal., p. 461; G. Flügel i. p. 508; Cat. des MSS. et Xylographes, p. 329; Ouseley, Biograph. Notices, p. 157; Mélanges Asiatiques, iii. p. 114 sq., etc. Khâḳânî's poetical works have been lithographed in Lucknow, 1879.

This copy of the Kulliyyât contains:

1. Tuḥfat-al'irâḳain (تحفة العراقین), the famous mathnawî in which the poet describes his pilgrimage from Shîrwân to Makkah and Madînah and his way back, with special reference to the two 'Irâḳs, i.e. 'Irâḳ-i-'ajam and 'Irâḳ-i-'arab, beginning with a prose preface, on fol. 1ᵇ: خیر ما اعتصم المرء بحبالة کلمة العجز الخ.

Beginning of the mathnawî itself, on fol. 4ª:

مائیم نظارگان غمناك — زین حقّهٔ سبز و مهرهٔ خاك

The contents of this mathnawî have been given in detail by Khanykov in his Mémoire (quoted above), pp. 173–179; see also Wiener, Jahrbücher, vol. 64, Anzeigeblatt, pp. 16–18. It has been lithographed in Agra, 1855, and in Lucknow, 1876; extracts from it have also been printed in Lahore, 1867.

2. Diwân (دیوان), containing ḳaṣîdas, tarjî'bands, ḳiṭ'as, and ghazals, all mixed together without any order, on fol. 91b, beginning: دل من پیر تعلیمست و من طفل زبان دانش الخ.

A second, anonymous, mathnawî, noticed in the Kulliyyât-i-Khâḳânî, Bodleian Cat., No. 560, is not found in this copy.

Dated the 13th of Ṣafar, A.H. 1007 (A.D. 1598, Sept. 15).

No. 1767, ff. 407, 2 coll., each ll. 19; Nasta'lîḳ; illuminated frontispieces on ff. 1b and 91b; size, 11½ in. by 6¾ in.

Intikhâb-i-Kulliyyât-i-Khâḳânî (انتخاب کلّیّات خاقانی).

Extracts from Khâḳânî's dîwân (انتخاب دیوان خاقانی), consisting of ḳaṣîdas, ghazals, and rubâ'îs (the latter on ff. 112b–117a), followed by the Tuḥfat-al'irâḳain (on ff. 117a margin–176). Beginning of the ḳaṣîdas: مرا زهاتف همّت رسد بگوش خطاب الخ, corresponding to fol. 138a in No. 2552 (967 below). Beginning of the mathnawî as usual.

Dated the 12th of Jumâdâ II, A.H. 1038 (A.D. 1629, Febr. 6), by Muḥammad Shafî' of Iṣfahân.

No. 609, ff. 81b–177a, 2 coll., each ll. 15, and a third on the margin, ll. 24–28; Nasta'lîḳ; illuminated frontispiece, the first two pages richly embellished; a picture on fol. 177a; size, 9¾ in. by 5½ in.

952

Tuḥfat-al'irâḳain (تحفة العراقین).

Another copy of the mathnawî 'Tuḥfat-al'irâḳain,' with the preface in prose on fol. 1b; beginning of the poem itself on fol. 6b.

Many short marginal glosses. No date.

No. 262, ff. 93, 2 coll., each ll. 19; small Nasta'lîḳ; illuminated frontispieces on ff. 1b and 6b; size, 8¼ in. by 3¼ in.

953

Another copy of the same.

Prose preface, on fol. 1b; beginning of the mathnawî, on fol. 9b.

The whole copy is filled with valuable glosses, both interlinear and marginal, but unfortunately a number of the latter are half cut or torn away. As date appears only the 15th of Shawwâl, but no year. Bibliotheca Leydeniana.

No. 2615, ff. 191, 2 coll., each ll. 9; Nasta'lîḳ; worm-eaten; a part of the margin cut or torn away almost throughout; size, 9 in. by 5 in.

A slightly defective copy of the same.

This copy begins abruptly in the prose preface, on fol. 1a, with the words: در آسمان بر ساکنین . . . . . گشاده دارد الخ, corresponding to No. 262 (952 above), fol. 2a, l. 3 ab infra (one leaf missing). Beginning of the mathnawî, on fol. 3a.

At the end on fol. 77a a short epilogue in prose, giving an account of the six maḳâlas into which the poem is divided,—viz.: 1. عرائس الفکر و مجالس الذکر (here beginning on fol. 3a). 2. معراج العقول (here on fol. 6b). 3. فی وصف بلاد عراق و همدان و مدینة السّلام بغداد و مدائح اصحاب هٰؤلآء البلاد تسمّی سجعة الاوتاد الخ (here on fol. 23a). 4. فی اوصاف الکوفة و المدینة و هٰؤلآء البلاد و یسمّی موارد الاوراد و خزانة الاوتاد (here on fol. 33a). 5. فی وصف مدینة الرسول الخ وهی تسمّی بهدایة الهدی الخ الی المهدی (in the epilogue مدینة الهدی الی المهدی) (here on fol. 42b). 6. فی وصف الشام و الموصل و اصحاب هٰؤلآء البلاد الخ (here on fol. 53a),—and the number of baits in each.

Dated, as it seems, A.H. 1078 (A.D. 1667, 1668).

The copy is greatly injured in many places, but as carefully mended as possible. Bibliotheca Leydeniana.

Sharḥ-i-Tuḥfat-al'irâḳain (شرح تحفة العراقين).

A commentary on the Tuḥfat-al'irâḳain, composed by Shaikh 'Abd-alsalâm, A.H. 1057, in the 20th year of Shâhjahân's reign=A.D. 1647 (see ff. 3b, l. 7, and 4b, ll. 10–13), comp. A. Sprenger, Catal., p. 463, and Bodleian Cat., No. 581.

Beginning of the preface (different from that in Sprenger): حمدی کہ کتاب ستایش و شرح نمایش را عنوان زیبد و اجزای تحسین و اوراق آفرین را شیرازہ بندد مر متکلّمی را الخ.

The first verse of the mathnawî, commented upon, is the usual initial bait: ماتیم نظارگان الخ, on fol. 6a.

Another commentary on the same mathnawî, by Ghulâm Muḥammad, is noticed in Bodleian Cat., No. 580.

This copy was finished the 17th of Dhû-alḳa'dah, A.H. 1059 (A.D. 1649, Nov. 22), only two years after the completion of the commentary.

No. 642, ff. 159, ll. 17; irregular Nasta'lîḳ, by two different hands, as it seems; size, 9 in. by 4¼ in.

Diwân-i-Khâḳânî (دیوان خاقانی).

Another copy of Khâḳânî's lyrical poems, dated the 7th of Rabî'-alâkhar, A.H. 1004 (A.D. 1595, Dec. 10). It contains ḳaṣîdas, tarji'bands, ḳiṭ'as, and ghazals, all mixed together without any alphabetical order; from fol. 321b down to the end there are only ghazals.

Beginning: دل من پیر تعلیمست و من طفل زبان دانش الخ.

No. 1264, ff. 372, 2 coll., each ll. 19; Nasta'lîḳ; the first two pages richly illuminated; size, 11¼ in. by 6¾ in.

962

Another copy of the same diwân.

This copy is dated A.H. 1006, the 10th of Ṣafar (A.D. 1597, Sept. 22), and contains:

Ḳaṣîdas, interspersed with some ghazals and ḳiṭ'as, on fol. 1b. Beginning as usual.

Tarji'bands, on fol. 219b, beginning:

دلا از جان و جان تا کی یکی جویای جانان شو
چو سلطان اوست در جانها غلام خاصّ سلطان شو

The right order of ff. 263–270 is: 263, 265, 266, 264, 269, 267, 268, and 270. Occasional notes on the margin.

The title کلّیّات خاقانی, on fol. 1a, is incorrect, as the copy only contains the diwân.

No. 589, ff. 270, 2 coll., each ll. 19; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 10¼ in. by 5¼ in.

963

The same.

Contents:

Ḳaṣîdas, on fol. 1b, beginning as usual.

Tarji'bands and marâthî (elegies), on fol. 220a. Beginning: ای دل ز دام گلشن تن در گذشتنیست الخ.

The first elegy, on fol. 225a, begins thus:

ای روز رفتگان جگر شب فرو درید
آن آفتاب از آن جگر شب بر آورید

Ḳiṭ'as, on fol. 273a, beginning: چون زمان عهد سنائی در نوشت الخ.

No date. Many glosses on the margin of the first 40–50 leaves.

This copy was presented to Mr. Richard Johnson, 1778; a Persian note by a former owner, on fol. 1a, contains the date A.H. 1183 (A.D. 1769, 1770).

No. 1263, ff. 284, 2 coll., each ll. 18–19; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 11¼ in. by 6¾ in.

964

The same.

A very large and rich copy, not dated.

Contents:

Ḳaṣîdas, tarji'bands, elegies, ḳiṭ'as, mystical ghazals, etc., all mixed together without any order, on fol. 1b.

Beginning as usual. At the end of this part, on fol. 367a, there is the following colophon: تمّت القصائد الکبار و الصغار و الترجیع المراثی و المقطّعات و الغزلیّات فی التجرید و العزلة و الموعظة و النصیحة و مذمّة الدنیا و شکایة الزمان و معاتبة الاخوان و المراثی و المدائح و الهجا و الهزل و سائر المعانی' و شرعت فی الغزلیّات (!) العشق و الریاعی'.

Love-ghazals, in alphabetical order, on fol. 367a, beginning:

گرنہ عشق او قضاء آسمانستی مرا
از بلای عشق او روی امانستی مرا

Rubâ'îs, on fol. 442a, beginning: این چرخ بد آئین نہ نکو میگردد الخ.

Occasionally short glosses on the margin.

No. 2460, ff. 460, 2 coll., each ll. 19; very clear and distinct Nasta'lîḳ; illuminated frontispiece; size, 10¼ in. by 5¼ in.

965

The same.

This copy contains chiefly ḳaṣîdas, without alphabetical order, interspersed with occasional ghazals, ḳiṭ'as, and rubâ'îs. No date. Eleventh or twelfth century of the Hijrah.

No. 3284, olim 19. J. 3, ff. 248, 2 coll., each ll. 19; clear and distinct Nasta'lîḳ; size, 11¼ in. by 6¾ in.

966

The same.

This copy, dated the 16th of Rabí'-alawwal, A. H. 1101 (the 33rd year of 'Álamgír's reign=A. D. 1689, Dec. 28), contains only ḳaṣídas and tarjí'bands. Numerous marginal glosses. Fol. 148 supplied by another hand.

No. 2650, ff. 1–249, 2 coll., each ll. 18; large Nasta'líḳ; size, 12½ in. by 7 in.

A very large, but defective copy of the same.

This copy (which is incorrectly styled, on fol. 1a, Kulliyyát-i-Khákání) contains ḳaṣídas, tarjí'bands, ghazals, and ḳiṭ'as, all mixed together, without any order. Beginning as usual. On fol. 406a a series of rubá'is begins with the same bait as in No. 2460 (964 above): این چرخ بد آئین الخ.

This part is incomplete at the end; it breaks off on fol. 415b; the last rubá'í corresponds to the fourth in No. 2460, fol. 450a.

On the fly-leaves, at the end, there are written some lines in Arabic, beginning: قال النبیّ صلّی الله علیه و آله الخ.

No. 2552, ff. 415, 2 coll., each ll. 19; Nasta'líḳ; illuminated frontispiece; some embellishments on the first two pages; size, 10⅝ in. by 6¼ in.

Sharḥ-i-Díwán-i-Khákání (شرح دیوان خاقانی).

A commentary on the difficult verses in the ḳaṣídas and other minor poems of Khákání (شرح بعضی ابیات مشکلهٔ قصائد واشعار مفصّلهٔ دیوان افضل الفضلا و سلطان الشعرا سحبان العصر حسّان الدهر افصح العرب و العجم افضل الدین عثمان بن علی المعروف بـا نام خاقانی, as the inscription in the following copy has it), by the same Muḥammad bin Dá'úd bin Muḥammad bin Maḥmúd 'Alawí Shádiyábádí, who wrote a commentary on Anwarí's díwán, see No. 947 above; other copies of the same in Bodleian Cat., Nos. 572 and 573; Rieu ii. p. 561, and A. Sprenger, Catal., p. 462.

Beginning of the preface: جواهر زواهر سپاس بی قیاس نثار حضرت صمدیّت جلّ قدرته الخ.

The first verse, explained, is the usual initial one: دل من پیر تعلیمست الخ, on fol. 90b, bottom. A small blank on fol. 258b.

Dated (by the second hand) in Dhú-alḳa'dah, A. H. 995 (A. D. 1587, October). Other commentaries on Khákání's díwán are described in Rieu ii. 562 (by 'Alawí Láhiji in Jahángír's time); W. Pertsch, Berlin Cat., p. 770, and G. Flügel i. p. 509 (by 'Abd-alwahháb bin Maḥmúd al-Ḥasaní al-Ḥusaini al-Ma'múri, with the takhalluṣ Ghaná'í, who flourished about A. H. 1090= A. D. 1679, and whose commentary seems to have the special title of محبّت نامه); and A. Sprenger, Catal., p. 463 (فرح افزا, by Ḳabúl Muḥammad, the author of the Haft Ḳulzum).

No. 1126, ff. 90–263, written by two hands, the first in Naskhí, on ff. 90b–170a middle, 25–30 diagonal lines in a page; the second in Nasta'líḳ, on ff. 170a middle–263, larger in the beginning and getting smaller and smaller towards the end, 24–32 diagonal lines in a page; size, 9½ in. by 5⅝ in.

A defective copy of the same.

Beginning, on fol. 5b, the same as in the preceding copy. It breaks off on fol. 419b; the last words agree with fol. 251b, l. 7 ab infra, in the preceding copy. Instead of the correct Shádiyábádí the present copy has شادبادی. On ff. 1–4 some fragments of a Persian dictionary are found, explaining principally Arabic words generally used by the Persians. The margin of the first eighty-three leaves is covered with notes and glosses. Some of the first and a great number of the last pages are a little worm-eaten.

No. 1010, ff. 419, ll. 15; large, but careless Nasta'líḳ; size, 9½ in. by 5¼ in.

A fragment of the same.

Beginning as usual. The author's name appears here in the short form of محمّد داؤد علوی. It breaks off, on fol. 73b, with the bait: گفتی که نعل بود در آتش نهاده ماه الخ, corresponding to fol. 92a, ll. 4 and 5 in the preceding copy.

No. 450, ff. 1–73, ll. 17; clear Nasta'líḳ; size, 8⅝ in. by 4¾ in.

Díwán-i-Ẓahír Fáryábí (دیوان ظهیر فاریابی).

Lyrical poems, by Ẓahír-aldín Abú-alfaḍl Ṭáhir bin Muḥammad of Fáryáb, in the province of Balkh, who died A. H. 598 (A. D. 1201, 1202), see Haft Iḳlim, No. 566 (col. 419 in this Cat.), and comp. on his life and poems, Rieu ii. p. 563; Bodleian Cat., Nos. 582–584; W. Pertsch, Berlin Cat., pp. 720 and 773 sq.; A. Sprenger, Catal., p. 579; Ouseley, Biograph. Notices, p. 154 etc.; Krafft, p. 62; C. J. Tornberg, p. 102; Rosen, Persian MSS., p. 205.

Contents:

Ḳaṣídas and tarkíbbands, on fol. 1b, beginning:

سپیده دم که شدم محرم سرای سرور
شنیدم آیت تُوبُوا الی الله از لب حور corresponding to the initial ḳaṣídah in the first Berlin and the third Bodleian copy.

At the end some ḳiṭ'as and rubá'ís, the latter incomplete, breaking off, on fol. 110b, in the middle of a quatrain.

Printed at Calcutta, A. H. 1245.

No. 2051, ff. 110, 2 coll., each ll. 15; Nasta'líḳ; size, 8½ in. by 4¾ in.

Nizâmî (Nos. 972–1027).

Khamsa-i-Nizâmî (خمسهٔ نظامی).

The Khamsah, or complete five epic poems, the so-called 'five treasures' (پنج گنج) of Jamâl-aldîn Abû Muḥammad Ilyâs bin Yûsuf bin Mu'ayyad Nizâm-aldîn, with the takhallus Nizâmî, of Ganja, who was born A.H. 535 (A.D. 1140, 1141), and died probably A.H. 598 or 599 (A.D. 1202, 1203); later dates of his death are A.H. 602 (A.D. 1205, 1206), 606 (A.D. 1209, 1210), and after 607 (A.D. 1210, 1211); see Bodleian Cat., Nos. 585–619 and 1981; Rieu ii. p. 564 sq. and (as to A.H. 607) p. 569[a]; W. Pertsch, p. 67, and Berlin Cat., p. 751 sq.; Sir Gore Ouseley, Notices of Persian Poets, p. 43; A. Sprenger, Catal., p. 519 sq.; G. Flügel i. p. 503; Rosen, Persian MSS., pp. 171–173 and 203; A. F. Mehren, p. 34; Cat. Codd. Orient. Lugd. ii. p. 109; C. J. Tornberg, p. 94; J. Aumer, p. 10 etc. On Nizâmî's life and works comp. W. Bacher, Nizâmî's Leben und Werke, Leipzig, 1871; English translation, London, 1873 (reprinted in S. Robinson's 'Persian Poetry for English Readers,' 1883, pp. 103–244), and Ethé, Die höfische und romantische Poesie der Perser, Hamburg, 1887, pp. 39–42. The Khamsah has been lithographed in Bombay, 1834 and 1838; Ṭahrân, A.H. 1261; edited at Tabriz, 1845; comp. on these and other editions Zenker ii. 508–510; Trübner's Record, Nos. 66, 67, p. 99; Zeitschrift der D. M. G. vi. p. 405, etc.

Contents:

1. Makhzan-alasrâr (مخزن الاسرار), composed probably A.H. 572 or 573 (A.D. 1176–1178), see Rieu, loc. cit. Wrong dates, ascribed to this poem in various copies, are A.H. 552 (A.D. 1157), see No. 990 below in this Cat., and Bodleian Cat., No. 585; A.H. 559 (A.D. 1164), see below, Nos. 977, 983, and 994, and Rieu ii. p. 565[b]; and A.H. 582 (A.D. 1186), see Rieu ii. p. 573[a]. It was dedicated to Sulṭân Bahrâmshâh, contains 20 maḳâlas, and begins, on fol. 1[b]:

بسم الله الرحمٰن الرحیم — هست کلید در گنج حکیم

Edited by N. Bland, London, 1844 (with Daulatshâh's and Luṭf 'Alibeg's biographies of the poet prefixed); lithographed Lucknow, 1869, 1872, and with a commentary 1881; Cawnpore, 1869; a Turkish commentary on the same by Sham'î (who died about A.H. 1009 or 1010, A.D. 1600–1602).

2. Khusrau u Shîrîn (خسرو و شیرین), composed A.H. 576 (A.D. 1180, 1181), and containing eulogies on Sulṭân Sa'îd Ṭughrul bin Arslân (who ascended the throne A.H. 573=A.D. 1177, 1178), the Atâbeg Abû Ja'far Muḥammad, and his brother and successor, Ḳizil Arslân (A.H. 582–587=A.D. 1186–1191). It begins, on fol. 36[b]:

خداوندا در توفیق بگشای
نظامی را ره تحقیق بنمای

Lithographed at Lahore, A.H. 1288 (A.D. 1871); see besides Hammer's Schirin, Leipzig, 1809.

3. Laîlâ u Majnûn (لیلی و مجنون), composed A.H. 584 (A.D. 1188), and dedicated to Sulṭân Abû-almuẓaffar Shirwânshâh. It begins, on fol. 126[b]:

ای نام تو بهترین سرآغاز
بی نام تو نامه کی کنم باز

Edited Lucknow, 1870 (see Trübner's Record, No. 65, p. 81) and 1888. Translated into English by J. Atkinson, 1836.

4. Haft Paikar (هفت پیکر), composed A.H. 593 (A.D. 1197), and dedicated, as it seems, to the Atâbeg Nûr-aldîn Arslân (who ascended the throne of Mauṣil A.H. 589=A.D. 1193). It begins, on fol. 193[b]:

ای جهان دیده بود خویش از تو
هیچ بودی نبود پیش از تو

This poem is sometimes styled قصّهٔ بهرام گور, see Bodleian Cat., No. 585. Lithographed Bombay, 1849; Lucknow, 1873; comp. also F. v. Erdmann, 'Behram-gur und die russische Fürstentochter,' Kasan, 1844.

5[a]. The first part of the Iskandarnâma, here styled Iḳbâlnâma-i-Sikandarî (اقبالنامهٔ سکندری); the usual titles are شرفنامهٔ سکندری or سکندر نامهٔ برّی (but see on the conflicting statements respecting the proper titles of the first and the second part, Rieu ii. pp. 568 and 569; Fleischer in Zeitschrift der D. M. G. vii. p. 412, Anmerkung; Bodleian Cat., col. 489, and A. F. Mehren, p. 35 note. It was probably composed A.H. 597 (A.D. 1200, 1201), and dedicated to Nuṣrat-aldîn, the successor of the Atâbeg Ḳizil Arslân (who died A.H. 587=A.D. 1191). It begins, on fol. 267[b]:

خدایا جهان پادشائی تراست
زما خدمت آید خدائی تراست

Part of the text was printed 1810, Calcutta, in 'Selections for the Use of the Students of the Persian Class,' vol. iv, 2nd ed. 1823; also A.H. 1269; an edition with a selection from the best commentaries by Badr 'Alî and Mîr Ḥusain 'Alî appeared in Calcutta, 1812, reprinted 1825; lithographed editions besides in Bombay, A.H. 1277 and 1292, and Lucknow, A.H. 1266, 1282, with glosses, 1879 and 1888; another edition (with the commentary of Muḥammad Ghufrân), Lahore, 1889. Extracts in German translation by Fr. Rückert in 'Frauentaschenbuch,' Nürnberg, 1824; English translation by H. W. Clarke, London, 1881; comp. also F. v. Erdmann, De Expeditione Russorum Berdaam versus, Kasan, 1826–1832; Charmoy, Expédition d'Alexandre contre les Russes, St. Petersburg, 1829; F. Spiegel, Die Alexandersage etc., Leipzig, 1851, pp. 33–50; and Ethé, Alexanders Zug zum Lebensquell in 'Sitzungsberichte der bayrischen Academie, histor.-philol. Classe,' 1871, pp. 343–405.

5[b]. The second part of the Iskandarnâma, here styled Sharafnâma (شرفنامه); the usual titles are خردنامهٔ اسکندری, اقبالنامهٔ سکندری, or اسکندرنامهٔ بحری (see above in 5[a]). It was dedicated to Malik 'Izz-aldîn Mas'ûd, and begins, on fol. 369[b]:

خرد هر کجا گنجی آرد پدید
زنام خدا سازد آنرا کلید

Edited by A. Sprenger, Calcutta, 1852 and 1869; lithographed, Bombay, A.H. 1277 (A.D. 1860), and Lucknow, 1879; comp. also W. Bacher, Nizâmî's Leben und Werke, pp. 101–171.

Good old copy, collated and dated the 21st of Muḥarram, A.H. 894 (A.D. 1488, Dec. 25), by Maulânâ Ḥâji Muḥammad aldurustâḳi albadakhshî. Fol. 261b is left blank.

No. 402, ff. 422, 4 coll., each ll. 17; small Nasta'lîḳ; illuminated frontispiece at the beginning of each mathnawî; some small miniature paintings, for the greater part effaced, on ff. 49a, 50a, 164b, 183b, and 203b; size, 9 in. by 5¼ in.

973

Another copy of the same.

Contents:

1. Makhzan-alasrâr, on fol. 1b. 2. Khusrau u Shîrîn, on fol. 33b (date of composition, A.H. 576, on fol. 119a, lin. penult.). 3. Lailâ u Majnûn, on fol. 122b. 4. Haft Paikar, on fol. 180b. 5a. The first part of the Iskandarnâma, styled اقبالنامهٔ سکندری, on fol. 241b. 5b. The second part of the Iskandarnâma, styled شرفنامهٔ سکندری, on fol. 324b.

Dated in the month Rabî'-althânî, A.H. 975=A.D. 1567, October (on fol. 241a there is written by mistake سنهٔ سبع خمسین الخ instead of خمس و سبعین الخ). Some small lacunas at the beginning of several pages. Ff. 39–42 are misplaced, the right order of the leaves is: 39, 41, 40, 42. On fol. 369a, l. 2, the same rhymed epilogue on Nizâmî's death appears, which has been noticed in Rieu ii. pp. 564b and 565a; it is styled انجامش روزگار نظامی, and states that the poet's life extended to 63 years and six months.

No. 141, ff. 370, 4 coll., each ll. 20; Nasta'lîḳ; an illuminated frontispiece at the beginning of each mathnawî; illuminated headings throughout the copy; the first two pages luxuriously embellished; miniature paintings on ff. 4b, 15a, 32a, 42a, 49a, 57a, 62b, 76b, 105a, 162b, 171a, 211a, 214a, 217b, 221b, 227a, and 271b; size, 12¼ in. by 7½ in.

1. Makhzan-alasrâr, on fol. 1b. 2. Khusrau u Shîrîn, on fol. 37b. 3. Lailâ u Majnûn, on fol. 141b. 4. Haft Paikar, on fol. 212b. 5a. The first part of the Iskandarnâma (اقبالنامهٔ اسکندری), on fol. 293b. 5b. The second part of the Iskandarnâma (خردنامهٔ اسکندری), on fol. 400b. The copy concludes on fol. 454b, and on ff. 455–468 some parts of the last mathnawî are repeated, but not in any coherent form; for instance, fol. 456b, l. 11, corresponds to fol. 433a, l. 3, but the preceding portions in both parts are quite different. On fol. 453a, l. 5, there appears the وفات حکیم, i.e. the انجامش روزگار نظامی, see above in No. 973. No date. But on fol. 1a there is the seal of a former owner, rather effaced, dated A.H. 1070 (A.D. 1659, 1660), and another of Shâh Mîrkhân (dated A.H. 1147, A.D. 1734, 1735). In August, 1782, this MS. came into the possession of Mr. Richard Johnson.

No. 387, ff. 468, 4 centre-coll., each ll. 17; beautiful Nasta'lîḳ; an illuminated frontispiece at the beginning of each mathnawî, the first two pages luxuriously adorned; a vignette on fol. 1a; miniature paintings on ff. 4a, 17a, 47b, 55a, 61b, 64a, 65b, 70a, 71b, 83a, 93b, 95b, 102b, 104a, 124a, 132a, 167b, 182a, 201b, 225b, 227a, 232a, 235b, 237b, 244a, 252a, 259b, 264b, 267a, 279a, 284b, 306b, 311a, 318a, 334a, 337b, 346b, 364b, 372b, 374a, 386a, 396a, 422b, 438a, 442b, 456a, 466a, and 468a; size, 10½ in. by 6½ in.

Khulâṣa-i-Khamsa-i-Nizâmî (خلاصهٔ خمسهٔ نظامی).

Extracts from Nizâmî's five mathnawîs, by an anonymous compiler, divided into the following thirty-five chapters, viz.: 1. در توحید; 2. در نعت نبی; 3. در صدق; 4. در صبر; 5. در رزق; 6. در قناعت; 7. در فال نیك; 8. در مهابت; 9. در نصیحت عامّ; 10. در نصیحت خاصّ; 11. پادشاه; 12. در صفت دولت; 13. در التجا باصحاب دولت; 14. در عدل واحسان; 15. در کرم وسخا; 16. در تواضع وخلق; 17. در آداب سخن; 18. در رای وتدبیر; 19. در; 20. در اظهار اخلاق; 21. در طاعت وریاضت; 22. درمکافات; 23. درمنع تحقیر دشمن; 24. نگاهداشتن راز; 25. در شناختن حدود; 26. در; 27. در پیری و ضعف; 28. درمنع عیب; 29. تسکین غم وامید راحت; 30. در تضرّع; 31. درمنع خنده; 32. در مذمّت بسیار خوردن; 33. در ترك دنیا; 34. در شکایت روزگار; 35. در امثال و داستان; (probably مرائی) در مرائی.

Beginning of the preface in prose: الحمد لله ربّ العالمین والصلوة علی محمّد وآله اجمعین امّا بعد بر اصحاب دولت وارباب مکنت واجب و لازمست الخ.

This redaction of the extracts evidently agrees with the second Berlin redaction, see W. Pertsch, Berlin Cat., p. 767; No. 599 in the Bodleian Cat.; and Rieu ii. p. 575^b. The division, given above, is that quoted in the preface; in the text itself there is inserted after chapter 11, as 12th, a new one, viz. در خدمت (see the same modification in the third Berlin redaction), and, on the other hand, chapter 31 is left out entirely. Copies of the larger redaction in thirty-seven chapters are described in W. Pertsch, Berlin Cat., p. 766; Bodleian Cat., Nos. 597 and 598; and Rieu ii. p. 575^a. Copied A.H. 982 (A.D. 1574, 1575), by Mu'izz-aldîn Muḥammad alḥusainî. On the fly-leaf a short account of Nizâmî's Khamsah in French.

No. 1129, ff. 47, 2 coll., each ll. 11; Nasta'lîḳ; illuminated throughout in a splendid manner; well-ornamented frontispiece; a picture on fol. 29^a; size, 9¼ in. by 6 in.

Four mathnawîs by Nizâmî.

This copy contains:

1. The first part of the Iskandarnâma, on fol. 1^b; the date of completion, A.H. 597, on fol. 118^a, l. 7. 2. Haft Paikar, on fol. 119^b; the date of completion, A.H. 593, 14th of Ramaḍân, on fol. 208^b, ll. 11 and 12. 3. Makhzan-alasrâr, on fol. 209^b; the wrong date, A.H. 559, 24th of Rabî'-alawwal, on fol. 248^b, ll. 10–12 in the margin-column. 4. Khusrau u Shirîn, on fol. 249^b;

the date of completion, A.H. 576, on fol. 356a, l. 7 in the margin-column. Dated A.H. 1024 (A.D. 1615), see ff. 118a, 208b, and 248b. Bibliotheca Leydeniana.

No. 2631, ff. 360, 2 centre-coll., each ll. 15, and a third on the margin, ll. 28; small, but clear Nasta'lîḳ; splendid illuminated frontispieces on ff. 1b, 119b, 209b, and 249b; the first two pages of each mathnawî neatly embellished with borders in gold and other colours; excellent eastern binding with flowers on gold ground; size, 8¾ in. by 4¾ in.

984

Another set of four mathnawîs by Nizâmî.

This excellent, but undated copy contains:

1. Makhzan-alasrâr, on fol. 1b. 2. Khusrau u Shîrîn, on fol. 41b. 3. Lailâ u Majnûn, on fol. 145b, beginning (differently from the usual copies): ای نام تو مؤنس روانم ـ جز نام تو نیست بر زبانم ـ ای نام تو بهترین الخ. 4. Haft Paikar, on fol. 222b.

No. 1168, ff. 307, 4 coll., each ll. 15; beautiful Nasta'lîḳ; an illuminated frontispiece at the beginning of each mathnawî; miniature paintings on ff. 20a, 21b, 24a, 32a, 36b, 39b, 52a, 57a, 59b, 64b, 68a, 70a, 71a, 77b, 80b, 88a, 95b, 96b, 101a, 107b, 111a, 113a, 127a, 159b, 170b, 199a, 209a, 237a, 238a, 244b, 273b, 278a, 285b, and 291b; size, 9¾ in. by 6¼ in.

Three mathnawîs by Nizâmî.

This copy contains:

1. Makhzan-alasrâr, on fol. 1b. 2. The first part of the Iskandarnâma (here simply styled سکندرنامه), on fol. 33b. 3. The second part of the Iskandarnâma (here styled شرفنامه), on fol. 125b.

Dated the first of Ṣafar, A.H. 955 (A.D. 1548, March 12), by الداعی کتاب الله بن کیومرث. An entry from A.H. 1020 (A.D. 1611, 1612) on the last page beneath the colophon.

No. 2079, ff. 175, 4 coll., each ll. 18; small but distinct Nasta'lîḳ; an illuminated frontispiece at the beginning of each mathnawî; collated throughout; two very poor pictures on ff. 52a and 66b; size, 8¾ in. by 6¾ in.

986

Another set of three mathnawîs by Nizâmî.

This copy contains:

1. Makhzan-alasrâr, on fol. 1b. 2. Lailâ u Majnûn, on fol. 30b. 3. Khusrau u Shîrîn, on fol. 80b; this last mathnawî is by mistake headed کتاب خسرو و شیرین امیر خسرو, but that it is Nizâmî's, and not Amîr Khusrau's poem of the same name, we learn from the beginning:

خداوندا دری (read در) توفیق بگشای
نظامی را رہ توفیق بنمای

Copied A.H. 976, the first mathnawî in the month Dhû-alḥijjah (A.D. 1569, May–June), the second in the month Dhû-alḳa'dah (A.D. 1569, April–May), the third in the month Rabî'-althânî (A.D. 1568, September–October), by Muḥammad bin 'Alâ-aldîn.

No. 174, ff. 149, 4 coll., each ll. 21; small, but distinct Nasta'lîḳ; most headings left blank; an illuminated frontispiece at the beginning of each mathnawî; the first two pages most splendidly adorned; size, 11¾ in. by 7 in.

987

A third set of three mathnawîs by Nizâmî.

This copy contains:

1. Makhzan-alasrâr, on fol. 1b. 2. Haft Paikar, on fol. 81b. 3. Khusrau u Shîrîn, on fol. 255b. This copy is styled جلد اوّل کلّیّات نظامی.

Dated A.H. 1200, the first mathnawî the 19th of Rabî'-alawwal (A.D. 1786, January 20), the second in Rabî'-althânî (A.D. 1786, February), the third the 25th of Jumâdâ-alawwal (A.D. 1786, March 26), by Muḥammad Muḥsin-aldîn Munshî; it belonged formerly to Mr. Ch. Boddam (Calcutta, April 22, 1785). Ff. 79, 80, and 250–254 are left blank.

No. 2994, ff. 470, 2 coll., each ll. 15; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 10 in. by 6½ in.

An incomplete copy of two mathnawîs by Nizâmî.

1. Lailâ u Majnûn, on fol. 1b. 2. Khusrau u Shîrîn, on fol. 55b. The first mathnawî is dated A.H. 92 (=1092, A.D. 1681), the second is incomplete at the end; its last bait corresponds to No. 141 (973 in this Cat.), fol. 119b, l. 12.

No. 768, ff. 125, 4 coll., each ll. 21; small, but clear and distinct Nasta'lîḳ; an illuminated frontispiece at the beginning of either mathnawî; the original leaves are put into a modern margin; size, 10¾ in. by 6½ in.

Makhzan-alasrâr.

Another extremely old and valuable copy of Nizâmî's مخزن الاسرار, written by Faḍl-allâh bin Muḥammad bin 'Umar bin 'Uthmân bin Muḥammad bin Aḥmad bin-alḥusain bin Hârûn alṣûfî (see Nos. 916 and 929 above), and finished in the month Rabî'-alâkhar, A.H. 637 (A.D. 1239, November); it is unfortunately injured and effaced in many places. Beginning:

بسم الله الرّحمٰن الرّحیم ـ هست کلیذ درگنج حکیم

This old copy contains twenty-one maḳâlas (instead of the usual twenty), with the following headings: I, on fol. 8a, در صفت آدم و تعلیمِ در نزل دنیی (this maḳâlah is in the usual copies simply styled خلوت سیوم, see No. 141 (973 in this Cat.), fol. 11b, l. 3 ab infra, or خلوت دویم, see No. 387 (976 in this Cat.), fol. 13a, and No. 48 (996 below in this Cat.), fol. 23b); II, on fol. 9b, در محافظت عدل (this is the first maḳâlah in the usual copies, but with the heading of the previous maḳâlah, and so on in all the following maḳâlas); III, on fol. 10a, در حوادث عالم و انقلابش; IV, on fol. 11a, در عجز آدمی; V, on fol. 12a, در حسن رعایت پادشاهان; VI, on fol. 12b, در اعتبار موجودات و اختلاف او; VII, on fol. 13a, در مرتبت آدمی بر جملهٔ حیوان; VIII, on fol. 14a, در حیّز آفرینش و بزرگواریِ عقل; IX, on fol. 14b, در نموّ ..... و نفس در معونات دنیاوی; X, on fol. 15a, در مشقّت نار آخر الزمان و علامات آن; XI, on fol. 16a, در وداع این منزل و پرهیزگاری ازو مقام; XII, on fol. 16b, در شکایت عالم; XIII, on fol. 17a, در; XIV, on fol.

در حذف ; XV, on fol. 18b, در شرط بیداری از غفلة ۱۸a
در تدبیر چابك روی ; XVI, on fol. 19b, آدمی و تفصیل او
در خلوت و تجرید ; XVII, on fol. 20a, در استقبال آخرت ; XVIII, on fol. 20b, در بیوفائی روزگار ; XIX, on fol. 21b, در شکایت نامنصفان ; XX, on fol. 22a, در ترتیب نظم کتاب ; XXI (not numbered in the text), on fol. 23a,
(this is the 20th maḳâlah in the usual copies); Khâtimah, on fol. 24a.

On fol. 1a the concluding verses of another mathnawí, written by the same copyist in the same year A.H. 637. Strange to say, this oldest copy of the Makhzan-alasrâr contains no date of composition.

No. 1444, ff. 1–24, 4 coll., each ll. 25: good old Nashkí; size, 9¼ in. by 6¼ in.

990

The same.

This copy is dated middle of Dhû-alḥijjah, A.H. 976 (A.D. 1569, beginning of June), by Muḥammad Ṭâhir of Bukhârá; it contains the usual twenty maḳâlas. In the last verse but one of this copy there appears as date of composition A.H. 552.

No. 1368, margin-col., ff. 1–104, ll. 22; Nasta'líḳ.

991

The same.

Dated A.H. 989 (A.D. 1581), by Maḥmûd bin Aḥmad Záhidí; twenty maḳâlas; interlinear glosses and various readings occasionally.

No. 418, ff. 1–97, 2 coll., each ll. 12; Nasta'líḳ; illuminated frontispiece; size, 9½ in. by 5¼ in.

992

The same.

This copy, which is dated A.H. 1017 (A.D. 1608, 1609), by Ghulám Muḥammad Fâḍil ibn Fâḍil Badakhshí, abounds in marginal and interlinear glosses and explanations to such an extent that the text in many places becomes almost unreadable on account of the bewildering amount of notes. It contains the usual twenty maḳâlas, and begins (with a transposition of the hemistichs in the initial bait):

هست کلید در گنج حکیم ــ بسم الله الخ

College of Fort William, 1825.

No. 2265, ff. 77, 2 coll., each ll. 15; Nasta'líḳ; size, 8¼ in. by 5¼ in.

993

The same.

Beginning as in the preceding copy: هست کلید الخ.

Dated the 5th of Rabí'-alawwal, A.H. 1079 (A.D. 1668, August 13), by Muḥammad Ḳâsim, son of Ḥâtimbeg, at Shâhjahânâbad; twenty maḳâlas.

No. 1976, ff. 1–57b, 2 coll., each ll. 13; Nasta'líḳ; size, 8¾ in. by 5 in.

994

The same.

Beginning as in the two preceding copies: هست کلید الخ.

This copy, which is dated the 13th of Sha'bân, A.H. 1134 (A.D. 1722, May 29), and excels in rich marginal and interlinear glosses and annotations, some of which are of considerable length and value, contains, like No. 1444 (989 in this Cat.), twenty-one maḳâlas, that is to say, the usual twenty and an additional one, beginning in the last maḳâlah, on fol. 77b (corresponding to No. 1444, fol. 23b, l. 13), and reckoned as the twenty-first. The wrong date of A.H. 559, 24th of Rabí'-alawwal, appears here on fol. 78b, ll. 6 and 7.

No. 1193, ff. 1–79, 2 coll., each ll. 15; clear and distinct Nasta'líḳ; size, 8¾ in. by 4¾ in.

995

The same.

Beginning as in the three preceding copies: هست کلید الخ.

Many marginal and interlinear glosses.

Dated the 18th of Ṣafar, A.H. 1150 (19th year of Muḥammadsháh's reign,=A.D. 1737, June 17), by Ghafúrbeg. Bibliotheca Leydeniana.

No. 2420, ff. 368–445, 2 coll., each ll. 15; Nasta'líḳ; size, 10¾ in. by 5¾ in.

A defective copy of the same.

This copy lacks the introduction, it begins at once with the مناجات thus:

ای هر (read همه) هستی زتو پیدا شده
خاك ضعیف از تو توانا شده

Of the twenty maḳâlas only eighteen are found in this copy; in the midst of the eighteenth (according to No. 1444, 989 in this Cat., the nineteenth) it breaks off; the last bait corresponds to fol. 21b, l. 7 ab infra in No. 1444. There is besides a lacuna between ff. 46 and 47, corresponding to No. 1444, fol. 15a, l. 15–fol. 15b, l. 4 (in consequence of which the end of the eighth, respectively ninth, maḳâlah and the beginning of the ninth, respectively tenth, are missing). Some pages are filled with marginal and interlinear glosses.

No. 45, ff. 68, 2 coll., each ll. 15; Nasta'líḳ; size, 8 in. by 5¼ in.

Another still more defective copy of the same.

This copy is very defective and besides in extreme confusion; the proper order of the leaves is: ff. 38–93 (lacuna), 1–30 (lacuna), 37, 31–36. The first bait on fol. 38a corresponds to No. 1444 (989 in this Cat.), fol. 4a, l. 12, the last bait on fol. 36b to fol. 23b, l. 9 in the same copy. The lacuna after fol. 93 comprises ff. 13b, l. 17–14a, l. 12 in No. 1444, that after fol. 30, ff. 19b, l. 8–22a, l. 4 ab infra in the same copy.

Maḳâlah I (according to the usual copies خلوت دوم or سیم, see No. 989 above), on fol. 63b; II (I in the usual copies), on fol. 69a; III (respectively II), on fol. 74a; IV (resp. III), on fol. 79b; V (resp. IV), on fol. 83b; VI (resp. V), on fol. 86b; VII (resp. VI), on fol. 90b; VIII (resp. VII), on fol. 2b; IX (resp. VIII), on fol. 5a; X (resp. IX), on fol. 7b; XI (resp. X), on fol. 11b; XII (resp. XI), on fol. 15b; XIII (resp. XII), on fol. 19a; XIV (resp. XIII), on fol. 23a; XV (resp. XIV), on fol. 27a; XXI (resp. XX), on fol. 34a.

Entirely wanting, besides portions of the introduction, are XVI–XIX (XV–XVIII resp.), and portions of VII (resp. VI), XV and XX (XIV and XIX) together with the conclusion.

Interlinear and marginal glosses throughout the greater part of the copy. Worm-eaten and severely injured in many places.

No. 953, ff. 93, 2 coll., each ll. 9; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 7¼ in. by 4¼ in.

Sharḥ-i-Makhzan-alasrâr (شرح مخزن الاسرار).

A detailed commentary on the مخزن الاسرار, compiled by Muḥammad bin Ḳiwâm bin Rustam bin Aḥmad bin Maḥmûd albalkhi, commonly called Bakra'î (بكرئى, so here on fol. 1a, last line but two, and A. Sprenger, Catal., p. 521), or according to Rieu ii. p. 573b, Karkhî, A.H. 1091 (A.D. 1680), according to the chronogram quoted in A. Sprenger, loc. cit. But Rieu's copy, which bears a note of purchase from A.H. 1089 (A.D. 1678), proves that somewhat older redactions of this commentary must have been in existence.

Beginning (rather different from that in Sprenger and Rieu): بسم الله الرحمٰن الرحيم بمتابعت پس روان او بر بساط فضل انبساط گستاخی الخ.

This copy is defective at the end, and breaks off in the middle of the داستان بقّال و روباه, which begins on fol. 204a.

No. 1962, ff. 210, ll. 15; clear Nasta'lîḳ; a little worm-eaten; size, 8¾ in. by 4¾ in.

999

Khusrau u Shirîn.

Another copy of Niżâmî's خسرو و شيرين, without a date.

Beginning: خداوندا در توفيق بگشای الخ.

No. 789, ff. 73, 4 coll., each ll. 21; small, but distinct Nasta'lîḳ; illuminated frontispiece; pictures on ff. 15b, 23b, 27a, 30b, 41a, 44b, and 67a; size, 9¼ in. by 6 in.

Lailâ u Majnûn.

Another excellent copy of Niżâmî's ليلى و مجنون, beautifully written and ornamented, dated Rabî'-alawwal, A.H. 965 (A.D. 1557, December, to 1558, January), by Muḥammad Bâḳir ibn Mullâ Mîr 'Alî.

Beginning: ای نام تو بهترين سر آغاز الخ.

A few lines on ff. 36b and 37a a little effaced.

No. 381, ff. 50, 4 coll., each ll. 20; Nasta'lîḳ; illuminated frontispiece; illuminated headings throughout; the first ten pages neatly embellished; five very fine pictures, superior to the usual illustrations, on ff. 7a, 23a, 34b, 42a, and 48a; size, 11 in. by 6¾ in.

1001

The same.

This copy was finished the 19th of Rajab, in the 49th year of — (probably 'Âlamgîr's reign, = A.H. 1117, A.D. 1705, November 6), by 'Abd-alraḥîm for Ghulâm Ḥusain, known as Walî Muḥammad. On several pages a few hemistichs and single words are omitted.

No. 1057, ff. 159, 2 coll., each ll. 13; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 8½ in. by 4¾ in.

The same.

Another excellent, but undated, copy of Lailâ and Majnûn.

No. 45, ff. 56, 4 coll., each ll. 20; clear and distinct Nasta'lîḳ; illuminated frontispiece; splendidly adorned headings throughout; size, 11¾ in. by 7¼ in.

1003

The same.

Another, very modern, copy of Lailâ and Majnûn, dated the 26th of Dhû-alḥijjah, A.H. 1222 (A.D. 1808, February 24), by Munshî Mihr Khadîb. The poem concludes on fol. 162a, and is followed by some baits from the pen of the transcriber himself, as it seems. On ff. 163–166 baits of another mathnawî, not belonging to Lailâ and Majnûn, are written, beginning:

گفتم كه چو پيريم كند پست
فرزند جوان بگيردم دست

No. 1504, ff. 166, 2 coll., each ll. 15; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 12¾ in. by 7¼ in.

1004

Haft Paikar.

Another copy of Niżâmî's هفت پيكر, dated A.H. 998 (A.D. 1590), but worm-eaten and injured in many places (some carefully mended). All the headings are left blank.

Beginning: ای جهان ديده بود خويش از تو الخ.

Bibliotheca Leydeniana. This copy belonged formerly to Mr. Robert Wutherston.

No. 2747, ff. 73, 4 coll., each ll. 17; small, but distinct Nasta'lîḳ; size, 9¼ in. by 5¾ in.

1005

The same.

Dated A.H. 1195 (A.D. 1781).

No. 610, ff. 61, 4 coll., each ll. 20–21; small, but clear Nasta'lîḳ; size, 9¼ in. by 6 in.

1006

The same.

Good modern copy, not dated; it was written by Muḥammad 'Alî of Iṣfahân, with the takhalluṣ Fanâ.

No. 130, ff. 166, 2 coll., each ll. 15; large and distinct Nasta'lîḳ; size, 12¼ in. by 7¼ in.

The first part of the Iskandarnâma.

Another copy of the first part of Niżâmî's اسكندرنامه, distinctly styled in the concluding chapter, on fol. 222b, شرفنامه. Collated and annotated throughout.

Beginning: خدایا جهان پادشائی تراست الخ.

Dated the 6th of Ramaḍân, A. H. 1017 (A. D. 1608, December 14). A former owner of this copy was Jaswant Râo. Bibliotheca Leydeniana.

No. 2708, ff. 223, 2 coll., each ll. 15; large and distinct Nasta'lîḳ; illuminated frontispiece; the first two pages richly adorned; size, 10¾ in. by 6¾ in.

1008

The same.

An older, but slightly defective, copy of the same, in which the first nine baits of the poem are wanting; it opens with the tenth bait: جواهر تو بخشی دل سنگرا الخ.

The episode of Alexander's march to the fountain of life (چشمهٔ حیات), having been omitted in the text, is added by another hand in bad Shikasta on the margin. The poem is here styled سکندرنامهٔ برّی. Occasionally various readings on the margin. Dated the 7th of Rabî'-alâkhar, A. H. 994 (A. D. 1586, March 28), by Ṣâliḥ Muḥammad bin Shâh Muḥammad.

No. 3430, olim 13. J. 1, ff. 217, 2 coll., each ll. 15; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 8 in. by 4¾ in.

The same.

Dated the 11th of Jumâdâ-althânî, A. H. 1053 (A. D. 1643, August 27). The proper order of ff. 133–223 is: 133–138, 145, 150, 141–143, 139, 144, 146–149, 151, 140, 152–159, 168–175, 160–167, 176–183, 192–199, 184–191, 200–206, 208, 207, 209, 210, 212, 211, 213–223.

No. 13, ff. 223, 2 coll., each ll. 17; large and clear Nasta'lîḳ; a few ornaments on the first two pages; smaller and larger pictures, very roughly drawn, on ff. 27a, 28b, 30b, 31b, 33b, 35b, 36a, 39b, 40b, 46a, 46b, 49b, 53b, 54a, 73b, 74a, 77a, 77b, 78b, 85b, 88b, 94a, 94b, 95a, 95b, 96a, 96b, 97a, 97b, 101a, 101b, 102b, 103a, 111a, 115b, 122a, 124b, 142b, 143a, 151b, 161a, 166a, 168b, 175a, 175b, 182a, 182b, 190b, 191a, 201a, 204a, 213b, 216b, and 217a; size, 13¾ in. by 8¼ in.

The same.

This copy was written in the reign of Muḥammadshâh (A. H. 1131–1161=A. D. 1719–1748). On the first twenty-seven leaves numerous interlinear and marginal glosses and notes.

No. 3424, olim 7. J. 22, ff. 215, ll. 17 (on ff. 1–112), ll. 15 (on ff. 113–215); Nasta'lîḳ, by different hands; size, 8⅞ in. by 5¼ in.

1011

The same.

Dated the 27th of Muḥarram, A. H. 1187 (A. D. 1773, April 20), by Ramaḍânî Kâtib, who wrote this copy for Mr. Richard Johnson.

No. 40, ff. 84, 4 coll., each ll. 21; clear and distinct Nasta'lîḳ; illuminated frontispiece; the first two pages richly embellished; size, 11¾ in. by 6⅞ in.

1012

The same.

Not dated. As title appears سکندرنامهٔ برّی. Worm-eaten throughout to such an extent that many leaves are almost crumbling to pieces. Occasionally marginal and interlinear glosses.

No. 2776, ff. 231, 2 coll., each ll. 15; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 8¾ in. by 6¼ in.

1013

The same.

A modern copy of the same, not dated.

No. 3468, olim 7. J. 23, ff. 317, 2 coll., each ll. 11; Nasta'lîḳ, ff. 209–254 supplied by another hand; small illuminated frontispiece; size, 8¾ in. by 6 in.

1014

The same.

Another modern copy without a date. The date of composition, A. H. 597, appears on fol. 320a, l. 1. Bibliotheca Leydeniana.

No. 2625, ff. 320, 2 coll., each ll. 11; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 8¾ in. by 5¼ in.

1015

The same.

A third modern copy without a date. Marginal glosses on some pages.

No. 325, ff. 234, 2 coll., each ll. 15; large and distinct Nasta'lîḳ; size, 12¾ in. by 7¼ in.

A defective copy of the same.

This copy, defective at the beginning, opens with the following bait:

مجرّد روی را بجائی رساند
که از بود او هیچ با وی نماند corresponding to fol. 296b, l. 4 ab infra in No. 387 (976 in this Cat.). As date is only given the 15th (without the name of the month) of the 13th year (of perhaps 'Âlamgîr's reign, =A. H. 1081, A. D. 1670, 1671).

No. 3477, olim 13. J. 2, ff. 223, 2 coll., each ll. 15; very unequal Nasta'lîḳ; size, 10 in. by 5¾ in.

Another still more defective copy of the same.

The proper order of ff. 151–162 is: 151, 162, 152–157, lacuna, comprising fol. 366b, last line, to fol. 382b, l. 11, in No. 387 (976 in this Cat.), 158–161. The last bait on fol. 161b, with which this copy breaks off, corresponds to fol. 384b, l. 7, in No. 387. The titles given here to this first part of the Iskandarnâma are اقبالنامهٔ سکندری and سکندرنامهٔ برّی.

No. 264, ff. 162, 2 coll., each ll. 15–16, the first four leaves supplied by a more modern hand; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 7¾ in. by 4 in.

Sharḥ-i-Sikandarnâma (شرح سکندرنامه).

An anonymous Persian commentary on the first part of Nizâmi's Iskandarnâma, different not only from that of the Calcutta edition, but also from all those described in Rieu ii. pp. 820[b] and 859[a]; W. Pertsch, Berlin Cat., pp. 762–765, and A. Sprenger, Catal., pp. 522 and 523.

It begins, without preface, at once with the initial bait of the poem:

خدایا جهان پادشائی تراست
زما خدمت آید خدائی تراست
لما خلقت الجنّ و الانس الّا لیعبدون' بر پادشاهان مملکت اشعار و جهانداران ولایت افکار مبرهن الخ.

No date.

No. 1890, ff. 104, ll. 17; distinct Nasta'lîḳ; size, 10¾ in. by 6 in.

1019

An incomplete copy of the same.

After the initial bait the commentary begins at once with these words: بر پادشاهان مملکت اشعار و جهانداران الخ.

It breaks off with the words: التفات نکرد که .... بگوشه, corresponding to fol. 89[a], l. 3 ab infra in the preceding copy.

No. 699, ff. 150, ll. 15; careless Nasta'lîḳ; size, 8½ in. by 4½ in.

Sharḥ-i-abyât-i-Iskandarnâma (شرح ابیات اسکندرنامه).

Another anonymous commentary on the difficult verses of the first part of the Iskandarnâma, likewise without any preface. The first words after the initial bait of the poem are: الف ندای خدایا بدو معنی است اوّل آنکه ای خدای جهان الخ.

No date. In the first half of the copy many marginal additions, glosses, etc.

No. 1589, ff. 99, ll. 17; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 9¼ in. by 4½ in.

Farhang-i-Sikandarnâma-i-barrî (فرهنگ سکندرنامهٔ برّی).

A special glossary to the first part of the Iskandarnâma, with Persian interlinear explanation. It consists of two series of words, both arranged alphabetically according to the first letter; the first series begins on fol. 1[b] with اردی بهشت (نام بهار ومدّت ماندن آفتاب), the second, on fol. 23[a], with الله (خدای); see a similar but shorter glossary in the Bodleian Cat., No. 1982 (کلید سکندرنامه). It ends on fol. 29[b], and is followed on ff. 30[a]–32 by a short glossary of the Pahlawi words which occur in Firdausi's Shâhnâma (بدانکه الفاظی که استاد الانام مولانا ابو القاسم متخلّص بفردوسی طوسی رحمة الله علیه در شاهنامه بزبان پهلوی آورده اند جمله اینست), likewise in alphabetical order. Many of these so-called Pahlawi words are simply Arabic ones, see, for instance, the first three: ادریس (نام پیغمبر), الیاس و خضر (معروف پیغمبران) انبیا), etc. A small portion of the first page is torn away.

No. 1893, ff. 32, ll. 16–18; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 10¾ in. by 6 in.

The second part of the Iskandarnâma.

Another copy of the second part of Nizâmi's اسکندرنامه, dated the 25th of Sha'bân, A. H. 1016 (A. D. 1607, December 15).

Beginning: خرد هرکجا گنجی آرد پدید الخ.

No. 397, ff. 58, 2 centre-coll., each ll. 17, and a third on the margin, ll. 28; Nasta'lîḳ; a little worm-eaten and injured; size, 8½ in. by 4½ in.

1023

The same.

Dated the 16th of Muḥarram, A. H. 1117 (A. D. 1705, May 10), by Sayyid Wali-allâh. It is styled in the colophon: شرفنامهٔ اسکندری.

No. 1847, ff. 123, 2 coll., each ll. 15; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 8 in. by 5¾ in.

1024

The same.

Dated the 4th of Ṣafar, A. H. 1223 (A. D. 1808, April 1), by Muḥammad 'Ali of Iṣfahân.

No. 155, ff. 124, 2 coll., each ll. 15; large and distinct Nasta'lîḳ; size, 12½ in. by 7¾ in.

1025

The same.

No date. Many various readings, both marginal and interlinear. College of Fort William, 1825.

No. 2262, ff. 134–240, 2 coll., each ll. 15–21; irregular Naskhi, size, 8½ in. by 4¾ in.

1026

The same.

This copy is likewise not dated. It is spoiled by water in many places; interlinear and marginal notes and various readings. The transcriber's name is Khâkinishinkhân ibn Ni'matkhân.

No. 3469, olim 7. J. 24, ff. 145, 2 coll., each ll. 13; very careless Nasta'lîḳ, sometimes quite like Shikasta; size, 7½ in. by 5¼ in.

A defective copy of the same.

This copy, which is styled in the colophon both سکندرنامهٔ بحری and شرفنامه, was finished the 15th of Ṣafar, A. H. 1139 (eighth year of Muḥammadshâh's reign, = A. D. 1726, Oct. 12), at Aḥmadâbâd. Ff. 109[b] and 110, as well as a large portion of ff. 109[a] and 111[a], are left blank, and there is a lacuna, corresponding to fol. 448[b], l. 1–fol. 449[b], l. 5, in No. 387 (976 in this Cat.).

No. 399, ff. 125, 2 coll., each ll. 15; distinct Nasta'lîḳ; size, 9½ in. by 4¾ in.

Poets who died between A.H. 600 and 700.

Diwân-i-Ḳamar (دیوان قمر).

Lyrical poems by Nizâm-aldîn Maḥmûd Ḳamar of Iṣfahân, who was a panegyrist of the Âl-i-Khujandî, the governors and ḳâḍîs of Iṣfahân. Of these famous Âl-i-Khujandî the Haft Iḳlîm, Nos. 865 and 866 (see col. 441 above in this Cat.), mentions the two most prominent men, viz. Ṣadr-aldîn Khujandî, who was contemporary with Ẓahîr-aldîn Fâryâbî (see No. 971 above), and his son Jamâl-aldîn Khujandî; the poet must therefore have flourished towards the end of the sixth and the beginning of the seventh century of the Hijrah. The collection contains ḳaṣîdas, ḳiṭ'as, and rubâ'îs, beginning, on fol. 76b:

ای تماشاگاه جانت عالم حسن و خیال
کی توانی خواند توحید خدای ذو الجلال

This diwân forms the fourth part of the old collection of six Persian diwâns (see Nos. 903, 911, and 913 above), written A.H. 713 or 714 (A.D. 1313, 1314), by 'Abd-almu'min al'alawî alkâshî.

No. 132, ff. 76–87, 6 coll., each ll. 40; striking old Naskhî; small illuminated frontispiece on fol. 76b, and a vignette on fol. 76a; funny miniature paintings throughout; size, 15¾ in. by 11 in.

Diwân-i-Athîr Akhsîkatî (دیوان اثیر اخسیکتی).

Lyrical poems by Athîr-aldîn, a native of Akhsîkat or, as the name is written here distinctly, Akhsîkath (اخسیکث), the largest town of Farghâna after Andijân, see Haft Iḳlîm, No. 1528 (col. 495 above); Butkhâna, No. 14 in Bodleian Cat., col. 198; Âtashkada, No. 712, ib., col. 268; Khulâṣat-alafkâr, No. 25, ib., col. 303; Makhzan-algharâ'ib, No. 10, ib., col. 317, etc. He came from Akhsîkat or Akhsîkath (also spelt Akhsîtak or Âkhsîtak) to Khurâsân, and later on to the Persian 'Irâḳ, where he lived as panegyrist of Sulṭân Arslân bin Ṭughrul (A.H. 556–571 = A.D. 1161–1176); he afterwards retired to Khalkâl in Âdharbaijân and died A.H. 608 (A.D. 1211, 1212); comp. Bodleian Cat., No. 620; Rieu ii. p. 563; A. Sprenger, Catal., p. 345; W. Pertsch, Berlin Cat., p. 26, No. 1, and p. 29, No. 13.

The collection contains ḳaṣîdas mixed with ḳiṭ'as and some rubâ'îs at the end.

Beginning, on fol. 19b:

جهانرا هم جهانبانیست پیذابین پنهان دان
که زیر گنبد نیلی پدید آورد چار ارکان

This diwân forms the second part of the old collection of six Persian diwâns (see Nos. 903, 911, 913, and 1028 above), written A.H. 713 and 714 (A.D. 1313, 1314), by 'Abd-almu'min al'alawî alkâshî.

No. 132, ff. 19–47, 6 coll., each ll. 40; striking old Naskhî; small illuminated frontispiece on fol. 19b, and a vignette on fol. 19a; miniature paintings throughout; size, 15¾ in. by 11 in.

Diwân-i-Shams Ṭabasî (دیوان شمس طبسی).

Lyrical poems, chiefly ḳaṣîdas, by the Ḳâḍî Shams-aldîn Maḥmûd (according to the Haft Iḳlîm, No. 153, col. 389 in this Cat., Muḥammad bin 'Abd-alkarîm) of Ṭabas (i.e. Ṭabas-i-Kilak in Khurâsân, see Haft Iḳlîm, loc. cit., and W. Pertsch, Berlin Cat., in the geographical index, p. 1247) or Ṭabs (as the name is spelt in A. Sprenger, Catal., p. 17, No. 43; see also Bodleian Cat., No. 621, and Butkhâna, No. 97, ib., col. 202). According to the Âtashkada, No. 150 (col. 267 in the Bodleian Cat.), he was a pupil of Ḳâḍî Manṣûr of Farghâna, and lived and died in Harât. According to the short biographical notice, prefixed to this diwân, he came to Bukhârâ in the time of Raḍî-aldîn of Nîshâpûr (died A.H. 598 = A.D. 1202, see Haft Iḳlîm, No. 746, col. 432 in this Cat., and A. Sprenger, Catal., p. 16, No. 26), and was a younger contemporary of Khâḳânî (see Nos. 950–970 in this Cat.). His death is fixed in A.H. 626 (A.D. 1228, 1229).

Beginning, on fol. 88b:

هر دل که سوی[1] عرصهٔ تحقیق راه یافت
در سایهٔ سرادق عزّت پناه یافت

This diwân forms the fifth part of the old collection of six Persian diwâns (see Nos. 903, 911, 913, 1028, and 1029 above), and is dated Dhû-alḳa'dah, A.H. 713 (A.D. 1314, Feb.–March), by 'Abd-almu'min al'alawî alkâshî.

No. 132, ff. 88–96, 6 coll., each ll. 40; striking old Naskhî; small illuminated frontispiece on fol. 88b, and a vignette on fol. 88a; miniature paintings throughout; size, 15¾ in. by 11 in.

Farîd-aldîn 'Aṭṭâr (Nos. 1031–1054).

Kulliyyât-i-Farîd-aldîn 'Aṭṭâr (کلّیّات فرید الدین عطّار).

The fullest collection extant in the India Office Library of poetical works by the great Ṣûfic poet Abû Ḥâmid (according to the Âtashkada, No. 279, Bodleian Cat., col. 272, and the Khulâṣat-alkalâm, No. 50, ib., col. 299, Abû Ṭâlib) Muḥammad bin Abîbakr Ibrâhîm Farîd-aldîn 'Aṭṭâr, who was born in Shâdiyâkh, near Nîshâpûr, A.H. 513 (A.D. 1119), and put to death during the invasion of the Moghuls, A.H. 627 (A.D. 1230), 114 lunar years old. Wrong dates of his death are given in the Butkhâna, No. 21 (Bodleian Cat., col. 199), viz. A.H. 619 or even 607, and in the Khulâṣat-alafkâr, No. 174 (Bodleian Cat., col. 308), viz. A.H. 622 (with the additional statement that he was then 109 years old); comp. on the poet's life and his complete works, Bodleian Cat., Nos. 622–636; Rieu i. p. 344, and ii. pp. 576–580; Ouseley, Biogr. Notices, p. 236; A. Sprenger, Catal., pp. 346–358; Ethé, Die mystische, didactische und lyrische Poesie etc. der Perser, Hamburg, 1888, pp. 22–26, etc.; see also Haft Iḳlîm, No. 733 (col. 430 in this Cat.), and Makhzan-algharâ'ib, No. 1521 (Bodleian

[1] The two words کی سوی, which were destroyed by worms in the present copy, have been supplied from the Bodleian copy, Elliott 86.

Contents:

1. Ushturnâma (اشترنامه), or the book of the camel, a mathnawi on mystic lore (see Bodleian Cat., No. 622, 15, etc.; Rieu ii. pp. 578b and 579a; Cat. Codd. Or. Lugd. Bat. ii. p. 114; A. Sprenger, Catal., p. 352; and W. Pertsch, Berlin Cat., p. 717), on fol. 1b, beginning:

ابتدا بر نام حیّ لا یزال ــ صانع اشیا و ابداع جلال

2. Khusrau u Gul (خسرو و گل), an abridgment of 'Aṭṭâr's خسرو نامه, or love-adventures of Gul and Hurmuz (also styled گل و هرمز, see Bodleian Cat., No. 625, 3, and Haft Iḳlim, No. 733, col. 431, ll. 14–18 in this Cat., where the title گل و هرمز seems rather applied to the present abridgment; comp., on the خسرو و گل itself, A. Sprenger, loc. cit.; Bodleian Cat., No. 622, 6, etc.; and Rieu ii. p. 576b), on fol. 27b, beginning:

بنام آنکه گنج جسم وجان ساخت
طلسم گنج جان هر دو جهان ساخت

3. Bulbulnâma (بلبل نامه), or the book of the nightingale, describing the love of the nightingale to the rose (see Bodleian Cat., No. 622, 8, etc.; and A. Sprenger, Catal., p. 355), on fol. 100b, beginning:

قلم بر دار راز دل عیان کن
سر آغازش بنام غیبدان کن

4. Pandnâma (پندنامه), or the book of advice (see Bodleian Cat., Nos. 622, 10, etc., and 632; Rieu ii. pp. 579b sq., 790a, and 803b; W. Pertsch, Berlin Cat., pp. 72, 91, 107, 728, and 774 sq.; A. Sprenger, Catal., p. 355; G. Flügel i. p. 511 and iii. p. 415; Rosen, Persian MSS., p. 202, etc.), on fol. 105b, beginning:

حمد بیحد مر خدای پاکرا
آنکه ایمان داد مشتی خاکرا

Edited by Hindley, London, 1809; by de Sacy, with French translation and choice notes, Paris, 1819; German translation by G. H. F. Nesselmann. On the older Eastern editions of this work in Calcutta, Lahore, Bûlâḳ, etc., see Zenker, No. 574 sq.; ii. 486; it has been besides lithographed in Lucknow, A.H. 1264; in Constantinople (with extracts from the commentary of Isma'îl Ḥaḳḳî), A.H. 1267; newest editions, Lahore, 1887 and 1888, Bombay, 1887, and Cawnpore, 1888. Extracts in Gladwin's Persian Moonshee (new edition by W. Carmichael Smyth, London, 1840). Two Turkish translations, the latter with commentary, of the Pandnâma are described in Rieu, Turk. Cat., pp. 154a and b; G. Flügel iii. pp. 415 and 416, etc.; the one composed A.H. 964=A.D. 1557, and ascribed by Flügel to Amrî (who died A.H. 988=A.D. 1580), the other by Sham'î (who died about A.H. 1009 or 1010 =A.D. 1600–1602), entitled سعادت نامه. A third, in verse like the first, is noticed in Rieu ii. p. 580. A Latin translation by Salomon Negri, ib., loc. cit.

5. Manṭiḳ-aṭṭair (منطق الطیر), or the speeches of birds (see Bodleian Cat., Nos. 622, 13, etc., and 628–631; Rieu ii. pp. 576a, 578a, 816b, and 870b; W. Pertsch, Berlin Cat., pp. 73 and 777 sq.; A. Sprenger, Catal., p. 354; and G. Flügel i. pp. 509 and 511), on fol. 113b, beginning:

آفرین جان آفرین پاکرا
آنکه جان بخشید و ایمان خاکرا

Edited by Garcin de Tassy, Paris, 1857; translated into French, 1863; lithographed, Bombay, A.H. 1280, and Lucknow, A.H. 1288. According to No. 904 (1043 below in this Cat.), the poem was composed A.H. 583 (A.D. 1187). Two Hindûstânî translations of the Manṭiḳ-aṭṭair are preserved in Nos. 2375 and 2817 (the latter in Dakhnî verses) of the India Office Collection. A Turkish commentary on the same was composed by Sham'î (see the preceding Pandnâma).

6. Haft Wâdî (هفت وادی), or the seven valleys, i.e. the seven stages on the mystical road (see Bodleian Cat., No. 622, 9, etc.; and A. Sprenger, Catal., p. 357), on fol. 146b, beginning:

حمد پاك از جان پاك آن پاکرا
کو خلافت داد مشتی خاکرا

7. Bisarnâma (بیسرنامه), or the headless book, a short theosophical mathnawi (see Bodleian Cat., No. 622, 17, etc.; and A. Sprenger, Catal., p. 349), on fol. 152b, beginning:

من بغیر تو نبینم در جهان ــ قادرا پروردگارا جاودان

8. Kanz-alasrâr (کنز الاسرار), or the treasury of mysteries, otherwise styled Kanz-albaḥr (کنز البحر), see Bodleian Cat., No. 623, 20, and No. 624, 10, and containing a translation and interpretation of famous Ḳurân-verses, interspersed with stories, on fol. 155b, beginning:

سپاس و حمد بر خلّاق عالم ــ که از خاکی پدید آورد آدم

This mathnawi is identical with the 'Kent Kunz Mokhfiâ' mentioned in Stewart's Cat., since the first heading runs thus: قال رسول الله صلّى الله عليه و سلّم كُنْتُ كَنْزًا مَخْفِيًّا الخ. According to the last hemistich, که در ششصد نود نه شد تمام این, which appears with exactly the same wording in the Bodleian copies just mentioned, this poem would have been composed in A.H. 699; but since such a date is impossible, we suggest, either to read پنجصد for ششصد (which would give A.H. 599=A.D. 1202, 1203), or better still, to substitute نوازده for نود نه (i.e. A.H. 619=A.D. 1222).

9. Diwân (دیوان), or lyrical poems, consisting of ḳaṣîdas, ḳiṭ'as, ghazals, and rubâ'îs, without alphabetical order (see A. Sprenger, Catal., p. 348; and Bodleian Cat., No. 636), on fol. 172b, beginning:

سبحان قادری که صفاتش زکبریا
بر خاك عجز میفگند عقل انبیا

A special copy of the ḳaṣîdah لجّة الابرار is described in G. Flügel iii. p. 447.

10. Waṣlatnâma (وصلت نامه), or the book of union (see Bodleian Cat., No. 622, 7, etc.; Rieu ii. p. 579a; and A. Sprenger, Catal., p. 355), on fol. 228b, beginning:

ابتدا اوّل بنام کردگار ــ خالق هفت وشش وپنج وچهار

11. Miftâḥ-alfutûḥ (مفتاح الفتوح), or the key of victories (mentioned in Stewart's Cat., p. 60, and in Ouseley's Notices of Persian Poets), on fol. 242b, beginning:

بناء من بحیّ کو نمیرد
بآمی عذر صد عصیان پذیرد

Other copies of this rare mathnawi are only found in the following two collections and in the Bodleian Library (Bodleian Cat., No. 622, 19; No. 623, 10; No. 624, 7; and No. 627, 3).

12. Asrârnâma (اسرارنامه), or the book of mysteries (see Bodleian Cat., No. 622, 14, etc.; Rieu ii. pp. 576a and 578b; A. Sprenger, Catal., p. 358; G. Flügel i. p. 510; Cat. des MSS. et Xylographes, p. 332; W. Pertsch, p. 86 (No. 52), and Berlin Cat., p. 717), on fol. 257b, beginning:

بنام آنکه جانرا نور دین داد
خرد را در خدادانی یقین داد

It is divided here into nineteen maḳâlas (not twenty, as in Sprenger's copy, loc. cit., nor twenty-five, as the heading of the last chapter might suggest); the last two maḳâlas, on ff. 283a and 284a, are respectively called the 24th and 25th, but that is a mere clerical error, since the immediately preceding one is correctly styled the 17th; the مقالهٔ بیست چهارم therefore, on fol. 283a, is the 18th, الثامنة عشر, as No. 1096 (1033 below in this Cat.) correctly has on fol. 221a; and the مقالهٔ بیست پنجم, on fol. 284a, is the 19th (نوزدهم). The last fifty-seven baits of this mathnawi are repeated on fol. 242a above (on the page immediately preceding the beginning of the مفتاح الفتوح), corresponding to fol. 285a, l. 12–fol. 285b, l. 13.

13. Kanz-alḥaḳâ'iḳ (کنز الحقائق), or the treasury of verities (see Bodleian Cat., No. 622, 18, etc.; and A. Sprenger, Catal., p. 356), on fol. 285b, beginning with the same initial bait as the preceding اسرارنامه: بنام آنکه جانرا نور دین داد الخ. The title occurs on fol. 286b, l. 26:

چو گفتم اندرو چندین حقائق
نهادم نام او کنز الحقائق

14. Ilâhînâma (الهی نامه), or the divine book (see Bodleian Cat., No. 622, 11, etc.; Rieu ii. pp. 576a, 578b, and 870b; A. Sprenger, Catal., p. 357; Stewart's Cat., p. 61; W. Pertsch, Berlin Cat., p. 111), on fol. 298b, beginning:

الهی نامه را آغاز کردم ــ بنامت نامهٔ را باز کردم

15. Muṣibatnâma (مصیبت نامه), or the book of affliction (see Bodleian Cat., No. 622, 12, etc.; Rieu ii. pp. 576b, 578b, and 816b; A. Sprenger, Catal., p. 349; W. Pertsch, p. 85 (No. 51), and Berlin Cat., pp. 101 and 781; G. Flügel i. p. 510; in C. J. Tornberg, p. 100, it is called نزهت نامه, and in one Bodleian copy, Bodleian Cat., 623, 17, also عقد المسافات), on fol. 351b, beginning with the same initial bait as the هفت وادی (No. 6 above):

حمد پاك از جان پاك آن پاكرا
كو خلافت داد مشت خاكرا

16. Lisân-alghaib (لسان الغیب), or the tongue of mystery (mentioned in Stewart's Cat., p. 60, and in Ouseley's Notices of Persian Poets), on fol. 419b, beginning:

اسم توحید ابتدای نام اوست
مرغ روح جملگی در دام اوست

Other copies of this rare mathnawi are only found in No. 1096 (1033 in this Cat.) and in the Bodleian Library (Bodleian Cat., No. 622, 4; No. 623, 6; No. 624, 13; No. 625, 20; and No. 626, 2).

17. Jawâhir-aldhât (جواهر الذات), also styled Jauhar-aldhât (جوهر الذات), and—most correctly—Jauhar-i-Dhât (جوهر ذات, comp. W. Pertsch, Berlin Cat., p. 780, note 1), or the essence of existence (see Bodleian Cat., No. 622, 3, etc.; Rieu ii. pp. 576b and 577a; W. Pertsch, Berlin Cat., loc. cit.; G. Flügel i. p. 513; A. Sprenger, Catal., p. 351). It is also styled جواهرنامه, see Rieu, loc. cit., and No. 1048 below, but comp. the remark in Haft Iḳlîm, No. 733 (col. 431, ll. 5–8 in this Cat.). The present copy contains only the first of the three daftars, of which the mathnawi consists, comp. further below, Nos. 1046–1048. Beginning, on fol. 467b:

بنام آنکه نور جسم و جانست
خدای آشکارا و نهانست

18. Maẓhar-al'ajâ'ib (مظهر العجائب), or the exhibition of curiosities (see Bodleian Cat., No. 622, 5, etc.; Rieu ii. p. 579; A. Sprenger, Catal., p. 353; comp. also W. Pertsch, Berlin Cat., p. 154, No. 7, where fragments of the same mathnawi seem to appear under the title of مظهر الاسرار), on fol. 564b, beginning:

آفرین جان آفرین بر جان جان
زانکه هست او آشکارا ونهان

This copy is tolerably old, but not dated.

No. 559, ff. 626, 4 coll., each ll. 29; Nasta'lîḳ; an illuminated frontispiece at the beginning of each part; size, 12½ in. by 8¼ in.

1032

Another but smaller copy of the same Kulliyyât.

This collection of Farid-aldîn 'Aṭṭâr's poetical works contains:

1. Pandnâma, on fol. 1b. 2. Ilâhînâma, on fol. 10b. 3. Waṣiyyatnâma (وصیّت نامه), or the book of precepts, on fol. 69b, beginning:

ای بنامت کارها را افتتاح
نیست بی نام تو در امری فلاح

This very rare mathnawi, which is probably identical with the Ausatnâma in Stewart's Cat., p. 60, is only found here and in two Bodleian copies (Bodleian Cat., Nos. 622, 16, and 624, 6). 4. Haft Wâdi, on fol. 76b. 5. Bulbulnâma, on fol. 83b. 6. Manṭiḳ-alṭair, on fol. 88b. 7. Kanz-alḥaḳâ'iḳ, on fol. 141b; the title appears on fol. 142b, lin. penult. 8. Khusrau u Gul, on fol. 155b. 9. Miftâḥ-alfutûḥ, on fol. 239b. 10. Muṣibatnâma, on fol. 256b. 11. Diwân, on fol. 332b, beginning:

سبحان خالقی که صفاتش زکبریا الخ

12. Mukhtârnâma

(مختار نامه), or the selected book, a series of rubâ'is, divided into fifty bâbs, with a preface in prose (see Rieu ii. pp. 576b and 577b). It is sometimes simply styled رباعیّات, see Bodleian Cat., Nos. 622, 21; 623, 21, etc. Beginning of the preface, on fol. 392b: حمد و سپاس خداوندیرا که اشراق الوهیّت او در هر در الخ. Beginning of the first rubâ'i in the first chapter (باب اوّل در توحید وصفات او سبحانه), on fol. 393b:

ای پاکیٔ تو منزّه از هر پاکی
قدّوسیٔ او (read تو) مقدّس از ادراکی

This copy is dated A.H. 1025 (A.D. 1616), by Ḥasan Muḥammad bin Râjî Muḥammad 'abbâsi.

No. 350, ff. 449, 4 coll., each ll. 25; Nasta'lîḳ; an illuminated frontispiece at the beginning of each part; size, 12 in. by 7¼ in.

1033

A defective copy of the same Kulliyyât.

This collection contains:

1. Muṣîbatnâma, on fol. 1b. 2. Jawâhir-aldhât, first daftar, on fol. 79b. 3. Asrârnâma, on fol. 190b, incomplete at the end; it breaks off on fol. 221b, the last bait corresponding to fol. 284a, first line, in No. 559 (1031 in this Cat.); therefore only eighteen maḳâlas are marked here. 4. Miftâḥ-alfutûḥ, on fol. 222b. 5. Pandnâma, on fol. 240b. 6. Gul u Khusrau, on fol. 250b. 7. Bisarnâma, on fol. 335b. 8. Bulbulnâma, on fol. 338b. 9. Kanz-alasrâr, on fol. 344b, slightly defective at the end; it breaks off on fol. 363b, the last bait corresponding to fol. 172a, l. 19, in No. 559 (1031 in this Cat.). 10. Khiyâṭnâma (خیاط نامه), or the book of transition (see A. Sprenger, Catal., p. 356), on fol. 365b, beginning:

بنام آنکه هستی زو نشان یافت
نفوس ناطقه زو نور جان یافت

This very rare mathnawî, which is not even complete here, is only found once more in a European collection (see Bodleian Cat., No. 624, 16). 11. Lisân-alghaib, on fol. 373b, incomplete at the end too; it breaks off on fol. 408b, the last bait corresponding to fol. 461b, l. 23, in No. 559; the proper order of leaves is: ff. 373–404, 409, 405–408. 12. Ushturnâma, on fol. 410b. 13. Manṣûrnâma (منصورنامه), or the book of Manṣûr (mentioned in Stewart's Cat., p. 60, and in Ouseley's Notices of Persian Poets), on fol. 438b, beginning:

بود منصور ای عجب شوریده حال
در ره تحقیق اورا صد کمال

The only other copy of this mathnawî extant is in the Bodleian Library (Bodleian Cat., No. 623, 15). 14. Waṣlatnâma, on fol. 442b. 15. Haft Wâdi, on fol. 458b. 16. Kanz-alḥaḳâ'iḳ, on fol. 465b.

No date. An index on the fly-leaf. This copy is severely injured and damaged in many places.

No. 1096, ff. 478, 4 coll., each ll. 25; Nasta'lîḳ; an illuminated frontispiece and other embellishments at the beginning of each part; size, 14¼ in. by 8 in.

Six mathnawîs by Farîd-aldîn 'Aṭṭâr.

This splendid old copy, written by Muḥammad Ḥâjî bin Bâbâ Ḥâjî between A.H. 807 and 812 (A.D. 1405–1410), contains:

1. Ushturnâma or Shuturnâma (شترنامه), on fol. 1b.

2. Asrârnâma, on fol. 116b. This part is dated the 20th of Rajab, A.H. 807 (A.D. 1405, January 22).

3a. Ilâhînâma, on fol. 196b, beginning here:

بنام کردگار هفت افلاک
که پیدا کرد آدم از کفی خاک

Dated the 20th of Ramaḍân, A.H. 807 (A.D. 1405, March 22).

4. Bulbulnâma, on fol. 279b, beginning (without the usual ḥamd):

همه مرغان بدرگاه سلیمان
شدند و داشتند از بلبل افغان

3b. Khuṭba-i-Ilâhînâma (خطبهٔ الهی نامه), the usual introduction to the Ilâhînâma, left out in 3a, on fol. 283b, beginning (with a slight modification in the second hemistich, see Rieu ii. p. 576a):

الهی نامه را آغاز کردم ـ درگنج سعادت باز کردم

5. Muṣîbatnâma, on fol. 289b.

6. Waṣlatnâma, on fol. 386b. This part is dated the first of Dhû-alḳa'dah, A.H. 812 (A.D. 1410, March 7).

This MS. appears to be the first part or first volume only of a complete collection or کلّیّات of Farîd-aldîn 'Aṭṭâr's works, as the index on ff. 1a and 1b (margin-column) indicates. A more detailed, although not complete, index of the contents of this MS. is found on one of the fly-leaves. Bibliotheca Leydeniana.

No. 2684, ff. 406, 2 centre-coll., each ll. 29, and a margin-column, ll. 24–26; splendid Naskhî; size, 10¾ in. by 6¾ in.

Three mathnawîs by Farîd-aldîn 'Aṭṭâr.

This copy contains:

1. Manṭiḳ-alṭair, on fol. 1b.

2. Jawâhir-aldhât or Jauhar-i-dhât, first daftar on fol. 64b, in a very defective and abridged form, the first page is left blank, and the mathnawî begins on fol. 65a with this bait:

کمانرا دور گردان از بر خویش
یقین را دان حقیقت ره بر خویش

corresponding to fol. 9a, l. 3, in No. 2039 (1046 in this Cat., the fullest copy of the poem); the second chapter on the same page, beginning: الا ای جان و دلرا الخ, corresponds to fol. 16b, l. 3 ab infra in the same copy; the last but two baits to fol. 160b, l. 10; the last two baits of the present copy are not found in No. 2039. On fol. 64a, and in the colophon at the end, the poem is wrongly styled اشترنامه.

3. Gul u Khusrau, on fol. 173b.

No date. Very good and correct copy.

No. 736, ff. 1–269, 4 coll., each ll. 21; clear and distinct Nasta'lîḳ; an illuminated frontispiece at the beginning of each mathnawî; size, 15½ in. by 9¾ in.

1036

Two mathnawîs by Farîd-aldîn 'Aṭṭâr.

This copy contains:

1. Manṭiḳ-alṭair, on ff. 3^b–226^b.
2. Bisarnâma, on ff. 227^a–239^a, beginning:

من خدایم من خدایم من خدا
فارغم از کبر و از کین و هوا

The initial bait of this poem in No. 559 (1031 in this Cat.), fol. 152^b, and in A. Sprenger's first copy, Catal., p. 349, is here the third; whereas the beginning of Sprenger's second copy appears here as second bait.

On ff. 1^a–3^a there is a short account of some Pîrs of the Ḳâdirî sect in Multân, headed نقل عنایت نامه, and written by Muḥammad Ghauth ibn Sayyid Ismâ'îl ibn Shaikh 'Abd-alḳâdir ibn Shaikh Mûsâ Ḥasanî alḥusainî algîlânî, who states that his grandfather 'Abd-alḳâdir, who died the 17th of Dhû-alḥijjah, A.H. 1087 (A.D. 1677, February 20), invested him (after the premature death of his father), A.H. 1082 (A.D. 1671, 1672), with the خرقه.

This copy is dated by Nûr-allâh in the Ṣûbah of Khândîs, the 17th of Sha'bân, A.H. 1105=A.D. 1694, April 13 (here called the 38th year of 'Âlamgîr's reign, whereas it is more correctly the 37th, 'Âlamgîr having declared himself emperor of Dihlî in Dhû-alḳa'dah of A.H. 1068=A.D. 1658, August). Presented by J. H. Petle, Esq., and received the 19th September, 1818; transferred to Civil College, 9 August, 1819 (Haileybury).

No. 3384, olim 19. J. 12, ff. 239, 2 coll., each ll. 10; large and excellent Nasta'lîḳ, written on brown paper, sprinkled with gold; marbled margin throughout, except on the last six leaves; illuminated frontispiece on fol. 3^b; size, 9 in. by 5 in.

Pandnâma.

Another copy of Farîd-aldîn 'Aṭṭâr's Pandnâma, with the usual beginning. It is not dated, but on fol. 1^a a seal of Mîrkhân Riḍâ 'Alî is found, with the date A.H. 1172 (A.D. 1758, 1759). College of Fort William.

No. 2319, ff. 30, 2 coll., each ll. 17; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 8¼ in. by 5¼ in.

1038

The same.

Dated the 18th of Shawwâl, A.H. 1191 (A.D. 1777, November 19), by Ghulâm 'Alî bin Shaikh 'Abd-alḳâdir bin Shaikh Aḥmad bin Abû Muḥammad bin Muḥammad Ḥusain. On the margin of ff. 1^b–2^b, a short extract from Bahâ-aldîn 'Âmilî's (died A.H. 1030=A.D. 1620, 1621) نان و حلوا (see Bodleian Cat., Nos. 1085–1088; Rieu ii. p. 679; A. Sprenger, Catal., p. 368, etc.). Bibliotheca Leydeniana.

No. 2760, ff. 1–38, 2 coll., each ll. 11; careless Nasta'lîḳ, mixed with Shikasta; size, 8¼ in. by 5¼ in.

The same.

Dated the 4th of Dhû-alḳa'dah, A.H. 1209 (A.D. 1795, May 23).

No. 1345, ff. 11^b–43^b, 2 coll., each ll. 13; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 7½ in. by 4¼ in.

1040

The same.

No date; only the 20th of Ṣafar in the sixth year (of whose reign, is not stated) appears in the colophon.

No. 242, ff. 14^b–49^b, 2 coll., each ll. 13; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 9 in. by 5 in.

1041

The same.

No date. Beginning: حمد بیحد آن خدای پاکرا الخ.

At the top of the first and at the end of the last page this poem is wrongly ascribed to Jalâl-aldîn Rûmî.

No. 3508, olim 7. J. 6, ff. 153^b–189, 2 coll., each ll. 13; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 7¾ in. by 4¼ in.

1042

The same.

Beginning as in the preceding copy; no date. On the margin a Turkish paraphrase of the initial bait:

حمد بیحد اول خدای عالمه
نور ایمان ویردی خالق آدمه

No. 3510, ff. 1–40, 2 coll., each ll. 11; clear and distinct Nasta'lîḳ; size, 5¾ in. by 3¼ in.

Manṭiḳ-alṭair.

Another copy of Farîd-aldîn 'Aṭṭâr's Manṭiḳ-alṭair, in which the composition of this mathnawî is fixed in A.H. 583 (A.D. 1187), see the last verse but one, and No. 1031, 5 above in this Cat. Beginning as usual. As date appears only the 8th of Rabî'-althânî, without a year. Copied at Ḥaidarâbâd at the request of Mîr 'Alâ-aldîn.

No. 904, ff. 176, 2 coll., each ll. 15; clear and distinct Nasta'lîḳ; size, 9¼ in. by 5¼ in.

1044

The same.

No date. Copied by Muḥammad Ṣâliḥ ibn Ḥâjî Sulṭân Ḥusain Gîlânî.

No. 916, ff. 122, 2 coll., each ll. 18–19; Nasta'lîḳ; illuminated frontispiece; the first two pages splendidly adorned; size, 9 in. by 4¾ in.

1045

The same.

Excellent copy, not dated.

Jawâhir-aldhât.

The only complete copy, as yet known, of Farîd-aldîn 'Aṭṭâr's Jawâhir-aldhât or Jauhar-i-Dhât (see above, No. 1031, 17), in three daftars.

First daftar, on fol. 1^b, beginning: بنام آنکه نور جسم و جانست الخ.

Second daftar, on fol. 162b, beginning:

تعالى الله ازين ديدار پر نور
كه در ذرّات عالم گشت مشهور

Third daftar, on fol. 335b, beginning:

بنام كردگار فرد بيچون ـ كه مارا از عدم آورد بيرون

This third and last daftar bears also the special title of Hailâjnâma (هيلاج نامه), which is chiefly devoted to the divine mysteries revealed by the famous martyr of Ṣûfic lore, Manṣûr Ḥallâj (or rather Ḥusain bin Manṣûr Ḥallâj, who was put to death A.H. 309=A.D. 922, see the Safinat-alauliyâ, No. 211); another complete copy of this extremely rare poem is contained in No. 1048 below; a defective copy of the same is described in Rieu ii. p. 577a; it is printed in the Lucknow edition of the Kulliyyât, pp. 583–770.

Dated A.H. 1139 (A.D. 1726, 1727), by Ḥâjî Muḥammad Ḥayât, of Banâras; it belonged formerly to the College of Fort William (1825).

No. 2039, ff. 455, 4 coll., each ll. 19 (ff. 178–211 contain only 2 coll.); Nasta'lîḳ; size, 10½ in. by 6 in.

1047

Another copy of the second daftar of the Jawâhir-aldhât.

This copy begins: تعالى الله زهى ديدار پر نور الخ.

Dated the 10th of Shawwâl, A.H. 1021 (A.D. 1612, December 4).

No. 111, fol. 113, 4 coll., each ll. 25; small, but clear Nasta'lîḳ; illuminated frontispiece; the last pages a little injured; size, 6 in. by 4¾ in.

1048

Another copy of the Hailâjnâma, or third daftar of the Jawâhir-aldhât. Beginning: بنام كردگار فرد بيچون الخ.

On fol. 31b there appears as another title for this daftar, or rather for the whole of the Jauhar-i-Dhât, just as in Rieu's copy of the first daftar, جواهر نامه, see above, No. 1031, 17 (جواهر نامه هست اسرار منصور).

Dated the 2nd of Ṣafar, A.H. 902 (A.D. 1496, Oct. 10).

No. 776, ff. 342, 2 coll., each ll. 12; large and distinct Nasta'lîḳ; illuminated frontispiece; size, 9¾ in. by 6 in.

Bisarnâma.

Another copy of Farîd-aldîn 'Aṭṭâr's Bisarnâma, beginning: من بغير از تو نبينم در جهان الخ, see above, No. 1031, 7. No date.

No. 695, ff. 11–22, 2 coll., each ll. 13; large and distinct Nasta'lîḳ; size, 6¾ in. by 4¼ in.

Haft Wâdî.

Another very defective copy of Farîd-aldîn 'Aṭṭâr's Haft Wâdî (see above, No. 1031, 6), beginning: حمد پاك از جان پاك آن پاكرا الخ. It is in a hopeless confusion, all the verses being mixed together; it is moreover incomplete at the end, and has two lacunas after ff. 2 and 4. The last bait on fol. 2b corresponds to fol. 147a, l. 11, in No. 559 (1031 in this Cat.), the first bait on fol. 3a to fol. 149b, l. 8, in the same copy. The last bait on fol. 4b corresponds to fol. 150a, l. 11, the first on fol. 5a to fol. 148b, l. 7, in No. 559. Fol. 5b, l. 10, is=fol. 148b, l. 19; fol. 6b, l. 3 ab infra=fol. 147a, l. 18, and the last bait on fol. 10b=fol. 149a, l. 17, in the same copy. The last leaf (fol. 11) contains three ghazals with the takhallus 'Alî.

No. 1921, ff. 11, 2 coll., each ll. 19; clear and distinct Nasta'lîḳ; size, 10½ in. by 6 in.

Tadhkirat-alauliyâ (تذكرة الاوليا).

The fullest copy extant of Farîd-aldîn 'Aṭṭâr's famous biographies of eminent Ṣûfic Shaikhs, containing both the first and the second part of the work (جلد اوّل and جلد دوم); comp. Bodleian Cat., No. 622, 1 and 2, No. 624, 1 and 2, and No. 625, 9 and 10; Rieu i. p. 344; W. Pertsch, Berlin Cat., pp. 548–551; Cat. Codd. Or. Lugd. Batav. iii. p. 17 (where a list of the seventy-two Shaikhs of the first part is given); Rehatsek, Catalogue raisonné, p. 190, No. 28; Ḥ. Khalfa ii. p. 258, and Mélanges Asiatiques v. p. 251. Abridgments of the same work have been noticed in W. Pertsch, Berlin Cat., p. 551 (by 'Abd-alwâḥid Balgrâmî), and in A. F. Mehren, p. 8; a poetical version by 'Allâf or Ḥâfiẓ-i-'Allâf, composed A.H. 821 (A.D. 1418), has been described in detail in Rosen, Persian MSS., pp. 210–215. The text of the تذكرة الاوليا has been lithographed in Lahore, 1889 and 1891. On some extracts in German translation, comp. W. Pertsch, loc. cit.

The first part (on ff. 1–279) comprises, after the introduction and the index (on fol. 5), the following seventy-two Shaikhs, to whose biographies there is sometimes added on the margin by another hand the date of death (which, however, is in many cases wrong, or at least doubtful): 1. Ja'far Ṣâdiḳ, on fol. 5b. 2. Uwais Ḳarnî, on fol. 9a (his death is fixed here in A.H. 30=A.D. 650, 651, see the more correct date or dates in Safinat-alauliyâ, No. 18). 3. Ḥasan Baṣrî, on fol. 14a (his death fixed here in A.H. 140=A.D. 757, 758, see the correct date A.H. 110=A.D. 728, 729, Safinat-alauliyâ, No. 19). 4. Mâlik-i-Dînâr, on fol. 23b (his death fixed here in A.H. 150=A.D. 767; correct date A.H. 137=A.D. 754, 755, Safinat-alauliyâ, No. 160). 5. Muḥammad Wâsi', on fol. 27b (died A.H. 160=A.D. 776, 777). 6. Ḥabîb-i-'Ajamî, on fol. 28a (his death fixed here in A.H. 125=A.D. 743; correct date A.H. 156 =A.D. 773, Safinat-alauliyâ, No. 161). 7. Abû Ḥâzim (here جازم as it seems) Makkî, on fol. 31b (his death fixed in A.H. 150=A.D. 767). 8. 'Atabah bin Ghulâm, on fol. 32a (his death fixed in the same year, correct date A.H. 160 or 167=A.D. 776, 777 or 783, 784, Safinat-alauliyâ, No. 164). 9. Râbi'a-i-'adawiyyah, on fol. 33a. 10. Shaikh Fuḍail bin 'Iyâḍ, on fol. 42a (died A.H. 187 =A.D. 803). 11. Ibrâhîm Adham, on fol. 48b (his death fixed here in A.H. 200=A.D. 815, 816; more correct dates are A.H. 162, 161, or 160=A.D. 778, 779, or 776, 777, Safinat-alauliyâ, No. 97). 12. Bashar Ḥâfi, on fol. 58b (died A.H. 227=A.D. 841). 13. Dhû-alnûn Miṣrî, on fol. 63a (died A.H. 245=A.D. 859, 860). 14. Bâyazid Bisṭâmî, on fol. 74a (died A.H. 261=A.D. 875). 15. 'Abdallâh Mubârak, on fol. 99a (in Safinat-alauliyâ, No. 165, bin Mubârak; instead of the more correct date of his death, viz. A.H. 181=A.D. 797, 798, there appears here A.H. 200=A.D. 815, 816). 16. Sufyân Thaurî, on fol. 104b (his death is fixed here in A.H. 205=A.D. 820, 821; the usual dates are A.H. 161 or 162=A.D. 778, 779, see Safinat-alauliyâ, No. 162). 17. Shaḳîḳ Balkhî, on fol. 109a (his death is fixed here in A.H. 225=A.D. 840; the Safinat-alauliyâ, No. 167, gives A.H. 194=A.D. 809, 810). 18. Imâm Abû Ḥanîfah Kûfî, on fol. 112b (for whose death the preposterous date A.H. 205 is given, see the correct statement in the Safinat-alauliyâ, No. 21). 19. Imâm Shâfi'î, on fol. 116b (his death is fixed here in A.H. 209=A.D. 824, 825, instead of the usual date 204, Rajab=A.D. 820, January, see Safinat-alauliyâ, No. 23). 20. Imâm Aḥmad Ḥanbal, on fol. 119b (died according to the statement here A.H. 250=A.D. 864, according to the Safinat-alauliyâ, No. 24, A.H. 241=A.D. 855). 21. Dâ'ûd Ṭâ'î, on fol. 123a (the date of his death, as given here, viz. A.H. 200, is wrong; it was A.H. 162 or 165=A.D. 778, 779, or 781, 782, see Safinat-alauliyâ, No. 163). 22. Ḥârith Muḥâsabî, on fol. 126a (died A.H. 243=A.D. 857, 858). 23. Abû Sulaimân Dârâni, on fol. 128b. 24. Muḥammad Simâk, on fol. 133a. 25. Muḥammad bin Aslam al-Ṭûsî, on fol. 133b. 26. Aḥmad bin Ḥarb, on fol. 135a. 27. Ḥâtim-i-aṣamm, on fol. 137a. 28. Suhail bin 'Abdallâh, on fol. 142a (his death is fixed here in A.H. 273=A.D. 886, 887, whereas the Safinat-alauliyâ, No. 193, where Sahl is read instead of Suhail, just as in Rosen's poetical version, quoted above, gives A.H. 283=A.D. 896). 29. Ma'rûf Karkhî, on fol. 152a (died A.H. 200=A.D. 815). 30. Shaikh Sarî Saḳaṭî, on fol. 155a (his death is fixed here in A.H. 257=A.D. 871; the Safinat-alauliyâ, No. 28, gives A.H. 253, and in one copy 250=A.D. 867 or 864). 31. Fatḥ Mausilî, on fol. 161a. 32. Aḥmad alḥawârî (الحوارى so to be read instead of جوارى in the text; the date of death, A.H. 203, is evidently a mere mistake for 230=A.D. 844, 845, see Safinat-alauliyâ, No. 172, where, however, the Shaikh is distinctly called Aḥmad bin Abî-alḥawârî), on fol. 162a. 33. Aḥmad Khiḍrawaih, or rather bin Khiḍrawaih Balkhî, on fol. 163a (died A.H. 240=A.D. 854, 855). 34. Abû Turâb Nakhshabî, on fol. 167a (died A.H. 245=A.D. 859). 35. Yaḥyâ bin Ma'âdh Râzî, on fol. 169b (died A.H. 258=A.D. 872). 36. Shâh Shujâ' Kirmânî, on fol. 177b (his death is fixed here in A.H. 295=A.D. 907, 908, comp. the Safinat-alauliyâ, No. 187). 37. Yûsuf bin al-Ḥusain, on fol. 179b (died A.H. 304=A.D. 916, 917). 38. Abû Ḥafṣ Ḥaddâd, on fol. 183b. 39. Ḥamdûn Ḳaṣṣâr, on fol. 189a. 40. Manṣûr 'Ammâr, on fol. 190b. 41. Aḥmad bin 'Âṣim al-antâkî, on fol. 192b (his death is fixed here in A.H. 240=A.D. 854, 855). 42. 'Abdallâh bin Ḥaḳîḳ, on fol. 194a. 43. Shaikh Junaid Baghdâdî, on fol. 195a (died A.H. 297=A.D. 910). 44. 'Amr bin 'Uthmân Makkî, on fol. 214a (his death is fixed here in A.H. 271=A.D. 884, 885; the usual date is A.H. 296 or 297=A.D. 908–910, see the Safinat-alauliyâ, No. 202). 45. Abû Sa'îd Kharrâz (Rosen: Khazzâz), on fol. 215b (died according to this copy A.H. 277=A.D. 890, 891; the Safinat-alauliyâ, No. 194, fixes his death in A.H. 286, 285 or 287=A.D. 898–900). 46. Abû-alḥusain Nûrî, on fol. 219a (died A.H. 297=A.D. 909, 910, as is stated here, or A.H. 295=A.D. 907, 908, according to the Safinat-alauliyâ, No. 201). 47. Abû 'Uthmân Ḥîrî, on fol. 225a (died A.H. 298=A.D. 910). 48. Abû Muḥammad Ruwaim, on fol. 230a (died A.H. 303=A.D. 915, 916). 49. Ibn 'Aṭâ, on fol. 231b (i.e. Abû-al 'abbâs bin 'Aṭâ, who died, according to the Safinat-alauliyâ, No. 212, A.H. 309=A.D. 922; here his death is fixed in A.H. 307=A.D. 919, 920). 50. Abû 'Abdallâh bin al-Jallâ, on fol. 236b (with the silly date of A.H. 205 or 250 for his death; he died A.H. 306=A.D. 918, 919, see the Safinat-alauliyâ, No. 210). 51. Ibrâhim bin Dâ'ûd Raḳḳî, on fol. 237a (died A.H. 327=A.D. 938, 939; the Safinat-alauliyâ, No. 224, gives A.H. 326). 52. Yûsuf-i-Asbâṭ, on fol. 237b. 53. Abû Isḥaḳ (correctly, according to the following copy and the Safinat-alauliyâ, No. 228, Abû Ya'ḳûb Isḥaḳ) Nahrajûrî, on fol. 239a (died A.H. 330=A.D. 941, 942). 54. Samnûn Muḥibb (or bin Muḥibb), on fol. 241a (the correct date of his death is A.H. 298=A.D. 910, 911; see the Safinat-alauliyâ, No. 204; here he is wrongly stated to have died A.H. 270). 55. Abû Muḥammad Murta'ish, on fol. 242b (died A.H. 328=A.D. 939, 940). 56. Abû 'Abdallâh Muḥammad bin Faḍl, on fol. 244a (his death is fixed here in A.H. 309=A.D. 921, 922; more correctly in the Safinat-alauliyâ, No. 217, in A.H. 319=A.D. 931). 57. Abû-alḥusain Fûshanji, on fol. 245a. 58. Muḥammad bin 'Alî alḥakîm altirmidhî, on fol. 246a (he died, according to the statement here, A.H. 260=A.D. 873, 874; according to the Safinat-alauliyâ, No. 182, A.H. 255=A.D. 869). 59. Abûbakr Warrâḳ, on fol. 251a. 60. 'Abdallâh Manâzil, on fol. 253b (see the Safinat-alauliyâ, No. 231, where his death is fixed in A.H. 331=A.D. 942, 943; here he is stated to have died A.H. 330). 61. 'Alî bin Sahl Iṣfahânî, on fol. 255a (his death is fixed here in A.H. 270=A.D. 883, 884). 62. Khair-i-nassâj, on fol. 256a (his death is fixed here in A.H. 305=A.D. 917, 918; the correct date is that given in the Safinat-alauliyâ, No. 221, viz. A.H. 322=A.D. 934). 63. Abû-alkhair Aḳṭa', on fol. 257a (died, according to the statement here, A.H. 340=A.D. 951, 952; according to the Safinat-alauliyâ, No. 241, A.H. 343=A.D. 954, 955). 64. Abû Ḥamzah Khurâsânî, on fol. 258a (died A.H. 290=A.D. 903). 65. Shaikh-alshuyûkh Aḥmad Masrûḳ (bin Muḥammad bin Masrûḳ in the Safinat-alauliyâ, No. 206), on fol. 259a (died A.H. 300=A.D. 912, 913, or A.H. 299, as the Safinah states). 66. 'Abdallâh Raughadî (روغدى, as in Rosen, Persian MSS., p. 215; in W. Pertsch, Berlin Cat., pp. 548–550, he is always called Rau'adî, روعدى), on fol. 260a (his death is fixed in A.H. 290=A.D. 903). 67. 'Abdallâh Maghribî (in the Safinat-alauliyâ, No. 191, Abû 'Abdallâh Maghribî), on fol. 261a (his death is fixed here in A.H. 299=A.D. 911, 912; the Safinah gives A.H. 279=A.D. 892, 893). 68. Abû 'Alî Jurjânî, on fol. 262a. 69. Abûbakr Kattânî (so here كتانى, comp. the Safinat-alauliyâ, No. 223), on fol. 263a (died A.H. 322=A.D. 934). 70. Shaikh-i-Kabîr Abû 'Abdallâh (Muḥammad) Khafîf

(or bin Khafif, as the Safinat-alauliyâ, No. 144, reads), on fol. 266b (died A.H. 371=A.D. 981, 982). 71. Abû Muḥammad Jurairi, on fol. 271a (died A.H. 311=A.D. 923, 924, or, as the Safinat-alauliyâ, No. 215, states, A.H. 312). 72. Ḥusain bin Manṣûr Ḥallâj, on fol. 272b (the wrong date of A.H. 280 is given here for his death; the correct one is A.H. 309=A.D. 922, see the Safinat-alauliyâ, No. 211).

This first part concludes on fol. 279b, and is followed, after a short remark: چون کاتب در نوشتن احوال عزیزان خود را معاف داشته و کاهلی ورزیده ذکر چند اسامی را نکرده و از قلم انداخته بنابر آن در آخر کتاب احوال و خوارق چند از عزیزان نوشته شد اگرچه احوال اینها در اوسط کتاب بود, by a second part or sort of appendix, containing twenty-five additional biographies, viz.: 73. Abû-alḥasan Kharaḳâni, on fol. 280a. 74. Mamshâd or Mimshâd Dînawari, on fol. 283b. 75. Ibrâhîm Khawwâṣ, on fol. 284b. 76. Abûbakr Shibli, on fol. 287a. 77. Abû Sa'id bin Abû-alkhair, on fol. 290b. 78. Abû-al'abbâs Ḳaṣṣâb, on fol. 295a. 79. Abû 'Ali Daḳḳâḳ, on fol. 296a. 80. Abû Naṣr Sarrâj, on fol. 299b. 81. Abû-alfaḍl Ḥasan, on fol. 300a. 82. Abû-alḳâsim Naṣrâbâdi, on fol. 300b. 83. Abû Ḥamzah Baghdâdi, on fol. 302a. 84. Abûbakr Ṭamistâni, on fol. 303a. 85. Ibrâhîm Shaibâni, on fol. 303b. 86. Abû 'Amr (so here, عمرو; in W. Pertsch, Berlin Cat., p. 550, l. 14, Abû 'Umar) Najid, on fol. 304b. 87. Abû-alḥusain (in the Safinat-alauliyâ, No. 229, and in W. Pertsch, Berlin Cat., p. 549, l. 4 ab infra, Abû-alḥasan) 'Ali alṣâ'igh, on fol. 305a. 88. Abûbakr Wâsiṭi, on fol. 305b. 89. Abû Ja'far Khuldi, on fol. 308b. 90. Abû 'Ali Rûdbâri, on fol. 309a. 91. Abû-alḥusain Ḥuṣîri (حصيرى, in the Safinat-alauliyâ, No. 266, Ḥaṣri حصرى; in W. Pertsch, Berlin Cat., p. 549, l. 3 ab infra, and p. 550, l. 16, Khaḍiri خضرى), on fol. 310a. 92. Abû Isḥaḳ Shahriyâri Kâzarûni, on fol. 311a. 93. Abû-al'abbâs Sayyâri, on fol. 311b. 94. Abû-al'abbâs Nahâwandi, on fol. 312a. 95. Abû 'Ali Thaḳafi, on fol. 312b. 96. Abûbakr Ṣaidalâni, on fol. 313b. 97. Imâm Muḥammad Bâḳir, on fol. 313b.

Beginning of the whole work: الحمد لله الجواد بافضل انواع النعماء المنّان باشرف اصناف العطاء الخ.

Dated the 25th of Jumâdâ-althâni, A.H. 1091 (A.D. 1680, July 23). Fol. 313 badly injured. Many annotations and additions on the margin, by the same hand, as it seems, which copied the appendix.

No. 1299, ff. 314, ll. 17–27; Nasta'lîḳ; ff. 37–46 and 280–314 (the whole of the appendix or second part) supplied by other hands, the latter part in a sort of Shikasta; size, 10¼ in. by 5¾ in.

Another copy of the same.

Another very old, but undated copy of the first part of the Tadhkirat-alauliyâ, worm-eaten and injured in many places. It contains the biographies of seventy Shaikhs only (agreeing with the preceding copy, except where a discrepancy is clearly indicated in the following list). Nos. 63 and 66 of the preceding copy are missing here. 1. On fol. 8b; 2. on fol. 13a; 3. on fol. 20a; 4. on fol. 32a; 5. on fol. 37b; 6. on fol. 38b; 7. on fol. 42b; 8. on fol. 43b; 9. on fol. 45a; 10. on fol. 52a; 11. on fol. 56a; 12. on fol. 68b; 13. on fol. 75a; 14. on fol. 90a; 15. on fol. 123b; 16. on fol. 130b; 17. on fol. 136a, Khwâjah 'Ali Shaḳîḳ (in the index, on fol. 7a, Abû 'Ali Shaḳîḳ); 18. on fol. 140b; 19. on fol. 145b; 20. on fol. 150b; 21. on fol. 154a; 22. on fol. 158a; 23. on fol. 161a; 24. on fol. 164a; 25. on fol. 164b; 26. on fol. 166b; 27. on fol. 169a; 28. Diwân-i-Kamâl Isma'îl (دیوان کمال اسمعیل).

The lyrical poems of Kamâl-aldîn Isma'îl bin Jamâl-aldîn Muḥammad bin 'Abd-alrazzâk of Iṣfahân, who was a pupil of Suhrâwardî, panegyrist of the Ṣâ'id family, and is usually called خلّاق المعانی. He was tortured to death by the Moghuls, A.H. 635 (A.D. 1237, 1238); comp. Haft Iklim, No. 870, col. 441 in this Cat.; Bodleian Cat., Nos. 638–643; Rieu ii. p. 581; W. Pertsch, Berlin Cat., p. 783; A. Sprenger, Catal., p. 454; see also Butkhâna, No. 23 in Bodleian Cat., col. 199, and Âtashkada, No. 416, ib., col. 297. This diwân consists of the following parts:

1. Ḳaṣîdas and tarkîbbands, on fol. 1b, with a short mathnawî and two ḳiṭ'as at the end. Beginning of the first ḳaṣîdah:

ای جلال تو بیانها را زبان انداخته
عزّت ذاتت یقین را در گمان انداخته

Beginning of the mathnawî, on fol. 209a:

تا زبانم بکام جنبانست — در ثناء رئیس لنبانست

2. A large series of ḳiṭ'as, intermixed with a few ghazals, on fol. 213b. Beginning:

عشّاق که قدر دل شناسند — دل از غم یار بر نگیرند

3. Ghazals, without any order, on fol. 319b, beginning: ای دل و جان بیاد تو زنده الخ.

4. Rubâ'îs, on fol. 359b, beginning: ای مدح تو آورده قلم را بسخن الخ.

Dated by Sulṭân 'Alî of Mashhad, A.H. 905 (A.D. 1499, 1500).

No. 1023, ff. 412, 2 coll., each ll. 17; beautiful and clear Nasta'lîk; an illuminated frontispiece at the beginning of each part, a vignette on fol. 1a, all the headings throughout in gold; size, 10 in. by 6¾ in.

1056

Another copy of the same.

Contents:

Ḳaṣîdas, tarkîbbands, and a few ḳiṭ'as, beginning, on fol. 1b: ای صفات تو بیانها را زبان انداخته الخ.

A short mathnawî, ḳiṭ'as, and a few ghazals; the mathnawî, on fol. 228b, is the same as in the preceding copy; the first ḳiṭ'ah begins (on fol. 232b): ایا شهی که ضمیرت بچشم گوشهٔ فکر الخ.

Rubâ'îs, on fol. 325a, beginning as in the preceding copy.

Dated by Ḥabîb-allâh, the son of the Ḳâḍî Barkhwurdâr, the 27th of Dhû-alḳa'dah, A.H. 1036 (A.D. 1627, Aug. 9). Some various readings and marginal additions.

No. 2455, ff. 393, 2 coll., each ll. 17; Nasta'lîk; ff. 1 and 95–98 later supplied; size, 10 in. by 6¾ in.

A slightly defective copy of the same.

Contents:

Ḳaṣîdas, tarkîbbands, marâthî, etc., on fol. 1b, beginning: ای صفات تو بیانها الخ.

Ḳiṭ'as, intermixed with a few ghazals and ḳaṣîdas, on fol. 211b, beginning:

آدمی را چهار خصلت است — در دو گیتی زیانی وفانی

At the end of this part (on fol. 314b), the same mathnawî as in the two preceding copies.

Ghazals, without any order, on fol. 318b, beginning: ای دل و جان الخ.

Rubâ'îs, on fol. 368b, beginning: ای حکم ترا نهاده سرها گردون الخ, corresponding to the third rubâ'î on fol. 407[a] in No. 1023 (1055 in this Cat.); this part is incomplete at the end, it breaks off with the first bait of a rubâ'î, corresponding to fol. 401[a], last line, in No. 1023. The initial rubâ'î of the two preceding copies is found here on fol. 370[b], first line.

No. 510, ff. 405, 2 coll., each ll. 19; an illuminated frontispiece at the beginning of each part; Nasta'lîḳ; the first pages injured; size, 8 in. by 3⅞ in.

Dîwân-i-Athîr Aumânî (دیوان اثیر اومانی).

The lyrical poems of Athîr-aldîn 'Abdallâh of Aumân (near Hamadân), who flourished under Hûlâgûkhân, and was a younger contemporary of Kamâl-aldîn Isma'îl of Iṣfahân, with whom he contended in poetry and exchanged poetical epistles; comp. Haft Iḳlîm, No. 1035, col. 454 above in this Cat.; Âtashkada, No. 596 (Bodleian Cat., col. 283); Butkhâna, No. 25 (ib., col. 199); Makhzan-algharâ'ib, No. 14 (ib., col. 317); A. Sprenger, Çatal., p. 17, No. 51. According to the Âtashkada he died A.H. 656 (A.D. 1258), according to Taḳî Kâshî A.H. 665 (A.D. 1266, 1267). This dîwân consists chiefly of kaṣîdas and ḳiṭ'as, intermixed with some tarkîbbands, ghazals, and rubâ'îs.

Beginning:

دوش آنزمانکه ماه بر افروخت مشعله
در فوج مرکب افق افتاد مشغله

Dated the 24th of Shawwâl, A.H. 1069 (A.D. 1659, July 15), by 'Abd-alraḳîb.

No. 328, ff. 295–377, 2 coll., each ll. 18; clear Nasta'lîḳ; size, 10½ in. by 5½ in.

Dîwân-i-Saif-i-Isfarang (دیوان سیف اسفرنگ).

The lyrical poems of Saif-aldîn A'raj of Isfara or Isfarang, nine farsangs south of Marghînân in Transoxania, see Haft Iḳlîm, No. 1524, col. 494 above in this Cat. But the dates given there about his lifetime fall about a hundred years short of the correct ones; the same remark applies to the short preface in this copy, where his death is fixed in A.H. 558 or even 552 (!), and the Khulâṣat-alafkâr, No. 126 (Bodleian Cat., coll. 306 and 307), where he is stated to have died A.H. 583 (!); according to the most trustworthy sources he was born A.H. 581 (A.D. 1185, 1186) and died A.H. 666 (A.D. 1267, 1268); see Âtashkada, No. 711 (Bodleian Cat., col. 286), and Taḳî Kâshî, No. 37 (A. Sprenger, Catal., p. 17). The Butkhâna, No. 43 (Bodleian Cat., col. 200), also fixes his death at a similar period, viz. in A.H. 652 or 660 (A.D. 1254 or 1262); other copies of this dîwân are described in Bodleian Cat., Nos. 644 and 645; Rieu ii. p. 581; A. Sprenger, Catal., p. 561; W. Pertsch, Berlin Cat., p. 782; Cat. des MSS. et Xylographes, p. 330; J. Aumer, p. 9.

This dîwân contains:

Kaṣîdas, in alphabetical order, except the first; beginning of the initial poem, on fol. 1[b]: شب چو بر دارد حجاب از هودج اسرار من الخ.

Tarji'bands, on fol. 151[b], beginning:

سدّ فلك چو صبح بیکدم گشاده ایم
وز قوت روح روزهٔ مریم گشاده ایم

Muḳaṭṭa'ât, on fol. 174[a], beginning: رضی الملك ای دیدار شومت الخ.

Ghazals, in alphabetical order, on fol. 212[a], beginning: با تو حکایتی کنم صورت حال خویش را الخ.

Rubâ'îs, on fol. 240[a], beginning:

ای خطّ تو دستور قلم‌گیران را
رایت رهبر صواب تدبیران را

This copy, which is dated in the preface A.H. 1026 (A.D. 1617), is in a very bad state; many pages are severely injured, especially ff. 1–40 and 210–254. A short preface in prose on fol. 1[a].

No. 573, ff. 254, 2 coll., each ll. 19; clear and distinct Nasta'lîḳ; illuminated frontispiece on fol. 1[b]; size, 11½ in. by 6¾ in.

Mathnawî (مثنوی).

An excellent old copy of the renowned mathnawî or Mathnawî-i-ma'nawî (the spiritual mathnawî) by Maulânâ Jalâl-aldîn Muḥammad bin Muḥammad Bahâ-aldîn bin Ḥusain albalkhî, best known as Jalâl-aldîn Rûmî, who was born in Balkh, A.H. 604 (A.D. 1207), and died in Iconium, A.H. 672 (A.D. 1273); comp. on this work and the biography of the poet, Rieu ii. p. 584 sq.; Bodleian Cat., Nos. 646–675; W. Pertsch, No. 42, 1 a, and Berlin Cat., p. 783 sq.; G. Flügel i. p. 514 sq.; A. Sprenger, Catal., p. 489 sq.; Rosen, Persian MSS., pp. 173 and 174; J. Aumer, pp. 14–16; Ouseley, Biogr. Notices, p. 112 sq., etc.; comp. also the Manâḳib-al'ârifîn (No. 630 in this Cat.); Safînat-alauliyâ, No. 137 (ib., col. 289); Haft Iḳlîm, No. 558 (ib., col. 418), and Ethé, Die mystische, didactische und lyrische Poesie etc. der Perser, Hamburg, 1888, pp. 26–31. The mathnawî has been printed (respectively lithographed) in Bombay, A.H. 1262, 1266, 1273, 1280, 1294, and A.D. 1890; in Lucknow, A.H. 1282; in Tabriz, A.H. 1264; in Bûlâḳ, with the Turkish commentary of Isma'îl Anḳirawî, A.H. 1251 and 1268; in Constantinople, A.H. 1289; in Ṭahrân, A.H. 1299 (the best of all, by Muḥammad Ṭâhir Mustaufî). Portions of this poem have been translated into German in Tholuck's Blüthensammlung morgenländ. Mystik, p. 53 sq.; and by G. Rosen, 'Mesnewi oder Doppelverse etc.,' Leipzig, 1849; into English (the first book only) by J. W. Redhouse, London, 1881 (Trübner's Oriental Series); extracts are also found in S. Robinson's 'Persian Poetry for English Readers,' 1883, pp. 367–382. An abridged English translation of the whole work, an excellent specimen of sound scholarship, has been published by E. H. Whinfield, 'Masnavi i ma'navi,' London, 1887 (Trübner's Oriental Series).

The present copy is dated the 5th of Dhû-alḥijjah, A.H. 834 (A.D. 1431, Aug. 14), see the colophon: قد تمّ المثنوی المعنوی لمولوی الجلالی البلخی ثمّ الرومی

Daftar I, on fol. 9b (without the prose-preface): بشنو از نی الخ.

Preface of Daftar II, on fol. 84a: در بیان بعضی از حکمت تأخیر این مجلّد دوم الخ.

Daftar II, on fol. 84b: مدّتی این مثنوی الخ.

Preface of Daftar III, on fol. 151a: لله جنود السموات والارض الخ.

Daftar III, on fol. 151b: ای ضیاء الحق الخ.

Preface of Daftar IV, on fol. 238a: الظعن الرابع الخ.

Daftar IV, on fol. 238b: ای ضیاء الحق حسام الدین الخ.

Preface of Daftar VI (which, as a note on the top remarks, is by mistake inserted here), on fol. 309a: مجلّد پنجم (so deliberately changed from the correct ششم) از دفترهای مثنوی مولوی الخ.

Daftar V, on fol. 309b: شد حسام الدین که نور الخ.

Preface of Daftar V (here wrongly inserted instead of the sixth), on fol. 389a: بدانید وآگاه باشید که شریعت الخ.

Daftar VI, on fol. 389b: ای حیوت دل حسام الخ.

The copy ends on fol. 474b, and is dated 16th of Sha'bân, A.H. 1005 (A.D. 1597, April 4). A later note states, that it was bought at Burhânpûr, in Rajab, A.H. 1018 (A.D. 1609, October), and the purchaser appears to have added the prose-prefaces, since at the end of the preface of Daftar VI (before the beginning of Daftar V) the date A.H. 1019, 24th of Dhû-alḳa'dah (A.D. 1611, February 7), is given, and at the end of the preface of Daftar V (before Daftar VI), A.H. 1021 (A.D. 1612, 1613). On fol. 475 about two pages of the end of Daftar VI, which are greatly injured, are repeated, probably by the same purchaser, with the same two dates 1005 and 1018. Collated and annotated throughout.

Bibliotheca Leydeniana.

No. 2875, ff. 475, 2 centre-coll, each ll. 15, and a third on the margin, ll. 30; small Nasta'lîḳ; size, 7⅞ in. by 4½ in.

1064

The same.

The preface of Daftar V is wanting in this copy; all the other prefaces agree with those in the preceding copies.

Daftar I, on fol. 1b; II, on fol. 42a; III, on fol. 82a; IV, on fol. 133a; V, on fol. 174b; VI, on fol. 220a.

Daftar III is dated the 19th of Dhû-alḥijjah, A.H. 1029 (A.D. 1620, Nov. 15); Daftar VI, the 27th of Muḥarram, A.H. 1030 (A.D. 1620, Dec. 22), by 'Abd-alwâḥid ibn Ḳâḍî 'Abd-alwahhâb alṣârî, in the city of Burhânpûr. According to the colophon at the end of Daftar III, the first daftar of the mathnawî contains 3995 baits, the second 3895, the third 4755, the fourth 3800, the fifth 4318, the sixth 5193; that makes together 25,956, but the total sum indicated in this colophon is 26,016, or 26,060, and that given in the colophon of Daftar VI, 26,242. The right number we should suppose to be 26,016, produced by reading 3860 instead of 3800 (سه هزار هشتصد وشصت for سه هزار هشتصد) for the fourth daftar.

Many pages are severely damaged; a great number of them is quite brown with damp. Numerous glosses and additions on the margin.

No. 1386, ff. 1–269, 4 coll., each ll. 25–32; careless Nasta'lîḳ; written by different hands on different paper; size, 13 in. by 7½ in.

1065

The same.

All the daftars have the usual prose-prefaces, the preface of the first, on fol. 1b, breaks off at the end of the first page.

Daftar I, on fol. 2b; II, on fol. 48b; III, on fol. 90b; IV, on fol. 145b; V, on fol. 195b; VI, on fol. 245b (the preface of the last begins here: رَبِّ زِدْنی علماً مجلّد ششم الخ).

This copy was transcribed by Muḥammad Ṭâhir ibn Ḳâḍî Muḥammad 'Alî in the citadel of کوندانه (belonging to Sulṭân Muḥammad 'Âdilshâh); the first daftar was finished the 12th of Dhû-alḳa'dah, A.H. 1066 (A.D. 1656, Sept. 1); the second, the 13th of Dhû-alḥijjah in the same year (A.D. 1656, Oct. 2); the third, the 12th of Muḥarram, A.H. 1067 (A.D. 1656, Oct. 31); the fourth, the 7th of Ṣafar in the same year (A.D. 1656, Nov. 25); the fifth, the 8th of Rabî'-alawwal (A.D. 1656, Dec. 25); and the sixth, the 6th of Jumâdâ-alawwal (A.D. 1657, Feb. 20). Occasionally various readings and short glosses on the margin.

No. 3270, olim H. J. 8, ff. 298, 4 coll., each ll. 15; Nasta'lîḳ; a large illuminated frontispiece at the beginning of each daftar; size, 13⅝ in. by 8¼ in.

The same.

This copy consists of two different parts; the first three daftars are written by Nuṣratkhân at Shâhjahânâbâd (the first two in the ninth, the third in the twelfth year of جلوس والا, which, if 'Âlamgîr's reign is meant, would be A.H. 1076, 1077 and 1079, 1080 respectively = A.D. 1666 and 1669); the last three daftars by Ḍiyâ-allâh ibn Sayyid Khân Muḥammad Ḥusainî Balgrâmî, A.H. 1079 (A.D. 1668, 1669); numerous marginal glosses and various readings. The copy concludes, on fol. 432a, with the introduction of 'Abd-allaṭîf bin 'Abdallâh al-'Abbâsî (see below, Nos. 1088–1090), to Daftar VI: این دفتر دفتریست از نسخهٔ ناسخهٔ مثنویات الخ, and we may conclude from this, that the second half of the copy was transcribed from one of the well-known editions of the mathnawî, compiled by 'Abd-allaṭîf.

The prefaces of the first and the third daftar are wanting; the other four are complete.

Daftar I, on fol. 1b; II, on fol. 76b; III, on fol. 147b; IV, on fol. 222b; V, on fol. 283b; VI, on fol. 355b.

No. 3327, olim 11. J. 14, ff. 432, 2 centre-coll. and 1 margin-col. (ff. 1–221. ll. 17 in the centre, and ll. 30–32 in the margin, written in very careless and irregular Nasta'lîḳ; size, 9 in. by 4¾ in.; ff. 222–432. ll. 19 in the centre, ll. 38 in the margin, written in very small, but distinct Nasta'lîḳ; size, 9¼ in. by 5¼ in.).

The last three daftars of the mathnawî.

This copy contains:

Daftar IV, on fol. 1b; V, on fol. 136b; VI, on fol. 264b.

The preface of the fifth daftar is wanting; the other two are complete.

At the end of the fourth daftar the transcriber's name is given as Muḥammad Sa'idkhân Naḳshbandi; at the end of the fifth a date appears, viz. the 10th of Muḥarram, A.H. 1143 (A.D. 1730, July 26).

Numerous annotations on the margin, especially in the last two daftars; between the fourth and fifth as well as between the fifth and sixth two leaves are left blank.

No. 3260, olim 11. J. 10, ff. 403, 2 coll. each ll. 16-19; irregular Nasta'lîḳ, partly Shikasta; size, 12 in. by 8 in.

A defective copy of the last two daftars of the mathnawi.

Daftar V, on fol. 1a; VI, on fol. 101a; the sixth daftar is incomplete at the end; the last bait appearing here corresponds to fol. 439b, centre-coll., l. 12 in No. 1695 (1061 in this Cat.). The two prefaces are complete. On the first 104 leaves there are occasionally various readings and other additions.

No date.

No. 1993, ff. 158, 2 coll., each ll. 23; an additional third column, containing six baits, is found on the margin of ff. 105-158; Naskhî; the paper dirty and worm-eaten; size, 8⅝ in. by 5½ in.

1082

Another copy of the first daftar of the mathnawi.

Lubb-i-Lubâb (لبّ لباب).

Extracts from the Selections of Jalâl-aldin Rûmî's mathnawi, arranged by Ḥusain bin 'Alî albaihaḳî alkâshifî (see this name on fol. 3a, l. 10), that is Wâ'iẓ Kâshifî (see Nos. 158-161 and 757-767 in this Cat.), who died A.H. 910 (A.D. 1504); comp. Bodleian Cat., Nos. 661 and 662; W. Pertsch, Berlin Cat., pp. 796 and 797, and A. Sprenger, Catal., p. 491. It has a preface in prose.

Beginning of the preface: عين اوّل در جوامع اطوار شريعت در هفت' نهر نهر اوّل سه رشحه' رشحهٔ اوّل ايمان رشحهٔ دوم شهادت رشحهٔ سيوم عبادت الخ.

The beginning, quoted by Pertsch and Sprenger, is found here on fol. 2b, l. 7: بعد از تقديم وظائف ثناء حضرت واجب الوجود الخ.

Beginning of the selections, on fol. 3b, last line: اى كمينه بخشت ملك جهان الخ.

The full title of the work occurs on fol. 3a, last line: نام اين لبّ لباب معنوى ـ انتخاب انتخاب مثنوى that is to say: the title of Ḥusain al-Wâ'iẓ alkâshifî's original selections was لباب معنوى, from which these shorter extracts (لبّ) were made. Two other انتخاب مثنوى are noticed in Rieu ii. p. 592b; and W. Pertsch, Berlin Cat., pp. 795 and 796.

Collated throughout. This copy was finished by Gisû Râi for his own use, the 2nd of Dhû-alḳa'dah, in the 9th year of Muḥammadshâh's reign (= 1140, A.D. 1728, June 10). Two entries of former owners from A.H. 1181 (A.D. 1767, 1768), and 1195 (A.D. 1781), on fol. 1a and the fly-leaf.

No. 254, ff. 1-274, ll. 15; careless Nasta'lîḳ; size, 8½ in. by 4¾ in.

Jawâhir-i-maulawi u la'âlî-i-mathnawi (جواهر مولوی و لآلیٔ[1] مثنوی).

A shorter selection of extracts from Jalâl-aldin Rûmi's mathnawi, made at the request of some Ṣûfic friends, by Maulânâ Abûbakr alshâshi (مولانا ابوبکر الشاشی), see fol. 1b, l. 4, and divided into 63 bâbs. The title appears on fol. 2a, l. 7 (that given on fol. 1a, viz. لبّ لباب مختصر مثنوی مولوی روم, is incorrect). Most of the headings of the 63 bâbs are left blank; the few which are marked are:

1. باب اوّل در بیان نی و سماع, on fol. 2a, beginning with the initial bait of the mathnawi:

بشنو از نی چون حکایت میکند
وز جدائیها شکایت میکند

2. در بیان صفا و تصوّف, on fol. 3b; 5. در بیان زهد, on fol. 6b; 10. در بیان تقوی یقین ورضا, on fol. 12a; 11. در بیان تواضع و مذمّت کردن عجب, on fol. 13a; 12. در بیان مقام جزم (حزم?), on fol. 14b; and 13. در بیان مقام وفا بعهد, on fol. 15a.

Beginning of the short prose-preface: الحمد لله الشاکرین والصلوة علی خیر الذاکرین محمّد و آله الطاهرین الطیّبین اجمعین میگوید شیخ الشیوخ قطب العارفین رئیس اهل الیقین زین الملّة و الدین مولانا ابوبکر الشاشی الخ

Dated the 19th of Dhû-alḥijjah, A.H. 1087 (A.D. 1677, Feb. 22).

No. 3348, olim 19. J. 6, ff. 96, 2 coll., each ll. 11; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 6⅞ in. by 3⅝ in.

Nuskha-i-nâsikha-i-mathnawiyyât-i-saḳîmah (نسخهٔ ناسخهٔ مثنویّات سقیمه).

The revised edition of the mathnawi, with introductions, indices, paraphrases, and annotations, by 'Abd-allaṭîf bin 'Abdallâh al-'Abbâsî (who died A.H. 1048 or 1049=A.D. 1638, 1639), the author of the revised and collated edition of Sanâ'i's Ḥadîḳah, with commentary and glosses, described in Nos. 923 and 924 of this Cat. He collated the mathnawi with more than eighty copies during the years A.H. 1024–1032 (A.D. 1615–1623), prefixed a special introduction and a detailed index to each of the six daftars, added on the margin a Persian paraphrase of the original Arabic prefaces of the first, the third, and the fourth daftar, and a large number of various readings and glosses, and completed his critical task A.H. 1032 (A.D. 1623); see more detailed remarks both on the editor and his work in Bodleian Cat., Nos. 663–665, and Rieu ii. p. 589.

Contents:

Daftar V, on fol. 231b.

Index to Daftar VI, on fol. 287a.

The editor's introduction to Daftar VI, on fol. 288b, beginning: این دفتر دفتریست از نسخهٔ ناسخهٔ مثنویّات سقیمه و مثبّت ومرجّح نسخ مستقیمه که کمترین معتقدان این کتاب و صاحب این کتاب عبد اللّطیف ابن عبد الله العبّاسی الخ.

Preface of Daftar VI, on fol. 289b.

Daftar VI, on fol. 289b.

Copied in the twenty-first year of—probably 'Âlamgîr's reign (=A.H. 1089, A.D. 1678).

No. 1954, ff. 1–351, 4 coll., each ll. 23; small, but distinct Nasta'lîḳ; an illuminated frontispiece at the beginning of each daftar; a small illuminated heading at the top of each preface; size, 10¾ in. by 7 in.

1089

Another copy of the first three daftars of the Nuskha-i-nâsikhah.

Contents:

Index to Daftar I, on fol. 1b.

The same elaborate heading as on fol. 9b in the preceding copy, on fol. 4b.

The original Arabic preface of Daftar I (with the Persian paraphrase on the margin), on fol. 5b.

A short account of the reasons why the mathnawi is divided into six daftars (wanting in the preceding copy), taken from 'Abd-allaṭîf's commentary لطائف المعنوی (see below, No. 1101), and beginning, on fol. 7a: شش دفتر این کتاب را علیحدّه و جدا در شش مجلّد باین جهت جلد کرده شد الخ.

The editor's introduction to Daftar I, on fol. 8a, beginning, as in the preceding copy, fol. 1b: این نسخهٔ ناسخهٔ مثنویّات الخ.

Daftar I, on fol. 27b.

[1] This word is spoiled in the text; there seems to have originally been written لعل, which has later been corrected.

The editor's introduction to Daftar II (wanting in the preceding copy), beginning, on fol. 165b: این دفتریست از نسخهٔ ناسخهٔ مثنویّات الخ.

Index to Daftar II, on ff. 166b and 168a.

Preface of Daftar II, on fol. 167b; beginning quite different from that in the other copies, viz. امّا بعد بدان ای سعید جویای جوهر سعادت الخ.

Daftar II, on fol. 168a.

Index to Daftar III, on fol. 278a.

The editor's introduction to Daftar III (taken from the لطائف المعنوی, wanting in the preceding copy), on fol. 281b, beginning: حکمتها یعنی دانشهای استوارد کردد شد الخ.

Daftar III, on fol. 282b.

The same large number of glosses, explanations, and additions on the margin, as in the preceding copy.

Copied by Shaikh 'Abd-allaṭif of Banâras (not identical with the editor), A. H. 1060=A. D. 1650 (so correctly in spite of a strange مائتان between the words الف وستّین, since there is an entry by Capt. Dow from 1764, Nov. 20, on the fly-leaf).

No. 3326, olim 11. J. 11, ff. 406, 2 coll., each ll. 17; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 9⅝ in. by 6 in.

Another copy of the last three daftars of the Nuskha-i-nâsikhah.

Contents:

The editor's introduction to Daftar IV (taken from the لطائف المعنوی, wanting in No. 1088 above), on fol. 1b, beginning: این دفتر دفتریست از نسخهٔ ناسخهٔ مثنویّات الخ.

Index to Daftar IV, on fol. 2b.

Persian paraphrase of the original Arabic preface of Daftar IV, on fol. 5a, beginning: همه سپاس وستایش مر جناب مقدّس الخ.

The original Arabic preface of Daftar IV, on fol. 7b, beginning here: الحمد لله حقّ حمده والصّلوة والسّلام الخ.

Daftar IV, on fol. 8a.

The editor's introduction to Daftar V (wanting in No. 1088 above), on fol. 67b, beginning exactly like the preceding introduction, and in fact like all the other introductions supplied by 'Abd-allaṭif.

Index to Daftar V, on fol. 68b.

Preface of Daftar V, on fol. 73b.

Daftar V, on fol. 74a.

The editor's introduction to Daftar VI, on fol. 144b (identical with that in No. 1088 above).

Index to Daftar VI, on fol. 145b.

Preface of Daftar VI, on fol. 148b.

Daftar VI, on fol. 148b.

The same large number of glosses, various readings, and additions on the margin as in No. 1088 above. A date of transcription appears at the end of the fourth daftar, viz. the 1st of Ṣafar in the sixth year of the جلوس همایون (probably the sixth year of 'Âlamgîr's reign=A. H. 1074, A. D. 1663, Sept. 4).

No. 3271, olim 11. J. 9, ff. 225, 4 coll., each ll. 19; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 13⅝ in. by 7¾ in.

Laṭâ'if-allughât (لطائف اللغات).

A special glossary to the mathnawî, compiled by the same 'Abd-allaṭîf bin 'Abdallâh al-'Abbâsî, who prepared it for his intended revised edition of the text (as exhibited in the three preceding copies), from the Ḳâmûs (see Bodleian Cat., No. 1674), the Ṣurâḥ (ib., Nos. 1645–1649), the Kanz-allughât (ib., No. 1670), the Farhang-i-Jahângîrî, by Mîr Jamâl-aldîn Ḥusain Injû (ib., Nos. 1734–1746), the Kashf-allughât, by 'Abd-alraḥîm bin Aḥmad Sûr (ib., Nos. 1721–1724), the Madâr-alafâḍil, by Shaikh Hâhdâd Faiḍî Sirhindî (ib., Nos. 1727 and 1728), the Mu'ayyid-alfuḍalâ, by Shaikh Muḥammad bin Lâd (ib., No. 1720), and a great number of other dictionaries, etc. It is arranged alphabetically in this way, that the first letter constitutes the bâb and the last the faṣl. In most copies of this work there is stated above every word in red ink, whether it is Arabic, Persian, Turkish, Syriac, etc.; ع signifies Arabic (عربی); ف Persian (فارسی); ت Turkish (ترکی); س Syriac (سریانی); عف common to Arabic and Persian (کلمهٔ که میانهٔ عربی وفارسی مشترك است); تف common to Turkish and Persian (لفظی که میانهٔ ترکی وفارسی مشترك باشد); ذه common to Persian and Hindûstânî (لفظی که میانهٔ فارسی وهندی مختلطست); and عه common to Arabic and Hindûstânî (آنچه میانهٔ عربی وهندی ملتبس است). Other copies of this glossary are described in Rieu ii. p. 590b, and W. Pertsch, Berlin Cat., pp. 230 and 231.

Beginning: این فرهنگیست مشتمل بر حلّ لغات غریبهٔ عربیّه والفاظ عجمیّهٔ عجمیّهٔ مثنوی مولوی معنوی الخ.

The first word explained in this glossary is استثنا.

Collated and annotated throughout. Dated by دلپت رای ابن چیتو جودهری in Dhû-alḥijjah, A. H. 1051 (A. D. 1642, March). The Laṭâ'if-allughât (which have been lithographed under the title of فرهنگ مثنوی in Lucknow, 1877) end on fol. 182b. The remaining seventy leaves of this MS. contain different prose-pieces and larger fragments, viz. extracts from Persian dictionaries, on ff. 184b–227; letters and notes, on ff. 228a–233; a lexicographical fragment, on fol. 234a sq.; a collection of Persian poetry with extracts from Ḥâfiẓ, Amîr Khusrau, Shâpûr (of Rai or Ṭahrân, died about A. H. 1021=A. D. 1612, 1613, see Bodleian Cat., Nos. 1072 and 1073), Jâmî, Shifâ'î, Anwarî, etc., on ff. 240a–252.

No. 1033, ff. 252, ll. 21; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 9½ in. by 5¼ in.

Another copy of the same glossary.

Beginning as in the preceding copy. Dated the 25th of Ramaḍân, in the 21st year of 'Âlamgir's reign, A. H. 1089 (A. D. 1678, Nov. 10), by the same hand which wrote No. 1088 above.

No. 1954, ff. 352–449, ll. 23; small, but distinct Nasta'lîḳ; illuminated frontispiece; size, 10½ in. by 7 in.

1093

The same.

Dated the 2nd of Ṣafar, A. H. 1109 (A. D. 1697, Aug. 20), by Muḥammad 'Alî.

No. 2062, ff. 222, ll. 16; clear Nasta'lîḳ; illuminated frontispiece; size, 9¾ in. by 4¾ in.

1094

The same.

Dated the 27th of Ramaḍân, A. H. 1135 (A. D. 1723, July 1). Ff. 186b and 187a are left blank by mistake. On the fly-leaves a fragment in Arabic: الباب الثانى فى بيان الموجودات.

No. 2070, ff. 426, ll. 12; large Nasta'lîḳ, written by different hands; size, 9 in. by 5 in.

1095

The same.

This very good and correct copy is not dated.

No. 1826, ff. 175, ll. 17; written by two different hands in Nasta'lîḳ, the first on ff. 1–77, the second on ff. 78–175; size, 9¾ in. by 6¼ in.

1096

This copy, likewise not dated, was written by Sayyid Jamâl-aldîn, in the service of Sayyid Kamâl-aldîn Bukhârî. Large water-spots on the last leaves.

College of Fort William, 1825.

No. 2082, ff. 102, ll. 25–29; small Naskhî and Shikasta mixed; size, 9¾ in. by 7½ in.

1097

The same.

No date. Many pages badly injured.

No. 1693, ff. 267, ll. 17; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 9¾ in. by 5¾ in.

Jawâhir-alasrâr wa Zawâhir-alanwâr (جواهر الاسرار وزواهر الانوار).

The first half of one of the oldest commentaries, perhaps the oldest of all, on the mathnawî in form of a detailed analysis of the poem, by Maulânâ Kamâl-aldîn Ḥusain bin Ḥasan of Khwârizm, who died A. H. 840 (A. D. 1436, 1437) or 845 (A. D. 1441, 1442); the first date is given in Ḥ. Khalfa v. p. 375, the second ib., vi. p. 90; comp. on this work, Bodleian Cat., Nos. 666 and 667; Rieu ii. p. 588; W. Pertsch, Berlin Cat., pp. 793 and 794, and A. Sprenger, Catal., p. 493. The author had previously compiled a collection of discourses on the mathnawî, entitled كنوز الحقائق فى رموز الدقائق. The present copy, which, like all the copies extant, comprises the first three daftars only, contains neither author's name nor date; it only gives the title on fol. 6a, ll. 7 and 8, and the name of the prince, to whom the commentary was dedicated, Nâṣir-aldîn Abû-almanâḳib Ibrâhîm Sulṭân, the ruler of Khwârizm, on fol. 5b, l. 13. From other copies we learn that the second daftar was commenced A. H. 834 (A. D. 1430, 1431); the author's spiritual guide was Khwâjah Abû-alwafâ, who died A. H. 835 (A. D. 1431, 1432), see Rieu, loc. cit. There is also wanting in this copy the preliminary discourse in ten maḳâlas, the headings of which in Persian are given in the Bodleian Cat., loc. cit., and the contents in English by Rieu.

Beginning, on fol. 1b: حمد بيحدّ وغايت وثناى بيعدّ ونهايت حضرت پادشاهى الخ.

Introduction (فاتحة الابواب فى سبب تأليف الكتاب), on fol. 4b; containing besides a chapter on the division of men according to their more or less advanced Ṣûfic stage.

Daftar I, on fol. 8a; II, on fol. 180a; III, on fol. 319b. No date.

No. 2058, ff. 481, ll. 19; irregular Nasta'lîḳ; size, 8¾ in. by 4½ in.

Ḥâshiya-i-Dâ'î (حاشية داعى).

Another old commentary on the mathnawî, also styled simply شرح مثنوى or كتاب حاشية مثنوى (the book of glosses to the mathnawî), at the end of the first three daftars (on ff. 72a, 92a and 114a respectively), compiled by Niẓâm-aldîn Maḥmûd bin al-Ḥasan al-ḥusainî of Shîrâz, with the takhalluṣ Dâ'î, who, according to the statement in A. Sprenger, Catal., p. 387, was born A. H. 815 (A. D. 1412), but according to the more correct wording of the phrase in question in Bodleian Cat., No. 883, A. H. 810 (A. D. 1407, 1408), and collected his dîwân A. H. 865 (A. D. 1460, 1461), when he was 55 years old (پنجاه وپنج, as is distinctly written there). Other copies of this commentary are noticed in A. Sprenger, Catal., p. 494; Hammer, Handschriften, No. 126 (where the contents are given), and W. Pertsch, Berlin Cat., p. 792 (a number of fragments only); lithographed at Lucknow, A. H. 1282.

Beginning: اللّهمّ صلّ على السيّد الفتّاح لخاتم محمّد مصطفى وآله المرتضى وبارك وسلّم عزيز من اين ناگزيريست معنوى برموارد مثنوى كه از قلم داعى الخ.

Daftar I, on fol. 1b; II, on fol. 72a; III, on fol. 92a; IV, on fol. 114a; V, on fol. 152a; VI, on fol. 198a.

Dated the 12th of Sha'bân, A. H. 1128=A. D. 1716, Aug. 1 (so correctly هجرى سنة ١١٢٨); in the additional words يكهزار وبيست وهشت هجرى النبوى there is omitted by mistake وصد after يكهزار), by Ján Muḥammad, the son of 'Abd-alfattâḥ Gujarâtî Bijâpûrî (the learned expounder of the mathnawî, who died A. H. 1090=A. D. 1679, see Rieu iii. p. 1090ª), who transcribed the first two daftars from a copy made by one of the most intimate pupils of his father, 'Abd-alfattâḥ, Mîr Muḥammad Shâh.

No. 734, ff. 281, ll. 25; excellent Nasta'lîḳ; size, 16½ in. by 9½ in.

Another, but incomplete copy of the same.

This copy contains the first five daftars only; Daftar VI is entirely missing. A complete index of the contents of these five daftars, on ff. 1–22.

Beginning, on fol. 23ᵇ: الحمد لله ربّ العالمين والصّلوة والسّلام على خير خلقه محمّد وآله وصحبه اجمعين' امّا بعد بدان عزيز من كه اين نا گزيريست معنوى بر موارد مثنوى كه از قلم الخ.

Daftar I, on fol. 24ª; II, on fol. 181ᵇ; III, on fol. 229ª; IV, on fol. 281ᵇ; V, on fol. 343ᵇ. This copy is collated, but not dated.

No. 663, ff. 424, ll. 15; irregular Nasta'lîḳ; large water-spots on the first leaves; size, 8½ in. by 5 in.

Laṭâ'if-alma'nawî min ḥaḳâ'iḳ-almathnawî (لطائف المعنوى من حقائق المثنوى).

A commentary on the mathnawî, by 'Abd-allaṭîf bin 'Abdallâh al-'Abbâsî, the compiler of the critical edition of the poem, styled نسخهٔ ناسخه (see Nos. 1088–1090 in this Cat.), and of the special glossary to the same, the لطائف اللغات (Nos. 1091–1097 above). It is dedicated to the emperor Shâhjahân, and explains difficult Persian verses, Arabic phrases, quotations from the Ḳurân, etc.; comp. Rieu ii. p. 590; A. Sprenger, Catal., p. 494; and W. Pertsch, Berlin Cat., pp. 794 and 795. Lithographed at Lucknow, 1866; at Cawnpore, 1876.

Beginning: شرح بعضى ابيات مشكلهٔ فارسى وترجمهٔ اشعار معضله وديباچهاى تازهٔ مثنوىٔ مولوىٔ معنوى و برخى از فوائد الخ.

The original Arabic preface of Daftar I, on fol. 4ª.

Daftar I, on fol. 6ª; II, on fol. 50ᵇ; III, on fol. 88ª; IV, on fol. 135ᵇ; V, on fol. 164ᵇ; VI, on fol. 199ᵇ.

Dated the 4th of Jumâdâ-althânî, A. H. 1080 (A. D. 1669, Oct. 30). The first owner of the copy was Shaikh Muḥammad Amjad, a descendant of Shaikh Ḥamîd Zain-aldîn alja'farî alzainabî. Occasionally glosses and additions on the margin.

No. 382, ff. 227, ll. 19; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 10½ in. by 7 in.

Mirât-almathnawî (مرآة المثنوى).

Fragment of another commentary on the mathnawî, by the same 'Abd-allaṭîf, comprising the fourth, fifth, and part of the sixth daftar of the poem. Title and author's name appear in the preface to Daftar VI, on ff. 55–56. The copy begins with the initial words of the original Arabic preface of Daftar IV, together with a Persian paraphrase: الحمد لله حقّ حمده والصّلوة والسّلام على خير خلقه الخ ترجمهٔ ديباچهٔ عربى همه سپاس وستايش مر جناب مقدّس الخ.

Daftar V, on fol. 31ª; VI, on fol. 56ᵇ.

The arrangement of this commentary is quite the same as in the preceding work, to which the author often refers and from which he gives many quotations. Here, as there, Arabic sentences, traditions, verses of the Ḳurân, and difficult Persian baits are translated or explained.

No. 1960, ff. 64, ll. 11; Nasta'lîḳ, written by two different hands (the second from fol. 49 to fol. 64); size, 10–10½ in. by 5½–5¾ in.

Miftâḥ-alma'ânî (مفتاح المعانى).

Another complete commentary on the mathnawî, styled مفتاح المعانى (see fol. 2ᵇ, l. 6), by Sayyid 'Abd-alfattâḥ alḥusainî al'askarî (see fol. 2ª, l. 10). According to A. Sprenger, Catal., p. 492, this commentary was collected by the author's pupil Hidâyat-allâh, A. H. 1049 (A. D. 1639, 1640); another work of the same 'Abd-alfattâḥ alḥusainî al'askarî is the درّ مكنون or selections from the mathnawî in systematical arrangement with explanations, see ib.

Beginning: حمد و ستايش ذاتى را كه بمقتضاى احببت ان اعرف فخلقت لخلق الخ.

Daftar I, on fol. 2ᵇ; II, on fol. 57ᵇ; III, on fol. 95ª; IV, on fol. 130ª; V, on fol. 166ª; VI, on fol. 209ᵇ. The second and the fourth daftar are dated at Shâhjahânâbâd, the 21st of Muḥarram, A. H. 1065 (or rather 1067, as we think, the ٥ probably being a closed or contracted ٧ in consequence of hasty writing), and the 26th of Ṣafar, A. H. 1067 respectively (=A. D. 1656, Nov. 9 and Dec. 14). The copy is greatly injured throughout; in most pages parts of the inner corner are entirely torn away.

Bibliotheca Leydeniana.

No. 2033, ff. 251, ll. 17; careless Nasta'lîḳ; size, 8½ in. by 5½ in.

1104

Sharḥ-i-mathnawî, by Nûr-allâh (شرح مثنوى تصنيف نور الله).

A commentary on the mathnawî, by Shâh Mîr Muḥammad Nûr-allâh Aḥrârî (see fol. 2ª, l. 1), also called Akbarâbâdî (see Rieu ii. p. 592), who, if he is identical with the Mîr Nûr-allâh, mentioned, in Rieu ii. p. 604, as the master of 'Abd-alrasûl alḳurashî, who submitted to him his commentary on the Bûstân, composed A. H. 1073 (A. D. 1662, 1663), must have been a younger contemporary of 'Abd-allaṭîf, the editor and commentator of the same mathnawî, whom he often quotes and corrects. Other copies of this work are noticed in Rieu, loc. cit.; Bodleian Cat., No. 669, and A. Sprenger, Catal., pp. 495 and 496. Beginning: الحمد لله العلى الاعلى الوهّاب الذى انزل على عبده الكتاب هدى للمتّقين الخ.

Daftar I, on fol. 2b.

This daftar is incomplete, it breaks off on fol. 67b in consequence of a lacuna.

Beginning of Daftar II, on fol. 68b: تا نزايد بخت تو فرزند تو الخ لفظ بخت اگرچه بفتح اوّل مشهور است امّا بضمّ اوّل الخ.

Beginning of Daftar III, on fol. 119b: اى ضياء الحق حسام الدين بيار — اين سوم دفتر كه سنّت شد سه بار، سنّت خود مطلق بمراعات عدد طاق است الخ.

Beginning of Daftar IV, on fol. 171a: دفتر چهارم باقيّ حكايت آن عاشق، گر زبان كردم الخ يعنى اگر از وى نمى گريختم مرا ميگرفت الخ.

Beginning of Daftar V, on fol. 207b: شد حسام الدين كه نور انجم است — طالب آغاز سفر پنجم است، سفر بكسر اوّل كتاب و نامه اينجا بمعنىٔ كتاب مناسب است الخ.

Beginning of Daftar VI, on fol. 240b: شد دهان شان تلخ زان شرم وخجل — كه قرين شد نام اعظم با اقل، خجل بفتحتين مصدر است الخ.

The second daftar is dated the 26th of Ramaḍân, A.H. 1158 (A.D. 1745, Oct. 22); the rest is without a date. All the introductions to the text, written in red on the first 144 leaves, are entirely omitted from fol. 145 down to the end.

No. 723, ff. 282, ll. 15–20; written by many different hands, partly in Nasta'lîḳ, partly in Shikasta; size, 8 in. by 4½–4¾ in.

Mukâshafât-i-Riḍawî (مكاشفات رضوى).

Complete commentary on the mathnawî, compiled by Muḥammad Riḍâ in A.H. 1084 (A.D. 1673, 1674, see fol. 2a, ll. 5, 9, and 14); comp. A. Sprenger, Catal., p. 495.

Beginning of the preface of Daftar I: نه حمدى سزاوار آفريدگار جهان و جهانيان است بر هر حامدى كاشف اسرار الخ.

The initial bait of the mathnawî appears on fol. 2a, introduced like all the baits of the text by the word متن. This daftar is dated the 2nd of Ṣafar, A.H. 1165 (A.D. 1751, Dec. 21).

Daftar II, on fol. 141b, dated the 21st of the same month (A.D. 1752, Jan. 9).

Daftar III, on fol. 186b, dated the 14th of Rabî'-alawwal in the same year (A.D. 1752, Jan. 31).

Daftar IV, on fol. 224b; V, on fol. 248b; VI, on fol. 272b.

The last daftar is dated the 19th of Rabî'-althânî, A.H. 1165 (A.D. 1752, March 6).

No. 2000, ff. 299, ll. 17; small, but clear Nasta'lîḳ; size, 8¾ in. by 4¾ in.

Taṣḥîḥ-i-mathnawî (تصحيح مثنوى).

A critical and explanatory commentary on the mathnawî, imperfect at the end. The compiler was Muḥammad Hâshim, called Faiḍân (فيضان), the son of Muḥammad Kâẓim alḥasanî alḥusainî alnajafî (who may be identical with Muḥammad Kâẓim, the author of the عالمگيرنامه, see Nos. 347–357 in this Cat.), and the date of composition is A.H. 1122=A.D. 1710, 1711 (the title being a chronogram).

Beginning: سبحان العليم الخبير الذى بكمال الحمد والثناء جدير وبكلّ الموجودات بصير و على ايجاد الممكنات قدير الخ.

The explanation of verses and phrases in the mathnawî begins with the preface of Daftar I, on fol. 2b.

No date.

No. 2012, ff. 240, ll. 15; Nasta'lîḳ, written by three or four different hands; size, 9¼ in. by 5¾ in.

1107

Makhzan-alasrâr (مخزن الاسرار).

Part of the commentary on the mathnawî by Shâh Walî Muḥammad ibn Shaikh Ruḥm-allâh of Akbarâbâd, which was compiled, as it seems, between A.H. 1140 and 1151 (A.D. 1727–1738); comp. W. Pertsch, Berlin Cat., pp. 791 and 792, and A. Sprenger, Catal., p. 495. The present copy contains the fifth Daftar of the mathnawî only, beginning:

باز ميرانم قلم در حمد حق
ميكنم ار سرقدم در حمد حق
چه سر وچه پا بحمد آيم بجان
مى سرايم حمد اورا بى زبان الخ

There are lacunas after fol. 84 (comprising two leaves), after fol. 85 (comprising four leaves), after fol. 86 (comprising again two leaves), and after fol. 88 (comprising six leaves). The commentary begins on fol. 5b; ff. 1a–4a contain a detailed index of this daftar. A complete copy of this commentary seems not to be extant; the Berlin copy contains the sixth daftar only; the various copies noticed in A. Sprenger, loc. cit., the first, second, and sixth.

No date.

No. 1673, ff. 151, ll. 19; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 10 in. by 5¾ in.

1108

Sharḥ-i-mathnawî, by Na'îm (شرح مثنوى تصنيف نعيم).

A defective copy of the commentary on the mathnawî, by Mîr Muḥammad Na'îm, beginning abruptly in the middle of Daftar I: پس اين قسم رعايت اسباب كه محض برأى حفظ دين بود ومدّت قليل الخ.

The first bait commented upon runs thus:

جهد حق است ودوا حق است و درد
منكر اندر نفي جهدش جهد كرد

Daftar II, on fol. 29a; III is missing; IV, on fol. 44b; V, on fol. 65a; VI, on fol. 91b.

No date. The colophon states that the author compiled this commentary, which merely explains certain difficult verses and does not at all aim at a full and exhaustive treatment of the subject, for the sake of Ṣûfîs (طالبان راه خدا). A few various readings on the margin.

No. 1202, ff. 113, ll. 21; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 8¾ in. by 5 in.

Diwân-i-Shams-i-Tabrîz (دیوان شمس تبریز).

An excellent and very rich collection of the minor or lyrical poems of Jalâl-aldîn Rûmî, usually styled دیوان شمس تبریز, since the poet uses as takhallus in his ghazals the name of his spiritual guide, Shams-aldîn of Tabrîz (whose death is commonly fixed in A. H. 645= A. D. 1247, 1248), but of course known also as دیوان مولانا رومی or دیوان جلال الدین رومی; other copies of the whole or of extracts of this diwân are described in Bodleian Cat., Nos. 673–675; Rieu ii. p. 593 sq.; W. Pertsch, p. 69, and Berlin Cat., pp. 798 and 799; A. Sprenger, Catal., p. 497; G. Flügel i. p. 522 sq.; Cat. Codd. Or. Lugd. Bat. ii. p. 113; J. Aumer, p. 16; Cat. des MSS. et Xylographes, p. 214; Krafft, p. 65 etc. The whole diwân has been lithographed in Lucknow, 1879; one of the Tarji'ât has been printed in Ṭahrân, A. H. 1274. Select poems have been edited, with metrical German translation, by Vincenz von Rosenzweig, in 'Auswahl aus den Diwanen des grössten mystischen Dichters Persiens, Mewlana Dschelaleddin Rumi,' Vienna, 1838; others have been poetically reproduced in German by Rückert etc.

Contents:

Preface in prose, by the anonymous editor of this collection, who compiled it in Rabî'-alawwal, A. H. 817 (A. D. 1414, May, June), comp. Bodleian Cat., No. 673; beginning: حمد موفور و ثنای نامحصور پاك از وصمت فتور و قصور الخ.

Ghazals, in alphabetical order, on fol. 6b, beginning:

شاه جسم وجان ما خندان کن دندان ما (MS. ای)
سرمه کش چشمان ما ای چشم جانرا توتیا

Tarji'ât, on fol. 482a, beginning:

شاهد ما زرخ گرفت نقاب ــ گرخورشید پرتوی بر تاب

A few ḳiṭ'as at the end of this part.

Rubâ'îs and some fards, on fol. 494a, beginning:

در مذهب عشّاق قراری دگرست
وین بادهٔ ناب را خماری دگرست

No date. This MS. was purchased at Ḥaidarâbâd, the 25th of June, 1784, for forty rupees.

No. 208, ff. 505, 2 centre-coll., each ll. 17, and a third on the margin, ll. 34; Nasta'lîḳ; two illuminated frontispieces on ff. 1b and 6b; size, 9¾ in. by 5 in.

1110

Another copy of the same.

Another excellent, but smaller collection of the same poems (with a few insignificant blanks), containing:

Ghazals, on fol. 1b, arranged alphabetically, except the first.

Beginning of the initial poem:

الحمد لله الذی قدرانه نعت الازل
الماجد الفرد الذی غفرانه یمحو الذلل

Beginning of the first alphabetical ghazal, on fol. 2a:

ای دل چه اندیشیدهٔ در عذر این تقصیرها
زان سوی او چندان وفا زین سوی تو چندان جفا

One tarji'band, on fol. 242b, followed by rubâ'îs in alphabetical arrangement, on fol. 245b. Beginning of the first rubâ'î:

از بادهٔ لعل ناب شد گوهر ما ــ آمد بفغان زدست ما ساغر ما

No date.

No. 3383, olim 19. J. 9, ff. 257, 2 coll., each ll. 21; excellent Nasta'lîḳ; illuminated frontispiece; size, 9 in. by 5¾ in.

1111

The same.

A very old and large, but unfortunately somewhat confused and extremely defective copy of Jalâl-aldîn Rûmî's diwân, consisting of several sections, each of which is arranged alphabetically.

First section, ghazals intermixed with Tarji'ât, on fol. 5b, beginning, like the preceding copy, with the unalphabetical poem: الحمد لله الذی الخ.

The second ghazal (the first alphabetical one) begins: داد وگفت ای پادشا چون بی نیازی تو زما الخ.

A few other ghazals in the middle and also the last one are unalphabetical; two lacunas after ff. 26 and 32, the former breaking off with the fifth bait of a ghazal in ت, beginning: باز رسیدیم زمیخانه مست الخ, corresponding to No. 203 (1109 in this Cat.), fol. 81a, last line; the latter with the second bait of a ghazal in د, beginning: رفتیم و بقیّه را بقا باد الخ, corresponding to No. 203, fol. 100b, margin, l. 6 ab infra.

Second section, of similar contents, on fol. 210b, beginning: عقل در یابد ترا یا عشق یا جان صفا الخ.

Lacunas after ff. 266 (267a filled with a horoscope), 298, 328, and 366; the first breaking off with the second bait of a ghazal in د, beginning: در تابش خورشیدست الخ, corresponding to No. 203, fol. 124a margin, l. 19; after the second all ghazals in ر and a number of those in ز are missing; the first complete ghazal, on fol. 299a, begins: ساقیٔ روحانیان روح شدم خیز خیز, corresponding to No. 203, fol. 200a margin, l. 1; the third breaking off with the fourth bait of a ghazal in م, beginning: از اصل چو حور زاد باشیم الخ, corresponding to No. 203, fol. 261b, l. 5, whilst fol. 329a opens with a poem in ن: ای زهجران تو مردم طرب وراحت الخ; the fourth breaking off in a ghazal in ی, beginning: اگر آب وگل مارا چو جان و دل پری بودی الخ, which cannot be traced in No. 203, nor in any of the other copies.

Third section, of ghazals, on fol. 373a, beginning with a poem in د: ای که بر روی تو خورشید فلك کرده سجود الخ, after which at once ghazals in ر follow. A large lacuna after fol. 387 (fol. 388 filled with scribbling), which breaks off with the second bait of a ghazal in ر, beginning: ای دلیر مهروی من الخ, which cannot be traced in the other copies; fol. 389a begins in the middle of a ghazal in ی. On fol. 407a sq. a series of rubâ'is; at the end some poems without alphabetical order, again with lacunas after ff. 419 and 424.

Ff. 1–5a contain a story in prose (حکایت) not connected with the dîwân at all. At the end of the first section appears the date A. H. 825 (A. D. 1422), and the name of the transcriber of that part of the MS., Muḥammad 'Âdil Ḳâsimkhân, of Harât. On fol. 1a among other entries the date A. H. 1022 (A. D. 1613).

College of Fort William, 1825.

No. 2232, ff. 425, 2 coll., sometimes three and four, varying between 11 and 25 lines in a page; written partly in Nasta'lîḳ, partly in Shikasta, by a great number of different hands; size, 11¼ in. by 7 in.

1112

The same.

This copy, very large and in good condition, but undated, contains only ghazals in alphabetical order, beginning:

حجاب از چشم بگشائی که سبحان الذی اسرا
هزاران عقل برباثی که سبحان الذی اسرا corresponding to No. 203 (1109 in this Cat.), fol. 44a, l. 3 (where the second hemistich of this initial bait is found in the second bait); the dîwân concludes on fol. 425, and is followed on fol. 426a by a ḳaṣîdah, headed: منقبت از شمس تبریز, and beginning:

تا صورت پیوند جهان بود علی بود
تا نقش زمین بود زمان بود علی بود

Copied at Barîlî at the request of Muḥammadkhân Bahâdur, by Aḥmadshâh of Lâhûr (احمد شاه لاهوری).

No. 258, ff. 426, 2 coll., each ll. 11; excellent Nasta'lîḳ; 8 in. by 5¼ in.

1113

The same.

Another collection of Jalâl-aldîn Rûmî's ghazals in alphabetical order, defective at the end, and forming the second half of the complete dîwân of the poet; it begins with poems rhyming in م and breaks off in a poem rhyming in ی. According to the Arabic paging the missing first half of this dîwân must have contained 406 leaves (this copy beginning with fol. ۴۰۷).

Beginning of the first ghazal in م:

ای عاشقان ای عاشقان از جان غلام حیدرم
زیرا که اندر راه دین حیدر مرا شد رهبرم

This copy is a little worm-eaten and slightly injured in many places. Occasionally various readings on the margin.

No. 550, ff. 276, 2 coll., each ll. 19; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 12 in. by 6½ in.

1114

The same.

Another defective copy of ghazals in alphabetical order, beginning:

ای طائران قدس را عشقت فزوده بالها
در خرمن سودای تو روحانیان را حالها

corresponding to No. 203 (1109 in this Cat.), fol. 18a margin, l. 3, and No. 2232 (1111 in this Cat.), fol. 7b, l. 4 ab infra (in both these copies there is in the second hemistich در حلقهٔ substituted for در خرمن); the initial poem of No. 203 (1109 in this Cat.) is found here on fol. 4b. Lacunas after ff. 191 (ff. 192–194 left blank) and 196. On fol. 1a a seal of Abû Sa'îd Aḥmad, with the date A. H. 1096 (A. D. 1685).

No. 2478, ff. 196, 2 centre-coll., each ll. 23, and a third on the margin, ll. 48; Nasta'lîḳ; illuminated frontispiece; many pages a little worm-eaten; size, 9¼ in. by 6 in.

The same.

A smaller collection of ghazals in alphabetical order, defective at the beginning; it opens in the middle of a ghazal rhyming in ا, on fol. 271b. The second (i.e. the first complete one) begins in l. 5 of the same page: ساقیا در نوش آور شیرهٔ عنقود را الخ, corresponding to No. 203 (1109 in this Cat.), fol. 23a margin, l. 17. Some rubâ'is at the end. A few additions on the margin. This copy is written by the same hand as No. 1064 above, i.e. about A. H. 1029 and 1030 (A. D. 1620, 1621).

No. 1386, ff. 271–335, 4 coll., each ll. 27–36; careless Nasta'lîḳ; size, 13 in. by 7¼ in.

Dîwân-i-'Irâḳi (دیوان عراقی).

A collection of lyrical poems by Fakhr-aldîn Ibrâhîm bin Shahriyâr 'Irâḳî, of Hamadân, who died A. H. 686 or 688 (A. D. 1287–1289), or, according to Daulatshâh and Taḳi Kâshî, A. H. 709 (A. D. 1309), without any alphabetical order, comprising:

Ḳaṣîdas, tarji'bands, and ghazals, with a few rubâ'is and fards at the end. Beginning of the first ḳaṣîdah (the initial bait of which is evidently omitted), on fol. 1b:

تا کی آخر بر لب دریا نشینم خشك لب
تا کی از دون همتی کردم بگرد آبگیر

comp. Bodleian Cat., No. 680; Rieu ii. p. 593 sq.; A. Sprenger, Catal., p. 440 sq.; and Rosen, Persian MSS., pp. 203–205. A small collection of ghazals is noticed in W. Pertsch, Berlin Cat., p. 700 (No. 32).

The initial poem of the Bodleian, British Museum, and Oudh copies is not found in this collection.

No date. The MS. may be 200 years old.

No. 2788, ff. 88, 2 coll., each ll. 15; clear and distinct Nasta'lîḳ; size, 8¾ in. by 5 in.

Sa'dî (Nos. 1117–1185).

Kulliyyât-i-Sa'dî (كلّيّات سعدى).

The oldest copy extant (transcribed directly from the author's autograph: ....منقول من خطّ الشيخ العارف السّعدى, see fol. 310a) of the complete works of the greatest didactic poet of Persia, Sa'dî, whose original name seems to have been Musharrif-aldîn bin Muṣliḥ-aldîn (so it appears in the colophon of the خواتيم of the present copy, fol. 310a: مشرّف بن مصلح السّعدى; others call him Sharaf-aldîn Muṣliḥ bin 'Abdallâh; see, for instance, Haft Iḳlîm, No. 191, col. 392, in this Cat.) of Shîrâz, who was probably born about A.H. 580 (A.D. 1184), and died at the age of 110 lunar years, A.H. 690 (A.D. 1291); a slightly later date of his death, viz. A.H. 691 (A.D. 1292), is given by Daulat-shâh, Jâmî, the Butkhâna (Bodleian Cat., col. 199, No. 29), the Mirât-alkhayâl (ib., col. 208, No. 27), the Âtashkadah, in one of the Bodleian copies (ib., col. 284, No. 656), the Khulâṣat-alkalâm (ib., coll. 297 and 298, No. 34), the Khulâṣat-alafkâr (ib., col. 306, No. 121), etc.; comp. on his life and works, Bodleian Cat., Nos. 681–748; Rieu ii. p. 595 sq.; W. Pertsch, p. 88 sq., and Berlin Cat., pp. 800–826; A. Sprenger, Catal., p. 545 sq.; G. Flügel i. p. 527 sq.; Cat. des MSS. et Xylographes, p. 337 sq.; Rosen, Persian MSS., pp. 175–202; J. Aumer, p. 16 sq.; Ouseley, Biogr. Notices, p. 5 sq.; Wiener Jahrbücher, vol. 64, Anzeigeblatt, p. 5 sq.; and especially Cholmogorov, in the 'Gelehrte Denkschriften der Kasaner Universität,' 1865, p. 525 sq., and 1867 (reprinted Kasan, 1867), and Dr. W. Bacher, Sa'dî-Studien, in Zeitschrift der D. M. G., vol. 30, pp. 81–106, and Sa'dî's Aphorismen und Sinngedichte, Strassburg, 1879 (with Fleischer's critical remarks in Zeitschrift der D. M. G., vol. 34, pp. 389–402); comp. also F. Nève, Le poëte Sadi, Louvain, 1881, and Ethé, Die mystische, didaktische und lyrische Poesie etc. der Perser, Hamburg, 1888, pp. 31–37; editions of the Kulliyyât (printed or lithographed), Calcutta, 1791–1795, by Mr. J. H. Harington, 2 vols.; Bombay, A.H. 1226, 1267, 1280 etc.; Dihlî, A.H. 1269; Cawnpore, A.H. 1280; Lucknow, A.H. 1287; Tabrîz, A.H. 1257 and 1264; Ṭahrân, A.H. 1263 and 1268, etc. The present copy, which is dated the first of Rajab, A.H. 728 (A.D. 1328, May 12), and is consequently fifty-nine years older than the oldest hitherto known (viz. No. 361 in the Imperial Library of St. Petersburg), is unfortunately defective in several places, and contains only the following items:

1. An Arabic ḳaṣîdah, rhyming in م, on fol. 1b; the beginning is wanting, as the first leaf is almost entirely torn away; the first complete bait, on fol. 2a, runs thus:

جلّت مناقبه عزّت مناصبه ـ فاحت مطايبه فى الحلّ و الحرم

2. The second risâlah, containing the five homilies, in five majlis, beginning, on fol. 2a, with the first majlis thus: خبرست از آن مقتداى زمرهٔ حقيقت و آن پيشواى لشكر طريقت و آن نگين خاتم جلال الخ. The second majlis, on fol. 4a; the third, on fol. 6b; the fourth, on fol. 8a; the fifth, on fol. 10b; the usual introductory ḳaṣîdah of other copies (see, for instance, No. 1121 in this Cat., fol. 5b margin-column) is omitted here; it opens at once with the prose-text. The third and the fourth majlis have been edited with translation and commentary by M. Guedemann, Breslau, 1858; the fifth has been translated by J. Ross, Bombay Transactions, i. pp. 146–158.

3. Bûstân (بوستان), on fol. 15b, beginning: بنام خداوند جان آفرين الخ. Ff. 102b and 103a are left blank, but the text seems to be uninterrupted. This mathnawî is styled here (as, for instance, in one of the Vienna copies, G. Flügel i. p. 530; in Ouseley Add. 39 of the Bodleian Library, Bodleian Cat., col. 527, and in the next copy here, comp. Rosen, Persian MSS., pp. 183 and 185, and Bacher, Sa'dî-Studien, p. 86, note 5), both in the heading and the colophon, سعدى نامه. Among the numerous text-editions (printed or lithographed) may be mentioned: Calcutta, 1810 and 1828, also 1870 (selections entitled عقد منظوم), etc.; Cawnpore, 1832, 1856 (with commentary, reprinted 1879), 1868, 1887, and 1888 (partly with a farhang or glossary); Lucknow, A.H. 1262, 1263, 1265, 1279, and 1869; Hooghly, A.H. 1264; Lahore, 1863 and 1879; Dihlî, 1882; Tabrîz, A.H. 1285; see also Zenker i. 520 sq.; ii. 467 sq. Best critical edition, with Persian commentary, by K. H. Graf, Vienna, 1850; another, photographed from a MS. prepared under the superintendence of J. T. Platts, annotated and edited by A. Rogers, London, 1891. Translations: into German, by K. H. Graf, Jena, 1850; by Schlechta-Wssehrd, Vienna, 1852; and by Fr. Rückert, Leipzig, 1882; into French, by Barbier de Meynard, Paris, 1880; into English, by H. Wilberforce Clarke, London, 1879, and by G. S. Davie, M.D., styled: 'The Garden of Fragrance,' London, 1882; selections in English (styled 'Flowers from the Bûstân'), Calcutta, 1877, and in S. Robinson's 'Persian Poetry for English Readers,' 1883. A Turkish translation has been printed in Constantinople in 2 vols., A.H. 1288 (1871). The Bûstân was completed by Sa'dî, A.H. 655 (A.D. 1257).

4. Gulistân (گلستان), on fol. 105b, beginning: منّت خدايرا عزّ وجلّ كه طاعتش موجب قربتست الخ. Among the innumerable text-editions, which, especially in India, follow each other incessantly, may be pointed out: Calcutta, 1806 (Persian and English, by Fr. Gladwin, 2 vols.; reprinted, London, 1809), 1828, and 1851 (by A. Sprenger, one of the best editions), also 1861

(school-edition); Bombay, A.H. 1249 (with illustrations) and 1844; Lucknow, A.H. 1264, 1284 (several editions, some with Urdû translation), 1297 (with marginal notes), and 1882; Lahore, 1870; Dihlî, 1870; Cawnpore, 1887; Tabrîz, about 1821; Bûlâḳ, A.H. 1249 and 1281; Cairo, A.H. 1261; Constantinople, 1876; best European editions, by E. B. Eastwick (with vocabulary), Hertford, 1850; by Johnson (also with vocabulary), Hertford, 1863, and by J. T. Platts, London, 1874; comp. also Zenker i. 520 sq. and ii. 467 sq. Translations: into French, by A. du Ryer, 1634; by d'Alégre, 1704; by Gaudin, 1789; by Semelet (Le Parterre de Fleurs), Paris, 1828 (lithographed), and by C. Defrémery, Paris, 1858: into Latin, by Gentius (Rosarium Politicum etc.), 1651, second ed., 1655: into German, by Adam Olearius (Persianischer Rosenthal), Schlesswig, 1654, new edition, 1660 etc.; by B. Dorn (Drei Lustgänge aus Sa'di's Rosenhain), Hamburg, 1827; by Ph. Wolff, Stuttgart, 1841; and by K. H. Graf, Leipzig, 1846: into English, by Fr. Gladwin, Calcutta, 1806 (see above under 'editions'), and London, 1833; by Dumoulin, 1807; by James Ross, London, 1823, new ed., 1890; by E. B. Eastwick, Hertford, 1852, new ed., London, 1880; by J. T. Platts, London, 1873; and an English version, privately printed by the Kama Shastra Society, Benares, 1888; select portions also in S. Robinson's 'Persian Poetry for English Readers,' 1883: into Russian, by S. Nasarianz, Moscow, 1857: into Polish, by Otwinowski, edited by Janicki, Warsaw, 1879: into Arabic, Bûlâḳ, A.H. 1263: into Turkish, Constantinople, 1874 (with Persian text) and 1876 (three different versions), also with Sûdî's translation and commentary, A.H. 1286 and 1293: into Hindûstânî, by Mîr Shîr 'Alî Afsûs, made under the direction of Dr. John Gilchrist, and entitled, 'The Rose Garden of Hindoostan,' Calcutta, 1802; and by Nižâm-aldîn, Poona, 1855: into Hindî, by Mihr Chand Dás, Dihlî, 1889, etc. etc. The Gulistân was completed by Sa'dî, A.H. 656 (A.D. 1258).

5. Ṭayyibât (طيّبات), or pleasant ghazals, incomplete at the beginning; they open abruptly, on fol. 157a, in the middle of a poem rhyming in ی, thus:

ماه رویا مهربانی پیش کن ـ خوب روئی را بباید زیوری

(corresponding to No. 1121 in this Cat., fol. 310a, l. 8). Fourteen of these ghazals have been edited and translated by K. H. Graf in Zeitschrift der D. M. G., vol. 13, pp. 445–467.

6. Badâ'i' (بدائع), or ornate ghazals, on fol. 224b, beginning: الحمد لله ربّ العالمين على الخ. Ten of these ghazals have been edited and translated by K. H. Graf in Zeitschrift der D. M. G., vol. 15, pp. 541–554.

7. Khawâtim (خواتيم), or signets, i.e. precious ghazals, on fol. 275b, beginning: يا رب از ما چه فلاح آيد اگر تو نپذيری الخ (corresponding to the initial bait of the same part in No. 782 of the Berlin Cat., p. 805, and to the beginning of the fifty-seventh or last ghazal of No. 45 in Rosen, Persian MSS., p. 195, note 5; in the Calcutta edition this poem is wanting). Seven of these ghazals have been edited and translated by K. H. Graf in Zeitschrift der D. M. G., vol. 15, pp. 554–564.

8. Ḳaṣâ'id-i-fârsiyyah (قصائد فارسيّه), or Persian ḳaṣîdas, on fol. 310b, beginning:

شكر وسپاس ومنّت وعزّت خدايرا
پروردگار خلق وخداوند كبريا

Nineteen of these ḳaṣîdas have been edited and translated by K. H. Graf in Zeitschrift der D. M. G., vol. 9, pp. 92–135, and vol. 12, pp. 82–116.

9. Marâthî (مراثی), or elegies, on fol. 332b, beginning:

آسمانرا حق بود گر خون بگريد (other copies بريزد) برزمين
بر زوال ملك مستعصم امير المؤمنين

(corresponding to the initial bait of the same part in No. 682 in the Bodleian Cat., col. 529, and No. 783 in the Berlin Cat., p. 807; see No. 1121 in this Cat., fol. 194b, l. 1 sq.). Some select elegies have been edited and published by K. H. Graf in Zeitschrift der D. M. G., vol. 15, pp. 564–576; the first half of this initial poem is found there on p. 572 sq. There is a lacuna after fol. 332, and the continuation of this part is found on ff. 337 and 338a, so that the whole collection here consists of two defective poems and one complete poem only, viz. the elegy on the death of Amîr 'Izz-aldîn Aḥmad; but on ff. 335b and 336a a second complete elegy is found which has by mistake been included in the مثلّثات, see further below, viz. the farewell to Ramaḍân (فی وداع شهر رمضان), comp. Graf, loc. cit., p. 574, where it is given in full text and translation.

10. Mulamma'ât (ملمّعات), or poems with alternate Arabic and Persian verses, on ff. 338b, 333, and 334a, beginning, on fol. 338b: إنّ هوى النّفس يقد العقال الخ (corresponding to the Calcutta ed., fol. ٢٥٢, see Bodleian Cat., col. 529, No. 15).

11. Muthallathât (مثلّثات), or one poem in three languages (Arabic, Persian, and Turkish), which usually forms the last part of the preceding collection, the ملمّعات (see Bacher, Sa'dî-Studien, p. 88), on ff. 334b–335b, beginning: خليلی الهدی انجا (other copies انجی) واصلح الخ.

12. Ḳaṣâ'id-i-'arabiyyah (قصائد عربيّه), or Arabic ḳaṣîdas, on ff. 336b and 339a–345b, beginning, on fol. 336b: حسبت لحفی(؟) المدامع لا تحری (تجری) الخ (Calcutta edition, fol. ٢٠٥). Between this and the following part there is inserted a Persian ghazal, rhyming in د, on fol. 346a, headed: فی المناجات و التضرّع الی الله تعالی, and beginning: خداوندی چنين بخشنده داريم الخ. This ghazal is found in the Calcutta edition (fol. ٣٢٨b) and in that of Cawnpore (p. 72) among the طيّبات, whereas in No. 782 of the Berlin Cat., p. 805, it is the initial poem of the غزليّات قديم or early ghazals (which are entirely wanting in the present copy).

13. Tarji'ât (ترجيعات), or refrain poems, on fol. 346b, beginning:

ای سرو بلند قامت دوست
وا وه که جمائلت چه نیکوست

(corresponding to the ترجیع بند in No. 683 in the Bodleian Cat., col. 530, No. 14). The usual beginning of this part, ای زلف تو الخ, is found here, on fol. 349a, l. 9. There is a lacuna after the last page, fol. 351b.

14. Muḳaṭṭa'ât (مقطّعات), or ghazals, without the initial bait, on fol. 352b, beginning:

گویند سعدیا بچه بطّال ماندهٔ
سختی مبر که وجه کفافت معیّنست

(corresponding to the initial bait of the same part in Elliott 220, fol. 399a, Bodleian Cat., col. 534, No. 19; and in No. 782 of the Berlin Cat., p. 805).

15. Majlis-i-Hazl (مجلس هزل), or the jocose meeting, a parody on the homilies in the second risâlah (see No. 2 in this copy), and sometimes called the seventh risâlah (see, for instance, Bodleian Cat., col. 530, No. 7; comp. Bacher, Sa'dî-Studien, p. 86); in some copies this part is styled هزليّات (see, for instance, Bodleian Cat., col. 528, No. 18), in others it is added to the following part, No. 16 (so in the Calcutta edition, ff. ۴۷۵–۴۸۰). It is divided into three special sittings (مجلس), the first beginning here, on fol. 356b (quite differently from all other copies), thus: الحمد لله الذی جعل الخائك ذلیلا ولحیة طویلا الخ. The second مجلس begins, on fol. 357b, with exactly the same words; the third has no special heading.

16. Muṭâyabât (مطايبات), or jests, also called خبيثات, or obscene poems (see Bacher, Sa'dî-Studien, p. 93), on fol. 360b, beginning with a short preface in prose: قال السّعدی الزمنی بعض ابناء الملوك أنّ اصنف له کتابا فی اللغو علی الطریق السوزنیّ الخ. The first poem begins: خوش بود عیش با شکر دهنی الخ.

17. Rubâ'iyyât (رباعيّات), or quatrains, on fol. 366b, beginning: ای خسرو خوبان جهان الخ یرلغ بده. The usual initial poem هر ساعتم اندرون الخ is not found in this collection at all, which is, moreover, without alphabetical arrangement.

18. Mufradât (مفردات), or detached distichs, on fol. 373b, beginning: بشکر آنك تو در خانهٔ و اهلت پیش الخ.

A few of the rubâ'iyyât and mufradât have been edited and translated by K. H. Graf in Zeitschrift der D.M.G., vol. 18, pp. 570–572. The Mufradât (or Fardiyyât) have been edited by Latouche (Zenker ii. 484).

There are wanting in this oldest copy of the Kulliyyât of Sa'dî: 1. Risâlas 1 and 3–6; 2. the early ghazals (غزليّات قديم), see above, No. 12; 3. the famous epigrammatic poems, dedicated to the Ṣâḥib-diwân (صاحبيّه); and 4. the comic pieces in prose (مضحكات).

The name of the copyist is Abûbakr bin 'Alî bin Muḥammad; the date, as stated above, A.H. 728, first of Rajab; a former owner was Sir Harford Jones, who presented this copy to the Library, and whose seal and signature (as Mr. Harford Jones, مستر هرفرد جنس), with the date, A.H. 1202 (A.D. 1787, 1788), appear on fol. 373a.

No. 876, ff. 377, ll. 24; excellent old Naskhî; small illuminated headings at the beginning of each part; size, 10¼ in. by 6 in.

1118

Another copy of the same.

This copy of Sa'dî's Kulliyyât, the next in age to the preceding one, contains:

1. The preface of 'Alî bin Aḥmad bin Abûbakr Bisutûn (or even bin Bisutûn, see Rieu ii. p. 596b, and G. Flügel i. pp. 529 and 530), who collected and arranged Sa'dî's works between A.H. 726 and 734 (A.D. 1326–1334), comp. Bacher, Sa'dî-Studien, pp. 82 and 83, and Rosen's remarks about it, Persian MSS., p. 175 sq. It begins, on fol. 1b: شکر وسپاس معبودی را جلّت قدرته الخ, and has been translated into English by J. H. Harington, in his Introduction to the Calcutta edition of the Kulliyyât, pp. 24–26.

2. Eight risâlas, the first of which is wrongly styled here در مجلس پنجگانه (a title belonging properly to the second), and is simply identical with the usual first risâlah در تقریر دیباچه (comp. the following copies, and see Bacher, loc. cit., p. 84), beginning, on fol. 3b: سپاس بی غایت و ستایش بی نهایت الخ; the second (in five مجلس, on ff. 6b, 8b, 11b, 13a, and 15b) contains, as in the preceding copy, the five homilies, and begins with the introductory ḳaṣîdah (which is left out there): الحمد لله الذی خلق الوجود من العدم الخ; the third is the usual one, رسالهٔ صاحب دیوان or در سؤال صاحب دیوان, beginning, on fol. 21b: خواجهٔ زمان نیکو سیرت الخ; it has been translated into English by Harington, Introduction, pp. 14–17, and into German by Graf, Lustgarten, ii. pp. 136–142; the fourth (also the usual one), در عقل وعشق, begins, on fol. 23b: سالك راه خدا پادشهٔ ملك الخ; the fifth (likewise the usual one), در نصیحة الملوك, begins, on fol. 25b: الحمد لله الکافی حسب الخلائق وحده الخ; the text has been edited by Latouche (Zenker ii. 484), and by Barb (Vienna, 1856); the sixth, on fol. 32b, is styled here رسالهٔ ملاقات اباقا, is identical with the first story of the usual sixth risâlah, Sa'dî's interview with Sulṭân Abâḳâ, and begins: شیخ سعدی رحمة الله علیه فرمود الخ; it has been translated into English by Harington, Introduction, pp. 17–19, and into German by Graf, Lustgarten, ii. pp. 142–146; the seventh, on fol. 33b, is styled رساله در نصیحت ورغبت بروری (in the colophon simply نصائح), is identical with the second story (in some copies the third story) of the usual sixth risâlah, the رسالهٔ انکیانو or نصیحت انکیانو, Sa'dî's advice to Ankiyânû, the Moghul governor of Fârs, A.H. 667–670 (A.D. 1268–1272), and begins: معلوم شد که خسرو عادل دام دولته الخ; the eighth, on fol. 35b, is styled رساله در فوائد سفر, is identical with the حکایت ملك شمس الدین تازیکو, or Sa'dî's anecdote relating to Malik Shams-aldîn, the chief revenue-collector or lord-lieutenant of Fârs since A.H. 676 (A.D. 1277), and begins: در زمان حکومت ملك عادل مرحوم شمس الدین الخ; it has been translated into English by Harington, Introduction, pp. 19–21, and into German by Graf, Lustgarten, ii. pp. 146–148.

3. Gulistân, on fol. 36b.

4. Bûstân (here styled again سعدی نامه), on fol. 107b.

5. Arabic ḳaṣîdas, on fol. 207b.

6. Persian ḳaṣîdas, on fol. 214b, preceded by a فهرست, on fol. 213b; beginning as in the preceding copy.

7. Marâthî, on fol. 242b, preceded by a فهرست, on fol. 242a; they begin here: دل شکسته که مرهم نهد دگر بارش الخ (Calcutta ed., fol. ۲۴۵).

8. Mulamma'ât, on fol. 247b, preceded by a فهرست, on fol. 247a; they begin: تو خون خلق بریزی و روی در تابی الخ.

9. Tarji'ât, on fol. 249b, beginning: ای زلف تو الخ (see the preceding copy, fol. 349a).

10. Ṭayyibât, on fol. 262b, preceded by a فهرست, on fol. 256b; they begin: اوّل دفتر بنام ایزد دانا الخ (Calcutta ed., fol. ۲۱۴).

11. Badâ'î', on fol. 366b, preceded by a فهرست, on fol. 363b; beginning as in the preceding copy.

12. Khawâtîm, on fol. 412b, preceded by a فهرست, on fol. 410b; they begin: سپاس و حمد بی پایان خدارا الخ (Calcutta ed., fol. ۳۱۰).

13. Ghazaliyyât-i-ḳadîm (غزلیّات قدیم), or early ghazals (wanting in the preceding copy), on fol. 430b, preceded by a فهرست, on fol. 429b; they begin: ای یار ناگزیر که دل در هوای تست الخ (Calcutta ed., fol. ۳۳۰).

14. Ṣâḥibiyyah (صاحبیّه), or epigrammatic poems (wanting in the preceding copy), on fol. 437b, beginning with the prose-introduction: الحمد لله علی نعمه الخ (Calcutta ed., fol. ۳۳۸). Initial bait of the first poem:

نگین ختم رسالت محمّد عربی
شفیع روز قیامت محمّد مختار

In other copies this poem is found among the Muḳaṭṭa'ât, see, for instance, No. 1121 in this Cat., fol. 345a, first line. These poems have been edited and translated into German by Bacher in 'Sa'dî's Aphorismen und Sinngedichte,' Strassburg, 1879.

15. Khabîthât (خبیثات), or obscene poems, identical with the Muṭâyabât of the preceding copy (as they are styled here too at the end of the part), and beginning with the same lines in prose, on fol. 462b. Initial bait of the first poem: عارفی چشم دل بروی داشت الخ (corresponding to the seventh poem in the preceding copy, fol. 363b, and the initial poem in Nos. 681 and 747 of the Bodleian Cat.).

16. Hazliyyât (هزلیّات), i.e. the mock homilies, called in the preceding copy مجلس هزل, in three مجلس, on ff. 472b, 476b, and 478b. Beginning of the first: اللّعین الشیطان الخ (Calcutta ed., ff. ۳۷۵–۳۸۰).

17. Muḍḥikât (مضحکات), or comic pieces in prose, on fol. 480b, beginning: شخصی از فقیهی سؤال کرد الخ (Calcutta ed., fol. ۳۸۱).

18. Rubâ'iyyât, on fol. 482b, beginning: هر ساعتم اندرون بجوشد خون را الخ.

19. Fardiyyât (فردیّات), or Mufradât, on fol. 494b, beginning: وربّ غلام صائم بطنه خلا الخ (corresponding to fol. 374a, l. 7, in the preceding copy).

This copy, in which the Muḳaṭṭa'ât are wanting, is dated end of Muḥarram, A.H. 819 (A.D. 1416, March 30), by Firûzbakht bin Iṣfahânshâh.

No. 267, ff. 499, 2 coll., each ll. 21; small Nasta'lîḳ; a small illuminated heading at the beginning of each part; larger illuminations on ff. 23a, 214a, 242a, 247a, and 499b; size, 7¾ in. by 4½ in.

1119

The same.

Contents:

1. The collector's preface, slightly defective at the beginning, on fol. 1b.

2. Six risâlas; the first, on fol. 3a (در تقریر دیباچه); the second, in five مجلس, on ff. 7a, 9a, 12b, 14b, and 17b; the third, on fol. 23a (رسالهٔ صاحب دیوان), beginning here: خواجهٔ صاحب فرمان نیکو سیرت الخ; the fourth, on fol. 24b (در عقل وعشق); the fifth, on fol. 26b (در نصیحة الملوك); the sixth, on fol. 34b, is styled here رسائل ثلاثه, and comprises the three stories, referring to Abâḳâkhân, Aukiyânû, and Malik Shams-aldîn, which form risâlas 6–8 in the preceding copy. The second story, on fol. 35b, is headed here نصیحه وپند; the third begins on fol. 37b.

3. Gulistân, on fol. 38b.

4. Bûstân, on fol. 110b.

5. Persian ḳaṣîdas, on fol. 205a, beginning as in the two preceding copies.

6. Marâthî, on fol. 232b, beginning as in the preceding copy.

7. Mulamma'ât, on fol. 237a, also beginning as in the preceding copy.

8. Ṭayyibât, on fol. 247b, beginning: اوّل دفتر الخ.

9. Badâ'î', on fol. 340a, beginning as usual.

10. Khawâtîm, on fol. 381a, beginning as in the preceding copy.

11. Early ghazals, on fol. 396b, beginning: ای یار الخ.

12. Ṣâḥibiyyah, on fol. 403b; prose-introduction and initial bait the same as in the preceding copy.

13. Muḳaṭṭa'ât, on fol. 424a, beginning: تو آن نکردهٔ

از فعل خیر با من و غیر الخ (corresponding to fol. 355a, l. 4, in No. 1117 in this Cat.).

14. Rubâ'iyyât, on fol. 429b, beginning: هرساعتم الخ.

15. Fardiyyât, on fol. 439b, beginning: ورتّ غلام صائب الخ.

The Arabic ḳaṣîdas, the Tarjî'ât, the Hazliyyât or mock homilies, and the Muḍḥikât are entirely wanting in this copy, which is besides slightly injured and effaced in many places. It is dated the 26th of Jumâdâ-althânî, A.H. 951 (A.D. 1544, September 14).

No. 877, ff. 444, 2 centre-coll., each ll. 17, and a third on the margin, ll. 12; small, but distinct Nasta'lîḳ; an illuminated heading at the beginning of each part; size, 9½ in. by 6¾ in.

1120

The same.

Contents:

1. The collector's preface, on fol. 2b.

2. The usual six risâlas; the first, on fol. 4a; the second, in five مجلس, on ff. 7a, last line, 9b, 12a, 13b margin, and 16a, last line; the third (here wrongly styled مجلس خامس), on fol. 21a, beginning: صاحب قران خواجهٔ زمان الخ; the fourth (here wrongly styled المجلس الرابع), on fol. 22b; it is headed فی صفت العقل, and a few lines further down در تعریف عقل وعشق, and begins in the usual way: سالك راه الخ; the fifth, on fol. 24a; the sixth, containing the three stories, on fol. 31a (the second story در مدح انکیانو is here designated as رسالهٔ دوم; and the third رسالهٔ ملك شمس الدین as المجلس الثالث).

3. Gulistân, on ff. 34b–37b and 71a–115a.

4. Bûstân, on ff. 115b–171b, 48a–70b, and 172a–175a (the leaves from 47–172 being misplaced).

5. Arabic ḳaṣîdas, on fol. 175b.

6. Persian ḳaṣîdas, on fol. 183b.

7. Tarjî'ât, on fol. 208a margin, beginning: غریبان را دل از مهر تو خونست الخ. This initial bait is found in the immediately following copy, at the beginning of the Marâthî, and in No. 683 of the Bodleian Cat., col. 530, No. 13, at that of the ترجیعات ومراثی, a combination of refrain-poems and elegies which seems to be implied here too.

8. Ghazaliyyât (غزلیّات), comprising the four branches, separated in all the preceding copies, viz. the Ṭayyibât, the early ghazals, the Badâ'i', and the Khawâtîm, on fol. 223b, beginning: اوّل دفتر بنام ایزد الخ. Exactly the same combination of the minor lyrical poems of Sa'dî is found in the following copy, No. 1121. These collected ghazals have been specially edited (together with the بهار دانش), Calcutta, about 1784, and 1811.

9. Ṣâḥibiyyah, on fol. 372b, beginning with the usual prose-introduction, thus: الحمد لله علی فضائل نعمه الخ.

10. Mulamma'ât and Mathnawiyyât (مثنویّات), on fol. 384b, beginning:

همه را ده چو میدهی مرسوم
نه یکی را ده و دگر محروم

Short pieces in mathnawî-form at the end of the Ṣâḥibiyyah are also noticed in Rieu's first copy, on fol. 322 sq., and in Nos. 682 and 692 of the Bodleian Cat., coll. 529 and 539.

11. Muḳaṭṭa'ât, on fol. 389b, beginning, as in the preceding copy: تو آن نکردهٔ از فعل الخ.

12. Khabîthât, or obscene poems, on fol. 391a, beginning: بعض الخ (read السّعدی الزمنی) قال السّعد الومنی.

13. Hazliyyât (here wrongly styled Muḍḥikât and Hazliyyât, since the Muḍḥikât appear immediately after as a special item), i. e. the three mock homilies, on ff. 399a, 401b, and 403a, beginning: (read اللّعین) العن الشیطان الخ.

14. Muḍḥikât, on fol. 404b, beginning: شخصی از فقیهی الخ.

15. Rubâ'iyyât, on fol. 405b, beginning: ای چشم تو مست الخ, corresponding to the last but three in No. 1117 in this Cat., fol. 373a, and to the initial rubâ'î in No. 688 in the Bodleian Cat., col. 536, No. 11.

16. Fardiyyât, on fol. 411a, beginning: ورتّ غلام الخ.

Copied A.H. 1034 (A.D. 1624, 1625), by Maḥmûd the scribe of Shîrâz.

No. 843, ff. 414, 2 centre-coll., each ll. 19, and a third on the margin, ll. 12; clear and distinct Nasta'lîḳ; luxurious illuminations throughout, the most splendid ones on ff. 2b, 3a, 34b, 35a, 115b, 116a, 175b, 176a, 183b, 184a, 223b, 224b, 372b, 373a, 405b, and 406a; pictures on ff. 1b, 2a, 30b, 42b, 48b, 57a, 68b, 86a, 117a, 140b, 151b, 160a, 232a, 246a, 291a, 322a, 339a, 392a, 413b, and 414a; size, 13 in. by 7¾ in.

1121

The same.

Contents:

1. The collector's preface, on fol. 1b, beginning as usual. There is an index, on fol. 2b, according to which this collection is to be divided into seven risâlas and sixteen kitâbs, the latter consisting of (1) سعدی نامه; (2) گلستان; (3) قصائد عربی; (4) ملمّعات ومثلّثات; (5) قصائد فارسی; (6) مراثی وترجیع مراثی; (7) ترجیعبند; (8) طیّبات; (9) بدائع; (10) خواتیم; (11) غزلیّات قدیم; (12) صاحبیّه; (13) مقطّعات; (14) خبیثات ومطایبات; (15) رباعیّات; (16) مفردات. The preliminary words of this index (comp. on the various modifications of the text, Rosen, Persian MSS., pp. 176–180) run here in a very short and inconsistent way, thus, on fol. 2a margin: بدان که این دیوان مشتمل است بر هفت (؟ هشت) رساله وشانزده کتاب چنانچه در افواه عوامّ منتشرست وازین است که گویند دیوان شیخ بیست وچهار کتاب است پس بدین ترتیب بنیاد کرده پولا نهاده شد. In the copy itself no trace of this division is found, beyond the seven risâlas, the Gulistân, and Bûstân.

2. Seven risâlas, i.e. the usual six and the مجلس هزل, or the first of the three mock homilies counted as seventh; first risâlah, on fol. 2b margin; second (here must be read رسالهٔ دوم instead of رسالهٔ اوّل), in five majlis, on ff. 5b, 7a margin, 10a, 11a, and 13a; third, on fol. 17a margin; fourth, on fol. 18b (در عقل وعشق, or as it is styled in the index: در عقل وعشق ورجحان عشق بر عقل); fifth, on fol. 20a; sixth, containing in this copy the second story only, در نصیحت انکیانو, on fol. 26a; seventh, on fol. 27a margin, beginning (as in No. 683 in the Bodleian Cat., col. 530, No. 7): چنین فرمایند صاحب السیف والفرس الخ.

3. Gulistân, on fol. 30b.

4. Bûstân, or Sa'dinâma, on fol. 86b, beginning: بنام جهاندار جان آفرین الخ.

5. Dîwân (دیوان), consisting of:

a. Ḳaṣîdas, the first of which is an Arabic one, beginning, on fol. 167b: الحمد لله ربّ العالمین علی الخ. The second, or first Persian one, begins in the usual way: شکر وسپاس ومنّت الخ.

b. Marâthî, on fol. 191b, beginning like the Tarjî'ât in the preceding copy: غریبانرا دل از مهر تو خونست الخ.

c. Tarjî'ât, on fol. 200a, beginning: ای زلف تو الخ.

d. Ghazals, in alphabetical order, comprising the Ṭayyibât, Badâ'î', Khawâtîm, and early ghazals, exactly as No. 8 in the preceding copy, on fol. 206b margin. Beginning: سپاس وحمد بی پایان خدارا الخ (which is usually the initial bait of the Khawâtîm, see No. 1118 in this Cat., fol. 412b).

e. Muḳaṭṭa'ât, in alphabetical order, on fol. 338b, beginning:

سخن بذکر تو آراستن مراد آنست
که پیش اهل ادب منصبی بود مارا

This poem is included in some copies in the Ṣâḥibiyyah, see, for instance, No. 694 in the Bodleian Cat., col. 540, and W. Pertsch, p. 97, No. 70. The initial ḳiṭ'ah of No. 1117 in this Cat., is found here on fol. 340a, l. 3 sq.

f. Rubâ'îs (not separated by a special heading from the Muḳaṭṭa'ât), beginning apparently, on fol. 348b margin, with a quatrain in the metre of هزج (مفاعیلن خداوندی است (خداوندیست) تدبیر: (مفاعیلن فعولن جهانرا الخ (see the same initial rubâ'î further down in No. 1127 in this Cat.); the first rubâ'î, in the orthodox metre, begins, on fol. 349a, as in No. 687 of the Bodleian Cat., col. 535, No. 23: عشّاق بدرگهٔ تو اسپرند بیا الخ (read according to metre بدرگهت).

g. Muṭâyabât or Khabîthât (here incorrectly styled فی الهزل والمزاح), on fol. 356a margin; beginning of the prose-preface: قال السّعدی الزمنی بعض الخ. The first poem is identical with that in No. 1117 in this Cat.: خوش بود عیش الخ.

h. Short mathnawîs (see No. 1120 in this Cat., in the part of the Mulamma'ât and the remark thereupon), here styled Naṣâ'iḥ (نصائح), or admonitions, and beginning, on fol. 360a margin:

پیری اندر قبیلهٔ ما بود — که جهان دیده‌تر زعنقا بود

There are wanting in this copy the Arabic ḳaṣîdas, except the one at the beginning of No. 5, the Mulamma'ât, the Ṣâḥibiyyah, the Hazliyyât, the Mufradât, and the Muḍḥikât. It is dated the 20th of Ramaḍân, A.H. 1039 (A.D. 1630, May 3), by Ḥasan Muḥammad ibn Shîr Muḥammad ibn Muḥammad Jîw ibn Yûsuf. The copy was formerly in the possession of Sayyid Ḳuṭbi-khân, who bought it for twenty-five rupees.

No. 178, ff. 364, 2 centre-coll., each ll. 14, and a third on the margin, ll. 13; Nasta'lîḳ; illuminated frontispieces on ff. 1b, 30b, 86b, and 167b; size, 11 in. by 6¼ in.

1122

The same.

Another splendid copy of Sa'dî's Kulliyyât, very carefully written, and tolerably old, but not dated.

Contents:

1. The collector's preface, on fol. 2b.

2. Six risâlas of the usual contents; first, on fol. 4b; second, in five مجلس, on ff. 8a, 10b, 14a, 15b, and 19a; third, on fol. 25a; fourth, on fol. 26b; fifth, on fol. 29a; sixth, containing the three stories (حکایات), viz. the رسالهٔ ملاقات اباقا, on fol. 38a; the نصیحت انکیانو, on fol. 39a; and the حکایت ملک شمس الدین, on fol. 41a.

3. Gulistân, on fol. 42a.

4. Bûstân, on fol. 128b.

5. Arabic ḳaṣîdas, on fol. 260b, preceded by a فهرست, on fol. 259b; beginning: ملک الهوی قلبی وجاش مغیّر الخ (corresponding to fol. 342b, last line, in No. 1117 in this Cat.).

6. Persian ḳaṣîdas, on fol. 272b, preceded by a فهرست; beginning: شکر وسپاس الخ.

7. Marâthî, on fol. 311b, beginning: دل شکسته الخ.

8. Mulamma'ât, on fol. 317b, beginning: تو خون خلق الخ.

9. Tarjî'ât, on fol. 324a, beginning: ای زلف تو الخ.

10. Ṭayyibât, on fol. 339b, preceded by a فهرست, on fol. 333a; beginning: اوّل دفتر بنام الخ.

11. Badâ'î', on fol. 464b, preceded by a فهرست, on fol. 461a; beginning: الحمد لله ربّ العالمین الخ.

12. Khawâtîm, or as they are called here more fully, Ghazaliyyât-i-Khawâtîm (غزلیّات خواتیم), on fol. 523b, preceded by a فهرست, on fol. 522a; beginning: سپاس وحمد بی پایان الخ.

13. Early ghazals, on fol. 544a, preceded by a فهرست, on fol. 543a; beginning: ای یار ناگزیر الخ.

14. Ṣâḥibiyyah, beginning, on fol. 554a, with the usual short prose-introduction; the first poem begins here thus:

ثنا وحمد بی پایان خدارا
کہ صنعش در وجود آورد مارا

(see the same initial bait in Nos. 681 and 683 of the Bodleian Cat., coll. 528 and 530).

15. Muḳaṭṭa'ât, on fol. 586a, beginning: تو آن نکردهٔ الخ.

16. Khabîthât, on fol. 589b, beginning with the usual prose-preface; the first initial poem begins thus: عارفی چشم دل بروی داشت الخ (identical with the beginning in No. 1118 in this Cat., fol. 462b).

On fol. 600a there are added (as part of the Khabîthât) the Hazliyyât, beginning: (read اللعین) اللعن الشیطان الخ.

17. Rubâ'iyyât, on fol. 606a, beginning: هر ساعتم اندرون الخ.

18. Mufradât, on fol. 617b, beginning: وکلّ بالغ السّعی فی دمی الخ (read وکلّ عدوّ بالغ) (corresponding to fol. 374a, last line, in No. 1117 in this Cat.).

The Muḍḥikât are wanting in this copy. An index on the fly-leaves.

No. 407, ff. 623, 2 centre-coll., each ll. 17; clear and distinct Nasta'lîḳ; the first four pages luxuriously ornamented; splendidly illuminated frontispieces or smaller headings at the beginning of each part; size, 9½ in. by 5¾ in.

1123

The same.

Another excellent copy, splendidly illustrated, without a date; unfortunately this copy is injured and spoilt in many places.

Contents:

A. Centre-column:

1. The collector's preface, on fol. 3b.

2. The usual six risâlas (کتاب رسائل); first, on fol. 8b; second, in five مجلس (در مجلس پنجگانه), on fol. 18b; third, on fol. 64b; fourth, on fol. 68a; fifth, on fol. 73a; sixth (without a heading), in three risâlât or stories, in the same order as in the preceding copy, on ff. 95a, 97b, last line, and 102b.

3. Gulistân, on fol. 104b.

4. Hazliyyât (here wrongly styled Muḍḥikât, see No. 1120 in this Cat., fol. 399a sq.), beginning, on fol. 296b: اللعن (اللّعین) الشیطان الخ.

B. Margin-columns:

5. Bûstân, on fol. 4b, beginning: بنام خداوند جان آفرین الخ.

6. Arabic ḳaṣîdas, on fol. 96b, beginning, as usual: حسبت الخ.

7. Persian ḳaṣîdas, on fol. 104b, beginning: شکر وسپاس الخ.

8. Marâthî, on fol. 131b, beginning: دل شکسته الخ.

9. Mulamma'ât, on fol. 135b, beginning: تو خون خلق الخ.

10. Tarji'ât, on fol. 139b, beginning: ای زلف تو الخ.

11. Ṭayyibât, on fol. 145b, beginning: اوّل دفتر الخ.

12. Badâ'î', on fol. 221b, beginning: الحمد لله ربّ الخ.

13. Khawâtîm, on fol. 256b, beginning: سپاس وحمد الخ.

14. Early ghazals, on fol. 268b, beginning: ای یار ناگزیر الخ.

15. Ṣâḥibiyyah, on fol. 273b, beginning: الحمد لله علی نعمه الخ.

16. Muḳaṭṭa'ât, on fol. 292b, beginning: تو آن نکردهٔ الخ.

17. Muṭâyabât (or Khabîthât), on fol. 294b, beginning: قال السّعدی الخ.

18. Rubâ'iyyât, on fol. 303b, beginning: هر ساعتم اندرون الخ.

19. Fardiyyât, on fol. 313b, beginning: وربّ علّام الخ.

The real Muḍḥikât are wanting in this copy, which was transcribed by Muḥammad bin Ḳiwâm of Shîrâz.

No. 1391, ff. 316, 1 centre-col., ll. 10, 2 margin-coll., each ll. 24; Nasta'lîḳ; four large pictures, surrounded by gilt frames, on ff. 1b, 2a, 315b, and 316b, smaller pictures on ff. 21b, 22a, 27b, 47a, 53b, 61b, 62a, 72b, 95a, 148b, 149a, 168a, 175b, 183b, 184a, 215b, 219b, 237b, 251a, 306b, and 307a; ff. 2b, 3a, 3b, and 4a illuminated in the most luxurious manner, and the finest Eastern workmanship; other almost equally splendid illuminations throughout; particularly grand frontispieces, on ff. 96b, 104b, 131b, 135b, 139b, 145b, 221b, 256b, 268b, 273b, 292b, 294b, 296b, 303b, and 313b; size, 13¼ in. by 8¾ in.

The same.

Another exquisitely written and most splendidly ornamented copy, likewise without a date.

Contents:

1. Six risâlas, in the following curious arrangement: the first corresponds to the second of the usual copies, i. e. the مجالس خمسه or five homilies, on ff. 4b, 6a, 9a, 10b, last line, and 13b, beginning: الحمد لله الذی خلق الخ; the second is identical with the usual third, styled here در بیان صاحب دیوان وجواب, on fol. 18b margin; the third is the usual fourth (therefore correctly called here رسالهٔ چهارم), styled در علم وعشق, on fol. 20a; the fourth (called correctly رسالهٔ پنجم) corresponds to the usual fifth, styled در نصیحت ملوک, on fol. 21b margin; the fifth to the second story of the usual sixth (therefore called here رسالهٔ دوم در نصیحت ملک انکیانو), beginning: معلوم شد که خسرو عادل الخ; the sixth to the third story of the same (called here رسالهٔ سیوم در مدح ملک شمس الدین تازیگو), beginning: در زمان حکومت ملک عادل الخ. There are consequently missing the collector's preface, the usual first risâlah در تقریر دیباچه, and the first story, رسالهٔ ملاقات اباقا, of the usual sixth risâlah.

2. Gulistân, on fol. 34b.
3. Bûstân, on fol. 96b.
4. Arabic ḳaṣîdas, on fol. 166b.
5. Persian ḳaṣîdas, on fol. 173b.
6. Marâthî, on fol. 197b.
7. Mulamma'ât, on fol. 201b.
8. Tarji'ât, on fol. 205b.
9. Ṭayyibât, on fol. 211b. All these parts begin as in the preceding copy.
10. Badâ'i', on fol. 288b, beginning: ای که انکارکنی عالم درویشانرا الخ (corresponding to No. 1117 in this Cat., fol. 254a, first line).
11. Khawâtîm, on fol. 322b.
12. Early ghazals, on fol. 335b. Beginning of both parts as usual.
13. Ṣâḥibiyyah, on fol. 342b, with the usual prose-preface. The initial poem is the same as in Nos. 1118 and 1119 in this Cat., viz. نگین ختم رسالت الخ.
14. Muḳaṭṭa'ât, on fol. 357b, beginning: تو آن نکردهٔ الخ.
15. Muṭâyabât (or Khabîthât), on fol. 359a margin, beginning: قال السّعدی الخ.

The Rubâ'iyyât, Mufradât, and Muḍḥikât are wanting here.

No. 332. ff. 366, 2 centre-coll., each ll. 19, and a third on the margin, ll. 14; small, but clear Nasta'lîḳ; the whole copy beautifully embellished throughout; illuminated frontispieces, with luxurious ornaments on the same and the following page, on ff. 4b, 34b, 96b, 166b, 173b, 211b, 288b, 322b, 335b, and 342b; very carefully drawn pictures on ff. 1b (Sa'dî's likeness), 2b, 3a, 4a, 18a, 66b, 100b, 130b, 181b, 209a, 228b, 233b, 250a, 285a, 310b, 359b, 363b, 364b, 365a, and 366a; size, 10¾ in. by 6¼ in.

1125

The same.

Contents:

1. The collector's preface, on fol. 1b.
2. Five risâlas, i.e. risâlas 2–6 of the usual copies (the first, در تقریر دیباچه, is wanting here, just as in the preceding copy); the first (second risâlah), in five مجلس, on ff. 5a, 7a, 10a, 11b, and 14a; the second (third risâlah), on fol. 18b; the third (fourth risâlah), on fol. 19b (here entitled: از سؤال مولانا شمس الدین, and beginning: سؤال مولانا شمس الدین نطنزی از شیخ سعدی منظومه سالك راه خدا الخ); the fourth (fifth risâlah), on fol. 21a; the fifth (sixth risâlah), containing the three stories, on fol. 27b.

A fihrist of the following sixteen parts (or books) of this copy, on fol. 30b.

3. Gulistân, on fol. 31a.
4. Bûstân, on fol. 89b.
5. Arabic ḳaṣîdas, on fol. 154a.
6. Persian ḳaṣîdas, on fol. 160a.
7. Marâthî, on fol. 184b.
8. Mulamma'ât, on fol. 189b, beginning here: وقتها یکدم نیاسودی تنم الخ (corresponding to the initial bait in No. 782 of the Berlin Cat., Pertsch, p. 805, and No. 683 of the Bodleian Cat., col. 530).
9. Tarji'ât, on fol. 194a, beginning here: ای سرو بلند قامت دوست الخ (corresponding to the initial bait in No. 1117 in this Cat.).
10. Ṭayyibât, on fol. 200b.
11. Badâ'i', on fol. 279b.
12. Khawâtim, on fol. 332a, beginning here: گر ماه من بر افگند نقابرا الخ.
13. Early ghazals, on fol. 351b, beginning here: وه که گر من باز بینم روی یار خویش را الخ (corresponding to No. 1121 in this Cat., fol. 208a margin).
14. Ṣâḥibiyyah, on fol. 367b, with the usual prose-preface; the first poem begins here: یا رب تو هرچه بهتر و نیکوترش بده الخ (see the same initial bait in No. 692 of the Bodleian Cat., col. 539).
15. Muḳaṭṭa'ât, on fol. 378b, beginning: گویند سعدیا الخ.
16. Khabîthât (or Muṭâyabât), on fol. 386a, beginning with the usual prose-lines; the initial bait of the first poem corresponds to that in Nos. 1118 and 1122 in this Cat. On the margin of ff. 386b–389b there are added the Hazliyyât, styled: المجالس الثلثة فی الهزل.
17. Rubâ'iyyât, on fol. 395b.
18. Mufradât, on fol. 406a.

The Muḍḥikât are wanting in this copy. One leaf at the end seems to be missing. No date. The right order of ff. 400–410 is: 400, 409, 402, 403, 407, 404–406, 401, 408, and 410.

No. 775, ff. 410, 2 coll., each ll. 21 (on ff. 89b–153b, 3 coll.): Naskhî, many pages injured; an illuminated heading at the beginning of nearly every part; size, 9¾ in. by 5¾ in.

1126

The same.

A great number of leaves in this copy, especially in the beginning and towards the end, are so firmly glued together, that it is impossible to separate them without tearing them to pieces. The contents, so far as they can be ascertained, are as follows:

A. Centre-columns:

1. The collector's preface, on fol. 2a.
2. Seven risâlas, as it seems; the first, the beginning of which can be quoted, is the third of the usual copies, on fol. 48b (رسالهٔ سیوم در جواب صاحب دیوان); the fourth, در عقل وعشق, begins (without a heading) on fol. 52a; the fifth (رسالهٔ پنجم در نصیحة الملوك), on fol. 56b; the sixth, containing the second story only of the three, viz. the نصیحت انکیانو (just as No. 1121 in this Cat.), begins on fol. 77a with the simple heading شیخ میفرماید; the seventh is the third story (رسالهٔ ملك شمس الدین) of the usual sixth risâlah, beginning, on fol. 81a: در زمان حکومت ملك الخ.

3. Gulistân, on fol. 83b.
4. Ṭayyibât, on fol. 230b.
5. Hazliyyât, on fol. 428b (first heading: المجلس الاوّل بالهزل).
6. Rubâ'iyyât and Fardiyyât, on fol. 445b, beginning: هر ساعتم اندرون الخ.

B. Margin-column:

7. Persian ḳaṣîdas, on fol. 2b.
8. Marâthî, on fol. 45b.
9. Mulamma'ât, on fol. 55b.
10. Tarji'ât, on fol. 65a. All four parts begin in the usual way.
11. Bûstân, on fol. 78b, beginning: بنام خداوند جان آفرین الخ.
12. Badâ'i', on fol. 281b, beginning as in No. 1124 in this Cat.: ای که انکار کنی الخ.
13. Khawâtîm, on fol. 370b.
14. Early ghazals, on fol. 401b.
15. Ṣâḥibiyyah, on fol. 412b, beginning with the initial poem of Nos. 1118 and 1119 in this Cat.: نگین ختم رسالت محمّد عربی الخ.

An index on the fly-leaf. There are wanting in this copy the first story of the sixth risâlah, the Arabic ḳaṣîdas, the Khabithât, Muḳaṭṭa'ât, and Muḍḥikât. No date.

No. 1200, ff. 472, 2 centre-coll., each ll. 10, and a third on the margin, ll. 20; Nasta'lîḳ; splendid ornaments throughout the copy; beautifully illuminated frontispieces on ff. 83b, 230b, 370b, 401b, 412b, and 428b; size, 11¼ in. by 6½ in.

1127

The same.

This collection is different from all the preceding ones, since a considerable number of the usual items are entirely missing, and some altogether new parts have been introduced.

The copy contains:

1. Bûstân, on fol. 1b, beginning: بنام جهاندار جان آفرین الخ.
2. Gulistân, on fol. 74b.
3. Dîwân, consisting of:

a. Persian ḳaṣîdas, on fol. 131b, beginning: اوّل دفتر الخ.

b. Tarji'ât, on fol. 153a margin, beginning:

در عهد تو ای نگار دلبند — بس عهد که بشکند وسوگند

(corresponding to the second poem in No. 1117 in this Cat., fol. 346b).

c. Ghazals, in alphabetical order, on fol. 158b, comprising, as the same part in Nos. 1120 and 1121 in this Cat. does, the Ṭayyibât, Badâ'i', Khawâtîm, and early ghazals; the initial ghazal is the second in No. 1121, fol. 207a:

ای نفس خرّم باد صبا — از بر یار آمدهٔ مرحبا

d. Muḳaṭṭa'ât, on fol. 278a, beginning likewise as in No. 1121: سخن بذکر تو الخ.

e. Rubâ'îs, on fol. 285b, beginning, as in No. 1121: (in No. 1121 جهانرا) خداوندیست تدبیر دهانرا.

4. The second risâlah, in five مجلس, on fol. 293b, beginning: الحمد لله الذی خلق الوجود الخ.

5. Another risâlah, on fol. 304b, which contains, like the usual third risâlah, a story not by Sa'dî himself, but referring to the poet's intercourse with renowned personages (see Bacher's remark in his 'Sa'di-Studien,' p. 85), but different in wording from the third in the preceding copies; it begins: ای دل مجرّد طریقت طریقت وسالك کوی حقیقت شهباز جانباز همای رد شیراز مصلح الدین سعدی شیرازی علیه الرّحمة والغفران میگوید بگوش هوش بشنو الخ.

6. The fifth risâlah, در نصیحة الملوك, on fol. 307b, beginning here: الحمد لله وهو لی من حمد ثمّ الصّلوة علی رسول الله افضل الخ.

7. Pandnâma (پندنامه), or book of counsels, also called, from the word with which it begins, Karîmâ (کریما) or Kitâb-i-Karîmâ; beginning, on fol. 313b:

کریما ببخشای بر حال ما — که هستم اسیر کمند هوا

The authorship of Sa'dî with regard to this didactic mathnawî, which is apparently composed after the model of Farîd-aldîn 'Aṭṭâr's Pandnâma, has been much disputed; it is not included in Bisutûn's (or Ibn Bisutûn's) edition; on the other hand, as Rieu ii. p. 865b has shown, it has been ascribed to Sa'dî as early as A.H. 842 (A.D. 1438, 1439), and it is found in the Calcutta edition (fol. ٢.. sq.); other text-editions (printed or lithographed): in Gladwin's Persian Moonshee (with English translation), 1801; revised edition, by W. C. Smyth, 1840; see also Rousseau, Flowers of Persian Literature, London, 1801, and the Persian Reader, vol. i, Calcutta, 1835, pp. 78–97; Persian and Hindûstânî, ib., 1829; Persian, with Latin translation, by Geitlin, Helsingfors, 1835; Calcutta, A.H. 1242 and 1270 (with Rekhta translation); in the 'Persian Primer,' Lucknow, A.H. 1263, 1264, etc.; Lahore, 1887; Bombay, 1887; Agra, 1887; Cawnpore, 1888, etc. An older English translation, Calcutta, 1788. French translation, by Garcin de Tassy, in his 'Exposition de la foi musulmane,' Paris, 1822, and in the same author's 'Allégories, récits poétiques et chants populaires,' 2nd ed., Paris, 1876, pp. 197–200. A metrical German translation of select passages of the Pandnâma is found in the notes to K. H. Graf, Rosengarten, Leipzig, 1846, pp. 239, 244, 253, 260, 281, 293, and 297–298; comp. besides Zenker i. 418 sq. and 1468, ii. 480 sq.; Bodleian Cat., Nos. 688. 12 and 748; Rieu ii. p. 865b; W. Pertsch, Berlin Cat., pp. 803 and 825; A. Sprenger, Catal., p. 549.

8. Short mathnawîs, on fol. 317b, beginning:

نامه آغازم بنام ذو الجلال
آنکه بیرون ذاتش از وهم و خیال

9. Khabithât (or Muṭâyabât), here wrongly styled Hazliyyât, on fol. 324b, beginning with the usual prose-preface: قال السّعدی الزمنی الخ.

No date. There are wanting in this copy the usual risâlas, except the second and the fifth; the Marâthî, Mufradât, Hazliyyât, Ṣâḥibiyyah, Mulamma'ât, Muḍḥikât, and the Arabic ḳaṣidas.

No. 143, ff. 330, 2 centre-coll., each ll. 17, and a third on the margin, ll. 26; Nasta'lîḳ; illuminated frontispieces and small headings on ff. 1b, 74b, 131b, 293b, 304b, 313b, and 317b; size, 11¼ in. by 7 in.

A defective copy of the same.

This excellent but defective copy contains:

1. Arabic ḳaṣidas (كتاب القصائد العربى), on fol. 1b, beginning as usual; they break off on fol. 8b in consequence of a lacuna after that page, in a poem rhyming in l, which corresponds to the ḳaṣidah, on fol. 345a, in No. 1117 in this Cat., beginning: يا ملوك الجمال الخ. The last bait here is the last on fol. 345a in that copy.

2. Some ghazals, on ff. 9 and 10, defective both at the beginning and end; the first bait:

گر ما مقصّریم تو بسیار رحمتی
عمری کہ میرود بامید وفای تست

corresponds to No. 1121 in this Cat., fol. 230a, l. 4, and belongs in fact to the usual initial poem of the 'early ghazals' (which begins: ای یار ناگزیر الخ); it would seem, therefore, as if these two leaves were part of a fuller collection of the غزلیّات قدیم, but, strange to say, these very 'early ghazals' follow further down, on fol. 145b sq., in an absolutely complete form with no visible lacuna, into which these stray leaves might fit.

3. Mulamma'ât and Muthallathât, on ff. 143a–144b and 11a–13a, beginning as in No. 1125 in this Cat., fol. 189b: وتتمها يكدم الخ.

4. Tarji'ât (or Murabba'ât, as they are called at the end), on fol. 13b, beginning: ای زلف تو الخ.

5. Ṭayyibât, in alphabetical order, on fol. 19b, beginning: اوّل دفتر الخ. There is a lacuna after fol. 27; the last bait on fol. 27b corresponds to No. 1121 in this Cat., fol. 221a, l. 3 ab infra, the first complete poem, on fol. 28a to fol. 220b, last line, in the same copy. Ff. 50 and 51 are turned upside down, and must be read from 51b backward to 50a.

6. Badâ'i', likewise in alphabetical order, on fol. 83b, beginning: الحمد لله ربّ العالمين الخ (see No. 1117 in this Cat.). There is a lacuna after fol. 84; the last bait on fol. 84b corresponds to No. 1117, fol. 247a, l. 5 ab infra, and the first complete poem, on fol. 85a to fol. 263a, l. 17 in the same copy. There is a second lacuna after fol. 92; the last bait on fol. 92a corresponds to No. 1121 in this Cat., fol. 286b, last line but one (in No. 1117 it cannot be traced); the first complete poem, on fol. 93a to No. 1117, fol. 253a, l. 14 (this again cannot be traced in No. 1121).

7. Khawâtîm, on fol. 96b, beginning: سپاس وحمد الخ.

8. Ṣâḥibiyyah, on fol. 108b, with the usual prose-preface, beginning here thus: الله الكافي حسب الخلائق وحده الحمد لله نعمه الخ. The first poem begins here (as in Rosen, Persian MSS., p. 196): ما هذه الدنيا بدار مخلّد الخ.

9. Muḳaṭṭa'ât, on fol. 123b, beginning: گر اهل معرفتی هر چه بنگری خوبست الخ. The initial poem of No. 1117, گویند سعدیا الخ, is found here, on fol. 130a.

10. Khabîthât, on fol. 131b, beginning with the usual prose-preface. The initial poem begins:

آن شنیدی کہ در بلاد شمال الخ

(corresponding to No. 1117 in this Cat., fol. 362a). They break off on fol. 134b in consequence of a lacuna.

11. Ḳiṭ'as, short mathnawîs, rubâ'îs, and fards, all mixed together, on ff. 135a–142b; the ḳiṭ'as probably belong either to the Ṣâḥibiyyah or the Muḳaṭṭa'ât (Nos. 8 and 9).

12. Early ghazals, on fol. 145b, beginning: یا جوانی سر خوشست این پیریٔ تدبیر را الخ (corresponding to No. 1121 in this Cat., fol. 209a margin, l. 6 ab infra, where, however, یا جوانان is read instead of یا جوانی); the second poem here begins like the Khawâtîm in No. 1125 in this Cat., fol. 332a, but in a metrically more correct form: گرماء من برافگند از رخ نقابرا الخ.

13. The end of the Bûstân, on fol. 179a, beginning: نکو نام را کس نگیرد اسیر الخ. It comprises the last twenty-nine or thirty verses of the ninth and the whole tenth bâb, corresponding to Graf's ed., p. 429, l. 5 to p. 444, l. 5.

No date. Bibliotheca Leydeniana.

No. 2762, ff. 182, ll. 23; excellent Nasta'lîḳ; small illuminated headings on ff. 1b, 13b, 19b, 83b, 96b, 108b, 123b, 131b, 143a, and 145b; all the columns framed with gilt edges; size, 9⅝ in. by 6⅝ in.

1129

Another still more defective copy of the same.

This very old copy is unfortunately very incomplete, and only contains:

1. Gulistân, on fol. 1b.

2. Ṭayyibât, on fol. 47b, beginning as usual: اوّل دفتر الخ.

3. Khabîthât, on fol. 153b, beginning with the usual prose-preface. The initial poem is the same as in the preceding copy.

4. Ṣâḥibiyyah, on fol. 162a, beginning with the fifth risâlah of the usual copies, which, exactly as in the Gotha copy (W. Pertsch, No. 70, see Bacher's remark on it in his 'Sa'dî-Studien,' p. 95), has been prefixed here to the Ṣâḥibiyyah; the first words of this risâlah are identical with those of the same treatise in No. 1127 in this Cat., viz. الحمد لله تعالى وهوا لى من حمد الخ. The first initial poem of the proper Ṣâḥibiyyah, viz. ما هذه الدنيا بدار مخلّد الخ, appears on fol. 169a, and is the same as in the immediately preceding copy, on fol. 108b. The proper order of leaves in this part is: ff. 162–174, 183–190, 175–182, 191–193, 195–197; fol. 194, which clearly belongs to the same part, cannot be properly located; there are clearly mixed up here with the Ṣâḥibiyyah, as in many other copies, including some of the preceding ones, portions of the Muḳaṭṭa'ât, Fardiyyât, short mathnawis, and at the end also fragments of the Tarji'ât. A lacuna after fol. 197.

5. The latter half of the Bûstân, beginning abruptly on fol. 198a. The first bait here corresponds to p. 297, l. 6, in Graf's edition, that is about the middle of the fifth bâb; the sixth begins here on fol. 200a; the seventh, on fol. 204b; the eighth, on fol. 213a; the ninth, on fol. 219a; the tenth, on fol. 225a; this last bâb breaks off, on fol. 227b, with the bait: گنه عفو کرد آل یعقوب را الخ, corresponding to p. 443, last line in Graf's edition, so that the last six verses of the latter are wanting here; on fol. 228a, one fragmentary and one complete ghazal by Sa'dî are added; fol. 228b contains in a very bad handwriting two ghazals by فرطوسی (sic! perhaps فردوسی?); but they are partly injured, and partly quite illegible.

The really very old character of the copy is evident from the use of ذ instead of د almost always at the end of words, as نذارذ, سپارذ, گمارذ, باذ آمذ, نشایذ, افتاذ, آیذ, بگشاذ, بغداذ, داذ, نریزذ, نمارذ (together with نریزد in the same poem, on fol. 104b etc.).

No date.

No. 465, ff. 228, 2 coll., each ll. 23; good old Naskhî; vignettes on ff. 1a, 47a, 153a, and 162b; small illuminated, but rather effaced headings, on ff. 1b, 47b, 153b, and 162b; size, 9¼ in. by 6½ in.

1130

A small fragment of the same.

This fragment comprises only a part of the collector's preface and a defective set of the usual risâlas, viz. Bisutûn's (or Ibn Bisutûn's) preface, beginning as usual, on fol. 1b; but already on the margin of the next page, fol. 2a, the copyist has suddenly jumped from this preface into the middle of the first risâlah, در تقریر دیباچه; ll. 8 and 9 belong likewise to the preface; but the words in l. 14, که دل شخص انسان بود الخ, are part of the first risâlah, corresponding to No. 1121 in this Cat., fol. 3a margin, l. 13. A second jump from the middle of the first risâlah into that of the second (the five مجلس) is made on fol. 5a margin; l. 2 also belongs to the first risâlah, corresponding to No. 1121, fol. 5a margin, lin. penult.; l. 3 already forms part of the first majlis of the second risâlah, corresponding to No. 1121, fol. 6b, l. 9. The second majlis begins on fol. 6a, the third on fol. 8b margin, the fourth on fol. 10a margin, the fifth on fol. 13a; the third risâlah, on fol. 18b margin; the fourth, on fol. 20a; the fifth, on fol. 21b; the sixth, comprising the first story only (نصیحت حضرت شیخ سلطان اباقا), on fol. 31a; the seventh, comprising the third story of the usual sixth risâlah, حکایت ملك شمس الدین, on fol. 32a; towards the end of this story the copy breaks off, the last words corresponding to No. 1126 in this Cat., fol. 82b, l. 6.

No. 1725, ff. 32, centre-col., ll. 12; margin-col., ll. 26; small Nasta'lîḳ; illuminated frontispiece; the first two pages splendidly adorned; small illuminations throughout; a picture on fol. 18a size, 9½ in. by 5½ in.

Diwân-i-Sa'dî (دیوان سعدی).

Sa'dî's minor poems, arranged in a way which differs from all the other collections of the same title, both in the preceding copies (see Nos. 1121 and 1127) and in those of other libraries (see, for instance, Bodleian Cat., Nos. 692–697, and Rieu ii. p. 601b). It contains merely the usual parts of a common diwân, i. e. ḳaṣîdas (on ff. 1b–44a), tarji'bands (on ff. 44a–48a), and ghazals in alphabetical order, with a few mathnawi-baits at the end (on ff. 48a–232).

The so-called ḳaṣîdas practically agree with the Ṭayyibât of other copies, beginning in the usual way: اوّل دفتر بنام ایزد دانا الخ.

The tarji'bands begin: در عهد تو ای نگار دلبند الخ (corresponding to the initial bait in No. 1127 in this Cat.).

The ghazals open with the rhyme-letter ب, and begin:

زمن مپرس که از دست او دلم چونست
ازو مپرس که انگشتهاش پر خونست

No date.

No. 59, ff. 232, 2 coll., each ll. 15; Nasta'lîḳ; illuminated frontispiece, the margin sprinkled with various colours; size, 9¾ in. by 5½ in.

1132

Intikhâb-i-diwân-i-Sa'dî (انتخاب دیوان سعدی).

Short extracts from Sa'dî's minor poems, consisting of ḳaṣîdas and ghazals, with a few ḳiṭ'as and rubâ'îs at the end.

Beginning: شکر و سپاس و نعمت و منّت خدایرا (the usual beginning of the قصائد فارسیّه, see the preceding copies).

No date.

No. 609, ff. 215b–244, 2 centre-coll., each ll. 15, and a third on the margin, ll. 24–28; Nasta'lîḳ; illuminated frontispiece; the first two pages richly ornamented; a drawing on fol. 244b; size, 9¾ in. by 5½ in.

1133

Three works of Sa'dî.

This splendid copy, illuminated throughout in the most gorgeous style, contains:—

a. In the centre-column of ff. 1b–144b, Sa'dî's Gulistân, slightly imperfect at the end (a few lines of the conclusion being missing in consequence of a lacuna after fol. 144). Bâb I, on fol. 12a; II, on fol. 44b; III, on fol. 69a; IV, on fol. 97a; V, on fol. 101a; VI, on fol. 117a; VII, on fol. 122a; VIII, on fol. 129b.

b. In the margin-column of ff. 1ᵇ–144ᵇ, Sa'dî's Bûstân (at the end fifteen verses missing according to Graf's edition, in consequence of the same lacuna). Bâb I, on fol. 8ᵃ; II, on fol. 41ᵃ; III, on fol. 58ᵇ; IV, on fol. 71ᵇ; V, on fol. 89ᵇ, last line; VI, on fol. 97ᵃ; VII, on fol. 103ᵇ; VIII, on fol. 119ᵇ; IX, on fol. 129ᵇ; X, on fol. 141ᵃ.

c. In the centre-column of ff. 145ᵃ–155ᵃ, Sa'dî's Pandnâma, defective at the beginning (owing to the before-mentioned lacuna). There are five baits wanting; the first that appears here corresponds to the last on fol. 1ᵇ in the following copy.

On the margin of ff. 145ᵃ–155ᵃ there is found the well-known religious mathnawî on the duties of a Muslim, styled رسالهٔ نام حق or نام حق (as it is called here), likewise defective at the beginning; the first bait, which is the eighth in the usual copies (for instance, No. 1345 of the India Office Collection, fol. 56ᵇ), runs thus:

روز و شب طالب قبول ویم — پیروی امّت رسول ویم

comp. on this poem, which is usually styled مقدّمة الصّلوة, Bodleian Cat., Nos. 1767 and 1768. The date of composition, viz. 693 of the Riḥlat, or A.H. 703 (A.D. 1303), is contained in the last verse.

The whole MS., written throughout by the same hand, was transcribed at the request of Nawwâb 'Abd-almuḥsinkhân, son of Nawwâb 'Abd-alnabîkhân, by Mihr 'Alî, son of Muḥammad Ibrâhîm, and finished the 12th of Rabî'-alawwal, A.H. 1165 (A.D. 1752, Jan. 29). On fol. 1ᵃ is a seal of John Henry Peile, جان هنری پیل, with the date A.H. 1220 (A.D. 1805), and a statement in English, 'that this MS. was the gift of Mr. Sanders, 1811, that it was presented by J. H. Peile, Esq. (of the Madras Civil Service), and received 19th September, 1818, transferred to Civil College (i.e. Haileybury), 9 Aug., 1819.'

No. 3299, ff. 155, ll. 11, and an additional margin-col., ll. 30; large and distinct Nasta'lîḳ; splendid frontispiece on fol. 1ᵇ, every page, from first to last, adorned with gold borders round each line of the centre-column, and three corner-vignettes in various colours and designs; size, 10¾ in. by 6½ in.

Pandnâma.

Another copy of Sa'dî's Pandnâma, beginning:

کریما ببخشای بر حال ما — که هستم اسیر کمند هوا

comp. Nos. 1127 and 1133 in this Cat.

Dated the 14th of Shawwâl, A.H. 1209 (A.D. 1795, May 4).

No. 1345, ff. 1–10ᵇ, 2 coll., each ll. 13; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 7½ in. by 4¾ in.

1135

The same.

Beginning:

کریما به بخشای بر حال ما
که هستم اسیری (!) کمند هوا

Quite modern copy, dated the 16th of Rajab (without any year), by a scribe with the name of Muḥammad.

No. 3083, ff. 1–9, ll. 14; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 7¾ in. by 5¼ in.

Bûstân.

Another copy of Sa'dî's Bûstân, not dated, but old, probably belonging to the end of the tenth century of the Hijrah.

Beginning: بنام خداوند جان آفرین الخ.

Bâb I, on fol. 5ᵇ; II, on fol. 40ᵃ; III, on fol. 58ᵃ; IV, on fol. 70ᵇ; V, on fol. 88ᵃ; VI, on fol. 95ᵃ; VII, on fol. 101ᵃ; VIII, on fol. 115ᵇ; IX, on fol. 124ᵇ; X, on fol. 131ᵇ.

No. 3485, olim 20. J. 10, ff. 135, 2 coll., each ll. 15; very neat and distinct Nasta'lîḳ; illuminated frontispiece; size, 8½ in. by 5½ in.

1137

The same.

Dated A.H. 1019 (A.D. 1610, 1611).

No. 286, margin-col., ff. 1–116, ll. 36–38; Nasta'lîḳ; illuminated frontispiece.

1138

The same.

This copy was written by Kamâl; one half of the date is torn away, but what is left, viz. ٣٢, seems to indicate A.H. 1043 (A.D. 1633, 1634).

No. 472, ff. 150, 2 coll., each ll. 14; excellent Nasta'lîḳ; illuminations on the first two pages; size, 8¼ in. by 5½ in.

1139

The same.

Beginning, the usual one: بنام خداوند جان آفرین الخ, but the various reading of جهاندار for خداوند (as in fact many copies read) has been suggested on the margin. The last bait of Graf's edition is here the last but two; the additional two baits are:

هزاران درود وهزاران سلام — زمان بر محمّد علیه السّلام
ترا فتح ودولت همیشه مدام — بحقّ محمّد علیه السّلام.

Copied A.H. 1081 (A.D. 1670, 1671) by 'Abd-alrasûl ibn Maulânâ 'Alî. Collated. Bibliotheca Leydeniana. On the fly-leaf at the back the following note: 'The Bostan of Sadi; Palgatacherri, Aug., 1805; J. Leyden.'

No. 2713, ff. 150, 2 coll., each ll. 15; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 9¼ in. by 5¼ in.

1140

The same.

Another excellent copy, written A.H. 1082 (A.D. 1671, 1672) by Muẓaffar Ḥusain alḥusainî; the poem begins on fol. 2ᵇ. Instead of the usual ten bâbs this copy contains eleven, the ninth bâb having been split into two, the second headed on fol. 169ᵇ: در موعظه وتنبیه.

No. 154, ff. 179, 2 coll., each ll. 12; very large and distinct Nasta'lîḳ; the margin sprinkled with various colours; two large pictures on ff. 1ᵇ and 2ᵃ; illuminated frontispiece on fol. 2ᵇ; size, 12¾ in. by 7½ in.

1141

The same.

This copy is dated the 21st of Dhû-alḥijjah, A.H. 1156 (A.D. 1744, Feb. 5), the 26th year of Muḥammadshâh's reign, by Rûḥ-allâh ibn Shaikh Zind ibn Shaikh Muḥibb 'Alî Mâlik. A few various readings and annotations on the margin.

No. 1561, ff. 134, 2 coll., each ll. 15–17; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 9½ in. by 5¼ in.

1142

The same.

A most splendid copy, written at the request of Nawwâb Aḥmadkhân Bahâdur bin Ghaḍanfar-aldaulah Bahâdur by Râm Pirshâd, and finished at Shâhjahânâbâd the 14th of Rabî'-althânî, A.H. 1171 (A.D. 1757, Dec. 26).

No. 1779, ff. 58, 4 coll., each ll. 21; clear and distinct Nasta'lîḳ; large illuminated frontispiece; very fine and carefully executed illustrations on ff. 2b, 3a, 3b, 5a, 8a, 21a, 27b, 47b, 50a, 54a, 57b, and 58a; size, 12½ in. by 8½ in.

1143

The same.

Beginning: بنام جهاندار جان آفرین الخ.

Dated the 19th of Dhû-alḳa'dah, A.H. 1197 (A.D. 1783, Oct. 16)=3rd of the month آسن, of the year 1190 of the Bangâlî era, by the محرّر مکرّم of Bahîla (بهیله), in the Parganah of Amîrpûr Balanda (امیرپور بلنده). Bibliotheca Lœydeniana. Occasional notes in English on the margin.

No. 2743, ff. 130, 2 coll., each ll. 17; clear Nasta'lîḳ; size, 8½ in. by 6½ in.

The same.

A modern copy, dated the 7th of January, 1804. Beginning: بنام جهاندار الخ.

College of Fort William, 1825.

No. 2317, ff. 168, 2 coll., each ll. 13; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 7½ in. by 5½ in.

1145

The same.

Splendid copy, without a date. On the first and the last page of this MS. there is an index of—as it seems—Farîd-aldîn 'Aṭṭâr's Pandnâma and Ḥusainî's Kanz-alrumûz.

No. 1288, ff. 50, 4 coll., each ll. 23; Nasta'lîḳ; illuminated frontispiece; size, 10½ in. by 6 in.

1146

The same.

Another copy without a date. Many marginal and interlinear glosses, for the greater part written in red ink. The Bûstân concludes on fol. 137a; a few lines in prose are added by the transcriber on fol. 138a. Fol. 12 must be read after fol. 13.

No. 390, ff. 138, 2 coll., each ll. 15–16; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 10 in. by 6½ in.

The same.

Good copy, not dated.

No. 209, margin-col. on ff. 1b–148b, ll. 26, and an additional centre-col. on ff. 136a–149a, ll. 11; clear Nasta'lîḳ; illuminations on ff. 1b and 2a; size, 9½ in. by 5½ in.

1148

Extracts from the Bûstân.

Select verses from Sa'dî's Bûstân, beginning with the usual initial bait: بنام خداوند جان آفرین الخ.

Similar extracts were made by Shâh Ḳâsim-i-Anwâr (died A.H. 837=A.D. 1433, 1434), see Bodleian Cat., Nos. 743 and 744. As title to these extracts is given, on fol. 1a: جزوی از بوستان سعدی.

Copied in Shawwâl, A.H. 959 (A.D. 1552, Sept.–October).

No. 268, ff. 24, 2 coll., each ll. 11; excellent Nasta'lîḳ; beautiful illuminations on the first two pages; size, 9½ in. by 5¾ in.

1149

A fragment of the Bûstân.

Beginning: بنام جهاندار الخ; it breaks off, on fol. 38b, in the second half of Bâb I, with the bait:

بخاك اندرش عقد بگسیخته ـ گهرهای دندان فرو ریخته corresponding to p. 118, last bait, in Graf's edition.

This MS. belonged formerly to Sir Barry Close, Bart.

No. 1340, ff. 1–38b, 2 coll., each ll. 11–15; large, unequal Nasta'lîḳ; size, 9½ in. by 5¼ in.

Sharḥ-i-Bustân (شرح بستان).

'Abd-alwâsi' Hânsawi's commentary on the Bûstân, beginning, on fol. 41b: ربّنا لا تواخذنا إن نسینا او اخطانا وصلّ علی نبیّك ورسولك محمّد سیّدنا و مولانا وعلی آله واصحابه الخ میگوید معترف بعجز ونادانی در فهم الفاظ ودرك معانی عبد الواسع هانسوی که الخ; comp. A. Sprenger, Catal., p. 552. 'Abd-alwâsi' of Hânsi (see above, col. 403) is also the author of the غرائب اللغات, an alphabetical glossary of Hindi words with Persian explanation, improved and re-edited by Sirâj-aldîn 'Alî Ârzû, and of a Persian Grammar, printed 1851 in Cawnpore, comp. Rieu iii. pp. 1030a and 1096b.

The text of the Bûstân (introduction) begins, on fol. 42b: بنام جهاندار جان آفرین; Book I, on fol. 61a; II, on fol. 106b; III, on fol. 130a; IV, on fol. 149a; V, on fol. 171a; VI, on fol. 182a; VII, on fol. 188b; VIII, on fol. 206b; IX, on fol. 216a; X, on fol. 218a. Fol. 50b is left blank, but there is no lacuna.

Not all verses, but only the difficult ones, are explained by the commentator.

This copy was finished after a careful collation by Muḥammad Naṣîr, the son of Sayyid Luṭf-allâh, who was also an inhabitant of Hânsi, the 8th of Ṣafar, A.H.

1140 (A. D. 1727, Sept. 25). On fol. 220 a fragment in Hindûstânî: خیال بزبان هندی.

No. 530, ff. 41–220, ll. 11; large and distinct Nasta'lîḳ; the first two pages sprinkled with gold; size, 8½ in. by 4½ in.

Kalîd-i-Bustân (کلید بستان).

A short glossary to Sa'dî's Bûstân, arranged alphabetically, except the five first words; beginning: حلب نام مقام ماخولیا خلل دماغ غور مقام . . . . . افواه دهنها استعانت یاری خواستن آگنده پر شده الخ.

The whole letter ا from افواه to the beginning of the letter ب quite agrees with the short glossary to Ḥâfiẓ' diwân, contained on ff. 38–48 of this same MS., see the second کلید خواجهٔ حافظ further down in this Cat. under 'Ḥâfiẓ;' but all the rest from ب down to the end of ی is different from that. It concludes on fol. 97b, and is dated the 12th of Dhû-alḳa'dah, in the first year of Jahândârshâh's reign (=A. H. 1124, A. D. 1712, Dec. 11). As this little glossary follows in the same MS. immediately upon the مفتاح گلستان, by Uwais bin 'Alâ-aldîn Âdam (see Nos. 1176–1179 in this Cat.), it may be due to the same author, who flourished about A. H. 900 (A. D. 1494, 1495).

This کلید is followed, on ff. 98–106b, by another short glossary, likewise to the Bûstân, arranged, without alphabetical order, according to the single chapters of Sa'dî's poem; but there are quoted only eight chapters; the last two seem to be missing. Beginning: پوزش عذر (MS. عزیز) ومعذرت الخ. At the end a fragment of a تعبیر نامه.

Copied A. H. 1148 (A. D. 1735, 1736).

No. 1840, ff. 91–107, ll. 13; clear Nasta'lîḳ; size, 8½ in. by 6 in.

1152

Sharḥ-i-Bûstân (شرح بوستان).

A very short commentary on Sa'dî's Bûstân, in which only the difficult verses and phrases are explained, by an anonymous author, who, however, judging from the immediately following commentary on the Gulistân in this same MS. (see No. 1180 in this Cat.), seems identical with Muḥammad 'Abd-alrasûl bin Shihâb-aldîn, who wrote both his small explanatory works on Bûstân and Gulistân in the same year, viz. A. H. 1073 (A. D. 1662, 1663), see Rieu ii. p. 604; A. Sprenger, Catal., p. 552, etc.

The present copy begins, without any introduction, at once with the initial bait of the poem: بنام جهاندار جان آفرین . . . . . جهان بمعنیٔ روزگار مصحّح است از خدمت امیر شهاب الدین حکیم الخ.

Bâb I begins on fol. 231a.

No date.

No. 212, ff. 225–254, ll. 20; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 9½ in. by 6 in.

1153

Gulistân.

Another copy of Sa'dî's Gulistân, not dated, but old and especially valuable, as, according to the statement in the colophon, it has been copied from and collated with the poet's autograph.

No. 1598, ff. 92, ll. 14–15; ff. 1, 2, 32, and 56 supplied by a modern hand; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 9 in. by 5 in.

The same.

This copy, rich in marginal and interlinear glosses, was transcribed from a good old copy of A. H. 805 (A. D. 1402, 1403) at Lakhnau, A. H. 1183, and finished the 24th of Rabî'-althânî in that year (A. D. 1769, Aug. 27). It ends on fol. 90a, and is followed on the same and the following page by the transcriber's report about the source of his copy.

No. 820, ff. 1–90, ll. 16; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 8½ in. by 4½ in.

The same.

This copy was transcribed from one of Miyân Muḥammad Ṣâliḥ, which through several intermediate transcripts traced its origin back to an autograph of the poet himself, by Muḥammad Murîd bin Muḥammad Rashîd, for his son Rashîd Muḥammad, in the first or tenth year of Shâh 'Âlam's reign (A. H. 1173 or 1182=A. D. 1760 or 1768, 1769). On ff. 1b–2b a full index of the Gulistân, supplied by another hand; the work itself begins on fol. 3b.

No. 235, ff. 135, ll. 11; clear Nasta'lîḳ; illuminated frontispiece on fol. 3b; size, 9 in. by 5½ in.

1156

The same.

Dated the 15th of Jumâdâ-alawwal, A. H. 1019 (A. D. 1610, Aug. 5).

No. 286, centre-col., ff. 119, ll. 15; distinct Nasta'lîḳ; illuminated frontispiece; size, 8½ in. by 4½ in.

1157

The same.

This copy, rather uncouth and dirty, but provided with numerous interlinear paraphrases in Hindûstânî, is dated the 10th of Ramaḍân, A. H. 1138 (A. D. 1726, May 12). Bibliotheca Leydeniana.

No. 2735, ff. 112, ll. 14; written in a very peculiar style of Nasta'lîḳ, mixed with Shikasta, by several hands, as it seems; size, 9½ in. by 5½ in.

1158

The same.

Dated the 5th of Rabî'-alawwal, in the thirteenth year of Muḥammadshâh's reign (=A. H. 1144, A. D. 1731, Sept. 7).

Miftâḥ-i-Gulistân (مفتاح گلستان).

Short commentary on and glossary to Sa'dî's Gulistân, composed by Uwais bin 'Alâ-aldîn, known as Âdam, a pupil of Khwâjah Abû-alfaiḍ Abû-alfaḍl Amir-aldîn Shâh Ni'mat-allâh Muḥammad bin Muḥammad al-Ḥasanî, and dedicated to the Bahmanî Sulṭân of the Dakhan, Maḥmûdshâh bin Muḥammadshâh (who reigned A.H. 887–924 = A.D. 1482–1518, see above, No. 449). According to the last words in No. 3338 (1179 in this Cat.), the work was completed by the author on the day عاشور, i.e. the 10th of Muḥarram, A.H. 900 (A.D. 1494, Oct. 11). It is divided into two ḳisms, the first ḳism being a glossary, arranged alphabetically, of the difficult words (قسم اوّل مبوّب از حروف مقطّعات در بیان لغات), the last letter constituting the bâb, the first the faṣl or subdivision; the second ḳism containing an explanation of the difficult phrases, verses of the Ḳurân, traditions and sayings of Shaikhs, Arabic baits and invocations of God, etc., which occur in the Gulistân (قسم دوم در تفسیر و معانیٔ آیات و کلام قدسی و احادیث و اقوال و ادعیّات واشعار تازی که در کتاب گلستان مذکور است).

Beginning: فاتحهٔ مرفتّاحی را که افتتاح کلام خود بفاتحهٔ الکتاب مخصوص گردانید الخ.

First ḳism, on fol. 6b; second ḳism, on fol. 57b.

The copy ends on fol. 69b, and is dated the 6th of Sha'bân, A.H. 1052 (A.D. 1642, Oct. 30). On ff. 71b–75a there are written by another hand some fragments of theological tracts in Arabic, on Muḥammad, the Ḳurân, etc.

No. 104, ff. 75, ll. 13; Naskhî; size, 7½ in. by 4¼ in.

1177

Another copy of the same.

Beginning as in the preceding copy; first ḳism, on fol. 5b; second ḳism, on fol. 49b. Copied A.H. 1070 (A.D. 1659, 1660).

No. 103, ff. 56, ll. 12–13; carelessly written in a mixture of Nasta'lîḳ and Shikasta; size, 7⅝ in. by 4¼ in.

1178

The same.

This copy begins: کتاب مفتاح گلستان حضرت سعدی شیرازی؛ فاتحهٔ مر مفتاح (sic!) را که افتتاح کلام خود الخ.

First ḳism, on fol. 55b; second ḳism, on fol. 83b.

On fol. 51a another title is given to this work, viz. کلید گلستان. Dated the 24th of Jumâdâ-alawwal, A.H. 1148 (A.D. 1735, Oct. 12).

No. 1840, ff. 51–90, ll. 13; large and distinct Nasta'lîḳ; size, 8⅝ in. by 6 in.

The same.

This copy, written rather incorrectly and not dated, begins: فاتحهٔ مر فتّاحی که افتتاح کلام خود الخ.

First ḳism, on fol. 151b; second ḳism, on fol. 192a, last line. The date A.H. 900, 10th of Muḥarram, appears on fol. 203a, ll. 5 and 6.

Purchased by J. H. Peile, Esq., at Mysore, 1800; received at the Library Sept. 19, 1818; transferred to Civil College, Aug. 9, 1819.

No. 3338, olim 20. J. 6, ff. 147–203, ll. 13; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 8⅝ in. by 6 in.

Sharḥ-i-Gulistân (شرح گلستان).

Another short commentary on the Gulistân, by Muḥammad 'Abd-alrasûl (or, as he is called here, by a confusion with his brother 'Abdallâh, 'Abdallâh alrasûl) bin Shihâb-almillat (Shihâb-aldîn) bin Shaikh 'Abd-allâh bin Shaikh Ṭâhir bin Shaikh Ḥasan alḳuraishî (or alḳurashî) alhâshimî, who began this work after having completed his commentary on the Bûstân (see No. 1152 in this Cat.) in A.H. 1073 (A.D. 1662, 1663); comp. Bodleian Cat., No. 724; Rieu ii. p. 604 and A. Sprenger, Catal., p. 550. It was printed in Lucknow, A.H. 1264.

Beginning: سپاس بی قیاسٌ علیمی را که علم آدمٌ الاسماءَ کُلّها (Sûrah 2, v. 29) حرفی است از نخستهٔ تعلیم او الخ.

Every bâb of the Gulistân comprises in this commentary five explanatory parts, viz. 1. verses of the Ḳurân (آيات الهى); 2. traditions of the Prophet, sayings of the Shaikhs, and Arabic proverbs (احاديث نبوى واقوال مشايخ وامثال عرب); 3. Arabic verses (اشعار عربيّه); 4. Persian verses (ابيات فارسيّه); 5. difficult Arabic and Persian words and phrases, in alphabetical order (لغات عربيّه وفارسيّه برعايت ترتيب حروف). Occasional notes and additions on the margin.

Dated the 2nd of Ramaḍân, in the seventeenth year of 'Âlamgir's reign (=A.H. 1085, A.D. 1674, Nov. 30).

No. 212, ff. 255–284, ll. 20; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 9½ in. by 6 in.

Sharḥ-i-Gulistân (شرح گلستان).

Another commentary on the Gulistân, by Muḥammad Nûr-allâh Aḥrâri, see A. Sprenger, Catal., p. 550, beginning, on fol. 24b: منّت مر خدايرا عزّ وجلّ كه زبان گويا را بيشكار دل دانا ساخت الخ.

The author's name appears on fol. 25a, l. 8. It is the same Nûr-allâh Aḥrâri who wrote a commentary on the mathnawi (see No. 1104 in this Cat.).

This copy is incomplete, one leaf seems to be missing at the end; it breaks off in the eighth chapter (which begins on fol. 96a); the last words of the text are: پادشاه از براى بهر ستمگار است . . . (or rather: پادشاه از براى دفع ستمگاران, see No. 2797 (1174 in this Cat.), fol. 95b, l. 7).

Bibliotheca Leydeniana.

No. 2787, ff. 24–103, ll. 15; Shikasta; size, 8½ in. by 6 in.

1182

Farhang-i-Gulistân (فرهنگ گلستان).

A short Persian paraphrase of the difficult Arabic and Persian verses, the sentences of the Ḳurân, traditions of the Prophet, sayings of other great Shaikhs, and a great many single words, especially of Arabic origin, which occur in Sa'dî's Gulistân, composed by Junaid bin 'Abdallâh, and beginning: الحمد لله على نعمائه و الصّلوة على رسوله و السّلام على اصحابه قال الخ.

It is divided into three ḳisms:

قسم اوّل اشعار عربى و بعضى فارسىٔ مشكل،

قسم دويم در مركّبات معانىٔ بعضى اقوال اكابر و حديث نبوى و كلام ربّانى،

قسم سيوم در لغات مفردات و حروف تهجّى.

The third ḳism begins on fol. 158a.

The Persian paraphrase is an interlinear one, and written in much smaller characters than the original words and phrases. Finished the 15th of Rajab, in the fourteenth year of Muḥammadshâh's reign (=A.H. 1145, A.D. 1733, Jan. 1).

No. 1481, ff. 149b–171, ll. 18; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 6½ in. by 3½ in.

Farhang-i-Gulistân (فرهنگ گلستان).

Another small glossary of the Gulistân, with the same title, chiefly explaining Arabic words by an interlinear Persian paraphrase; it is divided into two portions, the first of which is arranged alphabetically according to the last letter, viz. لغات مفردات بترتيب حروف, on fol. 1a, beginning with رضا (=خشنودى); the second is headed لغات متفرّقه, on fol. 18b, beginning with اثابت (=تويه).

No compiler's name appears. Dated, as it seems, the 9th of Ṣafar (? the word is entirely misspelt here), in the first year of Aḥmadshâh's reign (=A.H. 1162, A.D. 1749, Jan. 29). A seal, however, of the first owner, Ghulâm Muḥyi-aldîn Raf'i, bears the earlier date A.H. 1155 (A.D. 1742, 1743), on fol. 18b, another of the same is found at the end of the copy.

No. 1605, ff. 21; careless Nasta'lîḳ; size, 7½ in. by 4½ in.

Tarjuma-i-Ash'âr-i-Gulistân (ترجمهٔ اشعار گلستان).

A Persian translation of all the Arabic verses and sentences which occur in Sa'dî's Gulistân, by an anonymous author, beginning: الحمد لله المعبود كه مناشير تناشير الخ.

This paraphrase is divided into five faṣls, the first of which comprises the verses of the Ḳurân (در كتاب وآيات مجيد); the second, the traditions (در احاديث عظيم); the third, the sayings of the Shaikhs (در قول مشايخ); the fourth, all the rest of the Arabic verses (در اشعار عربيّه); and the fifth, whole Arabic phrases and sentences (در لغات وكلمات تامّات). The third and fifth of these faṣls are entirely missing in this copy. The first begins on fol. 250b, the second on fol. 252a, and the fourth on fol. 253b.

No. 2650, ff. 250–257, ll. 17; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 12½ in. by 7 in.

Risâla-i-duwum dar majlis-i-panjgâna (رسالهٔ دوم در مجلس پنجگانه).

Another copy of the second risâlah or prose-treatise of Sa'di, containing the five homilies, see above, No. 1117, 2 sq.

It is divided into five majlis, and begins, on fol. 93a: خبرست از آن مقتداى زمرهٔ حقيقت وآن پيشواى لشكر طريقت آن نگين خاتم جلال الخ.

Dated at Lakhnau the 24th of Rabi'-althâni, A.H. 1183 (A.D. 1769, Aug. 27), see No. 1154 in this Cat.

No. 820, ff. 93a–114, ll. 16; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 8½ in. by 4½ in.

Poets who died between A.H. 700 and 800.

Amîr Khusrau (Nos. 1186–1222).

Kulliyyât-i-Amîr Khusrau (كلّيّات امير خسرو).

The oldest collection of poetical works, by the greatest Persian poet of India, Yamîn-aldîn Abû-alḥasan Amîr Khusrau, son of Lâjin (who afterwards assumed the title of Amîr Saif-aldîn Maḥmûd Shamsî), born A.H. 651 (A.D. 1253) in Patyâlî or Patiyâlî, died in Dihlî A.H. 725, either the 18th of Shawwâl, as the Maṭlûb-alṭâlibîn states (see No. 3 in the list of Nizâm-aldîn Auliyâ's pupils, col. 324 in this Cat.)=A.D. 1325, Sept. 27, or the 29th of Dhû-alḳa'dah=A.D. 1325, Nov. 6, as Rieu and Sprenger assert; comp. on his life and works Rieu i. pp. 240–242, and ii. p. 609 sq.; Bodleian Cat., Nos. 753–799; W. Pertsch, p. 74 (No. 43, 6), and Berlin Cat., p. 831 sq.; A. Sprenger, Catal., p. 465 sq.; Ouseley, Biogr. Notices, pp. 148–163; Elliot, History of India, iii. pp. 524–566; Cat. des MSS. et Xylographes, pp. 350–352; G. Flügel i. p. 542; J. Aumer, pp. 21 and 22; comp. also Haft Iḳlîm, No. 391 (coll. 404 and 405 in this Cat.); Butkhâna, No. 30 (Bodleian Cat., coll. 199 and 200); Âtashkada, No. 754 (ib., col. 288); and Khulâṣat-alkalâm, No. 23 (ib., col. 297).

This collection, which was written A.H. 866 and 867 (A.D. 1462), contains the following parts:

1. Dîbâća (دیباچه), or prose-preface to the third diwân, containing notices on the earlier Persian literature, and a detailed account of the poet's life and works, beginning, on fol. 1b: اطلع اهلّة (other copies انّ (الله العزیز (other copies الغرر) من مطالع غرّة الکمال الخ غرّهٔ کمال انسان از دیباچهٔ حمد مخترعیست که مطلع دیوان الخ.

2. Ghurrat-alkamâl (غرّة الکمال), or the poems of maturity, the third of Amîr Khusrau's diwâns (and the only one which is found complete in this copy); according to Rieu (ii. p. 610a) it contains the poems written between A.H. 685 and 693 (A.D. 1286–1294), but according to No. 754 in the Bodleian Cat. it was not completed before A.H. 702 (A.D. 1302, 1303), and the latter date seems more correct, as this diwân contains, among others, kaṣîdas in honour of 'Alâ-aldîn Muḥammadshâh Khiljî, who reigned from A.H. 695 to 715 or 716 (A.D. 1296–1316).

Beginning, on fol. 45b:

چون آفتاب روشن توحید ذو الجلال
بنمود رخ زمطلع این غرّهٔ کمال

The various distichs of this initial poem, which is not found in other copies (except No. 2073, 1192 in this Cat.) in its complete form, serve as introduction to each of the following poems, and represent the various links of the chain or 'silsilah' which binds the separate kaṣîdas, etc., together (see Rieu ii. p. 609, and Bodleian Cat., col. 554). The first two baits appear as heading of the second kaṣîdah, on fol. 48a, which, in most other copies, is the first, beginning:

چو زهره خاك مسکین را که توحید خدا گوید
بدین آلودگی ذات مقدّس را ثنا گوید

The third bait introduces the third kaṣîdah, on fol. 54a; the fourth bait the fourth kaṣîdah, on fol. 60a; and so forth. This diwân consists of kaṣîdas (ff. 45b–135b), tarji'bands (ff. 136a–145b), beginning as in No. 754 of the Bodleian Cat.: ای دل جا مانده خیز الخ, and muḳaṭṭa'ât (ff. 146a–164b), beginning likewise as in the Bodleian copy: هر که گوید که من از عقل الخ. Other copies in Rieu ii. pp. 610b, 613b, and 614a; Bodleian Cat., Nos. 754 and 755, and A. Sprenger, Catal., p. 468.

3. Ghazaliyyât (غزلیّات), a collection of minor lyrical poems, gathered, as is usual in copies of Amîr Khusrau's works, from all the four older diwâns of the poet (see similar collections in Rieu, W. Pertsch, Bodleian Cat., G. Flügel, etc., loc. cit.), introduced by a kaṣîdah, beginning, on fol. 164b: حمد رائم بر زبان لله ربّ العالمین الخ. This is the initial poem of the second diwân (وسط الحیوة); see the following copy and A. Sprenger, p. 468; and of the general دیوان امیر خسرو in No. 1193 below, in Rieu ii. p. 614b, and Bodleian Cat., Nos. 758 and 759. From fol. 175b onwards they are arranged in alphabetical order; beginning of the first alphabetical ghazal: بشکافت غم این ریش جگر خوارهٔ مارا الخ.

4. Rubâ'iyyât (رباعیّات), on fol. 477b, beginning:

صانع احدی که ساخت نه چرخ کهن
نی عقل رسد بکنه وصفش نه سخن

This is the initial bait of the rubâ'îs of the fourth diwân (بقیّهٔ نقیّه) in No. 756 of the Bodleian Cat. and of the general selection from Khusrau's diwâns in No. 759 of the same.

5. Ḳirân-i-Sa'dain (قران سعدین), usually called Ḳirân-alsa'dain (قران السعدین), the conjunction of the two lucky planets, i.e. the meeting of Sulṭân Mu'izz-aldîn Kaiḳubâd of Dihlî (who reigned from A.H. 686 to 689=A.D. 1287–1290, see col. 320 in this Cat.), with his father, Sulṭân Nâṣir-aldîn Bughrâkhân of Bangâlah, in A.H. 688 (A.D. 1289), at Dihlî; it was completed in the month of Ramaḍân, in the same year (A.D. 1289, Sept., October); comp. Rieu ii. pp. 611b and 612a; Bodleian Cat., Nos. 773–775; A. Sprenger, Catal., p. 470; W. Pertsch, Berlin Cat., pp. 838 and 839; Elliot, History of India, iii. pp. 524–534 (where extracts in English translation are given), and Cowell's account of the poem in the Journal of the Asiatic Society of Bengal, 1860, vol. 29, pp. 225–239. The mathnawî has been lithographed in Lucknow, A.H. 1259 and 1261 (the latter edition compiled by Maulawî Ḳudrat Aḥmad and accompanied with glosses). Three commentaries of the same are described in A. Sprenger, Catal., p. 471, one by Nûr-alḥaḳḳ, styled نور العین (see another copy in Rieu ii. p. 617b), and composed A.H. 1014 (A.D. 1605, 1606); another by 'Abd-alrasûl Ḳâsim, and a third by an anonymous writer.

Beginning of the mathnawî, on fol. 506a:

حمد خداوند سرایم نخست
تا شود این نامه زنامش درست

This is the third 'bait' in most copies where two initial verses in a different metre are prefixed to the poem (beginning: شکر گویم که بتوفیق خداوند جهان الخ). From fol. 506 to fol. 514a this poem is only written in the centre-columns, like the preceding parts, but from fol. 514b to the end (on fol. 520) also on the margin.

B. Margin-column.

6. Maṭla'-alanwâr (مطلع الانوار), or the rising of the lights, a mystical mathnawi in imitation of Niẓâmi's Makhzan-alasrâr, being the first part of Amir Khusrau's Khamsah, and beginning, on fol. 1b:

بسم الله الرّحمٰن الرّحیم — خطبهٔ قدسست بملك قدیم

This poem was composed A.H. 698 (A.D. 1298, 1299), and dedicated, like the second, third, and fifth part of the Khamsah, to 'Alâ-aldin Muḥammadshâh (see above under No. 2).

7. Shirin u Khusrau (شیرین و خسرو), or the loves of Khusrau and Shirin, completed in the beginning of Rajab of the same year, A.H. 698 (A.D. 1299, 4th of April); it was written in imitation of Niẓâmi's Khusrau u Shirin and forms the second part of Amir Khusrau's Khamsah.

Beginning, on fol. 91b:

خداوندا دلم را چشم بگشای — بمعراج یقینم راه بنمای

8. Majnûn u Lailâ (مجنون و لیلی), or the loves of Lailâ and Majnûn, an imitation of Niẓâmi's Lailâ u Majnûn, forming the third part of Amir Khusrau's Khamsah. It was composed, like the two preceding poems, in A.H. 698, and begins, on fol. 203b:

ای داده بدل خزینهٔ راز — عقل از تو شده خزینه پرواز

This poem has been printed in Calcutta 1811, 1818, and A.H. 1244 (A.D. 1828, 1829), in Lucknow A.H. 1286 (A.D. 1869); it is also published in Lumsden's Persian Selections (Calcutta, 1828); Zenker (ii. 550) cites besides an edition of 1848, without any specification of place.

9. Hasbt Bihisht (هشت بهشت), or the eight paradises, containing the love-adventures of Bahrâmgûr in imitation of Niẓâmi's Haft Paikar. It forms in some copies the fourth part of Amir Khusrau's Khamsah, in others the fifth, and was composed A.H. 701 (A.D. 1301, 1302).

Beginning, on fol. 274b:

ای گشایندهٔ خزائن جود — نقش پیوند کارگاه وجود

10. Â'ina-i-Iskandarî (آئینهٔ اسکندری), or the mirror of Alexander, composed A.H. 699 (A.D. 1299, 1300) in imitation of Niẓâmi's Iskandarnâma, and forming the fifth (or more commonly the fourth) part of Amir Khusrau's Khamsah.

Beginning, on fol. 359b:

جهان پادشاها خدائی تراست
ازل تا ابد پادشاهی تراست

Other copies of this Khamsah (besides the five described below in Nos. 1196–1200) are noticed in Bodleian Cat., Nos. 766–771; Rieu ii. pp. 611 (Nos. VII–XI) and 615 sq.; W. Pertsch, Berlin Cat., pp. 834–838; A. Sprenger, Catal., pp. 468–470, etc.

11. Miftâḥ-alfutûḥ (مفتاح الفتوح), or the key of victories, a mathnawi in praise of the first campaigns of Sulṭân Jalâl-aldin Fîrûzshâh, from his accession in A.H. 689 to his return to Dihlî in Jumâdâ II, A.H. 690 (A.D. 1290 to June 1291), completed immediately after the latter event; this poem was originally included in the third diwân (غرّة الکمال), see Rieu ii. pp. 611a and 614a; Bodleian Cat., No. 754 (where it is styled فتح نامه), and No. 1190 below in this Cat.

Beginning, on fol. 478b:

سخن بر نام شاهی کردم آغاز
که بر شاهان در دولت کنم باز

An account of this poem is given in Elliot, History of India, iii. pp. 536–544. The margins are left blank on ff. 285b, 378b, 379a, and 463b–472a. There are two dates, viz. 1st of Dhû-alḥijjah, A.H. 866 (A.D. 1462, Aug. 27), on fol. 91a margin, at the end of the مطلع الانوار, and 8th of Ṣafar, A.H. 867 (A.D. 1462, Nov. 2), on fol. 359a margin, at the end of the هشت بهشت.

No. 51, ff. 520, 2 centre-coll., each ll. 21, and a third on the margin, ll. 38; excellent Nasta'lîḳ; illuminated headings at the beginning of each part; size, 9½ in. by 6 in.

Another copy of the same.

This copy of Amir Khusrau's Kulliyyât is much younger than the preceding one, but considerably richer in contents. It consists of the following parts:

A. Centre-columns.

1. Tuḥfat-alṣighar (تحفة الصغر), or the poems of youth, the first of Amir Khusrau's diwâns, which was completed about A.H. 670 or 671 (A.D. 1272), with a preface in prose.

Beginning of the preface, on fol. 1b: حمدی که از اوّل زادن زاد وجود بود وثنای که از شیر خوارگی الخ.

Beginning of the poetry, on fol. 4b:

خدای عزّ و جل ذو الجلال کن فیکون
بری زحیرت و مستغنی از چرا وچون

It consists of ḳaṣîdas, ḳiṭ'as (beginning on fol. 48b), and a short mathnawi, which begins on fol. 50b: هی ای تیرد رای الخ; other copies are described in Rieu ii. pp. 609b and 613a, and A. Sprenger, p. 467.

2. Wasaṭ-alḥayât (وسط الحیات), or poems of middle life, the second of Amir Khusrau's diwâns, which was completed about A.H. 685 (A.D. 1286), with a preface in prose.

Beginning of the preface, on fol. 55b: بفضل الله قد سطرت هذه الصفحات وجعلتها واسطة لبقاء الذات بعد الممات الخ.

Beginning of the poetry, on fol. 63b: حمد رانم بر زبان لله ربّ العالمین الخ; see the preceding copy, No. 3.

This diwân consists of ḳaṣîdas, tarkîbbands (beginning on fol. 123b), and ḳiṭ'as (on fol. 139b). Blanks on fol. 83. Other copies are described in Rieu ii. pp. 610a and 613a; Bodleian Cat., No. 753, and A. Sprenger, Catal., pp. 467 and 468.

3. Ghurrat-alkamâl (غرّة الكمال), or the poems of maturity, the third of Amir Khusrau's diwâns, see Nos. 1 and 2 in the preceding copy; the preface begins here thus, on fol. 145b: (read حمد) غرّهٔ کمال انسانی از دیباچهٔ احمد مخترع است الخ.

Beginning of the poetry, on fol. 194b: چه (؟ چو) زهره خاك مسكين را الخ, agreeing with the second ḳaṣîdah of this diwân in the preceding copy. It contains ḳaṣîdas, tarkîbbands (on fol. 292a sq.), and ḳiṭ'as (on fol. 302a sq.). A blank on fol. 149a.

4. Bakiyya-i-nakiyyah (بقيّهٔ نقيّه), or the poems of old age, the fourth of Amir Khusrau's diwâns, completed A.H. 718 (A.D. 1318), with a preface in prose.

Beginning of the preface, on fol. 317b: حمدی کہ بقيّهٔ نقيّهٔ حيوة در تحرير آن بر جرائد وجود بشمار آيد وثنای حليهٔ الخ.

Beginning of the poetry, on fol. 328a:

زبان کہ بر در معنی کليد گفتار است
زبهر شکر و سپاس يکی جهاندار است

This diwân (which is called in A. Sprenger, Catal., بقيّهٔ نقيّه, and in Cat. des MSS. et Xylographes کتاب بقيّه و نقيّه) contains ḳaṣîdas, tarkîbbands (on fol. 377a sq.), short mathnawîs (on fol. 385b sq.), ḳiṭ'as (on fol. 390a sq.), and a very extensive collection of ghazals, followed by a series of rubâ'is. The ghazals (which have here the special heading of بقيّهٔ نقيّه) are arranged alphabetically, except the first twelve poems, and begin, on fol. 407b:

ای زخيال ما برون در تو خيال کی رسد
با صفت تو عقل را لاف کمال کی رسد

This initial poem is the first ghazal of the غرّة الكمال or third diwân in Nos. 754 and 755 of the Bodleian Cat., and of the various selections from Khusrau's diwâns and ghazals in Nos. 760 and 763–765 of the same; it appears likewise as beginning in the general collections, described in W. Pertsch, Berlin Cat., pp. 714, 831, and 832, and in J. Aumer, p. 21. The rubâ'is begin, on fol. 824b: پاکست خداوند کريم اکبر الخ, likewise agreeing with the initial quatrain in the third diwân in Nos. 754 and 755 of the Bodleian Cat., and in the general collection, No. 758, of the same. Blanks on ff. 323, 341, 489b, 611, and 629; a lacuna besides after fol. 781. Other copies of this diwân are described in Rieu ii. pp. 610b and 613a; Bodleian Cat., No. 756; A. Sprenger, Catal., p. 468; W. Pertsch, Berlin Cat., p. 833, and Cat. des MSS. et Xylographes, p. 351. These four diwâns have been printed, Lucknow, 1874. The fifth diwân, styled نهاية الكمال, and containing poems of the last years of Amir Khusrau's life (see Rieu ii. p. 613b, and Bodleian Cat., No. 757), is not found in the India Office Collections.

B. Margin-column.

5. Maṭla'-alanwâr (مطلع الانوار), on fol. 1b, beginning:

خطبهٔ قدست بملك قديم ـ بسم الله الرّحمٰن الرّحيم

see No. 6 in the preceding copy. Fol. 83 is left blank.

6. Khusrau u Shîrîn (خسرو و شيرين), on fol. 97b, beginning as in No. 7 of the preceding copy. Fol. 149 left blank.

7. Lailâ u Majnûn (ليلی و مجنون), on fol. 217a, beginning as in No. 8 of the preceding copy.

8. Hasht Bihisht (هشت بهشت), on fol. 292b, beginning as in No. 9 of the preceding copy.

9. Â'ina-i-Iskandarî (آئينهٔ اسكندری), on fol. 391a, beginning as in No. 10 of the preceding copy. The greater part of fol. 489b is left blank, but there seems to be no interruption in the text.

10. Ḳirân-alsa'dain (قران السعدين), on fol. 520b, beginning as in No. 5 of the preceding copy.

11. Nuskha-i-Khiḍrkhânî (نسخهٔ خضرخانی), i.e. Ḳiṣṣa-i-Khiḍrkhân u Duwalrânî (قصّهٔ خضرخان و دولرانی), or as the author himself styles it: Duwalrânî Khiḍrkhân (دولرانی خضرخان), see Rieu ii. p. 612b, the love-story of Khiḍrkhân, son of Sulṭân 'Alâ-aldîn Muḥammadshâh Khiljî (reigned A.H. 695–715 or 716 = A.D. 1296–1316, see No. 2 in the preceding copy), with Duwalrânî, the daughter of the Râjah of Gujarât, completed A.H. 715, 6th of Dhû-alḳa'dah (A.D. 1316, Feb. 1). It is often merely called کتاب قصّهٔ خضرخانی, خضرخانی, or even خضرخانی, and also bears the title of 'Ishḳiyyah (عشقيّه), see below, No. 1216. Beginning, on fol. 623a:

سر نامه بنام آن خداوند
کہ دلها را بخوبان داد پيوند

Ff. 629 (partly), 646a–653b, and 678a–701a are left blank. Comp. on this poem Rieu ii. pp. 612, 617, and 618; Bodleian Cat., Nos. 777–779; A. Sprenger, Catal., p. 470; J. Aumer, p. 22; Cat. des MSS. et Xylographes, p. 351; Elliot, History of India, iii. pp. 544–557, where extracts are given in English translation; Elphinstone, History of India, 5th ed., p. 395, and E. Thomas, Pathan Kings, p. 176.

12. Nuh Sipihr (نُه سپهر), or the nine spheres, another mathnawî which gives a poetical description of the court of Ḳuṭb-aldîn Mubârakshâh Khiljî (who was killed A.H. 720 or 721 = A.D. 1320 or 1321, see col. 320 in this Cat.), and of certain events of his reign. It was completed end of Jumâdâ II, A.H. 718 (A.D. 1318, Aug. 28), comp. Rieu ii. p. 612b; Bodleian Cat., No. 776, and Elliot's History of India, iii. p. 557, where an analysis of the poem is given. Beginning, on fol. 701b:

خدارا کنم بر سر نامه ياد
کہ بر بندہ درهای معنی گشاد

It breaks off on fol. 781b in consequence of a lacuna.

13. Miftâḥ-alfutûḥ, incomplete at the beginning, in consequence of the same lacuna; the first bait which appears here, on fol. 782a:

همی زد تیرهٔ سر بر آسمانها
ستارهٔ چشم میزد بر سنانها

corresponds to the first distich on fol. 483a margin in the preceding copy.

14. A series of short mathnawis, containing poetical descriptions of various kinds; the first, on fol. 798a, is headed: این نامه بر کسیست که جانرا زدوستیش حلّ کردهٔ ام بآتش و بنوشتهٔ این مقال (supplied from No. 2073, 1192 in this Cat.), and begins:

این نامه که جان درو سرشتم
هر حرف بخون دل نبشتم

corresponding to the first mathnawí in the third diwân of the Bodleian Cat., No. 754, fol. 216a; the second, on fol. 805b, is headed: این بیتهای قصر که مهر خانه کرد رغبت درو در آید و بیرون رود چنان. Other headings on ff. 806b, 811b, 812a, 813a (bis), 813b, 814b, 815a, 815b, and 817b; the last of these mathnawis concludes on fol. 825a; the remaining leaves are left blank.

This copy is dated the 2nd of Rabí'-alawwal, A.H. 1008 (A.D. 1599, Sept. 22). A fihrist on the fly-leaf.

No. 412, ff. 845, 2 centre-coll., each ll. 19, and a third on the margin of ff. 1–825, ll. 38; clear and distinct Nasta'líḳ; illuminated frontispiece; size, 9¾ in. by 5¾ in.

1188

The same.

This copy of Amír Khusrau's Kulliyyát is much older than the preceding one, but defective both at the beginning and end.

Contents:

A. Centre-columns.

1. Tuḥfat-alṣighar, the first diwân, defective at the beginning; it opens abruptly in the middle of a ḳaṣídah: گفتم درین گریوه بیابم امید عفو الخ, corresponding to No. 356 (1190 in this Cat.), fol. 5a margin, last bait, and consists of ḳaṣídas, tarkíbbands, muḳaṭṭa'át (on fol. 44b sq.), and the same mathnawí as in the preceding copy, beginning, on fol. 46b: هی هی ای تیرهٔ رای الخ.

2. Wasaṭ-alḥayát, the second diwân, with the prose-preface. Beginning of the preface, on fol. 51b (different from that in the preceding copy): حمدی که از میان جان بر آید و ثنائی که از وسط دل گرهٔ گشاید حکیم حاکم را الخ.

Beginning of the poetry, on fol. 60a: حمد رانم بر زبان الخ. This diwân consists of ḳaṣídas, tarkíbbands, tarjí's, and ḳiṭ'as (on fol. 136b sq.).

3. Kitáb-alkamál (کتاب الکمال), that is the third diwân, usually styled Ghurrat-alkamál, with the prose preface. Beginning of the preface, on fol. 142b: غرّهٔ کمال انسانی از دیباچهٔ حمد الخ.

Beginning of the poetry, as in the preceding copy on fol. 193b: چه زهره خاك مسکین را الخ. It consists of ḳaṣídas, tarkíbbands, and ḳiṭ'as (on fol. 282b).

4. Baḳiyya-i-Naḳiyyah, the fourth diwân, with the prose-preface. Beginning of the preface, on fol. 296b: حمدی که بقیّهٔ نقیّه الخ.

Beginning of the poetry, on fol. 306b: زبان که بر در معنی الخ. It consists of ḳaṣídas, tarkíbbands, and ḳiṭ'as (on fol. 385a).

5. Ghazaliyyát and rubá'iyyát, a very large collection, gathered from all four diwâns, but incomplete at the end. The ghazals are arranged alphabetically, except the first twelve. Beginning of the initial ghazal, on fol. 402b: ای زخیال ما الخ, corresponding to the first ghazal of the fourth diwân in the preceding copy and that of the third diwân in No. 356 below (1190 in this Cat.), in Nos. 754 and 755 of the Bodleian Cat., etc., see the full references in No. 4 of the preceding copy.

Beginning of the first alphabetical ghazal, on fol. 405b:

چه اقبالست این یا رب که دولت داد رو مارا
که در کوی فراموشان گذر شد یار زیبارا

agreeing with the first in a smaller selection from Amír Khusrau's ghazals in No. 763 of the Bodleian Cat.

Beginning of the rubá'is, on fol. 874b: پاکست خداوند الخ, see No. 4 in the preceding copy; they break off on fol. 877b with a quatrain, beginning:

قدرت ملکا زآسمان بیشتر است
هر لحظه دل دشمن تو ریشتر است corresponding to No. 356 (1190 in this Cat.), fol. 405b, l. 3.

B. Margin-column.

6. Maṭla'-alanwár, defective at the beginning; the first verse on fol. 1a is not found in No. 51 (1186 in this Cat.), but the second, مردمك چشم قمر شد زنور الخ, corresponds to fol. 6b margin, first line, in that copy.

7. Khusrau u Shírín, on fol. 94b.

8. Majnún u Laylá, on fol. 214b.

9. Hasht Bihisht, on fol. 274b.

10. Iskandarnáma (اسکندرنامه), i.e. Á'ína-i-Iskandarí, on fol. 388b.

11. Ḳirán-alsa'dain, on fol. 516b.

12. Kitáb-i-Khiḍrkhání (کتاب خضرخانی), i.e. Khiḍrkhán u Duwalrání, on fol. 623b.

13. Nuh Sipihr, on fol. 702b.

14. Fatḥ-alfutúḥ (فتح الفتوح), i.e. Miftáḥ-alfutúḥ, on fol. 827b.

15. The same series of short mathnawis as in No. 14 of the preceding copy, the first of which, on fol. 848ᵃ, has the same heading and beginning as there.

This copy is dated A.H. 933 (A.D. 1526, 1527); the right order of ff. 82–88 is: 82, 87, 83–86, 88; that of ff. 224–370: 224, 361–369, 352–360, 256–263, 248–255, 241–247, 233–240, 225–232, 264–351, 370; and that of ff. 413–418: 413, 416, 417, 414, 415, 418.

Nos. 1950 and 1951, first vol. ff. 1–401, second vol. ff. 402–877, 2 centre-coll., each ll. 19, and a third on the margin of ff. 1–875ᵃ, ll. 36; good Nasta'lîḳ; an illuminated heading at the beginning of each part, except the first, the sixth, and the last; size, 9¼ in. by 6¾ in.

Amîr Khusrau's four diwâns.

Another copy of the four diwâns of Amîr Khusrau, viz.:

1. Tuḥfat-alṣighar, the first diwân; beginning of the prose-preface, on fol. 1ᵇ, as in No. 412 (1187 in this Cat.): حمدی کہ از اوّل الخ. Beginning of the poetry, on fol. 8ᵃ margin: خدای عزّ وجل الخ.

It consists here of ḳaṣîdas, ghazals, and ḳiṭ'as; the same mathnawî as in the two preceding copies, beginning, on fol. 48ᵇ margin: هی هی ای تیرہ رای الخ; and a series of rubâ'îs (on fol. 51ᵇ sq.). The right order of ff. 1–9 is: 1–3, 8, 4–7, 9.

2. Wasaṭ-alḥayât, the second diwân; beginning of the prose-preface, on fol. 63ᵇ: بفضل الله قد سطرت الخ. Beginning of the poetry, on fol. 68ᵇ margin: شاید از هنگام نقش این ثنای کبریا الخ.

It consists here of ḳaṣîdas, ḳiṭ'as, ghazals (on fol. 125ᵃ sq.), and two series of rubâ'îs (on ff. 158ᵇ–164ᵇ margin, and 182ᵃ–188ᵃ margin).

3. Ghurrat-alkamâl, the third diwân, without the prose-preface. Beginning of the poetry, on fol. 189ᵇ: چہ زہرہ خاك الخ.

It consists here of ḳaṣîdas, short mathnawîs, ḳiṭ'as, ghazals, and rubâ'îs (on fol. 292ᵃ margin).

4. Bakiyya-i-Nakiyyah, the fourth diwân; the prose-preface here is the usual one of the third diwân, beginning, on fol. 305ᵇ: الله اطلع الغرر من مطلع الخ. Beginning of the poetry, on fol. 337ᵇ:

بقیّہ ایست نقیّہ زفیض طبع من این
کہ چون طبائع افلاك محکم است متین

As a comparison with No. 756 of the Bodleian Cat. and Rieu ii. p. 613ᵃ shows, this is the introductory distich or verse of the 'Silsilah,' see above, No. 1186, 2.

This diwân consists of ḳaṣîdas, ghazals, a series of short mathnawîs, ḳiṭ'as, and rubâ'îs (on fol. 476ᵃ).

Both the margin and the inner side of the pages are injured in many places. Two dates appear, viz. 16th of Shawwâl, A.H. 1011 (A.D. 1603, March 29), at the end of the first diwân, and 24th of Rabî'-alâkhar, A.H. 1012 (A.D. 1603, October 1), at that of the third; the transcriber's name was Madârî, son of Ḥâjî Shâhîn of Dihlî (العبد الكاتب مدارى ولد حاجى للرمين الشريفين حاجى شاهن دهلوى).

No. 338, ff. 481, 2 centre-coll., each ll. 17, and a third on the margin, ll. 26; clear Nasta'lîḳ; illuminated frontispieces on ff. 1ᵇ, 63ᵇ, 305ᵇ, and 337ᵇ; size, 10¾ in. by 6¼ in.

Another copy of the same four diwâns.

Contents:

1. Tuḥfat-alṣighar, the first diwân, preceded by the usual prose-preface of the second, beginning, on fol. 1ᵇ: بفضل الله قد سطرت هذه الصفحات الخ. Beginning of the poetry, on fol. 4ᵇ: خدای عزّ و جل الخ.

The first poem has the following introductory quatrain (or first instalment of the 'Silsilah'):

لوحی کہ بر صحیفۂ گردون مصوّرست
توقیع آن بنام خداوند اکبرست
شد تحفة الصغر چو خطاب این سواد را
از ذکر ذو الجلال سوادی منوّرست

The diwân consists here of ḳaṣîdas, ḳiṭ'as, the usual short mathnawî (beginning, on fol. 33ᵃ: هی هی ای تیرہ رای الخ), ghazals (which begin, on fol. 35ᵇ margin: ای آفتاب تافتہ از روی انورت الخ), and rubâ'îs (on fol. 52ᵇ margin).

2. Bakiyya-i-nakiyyah, the fourth diwân, without a preface. It consists of ḳaṣîdas and ghazals, begins, on fol. 65ᵇ, زبان کہ بر در معنی الخ, and is incomplete at the end, in consequence of a lacuna after fol. 91.

3. Wasaṭ-alḥayât, the second diwân, defective at the beginning, in consequence of the same lacuna; it opens on fol. 92ᵃ in the middle of the same prose-preface, which in No. 1950 (1188 in this Cat.) is prefixed to the second diwân, and which differs entirely from the usual one; the first words, میان چندین غوّاصان گوهر سخنم بروی آب الخ, correspond to No. 1950, fol. 53ᵇ, l. 4 ab infra. Fol. 95 must be placed before fol. 94. Beginning of the poetry, on fol. 94ᵇ: حمد رانم بر زبان الخ.

This diwân consists here of ḳaṣîdas, ghazals, ḳiṭ'as, short mathnawîs (the first of which begins, on fol. 142ᵇ: چون همای رابتش پرواز کرد الخ), a second large collection of ghazals (beginning, on fol. 151ᵇ margin: ای بدرماندگی پناہ همہ الخ, see Bodleian Cat., top of col. 554), and rubâ'îs (beginning, on fol. 223ᵇ: صانع ملکی کہ ملك هستی پرداخت الخ, see Bodleian Cat., loc. cit.).

4. Ghurrat-alkamâl, the third diwân; beginning of the preface, on fol. 232ᵇ: الله اطلع الغرر من مطلع الخ.

Beginning of the poetry, on fol. 264a: چه زهره خاك مسكين را الخ.

This ḳaṣîdah is preceded by the same two initial baits of the 'Silsilah' as in No. 1186, 2: چون آفتاب روشن الخ. This dîwân consists here of ḳaṣîdas, tarkîb-bands, ḳiṭ'as, mathnawîs (the first of which, on fol. 343a, is the مفتاح الفتوح, see Nos. 1186, 11; 1187, 13; and 1188, 14; the second, on fol. 355b, agrees with the first short mathnawi in No. 1187, 14), ghazals (the first of which, on fol. 369b margin, begins: ای زخیال ما برون الخ, see the remarks in Nos. 1187, 4, and 1188, 5), and rubâ'îs (beginning, on fol. 403a: پاکست خداوند الخ, see ibidem).

No date; but a seal from A.H. 1167 and an entry from A.H. 1168 (A.D. 1753–1755) are found on fol. 1a. The title given to this copy, کلّیّات امیر خسرو, is incorrect, as it only contains the four dîwâns.

No. 356, ff. 418, 2 centre-coll., each ll. 17, and a third on the margin, ll. 26; Nasta'lîḳ; an illuminated frontispiece at the beginning of the first, second, and third dîwân; size, 10½ in. by 6½ in.

Wasaṭ-alḥayât (وسط الحیات).

Another copy of Amîr Khusrau's second dîwân, containing:

Ḳaṣîdas, on fol. 1b, beginning: حمد رانم بر زبان الخ.

Tarji'ât, on fol. 62a; ḳiṭ'as, on fol. 80b. A lacuna after fol. 85.

Short mathnawîs, on fol. 86a; the first begins: چون همای رابتش پرواز کرد الخ. See No. 3 in the preceding copy.

Ghazals, without alphabetical order, beginning: ای بدرماندگی بناء همه الخ, agreeing with the initial poem of the second collection of ghazals in No. 3 of the preceding copy.

Rubâ'îs, on fol. 228b, beginning: صانع ملکی الخ, see ibidem.

No date. Worm-eaten. The last page injured.

No. 1457, ff. 242, 2 coll., each ll. 17; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 8½ in. by 5½ in.

Ghurrat-alkamâl (غرّة الکمال).

Another copy of Amîr Khusrau's third dîwân, with the usual prose-preface, on fol. 1b, beginning: غرّهٔ کمال انسانی الخ.

There is a large lacuna between ff. 31 and 32, which comprises, according to the Arabic paging, eight leaves, and corresponds to ff. 28a, first line, to 34a, l. 5 ab infra, middle, in No. 51 (1186 in this Cat.).

Beginning of the poetry, on fol. 44b, with the same chain-ḳaṣîdah as No. 51: چون آفتاب روشن توحید ذو الجلال الخ, written throughout in red ink. All the following ḳaṣîdas have, as in No. 51, as headings the various distichs of this poem; the second ḳaṣîdah is identical with the second in that copy, and so forth. The dîwân consists of ḳaṣîdas, tarkîbbands (on fol. 153b), ḳiṭ'as (on fol. 166b, with a large lacuna after fol. 168, comprising six leaves and corresponding to ff. 147b, lin. penult., to 154a, l. 5 in No. 51), and short mathnawîs, the first of which, on fol. 181b, is the مفتاح الفتوح, see Nos. 1186, 11; 1187, 13; 1188, 14; and 1190, 4; the second and third, on ff. 203b and 211b respectively, are identical with the first two mathnawîs in No. 1187, 14.

No date.

No. 2073, ff. 225, 2 coll., each ll. 17; distinct Nasta'lîḳ; size, 8½ in. by 5½ in.

Dîwân-i-Amîr Khusrau (دیوان امیر خسرو).

A large selection of ghazals, with some ḳiṭ'as and fards at the end, made from all the four dîwâns, as in Rieu ii. pp. 610b, 614b, and 615a; Bodleian Cat., Nos. 758–765; W. Pertsch, Berlin Cat., pp. 831 and 832; G. Flügel i. p. 542; J. Aumer, p. 21 (Nos. 63 and 64), etc. It begins, on fol. 1b, with the same ḳaṣîdah as the Ghazaliyyât in No. 1186, 3: حمد رانم بر زبان الخ; then follow a few ghazals without alphabetical order, and on fol. 80a the alphabetical order begins.

First alphabetical ghazal:

ای باد برقع بر فگن آن روی آتشناك را الخ corresponding to the first alphabetical poem in No. 759 of the Bodleian Cat.

No date. The proper order of the leaves is: 1, 2, 75–82, 3–74, 83–164, 166, 165, 168, 167, 169–526, 529, 528, 527, 530–619; a few pages injured.

No. 512, 2 centre-coll., ff. 619, ll. 12; Nasta'lîḳ; the first two pages richly illuminated; size, 7½ in. by 5½ in.

1194

The same.

A similar, but much smaller collection of ghazals, ḳiṭ'as, and rubâ'îs, from the four dîwâns of Amîr Khusrau, beginning, as in Nos. 1187, 4; 1188, 5; and 1190, 4: ای زخیال ما برون در تو خیال کی رسد الخ.

From fol. 2b onwards the ghazals are arranged alphabetically. Beginning of the first alphabetical poem:

ابر می بارد و من می شوم از یار جدا
چون کنم دل بچنین وقت زدلدار جدا corresponding to the first alphabetical ghazal in No. 762 of the Bodleian Cat. This copy was transcribed near Akbarâbâd by Munshî کنکابش عبودیت مقترن for Mr. Robert Watherston, and finished the 10th of Shawwâl, A.H. 1204 (A.D. 1790, 23rd of June). It came into Mr. Watherston's possession the 30th of July, 1790.

Bibliotheca Leydeniana.

No. 2470, ff. 91, 2 coll., each ll. 15–19; the last bait of each ghazal usually written in red ink; large and distinct Nasta'lîḳ; size, 9½ in. by 6½ in.

1195

Ḳaṣîda-i-Amîr Khusrau (قصیدهٔ امیر خسرو).

Amîr Khusrau's great ḳaṣîdah on the subject of Firdausi's Shâhnâma (قصیدهٔ امیر خسرو دهلوی متضمّن حقیقت شاهنامهٔ فردوسی), introduced and concluded by a rubâ'î.

Heading: بنام ایزد بخشایندهٔ بخشایشگر مهربان دادگر.

Beginning of the ḳaṣîdah:

آمد نگار من بسر از ناز افترا
با قامتی چو از چمن خلد عرعرا

No date.

No. 183, ff. 21, 2 coll., each ll. 15; large and distinct Nasta'lîḳ; size, 11½ in. by 6½ in.

1196

Khamsa-i-Amîr Khusrau (خمسهٔ امیر خسرو).

Another copy of the five mathnawîs which Amîr Khusrau wrote in imitation of Nizâmî's Khamsah:

1. Maṭla'-alanwâr, on fol. 1b.
2. Shîrîn u Khusrau, on fol. 42b.
3. Lailâ u Majnûn, on fol. 94b.
4. Â'îna-i-Iskandarî (or as it is here styled at the beginning, in analogy to Nizâmî's poem: خردنامهٔ اسکندری), on fol. 126b.
5. Hasht Bihisht, on fol. 181b.

Dated the last of Dhû-alḳa'dah, A. H. 980 (A. D. 1573, April 3), by کتّاب الله بن کیومشاه.

No. 345, ff. 223, 4 coll., each ll. 21; Nasta'lîḳ; an illuminated frontispiece at the beginning of each mathnawî; the first two pages luxuriously adorned; size, 11½ in. by 7½ in.

1197

Another copy of the same.

Contents:

1. Maṭla'-alanwâr, on fol. 1b; the conclusion of this mathnawî is found on ff. 383–387, the leaves being misplaced.
2. Shîrîn u Khusrau, on fol. 61b.
3. Lailâ u Majnûn, on fol. 140b.
4. Hasht Bihisht, on fol. 212b.
5. Â'îna-i-Iskandarî, on fol. 304b; this poem concludes on fol. 382b margin.

A short account of Amîr Khusrau's life in English on the fly-leaf. This copy is dated by 'Abd-alḍa'îf Sayyid Ḳâsim ibn Sayyid Jalâl, the 1st of Muḥarram, A. H. 1004 (A. D. 1595, Sept. 6). Many headings are omitted.

No. 2381, ff. 387, 2 centre-coll., each ll. 19, and a third on the margin of ff. 1–138 and 304–387, ll. 16; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 7½ in. by 4½ in.

1198

The same.

Contents:

1. Maṭla'-alanwâr, on fol. 1b.
2. Shîrîn u Khusrau, on fol. 67b.
3. Lailâ u Majnûn, on fol. 146b.
4. Â'îna-i-Iskandarî, on fol. 198b.
5. Hasht Bihisht, on fol. 284b.

Copied A. H. 1081 (A. D. 1670, 1671) by Taḳî bin Maḥmûd Ḳâdirî (the name of the scribe appears only at the end of the fourth mathnawî). Large waterspots throughout.

No. 3336, olim 7. J. 1, ff. 347, 2 centre-coll., each ll. 13, and a third on the margin, ll. 28; small Nasta'lîḳ; size, 10½ in. by 6 in.

1199

The same.

Contents:

1. Maṭla'-alanwâr, on fol. 1b.
2. Lailâ u Majnûn, on fol. 48b.
3. Shîrîn u Khusrau, on fol. 84b.
4. Â'îna-i-Iskandarî, on fol. 142b.
5. Hasht Bihisht, on fol. 202b.

A few pages a little injured, especially the last one. No date.

No. 3436, olim 7. J. 2, ff. 248, 4 coll., each ll. 19; clear and distinct Nasta'lîḳ; an illuminated frontispiece at the beginning of each mathnawî; size, 11½ by 6½ in.

1200

The same.

Contents:

1. Maṭla'-alanwâr, on fol. 2b.
2. Shîrîn u Khusrau, on fol. 90a.
3. Lailâ u Majnûn, on fol. 206a.
4. Hasht Bihisht, on fol. 281a.
5. Â'îna-i-Iskandarî, on fol. 380b.

The last mathnawî concludes on fol. 454b, and on ff. 455–468 some parts of the same are repeated; but these parts are not coherent (comp. No. 976 in this Cat.). No date.

No. 387, margin-col., ff. 468, ll. 34; beautiful Nasta'lîḳ; a small illuminated heading at the beginning of each mathnawî.

Maṭla'-alanwâr.

Another copy of the first part of Amîr Khusrau's Khamsah, dated the 12th of Shawwâl, A. H. 989 (A. D. 1581, Nov. 9), by Maḥmûd bin Aḥmad Zâhidî. A few various readings on the margin.

No. 418, ff. 98–243, 2 coll., each ll. 12; Nasta'lîḳ; illuminated frontispiece; size, 9½ in. by 5½ in.

1202

Another copy of the same.

This copy is dated the 14th of Dhû-alḳa'dah, A. H. 1169 (A. D. 1756, Aug. 10); it was written for Amîr Sirâj-aldîn.

No. 279, ff. 99, 2 coll., each ll. 17; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 7½ in. by 4 in.

Shîrîn u Khusrau.

Another copy of the second (in No. 1199 above the third) part of Amîr Khusrau's Khamsah, not dated. An entry on fol. 1b margin (and also at the end) gives A. H. 1124 (A. D. 1712) as the year in which this copy was bought at 'Abbâsâbâd by 'Abdallâh ibn Ḥâjî Maḳṣûd. More recent owners of the same were Edward Galley and Sir Barry Close, the latter of whom presented it to the Library.

No. 1946, ff. 149, 2 coll., each ll. 14; very clear and distinct Nasta'lîḳ; several blanks left for pictures; size, 9½ in. by 5½ in.

Laila u Majnûn.

Another excellent copy of the third (in No. 1199 above the second) part of Amir Khusrau's Khamsah, dated by Sulṭân 'Alî almashhadî the first of Ṣafar, A. H. 912 (A. D. 1506, June 23). The right order of ff. 89–94 is: 89, 91, 90, 93, 92, 94.

No. 383, ff. 111, 2 coll., each ll. 12; very large and distinct Nasta'lîḳ; the first two pages splendidly illuminated; the margin throughout speckled with gold; size, 10¾ in. by 7 in.

1205

Hasht Bihisht and Â'ina-i-Iskandarî.

Another copy of the fourth and fifth parts of Amir Khusrau's Khamsah, without a date.

1. Hasht Bihisht, on fol. 270b.
2. Â'ina-i-Iskandarî (here simply styled اسكندر نامه), on fol. 306b.

All the chapter-headings are left blank.

No. 736, ff. 270–353, 4 coll., each ll. 25; distinct Nasta'lîḳ; an illuminated frontispiece at the beginning of either mathnawî; size, 15½ in. by 9½ in.

1206

Another copy of the Hasht Bihisht.

This copy is dated the 9th of Muḥarram, A. H. 1030 (A. D. 1620, Dec. 4).

No. 64, ff. 1–39, 2 centre-coll., each ll. 17, and a third on the margin, ll. 34; small Nasta'lîḳ; illuminated frontispiece; size, 8¾ in. by 4¾ in.

1207

The same.

This copy, many leaves of which are worm-eaten or otherwise damaged, was finished the 8th of Rabî'-alawwal, A. H. 1102 (A. D. 1690, Dec. 10). The first three pages have been supplied by another hand.

No. 96, ff. 141, 2 coll., each ll. 12–13; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 6¾ in. by 4¼ in.

Kirân-alsa'dain.

Another copy of Amir Khusrau's mathnawî, 'the conjunction of the two lucky planets,' dated, as it seems (the colophon is a little injured), Sha'bân, A. H. 907 (A. D. 1502, February).

It begins with the introductory rubâ'î (see the remark in No. 1186, 5):

شكر گويم كه بتوفيق خداوند جهان
بر سر نامه زتوحيد نوشتم عنوان
نام اين نامهٔ والاست قران السعدين
كز بلندیش بسعدين سپهرست قران

after which the initial bait of all the preceding copies, viz. حمد خداوند الخ, follows. College of Fort William, 1825.

No. 2232, ff. 138, 2 coll., each ll. 14; distinct Nasta'lîḳ; size, 8¾ in. by 5¼ in.

1209

Another copy of the same.

Good copy, dated the 17th of Rajab, A. H. 1072 (A. D. 1662, March 8), and beginning with the same introductory rubâ'î as the preceding copy.

No. 1633, ff. 155, 2 coll., each ll. 13; Nasta'lîḳ; illuminated frontispiece; size, 7¾ in. by 4¼ in.

1210

The same.

Beginning as in the two preceding copies. It is dated at Shâhjahânâbâd the 27th of Ṣafar, in the 28th year of 'Âlamgîr's reign (which is called by mistake A. H. 1099, instead of 1096=A. D. 1685, Febr. 2).

Bibliotheca Leydeniana.

No. 2840, ff. 117, 2 coll., each ll. 17; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 6¾ in. by 3¾ in.

1211

The same.

Dated the 10th of Dhû-alḳa'dah, A. H. 1135 (fourth year of Muḥammadshâh's reign)=A. D. 1723, Aug. 12, at Aurangâbâd. Beginning the same as in the three preceding copies. This copy belonged formerly to Sir Barry Close (with the date 14th March, 1813). Collated.

No. 3380, olim 19. J. 5, ff. 118, 2 coll., each ll. 17; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 8½ in. by 4¾ in.

The same.

This copy, although not dated, is extremely valuable on account of the endless number of elaborate glosses and annotations, both marginal and interlinear, that it contains. Beginning as in the four preceding copies.

No. 1334, ff. 147, 2 coll., each ll. 13 (on ff. 1–106), ll. 15 (on ff. 107–147); Shikasta; size, 9¾ in. by 5¾ in.

The same.

No date. Collated and annotated; but unfortunately there is a lacuna of two leaves after fol. 7. The mathnawî ends on fol. 116b; the last two leaves are filled with a detailed pedigree of all the Shî'ite Imâms, descendants of 'Alî. Beginning as in all the preceding copies.

A seal from A. H. 1183 (A. D. 1769, 1770), on fol. 1a. Bibliotheca Leydeniana.

No. 2396, ff. 118, 2 coll., each ll. 17¶ Nasta'lîḳ; size, 9¼ in. by 5¼ in.

1214

The same.

A very bad copy, without a date. Beginning as in all the preceding copies. Many various readings, both marginal and interlinear. College of Fort William, 1825.

No. 2262, ff. 1–133, 2 coll., each ll. 15; Shikasta; size, 8¾ in. by 5 in.

Khiḍrkhân u Duwalrânî.

Another copy of Amir Khusrau's love-story of Khiḍrkhân and Duwalrânî, beginning as in No. 1187, 11. No date. Eleventh century of the Hijrah. The proper order of the leaves is: ff. 1–52, 56–95 (lacuna of one leaf), 96–102, 53–55, 103–162.

Bibliotheca Leydeniana.

No. 2796, ff. 162, 2 coll., each ll. 14; some of the first leaves slightly injured; ff. 158–162 added by a later hand; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 8¾ in. by 4¾ in.

1216

Another copy of the same.

This copy, which is dated the 8th of Dhû-alḥijjah, A. H. 11. (i. e. 1220=A. D. 1806, Feb. 27), bears the title of عشقيّهٔ امير خسرو (see No. 1187, 11).

No. 188, ff. 128, 2 coll., each ll. 18; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 9 in. by 5 in.

A fragment of the same.

This fragment of Amir Khusrau's Ḳiṣṣa-i-Khiḍr-khânî (as it is styled here) comprises less than one third of the whole poem; it begins with the following heading (corresponding to No. 2796, 1215 in this Cat., fol. 25a): قلم زدن نخست در شرع تيغ زدن جمهور سلاطين ماضيّه على الخصوص در آثار ذو الفقار محمّد علاء الدنيا و الدين.

First bait (not found in No. 2796):

كنون از باغ اصلی نو كنم بر — زشاخ خشك ريزم ميوهٔ تر

Last two headings (on ff. 72a and 76b): گرم شدن چشم دولراني در روی شمس الحق و الدين خضرخان واز ناب مهر آب در چشمش گشتن و مهربان گشتن آن چشمهٔ مهربان نيلوفر هندی و چون شعاع خورشيد بصفراء زمين افتادن, and حكايت (=No. 2796, ff. 48a and 57a).

The initial bait of the latter is:

بمهماني بزی شد كهنه ميشی
ببهلو خارشی بر پشت ريشی

The final bait of the fragment (not found in No. 2796) is:

بفردوس حرم با غيب دلكش
كه فردوس ارم نبود چنان خوش

No date. Eleventh and twelfth centuries. Bibliotheca Leydeniana.

No. 2511a, ff. 32b–78a, 2 coll., each ll. 15; small, but distinct Nasta'lîḳ; size, 8¼ in. by 5¼ in.

1218

Nuh Sipihr.

Another copy of Amir Khusrau's mathnawî, 'the nine spheres,' introduced by a so-called chain-distich:

اوّل نگر نگارش توحيد كردگار
كين نه سپهر گشت بفرمانش آشكار

Beginning of the mathnawî itself as usual: خدارا كنم بر سر نامه ياد الخ.

The date of composition, viz. A. H. 718 (see No. 1187, 12 above), appears here on the last page:

در گشاده كنم اين نقش و نگار
سال بر هفصد و هژده بشمار

No date. Two seals of former owners from A. H. 1179 and 1180 (A. D. 1765–1767), on fol. 1a.

No. 386, ff. 132, 2 coll., each ll. 17; clear Nasta'lîḳ; size, 10½ in. by 5¾ in.

Rasâ'il-al-i'jâz (رسائل الاعجاز).

Amir Khusrau's famous work on epistolography and elegant prose-writing, with numerous specimens both of official documents and of the author's own letters, entitled رسائل الاعجاز or اعجاز خسروی, and completed according to the statement in Rieu ii. p. 527, A. H. 719 (A. D. 1319); an earlier date, at least for the completion of the second risâlah, is given in W. Pertsch, Berlin Cat., p. 1006, viz. A. H. 716, 7th of Shawwâl (A. D. 1316, Dec. 23); see besides these two references, No. 1337 of the Bodleian Cat., and Elliot, History of India, iii. p. 566. It consists of a preface, an introduction (دیباچه), and five risâlas, each of which is subdivided into several khaṭṭs (خط), ḥarfs (حرف), etc.

Contents:

Preface, on fol. 1b, beginning: هذا الكتاب بفضل الله ذی الكرم انشأت سحرًا لصيد الخ.

Introduction, on fol. 10a, last line (ديباچهٔ كتاب رسائل الاعجاز).

First risâlah, in ten khaṭṭs (الرسالة الاولى فی المفردات و المركّبات تشتمل على عشرة خطوط), on fol. 15a.

Second risâlah, in nine khaṭṭs (الرسالة الثانية فی المرتّبات من المكتوبات يشتمل على تسعة خطوط), on fol. 53b. In the Berlin copy (W. Pertsch, loc. cit.) this risâlah has ten khaṭṭs, like the first.

Third risâlah, in two khaṭṭs (الرسالة الثالثة من الاعجاز فی اللطائف من المصنوعات يشتمل على خطّين), on fol. 149b.

Fourth risâlah, in five khaṭṭs (الرسالة الرابعة فی البدائع من المعنويّات تشتمل على خمسة خطوط), on fol. 182b.

Fifth risâlah, in six khaṭṭs (الرسالة الخامسة فی السوابق من المنشآت تشتمل على ستّة خطوط), on fol. 277b. Numerous marginal glosses and additions, written by the same hand as the text. The headings, given here, are taken from the following copy. Dated Shawwâl, A. H. 1084 (A. D. 1674, January–February), by Sayyid Ja'far ibn Sayyid Ṭâhir Ḳâdirî. The first risâlah of the رسائل الاعجاز has been lithographed in Lucknow, 1865; the whole work, under the title of اعجاز خسرو, in the same place, 1876.

No. 570, ff. 324, ll. 21; careless Nasta'lîḳ; illuminated frontispieces at the beginning and at the top of the last four risâlas; size, 12¼ in. by 6¼ in.

1220

Another copy of the same.

Preface, on fol. 1b, beginning as in the preceding copy.

Introduction, on fol. 16a.

First risâlah, on fol. 23b; second, on fol. 88b; third, on fol. 255b; fourth, on fol. 309b; fifth, on fol. 449b.

Many valuable glosses, various readings, and other additions on the margin. No date. The proper order of ff. 337–341 is: 337, 339, 340, 338, 341.

No. 1024, ff. 531, ll. 15–17; irregular Nasta'lîḳ, written by different hands; illuminated frontispieces at the beginning and at the top of the last four risâlas; size, 9¾ in. by 5¾ in.

Inshâ-i-Amir Khusrau (انشاء امیر خسرو).

Letters on Ṣûfic topics, mystic love, Persian and Indian music, and similar subjects, written in a very flowery prose style, intermixed with numerous verses, by Amir Khusrau, forming a sequel to the preceding work on epistolography, the رسائل الاعجاز.

The first letter is headed (on fol. 2a): عجیب و غریب نامه که خود قاصد شده و اظهار حال عاشق بمعشوق نموده و پاسخ از زبان معشوق شنوده الخ.

Occasional short interlinear glosses. The copy appears to be incomplete at the end. The first owner was Muḥammad Darwîsh.

No. 1766, ff. 83, ll. 15; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 8¼ in. by 5¾ in.

1222

A biography of Amir Khusrau, with specimens from his diwâns (احوال امیر خسرو و معه اشعارها), beginning: خواجه امیر خسرو دهلوی امیر شعرا و خسرو بلغاست شرح کمالاتش زیاده از آنست که درین اوراق الخ.

No date.

No. 3337, olim 14. J. 13, ff. 33–43, ll. 17; clear and distinct Nasta'lîḳ; size, 9¾ in. by 5¾ in.

Diwân-i-Ḥasan Dihlawî (دیوان حسن دهلوی).

Lyrical poems by Amîr Najm-aldîn Ḥasan Sanjarî of Dihlî, the friend of Amir Khusrau, and, like him, a pupil of Niẓâm-aldîn Auliyâ; he was called the Sa'dî of India (see Haft Iḳlîm, No. 392, col. 405 in this Cat.), and probably died A.H. 727 (A.D. 1327); later dates of his death are A.H. 738 (A.D. 1337, 1338), see Khulâṣat-alafkâr, No. 73 (Bodleian Cat., col. 305), and A.H. 745 (A.D. 1344, 1345) according to Taḳî Kâshî; the date given in the Mirât-alkhayâl, No. 31 (Bodleian Cat., col. 208), viz. A.H. 707 (A.D. 1307, 1308), is due to a mistake, as the poet began in this year the memoirs of Niẓâm-aldîn Auliyâ, styled فوائد الفؤاد, which he completed A.H. 720 (A.D. 1320); comp. Bodleian Cat., Nos. 780–783; Rieu ii. p. 618; W. Pertsch, p. 73, and Berlin Cat., p. 841; A. Sprenger, Catal., p. 18, No. 70, and p. 418; Cat. des MSS. et Xylographes, p. 356; J. Aumer, p. 22, etc. According to the preface in prose, on fol. 1b sq., in this copy, the author collected the poems of this diwân in his sixty-third year, A.H. 715, and completed it the 20th of Dhû-alḳa'dah of that year (A.D. 1316, Feb. 15), see fol. 2b, l. 3. He tells us moreover, that he began composing poetry already in his thirteenth year, and continued it for fifty years, writing works both in prose and verse. He was consequently born A.H. 652 (A.D. 1254).

Contents:

Preface in prose, on fol. 1b (the heading prefixed to it, كتاب قصائد سعدى, seems to refer to the poet's epithet of the Indian Sa'dî).

Ḳaṣîdas, on fol. 2b, beginning:

ای حاکم جهان و جهان‌داور حکیم
محدث همه بدائع و تو مبدع قدیم

From the sixth ḳaṣîdah onwards (on fol. 8a, last line) the arrangement is alphabetical.

Ghazals, on fol. 57b, beginning:

ای سر هر نامه نقش نام تو ـ نام ما در دفتر انعام تو

The alphabetical order begins, on fol. 60b, with the thirteenth ghazal, the same which is quoted in Bodleian Cat., No. 783; A. Sprenger, and W. Pertsch, Berlin Cat.: ای بر فراز سرو بر آورده ماه را الخ.

At the end a few ḳiṭ'as. Some of these ghazals have been edited by Bland in his 'Century of Persian Ghazals,' pp. ٥–٨.

Rubâ'îs, on fol. 228a.

Copied A.H. 943 (A.D. 1536, 1537), according to the colophon on fol. 230a. Another date appears on fol. 227a, viz. 903 (سنهٔ ثلاث و تسعمائة), no doubt a mistake for 943 (ثلاث و اربعین و تسعمائة). College of Fort William, 1825.

No. 2174, ff. 230, 2 coll., each ll. 15; very clear and distinct Nasta'lîḳ; illuminated frontispiece on fol. 1b; a smaller illuminated heading on fol. 57b; pictures on ff. 22b, 34b, 62a, 133a, 149b, and 190a; size, 9 in. by 6¼ in.

Another copy of the same.

This copy, which is injured and greatly effaced in many places, contains no ḳaṣîdas, but has instead a series of short mathnawîs which are not found in the preceding copy.

Contents:

Ghazals, in alphabetical order, except the first, which begins, on fol. 1b:

مطلع دیوان بنور غیب‌بین آراسته
یکبیك ابوابش از فتح مبین آراسته

The second (or first alphabetical) ghazal is identical with the initial ghazal in No. 782 of the Bodleian Cat., viz.: یا ربّ بکش خطّ کرم الخ.

Rubâ'îs, on fol. 65b; the third rubâ'î agrees with the initial one in No. 780 of the Bodleian Cat.: ای فضل تو تخته شوی نادانیها الخ.

Mathnawiyyât, on fol. 71b; the first, in honour of Sulṭân 'Alâ-aldîn Khiljî, begins: بیا ای گهرجوی دریای

غیب الخ (see Rieu, loc. cit., and No. 783 of the Bodleian Cat.); another mathnawí, in honour of Shaikh Nizâm-aldîn Auliyâ, noticed in No. 780 of the Bodleian Cat., is found here on fol. 85a, and begins:

بنام پادشاه بنده پرور الخ.

No date. Tenth century of the Hijrah. This copy was bought at Lucknow and formerly belonged to Mr. Richard Johnson.

No. 3314, olim 19. J. 8, ff. 86, 4 coll., two in the centre, each ll. 25, and two on each side in diagonal lines, ll. 18; Nasta'lîḳ; a small illuminated frontispiece, slightly injured; size, 10½ in. by 6¼ in.

1225

The same.

This copy, a few pages of which are injured, contains only:

Ghazals, in alphabetical order, except the first two, with some ḳiṭ'as, rubâ'is, and a short mathnawí at the end. Beginning of the initial ghazal, on fol. 2b, corresponding to No. 2174, 1223 in this Cat., fol. 57b:

ای رقم رانده بر سپید و سیاه — وز درون و برون ما آگاه

The right order of ff. 1–83 is: 1, 2, 75–82, 3–74, 83; and of ff. 164–169: 164, 166, 165, 168, 167, 169.

No date.

No. 512, margin-col., ff. 1-226a, ll. 24–26; small Nasta'lîḳ; illuminated heading on fol. 2b.

1226

The same.

Another undated copy, containing:

Ghazals in alphabetical order, except the first three. Beginning of the initial ghazal, on fol. 1b:

بنامت می گشایم نامه را بند
که جانم را بیاد تست پیوند

The second ghazal corresponds to the initial one in the preceding copy.

Beginning of the first alphabetical ghazal, on fol. 2b:

ای خطّ خوش از مشك تر انگیخته مه را
در دفتر طاعت رقم رانده گنه را

The first alphabetical ghazal of No. 2174 (1223 in this Cat.) is found here on fol. 5a, but with some modifications in the first hemistich, viz.: ای بر فراز مهر روان بردهٔ ماه را الخ.

Rubâ'is, on fol. 157b.

Colophon: هذا دیوان من تصنیف حضرت حسن دهلوی ممعصر حضرت امیر خسرو که از خلفای رشید حضرت سلطان الاولیا نظام الدین محبوب الهی است.

No. 1639, ff. 161, 2 coll., each ll. 12–13; Nasta'lîḳ; illuminated frontispiece; large waterspots throughout; size, 7¾ in. by 5 in.

1227

The same.

No date. Contents:

Ghazals, in alphabetical order, except the first two; the initial ghazal, on fol. 1b, agrees with that in No. 512 (1225 in this Cat.): ای رقم رانده بر سپید وسیاه الخ.

The first alphabetical ghazal, on fol. 2b, begins:

ای روی تو ماه محفل را
جز عشق تو نیست در دل ما

Rubâ'is, on fol. 270a.

No. 1637, ff. 275, 2 coll., each ll. 9–10; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 7¾ in. by 5¼ in.

1228

Jâm-i-Jam (جام جم).

The cup of Jamshîd, a mathnawí in imitation of Sanâ'î's Ḥadîḳah (see Nos. 914–925 in this Cat.), by Rukn-aldîn Auḥadî Marâghî Iṣfahânî (so according to the majority of authorities, i.e. a native of Marâgha near Tabrîz and resident of Iṣfahân; comp. Butkhâna, No. 31, Bodleian Cat., col. 201; Âtashkada, No. 136, ib., col. 266; Khulâṣat-alkalâm, No. 4, ib., col. 295; Khulâṣat-alafkâr, No. 29, ib., col. 303; Makhzan-algharâ'ib, No. 32, ib., col. 317; only in the Haft Iḳlîm, No. 874, coll. 441 and 442 in this Cat., it is distinctly stated that he ought to be designated Iṣfahânî, and not Marâghî, and that view is followed in the Safînat-alauliyâ, No. 349, col. 309 in this Cat.), who died in Marâgha, A.H. 738 (A.D. 1337, 1338); comp. Bodleian Cat., Nos. 785–789; Rieu ii. p. 619; W. Pertsch, Berlin Cat., pp. 713 and 839–841; A. Sprenger, Catal., pp. 362, 363; G. Flügel i. p. 543; Hammer in Wiener Jahrbücher, vol. 65, Anzeigeblatt, p. 67; Ḥ. Khalfa ii. p. 498, No. 3856, etc. Auḥadî was a pupil of Shaikh Auḥad-aldîn Kirmânî (who died A.H. 697 = A.D. 1298), with whom he is often confounded. Besides the present mathnawí, he composed a dîwân (copies of which are described in Rieu ii. p. 619b; W. Pertsch, p. 72, etc.; see also Ḥ. Khalfa iii. p. 264) and a دة نامه (see Rieu, loc. cit., and Ḥ. Khalfa iii. p. 239). The Jâm-i-Jam was composed A.H. 733 (A.D. 1332, 1333), see here, fol. 137b, l. 3 (in one copy of the British Mus. Or. 333 there appears as date A.H. 732), and divided into three daurs, viz. دور اوّل در مبداء آفرینش, on fol. 21a; دور دوم در کیفیّت معاش جمهور: in two bâbs, (a) در معاش اهل دنیا, on fol. 34b; (b) در دور سیوم در شرح معاد معاش اهل آخرت, on fol. 79b; خلائق و احوال آخرت, on fol. 121b.

Beginning:

قال (read قُل) هو الله لامرء (read لامرءٌ) قد قال
من له لحمد دائما متوال

On fol. 8b the praise of Sulṭân Abû Sa'îd Bahâdur-khân, the reigning sovereign (A.H. 716–736 = A.D. 1316–1335), begins, and on fol. 14a the dedication of the poem to the wazîr Khwâjah Ghiyâth-aldîn Muḥammad bin Rashîd.

Dated by Mîr Najm-aldîn alḥusainî, who transcribed this excellent copy for his friend Mîr Sirâj-aldîn, the 23rd of Rabî'-althânî, A.H. 1169 (A.D. 1756, Jan. 26).

College of Fort William, 1825.

No. 2223, ff. 138, 2 coll., each ll. 17; small, but very distinct Nasta'lîḳ; size, 7¼ in. by 4 in.

1229

Another copy of the same.

Beginning: قل هو الله لامرء قد قال الخ.

Daur I, on fol. 29a; II, on fol. 47b; III (در شرح خلائق و احوال اهل آخرت), on fol. 171b.

No date.

No. 1222, ff. 195, 2 coll., each ll. 12; large Nasta'lîḳ; size, 7 in. by 4½ in.

1230

Diwân-i-Ibn Yamin (دیوان ابن یمین).

An incomplete copy of the poetical works of Amîr Fakhr-aldîn Maḥmûd bin Amîr Yamîn-aldîn Muḥammad Mustaufî of Faryûmad (three days' journey from Sabzwâr), commonly known as Ibn Yamîn, who died in Faryûmad, A.H. 745 (A.D. 1344, 1345); see Haft Iḳlîm, No. 770 (col. 434 in this Cat.); Bodleian Cat., Nos. 790–792; A. Sprenger, Catal., pp. 433, 434; G. Flügel i. p. 545; Rieu ii. p. 825b; W. Pertsch, Berlin Cat., p. 86, etc.; and Cat. des MSS. et Xylographes, p. 358. The statement made in the last-named Catalogue, that the poet (according to the preface of his diwân) wrote or collected his poems in A.H. 756 (A.D. 1355) is probably due to some kind of error, as according to one of Sprenger's copies already in A.H. 753 (A.D. 1352) one of the poet's friends compiled a preface to the collected diwân.

The present collection contains:

Ghazals, in alphabetical order, on fol. 1b, beginning, ابتدا میکنم بنام خدا (the second hemistich is torn away), agreeing with the beginning of No. 791 in the Bodleian Cat.; the second bait of this initial ghazal, viz.

ای خداوند قادر یکتا ــ مبدء کون خالق اشیا corresponds to the beginning of No. 790 in the Bodleian Cat., and of the second copy in Sprenger's Catal., p. 434, l. 12.

One tarjî'band, on fol. 91a, beginning (as in No. 790 of the Bodleian Cat.):

چو نور ذات در تابد زذرّات
دو عالم محو گردد در یکی ذات

A few rubâ'îs, one mukhammas, and some fards, on fol. 94b; beginning of the first poem:

طلب کن تا خبر از گنج یابی
تو کی این گنج را بی رنج یابی

Three mystical mathnawîs, the first of which begins, on fol. 99b:

پیش از آندم که نبود (read نَبُد) کون ومکان
بود آن گنج گرانمایه نهان

corresponding to the first mathnawî in No. 791 of the Bodleian Cat., and seems to contain six majlis; the second, on fol. 111a, is headed:

نسخهٔ دلفریب جان سوز است
نام این نسخه مجلس افروز است

from which it is evident that its title is مجلس افروز (which also appears in the last bait on fol. 124a); the third, on fol. 124a (like the first without any heading), begins with the initial bait of the preceding section (on fol. 94b), viz. طلب کن تا خبر از گنج یابی الخ; this mathnawî breaks off on fol. 125b; there are besides two lacunas, one after fol. 2 and the other after fol. 51, and some leaves are severely injured.

No. 466, ff. 125, partly 3 coll., the first and third ll. 10, the middle in diagonal lines, ll. 6; and partly 2 coll., each ll. 13; irregular Nasta'lîḳ; size, 8¾ in. by 5¼ in.

Another copy of the same.

This collection of Ibn Yamîn's poems, styled اشعار ابن یمین, and considerably smaller than the preceding one, contains principally the famous Ḳiṭ'as of the poet (which have been translated into German by Schlechta-Wssehrd, 'Ibn Jemin's Bruchstücke,' Vienna, 1852; new ed., Stuttgart, 1879), preceded by a few short mathnawîs.

Beginning of the first mathnawî, on fol. 1b:

بنام خدای که هستی ازوست
زبردستی و زیردستی ازوست

Beginning of the first ḳiṭ'ah, on fol. 7b:

الهی مرا چون سرای سپنج ــ سر انجام باید بغیری سپرد

No date.

No. 277, ff. 49, 2 coll., each ll. 12; Nasta'lîḳ; illuminated frontispiece; size, 8¾ in. by 5¾ in.

1232

Diwân-i-Badr-i-Châch (دیوان بدر چاچ).

The lyrical poems of Badr-aldîn (or according to Khwashgû, Fakhr-aldîn) Muḥammad of Châch or Shâsh (the modern Tâshkand, also called Banâkit), usually called Badr-i-Châch, the full moon of Châch, who was the panegyrist of Sulṭân Muḥammad bin Tughluḳ (A.H. 725–752 = A.D. 1325–1351), and died after A.H. 746 (A.D. 1345, 1346); see Haft Iḳlîm, No. 1532 (col. 495 in this Cat.); Bodleian Cat., No. 793; Rieu iii. pp. 1031b, 1032a, 1046a; A. Sprenger, Catal., p. 367; Elliot, History of India, iii. pp. 567–573 (where some of his poems are translated). Besides his lyrical poems, he composed a شاهنامه in honour of the exploits of his patron, completed A.H. 745 (A.D. 1344, 1345), see Rieu iii. p. 1032a; the same date occurs in his diwân, see A. Sprenger, loc. cit.; the last date that can be traced in his ḳaṣîdas is A.H. 746, see Rieu iii. p. 1046a.

The diwân contains chiefly ḳaṣîdas, with a few ghazals, ḳiṭ'as, and rubâ'îs at the end; beginning:

حمد آن سلطان عالم را که عالم‌پرور است
اُنس او در راه وحدت اِنس و جانرا رهبر است

According to A. Sprenger, Catal., p. 368, the whole diwân has appeared in a lithographed edition, with glosses and a vocabulary, Lucknow, A.H. 1261; the ḳaṣidas have besides been lithographed in Cawnpore, A.H. 1261, and (with a commentary) in Râmpûr, A.H. 1289.

No date. Some marginal glosses on the first pages.

No. 90, ff. 96, 2 coll., each ll. 15; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 8¾ in. by 5 in.

1233

Another copy of the same.

A smaller collection of the ḳaṣidas of Badr-i-Châċ, without any rubâ'îs; the special value of this copy lies in the numerous marginal and interlinear glosses which elucidate the text. Beginning as in the preceding copy.

Dated the 26th of Muḥarram, A.H. 1077 (ninth year of 'Âlamgîr's reign) = A.D. 1666, July 29, at Patna, by Muḥammad Sharîf, who made this copy for the Nawwâb Lashkarkhân.

No. 2697, ff. 57, 2 coll., each ll. 17; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 11 in. by 6¾ in.

Humâi u Humâyûn (همای و همایون).

One of the famous mathnawis of Kamâl-aldîn Abû-al'aṭâ Maḥmûd bin 'Alî Murshidî, usually called Khwâjû Kirmânî (or Bammî, see Haft Iḳlîm, No. 286, col. 398 in this Cat., where his name is given as Muḥammad instead of Maḥmûd), who was born A.H. 679, the 5th of Shawwâl (A.D. 1281, Jan. 28), and died probably A.H. 753 (A.D. 1352); the usual date of his death, viz. 745, is impossible, see Rieu ii. pp. 621b and 623a. On the poet's life and works, comp. Erdmann in Zeitschrift der D. M. G. ii. pp. 205–217; Bodleian Cat., Nos. 794–796; Rieu ii. p. 620 sq.; A. Sprenger, Catal., pp. 471–473; W. Pertsch, pp. 6 and 70; G. Flügel i. pp. 544, 545; Cat. des MSS. et Xylographes, p. 357; Schefer, Chrestomathie Persane, vol. ii, Paris, 1885, pp. 251, 252. This mathnawî was composed in Baghdâd, and completed A.H. 732 (A.D. 1331, 1332). Beginning:

بنام خداوند بالا وپست
که از هستیش هست شد هر چه هست

No date.

No. 77, ff. 149, 2 coll., each ll. 15–16; unequal Nasta'lîḳ, occasionally mixed with Shikasta; size, 9 in. by 5¾ in.

1235

Sâmnâma (سامنامه).

This strange mathnawî, which is styled on fol. 1a شاهنامه (afterwards changed into سام نامه), and in the colophon سامنامه, a full account of which has been given by Spiegel in Zeitschrift der D. M. G. iii. pp. 245–261, is like the poem of the same title and contents, described in Rieu ii. pp. 543, 544 (where, however, the beginning differs, comp. also ib. iii. p. 1089b), merely a close imitation or rather reproduction of Khwâjû Kirmânî's همای و همایون in the preceding copy, in which, simply for the purpose of deceiving the reader, the names of Humâi, Humâyûn, etc., have been changed into Sâm, son of Narimân, Parîdukht, etc.; comp. also Khulâṣat-alkalâm, No. 24 in Bodleian Cat. (col. 297). With the real Sâmnâma this work has nothing whatever to do. Beginning the same as in the preceding copy:

بنام خداوند بالا و پست
که از هستیش هست شد هر چه هست

Dated the first of Rabî'-alawwal, A.H. 1085 (A.D. 1674, June 5).

No. 190, ff. 148, 2 coll., each ll. 17; inelegant and careless Nasta'lîḳ; size, 9 in. by 5¾ in.

Sindbâdnâma (سندبادنامه).

The extremely rare poetical version of the book of Sindbâd, which closely agrees with the Greek Sintipas (see 'Essai sur les fables indiennes,' by Loiseleur de Longchamps, pp. 93–137) and the prose-version of Bahâ-aldîn Muḥammad (see Rieu ii. p. 748 sq.), and has been fully described by F. Falconer in the Asiatic Journal, vols. 35, p. 169 sq., and 36, pp. 4 sq. and 99 sq. The present copy is undoubtedly the same which Falconer describes so minutely, and has on the second fly-leaf the following entry:

'Purchased at an old bookstall for £1, June 1857, by me.' Edwin Greenwood.

'It is called Sindibad Namah. It is a collection of exceedingly interesting tales. An analysis, accompanied with extracts, appeared in the Asiatic Journal, vols. 35 and 36, 1841. Neither the East India House nor the British Museum possess a copy. I am told this is the only copy in Europe, therefore it is very valuable.'

To rectify Mr. Greenwood's statement, H. H. Wilson has added, March 1859, to the above remarks the following of his own, proving that this copy originally belonged to the India House, and must have been stolen from there and sold:

'A curious fiction—the MS. belongs to the Library of the East India House, as is evident from Mr. Falconer's description.'

Mr. W. A. Clouston, who has based his 'Book of Sindibâd from the Persian and Arabic, with introduction, notes, and appendix' (privately printed, 1884), to a great extent on this copy, and given a description of it in the Introduction, p. xi sq., has added on the first fly-leaf, April 1884, a list of the lacunas and the misplaced leaves in this MS., according to the original Arabic paging. This Persian version was composed A.H. 776 (A.D. 1374, 1375), see fol. 8b, l. 5 (چو بر هفصد افزود هفتاد وشش), and begins, on fol. 2b:

بنام خداوند لوح وقلم ـ که زو نام اوّل بنامش رقم

No date.

Lacunas after ff. 16, 26, 41, 44, 56, 61, 85, and 155.

No. 8124, ff. 166, 2 coll., each ll. 16; clear and distinct Nasta'lîḳ; illuminated frontispiece on fol. 2b; ff. 2b and 3a luxuriously adorned; excellent pictures (some of full size) on ff. 1b, 2a, 11b, 13b, 14b, 18b, 20b, 21b, 22a, 23b, 28a, 29b, 31a, 32b, 34b, 35a, 36b, 40b, 43a, 45a, 47b, 48a, 48b, 50b, 54b, 57b, 60b, 64b, 68a, 69a, 73a, 74b, 75a, 76a, 78a, 80a, 82a, 85b, 87b, 91b, 94b, 97a, 99a, 102a, 106a, 108a, 109b, 114b, 116b, 119b, 120a, 121b, 123b, 125a, 126a, 128b, 129b, 132a, 134b, 135b, 137a, 138a, 138b, 142a, 143b, 149b, 151b, 154a, 158a, 163b, and 165b; size, 9⅛ in. by 6½ in.

Diwân-i-Salmân (دیوان سلمان).

The fullest copy in the India Office Collection of the lyrical poems of Khwâjah Jamâl-aldîn Muḥammad Salmân of Sâwa, the son of Khwâjah 'Alâ-aldîn Muḥammad, see Haft Iḳlîm, No. 1008 (col. 452 in this Cat.). He was born about A.H. 690 (A.D. 1291), enjoyed the favour of the Îlkânî rulers, Amir Shaikh Ḥasan Buzurg (A.H. 736–757 = A.D. 1335–1356) and his son, Shaikh Uwais (A.H. 757–776 = A.D. 1356–1374), and died A.H. 778 or 779 (A.D. 1376 or 1377); see Erdmann in Zeitschrift der D. M. G. xv. pp. 758–772; Bodleian Cat., Nos. 807–810; Rieu ii. p. 624 sq.; Ouseley, Biogr. Notices, p. 117; A. Sprenger, Catal., p. 555; W. Pertsch, Berlin Cat., pp. 842, 843; Schefer, Chrestomathie Persane, vol. i, Paris, 1883, pp. 114, 115. Some select poems are published in Bland's 'Century of Persian Ghazals,' No. 4, and in Erdmann's article in the Zeitschrift, loc. cit.; the ḳaṣîdah, edited there on pp. 760–762, has been metrically translated into German by K. H. Graf, in 'Festgruss an die Mitglieder der Philologen und Orientalisten-Versammlung in Meissen,' 1863.

Contents:

Ḳaṣîdas, tarji'bands, and ḳiṭ'as, mixed together without any alphabetical arrangement, on fol. 1b, beginning:

هر دل که در هوای هویّت مجال یافت
عنقای همّتش دو جهان زیر بال یافت

Ghazals, in alphabetical order, on fol. 201b, beginning: اگر حسن تو بگشاید نقاب از چهرهٔ دعوی را الخ.

Muḳaṭṭa'ât (including some ḳaṣîdas and ghazals), on fol. 302b, beginning: حلقهٔ عنبر وبازار گل آشفته کنی الخ.

Rubâ'îs, on fol. 330b, beginning: ای دوست کجائی و کجائی که نهٔ الخ.

No date. A great number of leaves severely damaged, and consequently some poems destroyed. Ff. 304 and 305 left blank.

No. 2778, ff. 335, 2 coll., each ll. 17; Nasta'lîḳ; small illuminated frontispiece; size, 8 in. by 4¼ in.

1238

A somewhat smaller copy of the same.

Contents:

Ḳaṣîdas, tarji'bands, ḳiṭ'as, and ghazals, all mixed together, on fol. 1b, beginning: هر دل که در هوای الخ.

Rubâ'îs, on fol. 220b, beginning: ای کارگذاران درت شمس وزحل الخ, corresponding to the beginning of this part, in No. 807 of the Bodleian Cat.

On ff. 230b–244b a complete index of the poems contained in this copy, styled (somewhat insufficiently) فهرست قصائدات سلمان.

Fol. 180 and a part of fol. 182b left blank. Various readings and additions are occasionally found on the margin.

No date.

No. 1041, ff. 244, 2 coll., each ll. 19; Nasta'lîḳ, written by three different hands (as it seems), viz. ff. 1–56 by the first, ff. 57–229 by the second, and ff. 230–244 by the third; size, 9½ in. by 5 in.

1239

The same.

This copy is again smaller than the preceding one, but is the only one which has an exact date, viz. 4th of Rajab, A.H. 1023 (A.D. 1614, August 10); the transcriber's name is Hârûn 'Abd-alsalâm.

Contents:

Ḳaṣîdas, tarji'bands, tarkîbbands, and ḳiṭ'as, for the greater part (ff. 10a–114b) in alphabetical order, on fol. 1b; beginning as in the preceding copies.

Ghazals, in alphabetical order, on fol. 146b, beginning: اگر حسن تو بگشاید الخ.

A few rubâ'îs and fards at the end, on ff. 222–225.

College of Fort William, 1825.

No. 2236, ff. 225, 2 coll., each ll. 15–16; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 11 in. by 6 in.

1240

The same.

This splendid copy contains:

Ḳaṣîdas and tarkîbbands, on fol. 2b, beginning: هر دل که در هوای الخ.

Ghazals, in alphabetical order, on fol. 127b, beginning: اگر حسن تو الخ.

Tarji'ât, on fol. 203b, beginning:

با مریدان کوی خمّاریم ــ سر بمسجد فرو نمی آریم

Marâthî, on fol. 207b, beginning: پس از عزم آهو گرفتن الخ.

Muḳaṭṭa'ât, on fol. 217a, beginning:

حبّذا صدر صفّهٔ که بهشت ــ بهمه پای از بهشت برون

Rubâ'îs, on fol. 241b, beginning: ای کارگذاران درت شمس و زحل الخ.

Fards, on fol. 254b, beginning: خدایرا بطلب هر کجا که می باشی الخ.

No date.

No. 407, margin-column, ff. 1–261b, ll. 44; small, but clear and distinct Nasta'lîḳ; illuminated headings at the beginning of each poem, and other ornaments throughout.

1241

The same.

This copy, which appears to have been made from one of the earliest collections of Salmân's poems, but has unfortunately a lacuna after fol. 11, begins with a long artificial ḳaṣîdah (قصيدهٔ مصنوع), on fol. 1b, of the same manner of taushîḥ as those poems of Ahlî Shîrâzî, described at length in the Catalogue of the Bodleian Library, coll. 652, 653. The chief subtlety is, that all the words of two and two, or three and three baits, written in red ink, form together a new distich, usually a mathnawî-bait, and every bait of this kind represents a different metre and a different tropical figure; for instance, from the first two baits of the ḳaṣîdah:

صوای صفوت رویت برنخت آب بهار
هوای جنّت کویت بمیخت مشك تتار
اگرخبرزصفای تو گلستان دارد
گل ازحیای رخت جاودان ندارد بار

there springs this mathnawî-bait in the metre of هزج مثمّن سالم, and representing الترصيع و الاشتقاق:

صوای صفوت رویت صفات گلستان دارد
هوای جنّت کویت حیات جاودان دارد.

Besides, (1) all the initial letters of the baits give a ḳiṭ'ah of three distichs, containing a dedication to the Wazîr Ghiyâth-aldîn Muḥammad; (2) from the حشو, i.e. specially-selected letters, of the words in all the first hemistichs springs a ḳiṭ'ah of eight distichs, in which no alif appears; (3) from the حشو of the words in all the second hemistichs springs another ḳiṭ'ah of seven distichs, in which no diacritical point appears; and (4) by another arrangement of select letters, a ghazal of five distichs is formed. Comparing this ḳaṣîdah of Salmân's with the above-mentioned three ḳaṣîdas of Ahlî Shîrâzî, it is evident that the latter based his poems on that of his predecessor to such an extent that it may almost be called a plagiarism.

The other contents of the dîwân are:

Ḳaṣîdas, tarjî'bands, and ḳiṭ'as, without any order, beginning abruptly, on fol. 12a, in the middle of a poem (one leaf being left blank); the initial poem of the following copy (No. 2458), viz. در درج در عقيق الخ, is found here on fol. 30a. Ghazals, likewise without any order, on fol. 202b, beginning:

تا تو دل در بند جان داری و جان در بند تن
چون مرا در خویش گیری در کنار خویشتن

Rubâ'îs, on fol. 266b, beginning: ای کارگذاران الخ.

Some words and whole lines are occasionally left blank, on ff. 19a, 19b, 84a, and 268b–274a.

No date. A seal from A. D. 1799 on the last page.

No. 3213, ff. 274, 2 coll., each ll. 19; Nasta'lîḳ; illuminated frontispiece on fol. 1b; size, 9½ in. by 6 in.

1242

The same.

All the parts of this copy, which is likewise defective, begin with poems, different from the initial ones in the preceding copies, viz.:

Ḳaṣîdas, tarji's, and tarkîbbands, without any order, on fol. 1b, beginning:

در درج در عقيق لبت نقد جان نهاد
جنس عزيز يافت بجاى نهان نهاد

see Erdmann in Zeitschrift, xv. p. 763. A lacuna after fol. 109.

Ḳiṭ'as, on fol. 170b, beginning: ای زآثار گرد موكب تو الخ.

Rubâ'îs, on fol. 194b, beginning: شاها زتو كار ملك و دين با نسق است الخ.

No date. Slight injuries here and there.

No. 2458, ff. 198, 2 coll., each ll. 15; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 9½ in. by 5¾ in.

Two mathnawîs by Salmân of Sâwa.

1. Khwurshîd u Jamshîd (خورشيد و جمشيد) or Jamshîd u Khwurshîd (جمشيد و خورشيد), the love-story of the prince of China and the princess of Rûm, completed in Jumâdâ II, A. H. 763 (A. D. 1362, April), at the request of Sulṭân Uwais. Beginning, on fol. 261b:

الهر پردهٔ پندار بگشای ــ در گنجينهٔ اسرار بگشای

Extracts from this mathnawî are given in the Khulâṣat-alkalâm, No. 35 (Bodleian Cat., col. 298).

2. Firâḳnâma (فراقنامه), the book of separation, completed A. H. 761 (A. D. 1360); beginning, on fol. 369b:

بنام خدای كه از تيره خاك
برآمیخت اين جوهر جان پاك

No date.

No. 407, margin-column, ff. 261b–396a, ll. 44; clear Nasta'lîḳ; ornaments throughout.

Mihr u Mushtarî (مهر و مشترى).

A good and tolerably old copy of the romantic mathnawî 'Sun and Jupiter,' by Maulânâ Shams-aldîn Muḥammad 'Aṣṣâr of Tabrîz, who died A. H. 784 (A. D. 1382, 1383); the poem was completed the 10th of Shawwâl, A. H. 778 (A. D. 1377, Febr. 20); comp. expressly Fleischer's excellent treatise on the lifetime of the poet, and the date of the composition of this work, in Zeitschrift der D. M. G. xv. pp. 389–396; Rieu ii. pp. 626 sq. and 817; W. Pertsch, Berlin Cat., pp. 843–845 and 1066; Bodleian Cat., Nos. 811–814; A. Sprenger, Catal., p. 311; G. Flügel i. p. 547; Cat. des MSS. et Xylographes, p. 359; J. C. Tornberg, p. 111; Peiper, Comment. de Mihri et Musht. amoribus, Berlin, 1839, and Stimmen aus dem Morgenlande, Hirschberg, 1850, pp. 266, 449; Ouseley, Biogr. Notices, pp. 201–226; Ḥ. Khalfa vi. p. 277, No. 13471; Haft Iḳlîm, No. 1321 (col. 476 in this Cat.); Khulâṣat-alkalâm, No. 45 (Bodleian Cat., col. 298), etc. A Turkish translation of this poem is noticed in the Paris Cat., No. 313, 1, and in J. Aumer, Türkische Handschriften, No. 178.

Beginning:

بنام پادشاه عالم عشق
كه نامش هست نقش خاتم عشق

Dated the 27th of Dhû-alḳa'dah, A. H. 969 (A. D. 1562, July 29), by Âḳâjân ibn Ḥâjî Amîr Ḥusain, known as Arash Oghlû Arashî, of Arash, a town in Shirwân.

No. 107, ff. 213, 2 coll., each ll. 12; distinct Nasta'lîḳ; illuminated frontispiece, the first two pages ornamented; size, 7¼ in. by 4¼ in.

1245

Another extremely defective copy of the same.

The leaves of this copy, which is dated the last of Rajab, A. H. 1021 (A. D. 1612, Sept. 26), are in a most bewildering confusion, and there are nine lacunas of considerable contents. A careful comparison with the preceding copy shows that the proper order of the leaves is as follows:

1, lacuna (=fol. 1^b, l. 3 ab infra, to fol. 9^b, lin. penult. in No. 1244), 38, 30–36, lacuna (= fol. 21^a, first line, to fol. 21^b, l. 4 in No. 1244), 87–90, lacuna (=fol. 26^b, l. 4, to fol. 27^b, lin. penult. in No. 1244), 42–58, lacuna (=fol. 47^a, l. 3 ab infra, to fol. 49^a, l. 7 in No. 1244), 59–61, lacuna (=fol. 52^b, last line, to fol. 54^b, l. 3 ab infra in No. 1244), 62, 63, 70–86, 91–147, lacuna (=fol. 146^a, l. 5, to fol. 146^b, l. 3 ab infra in No. 1244), 39–41, 11–16, lacuna of four baits (=fol. 157^b, lin. penult., to fol. 158^a, l. 2 in No. 1244), 17–29, lacuna (=fol. 175^b, l. 3 ab infra, to fol. 184^a, l. 5 in No. 1244), 2–10, 67–69, 64–66, 37, lacuna (= fol. 206^a, l. 7, to fol. 207^b, l. 6 in No. 1244), 148–152. On the other hand, this defective copy contains in several chapters a series of baits not found in the preceding copy; for instance, between ll. 6 and 7, on fol. 46^b in No. 1244, there are wanting forty-five verses (=fol. 57^a, l. 1, to fol. 58^a, last line in the present copy), and between ll. 1 and 2 of fol. 141^a in No. 1244 there are wanting twenty-three baits (=fol. 142^a, l. 4 ab infra, to fol. 143^b, l. 7 in the present copy).

Several pages of this copy are besides a little effaced or otherwise injured.

No. 1238, ff. 152, 2 coll., each ll. 15; Nasta'lîḳ; illuminated frontispiece; the first page richly adorned; three miniature paintings on ff. 3^a, 19^a, and 111^a; size, 8 in. by 4¾ in.

Ḥâfiẓ (Nos. 1246–1274).

Dîwân-i-Ḥâfiẓ (ديوان حافظ).

The collected works of the greatest lyrical poet of Persia, Shams-aldîn Muḥammad Ḥâfiẓ of Shîrâz, who died, according to the best authorities, and the date engraved on the poet's tombstone, A. H. 791 (A. D. 1389); see Haft Iḳlîm, No. 200, col. 393 above; a less trustworthy date is A. H. 792, an absolutely wrong one A. H. 794, found in Daulatshâh. On the life and works of Ḥâfiẓ, comp. De Sacy, in Notices et Extraits, iv. p. 238 sq. 1269

Sharḥ-i-Diwân-i-Ḥâfiẓ (شرح دیوان حافظ).

A Persian commentary on the ghazals of Ḥâfiẓ, by an anonymous writer, compiled A. H. 1026 (see fol. 248b, l. 7) = A. D. 1617. It is the same commentary which is noticed by A. Sprenger, Catal., p. 416, l. 20, beginning: الا یا ایها الساقی ... دانا و آگاه باش ای رعنا که الا حرف تنبیه است و یا حرف ندا ایّها کلمه ایست که معرّف بلام الخ.

The explanations given are very elaborate and of a decided Ṣûfic character.

No date. Bibliotheca Leydeniana.

No. 2490, ff. 249, ll. 17; Nasta'lîḳ; worm-eaten in several places; size, 8¾ in. by 5¼ in.

1270

Kashf-alastâr 'an wujûhi mushkilâti alash'âr (كشف الاستار عن وجوه مشكلات الاشعار).

Another commentary on Ḥâfiẓ' diwân, by Muḥammad Afḍal of Ilâhâbâd, who flourished under Shâhjahân, forming the seventh risâlah out of eighteen (not sixteen as Sprenger asserts), dealing with the interpretation of Persian poetry, except the mathnawi and the ḥadîḳah. The immediately preceding sixth risâlah was a commentary on Niẓâmî's Sharafnâma or Iskandarnâma, as we learn from the very heading of this copy, on fol. 1b: خاتمهٔ شرح شرفنامه مشهور بسكندر نامه و فاتحهٔ شرح ديوان خواجه حافظ قدس سرّه.

Beginning:

زبان میگشایم بشكر خدا
كه از كشف استار آن بیتها

The title appears on fol. 2b, and in the same page begins the introduction (مقدّمه) to the commentary. The commentary itself opens, on fol. 21b (شروع در شرح ابیات), with the verse: در همه دیر مغان نیست چو من شیدائی الخ.

The work is especially interesting, on account of its long extracts from older and contemporary writers, particularly on mystical matters; comp. A. Sprenger, Catal., p. 415. Bibliotheca Leydeniana.

No. 2482, ff. 153, ll. 15; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 8⅞ in. by 6 in.

Khulâṣat-albaḥr fî iltiḳâṭ-aldurar (خلاصة البحر في التقاط الدرر).

Part of a third detailed commentary on Ḥâfiẓ' diwân, composed by 'Abdallâh, known as 'Ubaid-allâh, with the epithet Khalîfah Ḥayy bin 'Abd-alḥaḳḳ (known as 'Abd-alḳâdir alkhwishî alcîshtî). The author states in the preface, that he had already compiled, before this work, another commentary on the difficult passages of Ḥâfiẓ' diwân, styled بحر الفراسة, that he was for a time attached to the Shaikh Maulânâ 'Abd-alrashîd (known as Muḥammad Rashîd) Yuwânjî, and afterwards in the service of Shaikh Pîr Muḥammad of Lakhnau, and that he then resolved upon writing a larger and fuller exegetical work on Ḥâfiẓ. But this copy contains only a small portion of the poet's diwân; it comprises only the ghazals as far as the rhyme-letter ث, all the rest is missing, perhaps never completed by the author.

Beginning: سپاس و ستایش خداوندیرا که اولیاء خود را بكلامی مخصوص ساخت الخ.

The ghazals of Ḥâfiẓ are not only, as is usual in diwâns, arranged according to the last rhyme-letter, but there are also subdivisions according to the first letter of the first bait of each ghazal, which are called bâbs. The larger divisions according to the rhyme-letter are styled kitâb.

The right order of ff. 79–113 is: 79, 87, 88, 81–86, 80, 89–104, 112, 106–111, 105, 113.

No. 1029, ff. 256, ll. 19; careless Nasta'lîḳ; size, 9¾ in. by 5¾ in.

Kalîd-i-diwân-i-Ḥâfiẓ (كليد ديوان حافظ).

Explanation of the difficult words and phrases in Ḥâfiẓ' diwân, arranged alphabetically, and preceded by an introduction (مقدّمه) on the mystical terms which frequently occur in the poems of Ḥâfiẓ, for instance, عشق, عاشق, معشوق, etc. The author's name does not occur; as title appears, on fol. 1a: كليد خواجه حافظ and فرهنگ حافظ.

Beginning of the preface, on fol. 1b: حمد بیحدّ و ثنای بیعدّ و سپاس بی قیاس حضرت خداوندیرا که جمیع دیوان حافظان الخ.

Beginning of the alphabetical key (كليد) or glossary, on fol. 10a: آغاز لغات دیوان خواجه حافظ شیرازی باب الف الخ.

No date. Copied by Fakhr-aldîn.

No. 1840, ff. 1–21, ll. 13; very careless Nasta'lîḳ; size, 8¾ in. by 6 in.

Another key to Ḥâfiẓ' diwân.

This little work is, like the preceding one, entitled at the beginning كليد خواجه حافظ, and in the colophon, on fol. 38a, فرهنگ حضرت ديوان حافظ. It also consists of two parts, for although the colophon appears already at the end of the first part, there cannot be any doubt that the following alphabetical glossary belongs, as second part, to the same work. The author's name seems to be Nûr Muḥammad (see fol. 21b: فقير حقير نور محمّد), who may be identical with Mîr Muḥammad Nûr-allâh Aḥrârî, the commentator of the mathnawî (see No. 1104 above). The first part contains, like the muḳaddimah of the preceding كليد, an explanation of mystical terms and phrases in twenty short bâbs, beginning, on fol. 21b: حمد و ثنای مر حضرت الهی خالقی را كه الخ.

The second part, an alphabetical glossary for the difficult and rare words, especially the Arabic ones, which are found in Ḥâfiẓ' poems, begins, on fol. 38b: افواه دهنها استعانت یاری خواستن الخ.

No date. Copied by the same Fakhr-aldîn.

No. 1840, ff. 21–48, ll. 13; very careless Nasta'lîḳ; size, 8¾ in. by 6 in.

A third key to Ḥâfiẓ' diwân.

This glossary to Ḥâfiẓ' diwân is arranged alphabetically according to the first letter, and begins, without any introduction, immediately with the explanation of the word آشوب=شور وغوغا, after which follows افسانه =حکایتهاء گذشته, and so on. No title occurs anywhere.

No date. Some pages badly injured.

No. 678, ff. 211–235, ll. 15; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 8¾ in. by 5¾ in.

1275

Diwân-i-Jalâl (دیوان جلال).

Lyrical poems by Sayyid Jalâl-aldîn of Yazd, the son of Sayyid 'Aḍud-aldîn, who was a wazîr of Muḥammad Muẓaffar; according to Taḳî Kâshî (see A. Sprenger, Catal., p. 18, No. 71) he died A.H. 793 (A.D. 1391); comp. Bodleian Cat., No. 854; Butkhâna, No. 32, ib., col. 200; Âtashkada, No. 623, ib., col. 283; Makhzan-alghará'ib, No. 490, ib., col. 326; Rieu ii. p. 869[b].

Contents:

A preface in prose, on fol. 496[a], beginning: بسم الله الرّحمٰن الرّحیم و به نستعین جواهر زواهر حمد و سپاس بی حدّ و قیاس الخ.

Ḳaṣîdas, on fol. 499[a], beginning:

بصحن گلشن گیتی زاعتدال بهار
صبا بساط زمرّد فگنده دیگر بار

Ghazals, on fol. 509[a], beginning:

عاشقان اوّل قدم بر هر دو عالم میزنند
بعد از آن در کوی عشق از عاشقی دم میزنند

Ḳiṭ'as, on fol. 566[a], beginning: خداوندا توئی کاورا مدحت الخ.

Rubâ'îs, on fol. 568[a], beginning: ای بارگهت ز چرخ گردون برتر الخ.

Good copy, not dated.

No. 407, margin-column, ff. 496[a]–571[b], ll. 44; illuminated throughout; clear and distinct Nasta'lîḳ.

Tuḥfa-i-Naṣâ'iḥ (تحفهٔ نصائح).

A didactic poem, in form of a ḳaṣîdah, on all the various topics of ethics and practical philosophy, somewhat on the lines of Nâṣir bin Khusrau's Rûshanâ'înâma (see No. 904 in this Cat.), by Yûsuf Gadâ (Yûsuf the dervish) or according to the colophon of the following copy, Muḥammad Yûsuf, who intended these admonitions for his son Abû-alfatḥ. The poet's spiritual teacher was Shaikh Maḥmûd (or, with his fuller designation according to the following copy, Shaikh Naṣîr-aldîn Maḥmûd), whom he celebrates, on fol. 2[a]: شیخ معظّم پیرمان محمود الصاحب قران. The poem is divided into forty-five bâbs, and comprises in this copy 786 baits (هفصد هفتاد وشش), in the following one 781 (هفصد هفتاد ویك). As date of composition, there appears both here and in the following copy, A.H. 795 (هفصد نود وپنج), the 10th of Rabî' II = A.D. 1393, February 23, whereas the St. Petersburg MS. (see Cat. des MSS. et Xylographes, p. 440, compare also Rehatsek, Catalogue raisonné, p. 129, No. 11) contains as date, A.H. 752 (A.D. 1351); it is hard to say which of the two is the correct one; if the Shaikh Naṣîr-aldîn Maḥmûd is really identical with the great Shaikh of the Ċishtî order, Naṣîr-aldîn Maḥmûd Ċirâgh of Dihlî (who died A.H. 757 = A.D. 1356, see Safînat-alauliyâ, No. 116, col. 287 in this Cat., and Sawâṭi'-alanwâr, No. 22, col. 331 above), A.H. 752 has decidedly the better chance. An incomplete copy of this poem is also noticed in W. Pertsch, Berlin Cat., pp. 124, 125; it is mentioned besides in Ḥ. Khalfa ii. p. 242, No. 2684. A lithographed edition of it has appeared in Bombay, A.H. 1283. Beginning:

حمدی بگویم بیعدد مر خالق جنّ و بشر
کرده معلّق آسمان هم اختران شمس و قمر

On the margin a great number of Ḳurân verses and traditions are quoted as references for the text.

Dated Jumâdâ-alawwal, A.H. 1173 (A.D. 1759, Dec., to 1760, Jan.), by Nûr-aldîn 'Alî alḥusainî.

College of Fort William, 1825.

No. 2194, ff. 29, 2 coll., each ll. 15; careless Nasta'lîḳ; size, 8¾ in. by 4¾ in.

1277

Another copy of the same.

Beginning as in the preceding copy. The author's name appears on fol. 2[b], l. 3, and in the colophon; the title, on fol. 2[b], l. 8.

Diwân-i-Kamâl Khujandî (دیوان کمال خجندی).

The lyrical poems of Shaikh Kamâl-aldîn Mas'ûd of Khujand in Transoxania, who died in Tabrîz, according to the best authorities, A.H. 803 (A.D. 1400, 1401), see Haft Iḳlim, No. 1525 (col. 494 in this Cat.). Other, less trustworthy, dates of his death are A.H. 792 (A.D. 1390), according to Daulatshâh, the Safînah, the Âtashkada (see Bodleian Cat., col. 209, No. 41), etc., A.H. 793 (A.D. 1391), see Rosen, Persian MSS., p. 119 and note 2 ib., and A.H. 808 (A.D. 1405, 1406), see Bodleian Cat., Nos. 857, 858; Rieu ii. p. 632; W. Pertsch, Berlin Cat., p. 855; G. Flügel i. p. 557; J. Aumer, p. 27; A. Sprenger, Catal., p. 454; Fleischer, Dresden Cat., p. 7; J. C. Tornberg, p. 103; Ouseley, Biogr. Notices, p. 192; Bland, Century of Ghazals, No. 3, etc.

Contents:
One ḳaṣîdah, on fol. 1b, beginning:

افتتاح سخن آن بود که کنند اهل کمال
بد ثنای ملك الملك خدای متعال

Ghazals, in alphabetical order, on fol. 2b, beginning:

جهانی پر ز مقصودست ورای روشن و پیدا
دریغا تشنه لب خواهیم مردن بر لب دریا

The initial ghazal of Sprenger's copy in Cat. Oudh is found here, on fol. 11b.
Ḳiṭ'as, rubâ'is, and a few fards, on fol. 231a.
Beginning of the ḳiṭ'as:

چو دیوان کمال افتد بدستت
نویس از شعر او چندانکه خواهی

Beginning of the rubâ'is, on fol. 235b:

تا فکرت من نهاد بنیاد سخن
آباد شد از من طرب آباد سخن

Dated A. H. 971 (A. D. 1563, 1564), at Marw, by Muḥammad Ḥusain bin Ghiyâth-aldîn 'Alî Jâmî. On several pages one or two hemistichs are omitted.

No. 906, ff. 237, 2 coll., each ll. 14; Nasta'lîḳ, the first two pages richly illuminated; size, 9¼ in. by 6 in.

1279

Another copy of the same.
This copy of Kamâl's diwân contains:
Ghazals, in alphabetical order, on fol. 1b, beginning:

ایّها العطشان فی وادی الهوا
جوی جویان جانب دریا بیا

This initial ghazal is found in the preceding copy, on fol. 12a, but there is written ایّها العشّاق instead of ایّها العطشان.
Ḳiṭ'as, on fol. 206b, and
Rubâ'is, on fol. 212a, both beginning as in the preceding copy.
Dated the 16th of Rabî'-alawwal, A. H. 1085 (A. D. 1674, June 20), by Shaikh Kâlî.

No. 925, ff. 214, 2 coll., each ll. 15; clear Nasta'lîḳ; size, 9 in. by 5¼ in.

1280

An extract from the same diwân.
Contents:
Ghazals, in alphabetical order, on fol. 572a, beginning:

از تو یك ساعت جدائی خوش نمی آید مرا
با دگر کس آشنائی خوش نمی آید مرا

Rubâ'is, on fol. 622a, beginning: ای سرو ترا اگرچه طوبی خوانیم الخ.
The initial rubâ'î of No. 1278 is here the fourth.

No. 407, margin-column, ff. 572-623, ll. 44; clear Nasta'lîḳ; ornamented throughout.

Diwân-i-Maghribi (دیوان مغربی).

The lyrical poems of Mullâ Muḥammad Shîrîn Maghribî of Nâ'în, in the province of Iṣfahân, who was a friend of Kamâl Khujandî, and died at Tabrîz, A. H. 809 (A. D. 1406, 1407); comp. Bodleian Cat., No. 859; Rieu ii. p. 633; W. Pertsch, Berlin Cat., pp. 719, 720, and 856; A. Sprenger, Catal., p. 476; Ouseley, Biogr. Notices, p. 106. His diwân has been printed in Persia, A. H. 1280.
Contents:
A preface in prose, on fol. 1b, beginning: الحمد لله الذی انشاء عروض الکون بسبّ الجسم الثقیل و الروح الخفیف الخ.
Ghazals, in alphabetical order, except the first, preceded by a short mathnawî (dedicated to Shâhrukh).
Beginning of the mathnawî, on fol. 2b:

بس ار بینی درین دیوان اشعار
خرابات و خرابانی و خمّار

Beginning of the first (unalphabetical) poem, the first three baits of which are written in Arabic, on fol. 3: نظرت فی رقمی نظرت قصار فدالك الخ.
Beginning of the first alphabetical poem, on fol. 3b:

خورشید رخت چو گشت پیدا
ذرّات دو کون شد هویدا

Tarji'ât and rubâ'is, on fol. 74a, beginning:

آفتاب وجود کرد اشراق — نور او سر بسر گرفت آفاق

At the end of the diwân, on fol. 92b, there are some prose-lines, beginning: زیرا که علوم و معارف ایشان ذوقی الخ.
Dated the 10th of Shawwâl, A. H. 1151 (A. D. 1739, Jan. 21), by Ghulâm Muḥyi-aldînkhân of Gîlân. Some mathnawî-baits on the fly-leaves.

No. 230, ff. 1-92, 2 coll., each ll. 15; Shikasta; size, 8⅔ in. by 5 in.

Another copy of the same.
This copy, which is somewhat older than the preceding one, contains only ghazals in alphabetical order, except the first, with a few mathnawî-baits and rubâ'is at the end. Beginning both of the initial (unalphabetical) and the first alphabetical ghazal the same as in the preceding copy. Occasionally various readings on the margin. Dated by Glsûrâi, the 7th of Rabî'-alawwal, A. H. 1139 (eighth year of Muḥammadshâh's reign) = A. D. 1726, Nov. 2.

No. 254, ff. 277-382, 2 coll., each ll. 12-15; careless Nasta'lîḳ; size, 8⅓ in. by 4½ in.

An incomplete copy of the same.
Contents:
Ghazals, in alphabetical order, on fol. 1b, beginning:

هیچ دانی که ما کیستیم وشما — سایهٔ آفتاب ونور خدا

The first alphabetical poem of the preceding copy is here the second (on fol. 2[a]).

Rubâ'is, incomplete at the end, on fol. 61[b], beginning:

ای گشته عیان رویتو از جام جهان
پیدا شده از نام خوشت نام جهان

The last rubâ'i corresponds to fol. 91[b], last two lines, in No. 1281.

No. 1086, ff. 63, 2 coll., each ll. 16; distinct Nasta'lîḳ; size, 7½ in. by 4½ in.

Khamsa-i-Jamâliyyah (خمسهٔ جمالیّه).

Five mathnawis, in imitation of the five famous poems of Nizâmî, composed by a poet with the takhalluṣ Jamâlî, who is not mentioned anywhere (his fuller title given in the frontispiece of the first poem is حضرة الجمالیّة الاحمدیّة). He flourished at the end of Timûr's reign, and under his first successors. The five poems of this khamsah are:

1. تحفة الابرار, in twenty maḳâlas, an imitation of the Makhzan-alasrâr, on fol. 1[b], beginning:

بسم الله الرّحمٰن الرّحیم ـ هست سر آغاز کتاب کریم

2. مهر ونگار, an imitation of Khusrau and Shîrîn, on fol. 29[b], beginning:

بفضل بی کران یا ذی المعالی
در توحید بگشا بر جمالی

Composed A.H. 805 (A.D. 1402, 1403), see fol. 85[b], l. 14.

3. محزون ومحبوب, an imitation of Lailâ and Majnûn, on fol. 86[b], beginning:

ای ذات ترا بدایتی نی ـ اوصاف ترا نهایتی نی

Composed A.H. 814 (A.D. 1411, 1412), see fol. 132[a], l. 20.

4. هفت اورنگ, an imitation of the Haft Paikar, on fol. 132[b], beginning:

ای جهان جمله آفریدهٔ تو ـ سقف افلاک برکشیدهٔ تو

Composed A.H. 820 (A.D. 1417), see fol. 178[b], last line but one.

5. Another mathnawi, incomplete at the end; the title of this last poem cannot be made out, as no headings are found, and the only place in which the author himself enumerates his mathnawis, viz. fol. 134[a], ll. 10, 11, occurs already in the beginning of the هفت اورنگ, that is in the fourth poem. Beginning of this mathnawi, on fol. 179[b]:

الهی ز مه تا بماهی تراست
همه بندگانیم و شاهی تراست

No doubt it is an imitation of the Iskandarnâma. Many leaves are a little injured; the last page is very severely damaged. The second mathnawi is dated the 8th of Ramaḍân, A.H. 869 (A.D. 1465, May 4), the third in the month Muḥarram, A.H. 870 (A.D. 1465, Aug.–Sept.). We learn from the colophons of both, that this copy was made in Baghdâd.

No. 138, ff. 210, 4 coll., each ll. 25; Nasta'lîḳ; illuminated frontispiece at the beginning of each poem; pictures on ff. 14[a], 24[a], 75[a], 101[b], 125[b], and 205[a]; size, 12½ in. by 7½ in.

Dîwân-i-Ḳâsim-i-Anwâr (دیوان قاسم انوار).

The lyrical poems of Sayyid Mu'în-aldîn 'Alî Ḳâsim-i-Anwâr, with the two takhalluṣes Ḳâsim and Ḳâsimî, born in Sarâb, near Tabrîz, A.H. 757 (A.D. 1356), died at Kharjird, near Jâm, A.H. 837 (A.D. 1433, 1434); see Haft Iḳlîm, No. 1314, col. 476 above, and comp. Bodleian Cat., Nos. 862–866; Rieu ii. p. 635 sq.; W. Pertsch, p. 101, and Berlin Cat., p. 860 sq.; A. Sprenger, Catal., p. 532; G. Flügel i. pp. 558, 559; J. Aumer, p. 28; Bland, Century of Persian Ghazals, No. 6; etc.

Contents:

Daulatshâh's account of Ḳâsim's life and works (ذکر سیّد قاسم انوار), on fol. 1[b], beginning: درّ دریای حقیقت الخ. Daulatshâh is the only biographer who, with his usual inaccuracy, fixes the poet's death in A.H. 835 (A.D. 1431, 1432).

Ghazals, in alphabetical order, except the first two, on fol. 9[b]. Beginning of the initial ghazal:

من بیچارهٔ سودازده سرگردانم
که باوصاف خداوند سخن چون رانم

Beginning of the first alphabetical ghazal, on fol. 10[b]:

ای صبح سعادت ز جبین تو هویدا
این حسن چه حسنست تبارك وتعالی

Tarji'bands, ḳiṭ'as, short mathnawis, and rubâ'îs, on fol. 209[a], beginning:

بیا ای عشق عالمسوز بی غم
قدم برچشم من نه خیر مقدم

(see No. 863 in the Bodleian Cat.).

This copy is dated the 4th of Jumâdâ-althânî, A.H. 1028 (A.D. 1619, May 19), by 'Abd-allaṭîf al-'Abbâsî (the learned editor and commentator of Sanâ'î's Ḥadîḳah and Jalâl-aldîn Rûmî's mathnawi, see above, Nos. 923, 924, 1088–1091, 1101, 1102), who wrote it for Mirzâ Muḥammad Ashraf.

No. 495, ff. 227, 2 coll., each ll. 11; Nasta'lîḳ; two small pictures, the first rather effaced, on ff. 18[b] and 39[a]; blanks on ff. 140[b] and 200[a]; size, 6¾ in. by 3½ in.

Another copy of the same.

This copy seems to be older than the preceding one, but is not dated; it is injured in many places, and has the first sixty-two leaves in this most bewildering order: ff. 1–20, 29, 22, 23, 30, 21, 24, 25, 47–53, 54, 32–38, 27, 28, 26, 55–60, 39–46, 31, 61, 62.

Contents:

Ghazals, in alphabetical order, except the first two, on fol. 1a. Beginning, both of the initial and of the first alphabetical ghazal, the same as in the preceding copy. At the end of the ghazals, on fol. 163b, four rubâ'is.

One tarji'band, ghazals, ḳiṭ'as, short mathnawis and rubâ'is, all mixed together, beginning, on fol. 164a: الا ای عشق الخ (see the preceding copy, fol. 209a). The last mathnawi, on fol. 178a, begins:

الا ای شاهباز قدس لاهوت ــ مقیّد مانده در دام ناسوت

(identical with the بیان واقعهٔ امیر تیمور گورگان, in No. 862 of the Bodleian Cat.).

No. 2831, ff. 179, 2 coll., each ll. 21; small Nasta'lîḳ; size, 6¼ in. by 4 in.

1287

The same.

This copy is not dated; but a seal, bearing the date A.H. 1174 (A.D. 1760, 1761), appears on fol. 1a.

Contents:

Ghazals, in alphabetical order, except the first two, on fol. 1b; beginning the same as in the preceding copies.

One tarji'band, ḳiṭ'as, short mathnawis and rubâ'is, on fol. 189b, beginning: بیا ای عشق الخ.

No. 489, ff. 199, 2 coll., each ll. 15; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 8¼ in. by 5¼ in.

1288

The same.

This copy, which has some lacunæ after ff. 37, 38, and 39, contains:

Ghazals, in alphabetical order, except the first two, on fol. 1b, with a few rubâ'is at the end.

No date. This MS. came into the library of Khân-ṣâḥib Ḥabîb-allâh Khânṣâḥib Bahâdur, A.H. 1213 (A.D. 1798, 1799).

No. 2577, ff. 160, 2 coll., each ll. 17; Nasta'lîḳ; the first page supplied later; size, 8¾ in. by 5¼ in.

1289

The same.

This very defective copy contains:

Ghazals, in alphabetical order, except the first (which begins in the usual way), on fol. 1b. Between ff. 1 and 2 a lacuna; the abrupt beginning of fol. 2a: زامد از چشم یقین باز گشاید الخ, corresponds to No. 2831 (1286 in this Cat.), fol. 8b, l. 3. The next complete ghazal on the same page corresponds to fol. 4a, l. 1, in the same copy. This part breaks off, on fol. 169b, with the fourth bait of a ghazal rhyming in ی; the last verse corresponds to fol. 146a, l. 7, in No. 2831.

Ḳiṭ'as, one tarji'band, and short mathnawis, on fol. 170a, defective both at the beginning and end; the first bait occurring belongs to a ḳiṭ'ah, corresponding to fol. 169b, l. 9, in No. 2831; the first complete ḳiṭ'ah on the same page to fol. 172b, l. 4 ab infra, in the same copy.

This part breaks off in a short mathnawi, on fol. 179b.

The right order of ff. 33–42 is: 33, 41, 35–40, 34, 42; and of ff. 73–82: 73, 80, 81, 76–79, 74, 75, 82. A little worm-eaten here and there.

No. 3459, olim 13. J. 15, ff. 179, 2 coll., each ll. 15; careless Nasta'lîḳ; size, 8¼ in. by 4¾ in.

Kulliyyât-i-Kâtibî (کلّیّات کاتبی).

Complete poetical works of Shams-aldîn Muḥammad bin 'Abdallâh Kâtibî, who was born in Tarshiz, studied in Nîshâpûr, and died at Astarâbâd A.H. 838 or 839 (A.D. 1434–1436), see Haft Iḳlim, No. 753, col. 433 in this Cat.; and comp. Bodleian Cat., Nos. 867–870; Rieu ii. pp. 637–639; W. Pertsch, p. 76, and Berlin Cat., p. 862; A. Sprenger, Catal., p. 457; G. Flügel i. p. 561; Cat. Codd. Or. Lugd. Bat. ii. p. 119; Cat. des MSS. et Xylographes, p. 366; J. C. Tornberg, p. 104; H. Khalfa iii. p. 302, No. 5625; Ouseley, Biogr. Notices, p. 188 sq.; Bland, Century of Persian Ghazals, No. 5; etc.

Contents:

Ghazals, arranged alphabetically, on fol. 1b, beginning:

آفاق پر صداست زکوه گناه ما
کوه گناه چند بود سنگ راه ما

Ḳiṭ'as, on fol. 83b, beginning:

شبی بمجلس میر اردشیر در رفتم
به بنده بود یکی قطعه بهتر از طبقی

Rubâ'is, and some fards, on fol. 90a, beginning:

ای خندهٔ حسن گلعذاران از تو
وی گریهٔ ابر نوبهاران از تو

This part is dated by the copyist Ni'mat-allâh bin 'Ināyat-allâh the 14th of Rabî'-alawwal, A.H. 1007 (A.D. 1598, Oct. 15).

First mathnawi, the Gulshan-i-Abrâr (گلشن ابرار), or 'Rose-garden of the Pure,' an imitation of Niẓâmî's Makhzan-alasrâr, incomplete at the beginning, on fol. 100a. The first bait found here runs thus:

جذبهٔ لطفت چو کمند افگند
هر دو جهانرا ز سمند افگند

This is the 214th bait of the poem, corresponding to fol. 193a, l. 15, in No. 223 (1292 in this Cat.).

Second mathnawi, entitled Si Nâma (سی نامه), or the 'Thirty Epistles,' on fol. 116b, beginning:

زهی سی نامه ام نامی ز نامت
حدیثم حرفی از جزو کلامت

Copied the 19th of Muḥarram, A.H. 1007 (A.D. 1598, Aug. 22).

Third mathnawi (or risâlah, as it is styled in the colophon), on fol. 152b, entitled Dilrubâi (دلربای), or 'the Charmer,' an allegorical poem, beginning:

زهی روح را رحمتت رائحه ــ کلام مرا حمد تو فائحه

Fourth mathnawí, entitled Majma'-albaḥrain (مجمع البحرين), or 'Combination of the two seas or metres,' also styled Nâẓir u Manẓûr (ناظر و منظور), on fol. 166b, beginning:

ای شده از قدرت تو ما و طین
لوحهٔ دیباچهٔ دنیا و دین

Fifth mathnawí, entitled Dah bâb (ده باب), or the 'Ten Chapters,' on fol. 198b, beginning:

ای برحمت عالمی را کارساز
جملهٔ عالم را برحمت کار ساز

This mathnawí is identical with the Tajnísát (تجنیسات) of W. Pertsch, pp. 76, 77 (comp. A. Sprenger, Catal., p. 458).

Ḳaṣídas, interspersed with tarjí'bands, musaddasát, etc., on fol. 231b, beginning:

سپاس و حمد ترا زیبد ای محقّق برحق
که حامدند ترا مطلقا مقیّد و مطلق

The initial ḳaṣídah of No. 867 of the Bodleian Cat., of the British Museum copies, Sprenger's copy, etc., is here the second, on fol. 232b. Ff. 22–38 are misplaced, the right order is: 21, 24–30, 22, 23, 32–37, 31, 38.

No. 52, ff. 312, 2 coll., each ll. 19; clear and distinct Nasta'líḳ; illuminated frontispieces on ff. 1b, 116b, 152b, 166b, 198b, and 231b; ff. 1b, 2a, 116b, 117a, 152b, 153a, 166b, 167a, 198b, 199a, 231b, and 232a richly adorned; size, 8½ in. by 4½ in.

1291

Another copy of the same.

Contents:

Ḳaṣídas, intermixed with tarjí'bands, on fol. 1b, beginning as in all the usual copies: ای گِل آدم بخمر الخ (the second poem in the preceding copy, on fol. 232b).

Ghazals, arranged alphabetically, on fol. 78b, beginning as in the preceding copy.

Ḳiṭ'as, on fol. 179a, beginning: ای دل ار خواهی الخ (see Nos. 867 and 868 of the Bodleian Cat.).

Rubá'ís and riddles, on fol. 186b, beginning: ای وعدهٔ دیدار تو میعاد بهشت الخ.

The five mathnawís in the following order:

1. Gulshan-i-Abrár (=1 in the preceding copy), on fol. 190b, beginning:

بسم الله الرّحمٰن الرّحیم – تاج کلامست و کلام قدیم

2. Dah bâb (=5 in the preceding copy), on fol. 211b.

3. Majma'-albaḥrain (=4 in the preceding copy), with a preface in prose, on fol. 249b, beginning: مدام از حضرت مبلغ الهام الخ; the poem itself begins on fol. 251a.

4. Sí Náma (=2 in the preceding copy), on fol. 285b.

5. Dilrubâi (=3 in the preceding copy), on fol. 330b.

This copy is dated the 15th of Dhû-alḥijjah, A.H. 1087 (A.D. 1677, Feb. 18).

Sitta-i-Dâ'î (ستّهٔ داعی).

Six mathnawîs, by Niẓâm-aldîn Maḥmûd bin al-Ḥasan al-Ḥusainî of Shîrâz, with the takhallus Dâ'î, who was born A. H. 810 (A. D. 1407, 1408), and collected his complete poetical works for the first time in A. H. 865 (A. D. 1460, 1461), see above, No. 1099, where his commentary on the mathnawî is described and the different dates of his birth are duly weighed; comp. also No. 883 in the Bodleian Cat., where the contents of his Kulliyyât are given in full; Rieu ii. p. 791b, and A. Sprenger, Catal., p. 387. This copy contains only his mathnawîs, viz.:

1. Kitâb-i-Mashâhid (کتاب مشاهد), or 'Book of Assemblies,' on fol. 2b, beginning:

بلبل اگر نالہ بر آرد رواست
خاصّہ کہ از طرف گلستان جداست

Composed A. H. 836 (A. D. 1432, 1433).

2. Kitâb-i-Ganj-i-rawân (کتاب گنج روان), or 'Book of the Soul's Treasure,' in ten maḳâlas, on fol. 29b, beginning:

نخستین کہ آید قلم در زبان
بحمد خدا بہ کہ گردد روان

Composed A. H. 841 (A. D. 1437, 1438).

3. Kitâb-i-Cihil Ṣabâḥ (کتاب چهل صباح), or 'Book of the Forty Mornings,' on fol. 63b, beginning:

بنیاد سخن بنام حق نِہ ـ کز هرچہ بهست نام حق بِہ

Composed A. H. 843 (A. D. 1439, 1440).

4. Kitâb-i-Cár Caman (کتاب چار چمن), or 'Book of the Four Meadows,' on fol. 97b, beginning:

میوهٔ باغ جان ما سخن است
چہ سخن هرچہ از خدا سخن است

Composed A. H. 842 (A. D. 1438, 1439).

5. Kitâb-i-Cashma-i-Zindagâni (کتاب چشمهٔ زندگانی), or 'Book of the Fountain of Life,' on fol. 139b, beginning:

ستایش را سزاواری خدایا ـ کہ بخشیدی مرا یاری خدایا

Composed A. H. 856 (A. D. 1452).

6. Kitâb-i-'Ishḳnâma (کتاب عشقنامہ), or 'Book of Love,' on fol. 174b, beginning:

از ازل گر گوش داری تا ابد ـ بشنوی از هر زبان حمد احد

Composed A. H. 856 (A. D. 1452).

To these six mathnawîs there is added, on ff. 247b sq., a seventh mathnawî without any title, a kind of Sâḳînâma, dealing with the various topics of Ṣûfîsm, beginning, on fol. 247b:

الحمد لواهب الانابہ ـ والشّکر لمن لہ الاجابہ

It ends on fol. 284b, and is followed by a series of Tarjî'át, beginning:

عشقم از خویشتن ندامت داد ـ سرم اندر رہ ملامت داد

A short preface in prose, on fol. 1b, opens the Sittah.

No date. An entry, dated A. H. 1059 (A. D. 1649), on the fly-leaf.

No. 1887, ff. 299, 2 coll., each ll. 12; Nasta'lîḳ; Illuminated frontispiece at the beginning of each mathnawî; size, 8¼ in. by 4¼ in.

Diwân-i-Riyâḍî (دیوان ریاضی).

The lyrical poems of Maulânâ Riyâḍî of Samarkand, who was drowned A. H. 884 (A. D. 1479, 1480), comp. Bodleian Cat., Nos. 890 and 891; Rieu iii. p. 1074; W. Pertsch, Berlin Cat., p. 894; A. Sprenger, Catal., p. 20, No. 140; Cat. des MSS. et Xylographes, p. 311.

The diwân contains only ghazals, in alphabetical order, beginning:

ای پری از رخ بر افگن طرّهٔ طرّار را
تا بکی بر روی مصحف می نهی زنّار را

No. 895, ff. 23, 2 coll., each ll. 14; Nasta'lîḳ; an illuminated frontispiece; size, 9¾ in. by 5¾ in.

Jâmî (Nos. 1300–1389).

Kulliyyât-i-Jâmî (کلّیّات جامی).

A very old, but somewhat defective, copy of the complete poetical works of Nûr-aldîn 'Abd-alraḥmân Jâmî, usually styled the last great classical poet of Persia, who was born in Kharjird near Jâm the 23rd of Sha'bân, A.H. 817 (A.D. 1414, Nov. 7), and died at Harât the 18th of Muḥarram, A.H. 898 (A.D. 1492, Nov. 9); see on his life and works, Rosenzweig, Biographische Notizen über Mewlana Abdurrahman Dschami, etc., 1840; Jourdain, Biogr. Universelle, vol. xi. p. 431; De Sacy in Notices et Extraits, vol. xii. p. 287; Journal Asiatique, vi. p. 257, and 5me série, xvii. p. 301; Ouseley, Biogr. Notices, pp. 131–138; W. Nassau Lees, A Biographical Sketch of the mystic philosopher and poet Jâmî (being the preface to his 'Lives of the Mystics'), Calcutta, 1859; E. Fitzgerald, Notice of Jâmî's life, in his English translation of 'Salâmân and Absâl,' London, 1879; S. Robinson, Persian Poetry for English Readers, 1883, p. 511 sq.; Rosen, Persian MSS., pp. 215–261 (where a most elaborate account of the precious autograph of the poet's Kulliyyât is given, and many old errors have for ever been removed); Bodleian Cat., Nos. 894–976; Rieu i. p. 17, and ii. pp. 643–650; W. Pertsch, p. 102, and Berlin Cat., pp. 867–883; A. Sprenger, Catal., pp. 447–451; Cat. des MSS. et Xylographes, p. 369 sq.; G. Flügel i. pp. 564–575; J. Aumer, pp. 30–33, etc. Nearly all collections of Persian MSS. contain a certain number of Jâmî's works (see besides on the printed literature, Zenker ii. pp. 38 and 39).

The present copy, which was written only twenty-five years after the poet's death, contains:

A. First portion.

I. Two centre-columns on ff. 1–463.

1. The first diwân (otherwise styled فاتحة الشباب, 'The Beginning of Youth;' the title اوّل کتاب دیوان is here wrongly prefixed to the second part, on fol. 65b), in two parts, viz.:

a. Ḳaṣîdas, tarji'ât, marâthî, and short mathnawîs, preceded by the usual preface, which is defective at the beginning, the first leaf being missing; the first words on fol. 1a: کہ سیّاحان بحر شعرند جمع ساخته الخ ....., correspond to Rosen, Persian MSS., p. 228, l. 4, and No. 2628 (1301 in this Cat.), fol. 1b, last line; the date of composition, A.H. 884 = A.D. 1479, 1480 (بر روی صدف نهاد یك دانه گهر), appears here on fol. 3b, l. 6. Immediately after that the ḳaṣîdas and tarji'bands begin on fol. 3b, l. 8, the first being headed: تحمید خداوند تعالی وتقدّس; the first bait: زان پیش کز مداد دهم خامه را مدد الخ; the mathnawîs begin, on fol. 61a:

بنام خدای که پست و بلند
ز خورشید فضلش بود بهرمند

b. Ghazals, ḳiṭ'as, and rubâ'îs, beginning, on fol. 65b, with the same six unalphabetical poems as in Rosen, loc. cit., p. 234; first bait:

بسم الله الرحمٰن الرحیم ـ اعظم اسماء علیم حکیم

The first alphabetical ghazal begins, on fol. 67b:

یا من بدا جمالك فی کلّ ما بدا
بادا هزار جان مقدّس ترا فدا

The proper order of ff. 1–141 is: 1–38, 61–140, 39–60, 141. After ff. 206 and 239 there are lacunas; the first comprises some poems in ن, all in و, and a considerable number in ء (the last bait, on fol. 206b, corresponds to fol. 254b, l. 10, in the following copy; and the first, on fol. 207a, to fol. 273a, first line, in the same copy); the second comprises all the baits of the last ghazal in ی, except the first two, and six ḳiṭ'as (corresponding to fol. 307a, l. 13–fol. 308a, lin. penult., in the following copy); the first ḳiṭ'ah that appears here begins: برای نعمت دنیی که خاك بر سر آن الخ (=fol. 308a, last line, in the same copy); the rubâ'îs, on fol. 243a, begin as in Rosen, p. 238: سبحانك لا علم لنا الّا ما الخ. This first diwân is dated by the transcriber (whose name, Sulṭân Muḥammad of Harât, appears on fol. 463b) the 3rd of Ramaḍân, A.H. 923 (A.D. 1517, Sept. 19). Printed Constantinople, A.H. 1284. Other copies of this diwân are noticed in Bodleian Cat., No. 894, 22; No. 895, 24; No. 896, 9 and 10; and Nos. 947–954; Rieu ii. p. 643; W. Pertsch, pp. 102 and 103, and Berlin Cat., Nos. 867–870; A. Sprenger, Catal., p. 448, No. 1; Cat. des MSS. et Xylographes, No. 422, ff. 407b–570b, centre; A. F. Mehren, p. 41; J. C. Tornberg, p. 106; Cat. Codd. Or. Lugd. Bat. ii. p. 120; Krafft, p. 68; G. Flügel i. pp. 570 and 571, Nos. 595 and 596; J. Aumer, p. 30, etc.

2. The second diwân (کتاب دیوان ثانی, otherwise styled واسطة العقد, 'The Middle of the Chain'), containing:

A preface in prose, on fol. 252b, beginning: بسم الله الرّحمٰن الرّحیم ـ اصلی حمد المنّان الکریم الخ, see Rosen, p. 239. The date of composition, A.H. 894 = A.D. 1489 (contained in the ta'rîkh چو تمّمته), appears here on fol. 253a, lin. penult., whereas the wrong date, A.H. 884, which has caused so many mistakes, appears in the same page, l. 6; see on the question of this date, Rosen, p. 256.

Ḳaṣîdas, on fol. 253b (with one tarkîbband, on fol. 260a), beginning as in Rosen, p. 240, with a ḳaṣîdah, فی توحید باری عزّ اسمه; initial bait: درین صحیفه چو آغاز کردم املی را الخ.

Three unalphabetical ghazals, on fol. 269a, beginning: انّما الله الٰه واحد الخ.

Ghazals, in alphabetical order, on fol. 269b: دی گذشتیم بدان دلبر و کردیم دعا الخ, see Rosen, p. 241. At the end the same musammaṭ as in Rosen, p. 244: سقاك الله الخ, on fol. 375a, last line.

Muḳaṭṭa'át, on fol. 375b, beginning: جامی سخن بر آئنهٔ دل بود چو زنگ الخ.

Rubá'is, on fol. 379b: تا ما ره تسبیح و ثنا می پویم الخ.

Other copies of this diwân are described in Bodleian Cat., No. 894, 36; No. 896, 11; and No. 955; A. Sprenger, Catal., p. 448, No. 2; Cat. des MSS. et Xylographes, No. 422, ff. 407b–537b, margin, etc.; wrong dates of composition are given in Bodleian Cat. and Sprenger, viz. A. H. 884; in Dorn, p. 372, viz. 885; in Krafft, viz. 889, etc.

3. The third diwán (کتاب دیوان ثالث, otherwise styled خاتمة الحیوة, 'The Conclusion of Life'), containing:

A short preface, on fol. 383a, beginning:

بسم الله الرّحمٰن الرّحیم — طرفه خطاییست زسفر قدیم

The date of composition, A. H. 896 = A. D. 1490, 1491 (در شهور سنهٔ ستّه و تسعین و ثمانمائه), appears here in l. 9 of the same page.

The three introductory poems, noted in Rosen, p. 246, viz. مناجات, في التوحید, and في نعت النبي (the last without a title here), followed by ḳaṣídas, on fol. 383a, last line; first bait: آنکه تسبیح حصا بر صدق او آمد گوا الخ.

One tarkíbband (on the death of Khwájah 'Ubaid-alláh) on fol. 392b, and two ta'ríkhát, see Rosen, p. 247.

Ghazals, in alphabetical order, on fol. 395a, preceded by the same two short pieces described in Rosen, viz. في التوحید (on fol. 394b), and the praise of the prophet.

Beginning of the initial ghazal:

بر آمد شاه عشق از طور سینا
وز آنجا زد علم بر دیر مینا

Muḳaṭṭa'át, on fol. 458a, beginning: درین نشیمن ادبار جامیا کاری الخ, see Rosen, p. 251.

Rubá'is, on fol. 460b, beginning: معشوق ازل که هر که دل بست بدو الخ.

The two mathnawí-baits (نیست در راه الخ), and the last two baits of the معمّیات (بر حاشیهٔ لوح الخ), described in Rosen, pp. 251 and 252, followed by one bait more, viz. هرکس که ازین جهان دلگیر بجست الخ, are found here on fol. 463a.

This part is dated by the same Sulṭán Muḥammad of Harát (see fol. 252a in this MS.), the last of Muḥarram, A. H. 924 (A. D. 1518, Feb. 11).

Other copies of the third diwán are described in Bodleian Cat., No. 894, 37, and No. 896, 12; Cat. des MSS. et Xylographes, No. 422, ff. 327b–406b, margin; Mélanges Asiatiques, vi. p. 104; A. Sprenger, Catal., p. 448, 3; W. Pertsch, Berlin Cat., p. 870, No. 873, etc. Selections from the various diwáns have been translated into German by Rosenzweig, Biogr. Notizen, etc., nebst Proben aus seinen Diwanen (persisch und deutsch), Vienna, 1840; Rückert, in Zeitschrift für die Kunde des Morgenlandes, v. p. 281 sq., and vi. p. 189 sq.; and in Zeitschrift der D. M. G. ii. p. 26 sq., iv. p. 44 sq., v. p. 308 sq., vi. p. 491 sq., xxiv. p. 563 sq., xxv. p. 95 sq., xxvi. p. 461 sq., and xxix. p. 191 sq.; Wickerhauser, Leipzig, 1855, and Vienna, 1858; Schlechta-Wssehrd (see Zenker ii. 496).

II. Margin-column, on ff. 1b–438b.

4. Tuḥfat-alabrár (تحفة الابرار), 'The Gift to the Free,' a religious mathnawí, completed A. H. 886 (A. D. 1481); it begins abruptly in the prose-preface, on fol. 1a (the first page missing); the mathnawí itself opens, on fol. 1b:

بسم الله الرّحمٰن الرّحیم — هست صلای سر خوان کریم

It comprises ff. 1b–38b and 61a–68b (see above on the order of ff. 1–141). Edited by F. Falconer, London, 1848; printed, Lucknow, 1869; extracts in German translation are found in Tholuck's 'Blüthensammlung,' p. 297 sq.; see Bodleian Cat., No. 894, 6; No. 895, 19; No. 896, 3; No. 897, 3; No. 898, 3; No. 899, 3; No. 900, 1; No. 901, 3; and Nos. 933–939; Rieu ii. pp. 645, No. 7, and 646–648; A. بسم الله الرحمٰن الرحيم ـ هست صلاى سر خوان كريم

Ḳaṣîdas, tarji'ât, marâthî, and short mathnawis, on fol. 5^b, beginning: زان پيش كز الخ; the mathnawis begin, on fol. 54^a: بنام خداى كه الخ.

Ghazals, the first six unalphabetical, on fol. 59^b; beginning both of the initial and the first alphabetical ghazal as in the preceding copy. At the end the same musammaṭ: الا اى ماه الخ, as noticed in Rosen, p. 238.

Muḳaṭṭa'ât, on fol. 307^b, beginning:

دلا منشين درين ويرانه چون چغد
سوى مرغان قدسى آشيان بر

see Rosen, p. 238.

Rubâ'îs, on fol. 312^a, beginning: سبحانك لا علم الخ.

This very fine and old copy is not dated; it belonged formerly to Mr. Edw. Galley (ادورد گلّى). Bibliotheca Leydeniana.

No. 2628, ff. 323, 2 coll., each ll. 17; illuminated frontispieces on ff. 1^b, 5^b, and 59^b; the first two pages with gold stripes; all the headings in gilt letters; neat and clear Nasta'lîḳ; good eastern binding; size, 9¾ in. by 5¾ in.

A defective copy of the same.

This copy of Jâmî's first dîwân, in two parts, like the one in No. 1300, but with this peculiar arrangement, that the second part (the ghazals, muḳaṭṭa'ât, and rubâ'îs) precedes the first.

Contents:

Ghazals, in alphabetical order, defective at the beginning; the copy opens abruptly with this final bait: آن سرو سهی قدرا شد خاك قدم جامی الخ, corresponding to fol. 64b, lin. penult., in the preceding copy. Between ff. 221 and 222 seven blank leaves are inserted, but as a comparison with the preceding copy shows, there is no lacuna. At the end the musammaṭ: الا ای ماه الخ.

Muḳaṭṭa'át, on fol. 232b, beginning: دلا منشین الخ.

Rubá'is, on fol. 237a, beginning: سبحانك لا علم الخ.

The usual prose-preface of the first diwán, on fol. 249b, beginning:

بسم الله الرحمٰن الرحیم — هست صلای الخ

Ḳaṣídas, tarji'át, marâthi, short mathnawis, etc., on fol. 253a, beginning: زان پیش الخ.

No date. Presented by J. H. Peile, Esq., and received Sept. 19, 1818; transferred to Civil College, Aug. 9, 1819.

No. 3359, olim 7. J. 19, ff. 299, 2 coll., each ll. 17; Nasta'líḳ; illuminated frontispiece on fol. 249b; size, 9¼ in. by 5¾ in.

1303

The first part of Jámí's first diwán.

Contents:

Prose-preface, on fol. 1b, beginning as usual.

Ḳaṣídas, etc., on fol. 5b, beginning: زان پیش الخ.

No date.

No. 3360, olim 7. J. 21, ff. 56, 2 coll., each ll. 15; large and clear Nasta'líḳ; illuminated frontispiece; size, 9¼ in. by 5¾ in.

1304

A defective copy of the same first part.

The proper order of leaves in this copy is: ff. 16–39, 2–15, 40–50.

Fol. 16a opens at the end of a ḳaṣídah, corresponding to No. 2628 (1301 in this Cat.), fol. 7b, l. 10; the first complete ḳaṣídah on the same page begins: بانگ رحیل از قافله الخ = No. 2628, fol. 7b, lin. penult.; the mathnawis begin, on fol. 46b: بنام خدای الخ (= No. 2628, fol. 54a), and go down to the end. The copy comprises therefore fol. 7b, l. 10 to fol. 58b of No. 2628. The first leaf (fol. 1b), written by a more modern hand, contains a repetition of the first nine baits of a ḳaṣídah, beginning: ای سر از قدر الخ, corresponding to fol. 39b, l. 8 sq. in this copy and to No. 2628, fol. 31b, l. 10 sq.

No date.

No. 884, ff. 50, 2 coll., each ll. 17; distinct Nasta'líḳ; illuminated frontispiece; size, 10 in. by 6¾ in.

1305

The second part of Jámí's first diwán.

Contents:

Unalphabetical ghazals, on fol. 1b, beginning: بسم الله الرحمٰن الخ.

Alphabetical ghazals, on fol. 3b, beginning: یا من بدا الخ; at the end the usual musammaṭ.

Muḳaṭṭa'át, on fol. 236b, beginning: دلا منشین الخ.

Rubá'is, on fol. 238b, beginning: سبحانك لا الخ.

Dated 1st of Dhú-alḥijjah, A. H. 932 (A. D. 1526, Sept. 8), by Luṭf-allâh bin Ḥasan Ma'âd alḥusaini. College of Fort William, 1825.

No. 2153, ff. 247, 2 coll., each ll. 17; distinct Nasta'líḳ; illuminated frontispiece; size, 9¾ in. by 5¾ in.

1306

The same second part.

Contents:

Unalphabetical ghazals, on fol. 1b.

Alphabetical ghazals, on fol. 3b; at the end the usual musammaṭ.

Muḳaṭṭa'át, on fol. 271b.

Rubá'is, on fol. 276b. All the beginnings as usual.

The last six leaves seriously injured.

Dated the 15th of Rajab, A. H. 988 (A. D. 1580, Aug. 26).

No. 3281, olim 7. J. 18, ff. 289, 2 coll., each ll. 15; Nasta'líḳ; small illuminated frontispiece; size, 10 in. by 5¾ in.

1307

An earlier collection of Jámí's minor poems, afterwards embodied in the first diwán.

This copy, which is unfortunately defective, is of quite an exceptional value, as it was written ten years before the final redaction of the first diwán, dated, on fol. 219b, the 10th of Sha'bán, A. H. 874 (A. D. 1470, Feb. 12), by Darwísh 'Alí, known as Waisí (درویش علی المعروف بوسی), and must contain therefore that earlier collection of lyrical poems which Jámí, when about fifty years old, dedicated to Sultán Abú Sa'íd, and which he afterwards included in both parts of his first diwán; the usual preface: موزون‌ترین کلامی الخ, is wanting here (see the following two copies), but the contents quite agree with those in the best copies of this earlier collection in Rieu ii. pp. 644 and 646; Bodleian Cat., No. 947 (there incorrectly represented as first diwán); G. Flügel i. pp. 570–572; Cat. des MSS. et Xylographes, p. 379 (No. 439), etc.; see about this collection, Rosen, p. 257.

Contents:

The usual initial ghazal of the second part of the first diwán, on fol. 1b:

بسم الله الرحمٰن الرحیم — اعظم اسماء علیم حکیم

the second poem corresponds to the usual second one; the third is headed: فی نعت نبی الخ, and begins: ای ذات تو الخ, agreeing with fol. 192a, l. 10, in No. 2628 (1301 in this Cat.); with the sixth bait of this poem the copy breaks off, on fol. 2b, in consequence of a lacuna between ff. 2 and 3; on fol. 3a, l. 2, appears the tarji'band: ماه معین چیست الخ, corresponding to fol. 36a, l. 7 ab infra, in No. 2628; the next following poem, on fol. 6a, is a kaṣîdah, چو پیوند با دوست الخ, agreeing with fol. 23a, l. 11, in the same copy; these poems therefore were afterwards included in the first part of the first dîwân.

The usual alphabetical ghazals of the second part begin here, on fol. 7b: یا من بدا جمالك الخ.

Another set of tarji'ât and marâthî (later included in the first part), on fol. 202a, beginning: صبحدم بادهٔ شبانه زدیم الخ; corresponding to fol. 41a, l. 3 ab infra, in No. 2628; on fol. 209a the usual musammaṭ of the second part: الا ای ماه الخ.

Muḳaṭṭa'âṭ, on fol. 213b; the first is not a proper ḳiṭ'ah, but a short ghazal; the second is the initial ḳiṭ'ah of the first dîwân: دلا منشین الخ.

Rubâ'is, on fol. 216a, beginning: یا من ملکوت کلّ شیٔ بیدك الخ, corresponding to fol. 321b, l. 4, in No. 2628.

On ff. 1a, 220a, and 220b there are written by the same hand some abrupt pieces in prose and verse, probably belonging to Jâmî also.

No. 1624, ff. 220, 2 coll., each ll. 17; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 8 in. by 4½ in.

Another copy of the earlier collection.

This copy contains about the same miscellaneous poems as the preceding one (ghazals, tarji'ât, ḳiṭ'as, rubâ'is, etc.), and—in addition to them—the earlier preface with the dedication to Abû Sa'îd, on fol. 226b: موزون‌ترین کلامی که غزال (غزل) سرایان انجمن انس و محبّت وقافیه سنجان الخ.

The usual initial ghazal (as in the preceding copy), on fol. 229a; the first alphabetical ghazal, on fol. 238a, begins here: هردم افزونی چو گل رخسار آتشناك را الخ, corresponding to fol. 71a, l. 1, in No. 2628.

The right order of ff. 526–530 is: 526, 529, 528, 527, 530.

No date.

No. 512, margin-column, ff. 226b–619, ll. 26; Nasta'lîḳ; illuminated heading on fol. 226b.

1309

The same.

The second or larger half of this copy represents the same earlier collection, but in a shorter form; it begins, on fol. 55a, with the same prose-preface as the preceding copy: موزون‌ترین کلامی که غزل سرایان الخ, and contains ghazals, tarji'ât, ḳiṭ'as, rubâ'is, etc.

The usual initial ghazal, on fol. 57b, l. 10; the alphabetical ghazals, on ff. 62b–174a.

The first fifty-four leaves of this copy contain miscellaneous pieces in verse and prose, partly taken from Jâmî's Bahâristân (see further below, Nos. 1383–1386), as is stated in several places. The whole seventh rauḍah of that work is found on ff. 33a, l. 3 ab infra, to 54b (روضهٔ هفتم در داستان مرغان قافیه سنج سرایستان سخنوری الخ). This miscellaneous portion begins with a kaṣîdah of Sa'dî, on fol. 1b.

No date. Bibliotheca Leydeniana.

No. 2471, ff. 180, ll. 13–15; Nasta'lîḳ, in a large, uncouth handwriting; size, 9 in. by 4⅝ in.

1310

Similar selections from both parts of the first dîwân.

Contents:

Three unalphabetical ghazals, on fol. 1b, beginning: سبحان من تحیّر فی ذاته سواد الخ, corresponding to the second ghazal in No. 2628 (1301 in this Cat.), fol. 60a.

Ghazals, in alphabetical order, beginning, on fol. 3a: بکعبه گر ننمای جمال خود مارا الخ, corresponding to fol. 67a, l. 10, in No. 2628.

One tarji'band, on fol. 140b, beginning: صبحدم بادهٔ شبانه زدیم الخ, see No. 1624 (1307 in this Cat.), fol. 202a.

A few ḳiṭ'as and rubâ'is, on fol. 148a (turned upside down), beginning: دلا منشین الخ.

Some leaves are misplaced, viz. fol. 73 must be inserted between ff. 144 and 148.

On the margin of ff. 10a–16a appears a کتاب اختلاج از قول حکیمان; on that of ff. 56b–80b a series of 'Umar bin Khayyâm's rubâ'is (see above, Nos. 906 and 907); on that of ff. 81a–86a a تلخیص البیان فی علامات مهدی آخر الزمان, in four faṣls; and on that of ff. 98a–103a a tract on the interpretation of dreams (در علم تعبیر).

No date.

No. 3504, olim 7. J. 17, ff. 149, 2 coll., each ll. 14; Nasta'lîḳ; size, 7¾ in. by 4½ in.

1311

The same.

This copy contains:

Ghazals, in two series, both arranged in alphabetical order, except the first four ghazals of the first series. Beginning of the initial poem of the first series, on fol. 1b: ای ذات تو از صفات ما پاك الخ, see No. 1624 (1307 in this Cat.), fol. 2b, and No. 2628 (1301 in this Cat.), fol. 192a, l. 10; the first alphabetical ghazal is the usual one: یا من بدا الخ.

The second series begins, on fol. 120b: ای غمت فخم شادمانیها الخ, corresponding to No. 2628, fol. 67a, l. 1.

One tarji'band, followed by a few ḳiṭ'as, rubâ'is, etc.; beginning of the tarji'band, on fol. 135b: ای بروی تو چشم جان روشن الخ, corresponding to fol. 44b, l. 6, in No. 2628; beginning of the rubâ'is, on fol. 139a: یا من ملکوت الخ, see No. 1624 (1307 in this Cat.), fol. 216a.

No date. The right order of the leaves is: ff. 1–47, 53–57, 48, 58–95, 49–52, 96–145.

No. 1618, ff. 145, 2 coll., each ll. 14; Nasta'lîḳ; illuminated frontispiece; size, 7⅞ in. by 4¼ in.

1312

Shorter selections from the first diwân.

Contents:

Ghazals, in alphabetical order, on fol. 1b, beginning: یا من بدا جمالك الخ.

Tarji'ât, on fol. 90a, beginning: صحدم بادهٔ الخ.

Dated by Shaikh Ghulâm Naṣîr-aldîn ibn Shaikh Muḥammad Ṣalâḥ Balgrâmî, the 13th of Muḥarram, in the third year of Shâh 'Âlam's reign (=A.H. 1176, A.D. 1762, Aug. 4).

No. 875, ff. 1–93, 2 coll., each ll. 17; careless Nasta'lîḳ; size, 10¼ in. by 5¼ in.

A defective copy of the same.

Ghazals, ḳaṣîdas, tarji'ât, short mathnawis, and a few rubâ'is, beginning with the usual initial ghazal of the second part; there is a lacuna after fol. 2; fol. 2b ends with the sixth bait of the third unalphabetical ghazal (corresponding to No. 2628, fol. 60b, l. 3 ab infrâ), and fol. 3a begins with the fourth bait of the fifth alphabetical ghazal (=No. 2628, fol. 62b, l. 3 ab infra). Some leaves are misplaced, viz. fol. 17 must be followed by 23, and fol. 23 by 19–21. Sometimes a line or two are omitted.

No date. Copied by Sulṭân 'Alî of Mashhad (who died A.H. 919=A.D. 1513, see Bodleian Cat., No. 1896).

No. 1701, ff. 51, 2 coll., each ll. 17; clear Nasta'lîḳ; illuminated frontispiece; another highly embellished ornament at the end of the last page; a little worm-eaten throughout; size, 10 in. by 5¼ in.

Jâmî's second diwân.

Another copy of Jâmî's second diwân, arranged exactly in the same way as in No. 1300, fol. 252b sq.

Preface in prose, on fol. 1b, beginning:

بسم الله الرحمٰن الرحيم ـ املى حمد المنّان الكريم الخ

Ḳaṣîdas, etc., on fol. 2b, beginning: درين صحيفه چو آغاز الخ.

Three unalphabetical ghazals, on fol. 19b, beginning: انّما الله الخ.

Alphabetical ghazals, on fol. 20a, beginning: دى گذشتيم الخ. At the end the usual musammaṭ.

Muḳaṭṭa'ât and rubâ'is, on fol. 115a, beginning: جامى سخن الخ.

No date.

No. 3425, olim 7. J. 20, ff. 1–122, 2 coll., each ll. 18; Nasta'lîḳ; illuminated frontispieces on ff. 1b and 19b; size, 9 in. by 5¼ in.

1315

A defective copy of the same second diwân.

This diwân is wrongly styled on the fly-leaf دیوان جامی جلد سیوم, as if it was the third diwân; this mistake is simply due to the first page (fol. 1b) actually containing the beginning of the prose-preface of the third diwân:

بسم الله الرّحمٰن الرّحيم ـ طرفه خطابيست زصفر (!) قديم

but this preface breaks off at the end of the same page (corresponding to fol. 123b, l. 4 ab infra in the following copy), in consequence of a lacuna after fol. 1, and all the rest of the MS. contains the second diwân, at least from fol. 2b, last line onwards, where a ḳaṣîdah begins: چيست آن شاهد الخ, corresponding to fol. 12b, l. 4, in the preceding copy; fol. 2a opens in the middle of a ḳaṣîdah, having باشد as رديف, which cannot be traced in other copies. The ḳaṣîdas (with one tarkîbband) are continued as far as fol. 9b, l. 3 (ending exactly in the same way as the preceding copy); and on fol. 9b, l. 5, the first of the three unalphabetical ghazals begins: انّما الله الخ.

The alphabetical ghazals begin, on fol. 10a: دى گذشتيم الخ. At the end the usual musammaṭ.

Muḳaṭṭa'ât and rubâ'is, on fol. 128a, beginning: جامى سخن الخ; one half of fol. 3 and the whole of fol. 138a are supplied by a later hand.

No date.

No. 3471, olim 7. J. 16, ff. 138, 2 coll., each ll. 17; Nasta'lîḳ; illuminated frontispiece; size, 9¼ in. by 5⅜ in.

1316

Jâmî's third diwân.

Another, but rather incomplete, copy of Jâmî's third diwân, arranged exactly in the same way as in No. 1300, fol. 383a sq.

Preface in prose, on fol. 123b, beginning:

بسم الله الرّحمٰن الرّحيم ـ طرفه خطابيست زسفر قديم

The three introductory poems, on fol. 123a, the first beginning: آنكه تسبيح حصا الخ, after which the ḳaṣîdas follow. The tarkîbband, and the two ta'rîkhât, noticed in the above copy, appear here on ff. 129b and 131a respectively.

Ghazals, in alphabetical order, preceded by the same two pieces as in No. 1300; beginning of the initial ghazal, on fol. 132a: بر آمد شاه عشق الخ.

The ghazals end on fol. 196a; of the muḳaṭṭa'ât, which begin on the same page in the usual way, only five are found, the copy breaking off on fol. 196b; besides, the last six leaves are so seriously damaged, that whole portions of the text are torn away.

No. 3425, olim 7. J. 20, ff. 123–196, 2 coll., each ll. 18; Nasta'lîḳ; illuminated frontispiece; size, 9 in. by 5¼ in.

Haft Aurang (هفت اورنگ).

Another excellent, but undated copy of the seven mathnawis of Jâmî, with the usual prose-preface, quoted in full in Rosen, pp. 216–218, and beginning, on fol. 1b: حمدًا لربّ جليل من عبد ذليل و سلامًا على حبيب فائق الخ.

The mathnawîs are arranged in the following order:

1. Silsilat-aldhahab, first book, on fol. 3b; second book, on fol. 89b; third book, on fol. 124b.
2. Salâmân u Absâl, on fol. 149b.
3. Tuḥfat-alabrâr, on fol. 175b.
4. Subḥat-alabrâr, on fol. 213b margin.
5. Yûsuf u Zalîkhâ, on fol. 277b.
6. Lailâ u Majnûn, on fol. 363b.
7. Khiradnâma-i-Sikandarî, on fol. 445b.

The right order of ff. 439–443 is: 439, 441, 440, 442, 443; fol. 412 is turned upside down.

Complete copies of the Haft Aurang are described in Bodleian Cat., Nos. 897–899; Rieu ii. pp. 645 and 646; A. Sprenger, Catal., pp. 449–451; G. Flügel i. p. 564; Cat. des MSS. et Xylographes, p. 368; J. C. Tornberg, p. 107, etc.

No. 3141, ff. 496, 2 coll., each ll. 12, and a third on the margin, ll. 24 (on a few pages also a fourth column on the margin); beautiful Nasta'lîḳ; the first two pages luxuriously adorned; an illuminated frontispiece at the beginning of each mathnawî, and also at the beginning of each book of the first poem; size, 10¼ in. by 7 in.

1318

Another copy of the same.

Another good, but modern copy of the seven mathnawîs of Jâmî, beginning with the same prose-preface as the preceding one, on fol. 1b.

1. Silsilat-aldhahab, first book, on fol. 3a; second, on fol. 56b; third, on fol. 81b.
2. Salâmân u Absâl, on fol. 97b.

3–7. The five principal mathnawîs of Jâmî, usually called Jâmî's Khamsah (خمسهٔ جامی), or Jâmî's Panj Ganj (پنج گنج جامی), with a short general preface, on fol. 114b, beginning:

قبلهٔ همّت خدای شناس

هست بر نعمت خدای سپاس الخ

see Rosen, p. 220; Rieu ii. pp. 645b, 646a; G. Flügel i. p. 566, etc. In Bodleian Cat., Nos. 896, 901, etc., and in Rieu ii. p. 645b, No. 7, it is prefixed to the Tuḥfat-alabrâr.

3. Tuḥfat-alabrâr, with a short prose-preface, on fol. 115a, beginning: حامدًا لمن جعل جنان الخ, see Rieu ii. p. 647b; Rosen, p. 259, and W. Pertsch, Berlin Cat., p. 877. Beginning of the poem itself, on fol. 115b.
4. Subḥat-alabrâr, with the prose-preface, on fol. 139b.
5. Yûsuf u Zalîkhâ, on fol. 181b.
6. Lailâ u Majnûn, on fol. 236b.
7. Khiradnâma-i-Sikandarî, on fol. 288b.

Some pages a little injured, especially the last one. This copy was made for Sir Barry Close, 1810, by Munshî Mîr Ibn 'Alî, at Ḥaidarâbâd.

No. 1317, ff. 319, 4 coll., each ll. 21; Nasta'lîḳ; an illuminated frontispiece at the beginning of each mathnawî, and also at that of the general preface of the Khamsah; the first two pages richly adorned; fine pictures on ff. 5, 39, 42, 60, 66, 74, 108, 135, 144, 150, 167, 202, 225, 230, 244, 256, 281, 285, 290, and 309; headings are wanting on ff. 27a–29b; size, 9¾ in. by 6½ in.

Silsilat-aldhahab.

Another copy of the first mathnawî of the Haft Aurang, dated A.H. 977 (A.D. 1569, 1570), by Muḥammad Ḥusain ibn Khwâjah Saif-aldîn 'Alî. First book, on fol. 1b; second, on fol. 121b; third, on fol. 172b (this last one beginning here as in A. Sprenger, Catal., p. 449, and Rosen, p. 219: حمد ایزد تذکار تست ای دل الخ, instead of زکار, as other copies read, for instance, No. 1322 below).

No. 193, ff. 207, 2 coll., each ll. 17; Nasta'lîḳ; an illuminated frontispiece at the beginning of each book; the first two pages richly adorned; size, 9¾ in. by 5½ in.

1320

The same.

This copy, which is dated A.H. 1051 (A.D. 1641, 1642), has no subdivision into three books; all the headings besides are left blank.

No. 1945, ff. 69b–180, 3 centre-coll., each ll. 17; careless and unequal Nasta'lîḳ; worm-eaten; size, 9½ in. by 5½ in.

1321

The same.

Contents:

The prose-preface, prefixed to the Haft Aurang in No. 1317 above, beginning, on fol. 1b: حمدًا لربّ جلیل الخ. This preface is written by a hand different from that which copied the poem itself, and is dated the 10th of Ramaḍân, A.H. 1144 (A.D. 1732, March 7).

First book, on fol. 4a; second, on fol. 96b; third, on fol. 135b. No date at the end. The right order of ff. 81–89 is: 81, 88, 82–87, 89. Various readings and additions on the margin.

No. 3429, olim 13. J. 3, ff. 161, 2 coll., each ll. 22; careless Nasta'lîḳ; ff. 1–3 supplied by a later hand; size, 8¾ in. by 4¾ in.

1322

The same.

First book, on fol. 1b; second, on fol. 84b, preceded here by a special short preface in prose, on fol. 82b, beginning: بزرگان و فیلسوفان و دانایان جهان حسابی الخ; third, on fol. 118a margin.

No date. An astronomical table on the first fly-leaf at the end of the copy.

No. 231, ff. 141, 2 coll., each ll. 13–14, and a third on the margin, ll. 24; Nasta'lîḳ, ff. 74b and 93–98 supplied by a more modern hand; size, 8¾ in. by 4¾ in.

1323

The same.
